Fruit Store and Lunch Room of Louis W. Babcock Destroyed by Fire

A Cold Morning for the Firemen To Work

The one story wooden building at the corner of Washington and Chubbuck streets was completely destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock this morning. The building was owned and occupied by Louis W. Babcock, and was used as a fruit store and lunch room. Just how the fire started is somewhat of a mystery. Mr. Babcock keeps his store open late at night and it was after midnight when he closed up. At that time everything seemed to be all right.

When some of the night men at the Fore River shipyard were returning home from work they discovered the fire. At that time it was burning briskly and seemed to be in the basement. One of the men Angus McArthur ran to Box 272 located on the corner of Washington and Pray streets and rang in the alarm at 3.50.

The Quincy Point Hose company was the first on the scene and soon had a stream of water on the building. The central station apparatus was also prompt in arriving and soon three powerful streams of water were being poured into the fire, which was then a roaring furnace. Chief Williams who arrived with the central station apparatus says that when he got on the scene the whole of the bottom part of the building was gone, indicating that the fire must have started in the basement. Being dry there was no hopes of saving the building as the fire had made great inroads into the building before discovered.

There are several buildings on the westerly side of the doomed structure and across Chubbuck street is a large businss block. The heat and parks from the burning store caused these buildings to take fire several times but the incipient blaze thus started was quickly nipped in the bud so that the fire was confined to the building in which it started.

Mr. Babcock carried quite a stock of fruit and did a good business in this line in addition to his lunch room. No part of his stock was saved as the fire made too much headway by the time the department arrived for the firemen to venture into the building.

Mr. Babcock carried an insurance of $1,000 on the building and stock, and Chief Williams says that the loss will be fully that amount.

The weather at that hour of the morning was bitter cold and the firemen were covered with a coating of ice as the spray from the streams froze as fast as it struck them and they therefore suffered considerable from the cold.

TODAY'S COURT.

Burnham S. Hinckley was fined $3 on account of costs for drunkenness at Quincy.

George Dunn was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy and was fined $15. Dunn was fined $10 for the same offence Monday and sentence was suspended. The court revoked the suspension of sentence in this case and ordered it to stand. This made Dunn obliged to pay $25 or go to jail.

NEEDS OF NEW SCHOOLHOUSE

Wollaston Has Been Side-Tracked Long Enough

Editor of the Ledger:

Now that the new Wollaston schoolhouse has been taken out of the realm of newspaper controversy, by the action of the School Committee which unanimously voted to send our petitions to the City Council and recommend a new schoolhouse, it may be of interest to give a few facts, some of which have already been stated and others which are new.

The first Wollaston schoolhouse was modestly started in a building now used as a dwelling house. The agitation for an entirely new structure was begun before Quincy became a city; recommended, as has been said in a previous communication, by the superintendent of schools and urged by the first mayor of the city. As a compromise a new part was built on and no other movement was made until the unfavorable conditions existing ten years ago compelled the attention of the State police inspectors who ordered certain radical measures, which necessitated closing the school for several weeks.

One of our leading city officials, at that time, again urged that instead of wasting any more money on extensive repairs the old building be displaced by a new one. His own opinion was thus expressed: "I don't believe in building a hogshead around a bunghole." Since that time the natural wear and tear have emphasized anew the need of a new building and it was when further extensive repairs seemed to be imperative that Mayor Shea recommended, as good economy, that another building take the place of the present schoolhouse.

There have been two inspections, one by the State Board of Health and another by the district police inspector. In both instances, the report has been unfavorable, and the officer who was inspector for our district in 1900, and whose report compelled the authorities then to make extensive changes, advises our committee that it would be poor economy to attempt to patch the present structure any more. The agreement is general that a new building is not only desirable but necessary.

As for information, and not argument, about its location, unselfish differences of opinion are for the most part settled. The present site while not an ideal one, seems to be, all things considered, the place. This is a Wollaston schoolhouse for Wollaston. The geographical center is nearer the present location than it was when the schoolhouse was first erected. Two objections exist against selling the land on which this building stands: First, if there was no other reason it would not bring over ten cents per foot. 2d, An acre of this amount of land was partly given and partly purchased, with the restriction that if it should ever cease to be used for schoolhouse purposes the land could be sold and the proceeds invested in a fund, the income only (not the principal) to be used for educational purposes. That is to say, the proceeds of the sale of the present lot could not be applied to the purchase of new land.

For the gift was to Quincy and this income, less than $200 per year, could be used in any part of the city its uses not limited to Wollaston. Wollaston today pays over $100,000 annually in taxes: that is, this amount is due or collectable annually. When the schoolhouse was repaired ten years ago our ward paid only one-half this amount. In other words, it has doubled its contribution to the treasury receiving, as is well known, very few benefits in return. We shall go on increasing in valuation, for we are building in different directions, notably towards East Milton along Beale street, from which quarter will come additional scholars to our school.

If Wollaston were a separate township it could easily handle this proposition. If the appropriation for this schoolhouse is to be paid from the sale of schoolhouse bonds extending over a term of years the problem seems simplified when the annual receipts from Ward Five are considered. But these are all questions which are to be officially considered and judiciously decided. It would, therefore, be ill-timed and discourteous to anticipate any further action on the part of the School Committee, or the City Council.

BILLS FOR WATER.

The committee on legal affairs of the Legislature gave a hearing Monday on the bill to make unpaid water bills liens upon the estates for which they were contracted, and to make laws as to unpaid taxes applicable to them. City Solicitor Duncan of Lowell said no honest real estate owners would object to the bill. Mr. Cutler, representing the water board of Revere, the city solicitor of Malden, Supt. King of Taunton water department and others appeared. It appeared that cities and towns lose considerable by non-payment of water bills.

HARBOR BILL.

The Committee on Ways and Means of the Legislature reported on Monday a bill appropriating $153,950 for the harbor and land commission including $100,000 for harbor imp ovements.

CATHOLIC CLUB SOCIAL

The Comedy "Mrs Oakley's Telephone" Presented

The ladies of the Quincy Catholic club held a very enjoyable social and business session Monday evening at the rooms of the Knights of Columbus club. The business session, which was of short duration was presided over by the president, Miss Mary L. Gavin. An interesting report on the charitable work of the club was read by Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha and was followed by the monthly report of the treasurer which showed the club to be in an excellent financial condition.

The evening was then given in charge of the entertainment committee, who had provided an interesting program. This included a piano and violin duet by Miss Margaret Brown and Miss Marguerite Gavin followed by a laughable comedy entitled "Mrs. Oakleys Telephone." The characters in the comedy were impersonated by Miss Annie W. Walsh, Miss Helen H. Gavin, Miss Julia Roache and Miss Josephine McCarthy.

The scene of the comedy was laid in the home of Mrs. Oakley, a blushing bride, and the trials which her domestics, particularly the cook got her into by their indiscriminate use and unfamiliarity with the telephone were very amusng and created much laughter. The several characters in the comedy were exceptionally well taken and at its conclusion they were roundly congratulated on their success.

The refreshment committee then came forward and served a lunch. The balance of the evening was passed in a social manner. It was one of the pleasantest of the many pleasant evenings the club has held.

BURGLAR SCARE AT WOLLASTON

Police Summoned and He Was Very Easily Captured.

The old gray horse that draws the police patrol wagon probably never made a quicker trip to Wollaston than he did Monday evening, when he took a squad of Quincy's blue coats to South Central avenue. The cause of the hasty trip was a telephone message that a burglar had been captured red handed at the residence of Richard Smith at 3 South Central avenue, and that the family were holding him for the police.

When the squad arrived they drew their night sticks and guns and headed by Inspector McKay made a rush into the house to find Mr. Smith had the supposed burglar on the floor and was sitting on him. The burglar proved to be one George Dunn, a man well known to the police, and he was loaded to the eyes with rum.

Dunn was in court Monday morning on a complaint charging him with drunkenness. He was find $10, and the sentence suspended in order that he might raise the necessary amount. Instead of going to work and earning his fine he visited the big city and filled up again. He arrived back in Quincy in the vicinity of 6.30 and went to Smiths house where he found them at their evening repast. The Smith family knew Dunn, and as he said he was hungrey invited him to partake. He sat down at the table and the next minute with one hand he threw the contents of the table dishes and all onto the floor in a confused mass. Mr. Smith grappled with him and one of the family went to the telephone and called the police. Dunn was locked up for the night and then taken into court. The order of Monday suspending his sentence was revoked and he was ordered to pay a fine of $10 on Monday's complaint and $15 on the new complaint a total of $25. Not having the necessary amount he will work it out at Dedham.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Now the question arises: Is hash meat?

This beefsteak proposition always was a tough one anyway.

Gifford Pinchot will cheer up when he learns that Milwaukee is going to plant 15,000 more trees.

If the Representative who has introduced into Congress that antitipping bill is not entitled to a Carnegie hero prize, we should like to know who is.

Don't get alarmed if the college men are not in evidence much just now for the mid-year exams are on and many of them are not feeling exactly gay.

The sugar trust directors who never knew that the government was being cheated by their employees are really almost too innocent to do business in a naughty world.

Ex-Governor Bates is again president of the Republican club of Massachusetts and seems to be the right man in the right place having stood the test of good citizenship as governor and as a man.

The election of Rev. Dr. Francis H. Rowley, pastor of the First Baptist church of Boston to the presidency of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and of the American Humane Education Society to succeed the late beloved president George T. Angell is giving general satisfaction. D. Rowley is a friend to all dumb animals.

Well! Well! Just see how the government rates human critters. In the coming census taking, enumerators will be allowed 2 1-2 cents for each name and nothing extra for carriage hire or car fares, but if he has the good luck to come across a family that keeps a cow, a pig or live stock he collects 10 cents for the animal. Possibly you never knew your real rating before.

The opposition to the President's plan for the establishment of Postal Savings Bank is rapidly diminishing. It is well known that the great Banks of this country are opposed to the Government going into the banking business. It is well known that the great banking concerns of this country have in the past received fovars at the hands of the Government and now President Taft proposes to make a banking move in the interest of the masses of the people which will be the effect of the establishment of Postal Savings Banks, that will enable the depositors especially the working man and the farmer to secure 2 per cent interest on his money, and then to have the assurance that his money is as safe as the Government itself.

It looks as thought the East was neglecting its opportunities. Henry A. Barker, secretary of the metropolitan park commission of Rhode Island cites his state as an example. "Fruit raising land in Washington and Oregon, after being irrigated, is worth from $40 to $400 an acre. People buy it for the purpose of raising apples. Massachusetts Baldwins and Rhode Island Greenings are raised there in quantities and we pay $300 a car to have them shipped East.

"We are informed that there is no better soil suited to raising apples than is found in Rhode Island, yet we import our apples from the West and pay six cents apiece for them. Land here that can be bought for $5 an acre lies adjacent to one of the most thickly populated areas in this country. Perhaps the time has come for us to say, 'Come East, young men; that is the land of opportunity.,"

How many of us can boast of an abundance of civic pride? A possession of that love of home town which would lead us to give our services willingly and unselfishly that the town might grow and become a greater and better community. Only a few of us posses those qualities. If by activity in town development we see that it would increase our revenue we at once become imbued with the spirit of progression, but if it is apparent that our personal gains will be no greater we take little interest in town affairs and tend only to that which concerns us. Self-preservation is first always, but if we are far sighted enough it can be readily seen that whatever betters the town benefits us. If there is an increase in the number of industries it means more wages to town residents, and most of this money is paid to the butcher, the baker, the landlord and in taxes. So much for your betterment. If your town grows it means that our merchants will have to supply the increasing demand for goods. So much for their betterment. If the town valuation increases it means lower taxes but higher land values. So much for the betterment of property owners. Everything benefiting your town is an indirect benefit to the residents. It is the duty of everyone to work for community interest and develop the spirit of co-operative civic pride.

Those who had the occasion to hear the eloquent address by Judge Harvey H. Baker of the Boston Juvenile court at the monthly meeting of the Men's club of the Wollaston Congregational church surely have a splendid opportunity to lend a helping hand to the foreign born residents in our midst, who have yet to master our ways and language.

Judge Baker in outlining his subject "The Juvenile Court," brought out the fact that the foreign boy of from 12 to 18 knows no parental authority for the parents look to the boy for help, realizing that children get in touch with the surroundings much quicker than they can.

Thus it is that so many foreign born children are in our juvenile courts daily until, at last, the probation officers have gradually solved this great question taking hold of it themselves and asking for the cooperation of the foreign parents themselves, the support of such clubs at the one he spoke to, Y. M. C. A's. and others formed to better all conditions detrimental to mankind. This is a broad subject and should be looked after and we ask you, reader, if you know of such cases in your neighborhood try to point out to the boy the folly of his ways. See them now before it is too late.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

This is the time of the year when officers are installed in the various fraternal organizations which are so numerous in this locality. The words of wisdom spoken by the installing officers and others who accompany them are calculated to make better citizens of those who listen attentively to them and give heed to what they hear. The principles of the fraternal organizations are high and worthy and the man or woman who lives up to the principles inculcated in the lodge room will make a model member of society.—Wareham Courier.

MONEY NOT RECOVERED

Two Women Charged With Many Offenses In Connection With Holdup

New York, Feb. 1.—Bessie Roberts and May Williams, the women accused of holding up and robbing Warner M. Van Norden of $28,000 recently, have considerable to answer for in court in connection with their alleged offense as the result of grand jury action in their cases.

The grand jury handed down a joint indictment charging the women with robbery in the first degree, grand larceny in the first degree, assault in the second degree and receiving stolen goods.

The money which they are charged with taking from the banker has never turned up.

SWOPE WAS POISONED

Doctors Find Strychnine In Viscera of Kansas City Millionaire

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Strychnine was found throughout the viscera of the late Colonel Thomas H. Swope, the Kansas City millionaire, according to a report made by Drs. Haines, Hektoon and Vaughan to John G. Paxton, executor of the Swope estate, here.

The same kind of poison is also believed to have been found in the liver of Christman Swope, a nephew of Colonel Swope, but it was announced that the examination of his organs had not been completed to the satisfaction of the toxicologists and would be continued.

FORGED NAMES OF SELECTMEN

Former Town Treasurer of Framingham Makes Confession

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 1.—Tottering to the witness stand on the arm of a court officer, replying to the questions of the government attorney in a voice that could not be heard ten feet away, John B. Lombard, formerly town treasurer of Framingham, now an old, broken man, confessed to forging the names of the board of selectmen of Framingham to a promissory note of $15,000.

Lombard was the third witness called in the trial of Charles S. Cummings, the note broker, who was indicted in the Framingham case and who is specifically charged with larceny on two counts and uttering a forged instrument on one count. One charge of larceny is that he stole $14,440 from the Washington Savings Institution of Lowell while the other charges the larceny of $15,000 from the town of Framingham. One of these charges will be dropped. The other charge is uttering a forged promissory note for $15,000 of the town of Framingham.

For an hour or more before he was called to the witness stand Lombard had been sitting at the side of the court room. Those who knew the former treasurer of Framingham and who had not seen him for some months hardly recognized in this bowed and sad-faced person the fine-looking man whom they used to see. His long gray curly hair hung almost to his coat collar, his face was ashen and he looked sick.

When Assistant District Attorney Wier called out the name "John B. Lombard," he attempted to rise from his seat, but was unable to do so only after a stalwart court officer went to his assistance. Hardly able to drag one foot after the other, he went to the witness stand and was seated by permission of the court. Even that effort seemed to exhaust him, and he had to be given a glass of water before he could give his name in answer to the query of the government attorney.

The witness then told his story, answering in monosyllables when possible, and hardly above a whisper. He said that in 1908 he knew the defendant Cummings and that he was a note broker dealing in promissory and town notes. Then Wier, by question after question, brought out the pitiable confession of the former trusted official.

Lombard was cross-questioned by Henry C. Long, counsel for Cummings. Lombard said he could not remember when the wrong-doing in connection with the issuance of notes began. He first met Cummings when the latter worked for E. H. Gay & Co. He did some business with him and later with the agents for other brokers. He said he felt he was in trouble about two years ago. He had worried a great deal about the matter and his memory was so hazy that he could not remember just how many notes he had forged, but that there were at least ten such notes. He said he had kept a partial memorandum of the notes.

Lombard, continuing, said that he had gone to the district attorney's office two weeks ago voluntarily and told everything about the matter he could remember. Long asked him if it had occured to him if he gave up these facts it might not give him a lighter sentence if he should be sentenced. Lombard said that the had not considered that, and that nothing had been said about any sentence.

GIRLS WIN BIG STRIKE

All but About Six Hundred Shirtwaist Makers Return to Work

New York, Feb. 1.—The union leaders announce the surrender of three of the largest manufacturers in the city, thus practically ending the strike of the girl shirtwaist makers.

At the Women's Trade Union league, Miss Mary Dreier, the president, said that the strike has been a great victory for the girls and that all but about 600 of the 30,000 who were originally involved will be back at work today.

MODERN HAIR DRESSING

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

KILL COMPENSATION BILL

Bay State Solons Refuse Redress to Those Unjustly Imprisoned

Boston, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Grace Marley of Lynn appeared for the eighth time before the legislature yesterday to demand $3000 as compensation for damages incurred while she was detained at the Danvers insane hospital. Mrs. Marley claims that she was committed illegally, and that she was detained ten years.

There is also a bill in the legislature to permit Michael Hurley to recover compensation for fourteen months' labor at Deer island. He was sentenced for contempt of court, and after fourteen months' imprisonment the supreme court decided that he had not been in contempt.

In the house yesterday afternoon, the bill was killed to provide compensation for persons unlawfully or unjustly imprisoned or fined.

BLACKMAIL, SAYS WARRINER

Paid Mrs. Ford at the Rate of $1000 a Month For Seven Years

Cincinnati, Feb. 1.—The children of Mrs. Jeannette S. Ford were barred from the court room when their mother was placed on trial on a charge of blackmailing C. L. Warriner, local treasurer of the Big Four, who is now serving a term in state prison for thefts from the railroad.

Warriner took the stand in citizen's clothes, having doffed his convict garb. "Last September," he said, "I told her the demands must be kept down as it had come to a time when I could not meet them. Her reasons for coming to me for money was because she was protecting me by not making public the Big Four shortage."

Warriner said he had paid Mrs. Ford $84,000 since 1902 at the rate of $1000 a month.

HIGH PRICES TAKEN UP IN THE HOUSE

McCall Stirs Ways and Means Committee to Action

Washington, Feb. 1.—Representative McCall (Mass.) started the ball rolling for a congressional investigation of the cost of living when he poked up the ways and means committee into indorsing the movement.

The committee had met to consider the Payne resolution to legalize a further issue of Panama bonds, which later passed the house. The committee was about to adjourn when McCall inquired what action was to be taken with regard to an investigation of high prices.

A discussion followed, the upshot of which was that McCall and Champ Clark, the Democratic leader, both members of the committee, were directed to prepare a resolution providing for an investigation of the subject by the committee on ways and means. This is the committee which reported the tariff bill, with its alleged disregard of the "ultimate consumer."

BOY KEPT IN CLOSET

Stepmother Charged With Being Responsible For His Pitiful Condition

New York, Feb. 1.—Huddled in his stepmother's wardrobe, too weak to stand and pitifully emaciated from starvation, Joseph Steen, 8 years old, was taken in charge by officers of the Children's society and a warrant was sworn out for Mrs. Mary Steen, the stepmother. No statement from her has thus far been obtainable, but it is understood that her husband, the boy's father, died a year ago.

Joseph's mind has become affected and he is unable to give any account of why he was kept confined. Neighbors brought the case to the attention of the police.

BOSTON'S MAYOR STRICKEN

May Not Be Able to Take Part In Inauguration of His Successor

Boston, Feb. 1.—Mayor Hibbard was stricken yesterday with a severe attack of sciatic rheumatism. Physicians ordered him to remain in bed and gave strict orders that the mayor be kept quiet for some days.

At the mayor's office it is stated that Hibbard is very sick and that it is quite likely that he will not recover in time to be present at the inauguration exercises that take place Monday. In that case the mayor has visited city hall for the last time as mayor.

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD BREAD RECIPE

ONE TABLESPOONFUL of shortening, one level tablespoonful salt, one-third cup sugar. Add one pint scalding water, then add another pint of cold water. Let stand until lukewarm and add one yeast cake. STIR "WINGOLD" FLOUR into this with a spoon until it becomes as thick as you can possibly stir it. DO NOT KNEAD IT, as this is all the mixing it requires. After Sponge has risen, KNEAD DOWN and let rise again. Then place on board, mold into loaves, and place in pans. Let rise until level with top of pan. Bake in moderate oven.

This recipe insures four perfect loaves.

N. B.—Bread made with water keeps moist longer than if made with milk.

"WINGOLD" is the finest flour sold anywhere at any price.
Grocers say the demand for "WINGOLD" is steadily increasing.

PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets have done wonders for me. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man." George Kryder, Napoleon, O.

FEDERATION OF WOMENS CLUBS

Mid-Winter Meeting of Massachusetts Organizations

The Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs held its mid-winter meeting at Park Street church Boston today. The morning session opened at ten o'clock with an address of welcome by Miss Georgie A. Beacon, president of the Federation. Following this Mrs. Alice Parker Lesser, chairman of the Legislative committee, presented certain bills now before the Legislature for the endorsement of the convention.

"A Glance at the Work of the State Federations of New England" as presented by their presidents took up the rest of the morning. Mrs. Charles F. Flagg spoke for Maine, Mrs. William Parlingame for New Hampshire, Mrs. Oliver C. Ashton for Vermont, Mrs. Ira G. Hasbrouck for Rhode Island, Mrs. William H. Phipps for Connecticut and Mrs. Caroline S. Atherton, first vice-president for Massachusetts.

The afternoon session at two o'clock was preceded by an organ recital by Harris Shaw, organist at the Columbus Avenue Universalist church. The audience joined in singing "America" under the leadership of Mrs. Martha Dana Shepard. Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., then gave a stirring address on "The Preservation and Use of some of the Natural Resources of New England" and the meeting closed with singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

Some thirty guests from other states were present including not only the State presidents but also the chairmen of standing committees. These will unite with the Massachusetts officers and committee chairmen in a conference at Hotel Vendome Wednesday relative to certain phases of Federation work.

Annoyed by the brevity of her nap, Gracie's mother asked somewhat impatiently why she awoke so soon.

Looking up in childish wonderment she said: "Why I slept all there was."

SUNDAY SERVICES

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The subject of Rev. Joseph Walther Sunday morning was "Some deep and fundamental questions about prayer." The question, "Why pray if God knows our need?" was asked and answered. God has commanded us to pray; but why? Mr. Walther said that there was power in association with children first and then on and on. The power that comes because of association with God through prayer was given as one reason why we should pray. God has commanded us to go into our closets and shut the door and there make our wants known to Him. Prayer helps us to remember that we are dependent on God. Prayer is not simply asking but also giving thanks for all the blessings of life. Prayer is a means of co-operation. We can do a great deal of work in the foreign lands by prayer when we cannot go ourselves. Closing Mr. Walther referred to God's storehouse of wealth and urged his hearers to keep on praying, saying that it developed faith and a perfect trust in God.

The Sunday School was well attended. An exceptionally large number was present in Mr. Albee's class for women.

The sermon of the Sunday evening service was by the pastor; subject, "Secret discipleship." Reference was made to Joseph of Arimathaea, who was a secret Christian because he feared the Jews. After the death of Christ he went to Pilate, asked for the body of Jesus, and buried it in his own tomb. Some people of today belong to the same class as Joseph because of moral fear and criticism. Jesus expects men to witness for him and constantly reminds men of God's power to help. Those who are not for Christ are against Him. Our lives are influencing somebody. "What is the effect?" With tender earnestness Mr. Walther made an appeal for all to do their best for the Master who did not hesitate to do His best for all. Closing the preacher recited the hymn of which these words are a part: "I gave my life for thee; what hast thou given for me."

WOLLASTON METHODIST.

The services at the Wollaston Methodist church Sunday were full of interest. The pastor preached in the morning from Psalm 8:4—He said man is more then mere dust or body. He is a living soul. Measured by the light of divine truth, he is more durable then the material creation. Man is personal being. This thought alone measures the distance and superiority of man above the brute creation. The thought of the conscious self lifts man out of obscurity and makes plain the words of Sir Walter Hamilton. "There is nothing great in the world but man, and there is nothing great in man but mind."

Man is a moral being with the power of choice. Made in the image of his creator as to moral nature, intelligence, immortality and dominion. Through disobedience he fell. The great end of all human relation is man. Man came to full measure and stature of a complete man in Christ Jesus.

J. A. Sedgwick, the superintendent, had charge of the Sunday school. Miss Rena M. Chamberlin led the Junior League meeting at 4 o'clock and F. G. B. Bennett took charge of the Epworth League service. At 7 o'clock the pastor preached, taking for his subject, "The Christian's supreme joy." The pastor also preached a five-minute sermon to the children Sunday morning.

Civic Ugliness.

Civic ugliness is not an asset. Slatternly municipal housekeeping attracts neither residents nor investors. Such inexcusable transgression cannot but react, and eventually it will be found that the way of the transgressor is indeed hard. To be known as a beautiful village marks the place as a budding city. A beautiful city soon becomes a mighty city. A beautiful country soon develops into a land of splendid homes, inhabited by a superior class of citizens. Everything eventually yields to the irresistible charms of beauty, whether midst the noisy strife of artificial city life or among green fields and meadows "brown and sear." The upshot of it all is to keep spic and span not only with our own premises, but to join with our neighbors in a co-operative movement to care for public property in a manner that will commend our community to all visitors as a live, up to date, progressive place in which to permanently reside.

Kills Her Boy by Accident

MAN ABOUT TOWN

As showing the interest felt by the mountaineers in Kentucky in the education of their children in Berea college, Ky., the following letter was received by Miss Douglas, one of the faculty of the college, from the father of one of the pupils. It was the intention to read this letter at the meeting in the North Church in that city, Wednesday evening, in aid of Berea college, but time did not permit, and so this missive was handed to the News for publication. The letter, a pathetic one, indeed, is printed verbatim. — From Salem Evening News.

Town Named Peculiar.

"'Name it something peculiar,' was the closing phrase in a letter we received from the postoffice department a score of years ago when half a dozen names had been suggested and were all turned down by the department for our little town in Cass county, Mo.," said a leading grain and stock man of that place.

"Well, to make a long story short, we took the word 'peculiar' and sent it back to the postoffice department. They approved it, and 'Peculiar' we named it, and it has been known as that ever since.

"We have a good town and don't mind how many jokes people crack at our expense. The more they talk about us the faster we grow."

Be a Friend of Home.

When you want to buy an article of merchandise buy it of a reputable home dealer that the profit may remain to enrich the community. Send your money abroad only for what you cannot purchase at home. Home talent, home labor, home industry, home capital and home pleasures are things to be fostered, encouraged and patronized.

The Gospel of Home Trade.

If anxious to help your friends
And to help yourself as well,
If you want success in your business,
Here's a plan may work the spell:
Spend your money in your own town,
Nor permit it abroad to roam,
For the dollar that may come back your way
Is the dollar that stays at home.

Who plants a nearby soil
A part of the harvest reaps,
But the seed wind sown that afar is blown
Is out of your reach for keeps.
Apply the lessons to wealth
And get it under your dome
That the dollar which may come back your way
Is the dollar that stays at home.

You are paid some time, some place,
In the coin of the things you do.
You are part of the hive. If the others thrive
The honey is shared by you.
You get as you give; that's the law.
The rest is but sound and foam.
The dollar that may come back your way
Is the dollar that stays at home.

When you trade with the man next door
Or the merchant around the square
You give a lift to the general thrift
And may hope for your ultimate share.
'Tis a wisdom that's learned from life
And requires no scholarly tome—
That the dollar which may come back your way
Is the dollar that stays at home.

J. A. EDGERTON.

THE IDEAL VILLAGE.

Woman Describes a Town That Would Appeal to One's Fancy.

THE MARKET A BIG FEATURE.

It Should Be Built In Center of the Town and Should Carry a Supply of Good Substantial Foods — Schoolhouse and Clubhouse Necessary.

In a talk before the Civic club of Arlington, N. J., Mrs. Mary Pattison, president of the New Jersey Woman's Federated Clubs, pictured the ideal village in the following manner:

"Let us take an imaginary journey," she said, "to a slightly elevated spot somewhere and build an ideal village or town. Let there be a clean, wide sweep of greensward shaded with trees and cut with winding roads, a few hills and a cool, picturesque valley to one side, through which a clear, happy rivulet curls its way untainted with sewage and disease carrying insects and unspoiled by the dumps of refuse usually deposited along such banks. Let us see there instead grass, flowers and birds.

"On one of these hills near by we find a roomy schoolhouse, than which nothing better is known, where the children are being educated in the real things of life, in common sense and in industrial and organic matters, with no danger of forced mentality.

"Here we find usefulness with beauty of method. As a result horse or coarse play and disrespect are unknown. Individual and careful thinking are encouraged, and appreciation is developed, with charm of manner and the cultivation of the healthiest bodies.

"In the center of the town, near a few choice shops and offices, we find an airy and well built market where only the best and purest foods can be bought, not necessarily luxuries, but the substantial varieties that make blood and muscle strong and of good quality—a place where it is not sufficient to simply label the contents of packages, but where it is necessary to tell which beefsteak has had its juice extracted, what fish and fowl have been embalmed, what animals died in disease and what fruit has had its natural fermentation stopped by the use of preservatives.

"It is, in fact, a place to buy food where one is not in danger of one's life or, worse, one's health at every turn.

"Let us perhaps build two churches in our beautiful village, although that may be one too many, but let there be one opening the gate of heaven through the intellectual door or under the portal of the understanding where reason reigns and science proves. Then a little farther on let us find another, bringing God on earth through the aid of the emotions, with the heart as the knower and the senses trained to love. Let them both be beautiful, but let us go first to one and then the other till in the future they unite.

"Our community is made up of homes, cheerful, normal, happy homes, individual in expression, co-operate in management and lovely in design, where the atmosphere is the guilding element, where nothing is held that gives more trouble than worth, where harmony, health and happiness leave not a crevice for hell to peek through.

"And now a little walk to the right, and opposite the park we are led to the village clubhouse, a fine pleasure edifice equipped for all ages. It is a place where play and gymnastics are supervised, a place for games of all sorts, with rooms for music, art, dancing, etc., and for that foolish frivolity without which society would lose its charms.

"May we keep our hand to the wheel and help to usher in the new village home if not in detail, at least in essence—a home where one might free the spirit by just living, where doctors and lawyers are the minimum in number and teachers are the maximum, a place where only health is known and where the whole air thrills with life."

Death of Bishop Dowden

Edinburgh, Feb. 1.—Right Rev. John Dowden, Episcopal bishop of Edinburgh, was dining when stricken with apoplexy and passed away within a short time. Dr. Dowden, who was the leading scholar and author of the Episcopal church in Scotland, was born in 1840 at Cork.

BRIEFS.

February.

One month of 1910 has gone.

Ice has dropped in price.

Any announcement of plans for the Board of Trade banquet are premature.

Mrs Margaret Richards of Lynn, district deputy will install the officers of Abigal Adams lodge, I. C. of A. this evening at Clan McGregor hall.

Many of the post office clerks of the city will attend tonight the annual ball of the Boston Post Office Clerks Mutual Benefit Association in Mechanics hall.

Several members of the Knights of Columbus of this city were guests of Braintree council at the exemplification of the degree on Sunday by Edward M. Gallagher and suite of Charlestown.

The annual meeting of Unity circle of King's Daughters will be held this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Bethany chapel, to be followed at 6.30 by a supper, and at 7.45 by a public meeting. Several new members will be received at the evening service.

At the public meeting of the Ladies Aid Alliance in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry on Wednesday evening, when Rev. Joel H. Metcalf will lecture on "Astronomy," Miss Alice Day of Elm avenue will preside at the piano and Mrs. W. L. Childs of Boston will render vocal solos.

It was reported the other day that the present Wollaston school lot on Beale street contained but 29,236 square feet. This was a misprint, as the lot contains 49,236 square feet, which is more than an acre. It includes the whole block between Winthrop avenue and Prospect avenue for a depth of 150 feet or more.

Great interest is being shown by both pupils and teachers of the Coddington school in the operetta "Golden hair and the three Bears" which is to be given at the school hall. The pupils chosen from the upper grades, who make up the chorus of 70, have worked hard, and under Miss Elizabeth Garrity's capable directing, are showing excellent results. The costumes are an attractive feature. Several of the more important parts are being taken by experienced adult vocalists.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST ALLDS

They Prove to Be of a Most Sensational Character

Albany, Feb. 1.—The written charges of Senator Conger of Tompkins county that his colleague and former stanch friend, Senator Jotham P. Allds, Republican leader of the senate, demanded and received a bribe of $1000, in his presence, to influence him to defeat a certain bill were filed here with Lafayette B. Gleason, clerk of the senate.

JOTHAM P. ALLDS.

Senator Conger's document is in conformity with an order of the senate. The contents of the paper are more surprising and direct than had been expected. He makes the charge without any reservations and declares that he (Allds) "accepted the money in my presence."

Even more sensational than had been expected, the formal charges were prepared in New York by Conger and Augustus Van Wyck and James W. Osborne.

The first direct charge reads as follows: "That Jotham P. Allds, on or about April 23, 1901, while a member of the assembly, received and accepted the sum of $1000 in my presence at the capitol, in the city of Albany.

"Second—That the said sum was demanded by him and was paid to and accepted by him as the consideration for his having refrained from pressing to passage a certain bill pending before that house."

Under the rules of the senate, adopted for this particular case, the charges against the accused senator were required to be in by Feb. 1. It was prescribed also that Allds, who has retained Martin W. Littleton as his attorney, must have his answer filed by Feb. 4, and it was further arranged that the actual trial of Allds by the full senate should begin on Feb. 8.

Senator Conger's direct charge against his colleague, whom he has known intimately for years, and who had just begun his duties as president pro tem. of the senate when the Conger bombshell was hurled into the legislature, has already created a stir among Republicans who have heard inklings about it.

Should it be left as a mere question of veracity between the two senators, there is a belief among some of the Republicans that both Allds and Conger will permanently withdraw from the senate. Both men are now temporarily out of the senate, having asked for permission to absent themselves until the trial is finished.

Senator Allds will put in as his answer a sweeping denial of the entire charge. When the matter first came before the senate he stood up and branded the story as a "malicious lie," designed to injure him and the organization to which he belongs.

Death of Oldest Postmaster

Bondville, Vt., Feb. 1.—Chester B. Williams, 80 years old, the oldest postmaster in the country in the point of service, died at his home here. He was appointed postmaster about two weeks after he attained his majority, during the presidency of Millard Fillmore.

Young Aldrich Marries Again

Providence, Feb. 1.—The announcement of the quiet marriage of Lora Elsie Lawson to Edward B. Aldrich of New York, son of Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, at Troy, N. Y., was confirmed here. The groom was divorced last summer from Mary Dorrance in this city.

The Weather

Almanac, Wednesday, Feb. 2.
Sun rises—6:58; sets—4:59.
Moon rises—2:18 a. m.
High water—4:45 a. m.; 5:15 p. m.
Forecast for New England: Fair and warmer; moderate north and northwest winds, except brisk and high on the south coast.

French Cruiser Damaged

Tangier, Feb. 1.—The French cruiser Cheaucan Renault has been badly damaged by running ashore near Cape Spartel. She was dragged off.

LOOKING IN SHOP WINDOWS

One of the Pleasures of Taft, Who Finds White House Life Is Isolation

Washington, Feb. 1.—Talking as if he were merely a friend who had dropped in for a short chat and not the President of the United States, Mr. Taft revealed much of his personal side to the newspaper men of the national capital at an informal reception given him at the National Press club.

Prepared for a stroll along the busy thoroughfares of the city which he took after he left the club, the president declared he found much pleasure in walking and looking in the shop windows.

Speaking of the White House and its duties the president said there was a "sense of isolation in life" there in that "nobody just drops in on one in a neighborly way, but all the callers come by engagement."

DAUGHTER OF ADMIRAL

Said to Have Stirred Up Row Which Results In Court Martial

Boston, Feb. 1.—Miss Virginia Swift, daughter of Admiral Swift, was named in the "Dorothy Hesler court martial" at the navy yard as the one who gave the hint that resulted in Paymaster Auld and Dr. Cowles having a mixup at an officers' dance.

After the prosecution had closed, Dr. Robnett, the reported fiance of Miss Hesler, and who is named with Auld in Cowles' charges of "insult and assault," testified that Miss Swift told him reports were going the rounds about statements Cowles was said to have made concerning Miss Hesler.

Dr. Robnett consulted Auld and then came the now famous clash when they ordered Cowles, on a subsequent evening, from the crowded ballroom.

EXPLOSION IN MINE NOT ACCOUNTED FOR

Seventy-Five Men Believed to Have Lost Their Lives

Trinidad, Col., Feb. 1.—Seventy-five miners are reported entombed in a coal mine at Primero. Seven bodies have already been found, and it is believed all are dead.

Primero, where the disaster occurred, is twenty-six miles from here. The only wire communication is a telephone line belonging to the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, which owns the mine.

J. F. Welborn, president of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, was unable to account for the explosion because all the miners used safety lamps.

MAY GO ON ACTIVE DUTY

Coast and Geodetic Survey Through With Services of Peary

Washington, Feb. 1.—Commander Peary may be ordered to report for active duty in the navy. The plans for Peary's return to active service are tentative, and nothing will be decided until after Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop has had an interview on the subject with the officer.

The coast and geodetic survey, to which Peary was assigned "to make tidal observations in northern latitudes," has finished with his services and returned the commander officially to the navy department.

Corporation Tax Is Pushed

Washington, Feb. 1.—Recognizing the importance of an early decision on the question involved, the supreme court of the United States has set March 14 as the date for the hearing to test the constitutionality of the corporation tax provisions of the Payne tariff act.

Strike of Women Weavers

Boston, Feb. 1.—Twenty-eight velvet weavers, all women, employed by the Roxbury Carpet factory, walked out on a strike because of a reduction from 4 cents to 3½ cents per yard on piece work, and it is intimated that a general strike will result.

FALLS THREE STORIES

Little Girl, Who Is Uninjured, Finds Nothing But Fun In It

Brewster, Mass., Feb. 1.—Agnes Y. Philips, aged 6, of East Brewster, fell from a third-story window in her home and jumped up and walked away, smilingly exclaiming: "My, it's fun to fly; I'd like to try it again!"

Her frightened mother, standing near by, shrieked for help and then fainted. Mrs. Philips regained consciousness and was greatly surprised to see her supposedly killed daughter standing before her.

MAY PROFIT BY FLOOD LESSON

Paris Should Have Canal or Conduit Built Around City

Paris, Feb. 1.—The improvement in the general situation continues, and the spirits of the Parisians are rising as the waters fall.

With the crisis past, the mercurial French temperament faces the subsidiary troubles with a light heart, but the papers are already sounding a note of warning that the lesson must not be forgotten, that measures must be taken to avoid a repetition of the disaster.

This can be done by the construction of a cut-off either in the way of a canal or a large conduit around Paris.

The prefect of the department of the Seine has issued instructions to the owners of flooded houses to clean and disinfect their premises within twenty-four hours after the subsidence of the waters to the satisfaction of the municipal architects. Otherwise the work will be done at the cost and risk of the owners.

Several steam pumps have resumed the work of pumping out the subway, and considerable progress is being made in the sections where the flood is lowest.

Public and private benevolence continue to respond to the call of the sufferers. All the theatres and musical societies are organizing benefits, while the various race courses are arranging a big meeting for the spring, the receipts of which will go to the poor.

A resolution has been introduced in the chamber of deputies, asking the government to award special Crosses of the Legion of Honor to those who have been conspicuous in the rescue work.

Although the papers are printing columns of pitiful stories, a hundredth part of the horror and agony suffered will never be known. Many corpses have been swept down the river, and occasionally a coffin in a boat, which had probably broken away from a funeral procession, is seen.

Scores of half-famished families have been rescued from their homes, and there are hundreds still occupying their half-submerged houses waiting for the water to recede.

A source of danger has been the starving dogs roaming around Alfortville and Ivry, and many of these have been shot in the fear that they might develop rabies. In several instances they have made attacks upon human beings.

The government has arranged to loan money to the ruined house and shop owners to enable them to rebuild immediately. These loans may be refunded in installments.

LABOR EXCHANGES OPEN

England Inaugurates a New System to Help the Unemployed

London, Feb. 1.—The inauguration of the new system of national labor exchanges, created by the Liberal government as a preliminary step in dealing with the unemployed problem, took place today, when exchanges were opened throughout the country without formal ceremony.

One hundred exchanges will be started in February, and 150 more during the next six months. Their object is neither charity nor relief, but only to serve to bring men desiring work into touch with employers wanting labor.

Military League to Dissolve

Athens, Feb. 1.—The king has assented to the convocation of the assembly, and he will appoint M. Dragoumis to form an extra-parliamentary government. The Military league will then voluntarily dissolve.

His Grandma Wife

How a Man to Save a Fortune Was Obliged to Wed His Grandmother.

By BRADFORD C. ALMY

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

I was in Switzerland and about to climb the Jungfrau when a bundle of letters and newspapers were handed me. While waiting for my guides I tore open the wrapper of the papers and, scanning one of the journals, noticed a marked item stating that my grandfather, Sherman Wellesley, aged eighty-five, had married and died the same day.

In a twinkling I was deposed from a position of heir expectant to a great fortune to—I did not know what. My grandfather had bitterly opposed my propensity to travel and especially to climb mountains. I was his only descendant, and he had long endeavored to induce me to settle down to the care of the millions which he had willed me. He lived in constant terror lest I should make a slip on one of my climbs, go several thousand feet down over a precipice and the fortune that had been accumulating during his life time would go a-begging. In other words, it must be left to charity.

His intention in marrying was plain to me. He could not have an heir (other than myself), but he could have a wife. He had doubtless lost all patience with me and at the last moment married some woman who would supply my place as an heir.

I hesitated what to do, but, looking up at the glittering top of the white mountain, forgot for the time all about the fortune I had lost, and, my guides being ready, I started on what proved my last ascent. On returning to my starting point, Interlaken, I left for home. As soon as I landed I wrote my new grandmother asking for information as to her husband's disposition of the property. By return mail I received this reply:

Your grandfather, being taken suddenly ill, concluded to destroy the will leaving you his sole heir, not having confidence that you would settle down and attend to the property. Having but an hour or two to live, there was no time to make a detailed will. His brain, always quick to work, solved the problem in this wise: Having great confidence in me, he married me on his deathbed and signed a will comprised in a few words leaving me all his property. He, however, exacted a promise from me that if you desired to marry me I would take you for a husband.

Phew! Marry my grandmother!

Well, all depended upon what kind of a woman she was. A hope sprang up in my breast that she might be of a suitable age for me and passably good looking. I wrote her that I would run up for a conference and politely assured her that if she was not favorably impressed with me I would release her from the verbal condition by declining to marry her. This, I flattered myself, was a very foxy way of putting it, my real object being to decline to take a wife with a fortune if I didn't like her.

I was doomed to a terrible disappointment. I found my grandmother a veritable grandmother. She was sixty-five years old, fat, bald and not a tooth in her head that was her own. I cursed myself for a fool to have declined to comply with my grandfather's wishes during his life, for now that the blow had fallen I realized my folly. It was evident that to save the fortune I must marry an old woman, and even then she would own the property till her death, and I should have to ask her for every penny I spent.

Having taken sufficient time to make up my mind what course to pursue, I sounded her as to whether I could marry her, take an allowance and spend my time anywhere but with her. She said she would think it over, and I had hope. But the next day I was informed that such a course would not be carrying out her late husband's wishes. He had desired that I should take care of the property.

The medium through whom I received this answer was Agnes Dorchester, my grandmother's secretary, a young woman not quite my age. Indeed, I was obliged to transact everything through this girl, and it was not long before I saw plainly that Mrs. Wellesley was completely under her thumb. This added to my chagrin. Another had stepped in between me and the fortune I had been brought up to expect would be mine, and I was not even at liberty to deal directly with that person.

Having discovered where the power lay, there was nothing for me to do but endeavor to gain such points as I wished to make through its possessor. I invited Miss Dorchester to a conference, in which I played my best card in an attempt to induce her to persuade her mistress to fulfill her promise, allow me a stated income and permit me to live abroad.

"Mrs. Wellesley," she said in reply to this proposition, "would not have been intrusted with this matter were it not that she was to be implicitly trusted with carrying it out. Your grandfather's object was to make a man of one who was wasting his talents in globe trotting."

While I was disappointed, I was impressed. Even this girl, whom I had begun by disliking, saw that I was not worthy to be trusted with a fortune—a fortune of which she herself held the real management.

I spent some time at my grandmother's endeavoring to bring her to some terms. She declined all my proposals, adhering to her late husband's intentions. She would fulfill her promise and would not consent to any subterfuge to get around it. A month passed, and I was about to give it all up and go away when Mrs. Wellesley herself came to me with a proposition.

"I sympathize with you heartily," she said, "in being obliged to give up a fortune or take with it an old woman like myself. I will tell you what I will do. I am as attached to Miss Dorchester as if she were my daughter. She is of suitable age for you and a woman of rare good sense. I can safely trust her to carry out your grandfather's intentions toward you. If she will have you and you will have her I will make a will leaving my property to you both jointly, giving her meanwhile control of the income."

"But I don't know that I like Miss Dorchester," I exclaimed, taken aback at this offer. Then after a pause, "Will she consent to the plan?"

"That is for you to find out."

I had no hope that Miss Dorchester would marry me simply to gain a fortune, and in any event I should have to live with her and carry out my grandfather's wishes. But anything rather than beggary. I went to the young lady, told her of Mrs. Wellesley's proposition and asked her to be my wife.

What did she do but toss her nose in the air and decline to have anything to do with such a proposition.

I left her furious. She would rather give up a fortune than be my wife. I spent the next twenty-four hours in inventing imaginary ways of torturing her. The upstart!

We all know that a woman scorned becomes a fury. There is no such adage about a man, but there should be, "A man scorned is soon conquered." I resolved that I would make Miss Dorchester love me, then toss her aside as a wax doll.

In a few weeks I had softened her so far as to receive a proposition from her.

"I cannot bear," she said, "to stand between you and a fortune. I feel that it will be impossible for Mrs. Wellesley to carry out your grandfather's intentions toward you. I will agree to her proposition to marry you provided you will promise to go away and not trouble me."

I had secured terms that in the beginning I would have considered very acceptable. But what did I consider them now? An insult.

"Are you aware," I said, the color rising to my cheek and a spark glittering in my eye, "that you are by no means flattering?"

"But I supposed what you wish is to go abroad and break your neck climbing mountains."

"Oh!" I exclaimed ironically. "In that case you would not be troubled with me further."

"And death would release you from living with a wife you had married for convenience."

In this retort I fancied I could detect something womanly—something of pain. I was surprised. I went to her and laid my hand on her arm. I was not repulsed.

"I think," I said, "that you could carry out my grandfather's wishes. At any rate, try. I will do all I can to help you."

"To retain your fortune," she said, pouting.

"And become a loving husband."

* * * * * * * *

The evening before the wedding, when I was a hundred miles from my intended bride, I was thrown into a wild state by the receipt of the following telegram:

You must marry your grandmother, after all, or lose your fortune. AGNES.

What new complication could have arisen? Why could not those lawyers be certain of anything? I had become violently in love with Miss Dorchester and would not in any event give her up. I replied:

Grandmother be hanged! I will marry you tomorrow.

I could not get a train till early the next day, but after a sleepless night at 5 a. m. was steaming toward my bride that was to be. On my arrival I hesitated whether to go at once to see her and discover the meaning of her telegram, but there was little time, and my mind was made up as to the marriage, so I dressed for the wedding before setting out. I dashed up to the house in a carriage, alighted and hurried up the steps. Agnes was standing in a front window in bridal array, her face radiant with happiness. Rushing into the room where she was, I caught her in my arms.

"What's the matter?" I asked, breathless.

"You're going to marry your grandmother."

"No, I'm not. I'm going to marry you."

"I'm your grandmother." Her eyes were dancing a hornpipe.

Then I saw it all. My grandfather had married her instead of the old woman. She had been playing a game with me. My grandfather in the presence of death had hit upon the expedient of marrying the girl who had been supplying my place by devoting herself to him. This would make her inheritance stronger in law, though he left a will in her favor telling her that it was his wish that she should marry me and make a man of me.

But she had no mind to make a business transaction of the matter. She had therefore put an old woman forward to personate her as the widow while she stood in the background. The old woman had nothing else to do with the matter except to receive a handsome salary. I had been completely duped, but had become so impressed with the ability and good sense of my real grandmother that the moment I was piqued I was hopelessly in love.

GOWNS AT THE OPERA

Mrs. Clarence Mackay's Gorgeous Italian Costume.

VOGUE OF THINGS RUSSIAN.

A SMART RUSSIAN BLOUSE SUIT.

All the leading Metropolitan sopranos are fighting for a chance to sing the title role, but the plum went to Geraldine this time. I won't bore you about the music. You know the score much better than I do, and really I must "'fess up" and say that the gowns interested me as much as the opera. Mrs. Clarence Mackay's Italian costume was a stunner. The overdress was of copper beech satin bordered with copper embroidery powdered with jewels. The underdress was made of bloom of apricot satin, and over all was a heavy stolelike effect of dull copper embroidery fringed with small balls of bronze. Her big picture hat was of copper velvet with bronze plumes.

These picturesque daytime frocks are charming, and another gown that was much remarked on the same occasion, worn by a debutante, was made of satin the color of ripe corn, with a tunic of an opalescent greenish shade of iced absinth. The front consisted of a panel of embroidery in which gold, silver colored beads and pearls were worked into fanlike designs, these in turn being embroidered with dainty roses in white silk floss. Even the ancient tabard, which dates back to Chaucer's day, is being made to serve as a model. The tabard originally was a loose, short sleeved garment worn by knights over their armor, and the fact that it was usually emblazoned with the coat of arms of the wearer brings it right up to date in the present demand for embroideries.

As my seat is away out of the box holders' class, I had arrayed myself on this afternoon in my best new street frock, the good looking Russian costume I've sketched for you. Everything in the dress line is of the Cossack variety this year—that is, every thing that isn't middle ages or Louis something or other. My coat is a Russian affair of dull mauve velvet bordered with skunk and so fashioned that considerable width is given to the shoulders, while my waist appears especially small. The dress is of mauve cloth exactly matching the velvet coat, and my hat is a beauty, a marked down French model, one of Georgette's creations, the smart Paris milliner of the Rue Scribe. My dear, I got that dear thing for $20, and its price at the beginning of the season was $50. Every year about this time M. & X. sell off their model hats, and I captured a prize this year, a smart little turban of mauve velvet bordered, like the coat, with skunk and at the side a natty cockade of dull gold. What I really wanted was a love of a hat of black pressed beaver, a slashing big affair, but madame simply put her foot down and hinted in her sweet fashion that it was too young looking.

The Honest Milliner.

Fortunate indeed is the woman whose milliner is brave enough to be frank with her. If you have such a genius, dear, in your town don't become angry with her for telling you the truth about what you should and should not wear. She will be disagreeable at times, her honesty may not tickle your ear, but it is more than likely that it will have a salutary effect upon your appearance.

There are brutally frank people aren't great discoveries as friends, but you have a wonderful asset when you find one for a milliner.

Marjorie X. tells a funny story about herself and a milliner of the honest type. You know that Marjorie, although past her first youth, is not yet dependent upon spectacles and a shoulder shawl.

It seems that she burst in one day upon her milliner and informed her that she had a fine idea.

"I'm going to have a hat to wear in the evenings," she said, "for times when I'm just wearing my suit and not really dressed up—a hat that will give an air to a plain blue broadcloth suit and sort of top it off with a bit of dash.

"It's to be of white beaver," she announced, "big, round, and it's going to have on it something very simple—a hat of a single idea, you know. Let me see—a great big bow of black velvet!"

"Fine!" said the milliner.

Thereupon the milliner looked her square in the eyes and said, "Anything but light blue on an old maid."

And the milliner was just right, wasn't she? I don't know why it is, but the average old maid turns as naturally to the wearing of light blue as a flower does to the sun. Perhaps she hopes to catch some of the reflected loveliness. But the fact is that light blue is a color to be avoided by the woman whose cheeks have lost their curves.

I am getting awfully critical, a defect in my character which I resolved the new year shall completely uproot, so I'm not going to take any chances right now of breaking my promise to myself. Write and tell me about your good resolves, which in every case seem only to be made to break. Devotedly yours, MABEL.

PLAYTIME FOR BABY.

The "Brownie" Doll Reigns King In the Small World.

Make a pattern by cutting a piece of paper 10 by 3¼ inches. At one end cut out a V shaped piece 4½ by 2¾ inches. This will form legs in pattern of body of doll. Place pattern on sock and cut double, so leg portion comes out of ribbed top of sock.

The cap is a four inch triangle cut double and sewed up to form pointed caps and is cut from foot of sock, as are the arms, which are 3 by 1½ inches, rounded at one end to form hand and sewed up.

Sew up legs of body portion and stuff solid with cotton. From a white hose cut a piece 3¼ by 7 inches, sew up short end. This forms the head, which must be whipped to body portions. Seam in back, stuff, sew up head at top and tie a string tightly around the body where the head is sewed on, which will form neck of doll. Sew up arms, stuff and sew to shoulders. Stuff cap and sew to head seam in back.

The "brownie" is now ready to decorate by fancy stitches in yarns of bright colors on legs and arms and around the cap where it joins the head.

Make tassels or rosettes of yarn and sew to ankles and wrists and top of cap. Gather a half yard of No. 2 ribbon to match yarn and place around neck. Paint face in water colors or draw with ink producing favorable features, and you have a doll that every child will be delighted with. The bright fancy hose make the doll attractive dolls.

REPORT PROMISED WITHIN TEN DAYS

Southbridge Bank Depositors Recovering From Their Fright

Southbridge, Mass., Feb. 1.—A report within ten days as to the condition of the Southbridge Savings bank, whose deposed treasurer, John A. Hall, is now out on $50,000 bail pending action by the grand jury on a $21,000 larceny charge, was promised last night by President Paige of the bank to 200 depositors who had gathered to discuss the situation.

The depositors finally informally expressed their confidence in Paige, the bank trustees and the bank examiners.

President Paige, exhorting the depositors to be patient and await the report of the experts, earnestly advised the depositors not to sell their bank books at a discount, as some of them have done. His speech did much to offset the effect of other speeches.

MARTIN GETS THREE YEARS

Man Who Long Dodged Police Confesses to Larceny

Boston, Feb. 1.—Everett F. Martin, son of the late ex-Mayor and Police Commissioner Martin, pleaded guilty to charges of larceny and was sentenced to a term of three years in the house of correction.

Martin was charged with the larceny of sums amounting to about $2000, which he obtained as the sales agent for automobiles.

The charges against him were made many months ago, and he suddenly disappeared, going to Havana, where he remained, some time later returning to New York. From there he went to Hartford, and was placed under arrest just as he was making preparations to depart for New Mexico.

HUDDLED IN ROOMS

Immigration Commission Finds Boston Most Congested by Aliens

Washington, Feb. 1.—In the matter of overcrowding its immigrant population Boston is the worst big city in the country, according to the report presented to congress by the immigration commission. The report declares that there are more immigrants living in a room in Boston than in any other immigrant center in the whole United States.

In consequence, living conditions are pictured as far less favorable in the tenements in Boston than elsewhere.

The average number of persons per 100 rooms occupied was found to be 144 in the immigrant center of Boston, while it averaged in Philadelphia 141, New York and Cleveland 139 each, Buffalo 133, Chicago 126 and Milwaukee 115.

EX-QUEEN LIL IN BOSTON

Present Visit In Marked Contrast to That of Some Years Ago

Boston, Feb. 1.—Liliuokalani, one time queen of the Hawaiian islands, slipped into this city Sunday so quietly that few people knew she had arrived. Her coming was in direct contrast to her appearance here nearly a quarter of a century ago, when the lavish expenditures made by the city government for her entertainment caused a great stir in political circles.

At the Hotel Vendome, where her suite, consisting of her private secretary, J. D. Amioku, Mrs. A. C. Aldrich and Miss Rose Otis, is also quartered, she would not consent to be interviewed. She insisted that she wanted no publicity and that she must have quiet.

CHINA TO ABOLISH SLAVERY

Other Reforms Not to Be Hastened by the Government

Pekin, Feb. 1.—An imperial edict just issued approves the plans of the constitutional bureau for abolishing the traffic in human beings.

An imperial edict denies the petition recently submitted by the representatives of the provincial assemblies, who are now in Pekin, asking for the early establishment of a parliament. The throne adheres to the original plan of an imperial assembly now and the establishment of a parliament at the end of nine years, according to the constitutional scheme.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Quincy Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, sideache, headache.
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Quincy citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.

Mrs. George McDonald, 133 1-2 Quincy Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have more faith in Doan's Kidney Pills than in any other remedy I have ever known of and it gives me great pleasure to publicly recommend them. For at least six months I was feeling all out of sorts as the result of kidney trouble. I became tired easily and had but little strength or energy to do my housework. Pains through the small of my back annoyed me a great deal. A friend, knowing of my condition, advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug store. A short time after beginning their use, I was helped and I now feel like a different person."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

BRIEFS

Edgar Stirling of Botolph street is confined to his home with a severe attach of rheumatism.

A snapping cold morning accompanied by a high wind made it seem rather uncomfortable to be out.

A meeting of the proposed Republican club will be held this week to complete the organization.

The School Committee will forward its budget to the City Council at the meeting next Monday evening.

The regular weekly whist party will be held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Boutilier of North Payne street.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Horton nee Blanche Rhodes of Marlboro street are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter, born January thirty-first.

Alden H. Blanchard of the class of 1909 attended on Monday evening the annual meeting and banquet of the Amherst Alumni Association at Hotel Somerset.

Several Atlantic ladies who enjoyed a trip to Washington a few yea s ago are planning to renew their acquaintance with that beautiful city during the coming spring.

An enjoyable whist party was held Monday evening at Protection hall by Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Carmen. Eight tables were in play and prizes were awarded the five having the highest scores.

The case of Salvatore Calabro of Quincy vs the Lewis Shoe company of Weymouth is on trial in the Norfolk Superior court. The plaintiff seeks to recover $5,000 for personal injuries due to an elevator accident Aug. 26, 1906.

—Now they say that the squirrel must be exterminated because he carries the germs of bubonic plague about in his fur or his bushy tail, or in one of his pockets. Bubonic plague is a terrible thing and should be stamped out wherever it shows its head, but at the same time it will be found that almost every living, moving thing carries germs of some sort about with it, and we can scarcely expect to depopulate the earth even in order to keep it healthy. Even the wind carries germs, but we do not except to stop that.—Haverhill Gazette.

MIDDIES MUST SWIM

About 3500 Men with Fleet Found Deficient

Three of the Quincy built battleships, the Vermont, Rhode Island and New Jersey are now with the fleet at Guantanamo bay. A Washington dispatch to the Globe says:

Instructions in the art of naval warfare made satisfactory progress in the drills of the Atlantic fleet in Cuban waters last week. In and around Guantanamo bay the crews were exercised in maneuvers on water and on land. A regiment, consisting of the landing forces of the Georgia, New Jersey, Nebraska and Rhode Island, were drilled in rifle and target practice at Deer point, where they were encamped the entire week, and high scores were made. They were also execised in company, battalion and regimental drill. The boat crews of the Connecticut, Vermont, Minnesota and New Hampshire were instructed daily under sail and oars and several ships laid mines. Instructions were held for 3500 men who could not swim and 322 qualified during the week.

MONTHLY PRIZES.

The prizes for the best monthly scores at the Granite City club for the month of January have been awarded W. O. Wellington, who had an average of 60 per cent for the month, was given the first prize, and Ralph Currier with an average of 59 per cent gets the second prize. The third, or consolation prize, went to George W. Jones with an average of 31.1 per cent.

FARMER'S BALL.

February 3d, the date of the Braintree club's annual Farmer's ball, is fast approaching and it is safe to say that Thursday evening Braintree town hall will be filled to overflowing with young and old who like to spend an enjoyable evening occasionally. This is the seventh annual affair and every year adds new attratcions but the offering of the heifer last year capped the climax and proved so popular that it was long ago decided to donate another this year. The decorations will eclipse anything ever attempted before for suggestions received from club members will be carried out. The costumes and rural scenes will make those attending think they are in a barn instead of Braintree Town hall. Read their advertisement.

SPANISH YACHTS TO RACE.

The coming summer will see a contest of yachts between the United States and Spain.

The races will be sailed off Marblehead early in September, under the joint auspices of the Federation Espantola de Clubs Nautical and the Eastern Yacht Club at Marblehead, with President Taft as a probable spectator and perhaps the medium for the award of the trophies. Several new sonder yachts are already under contemplation in Eastern waters, and a number of New York yachtsmen have announced their intention of making bids for international honors, especially after the success last year of Joyette of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club, which won the Taft Cup from the Germans.

It is expected several of the yachts owned by King Alphonso XIII. will be in the Spanish fleet.

SPORTING NOTES.

At ice hockey on Monday Milton Academy defeated Boston English High 4 to 1.

The annual indoor meet of the Boston College Athletic Association will be held next Tuesday evening.

Milton Academy is taking an interest in track athletics.

The Old Colony bowling games tomorrow evening will be at Quincy and Norfolk Downs. Braintree will meet Quincy, and Weymouth will visit the Downs.

—Alfred Douglas was reelected commodore and J. Fred Brown vice-commodore of the Boston Y. C., at its annual meeting; Arthur Merritt was elected rear commodore to succeed Charles E. Adams and Walter Burgess was reelected secretary-treasurer.

MORTUARY BENEFITS

Plan Considered by Bricklayers and Masons.

NECESSARY TO PROGRESS.

Proposition Provides For a Graduated Death Benefit Based on Period of Membership—Per Capita Tax to Furnish Funds.

A proposition for mortuary benefits for the members of the Bricklayers and Masons' International union was recently sent out from international headquarters in Indianapolis to the various local unions of the organization. The result of the vote will be announced at the next biennial convention of the organization, to be held in January, 1910. At present some of the local unions have mortuary benefit features, but the organization has no international mortuary benefit feature.

The plan submitted to the vote of the various locals was drafted by a committee appointed by the international executive board, in accordance with action taken at the last biennial convention. In its report the committee says: "It is absolutely necessary for the progress of the B. and M. I. U. that mortuary benefits should be paid to those who are now members of our organization and those who are to be. As it is now, only unions of large membership have mortuary benefits, while hundreds of unions are too small to establish them. By adopting an international mortuary benefit we can be assured of that protection wherever we hold membership."

The plan provides that the time for putting the international mortuary benefit into effect, provided the plan is adopted, shall be July 1, 1910, and that the collection of the per capita tax for the fund shall begin Jan. 1, 1910. Under the head of the estimated cost of the plan for one year the average number of deaths a year is given as 500; average death benefits, $175; per capita tax to mortuary fund for one year, $90,000, and amount of death claims, $87,500.

It is provided in the plan that every applicant for membership in the Bricklayers and Masons' International union shall at the time of initiation pay the sum of $1 for the mortuary fund. The plan provides that on the death of a member in good standing who has been such for one year $100 shall be paid to the beneficiary. On the death of a member in good standing who has been such for five consecutive years $150 shall be paid to the beneficiary. On the death of a member in good standing who has been such for ten consecutive years $200 shall be paid to the beneficiary. A per capita tax of 12½ cents a month a member is provided for, the funds to be used for the payment of death claims.

It is provided that the international secretary shall keep a record wherein shall be written the name, age, standing and location of every member of the international, date of initiation, suspension, withdrawal or death, and no death benefit shall be paid unless the name of the deceased member appears on the register or upon a member who is more than three months in arrears. In case a member who dies has no beneficiary the expenses of his burial shall be paid out of the money and the remainder, if any, shall revert to the international death benefit fund.

The plan further provides that the financial secretary of each subordinate union immediately after each meeting shall report to the general secretary the names of all members initiated, admitted by traveling card, to whom traveling cards have been issued, suspended, reinstated or dropped from the rolls, stating the date and cause of suspension and why dropped. The secretary failing to report these matters, according to the plan, shall be fined $5, which shall be paid into the mortuary fund.

There also was referred to the committee the matter of an old age pension, but the committee reported in regard to it that it had lacked sufficient statistics as to the age of the membership and would be obliged to postpone outlining a plan until after an official roster of membership was obtained.

Grangers Act With Labor.

The national grange recently in session in Des Moines, Ia., placed itself on record in several matters in such manner as to insure its co-operation with organized labor in efforts for attainment of several purposes. Resolutions were adopted favoring woman suffrage, parcels post, postal savings banks and certain amendments of the interstate commerce law. Organized labor is flat for parcels post and postal savings banks and directly in some instances and by implication in the remainder in favor of woman suffrage. Able leaders of organized labor and of farmer movements, of which the grange is the chief, are working to unite these two bodies, not so much by establishing actual combination or even affiliation as by designating certain things which both shall simultaneously strive to attain.

Canada's New Labor Bill.

A bill has been introduced in the Canadian parliament providing for an eight hour workday and also calling for a mimimum rate of 25 cents an hour. The act does not apply to domestic or farm laborers or when persons employed are members of the employer's family. A provision annuls any agreement for a lower rate between the employee and employer. The act is attracting unusual attention throughout the Dominion.

GOOD JOCKEYS BADLY NEEDED

With Increased Fields Better Horse Pilots Are Demanded.

HIGH CLASS BOYS SCARCE.

Winter Circuit May Furnish Several Crack Pigskin Artists—Kederis, Who Once Worked In Mine, the Find of the Season.

Unless the winter institutions turn out some new material there will be a scarcity of good jockeys next season. In fact, the dearth of first class horse pilots is causing the owners of thoroughbreds in this country considerable worry. Some years ago there was a wealth of riding material, the large salaries commanded by many pigskin artists acting as an incentive to make many youngsters take up this method of making a livelihood, but racing has been practically dead in several states, and the small salaries being offered have caused a big falling off in the apprentices.

At present there are about five jockeys worthy of mention—Powers, Butwell, Dugan, Nicol and Archibald. Considering that at least twelve first class riders are needed in the east to make good and consistent racing, the number is too limited.

There are about three others who can be called acceptable, Burns, Musgrave and Kederis, the latter being the winter find so far, and it may be he will turn out a first class jockey after this winter's experience. Beyond these seven the possibilities are very slim.

Kederis is a rider who has elevated himself from the coal mines to the saddle. He was discovered in Seattle, Wash., last summer. While racing was in progress he applied for a position in a stable and was so quick to learn that he soon became prominent and was in demand. He is improving every day, so it is claimed by those who are capable of judging.

Archibald, who has been riding for three or four years, is at Juarez, Mexico, but was the star rider in Oakland, Cal., before leaving for Mexico. He has ridden for the last two seasons in Los Angeles and is a capable jockey. He is in about the same class as Butwell and hardly as good as Dugan and Powers. He is not as tricky as Dugan, riding fair and square races without resorting to artifices of the trade. He will be quite an acquisition to the ranks in the east next season if a contract can be procured on his services.

Musgrave is a middle class rider, but he will no doubt do duty on the Canadian circuit, as he is engaged by Mr. Seagram, who rarely races in New York until the Saratoga meeting begins. It may be that Fain and King will develop some ability during their experience in Jacksonville, Fla. Both are lightweights, and a winter will do much for their progress.

Considering that there will be much better horses racing around in New York next season, the jockey question is a momentous one, as the fields will be larger, and bad riders on good horses frequently upset all form and destroy the chances of their mounts.

While there will be plenty of American representatives in the horse world abroad next year, more attention will be paid to the home industry by the more influential owners than was the case last year. Mr. Keene, Mr. Belmont and Mr. Whitney will be better represented, and Mr. Duryea will also have candidates here, though he will possibly spend some of his time abroad. That the sport will be an improvement over last season is assured by the number of entries in stakes and the old owners who are coming back to the turf as well as the new ones who always spring up.

John Drake will have a nice string of youngsters if the dozen he has raised turn out as well as their early trials indicate. They are chiefly by Ort Wells, unquestionably one of the most famous sprinters that were ever foaled.

All things considered, there is a bright sunshine ahead in the turf world.

Brownson to Tackle Baldwin.

Ray Bronson, the Indianapolis lightweight boxer, and Matty Baldwin, the Boston fighter, have been matched to battle forty-five rounds, winner take all, in Indianapolis. The date that has been set for the battle is Feb. 6.

LISTEN TO THE BELLS

The Finest Collection Owned by an Englishwoman.

OF INTEREST TO HOUSEWIVES

Many Lands and Ages Represented In It—Curious Specimens of the Middle Ages—Bells For Shoes Among Them. Ancient and Modern Devices.

An Englishwoman has the finest known collection of hand bells. She has specimens of foreign bells from all over the world, as well as antique British bells.

The bells range in size from an old English pack horse bell, which weighs five pounds, to the tiny bells worn on shoes centuries ago. There is an ecclesiastical bell of very early date with a fleur-de-lis pattern on it.

Other specimens are an apostle bell, which bears the faces and emblems of the evangelists, and two china bells of the Georgian period, one formed of a droll figure in a fool's cap with hunting scenes on the skirt of his gown, the other a spectacled man in tall cap with a very long forefinger touching his chin.

An Elizabethan bell shows a female figure in a Medici collar and a wonderfully fitted bodice with a basque. The bell portion, which forms the skirt, is engraved in a conventional pattern.

There are models far more interesting than the English bells in this collection, which will doubtless some day be placed in an English museum. There are bells from Rome which were found in the Forum. One is of silver, worked in fish scale pattern, and is over a thousand years old; another is also of silver and has on it a representation of Romulus and Remus and the wolf.

There is a bell from a temple near Lassa. It is of copper inlaid with gold and is of great antiquity. A bell from India is of silver latticework and is said to be the only one of its kind in existence. It was found in Benin.

and gold which was one of those used for barter during the French invasion. There is a Medici bell with the crown and balls of the pawnbroker, and there are bells from the tombs of Egyptian kings and from the boudoirs of famous Frenchwomen. There are hundreds and hundreds of bells in this collection gathered by one woman and shown on rare occasions to lovers of the antique, unique and beautiful.

Nursery Tray For Baby.

When the baby first joins the family party at the nursery table he is usually no great stickler for good manners. His pride as sole possessor of a spoon for the first time in his life causes him to brandish it far and wide regardless of the fact that it may not be empty. He also has a way of hammering on the table with it. His control of his cup and saucer, moreover, is purely elementary, and over both go, time after time, to nurse's dire distress and the general detriment of the clean damask cloth. Every one concerned will welcome under these circumstances a special tray, which, clipped upon the table in front of baby, will minimize the sad results of energy and lack of control over his cup and spoon. The tray has actually a ridge and a trough at the edge, is prettily colored and is also pictorially patterned in a way that will gratify baby's sense of the artistic, if not mother's.

FEBRUARY MAGAZINES.

That Suburban Life is a magazine for the whole country; was never illustrated to better advantage than in the February number. The range and variety of the articles and pictorial features are remarkable. The timeliness of many of the articles, also, helps to make this number of particular value to people living in suburban towns and small communities. The leading article is "Motoring on Winter Roads," by Victor W. Page, the well known expert. Alice McGowan, famous for her novels and short stories, writes delightfully of "The Witchery of a California Garden," while Mabel Osgood Wright begins her new "Commuter's Wife" series with the first chapter of "Barbara's Perplexity Book." J. Horace McFarland tells how new life is put into old trees, and William S. Sadler, M. D., author of "The Science of Living," contributes an illuminating paper, entitled "The Suburban and the City Child."

Everybody's for February, through the agency of Richard Washburn Child attempts an analysis of Schedule "K." This is the tariff section that deals with wool. The conclusions are that this schedule is cleverly drawn to fool the sheep-raiser, discourage the small independent manufacturer, and make the average American wear poor clothing at high prices. In "All Aboard for Bombay" E. Alexander Powell tells of the intrigues of Russia, Germany and Great Britain to gain control of Persia with the odds in favor of the relentless, tireless Russian bear. "The Beauty of Lincoln," by Gutzon Borglum, is the latest and newest view of the martyred president. Judge Lindsey's autobiography grows in intensity of feeling and interest. If the Denver financiers have already felt impelled to institute libel suits on past issues, the present instalment surely will set their legal departments to working overtime. There is a run of excellent fiction with a mixture of fun, romance and adventure.

The Promenade Stopped.

Captain Deering, when he was in command of a steamer running from Portland to St. John, was once unable to sleep on account of the ceaseless tramp-tramp of some star gazing passenger on the hurricane deck overhead. After turning and twisting in his berth for half an hour and the tramping still continuing, Captain Deering, enraged at the loss of his sleep, rushed out in his night shirt and climbed the ladder to the hurricane deck.

The promenading passenger was frightened half out of his wits by the specter in white climbing up the ladder, but was somewhat reassured when the specter bawled out:

"Say, you; where are you going?"

"To St. John," replied the promenader.

"Got a ticket?" pursued the ghost.

"Of course I have."

"Well, then, you confounded fool, go and lie down somewhere. You needn't walk all the way to St. John!" roared the enraged Deering, and the promenader stopped right there.

Cocoanut Cream Candy.

Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan, add one-half cup of milk and a cup and a half of sugar. Heat to the boiling point and cook twelve minutes, taking care that it does not burn. Push back on the stove, add one-third cup of shredded cocoanut and half a teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat until the mixture is creamy, pour into a buttered pan, cool and mark into squares.

HEBREW PEOPLE GIVE GRAND BALL

The Annual Event of Pride of Quincy Lodge Held at Quincy Music Hall.

Mayor Shea and Councilman Flynn Were Guests of Honor.

The third annual concert and ball of Pride of Quincy lodge, I. O. B. A., the leading Hebrew society of the city, was held Tuesday evening at Music hall and was very largely attended. It also proved to be a very enjoyable affair, the participants including many guests from out of town.

From 8 to 9 o'clock there was a promenade concert by Wilson's orchestra their selections including the following:

March, "Greeting" Reeves
Overture, "Ernani" Verdi
Duet, Miserere Trovatore Verdi
Cornet and Trombone
Concert Waltz, "Ange, D' Amous" Waldtenful
Selection, "Cruso" Gus Edwards
Xylophone Solo, "On Time" Josephs
Gerald A. Sullivan
Finale, "Friendship" Losey

The grand march which opened the ball was started promptly at 9 o'clock and was under the direction of Elmer Baker. It was a very pretty affair and was led by B. Sussman, chairman of the committee having the affair in charge, and Mrs. Sussman. Next in order was Mayor William T. Shea and Miss Agnes Warshaw. Following them were several members of the committee and officers of the society with their ladies. Just an even fifty couples participated in the march which ended with a circle.

His Honor arrived at the hall a few minutes before the march was started, and as he entered the orchestra played "Hail to the Chief." There was also prolonged applause from the dancers assembled. In addition to those who took part in the march, the balcony was crowded with spectators. Most of these took an active part in the festivities after the march when general dancing was in order. Once in motion there was but little interruption in the dancing until midnight, at which time refreshments were served in the annex. The only other city official present aside from the Mayor was Councilman William H. Flynn who was a special guest.

COUNCILMAN FLYNN.

The several committees in charge of the affair were:

Ball committee—I. Sussman, J. Berman, J. Szathmary, I. Cutler, H. Grabowsky J. Grossman and H. Edelstein.

Committee of Arrangements—J. Berman. I. Shane, I. Shangold and J. Grossman.

The officers of Pride of Quincy lodge are:

ACCIDENT TO QUARRYMEN

Peter Mattson Struck by Boom at Swingle Quarry

Peter Mattson, a quarryman employed at the quarry of J. S. Swingle, was seriously if not fatally injured Tuesday afternoon shortly before the quarry shut down for the day. He was at work near the big power derrick when the boom swung round and the block struck him a savage blow in the back of the head, fracturing the base of the skull. Dr. McLellan was called, and after rendering first aid, the police ambulance was called and the man removed to the City Hospital. He is very seriously injured and doubts are expressed for his recovery. Mr. Mattson was about 25 years of age and resided at 24 Arthur street.

CROSSCUP COMMODORE

Owner of Corneta at Head of Wollaston Yacht Club.

A largely attended meeting of the Wollaston Yacht club was held Tuesday evening in Wollaston hall, and the year 1910 promises to be even more successful than 1909, which was the banner year from a boating standpoint. Dr. F. E. Dawes made good as commodore, and his successor is Louis E. Crosscup, the owner of the Corneta, one of the largest sloops in the fleet, and an enthusiastic yachtsman. Reports were received from the different officers and committees.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Commodore—Louis E. Crosscup.
Vice Commodore—Frank F. Taylor.
Secretary—Arthur N. Potterton.
Treasurer—Arthur B. Cassidy.
Member of Executive Committee for three years—George D. Elmer.

There was a general discussion of the affairs of the club. A special committee will make an effort to increase the membership during the year.

The new commodore has been a member of the club about seven years, and has served acceptably as vice commodore. Mr. Taylor, the new vice commodore, is owner of the yacht Leda.

It was voted to hold a banquet in April or May.

HAVE A GOOD TIME LIQUIDATING DEBT

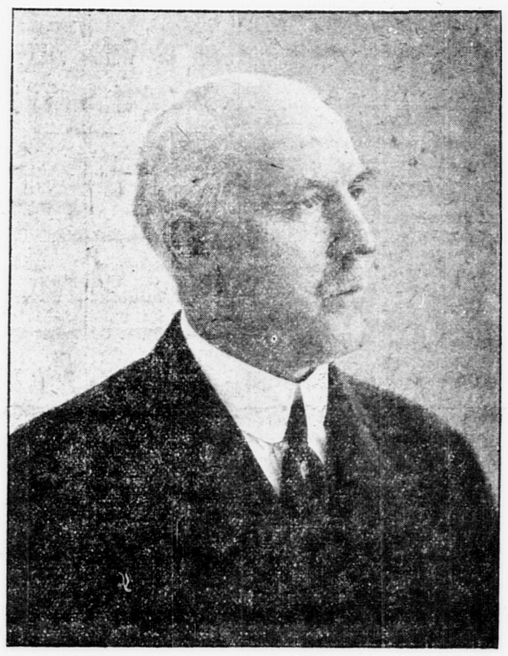

Very Successful and Enjoyable Reunion of St. Mary's Parish of West Quincy.

Mayor Shea at Head of the Reception Committee.

The annual reunion of St. Mary's parish of West Quincy, one of the earliest Catholic churches in the archdiocese of Boston was held at St. Mary's hall Tuesday evening, and was a pronounced success from start to finish. Not only was it a reunion of the parish, but it afforded the parishioners of the church an opportunity to meet their beloved pastor, Rev. Henry T. Grady and his assistant Rev. William J. Duffy in a social manner, and none of the hundreds present were more happy than were these two priests as they circulated about among the parishioners of the church exchanging a word of greeting with all.

St. Mary's hall has held many large audiences but never in its history were there as many as on this occasion, and it is self evident that the hall is altogether too small for such gatherings. During the early part of the evening it was next to impossible to move about, but after the entertainment many of the older parishioners returned to their homes, so that those who remained for the dancing had more room.

The entertainment was in charge of Miss Mary E. McKay, organist of St. Mary's church, and was very entertaining. It opened with a selection by Joyce's orchestra, after which there was a moving picture show of the parade and inauguration of President Taft at Washington last March. So realistic were the pictures that it needed but a little stretch of imagination on the part of the audience to imagine that they were viewing the ceremonies from one of the reviewing stands. Many of the pictures were loudly applauded, but when the carriage containing President Taft appeared the applause was almost deafening. This part of the program was therefore highly entertaining.

MAYOR SHEA.

JAMES F. BURKE.

In addition to the moving pictures there was selections by a quartet composed of Thomas Joyce, John Hoye, Joseph Morrissette and Joseph Daly; vocal solos by Miss Annie Morissette, John Hoye and fancy dancing by Thomas Joyce, James McDonnell, Jr., and Archie Shannon.

After the entertainment there was general dancing until 2 o'clock.

Mayor Shea and Miss Shea lead the march which opened the dancing followed by Mr. and Mrs. James F. Burke and upwards of one hundred couples. Refreshments were served in the lower hall.

In addition to Rev. Fr. Grady and Rev. Fr. Duffy of St. Mary's church, Rev. J. P. Cuff of the Church of the Sacret Heart of Atlantic was persent. There were also a number of guests present from out of town, particularly Chelsea where Fr. Grady was located previous to his coming to Quincy, and where he is still held in high esteem by the people.

While the gathering had for its primary object a reunion of the parishioners of the church, it was also to help liquidate the mortgage on the new church and to provide funds to complete the handsome new edifice on Crescent street commenced at the time Rev. A. F. Roche was the pastor of the parish.

The success of the affair is due to the untiring efforts of a large committee headed by ex-representative James F. Burke.

Mayor William T. Shea was the chairman of the reception committee and looked carefully after the wants of the guests of the evening. He was assisted by a large committee among whom were: James L. Fennesey, Eugene Shyne, Robert J. Teasdale, James H. Elcock, Dr. John H. Ash, John Vogel, John Kane, Dr. John T. Reynolds, Stephen B. Little, James M. Councilman John D. Smith was the floor director and he was assisted by a large corps of aids including: Joseph McNeiley, James M. Flaherty, Charles Morrill, Joseph McPherson, Councilman John J. McDevitt and Harry T. Boyd, Edward Monahan, John Burke, John W. Burke, Jr., Michael Riley, Walter Barry, Dr. John T. Reynolds, Dr. John H. PUT UNDER BONDS.

William Hanrahan of Houghs Neck, who was in court a week ago for assault on Victor J. Jarvis, was arraigned again this morning, when he was fined on the first complaint, and put under bonds to keep the peace for three months. Last week, Tuesday, Hanrahan went to Boston and came home much the worse for liquor. Arriving at Houghs Neck he met Jarvis against whom he had some grudge, and drawing a knife threatened to do him bodily harm. He chased him over the beach until Jarvis took refuge in a barber shop. A little later, Officer Phillips found Hanrahan wandering about the beach, minus a hat, and locked him up for safe keeping.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Anyway, the English peers have the satisfaction of knowing that they made the other side fight for their victory.

The Ohio river bids fair to recall the good old days of Noah before many weeks pass.

Mr. Bryan is the one man in the country's history who has developed the possibilities of presidential candidacy as a profession.

If Mr. Roosevelt ever is elected Speaker of the House of Representatives, they will have to be good on Capitol Hill or he will know why.

Another American heiress has married her chauffeur. And yet there are pessimists who say a poor man has no chance in this country nowadays.

England is now mad about "rinking." The roller skating craze, like everything else, arrives in dear old England about five years late.

We do not care particularly about "light being thrown on the cost of living." We see it too clearly as it is.

A Chicago preacher argues that woman holds the key to the universe. Perhaps she does. And she frequently leaves it under the front door mat, for thieves to get in.

Justice won another brilliant and pitiless victory in the case of John R. Walsh—a seventy-two year old victim, who has just learned that honesty is the best policy.

The big financial interests care nothing about political parties; what they want is men. The people, in choosing their representatives, should be as independent and courageous in the selection of the best as the interests are sordid in choosing the worst.

Don't get discouraged if meat prices continue high for Luther Burbank, the plant wizard says this will give him the opportunity to educate the public so that it will not only eat cactus but like it better than meat. He has cactus served on his table boiled as greens, fried like eggplant, as a salad, frittered or sweet pickled. Think of the variety but how are we New Englanders going to get the cactus?

John B. Lewis of Boston, national patriotic instructor of the G. A. R. has got the right idea and it is to be hoped it will work out to his satisfaction ere many months have passed. In a letter sent to 2,000 Confederate veterans he says: "I believe that the time and sentiment is ripe for a law in every state to have the flag float over or at each schoolhouse. As a staff official of the Grand Army of the Republican, I am writing to know if you will use your influence to have a law of this kind passed in your state, for I believe that the initiative for such a law had best come from one who wore the gray, and such a course would do much to do away with any prejudice that might be left in any mind. I am glad to belive that there is very little North or South."

Capt. Robert A. Bartlett of Peary's ship the Roosevelt who is coming to Quincy to lecture on Feb. 10 will have an interesting story to tell. At a dinner given him the other night by the Boston City club previous to his lecture, Representative White said of him "A sincere, true man without frills or ruffles. He always led Peary. He broke the way until, when within 125 miles of the pole, he was told to turn back. Peary would have found no pole in my judgment if that little man had not broken the way." The big auditorium of the Boston City club was crowded with 700 members, who applauded and laughed almost continuously while Capt. Bartlett told his story of adventures in the far North. Quincy is certainly lucky in having the opportunity to meet and hear this intrepid traveler.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Are American people organized to death? That is the belief of one of our contemporaries. The habit of joining some organization is very strong in some minds. We have people in our own city who, if they should attend every meeting of the societies to which they belong, would have time for nothing else. In Boston there are 1,400 organizations of all kinds, and in Lynn there are 361, not counting a good many others that have not got their names in the directory. Men, and women, too, are always getting up something new, to accomplish something that the promoters believe of immense value to themselves and others. They believe, with Webster, that in union there is strength, and so they are ever ready to unite. The passion for joining societies may induce people to overdo the work of organization. They may be induced to join so many that their strength is shattered, if not exhausted, and their money needlessly expended. There was about as much charity, for instance, in the olden time, before so many charitable organizations were formed, as there is today, and the wants of the needy were fully as well cared for. However, the gregarious instincts of the people of today are so strongly developed that it is useless to declaim against organization.—Lynn Item.

Long-continued and widespread popular discontent over the disappearance of railroad time tables from the newspapers has found expression in the recommendation of the public service commission of the second New York district that the Legislature pass a law that shall have the effect of compelling the railroads to resume this kind of publication. To number those who are daily inconvenienced by the absence of the time tables from the newspapers by the thousand would be no exaggeration. Through a custom which had been followed for years the public had fallen into the habit of consulting these tables whenever information concerning the movements of trains was needed, and their omission is now regarded as a deprivation. The statement of the public service commission alluded to, that "no better means of making information readily accessible at all times and to all people has ever been discovered than the local newspapers, which can always be found in every house and every place of business," will pass undisputed, and the commission's conclusion, after going over the matter very carefully that requirement of the publication of the time tables is wholly reasonable, will meet with general concurrence.—Christian Science Monitor.

CRIMINAL LIBEL FOUND

Verdict Against a Newspaper, Its Editor, and An Evangelist

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 2.—For the first time in 126 years in the Middlesex county courts a verdict charging criminal libel was found in the superior court in the case of Mayor John M. Woods of Somerville against the Somerville Sun, George H. Pratt, its publisher, and Rev. E. E. Baylis, an evangelist. The statements of which the libel consisted charged Woods with aiding and abetting violations of the liquor law.

The Somerville Sun was found guilty on two counts, Pratt on two counts and Baylis on one count. It was claimed that two articles were written by Baylis on Dec. 10 and 13 of last year, and that they were published in the Somerville Sun of those dates.

GOT BUSY WITH HOSE

Mill Fire Company Gives Strikers and Their Families a Drenching

Providence, Feb. 2.—Seventy striking Polish weavers, accompanied by their wives and children, were given a drenching by the mill fire hose company at the Tilton mills in Valley Falls when they attempted to prevent strike-breakers from taking their places.

The strike-breakers were jeered and shouted at when they started toward the mill gates. No violence was done by the strikers, but threats filled the air. At this juncture the mill fire company began its work, and the strikers speedily retired.

INQUIRY INTO HIGH PRICES

Leaders of Both Parties Favor a Thorough Probe

Washington, Feb. 2.—Sentiment in the house is divided over the Boutell-McCall plan of an investigation of the cost of living by the ways and means committee. Some of the insurgent element talk of opposing the resolution on the ground that the resolution would be conducted by a prejudiced body, as far as the tariff is concerned, and in addition to the expense it would be useless, as the people would refuse to accept the findings of the body which is primarily responsible for the present tariff rates.

A little inquiry at the Capitol discloses, however, that the scheme to use the ways and means committee has a deeper political purpose than appears on the surface. The motion for an investigation was supported unanimously in the committee, by Democrats and Republicans alike. It is asserted by Republicans that an investigation by the committee would disclose that the tariff has nothing to do with prevailing high prices, thus a report to this effect, signed by the Democrats of the ways and means committee, would eliminate this phase of the tariff situation as an issue in the fall campaigns, notably in Massachusetts.

Late yesterday Representative Payne of New York, chairman of that committee and majority leader in the house, introduced his resolution providing for an investigation along the broadest lines.

Prior to announcing his measure, Payne conferred with Representative Champ Clark, the minority leader, who had been designated with him by the committee to draft the instrument authorizing the investigation.

The committee is to inquire into any alleged increase in the cost of the necessaries of life, some of which, such as clothing, fuel, furniture, meats and foodstuffs, are enumerated. Wholesale and retail prices and rates of profit are to be investigated. The question whether the tariff is responsible for the alleged high cost of living is covered in a general provision as to "whether prices are affected, increased or otherwise, by any laws of the United States."

The hearings of the committee will be open to the public. The committee may sit anywhere in the United States and summon and swear witnesses.

The resolution will be referred to the ways and means committee and doubtless reported back for passage.

President Taft and the leaders of the Republican party are in favor of a thorough and exhaustive investigation, and the ways and means committee has determined that it shall assume the task of making a full inquiry into the whole matter.

The matter was brought up in committee by Representative McCall (Mass.), who said he thought the country was entitled to know what caused the great increase in the cost of food, clothing and other necessaries of life.

It was suggested that the ways and means committee, because of the recent exhaustive tariff inquiries, was already in possession of a vast amount of information bearing upon the subject and that committee was consequently in a better position than any other body to undertake the work.

PRINTING POSTAL CARDS

Work Is Undertaken by Government For the First Time

Washington, Feb. 2.—An innovation was instituted today by the government, when, for the first time in the history of the country, Uncle Sam begun printing his own postal cards at the government printing office.

Until all of the new presses are installed, the issue will be approximately 1,500,000 a day; afterwards it will aggregate 3,500,000 a day.

As soon as the special equipment for printing has been established a new card, to be known as the index or library card, will be issued.

No "Day Off" For Cops

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 2.—On the grounds that the board of aldermen had no authority to pass an order granting the police of this city one day off in fifteen, Mayor Brooks last night sent his veto of the order to the board.

Brokerage Firm Indicted

New York, Feb. 2.—Seven indictments charging grand larceny were filed by the grand jury against the defunct brokerage firm of Tracey & Co., who failed for $1,500,000.

Dr. Cook Is Not Wanted

Mannheim, Baden, Feb. 2.—The report that the American consul has demanded the extradition of Dr. Frederick A. Cook is false.

LOMBARD'S FORGED NOTES

Cummings' Counsel Declares That He Made Away With Them

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 2.—Charles S. Cummings, the Boston note broker who is on trial charged with uttering and larceny in connection with a forged note of the town of Framingham, occupied the witness stand in his own behalf yesterday.

Cummings denied portions of the testimony given by former Town Treasurer Lombard, who is also under indictment.

When asked if he had any of the notes in his possession, Cummings stated that he had turned them all over to his attorney, Henry C. Long. The latter explained to the court that he had destroyed them recently, without Cummings' knowledge, after he had learned that they were valueless.

INAUGURATION OF SANFORD

He Formally Assumes the Presidency of Clark College

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 2.—Dr. Edmund C. Sanford was formally installed as president of Clark college. The exercises were held in the large college gymnasium, which had been elaborately decorated for the occasion with scarlet and white, the college colors.

The inaugural procession formed under the direction of Chief Marshal Hawkins. A. G. Bullock, president of the board of trustees, delivered the address of induction. He formally declared Sanford elected to the presidency of the college, and Sanford in a brief response declared his acceptance.

SOCIETY WOMEN IN A BITTER QUARREL

One of Four Forced Court Martial of Paymaster Auld

Boston, Feb. 2.—Four women, two arrayed against another two, unsparing of each other, direct in answer and unwavering before the direct questions that were hurled at them by the blunt officers of the navy, formed the feature of the court martial proceedings at the Charlestown navy yard yesterday, which is determining the guilt of Paymaster Auld, accused of assaulting Dr. Cowles at a navy yard dance.

Mrs. Florence Cowles, wife of the Boston doctor, who started the proceedings, and Miss Marguerite Ames, daughter of Dr. Howard Ames, were no more clear and unmerciful in their deprecations over the conduct of the accused officer than were Miss Dorothy Hesler and Miss Virginia Swift in his defense.

"A woman can always get more at Washington than a man can," the startlingly lucid remark of Mrs. Cowles, told the whole story of the case. She declared that she went to Washington and with Senator Lodge's aid forced Secretary Meyer to take action.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

Man Born In Gotham In 1824 Never Outside City Limits

New York, Feb. 2.—Living for eighty-six years in the house in which he was born, at 238 Elizabeth street, where he died of pleurisy after three days' illness, Richard Lee, who assisted in erecting the courthouse in City Hall park, which was built during the regime of "Boss" Tweed, was proud of the distinction of not having missed mass for eighty-five years, until last Saturday, when he was stricken. He had never been outside the city limits of New York.

At the time of Lee's birth, July 12, 1824, New York was a city of 123,000 population, or about the same size as the Worcester, Mass., of today.

SEVENTY-NINE DEAD

Cause of Disaster In Colorado Mine Has Not Yet Been Ascertained

Primero, Col., Feb. 2.—The lives of seventy-nine miners were snuffed out by the explosion in the main slope of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company's mine, and the bodies of forty victims lie in a temporary morgue. Hundreds of people are lingering about the mouth of the shaft awaiting the recovery of more bodies.

The cause of the disaster is unknown and definite information in this respect is not expected until the mine is completely cleared and an investigation completed.

To Keep Up Price of Milk

Portsmouth, N. H., Feb. 2.—The Portsmouth branch of the Boston Cooperative Milk Producers' association was organized here. It was voted that the winter price of milk of 37 cents per can of 8½ quarts be maintained through the summer.

Fire Destroys Old Landmarks

Bucksport, Me., Feb. 2.—Bucksport's century-old town hall and Torcent engine house adjoining were destroyed by fire. Both structures were familiar landmarks to summer visitors. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

Woman Held on Murder Charge

Boston, Feb. 2.—Florence Mosely, a negress, 28 years old, was held without bail to answer a charge of murder in causing the death of John Young, a negro, who was stabbed.

COUNTY EXPENSES

Appointments Made by County Commissioners

The Norfolk County Commissioners have made these appointments for 1910:

Janitor of county buildings, John E. Drummond.

Chaplain, Rev. Edward W. Virgin.

County police, Bennett Wilson, J. E. Drummond, Owen J. Reynolds, all of Dedham, and William M. Marden of Quincy; county dog officers, E. Lawrence Payne of Randolph.

The report of County Treasurer Humphrey shows that the expenditures of Norfolk county for the year were $379,644.13, leaving a balance of $37 345.66 in the treasury. The expenditures included: $36,375.09 for salaries and expenses of district courts, $15,236.05 for criminal costs of Superior court, $34,461.85 for care and support of prisoners, $23,036.34 for clerical assistance in county offices, $18,142.00 for salaries of county officers $18,340.96 for civil expenses of Supreme and Superior courts, $21,881.01 for care and supplies for County buildings other than jail, $29,841.59 for highways and land damages, $21,559.49 for other damages, and also smaller items.

The receipts of the year include $18,857.21 from labor of prisoners, $15,776.02 in fees at office of registry of deeds, $205,000.00 in taxes, and other items.

The balance of the bonded debt of the county is now $231,382.98 for the new registry at Dedham, on which $20,000 will be paid annually.

CLOSE TO A TRAGEDY

Girl Alleged to Have Tried to Destroy Sight of Her Lover

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 2.—A love quarrel between Gertrude Bell, 18 years old, and Raymond Gammons, 20 years old, may be aired in court as the result of an alleged attempt on the young woman's part to destroy the youth's eyesight.

According to Gammons, the girl hurled some acid into his face, but he succeeded in protecting his eyes with his hands. His face was severely burned, while the backs of his gloves were scorched and seared.

Following the affair the girl ran to her home and, according to her mother, drank some poison. Her mother saw the act and summoned a doctor, who worked over the girl three hours and managed to bring her out of danger.

TENTH BIENNIAL.

The tenth biennial of the General Federation of Women's clubs will be held at Cincinnati May 11-18. Many clubs not affiliated with the national federation are asking the advantages in becoming a member and what results come from a body of federated club women. Mrs. Philip Carpenter, president of New York Sorosis explains this question by stating in part:

"The primal idea of all society is federation, which is a uniting together a joining of forces for purposes of mutual benefit. It seems very unnecessary to defend federation when the whole system of life depends on it. Surely people who ask what is the use of federation should remember the history of the races or of the nations. There is no need to tell you what the General Federation is—of its careful organization, its responsible officers, its executive board of 15 from 15 different states, each board member representing the interest of her own and two or more of the neighboring states so that every state in the union has an advocate on that board. The chairmen of the various departments of the General Federation work and their committee members represent every state in the union. The membership of the General federation includes all of the state organizations and innumerable clubs, large and small each with a vote and a right to the floor. See what at magnificent body of organized workers such a federation is—800,000 thoughtful women.

"Federation saves time, effort and bitter experience.

'Federation broadens views and induces growth.

"Federation brings power.

"Federation stirs interest, creates enthusiasm, gives inspiration.

"Federation works through its inspiration, its impetus for good, its development germ. It is a work upon itself, a work that aims to inspire each delegate to be a lump of new leaven in her club. If she gets her bit of a cup full of yeast at the state convention (and if she can get a cupful there let her come to the Cincinnati convention and get a bowlful she will go home and work up her whole club, until it rises in its might and does some splendid work, it would not otherwise have done."

EXEMPT FROM TAXATION.

A recent decision may be of interest to the Brackett Trust and to the Quincy Women's club, which leases the Brackett house of the Trust for club work which is almost entirely charitable.

The decision was as follows: The Molly Varnum chapter D. A. R. vs. the city of Lowell sued to recover $46 paid in taxes on the Spalding house in Lowell, which it bought from funds raised by dues and contributions.

The society claimed exemption from taxation on its real estate under the act exempting literary or benevolent institutions.

The court says:

"The purposes described in the plaintiff's charter are neither contrary to law nor opposed to morality. It has aided in the relief of the destitute, made gifts to the public schools, assisted in the establishment of a public library and in the maintenance of a boys' club for industrial work and a sewing class for girls.

"The plaintiff also contributed money for the promotion of historical research, the preservation of historical sites and has inclucated patriotism by perpetuating the memory of men and women who were instrumental in achieveing our independence.

"If the means employed are somewhat diversified and elaborate, the ends served are wholly beneficial to the community. The diffusion of knowledge, the relief of the poor, the fostering of love of country and of respect for our civil institutions all tend to raise the standard and improve the quality of citizenship and not only relieve the burdens of government but advance the public good.

"The gratuitious benefit thus conferred serve only charitable purposes and entitled the plaintiff to the statutory exemption."

GIVE CHILDREN A CHANCE.

The Education committee of the Quincy Women's club is endeavoring to impress upon the citizens generally and the "City Fathers" in particular the desirability of more bath-houses, more play-grounds and more children's gardens.

If the pupils in our schools could spend the morning hours, during the summer vacation, working in a garden raising vegetables for the family table and flowers for the home, then have a turn in a playground with a portion of the day spent in bathing, they would derive benefits from such exercises and diversities that would be almost incalculable, both from a physical and an intellectual point of view.

In the past the ladies of the Education committee have been able to raise enough money to conduct summer schools on a small scale. The results obtained have been such as to justify them in desiring to enlarge the scope of the work, so as to reach all school children in the city. To do this financial assistance is required ,and they are planning to bring the matter to the attention of the Mayor and Council with a view to having an appropriation made for the work.

The Civic League of Boston has sent to the Education committee the following poem from the pen of the well beloved sociologist, the Hon. Denis A. McCarthy:

GIVE THEM A CHANCE TO PLAY.

Plenty of room for dives and dens (glitter and glare and sin)
Plenty of room for prison pens (gather the criminals in)
Plenty of room for jails and courts (willing enough to pay)
But never a place for the lads to race,—no never a place to play.

Plenty of room for shops and stores (Mammon must have the best)
Plenty of room for the running sores that rot on the city's breast
Plenty of room for lures that lead the hearts of our youth astray
But never a cent on playgrounds spent,—no, never a place to play.

Plenty of room for schools and halls, plenty of room for art
Plenty of room for teas and balls, platform, stage and mart.
Proud is the city—she finds a place for many a fad today
But she's more than blind if she fails to find a place for the boys to play.

Give them a chance for innocent sport, give them a chance for fun
Better a playground plot than a court and a jail when the harm is done
Give them a chance,—if you stint them now, tomorrow you'll have to pay
A larger bill for darker ill; so give them a place to play.

STATE FEDERATION MEEAING.

Not only Massachusetts club women but club presidents from the New England states attended the meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs at Park Street church, Boston on Tuesday. The morning session was devoted to business and reports of state presidents. The House bill that children between 14 and 16 shall not be employed in factories, workshops or mercantile establishments unless granted certificates from the school physicians that they are physically able to perform the work; the House bill that children in cities of over 50,000 population who engage in street trades must be licensed by the school committee; and the Senate bill, introduced by the Women's Municipal League, authorizing the State Board of Health, in conjunction with the dairy board, to make regulations regarding the production transportation and sale of milk.

The federation also indorsed the children's bureau bill, which will be introduced in Congress. It provides for the collection and dissemination of information affecting the welfare of children and the investigation of physical degeneracy, orphanage, juvenile deliquency and desertion.

The speaker of the afternoon was ex-Governor Guild who gave a most enteresting address. Mr. Guild said in part: You are much interested in high prices. Did you ever think that high retail prices are in part caused by the increasing cost of the wooden box in which fruit, vegetables, fish, game and even textiles are brought to market? Five and one-half millions of dollars were paid last year for the mere materials for boxes and crates in Massachusetts alone.

The prime need of forest conservation is the assurance of water supply. A second advantage is the necessity of a conservation of a timber supply. The wood working industries of Massachusetts (one of the smallest States in the Union and very far from the top as a manufacturer of wood) require 549,319,644 feet of wood, board measure, every year.

Yet the forest does more than conserve soil and water and furnish wood. It equalizes climate. There may be cold and storm but there are no blizzards in a wooded country. There may be need for cyclone cellars in Kansas—there is none in Maine.

The human race began in a wood and it is by no accident that the word heathen means literally an inhabitant of treeless wastes. It is no accident that one of the oldest forms of religion in the world is the worship of trees.

Save the trees! They save the water that drains the land of impurities and gives it life and fertility. They furnish a crop of timber that in one European town after another pays the entire expense of local government and exempts the people, to that extent, from taxes.

Mr. Guild then went into the merits of New England fruit and in telling why there is no need for the people of this section to import apples from Oregon or anywhere else, he used as illustrations some fine varieties of the native product, which lay heaped on the pulpit platform. He also declared that more attention should be devoted to propagating lobsters and clams on the immediate shores of New England.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

The annual meeting of Unity circle, King's Daughters, was held Tuesday evening. The regular monthly business meeting at 5 o'clock was followed by a supper at 6.30. It proved to be one of the best ever given by the King's Daughters and was under the efficient management of Mrs. S. I. Wood and a corps of competent helpers.

The decorations were arranged by Flower committee, Mrs. F. E. Crane, chairman. The color scheme was red and the tables with their red shaded candles and bouquets of red carnations presented an attractive picture. The napkins were kindly given by Mr. Patterson, the florist.

Mrs. W. E. Blanchard presided at the supper, and called upon the following ladies to respond to toasts, all of which were pleasingly given. Mrs. John F. Welch responded to the toast "Our pastor"; Mrs. Geo. L. Badger, "Our state officers"; Mrs. V. E. Miller, "Our husbands' and "Gentlemen cousins"; Mrs. Frances Abele "Our retiring officers and leaders"; Mrs. H. Everett Crane, "Our juniors."

The evening service at 7.45 was held in the chapel, which was appropriately decorated with the King's Daughters' colors. Miss Susan Brokenshire, State treasurer, conducted the devotional exercises and the impressive King's Daughters' service was given to fifteen new members by Mrs. M. W. Farley, State secretary, assisted by Miss Brokenshire.

The annual report of the secretary of the circle showed that much work had been done both at home and abroad In His Name.

The treasurer's report stated that $629.50 had been expended in charities during the year. A fine musical program, arranged by Mrs. Tirrell of the Music ten was given which included songs by Mrs. Emma Schufeldt Moore and Miss Alice Gertrude Coe, and solos by Miss Marion Moorehouse cellist. The program was as follows:

"Times Roses" Barry
"Celiste"
Mrs. Moore
"Cradle Song" Godard
Miss Moorehouse
"Sing On" Denza
Miss Coe
"Alla Polacco" Gottermann
Miss Moorehouse

All of the numbers were heartily encored.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Leader—Mrs. W. E. Blanchard.

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD BREAD RECIPE

ONE TABLESPOONFUL of shortening, one level tablespoonful salt, one-third cup sugar. Add one pint scalding water, then add another pint of cold water. Let stand until lukewarm and add one yeast cake. STIR "WINGOLD" FLOUR into this with a spoon until it becomes as thick as you can possibly stir it. DO NOT KNEAD IT, as this is all the mixing it requires.
After Sponge has risen, KNEAD DOWN and let rise again. Then place on board, mold into loaves, and place in pans. Let rise until level with top of pan. Bake in moderate oven.
This recipe insures four perfect loaves.
N. B.—Bread made with water keeps moist longer than if made with milk.
"WINGOLD" is the finest flour sold anywhere at any price.
Grocers say the demand for "WINGOLD" is steadily increasing.

THROUGH CARS TO BOSTON
City of Boston Completes Work on Neponset Bridge

It will be good news to the travelling public, to learn that after a long wait that has extended over the whole winter, the repairs to the draw of the Neponset bridge have been completed, and today for the first time, street cars passed over it and the through line to Dudley street is again in operation.

The draw of the bridge was declared unsafe by the city engineer of Boston early last fall, and part of it was immediately fenced off, leaving a narrow space over which the street cars passed. After a long wait the City of Boston made an appropriation to build a new draw, but it was several weeks after this appropriation was made before work was commenced. When the workmen did at last commence work the draw was closed to street car travel.

It was then said that the job would be completed in two or three weeks but as a matter of fact it has taken about as many months. The old draw was completely removed and the wooden trusses of the draw replaced with steel trusses. In fact an entire new hoisting apparatus was installed, so that today the draw is not only flat, but able to withstand any load that a team can carry.

The closing of the draw to street cars has been a sore trial to street car patrons, especially during the stormy and cold days and nights, although in stormy weather the street railway company had a car at the draw for a waiting room. The troubles are over now, however, as through service has been resumed.

Tenor (singing)—"O, 'appy, 'appy, 'appy be thy dreams—"
Professor—"Stop, stop! Why don't you sound the H?"
Tenor—"I don't go no 'igher than G!"—London Punch.

Good Friends.

"Yvonne, have you been each day to inquire after poor Mme. Trinquefort since her dreadful accident?"
"Yes, madame."
"That's good. Keep on going."

BRIEFS.

Candlemas day.

High school notes tomorrow.

The ground hog saw his shadow all right today if he made his appearance.

Tomorrow the sun will set at 5 o'clock.

Next Wednesday will be Ash Wednesday the beginning of Lent.

Tickets are now on sale at Quincy and Wollaston for the illustrated lecture of Capt. Bartlett, who accompanied Peary to the North Pole.

Elliot club of Wollaston has a "Miscellaneous" meeting on Feb. 9 with Mrs. Walter E. Simmons and the entertainment is in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Simmons.

The Sunday evening meeting of the Wollaston Y. P. R. U. will be held as usual in the Unitarian vestry with Japan as the subject, which will be illustrated by the stereopticon. Miss Gertrude Lacey is leader for meeting and Dr. Harris Kennedy the speaker.

At Least Ten Killed by Explosion

Drakesboro, Ky., Feb. 2.—Ten men are known to be dead and seventeen others missing and are presumed to be penned up in entries by falls of slate, as a result of a gas explosion in the Browder mine.

Smallpox Appears at Brockton

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 2.—Four cases of smallpox discovered in this city have been placed in quarantine by the board of health and a searching inquiry instituted to avert an epidemic.

—It costs on an average about $250 to cure an incipient consumptive or to care for an advanced case until death. If he is left in destitute circumstances without proper attention, he will surely infect with his disease at least two other persons, and possibly many more. Considering that the average life is worth to society in dollars and cents, about $1,500, the net loss which would accrue to a community by not treating its poor consumptives in proper institutions would be for each case, including those who are unnecessarily infected, at the very lowest figure, $4,250. On this basis, if the poor consumptives in the United States who are now sick were segregated from their families, and either kept in institutions until they died, or else cured of their disease, the saving to the country would be the enormous sum of $1,275,000,000.

LAWYER NAMES MRS. GLOVER

Says She Set About to Dispose of Her Wealthy Husband

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 2.—The allegations made by Attorney Scott, representing those who appear at the probate court here against the allowance of the will of Clarence F. Glover, have caused a sensation which will be further enhanced today through the appearance in court as a witness of Hattie Le Blanc, the French maid under indictment for his murder.

Attorney Scott intimated in open court that there was a conspiracy on the part of Lillian M. Glover, wife of the murdered man—that she set about to bring the will in her favor—that she afterward set about to dispose of him, so that she could get the property. "She had a fellow conspirator," the attorney declared.

The lawyer, after making these statements, said that he was not ready just yet to name these persons, as he was not fully prepared to disclose offhand who they were. It was agreed that he should name them today.

The charge was made during Scott's argument advocating the granting of a writ of habeas corpus that Hattie Le Blanc might be brought from jail to testify at the will hearing now going on before Judge McIntyre. The writ was granted, and the Le Blanc girl will be produced in court this afternoon.

Samuel D. Elmore, executor of the will, was cross-examined by Scott during the brief session. Particular attention was paid to bringing out the fact that Mrs. Glover and the witness were the only occupants of one carriage at the Glover funeral, but the purpose of this inquiry was not disclosed.

Hattie Le Blanc will be brought from her cell at the East Cambridge jail today, and her interests will be closely guarded by Attorney Johnson when she gives testimony, so that her own case may not be jeopardized.

It is looked upon as certain that Mrs. Glover will take the stand this afternoon.

After an understanding with Attorney Johnson, Judge McIntire agreed to issue a writ which would summon the Le Blanc girl into court today.

Hattie Le Blanc was formally arraigned in the superior criminal court before Judge Bond late yesterday afternoon. When called upon to plead to the charge of murder in the first degree she said in a firm tone: "I am not guilty."

Melvin M. Johnson, senior counsel for the girl, appeared for her. He was accompanied by an interpreter whose services were not used. The indictment was read to her in English by Clerk Ambrose. The whole proceeding lasted two minutes.

Said to Have Appeared In Church of "Followers of Christ"

Reading, Pa., Feb. 2.—The members of the "Followers of Christ" church, a little one-story stone structure built by the pastor, Bishop Lengel, with his own hands, are amazed over a figure of Christ, which appeared on the interior of one of the walls of the edifice, after a sermon preached by the pastor on "The Coming of Christ."

The figure appears back of the pulpit on the plain plaster wall. It is a full figure, robed and with outstretched arms, as if pronouncing a blessing. Hundreds of people and many clergymen have called to see it.

HUB MORTALITY STATISTICS

Great Decrease In Number of Deaths During the Past Year

Boston, Feb. 2.—Less people died in this city last year in proportion to the population than ever before in the history of the board of health, according to the figures just compiled by that board.

The percentage of deaths in Boston last year was 17.75 per thousand inhabitants, as against 19.16 per thousand in 1908. The total number of deaths in this city in 1909 was 11,049, or 726 less than in 1908, when 11,775 deaths were recorded.

There were marked decreases in the number of deaths from tuberculosis, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

Congress May Honor Peary

Washington, Feb. 2.—That Commander Peary may be officially recognized by congress as the discoverer of the North Pole and promoted to the rank of rear admiral of the navy, the Maine delegation voted to empower one of its members to introduce a resolution to that effect. Peary is a resident of Maine.

Aviators Break Wright Record

Mourmelon, France, Feb. 2.—Orville Wright's record of an aeroplane flight with passengers—1 hour, 37 minutes—was beaten by Efitoff, who remained in the air 1 hour, 50 minutes, and Vanderhorn, 1 hour, 42 minutes. Both carried passengers.

FEBRUARY MAGAZINES.

No one can fail to admire the handsome allegorical cover which combines fineness of thought with artistic beauty, that signalizes The American Boy for February. It is one of those exceptional covers which excite countrywide comment. And the matter inside the cover is fully equal to the high standard set by this boys' magazine. Roger Jackson at Ramsschoolboy life, continues, and Red Treasure comes to an end and Red Treasure comes to an end satisfyingly. The short stories are particularly excellent. 'Possum Hunters Who Turned Samaritans is a fine tale of Southern life, but it is rivaled by When Opportunity Knocked, whose title speaks for itself as well as by The Riddle, the story of a boy wrongly accused of a base action. Fully as good as these are When the Ice Ran Out, a story of the Mississippi River, The Jonah, which deals with the Atlantic fisheries, and The Boy Who Put Quinn on the Map.

A cheery, optimistic tone is characteristic of Lippincot's Magazine ,and the February issue is no exception to the general rule. The number opens with a long and intensely powerful detective story by that versatile genius, Carolyn Wells. The new tale is entitled "The Gold Bag," and it is fully up to the standard of its famous predecessor by this author—"The Clue," which has been one of the most successful books of the season. "The Gold Bag" deals with a murder mystery, and is told in the first person by a young detective, who, despite his own astuteness, finds it necessary to call on that past master of deduction, Fleming Stone, a character which has figured in other detective stories by Miss Wells. Numerous clues are in turn run down, but all lead to blind alleys until the remarkable Mr. Stone succeeds in nosing out the true scent. Bright, snappy dialogue and a love affair add interest to the narrative. Another big feature is "Education Outside of Books," the second of an important series of six papers on "What is Wrong with Our Public Schools," by Joseph M. Rogers. Among the short stories is "The Legacy," a delightful Scotch tale by J. J. Bell, author of "Wee Macgreegor." Marion Hill, who wrote that entertaining book, "The Pettison Twins," contributes "On Society's Fringe," a funny story about a very human small boy.

The leading position in The Engineering Magazine for February is given to the first of a series of papers by H. L. Gantt on the compensation of workmen. These articles will present, with a fulness of demonstration never heretofore undertaken, Mr. Gantt's theory and practice of compensation and training of workmen so as to promote the profit and contentment of all concerned. The first of the series discusees the principles underlying the bonus system and the ideas embodied in it. F. Darlington dicusses the financial espects of steam railway electrification, giving comparative data of installation, maintenance and operaton costs. The second of M. M. Sloan's papers on the industrial applications of reinforced concrete deals with its application to foundations, floors and roofs. The number carries also the full Review of the Engineering Press and The Engineering Index.—The Engineering Magazine, New York.

When intense public interest centers on the Capitol city the "Affairs at Washington, "by Joe Mitchell Chapple in the National, is like "news from the front." The passing glimpse of questions under discussion and the men engaged in the discussion with scowling brows are graphically portrayed. The Ballinger-Pinchot feud, and the anti-trust situation, are depicted with a peep at the men, and informally talked over as if conveyed in a letter from a personal friend living at the capital. The opening chapters of one of the most thrilling North Pole documents ever published, containing the verified records of the famous Zeigle Expedition, by Captain Edwin Coffin, commander of the steamer "America," appear in the February number. The Cook episode has intensified interest in anything that looks like genuine records, and experts who have read what Captain Coffin has written have pronounced it one of the most accurate, as well as one of the most graphic records of any expedition to Arctic latitudes. The log of this expedition shows that its experiences were more hopeless and appalling than any other from which the explorers have returned in safety.

The following is a partial list of leading articles in the February Technical World magazine: The Rule of the Roustabout.—Harris Dickson. The Man Who Limped—Story.—Henry M. Hyde. Bringing Dead Cities to Life.—F. G. Moorhead. Science and Eusapia Palladino.—John R. Meader. Railroading Toward the North Pole.—Frederic Blount Warren. SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE

Rev. H. W. Kimball of South Weymouth has just accepted the position of field secretary for savings bank life insurance according to information received by the wage earners' insurance committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce. He announced his resignation to the trustees of his church Sunday evening. After March 1 his entire time will be given to this work, in which he will cooperate closely with the organization that has been built up at the Chamber for the purpose of interesting employers and employees in the Massachusetts plan of non commercial wage earners' insurance and will assist the trustees of the General Insurance Guaranty Fund.

In view of the marked success of the scheme in its first full year of operation there has been a feeling for some time that in the further extension it should be represented by a managing head. A consideration of several available candidates finally narrowed down to Mr. Kimball who has been keenly interested in the movement from the start and who has showed marked organizing ability in other sociological enterprises.

Mr. Kimball will continue his services at the church in South Weymouth during February, giving probably two days a week to becoming familiar with the details of the savings bank insurance plan. He is a native of Portland, Maine, a graduate of Bowdoin college, 1892 and Andover Theological Seminary, 1895. While a theological student he served for three years at Berkeley Temple under Mr. Dickinson. His only pastorates have been at Skowhegan, Me., and South Weymouth. Shortly after he came to the latter place, about six years ago, he published a sociological study of the locality which was widely commented upon.

Mr. Kimball is a member of the Rockland Central Labor Union which he has represented as a fraternal delegate. He was one of the first members of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, formed in November 1906 and was elected one of its vice presidents shortly afterwards. He is a frequent contributor to the Congregationalist in which for some time past he has edited a department devoted to the relations of the church and the workingman.

Mr. Kimball's appointment as field secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League will enable the savings insurance section of the Chamber of Commerce to devote itself more exclusively to productive work among the agencies of the Whitman and People's banks.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The Bishop's Experiment

A Story of a Lost Pin.

By KATE Y. DUNNE.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"But, my dear, you are all wrong!" exclaimed the bishop's wife, looking reproachfully over the coffee urn, which had hidden her piquant face from her husband's adoring glance. "I wasn't careless. It was the washerwoman. If you must blame somebody, James, blame her. Of course I didn't mean to leave a pearl pin—and especially one you had given me—in my laundry bag."

That afternoon as he was walking briskly down Main street to make a parish visit in the distance he saw Aline's blue hat and shining hair. His heart had a habit of beating faster at the sight of her slender, dainty figure, and that afternoon she looked even more attractive than usual to him among a crowd of commonplace women. He hurried to catch up with her, but she, too, was walking fast and had turned into Pierce's department store before he was near enough to join her.

He went in, too, and secured a vantage point some feet away, where he waited until he should have a chance to slip into a space next to her.

As he waited he noticed her gold bag laid on the counter beside her muff, out of her direct line of vision. Still the old habit! An idea flashed into the bishop's mind. Object lessons often accomplish what all the lectures in the world fail to do.

Quietly and quickly he laid an arm on the counter, swept it along the glass unnoticed by the mob of women surging toward the bargain Mecca ahead. He was not seen. His hand touched the bag, closed over it, drew it to him, dropped it safely into his pocket.

Was he pickpocket or bishop?

He certainly felt like the former. Never had he felt so abject, so criminally miserable, as when he pushed his way out of that shop, for to carry out his object lesson necessitated giving up that anticipated companionship on his walk. So he went on out and down town alone, wondering why the police did not take him by the arm, why no one pointed the finger of scorn, while that wretched gold thing was glittering so brightly in his pocket.

His parochial visit was not pleasant; his walk was not pleasant; nothing was pleasant. He was obliged to eat a solitary lunch, as Aline had rounded out her shopping expedition by lunching at her mother's. Even the telephone bell did not ring, as he half expected it might. Nothing happened, and he and that bag seemed to be the only occupants of that quiet house. Aline reached home just in time to dress for dinner. Then he had a visitor, who detained him until the last moment, so he had no chance for a sight of Aline until he found her at the table.

He had pictured her distrait, worried, had planned it all—what she should say and he should answer and what the result would be—but the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft agley, and he was disappointed. Aline was simply radiant, hesitating, having put on the blue dress he was so fond of and looking just as she had looked in those days when she had first lured him from sermons and from services by the magic of her charm.

She had seen old friends by chance, had lunched with a group of favorite aunts and cousins who had made much of her and had found just the desired bit of lace at that sale. The day had been a success from start to finish.

"You didn't lose your purse, did you?" The bishop felt impelled finally to jump into the ditch of his own digging. Aline looked her astonishment.

"Lose my purse!" she said. "Why, no, of course, I didn't! What a funny question, James! Just because I lost that pin—or, rather, it lost itself—you needn't think I am going to lose everything else I own."

"Are you sure you have your purse?" The bishop was obviously perplexed at her answer.

"Jimmie," she said, "I am going to send for an alienist. You certainly have softening of the brain. My purse is up in my bureau drawer at this very moment."

The bishop was growing excited. "Go and look for it," he interrupted. "I know it is not there."

Aline was staring at him with marked wonder in her blue eyes. "Jimmie, listen!" she said, emphasizing her words by tapping the table with the end of a spoon. "My purse is in my drawer, where I put it when I came home unless you have stolen it."

"Perhaps I have." The bishop's face was a study in crimson, and he spoke in a loud, dictatorial way. "Go and get it."

Aline's eyes filled with tears. She had never heard her husband speak in that way before. She was hurt and a little frightened, though she would not show it.

"Certainly," she said in a very dignified tone, sweeping out of the room, leaving the bishop as bewildered as he was excited. He was beginning to feel badly that she was about to be so shocked, but surely there was never a more glaring example of her carelessness than this. To think that she had brought her bag home with her when all the time—

Flying footsteps, flashing eyes, a gold bag flung into his lap! "There, Jimmie—crazy, crazy boy!" exclaimed a triumphant voice. "Now will you be good?"

The very bag—the very—cobwebs filled the bishop's brain for a moment. "I—I—don't see," he stammered. "Wait a minute, will you?" Then he in his turn fled upstairs and went to his bureau drawer. The very bag! It took him some time to get his bearings, to summon up courage to go down to that lighted room and to the reproachful glances of those blue eyes. But the bishop was a good sport, although the brilliancy of his sermons was sometimes open to criticism. Down to the dining room he bravely walked and laid the bag beside its duplicate. Aline looked and looked and looked again. Then her haughtiness was that of a tragedy queen:

"James, explain! Did you think you had my bag? And where did you get it?"

The bishop was silent. He was absentmindedly comparing the duplicates. Aline's had her monogram on the framework; the other had only initials, "M. M. B." He repeated it over and over to himself, as if it were a favorite refrain. Then he knew that his day of judgment had come.

"I stole it!"

"Where, James?"

"I saw you on Main street this morning"—his tone was of the yet unshriven monk—"I followed you into Pierce's to ask you to walk down to the Grants with me. I saw your bag lying on the counter beside your muff, and I—took it."

"What for?"

"Why, just to—to"—the bishop was growing extremely nervous under the steady gaze of those questioning blue eyes—"why, my dear, to—hang it all, Aline! Haven't you any imagination? Can't you imagine why?"

"Certainly not—and I don't propose to try! The idea of a bishop stealing his wife's purse, even trying to give her a moment's fright for any reason at all, is something for which there can be no possible explanation and which I don't even care to think about. But I do say this—I think when a bishop stoops to those dreadful things it is time for his wife to leave him!"

High tragedy was written all over the little lady's face as she folded her arms, arched her eyebrows and looked sternly at her writhing husband. Then a sudden change of expression swept over her mobile face. "James," she said, "did you really and truly do it for the good of your poor black sheep? Did you steal your wife's purse to save her soul?"

Silence.

"James!"

Still silence while the bishop twirled a lock of hair furiously between his thumb and forefinger.

"James, answer me."

The bishop turned appealing eyes to hers—so hard, so cold—and as their eyes met something happened. Laughter such as possesses the spirits of elfland overcame the dignified bishop and his wife. Words were impossible. Anger was a thing of the past. Explanations needed not to be made. Peals of laughter met and mingled across the table. Aline was the first to recover sufficiently to speak.

"Let's see whose it is," she said. And the bishop handed it to her, while wiping his eyes with the other.

"M. M. B. H'm!" muttered Aline. Then, opening the bag, she held aloft a visiting card. "James," she shrieked, "it is mother's!"

His mother-in-law's! The bishop was speechless—this time with horror. Aline was an only child, her mother ever on the watch lest he should let the winds of life blow too strongly on her child. He never could face her after a situation like this. She was always severe on his clerical ideas. And now this!

"What can I do?" His tone was that of a suppliant, and Aline thoroughly enjoyed his misery.

"Do?" she said. "There are several things you can do, and you will have to do one of them quickly, or mother will be here asking my advice about what she can do to recover it. Father gave it to her on their last anniversary, and she will be frantic at having lost it. By the way, I don't see why you didn't see her in the shop."

"Neither do I. Now tell me what to do."

Aline held up her plump hand and counted off fingers as she spoke: "Way No. 1, messenger boy sent to leave it at her door, with no explanation, note or card—spirit too cowardly for a bishop to resort to; way No. 2, send at once to Pierce's, saying you found it—falsehood unworthy of your ideals; way No. 3, take it to her yourself and own up to your methods of improving her child's character."

Silence. The bishop looked downcast. Aline roguish.

"Well, James," she said at last, "what have you decided to do? Mercy, there's the telephone! Oh, my dear, suppose it's mother!"

It was. Muffling the transmitter, Aline whispered in a flush of excitement:

"Dearest, if I save your life now will you stop trying to save my soul any more?"

The bishop's answer was unintelligible, but understood. Still Aline did not show her hand.

"And, dearest, if I do you must let me choose the text for your special sermon next Sunday. Yes? Now listen while I show you what can be done with a complicated situation."

Saved—not by grace, but by Aline—a very meek bishop took his place in the pulpit the following Sunday and announced as his text "The way of the transgressor is hard."

FLOOD RAPIDLY RECEDING

Sufferers In France Will Be Aided by the Government

Paris, Feb. 2.—The height of the water at midnight at Pont Royal was 27 feet 5 inches, a fall of nearly four feet from the highest point, and the flood continues to drop at the rate of about three-quarters of an inch an hour.

Premier Briand has instructed the prefects to make a complete inventory of the flooded areas and to appraise the individual losses, after which parliament will be asked for new credits in connection with the measures of relief.

One of the most hopeful features of the situation is the action of the government in carrying into effect measures to enable the small proprietors throughout the flooded districts of France to re-establish themselves by means of loans, and in furnishing work for the victims.

MRS. DUFFY'S PHILOSOPHY

Considers Beating From Her Husband an Indication of Love

Chicago, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Mary Duffy appeared before Judge Crowe when her husband, arrested on complaint of neighbors for beating her, was arraigned in court. Admitting that the defendant frequently struck her, she pleaded for his release, saying:

"If he didn't beat me once in a while I'd think he didn't love me any more. A man's not a man that won't show he is the boss by licking his wife once in a while. I think the more of him for it."

Judge Crowe said: "I have often heard it said that women love best the hand that beats them, but I have never before heard a woman admit the fact. However, Mrs. Duffy, you are the judge in this case. The prisoner is discharged."

TAFT SUPPORTED "BY INSURGENTS"

Will Help Pass Legislation Desired by the President

Washington, Feb. 2.—As the outcome of a secret meeting of the house insurgents Representatives Gardner (Mass.) and Hayes (Cal.) went to the White House and assured President Taft that he could count upon the united support of the insurgents for the administration measures, with the exception of the ocean mail bill, on which the western men are divided.

As the president is not pushing this issue very strenuously, the exception is unimportant. This action will assist materially in straightening out the situation in the house, where both sides have been playing for the advantage and the president and his policies appeared likely to be ground between the upper and nether wheels of the row.

The insurgents want the country to understand that they are unalterably opposed to Cannonism and the rules, but they had grown uncomfortable over the criticism of the country that their activities might stand in the way of enacting progressive legislation.

NEW SENATOR SWORN IN

Purcell Appointed to Succeed Thompson of North Dakota

Washington, Feb. 2.—Fountain L. Thompson, recently appointed a senator from North Dakota, has resigned on account of ill health and E. W. Purcell has been appointed his successor. The announcement was made in the senate and Purcell was sworn in.

Senator Thompson took his seat in the senate on Dec. 6 last, having been appointed on Nov. 10 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Johnson during the recess of congress. The intention of Thompson to resign had been kept a profound secret about the senate.

TO TAP HUDSON BAY

Canadian Government Will Build Railroad Through Wheat Fields

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—Canada next spring will begin the construction of a railway to Hudson bay. This announcement was made to parliament by George P. Graham, minister of railways.

The road will be built as a government work, but probably will be operated by one of the existing private corporations or by several jointly.

The route will be available four months in the year and a great portion of the western Canadian wheat crop can be hauled out each year at a saving of 5 cents a bushel in freight.

Snowball May Cause Loss of Eye

Springfield, Vt., Feb. 2.—As the result of a snowball game, Rachel E. Kingsley, a teacher in a school here, may lose the sight of an eye. She was hit by a hard snowball and was rendered unconscious for a time.

Villalobar Goes to Lisbon

Madrid, Feb. 2.—The transfer of Marquis De Villalobar from the post of Spanish minister at Washington to a like diplomatic office at Lisbon was officially gazetted here.

$250,000 Blaze at Baltimore

Baltimore, Feb. 2.—Fire destroyed about half of two blocks in the southeastern section of the city and ate up property worth more than $250,000.

POSTAL RATE ON MAGAZINES

President Expresses Desire That It Be Increased

Washington, Feb. 2.—Congress has awakened to a realization that in the second-class mail problem it has on hand a political issue of the largest dimensions. The impression is increasing that notwithstanding the earnest desire of President Taft that the postal rate on magazines be increased, the proposition is a dead one.

The hint of Senator Doliver, at the publishers' dinner, that congress would insist upon a thorough investigation of the postoffice department before considering a reduction of the magazine rate, has been taken at its face value by many persons concerned, and evidently is accepted by the publishers as virtually settling the controversy.

Eight hundred letters were received by the house committee on postoffices and post roads Tuesday, most of them condemning any increases in the rate. While this bombardment, of which one day's mail is only a sample, was originally "manufactured" and has been fostered by the magazines among their readers, the sentiments revealed are too sincerely and forcefully uttered to warrant the committee in ignoring their importance.

The disposition of the committee is to regard the second-class problem purely as a business proposition, as far as the government is concerned, and increase the rate from 1 cent a pound to perhaps 5, but the roar of popular resentment over the suggestion has caused a hesitation which probably is decisive.

The postal deficit of $64,000,000 could be easily wiped out by a reduction in the pay of clerks and carriers, and some members believe these employes are better paid than they would be for the same class of work outside the government service.

But the times are wrong for retrenchment by any such process. It is taken for granted that any increase in the rate of postage would be passed up to the consumer, and where two journals alone, issued by the same company, have about three million subscribers, the political effect of thus taxing the people directly, instead of through the indirect and indivisible medium of a custom tariff, is something to be considered. Hearings will be resumed by the committee Friday, when the publishers of religious and similar magazines and papers will be heard. It is expected that the hearings will be finished a week from today.

FAIL FOR A MILLION

New York Bond Dealers Petitioned Into Involuntary Bankruptcy

New York, Feb. 2.—Fisk & Robinson, bond dealers and members of the New York stock exchange, have failed for $1,000,000.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by creditors and Bronson Winthrop was appointed receiver with a bond of $50,000. Shrinkage in the value of railroad bonds held by the firm caused the failure.

Griscom, a "Silk Stocking" Politician, Takes Place Vacated by Parsons

New York, Feb. 2.—Lloyd C. Griscom, former United States ambassador to Italy, was elected president of the Republican county committee of New York, succeeding Herbert Parsons, resigned. He had previously been selected by a special committee and his election was merely in ratification of this choice.

LLOYD GRISCOM.

Griscom is strictly a "silk stocking" politician. He has never even met Governor Hughes, much less Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the Republican state committee, or William Barnes, Jr., the Republican leader at Albany. His selection was made with a view to placing a high class man in the position to the end that harmony among Republicans may be promoted.

CASH IS TIED UP BY HEAVY DEBTS

Will Take Anna Gould Eight Years to Get Rid of Creditors

New York, Feb. 2.—For the first time since the affairs of Anna Gould, her debts, and her husband's, have become a matter of international interest, the exact state of her finances has become known.

The information was furnished to the United States circuit court by George J. Gould and were sworn to by him before Special Master Berry, who was appointed to examine the accounts of George and Helen Gould as receivers of the estate of their sister, the present Princess De Sagan and former Countess De Castellane.

The figures show that Anna Gould's debts in 1901 were $6,000,000; paid at time of second marriage, $3,885,143.50; unpaid then, $2,114,856.50; her income in 1908, $475,329.38; yearly expenditures now, $200,000; surplus, $275,329.38.

At this rate almost eight years will be required to pay off the debts piled up against the Gould heiress by her first husband.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

Miss Mareline Rizzi of Barre, Vt., is the guest of relatives in Quincy.

The cruiser DesMoines, built at Quincy, has sailed from Bluefields for Port Limon.

Mrs. Catherine C. Cobb, mother of Walter H. Cobb, is seriously ill at her home, 147 Elm street.

Mrs. William Loud of Hall place had the misfortune to break her ankle by slipping on the steps at her house.

The submarine Snapper, built in Quincy, was put in commission at the Boston navy yard this week.

Mrs. Joseph Landry of Bates avenue has been removed to the City Hospital where she will be operated on for gall stones.

St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church is to give a Valentine supper in the parish house on Friday evening, to be followed by an entertainment and dancing.

Annual banquet of the Fore River apprentices to night at Alpha hall. About two hundred of the past and present apprentices aside from the special guests are expected.

The Dorcas society of the Universalist church were entertained by Mrs. Josephine Wight at her home on Souther place, Tuesday evening. An enjoyable evening was spent and some sewing accomplished.

Among those at the ball of the Boston Clerks' Mutual Benefit association Tuesday evening were Postmaster C. L. Hammond of the Quincy office, Superintendent John McDougal of the Wollaston office, Miss Nellie L. Gerry of the Atlantic office, George A. Sullivan and Charles A. Canavan clerks at the Quincy office, Miss Roache and Miss Duffy.

The Ledger has booked so many new advertising contracts for the coming year, and the spring advertising promising to be unusually brisk, it will soon go back to eight pages. Demand for space in the Ledger has never been greater and advertisers not only in our own city but outside appreciate the benefits derived by using Ledger space. Results count.

Mrs. W. H. Bourden of Bates avenue passed away last night about 11.45 at her home. She was a widow and resided with her mother, Mrs. T. Fitzgerald, since her husband's death, which happened only a few months ago. Mrs. Bourden is well known in this city on account of being a member of many societies. She leaves two children, a boy and girl.

Not only the children and teachers at the Coddington school are interested in the operetta to be given by the pupils on Friday evening in the school hall, but parents and former pupils are showing their interest in a substantial way. It looks as though the seating capacity of the hall would be taxed to accommodate all who wish to attend. The operetta to be presented is "Golden Hair and the Three Bears."

BOY WANTED

A strong good sized boy is wanted at the Ledger Office, to sweep out, do errands and assist about the office. Apply at once.

MANY EVENTS AT Y. M. C. A.

Activity in Boys' Department of Association

The doings of the Boys' department of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association are more numerous than ever, if such a thing is possible. The Bible class supper and classes were held Tuesday night as usual. The Employed Boys' club also held its weekly meeting.

The South Quincy club will meet tonight at 6.45 at which C. T. Shaeffer will speak.

The Wollaston and Atlantic clubs will meet on Thursday night, at which delegates to the Holyoke conference will report.

Friday night is the strong night for the students, and Sturgis Pishon of Dartmouth varsity football team will be the speaker.

Saturday morning Mr. Schaeffer will speak at the younger boys' meeting. The Intermediate basket ball team play at Everett on Saturday afternoon.

Sunday afternoon the teachers class meets at 3 o'clock and the older fellows at 3.30. The twelve delegates to the conference will report Sunday afternoon, and the best meeting of the year is expected. It is indeed a busy week, and the weeks that are to follow are as busy. Every boy in Quincy get in and help.

BRIEFS

The Quincy High -- Hyde Park game was cancelled, but today Quincy will play Sharon High at basket ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Boyle of Water street observed the twelfth anniversary of their marriage on Monday evening.

The case of Hannah Carroll, administratrix for Edward J. Carroll, vs. the Fore River Shipbuilding Company is on trial in the Norfolk Superior court, to recover $25,000 for death at shipyard.

A regular meeting of the trustees of the Fore River and Weymouth and Hingham bridges was held in the office of Mayor Shea this morning. There was nothing outside of routine business transacted.

Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams, engaged for the Messiah concert of Feb. 15, enjoys the distinction of being considered by many the owner of the most beautiful soprano voice in New England. In some of the large cities where singers of world-wide reputation appear each year, the musical critics seem to agree in saying, "Mrs. Williams has not been excelled by any singer who has appeared in this city." This phrase is found in many of her press notices from widely separated places and in widely differing roles. Mrs. Williams has a large repertoire and seems to deserve equal praise in the secular and sacred music. It should be a matter of pride, to our city, as it is to the society itself, that the "Messiah" will be given for the "first time in Quincy" with such an array of soloists as has been announced and particularly with such a singer as Mrs. Williams in the soprano part.

--George M. Baker, a prominent citizen of Marshfield, is observing his 90th birthday today.

DIPHTHERIA AT BRAINTREE

Death in Family of Former Quincy Residents

Braintree residents are greatly alarmed over the epidemic that has been discovered there, and also over the death of Ruth McGrath the 8 year old daughter of John McGrath, district superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of this city, which occurred during Monday night.

The Braintree board of health have noticed many absences from the public schools in certain sections and of late have had their agents fumigate the school rooms every few days.

The infected pupils seemed to have symptoms of the mumps, and it was thought that it would soon pass away under the careful watch of the doctors and health department.

The McGrath girl attended the Union school, and also went around with several pupils in the Monatiquot school and as her culture showed traces of a complication of diseases, among them germs of diphtheria, the board of health thought it advisable to close the Union school and one grade in the Monatiquot school. On Tuesday this was done, inorder that a thorough fumigation could be made. It was then decided to quarantine the entire McGrath family and await developments.

A careful invetigation proves that several other pupils were with the McGrath girl and in some cases the doctors used anti-toxine to ward off any further trouble from them.

After the invetigation of Tuesday the schools were ordered opened today ,the board of health reporting that there seemed to be no further danger as the McGrath family were in quarantine.

Dr. Dearing, chairman of the Braintree board of health, informed a representative of the Daily Ledger that there was no cause for the people to be alarmed over the death of the McGrath girl for death was due to a complication of diseases and care had been taken to stop the spread of it if there be any danger whatever. He said the health department would soon overcome all danger and hoped the parents of the school children would keep sharp watch over their children and cooperate with the doctors in their efforts to stamp out the spread of the mumps for this was all the disease that had been noticed except in the one case mentioned above.

Mr. McGrath is a brother of Thomas J. McGrath of Field street, Quincy, and is a Spanish war veteran.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Copeland Juniors of West Quincy and the Cranch A. C. met Tuesday for basket ball at the Quincy High school and the Cranch A. C. were nearly white washed to the tune of 19-1.

Monday afternoon the Copelands defeated the Willard B. B. five 12-10.

Edward Claxton of East Milton broke his arm Tuesday evening at the Bryant A. C. while in a three round bout with Joe Ford.

In the second round Ford hit Claxton a side wing in the face and knocked him to the floor, and Claxton tried to break the fall by putting down his hands. In doing so broke his arm below the elbow. He is attended by Dr. Reynolds.

At ice hockey on Tuesday evening Milton Academy defeated Somerville High 5 to 1.

TODAY'S COURT.

David Sullivan was find $5 for drunkenness at Quincy. Sentence suspended.

The continued case of William Hanrahan for assault on Victor J. Jarvis at Houghs Neck was called. He was fined $25 and put under $200 bonds to keep the peace for three months.

He—"So the engagement is broken off?"

She—"Yes. He told her he thought she should stop reading novels and read something more substantial—something that would improve her."

He—"Well?"

She—"Well, the idea of a man intimating to his fiancee that she could be improved in any way!"—Philadelphia Press.

HAPPY ART OF LOOKING YOUNG

Shirley Breese Tells How Some Middle Aged Women Keep Youthful Charm—Hints as to Retaining Attractiveness.

ONCE upon a time it would have been considered foolish to ask a question like this: "What's the use of looking old?"

Nowadays it is a query which is eminently proper. Of course if one ransacks the mental apparatus certain reasons for wanting to look older than one really is may be brought to light. For instance, it may seem desirable to one deprived of some of the good things which age brings to be somewhat older, but most of us are wide awake to the truth that it is seldom an advantage to look older than we really are and that it is frequently most desirable to call art to assist us in staying the hand of time as far as external appearance goes.

There are the pessimists, of course. They maintain, some of them conscientiously, that it is a great waste of effort to employ modern science in the unequal struggle against old Father Time; that wrinkles, the double chin and the various other concomitants of advancing age are certain to be victorious in the end and that it is useless to oppose them. Some of these "determined to grow old before their time" individuals declare that the ravages of time are only accentuated by the efforts of those who do battle against them.

The strongest refutation of this theory is to be found in the case of those who make the stage their profession. It is a fact that no class of men and women lead a life so conducive to the early deterioration of good looks. It is quite as certain that no other men and women succeed so well in preserving their charm of person as these people of the stage. It was the success of the actress in keeping her good looks that first inspired her nonprofessional sister to investigate and finally to adopt her methods.

As a rule, an actress, even when far from youthful, is the mistress of a complexion as fair and soft as that of a schoolgirl. She has had a long and constant struggle to achieve this result. For hours daily her face and neck have been overlaid with makeup, not a carefully selected cream which will nourish and beautify the skin, but with cosmetics necessary to fit her for the character she is assuming. She is compelled by the stress of her profession to keep late and irregular hours, to stand in drafts and to wear garments which are slight protection against them.

Don't think that her middle aged attractiveness comes by chance. It is the outcome of untiring effort on her part, coupled with a knowledge of what to do. An actress would sooner miss her meals than her weekly scientific massage. After every performance the irritating makeup is removed carefully with a good cream. Science is summoned to remove frown wrinkles, moles and beauty blemishes of every description. Nothing is left undone that will keep her complexion youthful. As a consequence many an actress who has been before the footlights for twenty years still retains a complexion as dainty as that of her early girlhood. It is useless to ask if such attention to personal appearance pays.

Watch the figure carefully, for the approach of avoirdupois is insidious and may be averted by a little care and perseverance. If there is a threatened loss of flesh, be diligent to provide against it by the use of proper food. Outdoor exercise may be employed advantageously in either case, and at this season there is nothing more worthy of a trial than skeeing, the Scandinavian sport which is becoming so popular with both sexes in some parts of America. It will set the warm blood racing through the system and will drive away all stagnation and equalize the supply.

SHIRLEY BREESE.

WHERE FASHION PAUSES.

Tyrolese Peasant Girls Dress Now as They Did a Century Ago.

Not even in the most remote mountain fastness or desert waste in the United States lives a woman with any pretensions to fashion who does not wish devoutly to have something new and different each year, just to "keep in style." What, then, must an American woman think of her sister in the Tyrolese valleys, who is content to wear costumes of a cut and pattern popular a century ago? But, hold, madam! The Tyrolesienne is strictly up to date, right in style and fashionably garbed from toe to topknot.

In the valleys of the Tyrol fashions do not change with every quartering of the moon. The peasants in those valleys live the simple life. In the main, what was good for their mothers and grandmothers and great-grandmothers in the matter of clothing is accepted as good for the women of today. Yet there must be nothing slipshod, haphazard, irregular about their costuming, lest it sin against convention, for be it remembered, O fashionable or fashion yearning American woman, that your Tyrolean sister is no whit less a stickler for "the mode" than you are.

Yes, matron or miss of America, the matron or miss of the Tyrol fusses just as you do over the details of her dress. The bodice must be laced just so; the skirt must drape strictly "according;" the waist line must be here or there or anywhere, as dictated by old Dame Fashion.

It is no matter that the fashion is a hundred years old or a hundred and fifty years, for the Tyrolean peasant girl in the illustration shown herewith wears a "beehive" hat of unplucked beaver such as her foremothers wore in the middle of the eighteenth century.

The mode is the thing even in the Tyrol. The prevailing idea must prevail. That the same idea prevails from generation to generation is due to the fact that the Parisian demands for frequent changes do not penetrate to those peaceful, idyllic valleys where life flows smoothly like a crystal stream, letting the wide world outside wag by unheeded.

Recently in the streets of Innsbruck, the picturesque capital of the Tyrol, 35,000 peasants, men and women, marched before the kaiser in celebration of the centenary of the Tyrolese fight for liberty against French, Bavarian and Italian armies. There was no "faking" of costumes, no making up for the occasion, though all were dressed in the garb of a hundred years ago. Of course there have been minor alterations in the styles since 1810; but, on the whole, the peasants appeared little different as to costume from their everyday aspect of the present.

The unplucked beaver hat is not the fashion now, but only because it is too expensive. A hundred and fifty years ago the beaver was plentiful in the streams of the Tyrol; now it is scarce. The "Merry Widow" hat, two feet in brim width, is worn by girls in the south Tyrol valleys and slopes. Many girls marched in the procession wearing these big hats.

Another style of hat worn by both women and men in sections near the Bavarian frontier is the "topper." This is much like the British "plug" hat, though the woman's pattern is higher than the man's, and it is squeezed inward between the brim and the crown to look something like the waist line of an hourglass.

In the long procession that filed before the kaiser were many girls wearing stockings six feet long. Don't you dare to dispute this statement either! The stockings are heavily plaited and incase the lower limbs in a very wrinkly fashion, though of symmetrical wrinkles, making the limbs look most grotesquely huge. The skirts, of course, are worn short enough to show a considerable portion of this marvelous hosiery. AMANDA RIDDLE.

The Style In Bracelets.

Now that long sleeves are again in vogue it might be supposed that the bracelet will be less worn, but such is not the case. It is the fashion now to wear bracelets over the sleeves. Dull finished gold or silver is the right setting for semiprecious stones.

GRAND GOOD ADVICE BY MAYOR SHEA

Tells the Fore River Apprentices What Quincy Is Expecting from Them.

Instructor Neary Complimented on His Good Work.

A grand good time and a rousing success in every way was the unanimous opinion of all those present Wednesday evening at the banquet of the Fore River Apprentices." The banquet was held in Alpha hall which proved to be an ideal place for such an occasion. One long table was laid at the head of the hall. Here the speakers and invited guests and reporters were seated. Extending at right angle from this were four other tables. One table was assigned to each year's class and one to the alumni. Most of the boys wore white badges showing of which class they were members.

It was but a few minutes after 8 o'clock when J. E. Neary, the instructor of the school, entered the hall accompanied by the guests. The boys quickly followed, and as soon as all were seated there was a brief lull while a photographer in the balcony took a flash light picture of the party. At each plate was a red carnation for the buttonhole and a souvenir menu. This menu was done with pen and ink by one of the draughtsmen and then was printed. It was composed of eight pages and made to represent a set of specifications from which the employes work. On the title page was a large monogram containing the letters "F R A" and on the other pages the menu, list of committees, members of the base ball, basket ball and track teams, names of the present apprentices and the alumni, the program and two blank pages for autographs.

The menu page was very unique. The several courses were printed in the centre in French, so that to the majority of those present it was like Greek until the several dishes were served. Around the edges of the menu were a number of drawings. These to the uninitiated were somewhat mysterious until explained later in the evening by General Manager H. G. Smith. Then it was learned that each character or sketch represented some department at the shipyard and the line of work done. Although done in French, the menu was a good one, well cooked and well served by Caterer Bushaway of Boston. It was as follows:—

Soupe Tomates Legere
Olives Celery
Eperlans Frits a la Sauce Tartare
Roti De Dindon
Puree de Pommes de Terre Puree de Gourdes
Compote Canneberge
Bananes Patnees au Beurre
Pouding Gele Sherbets
Glace
Gateaux Asortis
Biscuits Secs Fromage
Cafe
Cigars

Brooks orchestra was present and during the dinner rendered a pleasing program of poular airs.

It was after 9 o'clock before the dinner was over, and Mr. Neary introduced George Simpson, chief draughtsman of the Hull department as toastmaster. Mr. Simpson briefly welcomed the boys and guests, and said that all were highly gratified at having such a high personage as His Honor the Mayor with us who had taken steps to provide playgrounds and had provided a running track at the Ward Two playground which all could use next year. He then introduced Mayor Shea, who spoke on "The relation of the apprentice to the community." Great applause greeted him.

The Mayor said in part: "I have been asked to say a few words to you boys tonight on the relations of the "apprentice boys" to the community. Unfortunately my time is limited owing to an engagement made previous to this one, so that I cannot stay with you as long as I would like.

"I wish to say to you boys that the citizens of Quincy are very much interested in you and your work. We have watched with great interest your progress both in your work and on the field of athletic sports and are proud of the distinction you have already attained. I wish to take this opportunity to congratulate your instructo , Mr. Neary, on the good results of his work.

"The relations of the boys to the community, should in brief, be the same as the relations, of the boys to their homes. The community, our community, any community, is but a collection of homes. Upon the homes depends the city, the town ,the community. The character of our city will be but the reflection of the character of our homes, therefore I say that the relations of the boys to the community should be the same as their relations to their homes.

"There is on need of me telling you what relations should exist between yourselves and your homes,—between yourselves and your parents who made those homes for you. The most sacred ties that can exist between a boy and any object of his affections is the tie that binds him to his home; to his father and to his mother. Idon't suppose there is any boy who willingly brings disgrace and shame upon the gray hairs of his father and mother, I am inclined to the belief that there is some good even in the worst of boys, and that good is generally manifested in the love for their mothers; so if the question should occur to any boy 'What should be my relation to the community?' just ask yourself first, 'What should be my relation to my home, to my parents?' and you will settle the first question quickly.

"You boys are to be the men of tomorrow, the citizens of the future, the men on whom will fall the responsibility of the business, the social and the political world. You are being fitted now for the struggle of life; you are being equipped much the same as a soldier going out into battle ,and the results of that battle must depend on yourselves.

"What should be your relation to the community when it comes your time to step into the ranks of citizenship? First of all, be honest, honest with yourselves and honest with your fellowmen. Be clean living, clean speaking, clean acting; do nothing which you would be ashamed to have your father, your mother or your fellow citizens scrutinize with the greatest care.

"The community expects; yes, demands o feverybody, a measure of service equal to the benefits derived from society. No man should be exempt from the service of the public. Any young man should take an active interest in those things which tend to have an influence on his community.

"The country never needed the services of honest men as much as it does today, and it will be impossible in the next generation to get honest men if we are unable in the present generation to get honest boys. I might talk all night long to you on the subject of your duty to your community, and when I had finished I should have to come back again to the first principle laid down by men at the beginning of this talk honest.

Be honest with your employers, be honest with yourselves, your parents and your friends, and when the time comes that you will take your place as a directing influence in the deliberations of the community, you cannot but be honest to that community."

The Mayor was followed by Joseph and William DeNeill, two Fore River boys, who gave a violin and piano duet.

J. B. Bjorkland, pitcher of the Mechanics Arts High interscholastic team was then introduced to speak on "Base ball." Mr. Bjorkland, in opening, said the subject was somewhat familiar to the boys present. All knew that the Fore River had the chapion 18 and 19 year old team last year. This was somewhat remarkable as they were able to do what they did without training. If they can do what they did without training what can they not do with training. To accomplish what we desire we must train. First of all, you must cut out cigarettes, they injure your wind and heart and your batting eyes. Second, you should cut out drinking. That also hurts your eyesight. To illustrate this he told of famous ball players who had been brought to want by their drinking habits. In closing, he urged any who had any base ball ability to go out and train the coming season. No man will get any position on the team unless he earns it.

General Manager Smith when introduced to spek on "Future prospects" said that he was very much pleased to be present, and he desired to thank

ONE THOUSAND HOUSES WANTED IN 1910

New Contracts at Shipyard Will Cause a Great Demand in Quincy.

Board of Trade Discuss Problem and Other Subjects.

Big questions were before the Board of Trade on Wednesday evening and resulted in a midnight session. These included the annual banquet, the need of 1000 new houses, the bill to connect the two Metropolitan parkways, and also the Brockton canal. Twenty-five to thirty members attended, and President Stone was in the chair.

PRESIDENT STONE.

The board voted to accept an invitation of the Men's club of Christ church to listen to the address of ex-Representative Robert Luce on Feb. 7.

A letter was received from Mayor-elect Fitzgerald of Boston saying he would be pleased to speak at the annual banquet if an open date could be arranged.

APOLOGY ACCEPTED.

Messrs. Piper, Whitman and Thompson, the committee appointed to interview the Boston American on the recent slander of the Board of Trade and the city, reported. The publisher had apologized to the committee and was anxious to make amends. Voted after debate to accept apology.

T. L. Williams, the representative of the board on the grade crossing committee, reported, but, by request, no publicity will be given at present.

Three well-known gentlemen were elected to membership.

It was decided to have the annual banquet in March when speakers could be secured. Among those desired are Mayor Fitzgerald, ex-Governor Long, Admiral Bowles, Judge Lindsay, Judge Chamberlain and Mayor Shea.

Frank F. Crane was invited to speak on inland waterways, and was enthusiastic over the subject. He reviewed the conventions, and urged Quincy to have an exhibit of granite, etc., at the Providence convention. He said five routes were now being surveyed for a canal from Narraganset bay to Fore river or Hull bay.

SHIPYARD CONTRACT.

President Stone spoke of the importance of the Argentine contract with the Fore River Shipbuilding Company for battleships. It was a big thing for the shipyard and to Quincy, but to get the full benefit we must provide houses for all employees. We should encourage the company all we can.

A. L. Whitman criticised the banks of Quincy becaues of their alleged discrimination against new building at Quincy Point, where the demand for houses was great. He said 1,000 houses should be built in the city in 1110 to meet the demand. We want to holler for Quincy; to invite capital, to secure lower prices at local stores, to reduce the price set upon vacant land, and get ready for a boom.

A general discussion followed in which John R. Richards, John Harkins, Charles H. Johnson, Frank F. Crane, President Stone, T. L. Williams and others took part. The concensus of opinion was that houses valued at $1,800 to $2200 would find ready sale, while houses for rent for $10 to $15 were needed.

PARKWAY CONNECTION.

G. B. Bates opened the discussion on the bill of Mayor Shea in the Legislature for connecting the Quincy Shore and Furnace Brook parkways. His speech in full follows:

"His Honor, Mayor Shea, has presented a bill to the Legislature, to authorize the Metropolitan Park Commission to complete the Furnace Brook Parkway in Quincy. I am glad to come here tonight and help the Board of Trade in my humble way, to plead and work for the uplifting, the upbuilding, and the conservation of our city, to try and prick the public conscience to an awakening and realization of their duty to themselves, their city, and future generations.

"The topic of discussion, tonight, is how shall the Furnace Brook Parkway be completed, particularly at the junction or intersection, where the Metropolitan Parkway crosses the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. tracks. Whether it will be done right, or whether it will be done wrong. That is the question. This question certainly is a most timely and important one for the consideration of our citizens before it is too late.

"It is the duty of every citizen, every organization, and every functionary of our city to study, to investigate, to discuss and enlighten themselves and others upon this most tremendous and vital question. It is the basis and fundamental keynote to the grade crossing problem through our city.

"We are imminently at the parting of the ways. The well-being of our city and its future growth, right now, is in the balance. Whether it will be done right, or whether it will be done wrong, that is the question.

"What the public wants, demands, and must have at this very location, where the parkway crosses the railroad tracks, and at this very time, are three things. First, the parkway to go over the railroad tracks and not under the railroad tracks; second, a new parkway station at this location; and third the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. tracks depressed.

"When these three things are done, supreme and ideal conditions will be created for all parties interested. Making safer and better railroading, a better and safer parkway, and better and safer public streets. The reasons are many why the public wants, demands and must have these safe and sane conditions, and are vividly plain, for there is a unanimous, widespread objection, by the citizens, to the further usurpation, by private interests, of the public rights.

"The first reason why the public demands the parkway go over the railroad tracks is because it is better and safer for public travel. The second reason is because the existing natural conditions are tremendously

SACRED HEART CHURCH REUNION

Mayor Shea a Guest of Father Cuffe

The seventh annual reunion of the parish of the Sacred Heart church, Atlantic was held in Music Hall Wednesday evening. The hall was crowded to its untmost capacity long before the concert began. The popularity of the pastor Rev. J. P. Cuff, was shown by the large number of his parish, besides many from neighboring towns who were present. The pastor had as his guest Mayor Shea.

A promenade concert was given from 8 to 9 by Joyce's orchestra, and then the grand march was started. It was led by Floor Director Wendall J. Sprunk of Montclair and Miss Etta Mullaney of Wollaston followed by about 100 couples. Dancing continued until 12.30 A. M.

The chairman of the general committee was Daniel J. Nyhan assisted by Richard A. Cole. The floor was in the charge of Wendell J. Sprunk and the assistant directors were James Keohane and Patrick Duggan. The aids were John A. Duggan, Timothy F. Sullivan, Joseph Granahan, Arthur Murphy, William Barry, John P. Granahan, James Costello, Edward A. Clifford, Frank Lavery, Eugene McKenna,Frank A. Martin, John Dolan, Charles Aulback, John McLeane, William Coughlin, Richard J. Barry, James Duggan, Henry Golden, Neil Leary, Thomas Dean, John Canty, James V. Martin, Edwin Poland, A. Levangie, Kenneth Gay, W. Ward Whitcher, Stephen H. Edwards, Frank O'Brien, Louis Barry and John McKenna.

The chairman of the reception and refreshment committees was John J. Herne, and his assistants were Edward Shea, Martin Burns, William Coughlin, J. Henry Cunningham and W. Ward Whitcher.

The matrons who had charge of the buffet lunch were Mrs. Arthur Murphy, Mrs. J. H. Donovan, Mrs. Michael McGrath, Mrs. D. J. SWEETHEARTS IN TABLEAUX

Artistic Poses and Pretty Costumes at Wollaston

A social and entertainment was held in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church on Wednesday evening, a large number attending.

The evening's program was in charge of Mrs. O. A. Blaisdell, and opened with a vocal solo, charmingly rendered, by Mrs. C. B. Kimball entitled "Dream faces." The remainder of the entertainment consisted of a series of tableaux named "Old sweethearts of mine." These showed a bachelor thinking of his former loves and as he thinks, each appears before him in a tableau. The artistic poses and pretty costumes, together with good taste in assigning of the parts, tive. As each appeared an appropriate familiar selection was rendered on the piano by Mrs. C. D. Young.

The cast of characters follows:

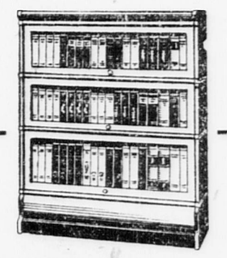

Bachelor—Chester Gurney.
School girl—Miss Alta Grant.
High school girl—Miss Ethel Hatfield.
Actress—Miss Myrtle Hurlburt.
College girl—Miss Ruth Cahill.
Winter girl—Miss May Critchley.
Summer girl—Miss Eva Sheldon.
Riding girl—Miss Edna Rhodes.
Debutante—Miss Muriel Badger.
Widow—Miss Leona Robbins.
Bride—Miss Frances Colgan.

At the close of the tableaux a social hour was enjoyed, during which light refreshments were served by the following young ladies, in charge of Mrs. E. L. Gannett and Mrs. Frank Burgess:—Miss Leona Robbins, Miss Lena Rumrell, Miss Madge Hatfield, Miss Olive Hatfield, Miss Christie Dougless, Miss Editha Tripp, Miss Eva Sheldon, Miss Etta Holmes, Miss Clara Porter, Miss Winifred Church, Miss Ida Brown and Miss Evelina Sallsman.

During the evening a candy sale was held by the Sunday school class of Mrs. Herbert Pinkham, and a goodly amount was taken in which will be used as the annual missionary money.

CATHERINE C. COBB.

Mrs. Catherine C., widow of Silas H. Cobb, passed away Wednesday evening at her home 147 Elm street, after an illness of several months' duration. Her sickness was due to a general breaking up. For a time it was thought that she might rally, but during the past few days she has failed rapidly and her death was not unlooked for. Mrs. Cobb was born in Hingham and was the daughter of Jesse Churchill. In 1854 she married Silas H. Cobb, who died April 1, 1900. She leaves two daughters and a son, Mary L., Clara B. and Walter H. Cobb, the well known newspaper correspondent. Funeral services will be held from her late home Sunday.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The local ice men are worried.

The middies are, "in the swim."

Cook, cooked his own goose.

Back to the farm is the slogan of the day.

Have you heard the latest? It's always in the Daily Ledger.

"The harvest of the Sea." Is that a knock at the beef trust?

Did you get the number of "Mrs. Oakley's Telephone?"

Empty bananas were plenty at that fruit store fire.

Honesty is the best policy. Did John B. Lombard lose his book of proverbs?

President Taft has got a big stick too. Looks like a knockout for Meat Trust.

Let us hope the Board of Trade will secure "J. F. F." to deliver one of his famous speeches at the banquet.

Rubbering is all the rage. First it was the Tillingham airship, then came comet 1910 A and now we are all sky gazing for Halley's comet.

Wollaston again bobs into view on that new schoolhouse. It begins to look as though they needed one so why not help them along.

It has not been costomary for the Massachusetts Senate to elect a president for a third term, and it will not be necessary if Senator Evans is returend. Mr. Evans of of Gongressional timber and many favor his candidacy.

The slang phrase going the rounds about letting "George do it," was brought home Monday evening, when a man under the influence of liqour was caught and held in a Wollaston home. Upon inquiring we learned "George Dunn" it all.

One of the most vociferous charges that Mr. Bryan used to make against the Republican party during his campaign was that it did not treat the big thieves and the little thieves alike. This charge finds complete refutation in the fact that the Federal authorihave placed Millionaire Banker, John R. Walsh, of Chicago, in prison for five years for violating the Federal Banking laws. John R. Walsh is the wealthiest man that this Government has ever placed behind prison bars. Recently Mr. Morse, another wealthy New York banker, was sentenced to serve and is now serving a 15-year term in the Federal prison at Atlanta, Ga. President Taft, in his prosecution of these big malefactors of great wealth, is demonstrating that the law is being administered alike to the rich and the poor. This will furthermore be a great object lesson to those who are engaged in dark and shady enterprises.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The home paper has become so essential a part of the reading of every well informed family, that there are few people now-a-days who sacrifice their local newspaper in order to get a metropolitan sheet. A great many families feel both to be necessary, but if one has to choose, there are today few who would pick the distant journal in preference to the one close to their more intimate interests. After all, the average citizen is far more concerned about the affairs of his own home city than about the affairs of the world. No matter how much he may read about Congress, about foreign affairs, about general politics, if he fails to know what his own home government is going to do about his taxes, if he fails to know what kind of schools and streets are being provided for him, if he is ignorant of the activities of the societies and churches conducted close by him, he is a pretty poor sort of citizen. To the housewife, the home paper is absolutely essential, because it conveys the most important business news, the offerings of the home merchants. No near-by or far away paper can give the results to advertisers that the home paper can.—Beverly Times.

MISS AMES' CHARGE

It Is Denied by Paymaster Auld In Giving His Testimony

Boston, Feb. 3.—The charges brought by Dr. Cowles against Paymaster Auld will be passed upon today by the court martial at the Charlestown navy yard after the arguments have been made.

Auld's story of the fracas he had with Cowles at the naval ball of Dec. 11 was the feature of the closing testimony. He flatly contradicted Miss Marguerite Ames as to the use of her name when he asked Cowles to withdraw from the ballroom as an "undesirable character."

Auld declared that the request for Cowles to leave was discussed at an interview with Miss Ames, in which she said that she did not care for Cowles and did not care what happened if her connection with the matter was not known. His statement came as a denial of Miss Ames' charge that he had lied in telling Cowles that he knew he was to be asked to withdraw from the ballroom.

STRINGENT "SLAVE" ACT

Introduced In Rhode Island Legislature Upon Advice of Taft

Providence, Feb. 3.—Upon the advice of President Taft, with whom he had a conference at the White House recently, a "white slave" act, considered one of the most drastic of its kind, was given to the legislature by Representative Cutler of Providence.

Penalties are provided for bringing women into Rhode Island, procuring places for them to stay or keeping them against their will. The act also provides that a victim shall be considered a competent witness in all cases.

It was given to the house judiciary committee for further consideration.

CANADA PLANNING ARCTIC ACTIVITY

Does Not Propose to Have Any More Land "Stolen"

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The Canadian government was urged by Senator Pirier, speaking in the senate, to continue activity in the Arctic archipelago. The senator expressed belief that the United States might some day assert ownership to some of these lands and objected to Canada claiming Hudson bay as a closed territorial water.

Canada's boundary dispute experiences should have made her provident in the matter of securing possession of this territory, he said. Recent revelations showed that Russia had stolen Alaska and a part of the Pacific coast line from Canada.

A document discovered at Sitka and forwarded to the governor general at Ottawa, he said, contained instructions to a Russian officer so late as 1826 to make a secret expedition and bury along the coast tablets indicating discovery and possession by Russia at a far earlier date. In this way Russia established her claim to Alaska, which was afterwards sold to the United States.

Sir Richard Cartwright said the Canadian government was not blind to the possible importance of asserting jurisdiction in the north of Canada and had dispatched two expeditions for that purpose and was about to send a third.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Quincy People Know How to Save It.

Many Quincy people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Quincy citizen's recommendation.

Nicholas Albanese, 16 Gilmore street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I was annoyed by attacks of backache for some time, often while at work sharp, shooting pains darted through my loins, causing me great misery. I also had dizzy spells and my sight seemed to be affected. I tried many remedies, but did not receive relief and as a last resort, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store and in a short time after using them, I was helped. I have no hesitation in giving Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for my cure."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

FIVE WANT TO BE GOVERNOR

Political Free-For-All Has Developed In Wisconsin

Milwaukee, Feb. 3.—The political free-for-all in Wisconsin received impetus when Francis E. McGovern, former district attorney for Milwaukee county and a candidate for senator against Isaac Stephenson at the last primary, entered the race for the governorship.

The advent of McGovern makes five candidates for the governorship, viz., John Strange, paper manufacturer; Captain Lewis, son of a millionaire manufacturer; Francis McGovern, lawyer; State Senator Thomas Morris, lawyer; and Governor James O. Davidson. All of the candidates except the governor are La Follette men. Every effort has been made by the senator and his friends to eliminate some of the candidates and concentrate upon one man, with McGovern as his choice, but nothing could be accomplished in that direction and it is said La Follette will wash his hands of the gubernatorial contest and take his chances with the rest.

La Follette is not a close organizer, and the perfection of his so-called "machine" which landed him in the senate is credited to W. D. Connor, who is not now counted as a friend of the senator. La Follette's success will depend entirely upon how faithfully his friends go to the polls on primary election days, and with four of his supporters in the field drumming up votes for the position of governor, there ought to be no fear in regard to the size of the vote polled.

But La Follette and his followers are anxious to regain control of the state capitol. While Governor Davidson owes his political success to the progressives, he has not acted harmoniously with his old following since he became governor, and the La Follette men want someone in the capitol who can be counted on through thick and thin for the senior senator and his policies.

With four La Follette men in the field, the friends of Davidson feel assured that he will be renominated if he allows his name to go before the primaries. The governor has no desire to clash with La Follette and, while it is known by his close friends that he would like to hold his position for another term, he would prefer to have the honor come to him without effort on his part.

Thus far no aspirant for La Follette's seat has appeared in the field, but it is thought by many that former Congressman Cook is making a still hunt and that he will appear on the scene in due season if things look satisfactory. The congressional situation in Wisconsin is beginning to attract attention and activities in several districts in opposition to present members have been inaugurated and there is promise of a general contest in a majority of the districts. The line-up, of course, will be regulars against insurgents.

There is not much activity for legislative positions at present, but there promises to be the liveliest kind of a fight for the control of that important body when the time comes.

INSANE OVER RELIGION

Christian Science Enthusiast Takes His Own Life by Drowning

New York, Feb. 3.—Hospital attendants using grappling irons in the East river revealed a tragedy. Henry P. Toler, a Princeton graduate, former Wall street broker and Christian Scientist, eluded guards on Ward's island, where he had been confined in an insane asylum since July, and plunged into the river. Caught in the eddy from Hell Gate, he sank almost immediately.

Toler became violently insane after controversies with factions in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city. For a time he was a supporter of Mrs. Augusta F. Stetson.

No Citizenship For Japanese

Richmond, Feb. 3.—In an opinion handed down in the United States court of appeals here in the case of Namyo Bessho vs. the United States, a Japanese, in law, is neither a white man nor a person of African descent, and therefore is not entitled to naturalization in this country.

SELECTION OF GENERAL WASHINGTON

How John Adams Forced His Choice Upon the Continental Congress.

The Only Way of Uniting America Against Great Britain.

Ernest G. Moses is writing an interesting series of papers on the leaders of American Independence, for the Christian Science Monitor, and the one relative to the appointment of George Washington as General is particularly pleasing to Quincy, "the City of Presidents," as it was John Adams who first suggested the name of Washington, and later with some difficulty convinced the Continental Congress that Washington was the man. We quote in part:

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The appointment of George Washington as commander-in-chief of the American forces was an act of great importance in securing the necessary political unity of the colonies. We can with profit note the wonderful wisdom displayed by the Continental Congress in selecting Washington for their military leader, and observe how the hopes of the wisest workers for unity in the defense of their natural liberties were encouraged by this important footstep of progress.

In the spring 1775 the troops of the various states were assembled at Cambridge, Mass., under General Ward. The so-called American army was made up largely from bands of militia there was no effectual organization and no stable unity. The leaders in political affairs desired to see the Colonial forces properly organized; the North and the South they desired to have united in the important matter of army organization and maintenance. The cause was really one, and the grand necessity of the times was a unitary military establishment.

The people of New England adored General Ward. He was a popular hero. He had been in the French war, had made a good record and he was a scholar and a statesman, well fitted for the arduous responsibilities of the position as head of the army. But there were political and other reasons why a northern man should not be selected for the nposition.

In Philadelphia the members of Congress had long discussed and pondered the project of unification of the troops and the selection of a general, but nothing decisive was done until the dictates of wisdom had crystalized and indicated the correct solution of the problem. It seems that every event of importance to the genuine progress of mankind transpires at the right moment and through the human agencies best designed to insure the right development in the direction of a higher civilization. In this particular phase of Ameeica's transition (as in many others which followed) John Adams of Massachusetts was the man to most clearly recognize the country's great need and to know just the man best suited to assume the responsibility for armed resistance against the unwarranted invasion of the British forces.

The appointment of Washington came about in this way: One morning

BEEF AND SCHOOLHOUSE

Big Profit of Retailers Cause High Prices

Editor of Daily Ledger:

Much is being said at present, and justly so, about the extreme prices of beef. Largely the blame is laid at the door o f the beef trust, but let us render to Caesar that which is Caesar's. If we look up the wholesale prices of beef ten years ago you will find it quoted as high then as now. Today's Boston quotations are as follows: Heavy hinds, 9 1-2 to 10 1-2 cents two hundred pounds. The average heavy kind would cost $20. Suppose we figure half that quantity skin, bone, flank and fat, at an average of 5cents per pound we have $5.00. The balance is sold for steak from 22 to 35 cents. If we make an average of 28 cents, we have $28 or a total of $33, a profit of about 60 per cent.

Doubtless the retail dealer would say the bone and tallow sells at much less than quoted price, but how about soup meat and flank. I paid in one of our stores 10 cents for shin last week. It is true that expenses are higher than ten years ago but the bugaboo of high prices has been used entirely too much in the past to obtain extreme profits.

How about a new school house at Wollaston, do they need it? Certainly they do and the assessed value of Ward Five property entitles them to it. Now, (Ward Five, don't have any contest over a location. Get together (as Ward Five usually does) and you will find it smooth sailing.

White Slave Conviction

New York, Feb. 3.—The conviction of Paul Erenka, a youth arrested in connection with the white slave investigation, is the first one under that section of the penal law ever obtained in this county, and probably in the state. Erenka got the maximum penalty of one year in the penitentiary and $500 fine. Erenka's partner, Philip Magold, turned state witness.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

James D. Howlett assumed his duties as head master on Monday morning. The school was handed over to him in such a condition that there has been hardly any interrouptions in the regular work. Mr. Howlett entered upon his work quietly, but gives the impression of being well adapted to meet the requirements of the school. The Quincy High school is probably as well known the country over as any High school in the State because of the fine record it has made in the past. Mr Howlett will strive to maintain that record and to keep a steady and healthful progress towards the highest efficiency. He wishes to make the Quincy High a plant to send forth men and women both useful and companionable; useful because of well rounded development, and companionable in the sense of living harmoniously with the world. It is indeed laudable for a person to have such high aspirations. From reports of his work in other schools it is believed that he will be enabled to succeed.

Saturday evening the senior class of the Plymouth High school gave a reception in honor of Mr. Howlett to all the pupils, graduates, and friends of the school. Several hundred were present. It was said that this was the largest reception ever given in Plymouth for any person. An oak desk, chair and desk set was presented him. The individual classes gave him books and a bust of Cicero, and also a set of engraved resolutions from the teachers and pupils expressing their appreciation of what he had done for the school. These evidences of loyalty but show the regard of the school for him.

Mr. Cleveland was loath to leave the school, as was shown at the school meeting Friday when he said among other things, "I have enjoyed the work here thoroughly, indeed, never as much in any other school. In my seventeen years as teacher and master working for young people, one thing has been brought forcibly to me, that as a rule young people have a keen sense of justice. If you do your best, your best will become better. We should learn to make ourselves our most severe critics. The fellow who does his work stands well in the school. I have enjoyed the work immensely. Mr. Howlett will handle the school in plendid shape I am sure. I said to him that you were a splendid crowd to work with and the spirit of the school is cordial and friendly, and there is no mean malicious spirit here. Nothing will please me more than to hear you are receiving him in the same way you have helped me." At the reception Friday evening with a large attendance, Mr. Cleveland was presented with a handsome bronze statue of "Bellum" from pupils and graduates.

Two of the teachers were away from school Monday and Tuesday taking the Boston teachers' examinations for High schools.

The German club met last Thursday at 4.30. The program consisted of a trio by Harry Smith, piano; Theodore Corey and Carl Schroeder, violin. Then the quartet composed of Winthrop Safford, Theodore Corey, Richard Favorite and Forrest Royal gave some songs. All sang while Theodore accompanied on the violin. President Favorite presented Mr. Cleveland with two volumes of Goethe's "Gedichter." Games were played. An excellent time was enjoyed by all.

In the Interclass basketball games the Seniors beat the Sophomores last Tuesday afternoon 22-7, and yesterday the Juniors won from the Freshmen 21-11.

The game with Elm Hill school for Friday has been cancelled, but a game will be played with the Alumni on that date, which should be well worth seeing.

A class meeting of the 1912 class was held Monday, and the class pins were chosen. Wednesday another meeting was held, at which it was planned to give the Juniors a reception Friday Feb. 11. The class color of dark green was chosen.

Dr. Smith the physical director, is planning to form a school league of the grammar schools and High.

The dramatic committee of the Seniors are already planning to give a play in the spring.

At a meeting of the athletic committee, it was decided to form a relay team for the B. A. A. meet Feb. 26. Franz Marceau was chosen temporary captain.

It is planned to issue the Goldenrod about March 1.

The Delta Sigma club of '09 girls will meet Monday evening at the home of Miss Bessie Brooks.

Dedham High has started base ball practice.

The Milford High seniors contemplate a trip to Washington, and will present "Her busy day," Feb. 8, to raise funds.

The Boston High School baseball league has been formed, with eight schools in the combination. Why not the leading high schools of Norfolk County form a league, and like the Boston boys play for a championship trophy?—Dedham Transcript.

Fifty school superintendents from all parts of Massachusetts assembled in in Beverly last week at a meeting of the North Shore School Superintendents' round table. After the meeting the party inspected the practical work being done at the industrial school of the United Shoe Machinery Company plant. It was voted to hold the next meeting of the association at Lynn in February, and the March meeting at Newton.

The school department of an exchange says: Assuming that a normal child with no defects will complete an elementary school course of eight grades in eight years the New York investigation shows that the children with seriously defective teeth will require 8.5 years to do the same work. The one with defective breathing will require 8.6 years. The one with hypertrophied tonsils 8.7 years; the one with adenoid growths 9.1 years and the child with enlarge glands 9.2 years.

Miss Anna Marilla Johnson, after twenty-five years of teaching in the Brookline High School, is about to retire. At a reception last week she was presented $100 in gold by the faculty.

Educational matters are receiving attention at the State House at present. The legislative committee on education has unanimously voted to report the bill establishing Massachusetts College. This is the college in which Edmund Barbour is much interested and which he has signified his intention of giving financial assistance. It is intended to give a college training through the normal and high schools of the state at a reasonable cost. This bill is supposed to have avoided the difficulty that caused the defeat of a similar bill last year. The Worcester Polytechnic Institute asks the state to give it $20,000 a year instead of $10,000 which it has been receiving. Congressman Charles G. Washburn of Worcester came from Washington in order to speak on this bill last week.

The following comment on public schools and scholarship is from the Yale Alumni Weekly: "Whatever the reason, the fact remains that higher rankings in college are made by public school boys than by youths trained in the private schools. Dean Wright has frequently referred to this phenomenon, and the Sheffield Scientific School scholarship lists this year again show the same condition. Private school preparation for college should be better than high school preparation, as a matter of logic, because the private school can devote itself rather exclusively to this particular kind of teaching. The public high school has too many different kinds of educational problems to solve to be able to attend to college work exclusively. The high school is ground strenuously between the nether millstone of fairness to the taxpaying and non-college-going public and the upper millstone of demands made upon it by college requirements. Yet the high school boys—as a class—excel the private school youths in scholarship when their respective headmasters turn them over to the "higher education." Here the type of student enters into the question. The public school boy comes to college more or less as an individual unit and his course is nearly through before he has made the associations which his private school classmate brought with him. The result, in the high school boy's college career, is detachment from the social life and hence freedom for curriculum work over the hard years of the three or four. Add to this the usual difference in pocketbook and social experiences and the phenomenon is not so difficult tosolve. The two sets of youths are not inherently different. But they come to college from widely different preliminary social levels, and the result—so far as it affects college work— is not so remarkable as it would seem."

them for the excellent banquet served. We have all indulged with pleasure in the unknown menu and found it to be excellent. This menu reminded him of a small boy and the pie. The boy ate the inside and left the crust. That it what we have done. There is considerable in the crust of this menu. He then went on to explain the meaning of the different characters around the sides of the menu, which showed that all were needed by each other. So it is with the shipyard, each department needs the other. Four years ago the Fore River company decided to reorganize its apprentice systemand place it on a strong footing. The object was to have some one to keep in touch with the work and give them the value of their training. Our motto in selecting boys is, "the best only." We endeavor to put on only such boys who show an aptitude for the work, and a sufficient education for perfecting them. Another feature of the system was the course of instruction of a practical nature. In the class room we bring out some information in mathematics and mechanical drawing. This work was first carried out at the Y. M. C. A., but now at our own works under the direction of Mr. Neary who has accomplished excellent results.

He felt that the company had now produced the nucleus of as fine a body of men for the work, and as future citizens, as in any part of the United States. The future prospects of the company is right here before us. It is on you that we depend to make our business a success. Mr. Smith then spoke of the recent contract with the Argentine Republic, where the Fore River company had competed with 25 firms, some of the English firms having had control of all this class of work in the east for twenty years. These bids were competitive ones and the Fore River plans were considered the best and their price the lowest. Mr. Smith also spoke of the untiring efforts of Admiral Bowles, who had spent the greatest part of a year in bringing about the present contracts. The contract has been given us because the Argentine Republic has satisfied itself that the Fore River is able to produce the goods, that is the ships. It is up to you young men to help us complete the job and make it a credit to the Fore River company and to the city. It will make Quincy as historic in shipbuilding industry as it now is in its Presidents and its granite industry.

Mayor Shea had to leave early to attend another gathering and as he left the hall the boys arose and gave him three cheers loud and long.

The next number was a clog dance by Archie Shannon of the Joiner's department, and he proved himself to be an artist in this line.

Manuel Perry, a graduate of the apprentice school and now of the Machinist department, was then introduced to speak on "Apprenticeship in Japan." Mr. Perry said it was a difficult proposition to find out much in Japan. While he was there he was supposed to follow one path to and from the works and the less we saw the better they liked it. In Japan boys have to serve some time in each department so that when they graduate they are finished workmen. That was somewhat better than here where we only get an idea of one department of the work. In Japan, boys get what is equivalent in our money to 15 cents a day for the first year, and the second year an increase of what would here be 2 1-2 cents a day. Japan is progressing very fast but not as fast as men here.

Charles Dornan, a former apprentice at the Fore River, then entertained the party for a few minutes with some slight of hand tricks that were very mystifying.

The next speaker was Hugh McGrath, a trainer in athletics at Boston college and the B. A. A., who spoke on "Track athletics." Mr. McGrath told of the importance of training, and said that the same spirit that caused America to forge ahead should force the athletic to forge ahead, that America might hold the supremacy in the athletic field. It is to you that we must look for the holding of this position, and he hoped that they would give a little time to training, for he was sure that good results would follow. He had seen men with but little promise that had developed into champions. When you sacrifice cigarettes and liquor you sacrifice something that is no good to you, but which does you a great deal of harm. Give a little of your time and ability to the future in regard to athletics and something is bound to result.

The last speaker was J. A. Walsh a leading member of the Boston bar, who spoke on "The value of an industrial education." In opening, the speaker said that he was a lawyer by profession. There was a time when professions were considered to be an honor. The time has come, however, when we need less men who can talk but more men that can do. You are the fellows of the future that will keep fellows like myself alive by giving us work. There are some people who had a disrespect for the man who works with his hands, but the greatest praise should be given them. The producers and not the soldiers are entitled to the honor. The workmen stand today in the highest places. In olden days fathers used to determine the vocation of their sons by the gift of gab they had. You here are types of what industrial education means. Someone appreciated the fact that the common schools were not doing their part to graduate men to provide homes, men who could make the words "Made in America" take the place of the words "Made in Germany." You are pioneers in a movement of which you cannot see the outcome in this great Republic. You are part of the great Republic of America and your work is to carry her forward as the leader of the world's nations. There is no goodness unless it means a man is good for something. You are members of a great democracy that is to shape the policies of this great country. You must serve Heaven or Hell. If you do not serve your maker in Heaven you must serve the other way. Boys do not realize that they are to take the places of Mr. Smith and Mr. Neary but you are, and I urge you to qualify pourselves for it, and have as your motto, "serve efficiently."

The last speaker was Mr. Neary, who took occasion to thank them for the manly way they had conducted themselves, and he was proud of them and he felt that all were proud of the service of the Fore River. He then called for three cheers and a tiger for Admiral Bowles which was given with a shout that almost shook the roof.

Lodge Presents a Resolution For the Senate to Consider

Washington, Feb. 3.—Senator Lodge has come to the front with another resolution to investigate the cause of the high cost of living.

The resolution provides for the appointment of a select committee of five senators to inquire into the reason for the present high price of necessities; to ascertain whether they have increased during the past ten years; whether wages have increased during the same period; to investigate production and distribution and make recommendations to obtain remedial legislation if necessary.

The resolution went to the finance committee.

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD BREAD RECIPE

ONE TABLESPOONFUL of shortening, one level tablespoonful salt, one-third cup sugar. Add one pint scalding water, then add another pint of cold water.

Let stand until lukewarm and add one yeast cake. STIR "WINGOLD" FLOUR into this with a spoon until it becomes as thick as you can possibly stir it. DO NOT KNEAD IT, as this is all the mixing it requires.

After Sponge has risen, KNEAD DOWN and let rise again. Then place on board, mold into loaves, and place in pans. Let rise until level with top of pan. Bake in moderate oven.

This recipe insures four perfect loaves.

N. B.—Bread made with water keeps moist longer than if made with milk.

"WINGOLD" is the finest flour sold anywhere at any price.
Grocers say the demand for "WINGOLD" is steadily increasing.

SCOURGE IN WAKE OF FRENCH FLOOD

Authorities Have Strong Hope That It Will Be Avoided

Paris, Feb. 3.—As the flood recedes the streets of Paris present a deplorable condition. Miles of them in the districts along the Seine are covered with broken wreckage and the slime left by the waters, and present in many places dangerous pits and yawning gaps.

During the past twenty-four hours the river has fallen from two to three feet, but below Paris there are several feet of water, and boats are to be seen everywhere carrying relief to the sufferers.

Every precautionary measure has been taken to prevent the scourge following in the wake of the flood, and the health authorities are sanguine that the danger of an epidemic of any disease except typhoid is a negligible quantity. Typhoid is always epidemic in France, due undoubtedly to the polluted water supply. Nevertheless, with the warnings issued against the drinking of unboiled water, it is hoped to avoid this danger.

DE ARMOND'S SUCCESSOR

Dickinson, a Democrat, Elected After Brief but Warm Campaign

Clinton, Mo., Feb. 3.—C. C. Dickinson, a Democrat, was elected to congress from the Sixth district over Philip E. Griffith, Republican, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman De Armond.

It is estimated that Dickinson's majority is about 3500. During the brief campaign some distinguished Republicans invaded the district, among them Secretary Nagel. Champ Clark also has spoken in the district, as other Democrats of national prominence have done. Apparently both parties considered the election as one of national importance.

Mayor Hibbard Better

Boston, Feb. 3.—Mayor Hibbard has slightly recovered from his attack of sciatic rheumatism, but it is still considered extremely doubtful if he will be able to attend the inauguration exercises Monday.

THIRTY-SIX MILLION EGGS

That Number Said to Be In One Jersey City Cold Storage Warehouse

New York, Feb. 3.—There are 36,000,000 eggs—enough to provide eight eggs apiece for every man, woman and child in New York city and all its boroughs—in one cold storage warehouse in Jersey City, according to information placed before the Hudson county(N. J.) grand jury in its investigation of the big packing and other concerns which maintain extensive warehouses on the other side of the Hudson river. The eggs have been there since last March, it was learned, together with 100,000 pounds of poultry, stored since April last.

Prosecutor Garvin says that if he can find evidence sufficient to warrant an indictment under the common law for conspiracy to raise prices he will advise the grand jury to indict those who are responsible for holding meat, eggs and other foodstuffs in storage.

CAUSED DEATH OF HUSBAND

Lawyer's Accusation Against Mrs. Glover In Court

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 3.—The Glover will case in the probate court took the form of a murder inquisition yesterday afternoon. It teemed with assertions made by counsel representing Albert R. Glover, a brother, that Mrs. Lillian M. Glover had caused the death of her husband, Clarence F. Glover, for the purpose of getting possession of his property.

Attorney Scott did not mince his words in his handling of the purposes he claimed actuated Mrs. Glover in securing the making of that last will and testament.

He directly charged, while she sat within the courtroom, weeping, that she had frequently threatened to kill the man for whose murder Hattie Le Blanc, the 16-year-old maid of the Glover family, is now under indictment.

He declared that Mrs. Glover kept a revolver to be used particularly in killing her husband, and that her threats of this nature, following disputes over the property, so worked upon the feelings of Glover that, thus holding fear of bodily harm, he was led under her influence to execute the will.

Mr. Scott said in one portion of his charge: "We do say that she used certain persons as instruments, either with a knowledge of her purpose, or through ignorance of her purpose—she used them to carry out her will."

Hattie Le Blanc took the stand before the session had concluded. The girl prisoner, wonderfully calm, clad in a manner to attract attention even in a street throng, and smiling down upon the great gathering, answered questions put to her regarding her willingness to testify. It will be Monday, however, before she will be submitted to the examination which Scott intends to make.

Samuel D. Elmore, executor of the Glover will, was the leading witness of the session. He declared that he had never acted as counsel for Mrs. Glover, but had merely advised her. He stated also that he did not know of Hattie Le Blanc's presence in the Glover house following the tragedy up to the time when he saw her come forth from beneath the bed, when the officers called there three days after Glover's murder.

It is possible that Mrs. Glover will be called to the stand today. At the close of the hearing, while passing through the corridor, she burst into tears, and friends surrounded her in order that her grief might be shut out from the sight of the curious.

LIBELLANTS ARE FINED

Newspaper, Its Treasurer and Clergyman to Take Case to Supreme Court

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 3.—In the Middlesex superior court the Somerville Evening Sun, George H. Pratt, its treasurer, and Rev. E. E. Bayliss, who were convicted of criminally libelling Mayor Woods of Somerville, were sentenced to pay fines.

The Somerville Evening Sun was fined $1000, Pratt $500 and Bayliss $250. The defendants filed a bill of exceptions, and will carry the case to the supreme court. A stay of sentence was granted pending the decision of the higher court.

The bail of Pratt and Bayliss was raised from $1000 to $2000 each.

IRONING BOARD AS BRIDGE

Saves a Woman's Life While Fire Rages In an Apartment House

New York, Feb. 3.—That homely household article, the ironing board, saved the life of Mrs. Mary Covert in Brooklyn.

When fire swept through the apartment house in which she lives Mrs. Covert remained to pack up valuables and found her escape cut off.

A cool-headed woman neighbor then shoved the ironing board across an arearway and Mrs. Covert, scared and scorched, crawled to safety in the adjoining building.

A Pessimistic Prediction

FOR FLETCHER'S
CASTORIA

REV. AND MRS. ATWOOD

Given a Reception at Paterson, N. Y.

A Patterson, N. Y., paper says: The Presbyterian chapel was the scene of a large gathering on Thursday evening, Jan. 27, the occasion being a supper and entertainment given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. The supper, as usual, was of the order which puts one in a frame of mind to be content with himself and everyone about him, consequently when all had satisfied the inner man Prof. Crowell, in his usual happy mood, made known the further and real object of the gathering, by extending to the new pastor and wife a most cordial welcome on behalf of the congregation and people of Patterson. His remarks were followed by a musical program made up of violin solos by Masters Earl Starr, Mallory Stephens and Lucius Pendleton, all of whom acquitted themselves most creditably. These were interspersed with solos by Miss Ethel Bouton of New York city whose caarming voice held the audience spellbound, and Mr. Paul Townsend, who always delights his audiences. With a few remarks by Pastor Atwood and a hearty hand shake the company departed at a seasonable hour. Selections by the Patterson orchest a throughout the evening were an enjoyable feature of the occasion.

RECENT SALES.

Papers were passed Wednesday in the sale of the sightly bungalow at the corner of the Parkway and Bromfield street, Norfolk Downs, owned by James S. Whiting, to Walter E. Frost of the Frost Coal Co., Neponset. The property consisted of the bungalow—one of the first ones to be erected in these parts—and 8900 square feet of land, all assessed at $4,200. It is understood that the price paid was in excess of this amount. Mr. Frost buys for occupancy June 1. Mr. Whiting has bought the Foster lot at the corner of Grand View and Lincoln avenues, Wollaston, containing 9000 square feet and will at once commence to break ground for a two and a half story house for his own occupancy. Fred S. Boyden is the contractor. Both sales were made through the office of Charles R. Sherman on private terms.

MASSACHUSETTS COLLEGE.

The legislative committee on education has voted unanimously to report the bill to establish the Massachusetts college. The safeguards require that $500,000 shall be paid in, and no degrees shall be granted for five years and then only on recommendation of a committee on degrees made up of representatives of the leading Massachusetts colleges. Moreover, the degrees shall be A. B. and A. M.

The scheme is to make use of high schools and normal schools all over the state when not needed for regulation purposes and bring the college to the home of the pupil.

A start will be made in September in the eastern section of the state. The expense to each pupil for tuition for a four-years' course is estimated at $169.

A STUDENT ROMANCE

Lawrence Mill Girl to Marry Son of the Late Gordon McKay

Boston, Feb. 3.—Marion V. McKay, son of the late Gordon McKay, who was founder of a great shoe machinery manufacturing corporation and who left millions of dollars to Harvard, is to wed a former weaver in a Lawrence mill, Miss Ada F. Mitchell, whom he first saw when in company with a group of other mill operatives when she made a Sunday excursion to Andover and strolled about the campus of the academy grounds.

Marriage licenses were taken out yesterday by McKay in both Boston and Lawrence.

"The young couple have set the date, but have not told us yet. It will be soon." This, a brief statement from the parents of the bride-to-be, has been the only news made public of any time fixed for the ceremony, as neither McKay nor Miss Mitchell could be found last night.

SITUATION IS YET DELICATE

But President's Legislative Program May Be Carried Out

Washington, Feb. 3.—On the face of things, President Taft's legislative program stands a fair chance of being enacted into law at this session of congress. The leaders have not yet decided upon all the bills they will attempt to carry through, nor can it be said definitely that any program they might make up could be carried out without some modification. Generally speaking, however, tenative agreement has been reached on the following list:

(1.) Three or four amendments to the interstate commerce law.

(2.) A law which will make it easier to conserve the natural resources of the country.

(3.) An act establishing postal saving banks.

(4.) Admission of the territories of Arizona and New Mexico to statehood.

(6.) An act making some changes in the existing anti-injunction law.

Some of the more influential senators and representatives suggest that this list of possibilities may safely be cut in two. It is by no means certain that the postal savings bank bill can get through, although President Taft is insisting that it shall not be sidetracked. The house undoubtedly will pass the anti-injunction legislation the president sugggested, but the administration has received no assurance up to this time that the legislation can be put through the senate.

The president has at last succeeded in obtaining promises from both the insurgents and the regulars that they will from this time on use their best endeavors to pull his legislative program out of the fire. Whether either side is proceeding in entire good faith remains to be seen. The situation in general is such that the slightest misstep by either side would probably overturn the entire peace structure.

It is the understanding that the insurgents in the house will abandon their efforts to obtain a modification of the rules, and to bring about a reconstruction of the committee on rules, until the president's legislative program is out of the way. Not all of the insurgents are in sympathy with this plan to suspend hostilities against the rules, but, apparently, the insurgents will make an honest attempt to live up to their agreement. They feel that they are in position to claim credit for bringing about a condition of affairs which seemingly makes it possible for the president to get some of the legislation he is demanding.

It is true that many competent observers are still of the belief that the elder senators and representatives have no thought of letting very much of the president's program go through; but on the face of things, it would seem that with the country demanding legislation and with the insurgents backing the president, the regulars cannot well afford to hold back any longer.

It is an interesting fact that on the very day the two factions of the party are showing a disposition to get together long enough to enact a little legislation, the American Protective Tariff League should send to every member of congress a circular letter demanding that in the congressional elections this year all "enemies of protection" shall be defeated. It is well understood that this movement on the part of the league is directed at those Republicans in the senate and house who refused to support the Payne-Aldrich bill.

MANN IS INAUGURATED

Governor Reiterates Opposition to the Saloon In Virginia

Richmond, Feb. 3.—William H. Mann was inaugurated governor of Virginia. In his inaugural address the new Democratic governor put himself on record in regard to the liquor question, which it is thought will be the burning topic of his administration, by saying:

"I simply reiterate my steadfast opposition to the saloon and my confidence in the people of Virginia, who have the right to settle this question as to them shall seem best."

Danderine
Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It at once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes as follows:
"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come to my shoulders and now it is away below my hips."

Another from Newark, N. J.
"I have been using Danderine regularly. When I first started to use it I had a little hair, now I have the most beautiful and thick hair anyone would want."

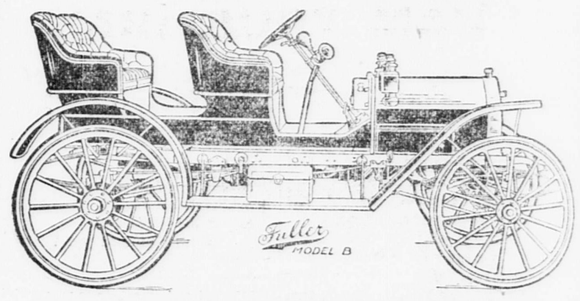

NOW at all druggists in three sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other one preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

WOMAN GOT LARGE SHARE OF PLUNDER

Warriner Paid Thousands of Dollars to Mrs. Ford

Cincinnati, Feb. 3.—About one-fourth of the $643,000 which Charles L. Warriner, the defaulting local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, has confessed to have embezzled was paid by him to Mrs. Jeannette Stewart-Ford and Edgar S. Cooke of Chicago, according to Warriner's testimony in the trial of Mrs. Ford for blackmail.

As calmly as if he were discussing the weather, the witness said that during the seven years he was embezzling the funds of the railroad he was paying approximately $1000 a month to both Cooke and Mrs. Ford.

According to Warriner, he paid blackmail to Mrs. Ford because she knew that Cooke was short in his accounts when he left the Big Four service, and that when Warriner succeeded him he concealed his shortage.

MADE BALD BY FRIGHT

Girl Recovers $2000 Damages Because Tresses Have Disappeared

St. Paul, Feb. 3.—For being so scared that she became bald-headed Tillie Ominsky, a factory girl, was awarded $2000 by a jury in the circuit court here. Charles Weinhagen & Co. must pay.

Tillie was employed at a machine which elevated paper boxes to the floor above. In some manner her waist caught in the wheels and shafting and she was drawn tight against the machine.

During the trial physicians and surgeons testified that fright had so affected her nervous system that her hair had died and fell from her head.

MILL STRIKE RIOT

Guns Drawn and Various Missiles Hurled About at Valley Falls

Valley Falls, R. I., Feb. 3.—Policemen were knocked down and trampled upon and sticks, stones and other missiles hurled at men, women and children on their way to work at the Tilton cotton mills by a mob of striking mill hands, reinforced by sympathizers. Peter Tompkins and Andrew Smojeck were arrested for assaulting officers.

A riot of large proportions was under way when police reinforcements arrived, and then guns were drawn by several in the mob and shots fired, fortunately without injuring any one.

New City Office Created

Boston, Feb. 3.—Boston's board of health has just created a brand new job, the title of which is "chief school physician." Its first occupant will be Dr. Silas Hibbard Ayer, a cousin of Mayor Hibbard. Ayer will have charge of all of the school physicians in this city, while his salary for this work is at present fixed at $1000 a year.

Lincoln's Birthday Proclamation

Boston, Feb. 3.—Governor Draper's Lincoln day proclamation was made public yesterday. In it he sets apart Feb. 12 as the day of observance, eulogizes Lincoln and states that it is especially fitting that the school children should commemorate the birthday of the emancipator.

STRIKERS WIN LONG FIGHT

Three-Year Controversy Ends In Favor of Boston Hat Workers

Boston, Feb. 3.—After a three-year controversy between the 100 cloth-hat and cape makers employed by E. Foram & Co. and the management of that firm, the trouble was brought to an end when the employers signed an agreement providing for a straight union shop from now on.

Under the terms the firm agrees to employ none but union labor from now on, to pay the regular union wage scale and grant union conditions, in return for which it will be given the right to use the label of the Cloth Hat and Cap Makers' union.

COFFEE POT EXPLODES

Deacon Is Scalded and Incidentally Loses Part of Topknot

Florida, Mass., Feb. 3.—Deacon Edwin Maynard of this town is laid up with injuries he received when his coffee pot exploded. He had it heating on the boiler of his portable sawmill engine and when he went to get his cup of coffee the pot exploded, knocking his hat off and scalding him.

A piece of tin took part of the hair off the top of the deacon's head. He is under the care of a doctor.

A Novel Proposition

Albany, Feb. 3.—Senator Davis has introduced a bill making it a misdemeanor for the parents or guardian of a child under 16 years of age to omit to exercise reasonable diligence in the control of the child, so that its morals may not be endangered.

SELECTION OF WASHINGTON

John Adams was walking before Carpenters hall in Philadelphia absorbed in deep reflection. His cousin Samuel on his way to attend the first session of the day came up to the leader of the revolutionary party and said: "What are you thinking about so seriously this morning?"

John Adams.

"Oh," replied John Adams, "it's the army—the army! I am determined to go into the hall this morning and make a complete review of the state of the Colonies and tell them it is high time to take decisive steps. I shall do my best to induce Congress to set a day on which to adpot the Colonial troops as the legal army of North America and then hint my election as commander-in-chief."

"Well, I like that!" rejoined Samuel Adams, with a droll smile at his cousin's unusual way of putting the matter, "but whom do you really choose for commander of this army?"

"I can tell you quick enough—George Washington of Virginia, a member of this house!" replied the statesman.

"No! no! Never! said his cousin Samuel, 'that would never do—never in this world!"

"It must do!" said John Adams, as his face assumed the gravity and decision of a man who believes he is right—"and for these reasons: The South and North must both enter heartily into this cause. They say that New England really holds the balance of power in its hands and many are fearful of the outcome. At present the contention with Great Britain is mostly a New England affair. If we choose a New England commander it would appall the balance of the country—they might all draw back. It seems to me that the only way is to allay their fears and give the other sections of the country nothing to complain about. I see no other way to bring about unity but by appointing a southern man chief over all the forces. Then all sides will rush to the support of our standard. This policy will unite the whole country in one mass and that mass will surely be invincible."

Surely this policy was indeed an inspiration of political wisdom. It was another proof of the fitness of John Adams to take the initiative in his hands and go ahead. Samuel Adams was deeply impressed with his cousin's decision and they carefully prepared a line of action to pursue in Congress in regard to this important matter.

After the opening of Congress that morning John Adams arose and made a forceful speech in favor of a legal consolidation of the colonial troops into one army. He urgently recommended that the Continental Congress should immediately take the responsibility, appoint a commander-in-chief, proceed to form an army organization and appropriate money for supplies. Some of the members objected, some expressed their fears, some wanted, as usual, to postpone action. Adams replied: "Gentlemen, if the Congress will not adopt this army, before 10 moons have set New English will adopt it, and she will undertake the struggle alone— yes, with a strong army and a clean conscience she will front the foe single handed!"

It appears that the appeal of Adams was effective. The delegates were quickly impressed by his earnestness and that New England was bound to forge ahead and give the country the needed assurance by taking a firm stand for human rights and liberty. They appointed a day on which to take up and decide the army problem. When the day arrived John Adams again took the floor and championed a liberal army measure, and after some debate it was adopted.

The next thing in order was the appointment of a commander-in-chief. All eyes were turned on John Adams and he was ready for the issue. He arose and made a fine speech on the character and works of General Ward, a fine recognition of his talents and achievements. At the right point in his speech, after bringing it up to a climax of impressive oratorical effect, he suddenly added "But this is not the man I have chosen."

Adams then made the needs of the colonies the central point of his declamation and outlined the qualifications of a commander-in-chief suitable to properly fill these needs. Then he finished his speech of nomination with these words, "Gentlemen, I know these qualifications are high, but we all know they are needful in this crisis in this chief. Does any one say they are not to be obtained in this country? In reply I have to say they are! They reside in one of our own body, and he is the person I now nominate—George Washington of Virginia!"

It is said that the great general, overcome by the emotions of the hour immediately arose and left the room. He alone appreciated the great import of the event, for there was a solemnity to the occasion which touched the inner fibers of his being and he seemed to sh ink from the contact and sight of even his closest friends. On June 18, 1775 he was duly elected as commander of the Continental army.

No detailed account of Washington's nomination is given in the Secret Journal of Congress nor in Force's Archives. But the Pennsylvania Packet of Dec. 11, 1775 and various historical accounts state that his name was formally placed in nomination by Thomas Johnson of Maryland. Undoubtedly this formal motion was made immediately after Adams' speech for most biographies of Washington (including Lodge's—vol. 1, p. 131) give John Adams the honor of having induced the nomination and election of the great American general.

—The aldermen of Lynn voted Tuesday evening not to issue any pony express permits this year.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Alleged Forger Arrested

New York, Feb. 3.—George Becker, who is wanted here and in other eastern cities for passing worthless checks, was arrested as he was about to sail for Europe. He told the police he was guilty of several offenses.

Worms

"Cascarets are certainly fine. I gave a friend one when the doctor was treating him for cancer of the stomach. The next morning he passed four pieces of a tape worm. He then got a box and in three days he passed a tape-worm 45 feet long. It was Mr. Matt Freck, of Millersburg, Dauphin Co., Pa. I am quite a worker for Cascarets. I use them myself and find them beneficial for most any disease caused by impure blood." Chas. E. Condon, Lewiston, Pa., (Mifflin Co.)

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 921

Mr. and Mrs. Theodorus S. Bailey of Park street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

The janitor of the Wollaston Yacht club is returning this week from Nova Scotia where he has been spending several months.

John Murphy, a seaman, was injured Wednesday by an explosion of hydrogen on the submarine Stingray at Boston.

Frank F. Crane will attend a waterways gathering at Springfield on Friday evening.

The Y. M. C. A. have an excellent mandolin and guitar club under instruction of B. E. Shottuck the well known banjoist, guitarist and composer.

Miss Helen Marguerite Earle, a popular Dorchester young lady who has many friends in Wollaston, was united in marriage on Tuesday evening to William Washburn Leavitt at the home of her father, Charles W. Earle. A reception followed which was largely attended. The couple will make their home in Dorchester.

REPUBLICAN CLUB.

Another meeting was held Wednesday evening of those interested in the formation of a Republican club, in the Johnson biulding. It was attended by about twenty citizens. No attempt was made to form a permanent organization the evening being given up to a general discussion on the benefits to be derived from such a club as it is proposed to form.

WITHOUT A PERMIT.

August Molmy was summoned into court this morning on complaint of Inspector Lennon of the Board of Health for violation of the rules of the board. It seems that Molmy had a stable on Albertina street that he was using without a permit from the Board of Health, who refused to issue one on account of the condition of the building. Holmy was repeately warned not to use the building but continued to do so. A vacating order was then posted on the building which was immediately torn down by some person. He was then hailed into court on two complaints, one for violating the rules of the Board of Health, and the second for cruelty to animals, it appearing that he kept a horse in the building which but a mere shack. On the first complaint the court imposed a fine of $50 and on the other a fine of $5 was imposed. An appeal was taken on the first complaint.

MAKARIA LEAGUE

Wollaston High on Totals But Lose

How did it happen! Wollaston scored a total of 1,319 in the Makaria bowling league on Wednesday evening, which was 33 more than the South Quincy team, but the latter won 2 out of 3 strings.

It is plain, however, that the Wollaston's overexerted themselves in the first string, for they had a total of 468 to 427. The Wollaston's weakened to 429 on the second string, while the South Quincy's improved a little, and won by 2 pins. The rubber was also close, but the South Quincy's won by 6 pins amid great hurrahs. Wetherell was high on singles and totals.

The summary :

SOUTH QUINCY

CLOSE STRINGS BOWLED

Braintree Trims Quincy in Old Colony League

Braintree with several new faces in their lineup came to Quincy on Wednesday evening and surprised the Granite bowlers by taking three out of the four games. Quincy lost the second string by a single pin, and won the third string by the same narrow margin. Coose of Braintree took all honors, namely the individual string with fine total of 111 and the three string with 299.

The score:

SPORTING NOTES.

At Newton on Wednesday the Quincy Y. M. C. A. basket ball team was defeated by Newton 34 to 11.

At hockey on Wednesday Milton High defeated Brookline High 1 to 0.

Milton Academy will meet Harvard freshmen at ice hockey this afternoon.

WHIST TOURNAMENT.

Close scores were the rule Wednesday night at the weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club. The top score was won by W. O. Wellington with 34 points won and 14 lost, which gave him 70.8 per cent. The second best scores were very close. Mark L. Read, Jr., having 67.79 percent, Dennis F. Crowley 69.74 per cent, George W. Jones 66.30 per cent and Charles C. Hearn 65.40 per cent. At the conclusion of the play Henry P. Furnald served an appetizing lunch.

TODAY'S COURT.

August Holmy was fined $50 for violation of the rules of the Board of Health. Appealed. He was also fined $5 for cruelty to animals.

Peter Russo was fined $15 for carrying a firearm in the Metropolitan park.

Dan Van Grambell was arraigned for drunkenness at Milton. Case placed on probation.

QUINCY HIGH DEFEATS SHARON

The Juniors Victorious in the Class Game

Sharon High was defeated Wednesday by Quincy High at the gymnasium of the High school a score of 29 to 19.

The game was very close. Although slightly ahead in the first half, victory did not seem certain; but by putting up a fine game, Quincy won against the heavier fellows. Sharon kept the ball on the danger line a number of times, but the Quincy boys prevented their gaining much of a score.

Manning pulled in the baskets pretty fast and kept after them, playing the fastest game of any man on the team. Bates played his usual good game.

Prout at centre did good work against a much heavier opponent. Patterson, the other centre, was the all around man for Sharon and Fitzpatrick followed close after him in skill. Fewer fouls than usual were called, so most of the score was gained by baskets from the floor.

Between the halves the classes of 1913 and 1911 met and the Juniors scored a victory 21 to 11.

The line up for the big game was;

QUINCY	SHARON
Bates, rf	lb, Bailey
Manning, lf	rb, Baxter
Prout, c	c, Patterson
Harmon, rb	lf, Fitzpatrick
Chapman, lb	rf, Barry

Score, Quincy 29, Sharon 19. Goals from floor, Bates 3, Manning 8, Prout 2, Bailey 2, Fitzpatrick 3, Berry 2. Goals from fouls, Bates 3, Patterson 4, Fitzpatrick 1. Referee, Gourlie. Umpire, Guthrie. Scorer, Miller. Timer, Currier. Time, 25 and 15 minute halves.

SPLIT ON MEYER PLAN

House Naval Committee Resents Discipline of Officers Who Testify

Washington, Feb. 3.—A row is in progress in the house committee on naval affairs over the hearings in committee on the Meyer plan of reorganization of the navy department, and the committee is badly split on the subject. After Secretary Meyer appeared before the committee the committee stood nine to nine on the proposition of approving the Meyer plan, with one member absent.

The committee was considerably wrought up over the reports that Meyer was intending to discipline Rear Admiral Capps and Rear Admiral Rogers because of their testimony before the committee unfavorable to his plan.

The committee resents any attempted restriction of this right, and it is reported that the committee intends reporting the matter to the house itself if either Capps or Rogers are disciplined for giving their evidence.

BADLY BATTERED UP

Big Buck Wanders Into Barn to Die After Severe Battle

North Adams, Mass., Feb. 3.—A buck, probably 14 years of age, sought refuge in the barn of George Sibley at Moneco Bridge and died a few hours later. The animal was a monster, weighing in the neighborhood of 450 pounds.

One ankle and one hoof was broken, all of the upper teeth and both antlers had been broken off, and Game Warden Nichols is of the opinion that he received his injuries in a battle.

WOMAN PLEADED POVERTY

Doctors Find $6500 In Her Stocking While Examining Her Body

Findlay, O., Feb. 3.—While examining the body of Mrs. Emily A. Carmen the doctors discovered in her stocking more than $6000 in money and securities and about $500 worth of diamonds.

The woman had been living alone and had been pleading poverty.

Family of Six Poisoned

Washburn, Wis., Feb. 3.—Mrs. P. Behrante and family of five children were found poisoned at their home here. The mother was dead and one child succumbed later. The recovery of three of the other children is doubtful.

BOARD OF TRADE

advantageous for the parkway to be built over and not under the railroad tracks. The third reason is, by building the parkway over the railroad tracks, every public thoroughfare in that vicinity remains intact, including Hancock, Grant, Carruth, Adams streets and Newport avenue.

"The fourth reason is, by building the parkway over the railroad tracks, it will create and provide ideal conditions for the location of a new passenger station under or near this parkway, with easy access and exits to the parkway and Carruth and Granite streets to Hancock street on east side, and easy access and exits to the parkway and Newport avenue on the west side.

"The fifth reason why the parkway should be built over the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. tracks is from the standpoint of good and safe engineering. It is an absolute impossibility to build the parkway under the railroad tracks as originally planned, it being dangerous and foolhardy. Will we profit from that awful and disastrous catastrophe the city of Paris so recently experienced by flood. Then don't let us, with our eyes open, allow to be built, in our city, a trap called a parkway, under the railroad tracks, below the bed of a river, when the least freshet will cause it to be submerged and inundated, when it can so easily be avoided.

"Public necessity demands an additional passenger station at this parkway. There are many good easons. First, there is a large and fast growing population in this vicinity. Second, it is within a stone's throw of our High school and two lines of electrics pass it. Third there are hundreds of acres of beautiful undeveloped building land, in this vicinity, extending to West Quincy, Milton, Cranch hill, and Forbes' or Third hill on the west, and all the vast acreage on the east side to the shore. Fourth, it is the exact centre of distance between the Quincy station and the Wollaston station. This station when built will be a greater distance from Wollaston and Quincy stations, than what Wollaston station and Norfolk Downs station and the Atlantic station are. Fifth the parkway passenger station would be a most unique and ideal location, being also the centre of distance between the Braintree line on the south, and the boulevard north of the Atlantic station on the north.

"Finally, with the parkway built over the railroad tracks, and a new parkway station built and the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. tracks depressed as unanimously voted by the citizens of Quincy, as per city plans an grade crossings presented to the special commission before which the grade crossing question is now pending. If such reasonable and practicable conditions existed, such a calamity as Chinese walls, blocked-up streets, merry-go-rounds, prohibitive grades, bog holes, toboggan slides, and dangerous crossings would be a thing of the past ,and God speed it, is our earnest prayer. Then our people, who have patiently waited 65 years for this day of freedom, will again and forever more enjoy our God given rights of the sunlight, fresh air, liberty, peace and happiness and out of harm's way. It has been reported, that the city's interests are in competent hands. Let us hope so. Time will tell."

It was voted that Senator Hultman, Representative Thomas and Representative Langelier be requested to work for the extension on the plans outlined by Mr. Bates.

NEW COURTHOUSE

Upon motion of Councilman E. J. Sandberg it was voted that a committee of five be appointed to appear at the State House hearing in favor of a county court-house at Quincy. Messrs. E. R. Stone, A. W. Thompson, John D. Mackay, Walter E. Piper and G. B. Bates were appointed.

Not until 10.40 was a recess taken for lunch. After sandwiches and coffee the discussion was continued informally until nearly midnight.

FIELD OF WOMAN

Should a Girl Marry at Sixteen? St. Paul Has Four Successful Women Lawyers—Three Fortunes For One Girl.

SHOULD a girl marry at sixteen? That depends. Mrs. Victor Murdock, wife of the insurgent congressman from Wichita, Kan., has a daughter in boarding school, and she says she certainly would not like to have the girl wed at that age. Yet

MRS. VICTOR MURDOCK.

Mrs. Murdock herself went home from boarding school at sixteen, against the advice of her parents, but with their reluctant approval when they saw how serious a case of love it was, to marry Mr. Murdock, who was nineteen. Young Murdock's father, who was editor of the Wichita Eagle, called his son to task for marrying so young. "You can't support a wife," said pater. "Look here, dad," replied Victor; "you're a big man in Kansas now, but the time will come when you will be known as the father of Victor Murdock." That was only nineteen years ago. Murdock has been in congress so long that he is almost an old timer, though only thirty-eight years old Mrs. Murdock, his girl wife, is a home loving woman. Her only sorrow on account of her husband's public life is that she must leave her home in Wichita and go to Washington during sessions of congress. She said the other day: "From my own standpoint I approve of marrying young, but, of course, never do so except from the strongest devotion and because you simply cannot live without the man you love. Still, I can realize many objections to such early unions as ours. That it has terminated so happily is really the wonder that most of Mr. Murdock's biographers think it."

Four Women Lawyers.

The city of St. Paul has four women lawyers, all of whom are said to be doing a prosperous practice. Miss Irene C. Buell, one of the legal quartet, took down her account book when twitted by a mere man lawyer at the end of a month recently and showed that she had made $500 that month. The man capitulated. He had earned only $260. Miss Buell, strange to say, inclines toward practice in the criminal courts. She says women don't like to employ women lawyers, while most of the men are skeptical as to their ability until by hook or crook they get a chance to show their mettle. Miss Essie W. Williams, on the other hand, says some of her best clients are women. In her graduating class she was the only woman, there being twenty-one men. She had a hard time getting a place in a law office, though finally she found an established man lawyer who was willing to give a woman a chance. Miss Anna Lambert has been practicing about a year. She also does a considerable business in abstracts. That seems rather a dull line for a woman to take up, but Miss Lambert says she doesn't mind so long as it pays. The fourth in the St. Paul quartet is the veteran of them all, Mrs. M. D. Smith. She has been in active practice two years.

Richest Western Heiress.

Misfortunes, they say, never come singly. But how about fortunes? Let us all be optimists. Here is Miss Jennie Crocker of San Francisco, who has fallen heir to three fortunes, one after the other. Each of them is a plurality of millions. Altogether they foot up about $10,000,000, which supplies plenty of pin money to the young heiress from the interest alone and leaves the principal invested where it earns a large income. First Miss Crocker inherited a cool $5,000,000 from her late father, Fred Crocker. That seemed almost enough for one girl, but when her sister, Mrs. Mary Crocker Harrison, died the heiress received nearly $2,000,000 more. With two fortunes in hand Miss Crocker was the most envied girl in the west. Recently her uncle, George Crocker, died and left her about $3,000,000. Fortune No. 3! Miss Crocker still has other relatives alive with other millions.

COMMODORE ROBBINS IS REELECTED

Quincy Yacht Club Instructs Committee to Proceed with Enlargement of Clubhouse.

Original Charter Members Made Honorary Members.

COMMODORE ROBBINS.

The annual meeting of the Quincy Yacht club was held Thursday evening at Colonial hall, and although there was no contest over the election of officers, or anything in the call to call out a large attendance, there was a good number present.

Commodore Robbins presided and the first business was reports of committees. That of the treasurer, which was in print, showed the general receipts including those of the house committee to have been $3,905.52, and the total expenses for all purposes to have been $3,903.08, leaving a balance of $2.44.

The report of the secretary showed that 29 new members were admitted last year and that the net membership to date was 383.

The treasurer reported that $7,000 of the $10,000 required to pay off the old mortgage and build the contemplated addition had been pledged, and that there were 100 yet to be seen. The decree of the court in favor of the yacht club in the suit relative to the land adjoining the clubhouse had been handed down Jan. 10, and the plaintiff had thirty days in which to appeal. Nothing had as yet been heard from it. The committee was instructed to go ahead with the plans for the enlargement.

It was voted to make the original charter members of the club honorary members. The names of these could not be stated as it required some time to determine just who the original members now living are.

It was voted to make Thomas Fleming Daly, editor of the Rudder, an honorary member.

When the article in relation to election of officers was reached it was voted that as there was no contest for any of the officers that the secretary be instructed to cast one ballot for the list which was done. The officers are:

Commodore—Herbert W. Robbins.

Vice Commodore—Ira M. Whittemore.

Rear Commodore—Frank F. Crane.

Secretary—John O. Hall.

Treasurer—George S. Morse.

Measurer—Ralph E. Winslow.

Executive Committee—Henry S. Crane, Eben W. Sheppard, Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., Harry E. Winslow.

House Committee—F. W. Easterbrook, Edgar W. Emery, Thomas E. Furnald, W. S. Hibbard, William H. Hudson, William S. Hardwick, George L. Tupper.

Before the meeting adjourned Commodore Robbins made the following appointments.

Fleet captain—W. S. Hibbard.

Fleet Surgeon—Dr. F. E. Jones.

Challenge cup committee—Ex-Commodore Eben W. Sheppard.

Delegate to M. Y. R. A.—Joshua P. Holbrook.

Delegate to interclub association—Hon. John O. Hall.

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas F. Tobin was sent to the State farm for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Joseph Strogoff of Chelsea was brought into court on a default warrant. The default was removed and the case dismissed.

Hoax—"How did you finally get rid of those undesirable neighbors?"

Joax—"Well, first I hung a scarlet fever sign on the door, and when that didn't have any effect I began taking lessons on the trombone."—Philadelphia Record.

PASTOR SURPRISED

Rev. and Mrs. Walther Both Receive Gifts

A surprise party was tendered Rev. Joseph Walther at his home on Prospect avenue Thursday evening by a large party of young people from the Christian Endeavor of the Wollaston Baptist church. Over 70 young people attended, the party meeting at the residence of Charles E. Goodspeed and proceeding to the parsonage in a body.

Mr. Walther was expecting a call from Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Christopher, but when behind them the whole merry crowd trooped in his surprise may be imagined. In behalf of the society, Miss Etta Holmes in an appropriate speech presented Rev. Mr. Walther with a goldpiece, and Mrs. Walther with a beautiful cut glass fruit dish as a token of their regard. Vocal solos by Mr. Kempton were enjoyed and a piano duet by Mrs. Chas. Roach and Miss Thatcher. Mr. Knox accompanied by Miss Etta Holmes contributed a mandolin solo, and Miss Marion Hardy and Miss Dorothy Miller, a vocal duet. A vocal solo was contributed by Miss Marion Rand. Games followed and ice cream and cake were served. The party left at a late hour after extending to Rev. and Mrs. Walther their best wishes.

IS NOT PRACTICAL

All Night Street Lighting Is Voted Down

An important meeting of the West Quincy Improvement Association was held Thursday evening. After the routine business, during which five citizens were admitted to membership, the association took up the subject of all-night street lighting.

There was an animated discussion both pro and con on this subject. Quite a few were in favor of the plan, but the opposition put up the argument that it was not advisable on account of the extra cost. It was argued that it would cost the city from $6,000 to $8,000 to put the streets on an all-night basis and that it would be better to take this amount and expend it on streets, sidewalks and other improvements, or to expend that amount in additional street lights on the present basis of lighting.

The discussion lasted for nearly two hours, after which it was voted that the sense of the meeting be not in favor of all-night street lighting. It was stated however, that this vote should not bind the representatives in the City Council on the question.

The matter of the banquet to be held Feb. 24, was also discussed and some details of the affair gone over. The committee in charge of this affair were not ready to report as to who the speakers on this occasion would be. They were also somewhat puzzled as to what should be done in regard to a hall for the banquet. This matter however, will be adjusted the coming week.

A ROGUES' GALLERY

Baby Pictures of Priscillas Exhibited Incog

The third annual banquet of the Priscilla Sorority of the Quincy Point church was held in the church vestry Thursday evening. The Priscillas have long been noted for the things they do, and the manner in which they do them, but the third annual banquet surpassed all their former achievements.

The vestry was prettily decorated with the Sorority colors and the table with jonquils. The menu was served by the Ladies Aid of the church as they only know how to serve. It included: Tomato bisque, chicken a la roumaine, ham, creamed potatoes, peas, salmon salad, olives, pickles, cranberry sauce, rolls, plum pudding, ice cream, cake, fruit and coffee.

After the coffee had been served, Miss Clara Buzzell, the president, reviewed last year's work which showed the year to have been an active one. She then introduced as the toastmistress of the evening, Mrs. T. B. Pollard, the class leader, who has so faithfully worked to bring the Sorority to its present standing. She spoke a few words about the Priscilla of old, and told how proud she was of her Priscillas, and it is certain that all the guests present agreed that she had a just right to feel proud.

Rev. Mr. Marshall the new pastor, was introduced as the first speaker. He said that he was very glad to be introduced to the church at such an event, and spoke further on the topic "Friendship." In his remarks he quoted the motto found on the banquet souvenir which read "Love to one, friendship to many, goodwill to all."

Deacon Sherburne followed with a poem which he addressed to the new pastor, telling where he would find the Priscillas working on Sunday.

Carl W. Sherburne spoke on behalf of the young men present and he amused all greatly by his funny stories.

Thomas B. Pollard, the steadfast friend of the young ladies, was forced to cut his remarks rather short on account of lack of time, but he was loudly applauded nevertheless.

As last year, the committee on "knocks, digs, and slaps" had not been idle and each one found at his plate a verse which in most cases contained a gentle hint of something out of the past.

After the speaking the guests were greatly surprised by a guessing contest entitled "the rogues gallery." In some unaccountable manner the baby pictures or some early pictures of twenty-seven of those present were secured and hung on the wall and the contest was to guess the name. Elsie Kirby won the ladies prize by guessing correctly twenty-four, and Samuel Melville won the gentleman's prize with nineteen correct names. All those present voted for the cutest kid, and number twenty-seven received the highest number and proved to be a picture of Lillian Eaton. When the games were over all gathered about the piano and sung college songs.

The officers of the Sorority are: Clara B. Buzzell, president; Bessie Chisholm, vice president; Mabel Means, secretary; Mary E. Oliver, treasurer, and Mrs. Carrie N. Pollard, leader. Much credit is due to the officers and members for the work they have done the past year and for the grand success of the banquet.

Those present were:

Clara B. Buzzell	Elizabeth Auld
Harry Hayden	John T. Melville
Mrs. Marshall	Fannie Buzzell
Rev. Mr. Marshall	Carl W. Sherburne
Mrs. T. B. Pollard	Florence Runnells
Mr. T. B. Pollard	Joseph Lavoie

MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION DISCUSS VARIOUS TOPICS

Committee Appointed to Consider the Illumination of City Square in Business Section.

Another Committee to Work for Reduction in Price of Gas.

A variety of subjects were informally considered at the February meeting of the Quincy Merchants Association in Thursday evening at Union hall. A supper was served at 6.30 and President E. W. Sheppard presided at the business meeting.

The club accepted the invitation of the Men's Club of Christ church for next Monday evening, when Robert Luce speaks, and also thanked the Geo. W. Prescott Publishing Company for its kind offer of cooperation with the association.

The project to secure the illumination of Hancock street between School street and Saville street on the nights when the business houses were open was considered, and was discussed by Henry L. Kincaide, President Sheppard A. L. Whitman, Mr. Fitzpatrick, F. L. Zoller, A. H. Remick, Mr. Kennedy of Joyce Bros. T. L. Williams, J. P. Prout and others. It was voted that the directors be requested to take up the subject with the Citizens Gas Company, the Quincy Electric Light Company and the Mayor, and report one or more propositions at the next meeting.

The price charged for gas and electricity next received attention, and was generally regarded as high. Those to take part in the discussion were W. G. Shaw, D. J. Seward McCurdy, President Sheppard, Mr. Kennedy, A. L. Whitman, and others. Voted to take up the prices with the Gas Company, and endeavor to secure more favorable terms.

Other subjects discussed were the conditions of the toilets at the Quincy depot and the general lack of help at the depot and the freight houses, the demands upon merchants for charity contributions, the benefits of trading stamps, the nuisance of pack pedlers, sealing of weights and measures, etc. Special committees were appointed in some cases.

HOOK AND LADDER MOTOR.

J. Gilbert Miller, the expressman who has demonstrated that motor cars are just the thing for an express business, devotes part of his time now to the sale of motor cars and trucks. He has just sold to the town of Hopedale a combination hook and ladder and chemical which carries nine ladders and is a beauty. One of the ladders is a 50-foot extension, and in all there are 233 feet. The truck is guaranteed to travel 30 miles per hour.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The snow, the snow, the beautiful snow, we'll be glad when we don't have to shovel you so.

It is now possible to fly a mile high. Bad as it sometimes is, however, walking has its superior attractions.

If Senator Depew runs for the Senatorship again—and the rumor seems to have some basis—he must have a platform. Let him pose simply as New York's grand old man.

That New York woman who put her peek-a-boo waist in the pianola and produced a new popular air should try her "rat" on the phonograph for the words to go with it.

Both the English lords and the liberals announce themselves "satisfied" with the result of the elections "so far." From this we infer that it looks pretty squally all around.

Chicago's meat magnates refrain from suggesting that the difficulty results from the fact that the consumer's supply of cash is unequal to the demand.

If you have a nickel that is rough on the edges, don't get suspicious and think it isn't good for those who know say they are all right, just a little defect in the molds of the 1908 mint.

Of all the advice, and there were many good suggestions given the boys Wednesday evening at the banquet of the Fore River Apprentices, that of Mayor Shea if lived up to invariably brings success. A boy who is fond of his mother and confides in her seldom goes wrong. Mayor Shea knows this better than most men for he has a good mother and he is devoted to her. While she on her side to proud of him and his success. It is the home influence and the mother in the home that produces good men.

The progress which Canada is making in canal building and other transportation works may surpass at least proportionately, that of the United States but it is worthy of observation and must be highly gratifying to Americans to observe that the major part of the tools and engines for the construction and equipment of these works comes from the United States. A remarkable exposition of this fact is made by a correspondent of the London Times whose figures afford a fine insight into the recent report that 1909 was the record year in trade. There are specified thirteen important classes of engineering appliances, in every one of which the United States supplied Canada last year with far more than Great Britain did, in most of the classes the disproportion being simply overwhelming. The totals of the thirteen classes were $1,965,730 from the United Kingdom and $26,294,285 from the United States. All this is gratifying to Americans but it seems anomalous that while we are able to beat the British competition in the British Empire itself, with heavy tariff discrimination against us, we are unable to compete with the British and Germans in the neutral markets of South America where we meet them on equal terms. Is a lack of traditional American energy and enterprize responsible ofr this condition?

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The commission form of government has worked the miracle of making dead cities wake. Lazarus like, a score of American municipalities have thrown aside the shroud as soon as business principles have been injected. These cities did not always admit they were dead; not one but realizes today it is alive, very much alive.

Typical of the cities which within the past two years have defied the sting of death and the victory of the grave is Des Moines, the capital city and commercial center of Iowa. Between 1895 and 1900 the population of Des Moines increased only ten per cent, which may be put down as the natural, un-stimulated growth of an ordinary city. Between 1905 and 1909 the population of Des Moines increased 37 1-2 per cent, at which ratio the five years ending in 1910 will show a gain of 47 per cent. On April 1, 1908, the city government lacked $110,200 of enough money to pay the obligations for the year. On April 1, 1909, the trumpet call of a municipal Gabriel having sounded in the meantime was a balance in the city treasury of $104,855.—From "Bringing Dead Cities to Life," in the Technical World Magazine.

AT BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

After a triumphal tour of five weeks during which the Boston Opera Company has been repeatedly hailed as the most perfect grand opera organization that Pittsburg, Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati have ever greeted in their midst, the second period of grand opera at the Boston Opera House will open Monday, Feb.7 with a gala performance of "Carmen." Mme. Gay has postponed the date of her St. Petersburg appearance at the solicitation of Mr. Henry Russell, so that Boston may have another opportunity of witnessing her impersonation of the Spanish cigarette girl, an impersonation upon which the Athens of America has placed its unstinted approval.

Two operas, new to the repertoire of the Boston Opera Company will have their presentation during the first week. They are "Il Maestro di Cappella," the scintillating work by Paer ,and "Lucia di Lammermoor, that ever pleasing favorite of opera lovers. In the latter Mms. Lipkowska and Florencio Constantino, will have the principal parts. On Monday, Feb. 7, will be given "Carmen," Wednesday, Feb. 9, double bill of "Don Pasquale" with Alice Nielsen and Antonio Pini-Corsi in the title roles, followed by the new opera "Il Maestro di Cappella "with Pini-Corsi as Barnaba. Friday evening, Feb. 11th, will see the first production by the Boston Opera Company of "Lucia di Lammermoor." The bill for Saturday matinee at 2 P. M. will be "Madama Butterfly" with Alice Nielsen as Butterfly, and Enzo Leliva as Pinkerton. On Saturday evening, at popular prices, "Il Trovatore" with Emma Hoffman as Leonora, Carlo Cartica as Manrico, Raymond Boulogne as the Count will be given. It has been decided to abandon the Thursday night performances and the Saturday night performances will henceforth be at popular prices.

"RACE OF DYSPEPTICS"

Produced by Pet Yankee Food, According to a Stomach Specialist

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Baken beans, hot brown bread and mince pie, generally supposed to be the backbone and mainstay of New England, were given a wallop by Dr. Fenton B. Turck, the stomach specialist, who has just returned from an extensive investigation of food conditions in Europe.

"New England has produced a race of long, nasal-speaking, lank dyspeptics," said Turck. The statesmen of New England were not the product of pork and beans, but of the simple life which existed before mince pie for breakfast became a typical New England dish. That section of the country, with its pork and beans, hot biscuits, doughnuts and mince pies, is already on the decline."

IS GRANTED SEPARATION

Mrs. Brokaw Is Also Awarded Alimony of $15,000 a Year

New York, Feb. 4.—Mrs. W. G. Brokaw, wife of the millionaire yachtsman, was granted a separation and $15,000 a year alimony by Justice Putnam in the supreme court at Mineola, L. I. The separation was granted on the ground of desertion.

The Brokaw trial was one of the longest and most sensational in the history of the state courts. Mrs. Brokaw asked a separation and $2500 a month alimony. She charged cruelty and abandonment.

Mrs. Brokaw attributed her husband's conduct to unjustifiable jealousy and bad temper. On cross examination Brokaw's counsel tried to show that her husband's jealousy was justified.

PROPOSITION OF PILLSBURY

Would Have Government Fit Out Antarctic Expedition

Washington, Feb. 4.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer will soon lay before President Taft the proposition of Rear Admiral Pillsbury that the government fit out an expedition for the exploration of the Antarctic. The purpose is not to search for the South Pole, but to explore Wilkes Land, for discoveries of value to science, and to establish American interest in that territory.

Such an expedition could not be outfitted within two years, and in view of the prevailing policy of retrenchment in government expenses, the idea may not be vigorously pushed. Meyer has taken no position on the matter and is desirous only to know the views of the president with respect to it and govern himself accordingly.

This proposition is apart from that suggested by Commander Peary to the National Geographic society, which contemplates a use of the Roosevelt, with as many of her Polar crew as can be assembled, and a dash for the South Pole, starting next fall.

The navy department shows apparently little interest in the plan to honor Peary by retirement as a rear admiral, possibly with the thanks of congress added. The point is made by some naval officials that Peary's polar discovery was made under the auspices of the department of commerce and labor, not the navy department, hence the navy is not called upon to assert itself in Peary's interest.

This view is taken at the Capitol as a reflection of the petty jealousy from which Peary always has suffered among some of his brother naval officers, but will have no effect upon congress except to stimulate his friends there to put a retirement bill through. The navy department will not of course oppose such a bill, while the popular sentiment in its favor will render its passage certain.

Bills to promote Peary to rear admiral were introduced in the house by Representative Allen of Maine and in the senate by Mr. Hale.

FOUGHT IN LINCOLN'S STEAD

President's Substitute In Civil War Is to Be Honored With Statue

Washington, Feb. 4.—The soldier who fought through the Civil war as the personal substitute of Abraham Lincoln is to have a satue erected in commemoration of his services.

Few people know that President Lincoln sent a substitute to the front during the war, but a bill providing for a statue and appropriating $20,000 for the purpose was presented in the house by Representative Palmer (Dem. Pa.)

The name of this hitherto almost unknown man is J. S. Staples of Stroudsburg, Pa. He died there some ten years ago, and it is at Stroudsburg that it is now proposed to erect a memorial.

WILL BE NO TARIFF WAR

Rate Schedule Is Agreed Upon by United States and Germany

Washington, Feb. 4.—Concessions by both the United States and Germany have averted a threatened tariff war. Negotiations have been concluded between the two countries which settle the question of minimum and maximum rates, except the cattle and dressed meat issue, which was left out from the present negotiations and will be pursed hereafter in separate diplomatic representation.

The result of the negotiations agreed upon yesterday is an exchange of American minimum rates for the entire and unqualified minimum list of Germany. The effect is considered just and advantageous to both countries.

DEATH ROLL OF A HUNDRED

Every Man In Paula Mine at Time of Explosion Is Dead

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 4.—Sixty-eight bodies have been taken from the Paula mine, state of Coahuila, Mex., across the line from Eagle Pass, where an explosion occurred.

The remaining bodies lie far in the shaft in almost inaccessible positions. The total death list is 100, and the property loss $500,000. Of the 100 trapped in the mine only one got out alive. He died within a short time, but not until he had given his story.

Novel Suicide of Aeronaut

San Francisco, Feb. 4.—With his head thrust into the envelope of a balloon into which a stream of illuminating gas was pouring, C. A. Farrar, an aeronaut, was found dead. It is thought ill health caused him to commit suicide.

SOUTH SHORE TRAINS

May Go Via West Quincy Instead of Quincy

A representative of the New Haven railroad was in West Quincy this week in relation to the train service. It is reported that his visit had to do with the plan of the New Haven railroad the coming summer to run all of its South Shore trains via. the Granite branch to Braintree instead of the main line a sin other years. Should this be done it would mean that Quincy would lose some of the train service that it now has, that is its train service to stations on the South Shore for with this scheme in effect it would mean a change of cars at Braintree, and more or less inconvenience and waits. On the other hand it would probably mean an increased train service for the West Quincy patrons of the road. Therefore West Quincy people who have heard of the scheme are very much elated over it.

RIVAL IS THRASHED BY WRONGED WIFE

Lively Scrap In Court Meets With Judge's Approval

Pittsburg, Feb. 4.—Judge Saam stopped court proceedings here long enough to allow an aggrieved wife to thrash thoroughly another woman who had attempted to steal the affections of her husband. She made a good job of her pugilistic task, after which Saam fined "the other woman" $25 and fined the husband of the aggrieved wife $10.

Mrs. C. D. Thompson appeared against her husband and Mrs. Annie Carver, a handsome widow, but when asked to give her version of the trouble, waded into Mrs. Carver and landed a well-placed right hook to the jaw. This was followed by a left jab and the court officers went to the assistance of Mrs. Carver. Judge Saam waved them aside.

"This woman deserves all she is getting," he said. "Let them fight it out." When Mrs. Thompson finished she collapsed from exertion. Judge Saam declared he is satisfied with his brand of justice.

TRIES TO SHOOT BROTHER

Six-Year-Old Boy Comes Dangerously Near to Being Successful

Providence, Feb. 4.—With his 6-year-old brother, Roy, in hot pursuit, brandishing a loaded revolver, Harry, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Reid of Woonsocket, saved himself and baby sister by picking up the child and carrying it in safety to another room, slamming the door in his brother's face just as a shot whizzed past his head.

The children had been playing in a bedroom. Roy found a loaded revolver, and brandishing it at Harry, shouted: "I shoot you." It is believed that the boy did not know the serious consequences that would follow his act and that he was only playing.

Bride-Elect of Marion McKay Prominent In Lawrence Social Circles

Boston, Feb. 4.—The announcement of the engagement of Miss Ida F. Mitchell of Lawrence to Marion V. McKay, son of the late Gordon McKay, which was announced yesterday, contained an erroneous statement to the effect that Miss Mitchell had been a weaver in the Lawrence mills.

Miss Mitchell graduated from the Lawrence high school and finished at a private school in Boston. She has spent some years' study in music and has been prominent in social circles of Lawrence.

MAYOR'S SALARY ATTACHED

Landlady Claims That He Owes Her For Meat and Maintenance

Salem, Mass., Feb. 4.—Mayor Howard tried to collect his first month's salary as chief executive of the city only to find an attachment had been placed upon the $125 due him on account of an alleged unpaid board bill.

The obdurate landlady is Mrs. Edward J. Colliton, who claims that the mayor owes her something like $59 for meat and maintenance.

Paulhan's Close Call

Denver, Feb. 4.—Louis Paulhan had a narrow escape from death when his Farman biplane collided with the fence guarding a race track, smashing through it and coming down in a heap of wreckage on the track. Beyond a severe shaking up Paulhan escaped unharmed.

ELECT NEW PRESIDENT

Delightful Meeting of Mothers' Association

The Mothers' Association held their annual meeting in Bethany chapel, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Victor E. Miller presided owing to the absence of the president. Mrs. Miller in her usual pleasing manner welcomed the members of the Association.

The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer were listened to with much interest. The association has held nine interesting and instructive meetings during the year. These meetings have been well attended, which shows that the interest in the association is undiminished.

A communication was read from Mrs. Doble, who is enjoying a southern trip, in which she expressed her regret at not being present and also thanking the association for its helpfulness and cooperation during her term of office. The secretary was instructed to write to Mrs. Doble upon her return, a letter of appreciation for her three years of faithful service.

The following officers were then elected for the ensuing year. President, Mrs. John D. Mackay; vice president, Mrs. A. G. Coffin; treasurer and secretary, Mrs. Arthur R. Fitts. Mrs. Mackay thanked the association for the honor thus conferred upon her.

The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. H. H. Hill who took for her subject, "Home Influences." Mrs. Hill spoke of the importance of right influence in the home during the formative period of the child, as illustrated by the text, "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

The soloist of the afternoon was Miss Gladys Pontifex of Ashmont, who sang for a devotional song "Jesus lover of my soul" by McDougall, and later, "Come sing to me" by Jack Gardner. Miss Pontifex's songs were received with enthusiasm.

Mrs. L. E. Wetherell of Quincy gave the paper of the afternoon on "Child culture—the old way and the new." It was a most excellent paper thoughtfully prepared and finely delivered.

Mrs. John F. Wentworth served tea at the social hour, assisted by Mrs. Bird and Mrs. Ford. Mrs. Bell had charge of the kindergarten.

ALLIANCE ENTERTAINMENT.

A stereopticon lecture on "Astronomy" by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf of Taunton was the interesting program at the annual open evening meeting of the Ladies' Aid Alliance in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Wednesday. Friends of the Alliance had been invited and by the small number of vacant seats it could be seen that not a few availed themselves of the opportunity. A musical program preceded the lecture during which Miss Alice Day contributed several piano selections. Her rendition showed a high technique coming only from much practise and a true understanding of musical values. The vocal solos of Mrs. L. J. Childs of Boston were particularly pleasing and she was loudly encored. The address of Mr. Metcalf was instructive and very entertaining.

BATTLESHIP VERMONT AWARDED THE PENNANT.

Excels All of Uncle Sam's Large Fleet in Gunnery---Tennessee Is Second.

The New Jersey and the Rhode Island Near Bottom.

Again a Quincy built battleship excels. A Washington dispatch to the Boston Transcript says:

Not gunnery alone, but general all-round seamanship—engineering, signaling and other qualifications—are hereafter to form the basis of the award of naval trophies for battle efficiency. Secretary Meyer makes this announcement in connection with the award of the pennant for gunnery to the battleship Vermont, as the result of the competition held inthe open sea at unfixed ranges and speeds. The Tennessee and the Maryland are rated as star ships, having made more than eighty-five per cent of the total score of the Vermont. The officers of these ships all have received commendatory letters.

The full scores, based on practice held in the open sea at varying unknown ranges of speed and targets, day and night, and including practice with torpedoes, are these:

The Vermont pennant winner, 48.-703.

The Tennessee, star ship, 44.908.
The Maryland star ship, 41.520.
The Virginia, 38.924.
The West Virginia, 30.924.
The Georgia, 30.323.
The Louisianna, 29.572.
The Washington, 28.295.
The California, 28.165.
The Pennsylvania, 28.143.
The Minnesota, 28.043.
The Ohio, 26.761.
The Colorado, 20.309.
The Montana, 19.345.
The Rhode Island, 18.815.
The Nebraska, 15,804.
The Kansas, 13.777.
The New York, 13.743.
The New Jersey, 12.994.
The Mississippi, 12.700.
The Connecticut, 11.669.
The South Dakota, 10.826.
The New Hampshire, 10.468.
The Wisconsin, 8.929.
The Missouri, 6.735.
The North Carolina, 5.668.
The Idaho, 0.591.

A BAD CHECK.

Joseph Strogoff was arrested at Chelsea on Wednesday on a default warrant and brought to Quincy and locked up. Strogoff was arrested a month ago for uttering a forged check. It appears that he bought a load of junk from Joseph Catler, giving in payment therefor a check. Catler presented the check to the bank and it came back marked no funds. Meeting Strogoff later he told him about the check. Strogoff asked to see it, and once in his hands he kept it. When the case came up in court a week ago it was practically decided that the case was more of a civil than a criminal one and Strogoff was ordered to give a bond, before a certain time. This he did not do, and the default was issued. This morning the default was removed after explanation by counsel for the defendant, and the case then dismissed. It is understood that it will be heard from later in the civil session of the court.

GREEN STAMPS.

Quincy residents who are looking for the most for treir money will do well to read the advertisement on the first page in this issue of the Quincy Department Store, one of the leading dry goods stores of the centre which welcomes back the far famed "S. & H." green trading stamps and will give them on all purchases made at their store hereafter. Saturday they plan to give all who visit the store, 30 stamps free and if you are thinking of saving them you will do well to call and ask for them. The premiums given can be seen in the show rooms in the basement and one does not need look a second time to see that the St. H." stamps offer, by far, the best premiums on full books.

THE SECRET IS OUT.

T. L. Williams, the jeweler, is one of the most far-sighted men in the city. Some two years ago he anticipated the meat boycott, and began to prepare for it, and finds a vegetarian diet perfectly satisfactory. Late last summer he thought he would stock up for the winter and from a few packages of Chinese radish seeds he obtained near 100 pounds of jumbo radishes which were just delicious. Late in the fall after two or three frosts he gathered the crop and buried the radishes in sand in his cellar. One of them weighed half a pound, and he had eight which weighed together two pounds. It is these radishes, which Mr. Williams is enjoying daily now, which account for hs activity and freshness. They are as fresh as if taken directly from the garden.

NORTH POLE TRIP.

The Chelsea Record says the lecture of Capt. Bartlett on Monday evening was illustrated with a sterepoticon, showing the places of interest visited by the Peary party during the 15 months' trip, also the Esquimaux, the ship Roosevelt, the ice formations in the North country, etc., and described the course of the ship, the experiences of the crew ,the living conditions and the lives of the people who inhabit the frozen region. Capt. Bartlett was frequently applauded and at the close of his lecture he shook hands with a large number of those present. The Cabot Associates of that city presented Capt. Bartlett a loving cup.

Wash Boilers

BUILT FOR SERVICE

Ask for the Kincaide Wash Boiler, made according to our idea of how a Boiler should be made to give the service intended. Size 8, extra heavy copper bottom, block tin sides and ends, framed together to last for years—just note the handles welded to stay, easy to lift and comfortable to hold. It's a Boiler that will not leak. They are yours for the asking at $1.50, and a better household investment it would be hard to find.

QUINCY OF THE FUTURE

Old First Church Should Become a Faneuil Hall

Editor Daily Ledger:

A few days since you asked who would volunteer to inform us what Quincy will be in the future. That is very difficult to condense sufficiently for a short article. I will endeavor to give my views.

ELISHA PACKARD

Cheaper water and light that all may enjoy its benefits. The coal bin and kerosene can have seen their best days.

All night service on railways with a minimum rate anywhere within the Metropolitan area.

A five-cent inter-urban rate for telephones. Every house connected.

Several public landings.

Compulsory arbitration.

Taxation of all property except buildings used exclusively for public worship.

No permits to build unless plans show bath rooms.

No permits to marry until notice has been publicly posted.

Public squares named for local historic personages.

Government by commission.

No child labor.

State oversight until age 15, with enforced medical attendance.

Additional one story primary schools (with large yards) to be used also for play rooms on Saturdays and vacations; no small children should be obliged to walk long distances to school.

Because of its location, eventually our city will contain a very large population. The present haphazard method of locating streets will soon have to be abandoned, and a comprehensive scheme inaugurated. Wide business streets should be constructed from City Square to West Quincy Quincy Point and Quincy Neck.

It is said that owing to business encroachments that St. Paul's church, Boston, is obliged to go quite a distance out to get children to come to a free Christmas tree, but it will probably be some years yet before we will find that necessary. However, in our city, besides various other churches which have had a long and honorable career, we have one in particular whose history no other place in this country can equal. I refer of course to the First church or Adams Temple. Space will not admit of any extended description of the hundreds patriotic gatherings, memorial and military services, etc., that have been held within or in front of that building during the past 250 years.

Now as the descendants of the original settlers have long since passed on and with the possible exception of a very few families, the present congregation are practically new-comers. It would seem to me meet, right, and highly proper that that magnificent old structure should finally be opened to the whole public as a veritable Faneuil hall, of course still maintaining its religious character which should be strictly guaranteed. All civic services were formerly held there and should be again; with organ recitals, lectures, etc. ,a vast amount of good would be accomplished in our community and the effect would be far-reaching. There are thousands of people in Quincy, many of whom attend that church, who are not aware that many great men were baptized there. John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, first Constitutional Governor of Massachusetts, president of Continental Congress, was considered by many at the time, a greater man than Washington himself. Also Colonel John Quincy for whom the town was named, and a most beloved man. General Palmer who gave of his money to pay the Revolutionary army; the Presidents Adams who were wise, discreet and learned men; Charles Francis Adams, who, while Minister to England during the dark days of the Rebellion, by his diplomacy averted a war with that country, the result of which would have been difficult to imagine. There were very many others, but these are some of the men whose birthdays seem to have been forgotten.

I attended a Memorial day meeting in one of the public schools, found the young Italian, Scandinavian and Jew more enthusiastic and patriotic than the children of our natives. Some of these children and their descendants will be our future citizens and may be able to take these matters in hand and treat them as they should, although it generally takes 150 years for people to wake up. It seems the more organizations and associations we have, the less we accomplish. If we had manifested any life at the time the great boulevards, north and west of Boston, were built, and on which so much public money was lavished, Quincy would have been a little better looked after.

Elisha Packard.

FARMERS' BALL.

The seventh annual Farmers' ball under the auspices of the Braintree club was held in the Town hall last Thursday evening and to call it a success is putting it mildly. The hall was crowded to the limit with dancers and spectators and the fun was fast and furious from start to finsh.

The interior of the hall was trimmed with bay and straw flanked by harnesses, farming tools, etc., until it resembled a huge barn. To make matters more realistic the stage held cages of geese while a lusty young pig and several ducks wandered at will over the dance floor. Bunches of fodder suspended from the electric fixtures and the central chandelier by an ingenious arrangement of paper shades for the lights resembled a monster cluster of pumpkins. A handsome heifer occupied the place of honor in a finely decorated portable stall. She wore a handsome blanket and the front of her equipage bore the legend: "Don't boycott me."

The members of Cuff's orchestra were attired as rustics and provoked many a laugh. Shortly after eight to the music of a spirited march the club members in costume and the orchestra preceded by the heifer made the circuit of the hall. Then followed a few dances and next came the grand march and the sight of so many grotesquely dressed "farmers" and their ladies provoked a storm of applause.

The procession of would be prize winners passed in review before the following judges selected by nomination from the audience:

Mrs. Stephen Gammons of South Braintree.

Miss Gertrude Mahar of Braintree.

Mr. L. J. McMasters of Quincy and Mr. J. Benton of Boston.

After some deliberation the following were selected as worthy of a prize:

Miss Gertrude Barnes, five dollars.

Miss Josie Burns, two dollars.

Miss Esther Trufant, one dollar.

The prizes for gentlemen were of the same value and were awarded to Frank Drinkwater, Mr. A. J. Lynch of Brockton and Ellis Holbrook.

At the conclusion of this part of the program a flash-light photograph of the assemblage was taken by Mr. Burrows of Holbrook.

Mr. Wallace Goldsmith the famous cartoonist of the Boston Globe was present and secured some laughable sketches of many of the revellers.

Shortly after ten o'clock the drawing of the heifer took place. Henry W. Mansfield and Courtney Atkinson were chosen to preside and the lucky number winning the heifer was held by Mrs. J. C. Malloy of Middle street.

The refreshments were in charge of "farmer" Kennerson the popular lunch room proprietor and were devoured with gusto.

The large crowd made dancing rather difficult and somewhat of a doubtful pleasure but everybody was happy and seemed to be having a grand time The dance orders were very pretty, the picture on the front cover showing an old fashioned barn dance being especially good. The decorations were typical of rural life and the most elaborate attempted by the club.

The whole affair was a grand success both socially and financially and the club is to be congratulated on the way in which the dance was managed. Eve ything progressed in the most orderly manner and there was no disturbance of any kind.

The affair was managed by a general committee assisted by some five or six sub-committees. The general committee consisted of Charles H. Bailey, chairman; Seth Catlin, Jr., secretary; Norton P. Potter, treasurer, Edward B. Cuff, Horace H. Dana, George E. Stone, E. J. Lane, W. W. Wilson, John R. Dyer, Jerey DeCoste John LaBreck, J. Frank Holbrook, Dr. C. A. Sullivan, John F. Kelley, W. R. Howland, J. W. Walker, Dr. W. B. Robbins, Dr. C. V. Haworth, James G. Cuff, Carl P. Lothrop, Thos. Weston, John McGurne, Walter Bean.

The decorations were in charge of Moses McGaughey assisted by the general committee. The following gentlemen officiated as aids: boss of the barn—Moses McGaughey; assistant bosses—Carl P. Lothrop, Edward P. Cuff, Seth Catlin, Jr., Walter P. Howland.

Farm Hands—Chas. H. Bailey, Norton P. Potter, Horace H. Dana, George E. Stone, Edward J. Lane, Wallace W. Wilson, John B. Dyer, Jerry DeCoste, John LaBreck, J. Frank Holbrook, Dr. C. A. Sullivan, John F. Kelley, J. Walter Walker, Dr. C. V. Haworth, Dr. W. B. Robbins, James G. Cuff, Thomas H. Weston, John E. McGurne Walter Beane.

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD BREAD RECIPE

ONE TABLESPOONFUL of shortening, one level tablespoonful salt, one-third cup sugar. Add one pint scalding water, then add another pint of cold water.

Let stand until lukewarm and add one yeast cake. STIR "WINGOLD" FLOUR into this with a spoon until it becomes as thick as you can possibly stir it. DO NOT KNEAD IT, as this is all the mixing it requires.

After Sponge has risen, KNEAD DOWN and let rise again. Then place on board, mold into loaves, and place in pans. Let rise until level with top of pan. Bake in moderate oven.

This recipe insures four perfect loaves.

N. B.—Bread made with water keeps moist longer than if made with milk.

"WINGOLD" is the finest flour sold anywhere at any price.

Grocers say the demand for "WINGOLD" is steadily increasing.

SCORES POINT IN NAVAL COURT

Auld Will Not Be Charged With Untruthfulness

Boston, Feb. 4.—The court martial proceedings against Paymaster George P. Auld on the charge that he had attacked Dr. Edward S. Cowles at a navy hop in Charlestown last December closed late yesterday afternoon, following the summing up of the case by Judge Advocate Catlin and Major Leonard for the prosecution and defense respectively.

The court then went into executive session to make up a verdict which will be sealed and forwarded to Secretary of the Navy Meyer. Catlin asked that the specification charging Auld with untruthfulness be dropped, declaring that that charge is the most serious one that can be made against an officer of the navy. Should Auld be found guilty of that he could be dismissed.

Major Leonard, in the course of his speech, said:

"Dr. Cowles has a happy little way of walking into people's houses and picking up things and carrying them off. A married man, he tried to meet this young girl of eighteen, this daughter of a dead officer, in a public place at Sullivan square, and promised to reward her with flowers and candy.

"A young girl, and especially the daughter of a dead officer, is in the custody of every officer of the United States navy, and her safe keeping can well be entrusted to any officer of the navy.

"If you believe Cowles you must wipe out entirely the testimony of the daughter of the admiral, the testimony of Miss Hesler and the testimony of Lieutenant Bassett. All these testified that they understood that Cowles was not a desirable guest for the hop and that any action to be taken by the hop committee that could be taken without offending Mrs. Cowles, would be agreeable all around.

"Lieutenant Auld was called several times a contemptible cur by Cowles. He yielded to the impulse and resented the insult offered him.

"I don't blame Mrs. Cowles for standing by her husband, but when she says she has no animus in this affair I don't believe that she could be credited. She traveled 500 miles to Washington and back. She saw the secretary of the navy, and when she couldn't get the secretary to do as she wished she saw Senator Lodge to help things along.

"We don't want to censure Dr. Ames and the part he took in this affair. He made charges. He acted on information he received, but the information was wrong.

"Dr. Cowles, the doctor who is not a doctor; who treats paresis with a lead pencil and a knife; was evasive, inaccurate and forgetful of his testimony.

"This gentleman's testimony is pervaded with 'I don't knows,' 'I can't remember,' 'I can't says.' The final straw that breaks the camel's back is that he lets his wife bear the brunt of the whole thing.' He lets his wife go to Washington to protect him. The situation ought to be reversed."

A decision was reached at 5:30 o'clock, and although the members of the board are sworn to secrecy, the report became known that Auld had been technically found guilty and that a merely formal though sharp rebuke would be the limit of his punishment.

PAID BIG FOUR REBATES

Warriner Says He Did Not Know Whether They Were Illegal

Cincinnati, Feb. 4.—Charles L. Warriner testified under oath that Frank D. Comstock, his predecessor, as local treasurer of the Big Four Railway, was short $10,500 when Warriner succeeded him. "I assumed that shortage as part of my own," said Warriner.

Warriner also testified that, as treasurer of the Big Four, he had paid many rebates. Asked if any of them were illegal, he replied: "I don't know."

CONDUCTOR'S SUDDEN DEATH

William W. Bailey Passes Away at Braintree

The residents of Braintree were shocked to learn of the sudden death of William W. Bailey, a well known and popular conductor on the New York, New Haven & Hartford, who died at his home on Franklin street late Wednesday evening.

Mr. Bailey, some three years ago, recovered from a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia and it is believed his heart was considerably weakened at that time. Last spring he was compelled to take a rest to improve his health and has since been steadily at work. On Sunday he worked as usual but upon reaching home complained of sort of a tired out feeling. A doctor was summoned, and he pronounced it an attack of the grip. On Tuesday he appeared much worse, continuing to get weaker and Wednesday evening his heart could stand the strain no longer and he passed away at 10.05.

Mr. Bailey was 43 years, of age being employed by the above mentioned railroad 21 years, 15 of which he has been a conductor. He was very popular with fellow workers and passengers alike, and one of the best conductors on the road being always cheerful.

He was a member of Puritan lodge, I. O. O. F., Fraternal Protective Association, Order of Railroad Conductors and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. A widow and three sons, Edward aged 20, Harry aged 18, Eric aged 14, survive him. The funeral will take place from his late residence on Franklin street Sunday afternoon and interment will be at Hanover, his birthplace and former home.

SOUDEN—GOULD.

Mr. Alexander J. Souden of South Quincy and Miss Jessie M. Gould of Norfolk Downs were united in marriage Wednesday evening at the parsonage by Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy, J. Chester Baker served as best man and Miss Ruth M. Gould sister of the bride as bridesmaid. A wedding reception was held at the home of bride, 15 Pierce street. There were many rich and beautiful wedding presents. After a short wedding trips Mr. and Mrs. Souden will make their residence at 43 Quincy avenue, and will be at home to their freinds after March 1.

MILTON.

Dan Van Crambell, one of those who attended the firemen's ball at the Town Hall Wednesday night, and unfortunately for Dan he looked upon something besides the merry dancers, for when it came time to go home he was a little unsteady on his feet. On his way home he had occasion to cross the street car tracks and for some unaccountable reason the rail seemed to rise up and hit him. The result was that he fell and in falling struck his face on the rail. He was rendered partly unconscious and when Officer Shields found him he was bleeding profusely from numerous cuts on his face. He was given a bed in Milton's new police station for the night, and the next morning he told his story to Judge Avery at the District court, and later to the probation officer. He was put on probation for a few weeks to see if he could not brace up.

DEATH THREAT FROM GYPSY

Girl Is Warned That She Must Join Band of Wanderers

Boston, Feb. 4.—Postal inspectors are searching for a gypsy woman, who sent two letters to Miss Molly Kelly, a Roxbury girl, in which she threatened "death or abduction" unless she joined their band, which she said was in camp in East Walpole. The letters were received by the girl after the gypsy had called upon her in the store, where she was employed, and asked her to go to Walpole and become "a queen of her band."

In the first letter the girl's life was threatened unless she joined the band. In the same letter was a threat to kidnap her. A second letter in the same handwriting referred to the threat in the first letter, adding, "you might just as well come to us first as last. If you don't we will kill you somewhere."

Miss Kelly is 17 years old and she is greatly alarmed since receiving the letters.

Bjornson Near Death

Paris, Feb. 4.—The death of Bjornstjerne Bjornson, the Norwegian poet and novelist, is expected momentarily. The members of the family are at the bedside.

OVERTHROWING OF BOSS POWER

Indicated by Stand Taken by Rhode Island's Governor

Providence, Feb. 4.—Governor Pothier has taken a public stand in opposition to Charles R. Brayton, Republican national committeeman and for thirty years the recognized boss of Rhode Island.

Political leaders see in the defiant action the first step toward the overthrowing of boss power and consequent lessening of the influence of Senator Nelson W. Aldrich.

The spectacular announcement from the governor was caused by a statement from former Lieutenant Governor Ralph Watrous, Republican, who declared that Brayton had offered him a position on a commission, the makeup of which is absolutely in the hands of the governor.

The commission is to redistrict the state into representative districts, pursuant to a recent constitutional amendment. It has been asserted by Democrats that Brayton intended to gerrymander the state so as to insure the re-election of Aldrich by the legislature which is to be elected next November.

Governor Pothier has promised a fair redistricting, and when Watrous declared that Brayton had approached him the governor was riled.

"Don't talk jellyfish to me. I'm no jellyfish," said Pothier vigorously. "I want you to understand definitely that I, not Brayton, am the man who is to name the commission. If it is a poor one don't blame Brayton, don't blame anyone else; but blame me, for I shall be responsible.

"I am anxious to have the names of good men suggested to me. I would welcome such suggestions from any citizen of the state, whether that citizen be a business man, or politician, Brayton or anyone else. But when one says to me: 'You must name such and such a man,' I tell you frankly that that means that man won't be appointed if he is the best man in the state.

"I would be nothing but a fool to let the hope of making some slight gains for my party lead me to sanction an unfair redistricting. You must remember that I shall have to approve or veto the acts of this commission and I am not going to lend myself to any such scheme which would ruin my own reputation for political honesty."

Gives Orders by Letter

Providence, Feb. 4.—Charles R. Brayton departed somewhat yesterday in his methods of making known his wishes to members of the legislature by sending every member a circular letter relative to the proposed increase in the salary of the lieutenant governor and speaker of the house.

Hitherto Brayton has held interviews with prominent leaders in the office of the senate committee on corporations. The members of the legislature were somewhat surprised to find letters in a circular form asking them to support the bill increasing the lieutenant governor's salary from $500 to $750, and failing to mention the proposition of an increase to $1500. Brayton also favored an increase in the salary of the speaker of the house from $500 to $600.

FOOD IN STORAGE

Tons of Stuff Revealed by Grand Jury's Visit to New York Plant

New York, Feb. 4.—In Swift & Co.'s plant, it was learned last night, the grand jury which is investigating high food prices found stored 460,000 pounds of beef, 50,000 pounds of poultry and a great quantity of lamb, mutton, pork, butterine, sausage meat, hearts, livers and tripe.

Some of the meat, according to James Brady, superintendent of the plant, had been in storage since last April.

The jury will be in session again today. Employes of Swift & Co. have been subpoenaed to appear.

Good Year For Fishing Industry

Boston, Feb. 4.—Last year was the best one for the Boston fish trade since 1905, according to the report of the Boston fish bureau. Just 92,034,750 pounds of fish were brought to T wharf by schooners. Both dealers and fishermen received fair profits.

IN THE THEATRICAL WORLD

KEITH'S THEATRE.

This is an epoch period for Keith's in Boston. This theatre, already known the world over as a Boston institution, is attracting ever greater attention these days through the class of attractions it is offering. For three weeks it has been crowded to the doors at every performance, and Loie Fuller's Ballet of Light has largely been responsible for this condition of affairs. Certainly nothing like it has been seen on the stage in vaudeville or anywhere else. This week Mr. Keith is going a step further and has especially engaged the Countess de Perriefeu, the Boston society lady who created a sensation a few weeks ago by appearing in barefoot dances at Jordan hall. The Countess de Perreifeu has been for years one of the best known society women and as Elsa Tudor was one of the prominent members of the famous Vincent club and led in all their dances. She was always a sensation at the club affairs and now that she has been induced to go into vaudeville, those who have heard about her and have never had an opportunity of seeing her wonderful dances, will undoubtedly crowd Keith's during the week. Miss Fuller is continually adding new features to her remarkable ballet and so great has been its success that arrangements have already been completed by Mr. Keith for one of the most remarkable tours ever arranged for vaudeville.

PARK THEATRE.

That William Hodge as Daniel Vorhees Pike, attorney at law from Kokomo, Ind., in "The Man From Home" now playing at the Park theatre, Boston, has caught the public fancy is putting it pretty mildly, if one is to judge by the enormous crowds that flock to this cosy theatre at every performance. Nightly the "Standing Room Only" sign is displayed and hundreds are turned away not even able to gain admission. Previously to coming to Boston, "The Man From Home," held the boards of the Astor theatre, New York, for eighteen months, previous to the New York engagement this same piece was presented at the great Chicago opera house for over a year which is the largest run recorded in the history of theatricals in that city. After one has seen "The Man From Home" with that clever and sterling actor, Mr. William Hodge supported by such a capable company, it is no wonder that such records were accomplished. "The Man From Home" is the sort of dramatic farce that is wholesome and the more we get of such entertainments the better we are in consequence. The engagement of William Hodge in this charming comedy will continue at the Park theatre, Boston, and will not be seen in any other city in New England. The management are making a feature of caring for mail orders. Seats are selling two weeks in advance.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

New England life has rarely been pictured so faithfully and so entertainingly as it is in "Shore Acres," which is to be given for the first time at the Castle Square theatre next week by the John Craig Stock Company. This play was written by the late James A. Herne, and acted by him at the Boston Museum with the support of the famous company at that historic playhouse, some fifteen years ago, and since then no play of its kind has exceeded it in popularity. It has been played season after season throughout the country, and for years Mr. Herne gave his famous impersonation of the character of Uncle Nat Berry. Its plot is a simple one, all its characters are extremely realistic, there are many touches of homely country nature, and much that is true to life. Its scenes in the kitchen of a country farm-house, at the old-fashioned anniversary dinner, and the tempestuous light-house episode are in every way remarkable and true to humanity. Not since its original production here at the Boston Museum has "Shore Acres" been performed by a stock company, and for that reason Mr. Craig's production at the Castle Square will be of special interest. Mr. Craig will himself appear in the character of Uncle Nat, a homely, gentle, whole-souled New Englander who dominates the play from beginning to end, and as the fair Helen, Gertrude Binley will give a fine impersonation of beautiful maidenhood. The list of characters is a long one, demanding the whole strength of the John Craig Stock Company, and Donald Meek, Walter Walker, George Hassell, Bert Young, Wilfred Young, Al Roberts, Mabel Colcord and a host of others will all do their share towards making "Shore Acres "one of the successes of the Castle Square season.

THE SHUBERT THEATRE.

After its long run of 33 weeks at the Broadway theatre, New York, "The Midnight Sons," the mammoth Lew Fields production, comes to the Shubert theatre, Boston, next week, inaugurating the musical comedy season at that house, February 7th. Glen MacDonough stands sponsor for the book, and Raymond Hubbell the music. The story, which, by the way, has difficulty in keeping pace with the numerous muscal numbers and interpolated specialties, concern the efforts of four "midnight sons" of Senator Constant Noyes to "go broke." They engage in various kinds of businesses —always making money. Even as proprietors of a hotel the tips from the cloak rooms net thousands each day. Then there are numerous attractive widows and belles upon whom the sons shower their wealth, one of them building a theatre for his fiancee. This he calls "The Merri Murry Theatre," and the audience is given the oportunity of witnessing a performance therein. It is this scene which has caused so much extravagant praise. What the audience sees is the "front" of the theatre—that is the spectators seated in the orchestra chairs, the balconies and the top gallery. One hundred "supers" are employed to represent the audience. Acts appear on the stage of the Merri Murry, although the performers address themselves to the "other audience." One of the sons finally wins the hand of a charming widow, Mrs. Carie Margin, and with a party of friends they set off on their honeymoon. The first stage of the journey shows the bridal party on the observation end of a train of Pullmans.

BOSTON THEATRE.

The great minstrel entertainment presented by Messrs. Cohan & Harris last season no doubt is responsible in a measure for an unusual revival in this style of amusement. which comes to the Boston Theatre for one week only beginning Monday evening, Feb. 7. George Evans is again the star of the organization, assisted by the famous "Honey Boys," only this year they are new "Honey Boys," as the organization contains but few names identified with last year's company. The new first part is entitled "The Crimson Trellis," and is said to be a scene of much beauty. George M. Cohan has written especially for this entertainment a new one-act minstrel comedy entitled "The Fireman's Picnic," for which he has composed some of his characteristic music. It is described as very funny and is elaborately presented with gorgeous scenic effects and by the cast embracing all the principal member of the company.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

An all star bill combining practically every form of entertainment will be presented at the American Music hall next week. The dramatic end of the program will be amply cared for by Bransby Williams the noted English portrayer of Dickens' characters. Mr. Williams long since recognized as one of England's most capable actors has made a specialty during late years of putting in the flesh the creations of the great novelist Charles Dickens. His characterizations of "Barnaby Rudge." "Oliver Twist," "Little Nell," etc. are master pieces of acting. To any theatre-goer his work is entertaining but to the admirer of Dickens his work is an education in itself. A new act which has created a sensation in New York and which will make a very strong bid for topline honors in Boston is that of "Those Three Fellows." The name was suggested by the fact that in refe ring to them it was customary for New Yorkers to say "Have You Seen 'Those Three Fellows?" They are a trio of singers of the Bohemian sort who have scored individual successes at concert halls throughout the country.

BEN-HUR.

When the curtain is drawn at the Boston Theatre on Monday evening, Feb. 14, the most elaborate magnificent and historically correct production will be disclosed that has ever charmed and enthralled a theatre audience. It will be the premiere in Boston of the new and greater production of "Ben-Hur," as re-arranged by Klaw & Erlanger. "Ben-Hur," with its lustrous "Star of Bethlehem," its camels, Arabian steeds, Oriental trappery and minic splendor of the gorgeous East, is beyond doubt the most elaborate spectacle ever staged in the history of the world. Its series of scenes present to the eye a feast of multifarious beauty and variety all set to a symphonic accompaniment of graceful music. The exciting episodes such as the galley scene, with its herds of chained slaves, the sea fight, the rescue in mid-sea, the thrilling race with its quadruple teams of galloping horses, combined with the picturesque scenes representing the appearance of the Star to the Wise Men in the Desert, the moonlit Lake in the Orchard of Palms, where Ben-Hur and Iras make love while drifting in the barge of the fair Egyptian, the palm-waving worshippers on the Mount of Olivos, and the Grove of Daphne, with its nymphs dancing in the skins of beasts to the music of the kissing cymbals, simply captivate the great audiences that are nightly in attendance wherever it is being enacted.

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

DAMAGES FOR ATTACHMENT

Deputy Sheriff Must Pay $1500 For Tying Up Shoe Man's Property

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 4.—For attaching and tying up property valued at $30,000 for a claim of $300 in 1907, Frank Eastman of Melrose, a deputy sheriff in Middlesex county, will have to pay $1500 to Arthur A. Williams, a shoe manufacturer of Wayland, according to a verdict returned by a jury in the superior civil court.

The allegations state that an excessive attachment of the property which Eastman knew was not needed for the security of the claim was made, and further, that Eastman did so maliciously and without right for the purpose of injuring the plaintiff.

Report to Bar Open Inquests

Boston, Feb. 4.—The joint judiciary committee of the legislature, in executive session, voted to report adversely on the petition for passage of a bill to provide that inquests into cases of death by violence be open to the public.

CUMMINGS GETS PRISON SENTENCE

Convicted of Uttering One of Framingham's Forged Notes

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 4.—Charles S. Cummings was sentenced to five to eight years in state prison by Judge Bond in the superior criminal court immediately after Clerk Ambrose had read the sealed verdict of guilty, charging Cummings with having uttered a forged note of the town of Framingham for $15,000 and with larceny in that connection.

Stay of sentence was granted and Cummings' bonds for $35,000 will be increased as soon as arrangements can be made with the bondsmen.

During the trial Treasurer John B. Lombard of Framingham, who has confessed to having forged notes of his town for large sums, testified that he had forged several of the notes at the instigation of Cummings. This was denied by Cummings.

GOBBLED BY STATE POLICE

Man Who Was to Take Taft's Place Next Month Will Be Disappointed

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 4.—While the court officers and newspaper men were waiting for the numerous trials at the courthouse here to be resumed a long haired person, armed with a bright red umbrella, made a speech in the corridor in which he claimed that he had just been informed of his election as president over Mr. Taft by a majority of 30,000.

He said that he was a cousin of General Kuropatkin, and that the notification of his election came from the secretary of the White House. He expects to be inaugurated next month, but a member of the state police, who took charge of him, thinks differently.

GAYNOR RAPS THE POLICE

Declares It Is Their Business to Keep Their Hands Off People

New York, Feb. 4.—Lieutenant Torney, U. S. A., was arrested "just for being one of the crowd" in company with Miss Inez Milholland, Vassar graduate, suffragette and champion of the striking girl shirtwaist operators. Though discharged in police court, Torney carried his case to Mayor Gaynor, protestnig against the action of Police Captain Henry, who caused his arrest.

Reprimanding the police captain at the hearing the mayor said: "It is the business of the police to keep their hands off people. No one should be arrested unless guilty of some offense defined by law. In the case of strikers the business of the police is to preserve the peace and take no sides."

MEYER REMAINS MUM

Will Not Say What Is to Be Done With Admirals For Criticising

Washington, Feb. 4.—Secretary Meyer resolutely refuses to discuss the reports that he contemplates demoting Admirals Rogers and Capps for their criticisms of his naval reorganization scheme in their testimony before the committee on naval affairs, but he is following the newspaper reports carefully and apparently booking up the public sentiment concerning his reorganization plan and the incidents at the Capitol as it is expressed in the press.

It is apparently the intention of the navy department to regard the admirals responsible for criticising not only their immediate superior, but the President of the United States, who has indorsed the Meyer plan.

ELKINS' COMPLAINT

Thinks Efforts Are Being Made to Have Food Inquiry Sidetracked

Washington, Feb. 4.—Senator Elkins made bitter complaint in the senate concerning his treatment relative to his resolution providing for an investigation into the high price of food products.

He charged Senator Aldrich with a desire to shield the tariff law and the trusts in the inquiry, and he hinted that hereafter he might be an "insurgent" if his wishes did not receive more respectful consideration.

THIEVES IN EVENING DRESS

Force Victim Into an Auto, Take Him to Dark Alley and Rob Him

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Robbery by a new method was committed here when two men in evening dress drove up to the sidewalk in an automobile, pointed revolvers at Jacob Butz, a restaurant proprietor, and after forcing him into the machine, took him from a prominent business street to a dark alley and leisurely robbed him.

A watch and $87 were taken from him and the highwaymen, leaving their victim, drove away.

A pretty dancing party was held at Alpha hall on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Entre Nous club, composed of the twenty to thirty young women at the Quincy telephone exchange. The floor directors were Miss Alma LeClair and Miss Josephine O'Brien, who were assisted by aids. It was a 12 o'clock party.

Mrs. Charles M. Conant of Squantum street passed away at her home Thursday morning after a short illness. Mrs. Conant has lved n Atlantic but a short time, having recently moved here from Sharon. Her death is mourned by a husband and two little sons.

A "test" social was held by the Ladies' Aid Society at the Methodist Episcopal church at Atlantic on Tuesday night. The time was merrily passed with games and "tests." During the evening the ladies served chocolate and cakes.

QUINCY CUP CHALLENGE

Corinthian Club Forwarded One on Thursday

The Boston Yacht club, the holder of the Quincy Yacht club challenge cup, received on Thursday a challenge from the Corinthian Yacht club of Marblehead. It was sent by William L. Carlton, chairman of the regatta committee of the Corinthian club, and acknowledged by Bryan S. Permar, chairman of the regatta committee of the Boston Yacht club. Other challenges will probably follow from the Quincy, Eastern and Mancrester clubs, and possibly from the New York and Buzzard Bay clubs. The races will be held in Hull bay.

QUARTERBACK TO SPEAK

Pishon of Dartmouth in Quincy Tonight

The biggest event ever held for students in Quincy is scheduled at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7.30. Under the direction of the College Club a college night will be held and the speaker is Sturgis Pishon of Dartmouth. Every body acquainted with football to a large or small degree has heard of this man Pishon. He has a remarkable career: quarterback on the football team for the past two years, leading lady in the dramatic club for the same period, he has the reputation of being the smallest man playing big football. A year ago last fall he stripped 128 and last fall 135. He won recognition by his wonderful playing in the Princeton game of 1908. An injury to his ankle in the Princeton game last fall prevented his getting into the Harvard game. He is a member of one of the leading fraternities and a senior society man, at the same time being interested in Christian Association work. It is a rare privilege to have such a man as this and every student that has the opportunity should make the best of it.

EVANGELIST LINDSAY

To Make Two Addresses to Christian Endeavorers

The Young People's Society of Bethany church will have charge of the evening service tomorrow. Rev. Samuel Lindsay of Newton is to be the speaker of the evening and the young people are anticipating great things. Mr. Lindsay is a young man who has been in this country only a little over a year, and already has made a record for himself. He has been associated with Dr. W. W. Bustard of the Ruggles Street Baptist church, and later of Mr. Rockefeller's church in Cleveland. At the latter he conducted all the church services during Dr. Bustard's absence of three months, and the congregation was very much pleased with him. During the last year he has conducted revival services in East Weymouth and Lawrence. Those who heard him in these places, have characterized him as "an earnest and powerful speaker," and "a man of magnetic personality." Thus, though only 24 years of age this young Scotchman is old in the service and he will surely have a message for his hearers tomorrow night.

EVANGELIST LINDSAY.

The Bethany Society is to be congratulated on securing this rising young evangelist as their speaker The address will be evangelistic in character, and Mr. Lindsay will take as his subject: "Why should I be a Christian?"

Mr. Lindsay is also to speak at the East Norfolk Union meeting in the Atlantic Memorial Church, Monday evening, at 7.45. Those who hear him tomorrow evening will surely attend the meeting at Atlantic.

At the Sunday evening service, in addition to a fine speaker, there will be excellent music. The choir will sing a special anthem, and solos will be rendered by Mrs. Emma Schufeldt Moore of Quincy and Miss Eva Steeves of Melrose. The service gives promise of being an excellent one and a fitting reminder of the anniversary of the founding of the Christian Endeavor Society by Dr. Clark and his friends. Christian Endeavor Day is of world-wide interest.

Lodger (quarreling with his landlady)—"I haven't been in lodgings for years for nothing."

Landlady—"I suppose not, and you're not going to stay here for nothing neither."—London Tit-Bits.

CONTRACTS SIGNED.

The contract was signed today by Admiral Bowles for the two battleships to be built for the Argentine Republic and he with Mr. Brown sail from England for home on Wednesday on the Oceanic.

ALVIN H. POUNTNEY.

The sincere and heartfelt sympathy of hosts of friends goes out to the family of Alvin H. Pountney of Taylor street, who died Friday morning after a month's illness. He first had a bronchial trouble and returning to his work too soon, pleuro-pneumonia developed. After the crisis had passed his family were hopeful of his recovery, but complications set in which baffled the skill of specialists, none of whom were able to help him. Mr. Pountney was graduated from Quincy High school in the class of 1906 and was in the N. Y., and N. H. R. R. office. Honored and respected, to his intimates a genial warm-hearted and loyal friend; thoughtful of those around him; his passing away when life seemed brightest makes it doubly hard for those who loved him best.

Services will be held at his home Sunday afternoon at 2.30.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

The subscription sale of tickets for the second annual concert of the Choral Society has been fully as successful as that of last year and the public sale of reserved seats at C. C. Hearn's which opened Feb. 1st, is progressing favorably. Every seat in Music hall is a good seat for any musical production and the managers of the Messiah concert hope to see every available space filled when the opening number begins. No city in the commonwealth has citizens better fitted to pass judgment upon a Messiah concert than has our own city of Quincy, and if the choral society can succeed in winning such praise and interest as was expressed after the artistic rendering of Elijah last year, it will indeed be proven that the society is worthy of every support in its determination to produce complete works in a manner befitting the greatness of the compositions.

Conductor Wonson believes that the Quincy Choral Society, if it receives sufficient financial support, can attain a very high place among musical organizations; and as he has opportunities of studying chorus work in many parts of this country and Canada, his judgment is worthy of note. He has led many a chorus to brilliant victory in concert work and confidently expects this rendering of the Messiah to come up to the high standard he has set and to prove in every way a musical treat for the people of Quincy.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frank Foley was arraigned for assault on Officer J. P. Dwyer of the Metropolitan park police. Case continued until next Tuesday.

CODDINGTON ENTERTAINMENT

Operetta of Golden Hair Successfully Presented

The benefits of the new Coddington school and its school hall are beginning to be realized. An audience of 700 assembled last evening for the charming operetta "Golden Hair and the three bears" presented by the pupils. W. H. Bentley, the master, explained before the last act how the entertainment came to be given. He said that at the beginning of the school year in September it became the practice to assemble in the hall for a few minutes every Monday morning. Soon a glee club was started, and then a public entertainment was suggested. With the kind help of Miss Elizabeth Garrity, one of the teachers, as conductor, you see the result, which evidences of appreciation tonight show to be somewhat successful. We did not feel like calling on the city, which has been generous to us, to provide a stereopticon, so we started to raise the funds ourselves. We have been successful beyond measure, and thank you all. Mr. Bentley, said the Coddington was a public school where we do business five days per week. The public were always welcomed and invited to visit the school.

In the cast of the operetta were:

Golden Hair	Maud Brown
Woodland Queen	Ruth Packard
Bard	Edwin I. Beal
Faithful	Mary Myatte
Lightfoot	Dorothy Sweetland
Frailty	Gertrude Meade
Airy	Flora McPherson
Will-o'-the-wisp	Neomie Comeau
Big Bruin	Edward Townsend
Mammy Muff	John McGowan
Tiny Cub	Sturgis Hunt.

Chorus of 70 voices.

The operetta was presented in five scenes, opening with the "Children in the forest," and attractive scenes they were. The girls of the chorus were in white dresses spangled with gold, and the boys in white outing shirts and light trousers. All carried flowers. The characters above were in appropriate costumes. Each of the eleven had solo parts, and also appeared in duetts and trios. The musical parts were excellent and often caused applause. The three bears in costume appeared in scene two, and occasioned considerable merriment, especially among the children in the audience, by their songs and dances.

All the parts were exceedingly well taken, and no special reference will be made to any one in particular. The chorus were good and carried the parts well, entering into the spirit of the operetta. All in all it was a grand success.

In the chorus were the following children:

Adrian McFarlane	Elizabeth Vincent
William Acorn	Marian Finn
Warren Williams	Lillian Ford
Helen Crane	Edith Bixby
Margaret Magee	Grace Brown
Blanche Hayden	Francis Ward
Claudia Wilson	Julia Moynihan
Ethel McEwan	Mabel Jilbert
Dora Grabowsky	Eleanor Williams
Marian Edwards	Margaret Hogan
Evelyn Galvin	Esther Murphy
Ethel Beal	Ruth Murphy
Edith Sullivan	Olive Newcomb
John Cunningham	Merton Grant
Guy Shaw	Chester French
Alfred Gabriel	Theo Rice
Ruth Leavitt	Edward Nelligan
Doris Frazier	Ethel Vaughan
Mabel Pitts	Helen Rogers
Dorothy Kiernan	Willard Crocker
Jennie Kerner	Mabel Labadie
Amy Torrey	Hester Harkins
Angie Towne	Cecil Foss
Mary Bradley	Francis Sherman
Phyllis Collins	Sara Leet
Isabel Crane	Louise Comeau
Carl Pierce	Karl Sidelinger
Miriam Hardy	Harold Round

Before the opening of the operetta Miss Garrity was presented by the teachers of the Coddington school with an exquisite box of violets.

Miss Estes ,the accompanist was also presented with a box of pinks by the teachers.

SONS OF VETERANS ACTIVE.

A rousing meeting of Col. Abner B. Packard Camp, Sons of Veterans was held last evening. There were a large number of visiting comrades present from Camp 33 of Braintree, Camp 74 of Milton and Camp 30 of Dorchester, also a number of comrades from the camp at Bath Maine, who are now in town. Four candidates were mustered in.

It was decided to give an entertainment at Alpha hall, Feb. 21. Charles F. Strattod, Jr., is the chairman of the committee having the entertainment in charge which means that it will be a success.

A recruiting committee was also appointed to get new members. This committee is headed by Harry E. D. Gould, the patriotic instructor. It has been figured out that there are over one hundred in Quincy eligible for membership, and it is hoped to get the greater part of these to join the camp. On Feb. 18 an open meeting will be held at which a number of division officers will be present.

SOUTH BOSTON GANG.

The Metropolitan Park police had quite a tussle last evening with a gang of South Boston youths who undertook to run things to please themselves. The party was headed toward a house that does not have any too good a reputation and when on Blue Hill Terrace, began to create a disturbance. Then the park police interfered. During the scrap the police had to draw their night sticks, which they used to good effect. Four of the boys were arrested. Three were juveniles, and one was old enough to know better. The older fellow, who gave his name as Frank Foley, was also arrested for assault on Officer Dwyer, who alleges that during the scrimmage Foley gave him a savage kick in the groin. All four were arraigned in court this morning for disturbing the peace, and Foley on the additional charge of assaulting an officer. All cases were continued until next Tuesday, Foley being held in $200 bonds.

—The Republican state committee has invited the Republican members of the Legislature to a dinner in the American House on the evening of Feb. 14. The speakers on the occasion will be President Treadway of the Senate, Speaker Walker of the House and Charles E. Hatfield, chairman of the state committee. The affair will begin with a reception from 6 to 6.30 o'clock, at which hour the dinner will be served.

NEW BRIDGE OVER NEPONSET

Calls for Appointment of Irresponsible Commission

When the Metropolitan Park Commission decides it advisable to connect the Quincy Shore parkway at Atlantic with the parkways of Boston it will be time to advocate another bridge ove the Neponset river somewhere between the Hancock street bridge and the Granite avenue bridge, but House bill No. 171, now before the Legislature, has no merit, and has much to condemn. The commission proposed is a very irresponsible one and should never be authorized. The expense is uncalled for.

The bill reads as follows:

Section 1. A commission, as hereinafter specified, shall forthwith construct as a highway a new bridge across the Neponset river, to be known as Neponset bridge, at or near the present site of the so-called Neponset bridge, from Neponset avenue in Boston to Hancock street in Quincy; shall construct any necessary approaches to said Bridge on each end thereof; may construct a temporary highway bridge to be used by vehicles and pedestrians during such construction; shall cause shoals to be dredged or otherwise removed so as to afford vessels passing to or through the draw of said bridge a depth of water equal at least to that now afforded; and shall take such lands for the approaches to said bridge as they shall deem necessary for carrying out the provision of this act, and shall cause all lands so taken to be properly filled and graded.

Section 2 The board of harbor and land commissioners shall authorize such occupation of lands or flats outside of the harbor lines, at and near each end of said bridge, as they deem necessary for the proper construction of said bridge and for avoiding angles that will tend to cause collections of floating matter, and in granting licenses for the dredging of flats in said river shall endeavor to ensure the removal of the shoals aforesaid by the licenses prior to the necessity for such removal, as required in the preceding section.

Section 3. Said commission shall be styled the Neponset bridge commission, shall consist of one member to be appointed by the mayor for the time being of the city of Boston, one member to be appointed by the mayor for the time being of the city of Quincy, and a third person to be appointed jointly by said mayors, or in the event of their failing to agree upon a third commissioner, then he shall be appointed by the governor; and any vacancy occurring by death, resignation, inability to serve, or otherwise, on the part of any commissioner, shall be filled by appointment in the manner herein provided for the original appointment. Said commissioners shall receive such compensation for their services as said mayors may agree upon, or in case of their failure to agree, such compensation as the governor may determine.

SHIPYARD CASE.

A verdict of $4850 was given against the Fore River Shipbuilding Company yesterday in the Norfolk Superior court in the case of Hannah Carroll, administratrix of her husband Edward F. Carroll, who sued to recover $25,000 for his death from injuries at the shipyard, Aug. 22, 1908.

PHILERGIANS.

Feb. 1st the Philergians held a regular meeting in Cochato hall. This being an open meeting the hall was filled with club members and guests "Parsifal and the Holy Grail" illustrated with colored slides, with the music of Wagner, was presented in an able and interesting manner by Dr. Henry R. Rose, who is rector of the Church of The Redeemer, Newark, N. J.

The next regular meeting will be the evening of Feb. 15th, in place of the afternoon. This will be Gentlemen's Night. Mrs. Emily M. Bishop will present "Who's Who in the Senate."

Mrs. Bishop's "Who's Who in the Senate" cannot be praised too highly. The business or professional man, the student or literateur who may not have the time to wade through the pages of the congressional record, will get from these readings, the facts so often garbled by newspapapers and politicians, concerning important national issues of the day.

Mrs. Bishop's art is unrivalled. She enters so fully into the spirit of the drama of the senate, that the auditor feels himself transported into the senate gallery. Mrs. Bishop has succeeded in doing the apparently impossible in making a series of interesting entertaining, dramatic readings from the congressional record.

The idea is so original, its matter so significant, the reading so strong so sincere, that one feels that here is a real force for civic regeneration, and wish that Mrs. Bishop might be heard by every person in our community, as well as throughout the country, is expressed by every member of the Philergians.

Gentlemen's night has not been on the program of the club for a number of years and it is to be hoped that Cochato hall will be filled by enthusiastic people

Friday evening the entertainment under the management of the art and literature committee, Mrs. Ella Sheppard Gallagher, chairman was given at the home of Judge Albert E. Avery, East Braintree. "Hymns and Hymn Writers" was interestingly given by Rev. R. H. Cochrane of the Union church. A double quartet consisting of Mr. J. H. Stedman, Dr. Bent, Miss Avery, Mrs. Joyce, Mrs. Ellsworth, Mrs. Avery, Mr. A. N. Hunt and Judge Avery sung several of the hymns to the enjoyment of all. Mrs. Avery presided at the piano and also rendered solos in her usual pleasing manner.

The classes on Household Economies are held in Delta hall, with Mrs. Wade as teacher Friday afternoon.

—Newton has adopted a card-index system for the schools, so that every child who is enrolled in any school gets a card which goes with him, giving his record as he is promoted from one school to another. No doubt the system has some advantages, but it also has the disadvantage of possibly prejudicing teachers against certain pupils when it would be better for them to make up their own judgment. Everybody knows that a boy who is a dead failure with one teacher may be industrious and successful with another.—Somerville Sournal.

DANCE OF MANET CLUB

Second Annual Party Was Largely Attended

The second annual dance of the Manet Social club was held last evening at Music hall and was the occasion for a large gathering of the members and friends of the association. Wilson's orchestra furnished the music and dancing was in order from 8 to 2 o'clock. There was no grand march the dance opening with a waltz.

Daniel Mahon was the floor director and George Mullen assistant, and they were assisted by William McCarthy, Thomas Sullivan, Gunner Johnson, William O'Neil, Sylvester Phelan, William Baker and Arthur Wentworth.

The officers of the club are as follows:

President—William McCarthy.
Vice President—Arthur Wentworth.
Secretary—Thomas Sullivan.
Treasurer—Gunner Johnson.
Members—Albert Smith, Frederick Hayden, John Neagle, George Mullen, Walter Mattie, William O'Neil, Sylvester Phelan, Daniel Mahon, William Baker.

GUESTS OF WAMPATUCKS.

A good time was enjoyed by all those who attended the supper and entertainment given by Judge L. A. Cook at his residence in South Weymouth Wednesday evening, Feb. 2. The guests invited were the members of Wampatuck Encampment No. 18 I. O. O. F. There were about forty members present and a bountiful and appetizing supper was served at 7.30 after which those present enjoyed a good cigar. Vocal and instrumental music and whist were also enjoyed until a late hour when the guests departed for their homes much pleased with the hospitality shown them.

The most noted member Joseph A. Cushing acted as usher in the early part of the evening. When supper was ready to be served he was the first to be seated and the last to leave the table assisted by some of his brothers as he ate four big oranges while the others were waiting.

Among those present were Harry S. Bates, Forrest I. Neal, Fred M. Buzzell, Conrad W. Carlander W. A. Pettendreigh, R. N. Stone and W. L. Bates of Braintree, and the following from East Weymouth, Joseph A. Cushing, A. N. Gardner, C. Q. Marion, Anthony J. Smith, G. D. Bagley, J. F. Otis, P. L. Tirrell W. M. Tirrell, M. L. Denbroeder, C. SEWING MACHINES

AT PRICES FAIR TO PAY

If the sewing machines we sell were controlled by a trust, as many sewing machines are today you couldn't buy them at our price. We refuse to sell Trust-made Sewing Machines, consequently we can sell you a machine at the price you ought to pay, $25.00. Drop head, easy running, almost noiseless, oak case, full set of attachments. Guaranteed for 10 years and if it runs for 10 years it ought to be good for 20 more. That's the proposition we offer; it ought to sound good to those who don't own a machine. A week's trial free to anyone.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

A high official in France is quoted as expressing a fear a few days ago that the prevailing floods in that country would reach the proportions of a national disaster. Two members of the French cabinet now estimate the losses at $200,000,000, and the crisis has barely passed. Though more in known about the conditions in Paris than the rest of France calamatious ruin evidently exists in a vast area outside the capital. A pitiful picture is drawn of the lack of shelter and food from which thousands are suffering, of the general paralysis of business and the uncertainty of the safety of residence dwellings. So powerful an appeal will this situation make to the sympathies of foreigners that relief measures will quickly be adopted in many other countries if France intimates that such help would be welcome. Meantime the French government is meeting the heavy responsibilities suddenly thrust upon its shoulders with courage and a fine spirit of devotion. The reason for the deluge has not yet been sufficiently explained for scientists to make predictions as to what may happen in France during the vernal freshets.

The 1909 corn crop has not been moving marketward in quantities that might in reason be expected from the size of the crop. The small receipts during January of the present year as compared with the receipts of the preceding January seem to be general throughout the country. A statement recently given out indicates that at the end of the last week in January there were in the elevators of leading cities the following corn storages: In Chicago, 2,683,000; in Baltimore, 2-303,000; New Orleans, 1,190,000; St. Louis, 858,000; Kansas City, 728,000; New York, 619,000; Indianapolis, 458,-000; and Boston, 280,000. In numerous other cities there were lesser amounts reported, but in the aggregate only about 10,000,000 of bushels were reported as being in city elevators. This comparatively small showing is doubtless mainly accounted for by the fact that thousands of small elevators have in recent years been erected in the corn territories. Corn that is held back in expectation of an advance in price is now most frequently kept in the local storage-houses. The farmers will surely not feed more than two-thirds of the big crop of last year to stock. Several hundred millions of bushels of 1909 corn should move eastward between now and June 1.

NORTH POLE LECTURE.

Captain Robert A. Bartlett who lectures in Quincy, Feb. 10, was born in Newfoundland thirty-four years ago. He left school at sixteen to go sealing with his father on the north-east coast of Newfoundland and Gulf of St. Lawrence during the months of March and April. The summer months were spent codfishing on the Laborador coast and during the winters foreign voyages were made to South America and Europe. In 1897-8 he was mate on the "Windward "when Commodore Peary was on his way to Nome basin, latitude 80 degrees. Upon his return from the Arctic he was made captain of a sealer and in 1906 took command of the Roosevelt spending their winters in the Arctic.

—"A woman," we are informed, "needs seven hours' sleep for the building up of her system. Then she needs two more hours for the recuperation of her body, and the extra two hours will restore her complexion, make her eyes bright ,take the wrinkles out of her face, and keep the form elastic." This is a much more graceful version of the stern old adage, "Seven for a man, eight for a woman, and nine for a fool." Without professing faith in all these miracles of the extra hours of sleep we may agree that it is well to err on the side of indulgence. Only the superhuman people like Napoleon can afford to economize in their hours of sleep. Those who wish to remain healthily human and festive should save time somewhere else.—London Telegraph.

PROFIT AND LOSS

To Be Considered at Closing of Evangelistic Services

The evangelistic meetings at the Water Street Presbyterian church will close on Sunday. At the morning service at 10.30 Rev. C. T. Schaeffer will speak on "Consecration."

At 12 o'clock a special sabbath service will be conducted by Mr. Schaeffer.

At 3 o'clock a mass meeting for men and older boys over 14 years will be held. Mr. Schaeffer will speak on "Profit and Loss." Mr. Schaeffer will speak from the standpoint of the business man, having been a successful business-man before he became a preacher and evangelist. F. A. Arbuckle, a noted gospel singer from Philadelphia, will have charge of the music and will sing a solo at this service.

At 6 P. M. a special service of the Christian Endeavor society led by Mr. Schaeffer.

At 7 P. M. closing evangelistic service, conducted by Rev. C. T. Schaeffer and Mr. Arbuckle. A cordial invitation is extended to all of these services. Motto for this week, "Hold fast that which is good."

STRIKE IN STEEL WORKS

Nearly Twelve Hundred Men Are Out, With Many More to Follow

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 5.—All indications point to a complete tie-up of the machine shops of the Bethlehem Steel Works here. The strike, which began yesterday, when about 500 men walked out, spread until nearly 1200 employes had gone on strike.

It is said that the 1300 men employed in No. 2 machine shop will follow the example of their fellow workmen today. The men quit work because they were refused time and half time for all extra work.

Rare Manuscripts Found

Rome, Feb. 5.—In the course of alterations in the Palazzo Vecchio, Florence, partition walls were demolished and the hiding place was discovered of 200 volumes of manuscripts, dating from 1306 to the overthrow of the republic. The papers relate to the diplomatic relations between Germany, Arezzo, Perugia and Pistola.

Free Mail Service For Roosevelt

Washington, Feb. 5.—The free carriage of all mail matter sent by Theodore Roosevelt during his natural life is proposed by Representative Fish of New York, who introduced a bill in congress to that effect.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

A SQUARE DEAL.

Editors Ledger:

Quincy residents are known to give a square deal and to be heartily in favor of fair competition. This is true as far as eatables etc., go but are we not a little bit careless when it comes to other things?

Take for instance the laundry. We all have occasion to call upon some laundry to cleanse our clothes for. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." When you pick out a laundry do you consider the fact that this is a business where competition is perhaps as keen as in anything we have occasion to use during the week.

You wonder at this. Just suppose you were in the laundry business, making a fairly good living. You work at it only eight or ten hours a day and hire female help. All of a sudden you are informed you can only work women and minors 56 hours a week. You have to pay them as much as before for doing less work. You have to send out for your work and return it. That means horses to maintain. All of this is true in most of our laundries today. For competition you have the foreigner who takes entirely to this trade. They are under little expense. They work from four in the morning until twelve at night, stay in this country ten years or so then go home and take it easy the remainder of their life.

Is that fair competition? If you are in business would you invite such competition? We think not.

Why then don't people patronize the industries that will help them and the city, instead of helping foreigners make enough to live years in idleness. The girls in the laundries in this city spend their money in Quincy stores, the proprietors do likewise and it is therefore a duty to patronize laundries where they have to fight such competition. Think this over and see of this is not unfair competition.

VESPER SERVICE.

At the vesper service at First church on Sunday at four o'clock the following music will be rendered:

Service Prelude, "Meditation in a Cathedral" Silas
Gloria
Soprano Solo, "I love the Lord" Berwald
Trio, "O, cease, my wandering soul" G. W. Chadwick
Postlude, "March in D" Deshayes

NEW CANADIAN LAW.

Hon. Robert Luce a recent member of the Massachusetts Legislature has consented to address the Christ church Men's club next Monday night at the parish house, Elm street on the new Canadian Law. Many of the city's prominent men including the Mayor and Senator Hultman have agreed to be present. In addition, the presence of seven or eight men's clubs will serve to make this occasion a notable one.

MILTON.

The Thursday Evening club held an enjoyable whist party Thursday evening. It was practically the last social event before Lent.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bearse who have been visiting relatives at Brewer Me., have returned home.

There has been some kicking at the fence along the railroad tracks near the East Milton depot but all agree that it may be the means of saving lives.

The annual ball of the Firemen's Relief association was held at the Town hall Wednesday night and was a grand success. Many firemen were present from adjoining towns and cities and all reported a good time. The march was led by Chief George F. Choate.

The East Milton Improvement association has been invited to join with the West Quincy association in pushing the matter of the extension of the street railway line over Granite avenue to connect with the Boston Elevated line at Adams street.

The warrant for the annual town meeting is not out yet but it is expected that it will be posted this week. There are an unusual number of articles in the warrant, and it is said that it will be a record breaker for length.

The meeting of the East Milton Improvement Association Monday evening was a lively one. Town meeting topics were under discussion and the lie was passed several times during the meeting. The chairman was powerless to check the speakers, who had their own way. Austin W. Greene one of the candidates for town office was severely raked over and it looks as though he would receive but scanty support from the east section of the town.

WOMEN SURPRISED ROBBER AT WORK

He Confesses to Killing Three by Beating With Hammer

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 5.—The mystery of the murder of the three women, Mrs. Amada Gribble, her daughter, Mrs. Ohlander, and Mrs. Maggie Hunter, on Dec. 10 last, was cleared up by the confession of Brigham Bryan, a negro, held on suspicion. Bryan said he entered the house bent on robbery and carrying a hammer as a weapon.

Mrs. Gribble caught him in the kitchen. He said he struck her several times with the hammer before she died. Then the daughter ran in and after striking her down with his fist, he beat her with the hammer.

As he was trying to leave the house, the third woman came in and grabbed him. He said he caught her by the throat and choked her and struck her with the hammer.

SEVEN TERMS IN CONGRESS

Congressman Lovering Passes Away After a Long Illness

Washington, Feb. 5.—William C. Lovering, representative from the Fourteenth Massachusetts district, died at his home here of pneumonia, following a confinement of several weeks to the house with pleurisy.

Mr. Lovering was 75 years of age, and his strength had been failing for the last few years. He was seriously affected by the heat of last summer and was compelled to return to his summer home in Massachusetts before the close of the extra session. He was attended in his last illness by his daughter, Miss Alice Lovering, who had been his companion in Washington for several years.

Arrangements have been made for sending the body to Massachusetts and probably the funeral will be held in Taunton Monday, with burial in the same city.

Mr. Lovering was among the foremost of the insurgent group in the house in his opposition to the house system of management and never yielded an inch of his convictions or activity under severe pressure which was put upon him by the regular organization.

BRIGHT NEGRO GIRL

Her Average the Highest of Any Public School Pupil In Hoboken

New York, Feb. 5.—Estelle E. Gibbs, a negro girl, 14 years old, living with her parents in Hoboken, received the first prize, a gold medal, at the graduating exercises of the Hoboken public school pupils.

She had the highest average of any public scholar in the city, 99 1-3 percent in six subjects.

There are 10,000 white pupils in the schools and only fifteen negroes.

CANNOT SHARE MILLIONS

Children of Draper's Divorced Daughter-In-Law Cut Off In Will

Hopedale, Mass., Feb. 5.—In addition to barring his brothers from his funeral, General W. F. Draper carried his hostility against the divorced wife of his son, George O. Draper, into the grave.

In his will, filed in Worcester, he directs that the children of the marriage shall not share in the disposal of his estate.

As though to emphasize his passionate dislike of the Kentucky belle who brought the Draper name into the divorce court, he directed in his will that should George O. Draper again marry and have children they should inherit the millions left in the estate on equal terms with the children of General Draper's other sons.

FIRE IN DORMITORY

Smith College Girls Get Bad Scare and Many Lose Personal Effects

Northampton, Mass., Feb. 5.—Twenty-five girl students at Smith college were forced to flee screaming from their dormitory, Clarke House, leaving their dinners behind them, when the building was discovered to be on fire last night.

All the girls escaped without injury, but most of them lost all of their personal effects. The flames practically destroyed the rear of the dormitory. The loss is set at $8000. The fire is believed to have started from an overheated furnace.

No Trouble In Near East

London, Feb. 5.—Dispatches from the near eastern capitals take a calmer tone, and official advices to the British foreign office are of a more reassuring character. The reports that Turkey is arming against Bulgaria or Greece are denied.

Eight-Hour Day For Minors

Boston, Feb. 5.—The legislative committee on labor will report favorably the bill to limit the hours of labor of a child under 16 to eight hours a day. This is the chief measure advocated by the Massachusetts child labor committee.

Mrs. Peary Disposes of Relics

New York, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Robert E. Peary, wife of the North Pole discoverer, has sold for a sum said to be nearly $50,000 three meteors brought from the Arctic regions by Commander Peary.

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD BREAD RECIPE

ONE TABLESPOONFUL of shortening, one level tablespoonful salt, one-third cup sugar. Add one pint scalding water, then add another pint of cold water.

Let stand until lukewarm and add one yeast cake. STIR "WINGOLD" FLOUR into this with a spoon until it becomes as thick as you can possibly stir it. DO NOT KNEAD IT, as this is all the mixing it requires.

After Sponge has risen, KNEAD DOWN and let rise again. Then place on board, mold into loaves, and place in pans. Let rise until level with top of pan. Bake in moderate oven.

This recipe insures four perfect loaves.

N. B.—Bread made with water keeps moist longer than if made with milk.

"WINGOLD" is the finest flour sold anywhere at any price.

Grocers say the demand for "WINGOLD" is steadily increasing.

Jan. 24-12t

Perfectly Proper.

A young preacher who was staying at a clergy house was in the habit of retiring to his room for an hour or more each day to practice pulpit oratory. At such times he filled the house with sounds of fervor and pathos and emptied it of most everything else. Phillips Brooks chanced to be visiting a friend in this house one day when the budding orator was holding forth.

"Gracious me!" exclaimed the bishop, starting up in assumed terror. "Pray, what might that be?"

"Sit down, bishop," his friend replied. "That's only young D. practicing what he preaches."

Two Deaths In Legislature

Boston, Feb. 5.—The death of Senator Thomas S. Walsh of Springfield was announced to the senate yesterday afternoon and the death of Representative James A. Halliday of Saugus was announced in the house.

Cohen Out on Bail

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—Ferdinand Cohen, the waiter who eloped with Roberta De Janon, was released on $1500 bail.

Stokes Is Named Surgeon General

Washington, Feb. 5.—President Taft nominated Surgeon Charles F. Stokes, U. S. N., to be surgeon general of the navy, succeeding Surgeon General P. M. Rixey, retired.

Money to Prosecute White Slavery

New York, Feb. 5.—The board of estimate voted the appropriation of $25,000 asked by District Attorney Whitman for the work of investigating the "white slave" traffic.

The members of the Matrons' whist club were entertained Monday evening by Mrs. M. C. Gillette of Hancock street. Mrs. W. F. Woodsum and Mrs. H. W. Bosworth made the highest scores.

Wednesday evening the farce "Not a Man in the House" was presented by local talent in Holbrook for the benefit of the Congregational church. The members of the cast were Mrs. Joseph Schraut, Miss Josie Foster, Miss Fannie Foster, Miss Lyda Tupper and Miss Bertha Dreghorn of South Braintree.

The members of the Ivaloo whist club were entertained Friday afternoon by Mrs. D. A. Brooks of Franklin street, Mrs. William T. Allen made the largest score.

Mrs. H. L. Bates of Sampson avenue returned Sunday from the New Deaconess hospital, Brookline, where she has been receiving treatment. She is much improved in health and her ultimate recovery is assured.

Monday, January 31, was a gala day with Mr. and Mrs. George R. M. Bestick of Crescent avenue. It was the former's birthday and many relatives and friends took occasion to visit and call to offer remembrances and sincere congratulations. Among those present at supper and in the evening were Mrs. Mary Jaquith and daughter Louise of Randolph, Mrs. James Billings, Mrs. Worthing Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bestick and children Earl and Hazel, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bestick and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bennett all of Braintree. There was a general good time. Mr. Bestick continues to be in excellent health and is able to go to his business daily. His large circle of friends wish for many more years of health and happiness for him and his family.

—"There will be a collapse. One of the great evils today is national extravangance. People are living beyond their means. This is one of the chief reasons for high prices. I know a young man in my town, a very intelligent fellow ,with an income of $1,000 a year. He had managed to get a home and pay for it. Now he has traded it for an automobile. That young man is a type of thousands of men in every part of the United States. Our people cannot continue as they are going. There will be a collapse, and then perhaps prices will get down near where they belong," says Senator Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas.—Boston Transcript.

BRAINTREE

John Barbour is improving so as to be able to sit up for a short time each day.

Mr. H. W. Davenport and daughter Gladys of Middle street will sail next week for Europe.

Mrs. George W. Wheeler of Charles street had the misfortune to fall last Saturday afternoon, striking her head and inflicting a wound on her forehead, which fortunately did not prove of a serious nature.

At the last meeting of the board of trustees of the Massachusetts Horticultural society, Julius Heurlin, owner of the Blue Hill nurseries, was appointed a member of the committee on gardens. This is the fifth year he has served on this committee.

A specially prepared "Lincoln" day service will be held in Post Office block, opposite the Braintree Railroad station, by First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Braintree at 3 P. M. on Saturday, February 12th. All are invited.

It is of interest to Braintree people to learn that Elmer Davenport Keith, a senior at Yale university, has been awarded the Rhodes scholarship from the state of Connecticut. He will go in the fall to Oxford, England, to enter upon the three years of graduate study to which the scholarship entitles him. Mr. Keith is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Keith, of Brooklynn, N. Y., former residents of Braintree.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hixon of Monatiquot avenue entertained a few of the neighbors at bridge Wednesday evening Feb. 2, at their very attractive home. Mrs. Ezra S. Grover received a beautiful souvenir for obtaining the highest score and Herman E. Roberts secured the highest score for the gentlemen and was awarded a very handsome souvenir. A delightful lunch was served and a most enjoyable evening was passed by all.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath of Braintree, because of the sudden death of their youngest child, Ruth Lamb, who passed away Tuesday, Feb. 1st, at the age of six years. Little Ruthie was a very affectionate child, endearing herself to relatives and friends, by whom she will long be missed. She was a member of Grade one, in the Union school, where she was an especially bright, attentive scholar.

LYING WILL HURT BUSINESS

Deception In Trade Harmful to Merchant and Should Be Stopped.

Among the steps of progress to be recorded in our young national career are the increased honesty and diminished dishonesty of commercial advertising. The change is perhaps most noticeable in that hybrid and amphibious trade of "dry goods." The public is now quite used to seeing the sale of such wares announced in fairly plain terms, without spurious allurements of euphemism or eulogy, whereas twenty or thirty years ago lying was thought to be a matter of common sense by shopkeepers who advertised. Of course all advertising has a commercial basis, whether it makes known a railway time table or a school course, a brand of whisky or a church service. Meanwhile the pleasing improvement in "dry goods" advertising has reached the remarkable degree of at least one merchant setting forth the relative advantages and disadvantages of two articles offered to the public. This Brutus of business says concerning one kind of raincoat that it is "not absolutely water tight," though "proof against any ordinary shower." The other kind, he tells you, "is water tight;" but, since the body's heat and moisture do not escape, this accumulation or secretion "dampens the inside of the coat besides making the wearer uncomfortably hot." Is it not rather a new thing for a trader to pay money to a newspaper for telling the public the defects of things he wants to sell?

Enlightened.

Victor Hugo had accepted an invitation to dine at the house of one of those ardent republicans who at the time were wittily termed "les precieuses radicales."

The dinner time came, and yet no butler appeared to pronounce the formula "Madame est servie."

Finally one of the intimates, M. ——, vice president of the senate, approached the mistress of the house and said, laughing: "Pardon me, but have I made a mistake? I thought that you had asked us to dinner."

The lady whispered in reply: "Botheration! Yes. We were to have been fourteen, but M. Le Royer has excused himself at the last moment, and I've had to send for a substitute. There's one of our guests here who would never sit down if we were thirteen at table."

A moment later M. —— was talking with Victor Hugo. "Can you imagine why we don't dine?" he asked the poet. "It's because there's some jackass here who is afraid of sitting down thirteen at table!"

And Hugo replied severely and solemnly, "I am that jackass."

Living pictures with readings by Mr. T. A. Watson will be presented at the Union church next Friday evening.

A number of the local firemen attended the annual ball of the Weymouth Firemen's Relief Association last evening.

J. F. Sheppard & Sons are filling their ice houses at Hunky Dory lake with twelve-inch ice of excellent quality.

The Unity Circle of King's Daughters will meet at the home of Mrs. F. O. Wellington, Tuesday afternoon at half past two.

Hose Co. No. 1 has elected these officers: Captain, Peter Smith; 1st lieutenant, Edward Starr; 2d lieutenant, Parker Brown; clerk, Elmer Vinton.

A number from this place attended the anniversary mass at the church of the Sacred Heart Monday morning for the late Rev. J. J. Murphy. Rev. J. B. Holland celebrated the mass.

The officers of Hook and Ladder Co. No. 1, for 1910 are: Captain, John Fraser; 1st lieutenant, Martin Fraser; 2d lieutenant, Robert Whitmarsh; clerk, Joseph Gurney.

Burton L. Baker, who moved from this place several months ago to Ashmont, where he purchased a handsome residence, has moved to Melrose. He has sold his estate on Liberty street, this village, to Charles O. Miller. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Curtis will occupy the house.

Thomas A. Kelley, for years a resident of this place and former president of the Union Veteran Firemen's Association, who has been confined to his home in East Weymouth for the past five months with rheumatism, is able to get out doors in suitable weather.

A large audience was present at Jonas Perkins school hall Tuesday evening, when the Universalist Dramatic club of Weymouth presented the four act comedy-drama, "A Fisherman's Luck," under the auspices of the School association. The cast included Franklin P. Whitten, Joseph W. Blanchard, Grafton McKenney, Lyman C. Williams, Joseph G. Spear, A. Lovell Edson, Alice M. Nash, Carrie S. Robinson, May L. Allen and F. Adelaide McCarthy.

The next regular meeting of the Jonas Perkins School Association will be held in the school hall on Thursday evening, Feb. 10, at 8 oclock. Mr. E. A. Shaw, principal of the Braintree high school will be the speaker. Subject: "The parent versus the teacher" to be followed by discussion. As the subject is one that all parents should be interested in those who attend this meeting should receive valuable information as to the duties of parents, scholars and teachers. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

About 150 people sat down Wednesday evening to one of the best suppers ever given at the Union church. The supper was in charge of the men of the parish, under the chairmanship of William F. Curtis, president of the club. The serving in the kitchen and the waiting on the tables was all done by the men and they did it in fine shape. After the supper, there was a short business meeting at which the club gave a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. C. D. Harlow, the efficient chairman of the last Social club entertainment which netted $51. It was then voted to appropriate $50 for the use of the choir for church music.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

An Alliance Exchange sale was held at the home of Mrs. Charles T. Baker of Safford street this afternoon.

A social dancing party will be held by the members of the Dorothy Q. lodge of Odd Ladies' next Friday evening in Wollaston hall.

A neighborhood meeting will be held in the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday evening by the Young People's Religious union. Dr. Harris Kennedy of Milton will deliver a stereopticon lecture on "Japan." Unions from Quincy, Braintree, Neponset, Dorchester and Roxbury have been invited.

The many friends of Rev. J. F. Purcell, formerly connected with Quincy parish, will be pleased to learn of his successful labors in the west. On Sunday morning, Jan. 9, he announced to his congregation the pleasing news, that all the property of the St. Lawrence society consisting of a beautiful church, a hall, used as a club room by the young men of the parish, a modest rectory, and a cemetery were entirely free of debt. This labor is the result of ten years' service, with a congregation numbering fifty-eight families and reflects much credit on the zeal and energy of their talented, enthusiastic young pastor who is so kindly remembered in our midst.

BODY WEIGHTED WITH ANCHOR

Discovery Leads to Arrest of Supposed Slayer

Tacoma, Wash., Feb. 5.—Revelations of wholesale murders, by the side of which the famous Gunness farm atrocities pale, is firmly believed by the police here will be unravelled in the arrest of William Gohl, agent for the Sailors' union of Aberdeen, who is charged with the murder of Charles Hatberg.

At least forty murders, it is believed, will be cleared up. For the last five years deep, grewsome mystery has surrounded the frequent finding of bodies, clearly indicating murder, in the sloughs and streams near Aberdeen. Horrors unparalleled in the history of crime are confidently epected to develop, say the police, if Gohl tells all he knows.

Discoveries of bodies, half buried in swamps or washed up by rivers, have been so frequent that citizens had months ago given up all hope of finding the wholesale murderer. As body after body was found it became customary to refer to the grewsome group as the "floater fleet."

The last find was the body of Hatberg, which was taken from Indian slough Wednesday night. He had been shot three times through the head. His body was held down in the slough by a heavy anchor which the police say belonged to Gohl. Identification was made possible by an "H" tattooed on Hatberg's arm.

Gohl is known as an agent supplying ships with men. Many of the forty bodies found at Aberdeen have been those of sailors. Having few if any friends, there was no one to take an active interest in avenging their deaths. Since Gohl's arrest he has refused to talk.

The police are also busy in searching creeks for the body of John Hoffman, who has been missing for several weeks.

$74,000 FINE IMPOSED

Verdict Against Hatters' Union Hits Labor Federation For $240,000

Hartford, Feb. 5.—The jury in the famous seven-year-old hatters' boycott trial reported a verdict of $74,000 against the United Hatters of North America.

D. E. Lowe & Co. of Danbury asked damages amounting to $240,000, alleging conspiracy and restraint of trade under the provisions of the Sherman anti-boycott act. The judge practically directed that a verdict be brought in favorable to the plaintiffs.

Judge Platt decided that the Sherman anti-trust law automatically trebles the damages and the verdict of $74,000 against the hatters means $222,000, which, with costs, will hit the American Federation of Labor for about $240,000.

FISH PRICES COME DOWN

Thirty-Two Schooners Land Half a Million Pounds at Boston

Boston, Feb. 5.—The fish famine no longer exists. The high prices that prevailed from last Saturday have been knocked into a cocked hat by the arrival of thirty-two schooners, with approximately a half million pounds of fish.

The prices of yesterday and the day before have declined from 30 to 50 percent. Haddock, which brought $7 in the market yesterday, is bringing from $3.25 to $3.50 today. Codfish that sold for $7 is now on sale at $3.75 to $5.25, according to the quality. Other kinds of fish have dropped in proportion.

M'CUMBER DEFENDS FARMER

Quotes Senate Menu to Place Responsibility For High Prices of Food

Washington, Feb. 5.—When Senator McCumber of North Dakota started out to clear the skirts of the farmer from the charge of increasing prices of food products in the senate, he took an illustration which could not be impeached. It was the bill of fare and prices from the senate restaurant.

After showing the the price of a sirloin steak in the restaurant was from $1.15 to $3, a tenderloin about the same, and a porterhouse $3 to $4, McCumber produced figures from the keeper of another restaurant to show the profits. He estimated that with the farmer getting $60 to $80 for an average steer the profit was remarkable, and that the steer ought to be worth about $2500.

Two slices of bread, McCumber said, cost him 10 cents. This was at the rate of 50 cents a loaf and since there were seventy-five loaves to a bushel of wheat the farmer who now gets $1 a bushel should get $37.50.

SHORTAGE OF $450,000

Southbridge Bank Officials Want to Get Property of Ex-Treasurer

Southbridge, Mass., Feb. 5.—Officials of the Southbridge Savings bank, the books of whose former treasurer, John A. Hall, are said to indicate an apparent shortage of $450,000 or more, say that they will institute an action for authority to sell all the realizable property of Hall.

Hall, who remains in seclusion at his home, under $50,000 bail, has proved of little help in untangling the bank's books. So far, it is said, he has made nothing resembling a direct confession.

FAMILY SKELETONS EXPOSED TO PUBLIC

Temporary Shifting of Scene In Glover Will Case

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 5.—The door of the Glover closet swung open in the probate court yesterday, and out rattled two family skeletons. From the hatred of warring women the limelight shifted upon the two brothers fighting a bitter battle for a money stake.

Seymour C. Glover, a beneficiary of the will, and Albert, a younger brother, paid the price of publicity. Under the probing of Attorney Gove, evidence came out that gave a criminal record to Albert and an old indictment to Seymour.

Both conviction and indictment were covered with the records of years of honorable lives.

Attorney Gove brought this out, he said, to show the court the alleged false position the contestants had been been put in by Attorney Elmore's statement that Clarence had told him his brothers "were no good, with the exception of Seymour."

It was to wipe away the exception that Gove asked Elmore if he knew that Seymour had been indicted in 1876.

BEHIND PRISON DOORS

Note Broker Cummings Begins to Serve His Long Sentence

Boston, Feb. 5.—Charles S. Cummings, the convicted Boston note broker, went to state prison yesterday. The first two days of his sentence must be served in solitary confinement. Cummings was given five to eight years.

Cummings was found guilty of selling a forged town of Framingham note on the witness stand that he had Savings at Lowell. Ex-Treasurer Lombard of Framingham confessed on he witness stand that he had forged the note and testified that Cummings knew that the note was forged. Cummings was also technically charged with the larceny of $15,000 from the citizens of Framingham.

THREE-HOUR DRINK BILL

Bibulous Citizens Will Be Glad to Hear That It Is Killed

Boston, Feb. 5.—The bill which sets the limit on drinks to one every three hours met an unsympathetic death yesterday in the committee on liquor law. There was no division in the committee over the matter.

It was an unanimous vote that one drink every three hours is a cruel and an unusual punishment to inflict upon the bibulous citizens of the commonwealth.

Threw Acid at Sweetheart

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 5.—Gertrude M. Bell, 18 years old, was found guilty of assault and battery upon her sweetheart, Raymond W. Gammons, by throwing acid into his face, while he was held in $400 for the superior court on a charge preferred by the girl. The girl's case was continued for sentence until Feb. 14.

HOW WARRINER WAS EXPOSED

Brought About by Serious Quarrel Between Two Women

Cincinnati, Feb. 5.—If it had not been for a quarrel between two women, Charles L. Warriner, recently local treasurer of the Big Four railway, believes that his theft of $643,000 from the company would not be known today and that he would still be in the employ of the company. These women, he declares, one of whom is accused of blackmailing him out of some of his stolen money, had a dispute that severed the companionship and led one to make revelations that resulted in the discovery of the sensational thefts and Warriner's imprisonment.

Warriner made this assertion at the trial of Mrs. Jeanette S. Ford, who is accused of blackmailing him. He said that she and a woman named Ida Brockway had the dispute, and he judged that it was from remarks made by the Brockway woman that the exposure came.

Incidentally Warriner made the startling statement that the theft of the $643,000 was easy. He said it would have been the simplest thing in the world to have discovered his theft. He declared further that he had assumed an alleged $10,500 shortage of Frank D. Comstock, his predecessor, and also an alleged $22,000 shortage of Edgar S. Cooke.

Not the least interesting development of the testimony was Warriner's assertion that he had paid many rebates while treasurer of the Big Four at Cincinnati, as well as his description of the manner in which he concealed his shortage. He said his stealings were taken from the daily remittances of station agents, merely making the credit less than the amount received. He asserted that the Big Four auditor, P. A. Hewitt, might easily have discovered his embezzlement at any time by comparing the remittance slips with the ledger, but he stoutly asserted that there had been no understanding with the auditor.

"Mr. Hewitt never completely audited my accounts," said Warriner. "I stole from the daily receipts from agents. These amounted some days to $75,000 and some days to $200,000. Had Hewitt ever added up my books he would have seen that I was short several thousand dollars."

Much time was devoted to reading letters written to Mrs. Ford by Cooke. Under instruction from Judge Swing many of the passages were omitted. In several of the letters Mr. Comstock was mentioned. In one missive Cooke said: "I do not care if the whole thing busts up; then Comstock will get his."

A letter from Warriner to Cooke in which the latter was rebuked was explained by the witness as having been caused by Cooke's irregular habits and neglect of his family.

Warriner admitted that one of his visits to Chicago had for its object the settlement of a row between Mrs. Ford and Cooke. He said that Cooke had beaten the woman and that she had threatened to appeal to the police.

The convicted treasurer pleaded with Judge Swing to allow him to refuse to answer the question as to what he did with the money he had taken. But the judge said he must tell. Then he went on:

"When Comstock left the road he was $10,500 short. He told me this and I covered up his shortage by money had taken from the Big Four treasury. Cooke was short approximately $22,000, and that I covered up. Then I spent $300,000 in stock gambling in New York city. The rest of the money was used to finance several projects in which I was interested, but they, like all others with which I have dealt, fell by the wayside."

While being questioned on this phase of the case Warriner lost his extraordinary self-control.

"You say you are fifty years old and that your defalcations probably extended for twenty-five years?" said Attorney Thorndyke. "Then you have been stealing since you were practically a boy?"

Warriner straightened sharply in his chair and replied in a high, shrill voice:

"I will not answer these questions. I am not on trial."

$100 REWARD, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Weak? Tired? Run-down?
These conditions come from overwork, a weak stomach, overtaxed nerves or feeble blood. When you feel "all in"—hardly able to drag about, no energy, no ambition, easily exhausted and can't sleep—take and note what a difference they make in your condition. The stomach is the first to feel the good effects. Food tastes good, the digestion is strengthened, bowels and bile work regularly, the blood is cleansed, and the nerves rested. The whole system responds to the tonic action of Beecham's Pills. Soon there is the buoyant feeling of returning health,
BEECHAM'S PILLS

"IN A BAD WAY"

Many a Quincy Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
When urinary troubles set in,
Your kidneys are "in a bad way."
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.

Here is local evidence to prove it:

Mrs. F. Olsen, 197 Whitwell Street, Quincy, Mass., says: "For some time my back was weak and gave me a great deal of trouble. I could not sit up in a chair for more than a few minutes at a time without having severe pains in my back. I was also subject to headaches and dizzy spells and at times was very nervous. I was becoming discouraged when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention. I procured a box at the Cox Drug Store and through their use received immediate relief. I did not expect to be speedily cured, as my condition was so serious, but I can say that the results could not have been more satisfactory. In a few weeks I was restored to good health. Doan's Kidney Pills certainly have my highest endorsement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Superior Court Norfolk, ss.

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court, next to be holden at Dedham within and for the County of Norfolk.

Respectfully libels and represents Giovanni Corti of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, that he was lawfully married to Guiseppina Maraggio Corti now of Providence in the State of Rhode Island, at Boston on the ninth day of November A. D., 1902, and thereafterwards your libellant and the said Guiseppina lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth, to wit: at Boston, Quincy and Milford, New Hampshire; that your libellant has always been faithful to his marriage vows and obligations but the said Guiseppina Corti being wholly regardless of the same at Milford, New Hampshire on the eighth day of September A. D. 1903 utterly deserted your libellant, and that said utter desertion has continued to this day, being more than three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and the said Guiseppina Corti.

Dated the eighteenth day of September A. D. 1909.

CORTI GIOVANNI.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Norfolk, ss. Superior Court

On the foregoing Libel, it is ordered that the Libellant give notice to the said Guiseppina Maraggio Corti the Libellee, to appear before the Justices of this Court, to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the first Monday of March next, by causing an attested copy of said Libel, and of this order thereon, to be published once in a week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper printed at Quincy in the County of Norfolk, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of March next, and further, by sending through the mail, as soon as may be, by a registered letter addressed to the last known residence of the said Guiseppina Maraggio Corti an attested copy of said Libel and of this order thereon that the said Guiseppina Maraggio Corti may then and there show cause why the prayer of said Libel should not be granted.

By the Court,
LOUIS A. COOK, Clerk.
Jan. 20, A. D. 1910.

WILEY'S WORK ON SUGAR

Chief Chemist Says He Has Saved the Government $10,000,000

Washington, Feb. 5.—"In the twelve years that I had charge of the microscopic test of sugar at the various ports I think I can say without boasting that I have saved the United States government $10,000,000," declared Dr. Wiley, the government's chief chemist, before the house committee on expenditures of the department of agriculture.

Dr. Wiley said that between 1890 and 1902 he found marked difference in the same grades of sugar at the different ports and that the government was not getting all the revenue that it should. He asserted that the polarization at the port of New York was much lower than it should have been and that his investigations resulted in new polarization regulations that were very profitable to the government.

VON MILLER BROUGHT EAST

Alleged Husband of Nineteen Women Just Can't Help Flirting

New York, Feb. 5.—Baron Carl Vonderhagen, otherwise Carl von Miller, who "kills 'em dead" with one lambent glance from his large, soulful, brown eyes, and then marries them in swift procession, was humming a tune in the Hoboken jail when his wives began pouring in to identify him. He is alleged to have married nineteen women.

Although he spent $1500 in trying to block extradition to Hoboken from Los Angeles and had only a paltry $16 left, he does not appear the least bit worried over the future.

"He flirted with evey woman he could get that hypnotic eye on," said the detectives, "and in several cases it looked as if he was going to make a winning in spite of his bracelets."

ORDER OF BRITISH CAPTAIN IGNORED

Rebel Gunboat Bombards Greytown, but Is Forced to Retire

Managua, Feb. 5.—The insurgent gunboat Ometepe appeared off Greytown and bombarded the city for twenty minutes.

Nine houses were set on fire by the shells from the gunboat. The shore batteries replied vigorously to the onslaught and succeeded in disabling the Ometepe, which was forced to retire.

Recently Captain Thesiger of the British cruiser Scylla made an official declaration that there must be no fighting at Greytown, where there are large British interests, and where the British consul, Mr. Bingham, is generally reported to be connected with certain enterprises in which ex-President Zelaya also was interested. It is said that he requested that a warship be sent to Greytown and that the appearance of the Scylla followed as a result.

Captain Thesiger requested Captain Shipley of the U. S. S. Des Moines to attach his signature to the order forbidding fighting at Greytown, but the American officer did not comply.

EIGHT THOUSAND TROPHIES

Roosevelt's African Hunting Trip Has Been a Great Success

Washington, Feb. 5.—Officials of the Smithsonian institution are gratified over the success of its African scientific expedition which left the United States March 23 last, headed by Theodore Roosevelt, and which has finished its active hunting.

The exact number of specimens of various mammals, birds, flowers, etc., which have been collected by the expedition has not been learned. The latest count gives over 8000.

Far beyond Roosevelt's expectations has been the hunt for the white rhino, for he has bagged in all eight white rhinoceros. This is considered remarkable.

CALL FOR HELP BY WIRELESS

Made by Steamer Kentucky When In Sinking Condition

New York, Feb. 5.—Thanks again to the wireless and the international distress signal, "S. O. S.," Captain Moore and his crew of forty-six men are safe on board the Mallory liner Alamo, bound for Key West, while their vessel, the Kentucky, has sunk off Cape Hatteras. It is another case of a disaster averted by wireless and told to the world by the same medium.

The Kentucky, a wooden vessel of 996 gross tonnage and 203 feet long, was bound from New York to the Pacific to carry passengers between Tacoma and Alaskan ports for the Pacific Steamship company.

First news of the Kentucky's plight was received at the United Wireless company's station at Cape Hatteras at 11:20 o'clock yesterday morning. There the operator heard the "S. O. S.," quickly followed by this message:

"We are sinking. Our latitude is 32.10, longitude 76.30."

Almost simultaneously the operator heard the steamship Alamo respond to the Kentucky's call for help, informing Captain Moore that the Alamo was making all speed to the sinking vessel's assistance. Thereafter no message was received from the Kentucky, indicating that water had interfered with the power, putting her wireless apparatus out of commission.

The navy department in the meantime flashed wireless messages along the Atlantic coast, dispatching the battleship Louisiana and two revenue cutters to the scene, but at 5 o'clock last evening word came from the Alamo that she had arrived first and had taken off all hands in safety.

This is the message as received in New York by the United Wireless company from its Cape Hatteras station:

"Latitude 32.46, longitude 76.28. Steamship Alamo has just taken Captain Moore and crew of forty-six men from sinking steamship Kentucky. Water had already reached fireroom and steamer will sink before midnight. The Alamo is now proceeding to Key West."

The Kentucky was insured for $70,000.

Formerly of Joy Line

Boston, Feb. 5.—The steamship Kentucky was formerly the Lincoln and for a time ran between Bath, Me., and this port. The steamer was built in 1896 at Bath for the Eastern Steamship company. She was afterward sold and her name changed to Martinique. She ran one season between Boston and Provincetown, and later was purchased by the Joy line, renamed Kentucky, and was operated in the service between Providence and New York.

The Kentucky, after the collision of the Larchmont with the Knowlton, took the survivors and bodies of the victims to port.

OF NO USE IN A CRISIS

Report of General Staff Brands Army as Practically Worthless

Washington, Feb. 5.—The United States army is practically helpless, and would be of no worth should a crisis develop today, according to a report of the army general staff, which, after two years of preparation, is about to be submitted.

It is learned that the report condemns the coast defenses as of little avail because of their lack of protection from land attack. A thorough reorganization of Uncle Sam's land fighting forces is recommended and many of the steps outlined as urgently needed are extreme.

Boston Escapes Big Storm

Boston, Feb. 5.—Boston was affected but lightly by yesterday's storm which swept the New England coast. But north of Boston the entire region is buried in an avalanche of snow. At Dover, N. H., eighteen inches fell, while at Portland, Me., sixteen inches cover the ground. New Hampshire, Maine and Vermont are covered with the white mantle.

Medical Supplies Burned

New York, Feb. 5.—For the second time in two years the medical supply department of the United States army was burned out of its headquarters on the lower West Side water front, this time with a loss variously estimated at $750,000 and $1,000,000.

Waiting For Ballinger's Counsel

Washington, Feb. 5.—In order to permit the arrival in the city of counsel for Secretary Ballinger and to allow counsel to become familiar with the case, the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee adjourned its hearings until Feb. 11.

BRIEFS

The editor wishes to state once again that anonymous communications are not inserted in the Ledger. The sender must send his name and address, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith with the editor.

Carl R. Hayward general secretary of the Norfolk County Christian Endeavor union is to speak at the C. E. meeting Sunday evening at the Braintree Baptist church.

Over 2400 applicants are expected to take the census examinations in Boston today, and half a million others throughout the country. Quincy and all the cities and towns within 50 miles of Boston take the examinations in Boston.

Miss Josephine Bumstead of Boston will speak upon the Latin American Mission work on Friday at 2 P. M. at the regular meeting of the Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's in the parish rooms. Every member is asked to bring a friend. Tea will be served and all will have an opportunity to meet Miss Bumstead socially.

Col. William H. Oakes commanding the 5th infantry, M. V. M., and well known to Co. K boys of years ago has forwarded his application to be placed on the retired list of the M. V. M. He will be retired as a brigadier general. Col. Oakes has been in the service since 1875.

There has been some talk of installing a public telephone in the corridor at City Hall. Practically every office in the building is now connected, but it frequently happens that citizens who desire to make use of the telephone for their own private business, use the city telephones, and so great has the custom grown that it has become a nuisance. With a pay station in the hall, people who desire to use a telephone could make use of that.

Willard Flint of Boston, who can only be regarded as an artist of the first water by those who heard his rendering of the part of Elijah at the Choral concert last year, will sing the bass solos at the Messiah concert. His appearance in this oratorio at the Handel and Haydn concert last December was a brilliant success and Quincy people can anticipate the greatest pleasure in hearing this noted singer in a part which in contrast to that of Elijah, shows his great versatility to so much advantage. His singing of that wonderful aria "Why do the nations so furiously rage together," is an evening's entertainment in itself.

—Another thing we don't read so much of as we did a few months ago is the progress of the Panama Canal. Presumably the ditch is being developed. Let the newspapers drop a subject and how soon it is forgotten. Let the newspaper take up a subject and it's surprising how much more the readers in some cases know about the article than did the person who wrote it. Well did Josiah Billings write, "Humans is queer animals."—Mansfield News.

THE COCHATO CLUB.

This evening there will be an informal dance in the club hall from eight until nine o'clock.

There was an unusually large attendance at the club Saturday evening and everyone seemed to be in an exceedingly happy frame of mind. The entertainment committee were Mrs. Charles A. Boyce, Mrs. George H. Hamblett and Mrs. Harold M. Gage. The table was extremely attractive, the decorations being carnations in honor of the sixty-eighth birthday of President McKinley his favorite flower.

The next entertainment in the course will be a musicale Friday evening, February the eleventh, under the direction of Charles A. Boyce. The artists are well known in Braintree and are of high standing, namely Miss Bessie Bell Collier, violinist, Miss Grace Collin, accompanist, and Mrs. Helen Boyce Wheeler, soprano.

The fifth in the series of matinee bridge parties was held at the club Monday afternoon, Jan. 31. There were seven tables. Souvenirs were awarded the following ladies for making the highest scores: Mrs. G. A. Arnold, first; Mrs. Higgins, second; and Mrs. Charles O. Miller, third. The next party will be held Monday, Feb. 14.

The ladies' candle pin tournament started Monday evening, Jan. 31, and Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Hall had charge of the lunch. The scores as follows:

Mrs. Wilder	75	75	75	225
Mrs. Lefavour	60	78	70	208
Mrs. Thayer	72	73	65	210
Mrs. Macomber	68	74	56	198
Mrs. Gavin	70	72	65	207
Mrs. Gerner	51	57	45	153

Team 1 made 6 points, Team 2 made 8 points and Team 3 made 1 point.

QUINCY HIGH DEFEATS ALUMNI.

The High school basketball team won yesterday from the Alumni 53-13.

The Alumni team was composed of Harold Marsh, Brewster Walker, Dennis Gourlie, Harold Curtis, Albion Bonney and Stanley Bates. They had little time to practice, so they could not have much team work. The game was "more fun than a circus" to watch. Some of the Alumni were not entirely in practice, so some of their attempts to follow the leather were quite ludicrous.

For the home team, Manning would stand near the cage and the other members of the team would pass the ball to him. Then he just tossed it into the basket, piling up the score.

Between the halves a good game was played between teams of the best players of the classes.

SPORTING NOTES.

At Quincy Y. M. C. A. this evening the Quincy basket ball five will line up against Boston Y. M. C. A.

At basket ball yesterday at Winthrop the High school defeated Thayer Academy 24 to 16.

At Weymouth, Rockland High was defeated by Weymouth 22 to 3. The Juniors defeated the Sophomores 11 to 5.

Today Thayer will play at Melrose.

In a Minute.

An Irishman, who was, of course, named Pat, went to heaven and was met at the door by St. Peter. Pat passed the time of day politely with the guardian of the gate and commented upon the grandeur of everything around him, and then St. Peter said:

"Yes, this is a great place. With us a million years are just like a minute, and a million dollars are like a cent."

"Is that so?" inquired Pat meditatively. Then, "Say, would ye moind linding me a cint?"

"Yes," returned St. Peter, "in a minute."

A Hard One.

Two ladies, one young and the other somewhat ancient, were rather unfortunate in not being asked to dance at a party they were attending.

The younger lady said spitefully, as she sat beside the other during a waltz:

"I wonder, dear, if I shall lose my looks, too, when I get to be your age."

"You'll be lucky if you do," snapped the older lady.

SWIMMERS GETTING ACTIVE

Bright Prospect For College Season Which Opens Shortly.

PRINCETON IS WELL FORTIFIED

Return of Denniston, Fifty Yard Record Holder, Pleases Tiger Men—Schmidt Will Help Yale Men—Penn and Harvard to Meet In Tank.

Followers of aquatics in the Intercollegiate Swimming association are jubilant over the prospects for the coming season. Though several of last year's stars have been lost to the colleges, a splendid array of talent has reported to several captains, and as a result the outlook for a successful season is extremely bright. Despite the loss by graduation and the eligibility rule, reports from the members of the leagues show that plenty of new material has reported, and the indication for a record season is good.

Princeton especially will be well fortified. Captain Denniston is pleased with the men who are practicing daily in the tank. The loss of Wheaton Chambers, the 50 and 100 yard champion of 1909, will be keenly felt, but sufficient good material is available to make up for this loss. E. E. Denniston, the present fifty yard record holder, has returned to college after a year's absence, and after rounding into his former form he will be one of the most formidable men in the league at Chambers' distances. With Cross, who as a freshman reeled off 1 minute 4 seconds for the century last spring; Battles, Orr, Greene, Dawson, Gosnell, Johnson, McWilliams and King to select from, a splendid team will represent the Orange and Black.

McWilliams probably will be one of the best plungers of the season, as he has repeatedly cleared sixty feet and more. With these men as additions and Bamman, Wilson, Lawrence, Hazen, Parke, Janeway, Woehr and Rauman as a nucleus, the team should be of high caliber.

Yale will be as strongly represented as last year. Richards, Purcell, Howe, Church, Winslow, Stoddard, Reid, Grant, Hughes, Hyde and Gordy are all expert swimmers and should not have any difficulty in leading the Elis to victories. In addition to these veterans, the Elis will have Karl Schmidt, the crack New York A. C. amphibian, who captained the C. C. N. Y. team last year. He will undoubtedly be Yale's best at the short distances.

Pennsylvania has lost several of its stars, among them being the clever Dalrymple, who competed in the sprints and diving and plunging contests last season. The team, however, has much new material and expects to be well up in front when the season starts on Jan. 22. Shryock, the present intercollegiate furlong champion; Anthony, the Philadelphia crack who won the middle Atlantic 100 yard championship; Sylvester, Graham, Haus, Hopkinson and Yerkes are the most reliable men of those who are practicing. Pennsylvania has won the championship four out of five times.

Harvard, though without the services of Merriam, last year's water polo captain, has a good string of candidates in the field. Rice, Reed, Hoyt, Ladd, Hooper, Henderson and Jose are some of the men trying for the swimming and water polo teams. The Withingtons, both of whom are football players and expert swimmers, will likely report. Cutler, who holds the 220 yard record, will not report, as he is out for the crew.

It is now likely that Penn and Harvard will meet for the first time since 1906, when the athletic relations between the institutions were severed. Penn has been forced each year to forfeit to the Crimson. The swimmers of neither team are disposed to forfeit their meet this year, and pressure is being brought on the authorities to permit the meet to be held.

Young Folks

MAKING HISTORIES.

An Interesting Game For a Party or a Stormy Afternoon.

Histories or biographies, which latter is really a better name, are most interesting to make and have been tried most successfully at grownup "affairs."

The articles needed are a dozen or two of old magazines (illustrated ones), half a dozen pairs of shears, a couple of paste pots and the "histories." These latter should be prepared ahead of time, but are easy to make. Get plain sheets of white paper, about note paper size, allow about ten or a dozen to each book and fasten the sheets together with clips. On the front sheets of each write, "An Illustrated Life of Margie Blank, by Tommie Jones." The names, of course, are left blank, the hostess simply writing the name of one guest or child on each book. The hostess distributes the little books. Those of the girls are given to the boys, and vice versa. The person who prepares the history writes his name on the blank left for it.

On each page of the blank history there is a caption or heading—"At the Age of Three," "How He Looked When He Was Six," "His First Love," "Future Occupation," "Greatest Ambition," "Final Career" and any others along the same line that may suggest themselves.

The idea is to cut out illustrations from the magazines and paste them on the pages signified to carry out the idea suggested. The pictures may be wise, funny or semiserious, just as the historian desires.

Simply dump the pile of magazines in the center of the table, give each child a blank history and let them go to work.

The advertisements of the magazines are rich in suggestion. Some of the famous "varieties"—Blank's Soap, Somebody's Paint—will furnish abundant illustrations for the child with a sense of humor and an eye for the ludicrous.

When the histories have been completed and each page is properly filled—for more than one illustration may be put upon a page—the little books should be exchanged and returned to their owners.

And what fun they will have "seeing themselves as others see them!"

Ruth and Jacob.

One player is blindfolded. The rest dance in a circle round him till he points at one of them. This person then enters the ring and when the blind man calls out, "Ruth," answers, "Jacob," and moves about within the circle so as to avoid being caught by the blind man and continues to answer, "Jacob," as often as the blind man calls out, "Ruth." This continues until "Ruth" is caught. "Jacob" must then guess who it is he has caught. If he guesses correctly "Ruth" takes his place, and the game goes on. If he guesses wrongly he continues to be "Jacob."

A Shrimp as a Siphon.

An amusing trick is to make a siphon out of a shrimp. Fill a wineglass with water and place a shrimp, which has been soaked in water, on the edge of the glass, as shown in the illustration. The body of the shrimp will then act as a siphon, and the contents of the vessel will continue to drip from the feelers of the crustacean until the level of the liquid is lowered to the end of the tail.

The Water Trick.

Procure two pieces of glass about six inches square, join any two of their sides and separate the opposite sides with a piece of wax, so that their surfaces may form an angle of about two or three degrees. Immerse this apparatus in water, and the water will rise between the plates and form a beautiful geometrical figure.

Feathers of Snow.

Old Mother Goose is now shaking her feathers.
She's nurse to the fairies who dwell in the skies.
On her it depends when the nicest of weathers
Comes down to delight all the little folks' eyes.

She turns from their cradles, each wee sleepy fairy
So snugly tucked under their covers of blue,
Then throws off each counterpane, lacy and airy,
Just as we've watched often our own mothers do.

I wish from my heart that she were not so lazy,
But shook out each mattress of dainty white cloud
Every day, so the breezes, all sparkling and maizy,
Would clothe all the earth in a mantle so proud.

GOOD COUPON SCHEME.

One That Will Minimize the Credit Business and Build Up Trade.

This is not a boost for any premium coupon scheme, as we are opposed to this method of attracting trade only along legitimate lines. The coupon scheme which we commend as being one of great merit is one that is no doubt well known to the trade all over the country. This particular scheme is one that we believe will minimize the credit business and at the same time in a store where it has never been tried may prove an innovation that will bring new trade to the store.

Small books are printed containing coupons of the value of $5. The coupons in the book come in one cent, five cent, ten cent and twenty-five cent denominations and are so divided that each has an equal or proportionate amount, making it possible for the book to be used up at the same time without any shortening of the different units.

Cash is paid for these books in advance, and when shopping the total amount of each or all purchases are deducted from the book. In this way the buyer can tell just how much per week or month she is spending, and the storekeeper minimizes his credit business, as he can make the ironclad rule that the books are to be sold by cash in advance. The credit question is one that is and will continue to be a source of great worry to all merchants, and every advantage that can be gained toward a stoppage of this credit practice should be tried and given a good test as to its advisability.

The ordinary merchant is acquainted with or soon becomes acquainted with his trade, and by adopting this coupon scheme he works no hardships on any one, but absolutely safeguards his accounts, as it is no more wrong for the merchant to ask $5 in advance from his customers than it is for the customer to ask for an incalculable amount of credit.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 24 No. 32 QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 7, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

DEPARTMENT OFFICIALS

Assume Their Duties for Year 1910-11

Today is Quincy's second inauguration day, but there is not much interest in the event this year, as there are but few changes in the Mayor's official family from the past two years. These changes, briefly noted, are in the Board of Health, where William H. Callahan takes the place of William Walsh resigned; in the board of Park Commissioners, where Robert E. Foy takes the place of Thomas F. Mannex, and in the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library, where James F. Burke takes the place of George F. Sawyer, Jr., no longer a resident of the city. Although the boards are practically hold overs it will be necessary for them to organize by the choice of chairman and secretary as though they were entire new boards. On the Board of Health, William H. Callahan will probably be elected as chairman and this will be the only change from last year. As there are no new department officials there were no bouquets on the desks at City Hall this morning.

MRS. SILAS COBB.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine C. Cobb, widow of Silas H. Cobb, was held Sunday afternoon from her late residence, 147 Elm street, and many friends attended. Services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy of the Bethany church. The Temple quartette sang "Gathering Home," "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Good Night," all favorite selections of Mrs. Cobb. There were many beautiful floral tributes including a handsome floral cross from the newspaper workers of the city. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

ELKS ANNUAL BALL.

The grand ball of the Quincy lodge of Elks, now an annual event, will be held this evening at Music hall. Exalted Ruler Coleman is chairman of the committee of arrangements and will also be the floor director. Secretary Leo J. McMasters will be director of the march, and other assistants will be William R. Thomas, Charles C. Hearn, Walter Cummings, Edward I. Bean and a long list of aids. Several city officials and men prominent in the order will be guests, and are sure of a hospitable reception. The proceeds will go to replenish the charity fund of the lodge, and all know the good work the lodge is doing in this line.

WORK APPRECIATED.

The "Observant Citizen" of the Post says: "Great credit is due James E. Neary of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company for the success of the banquet given by the Fore River Apprentices in Alpha hall, Quincy, last Wednesday. As inspector and general supervisor of the apprenticeship school system Mr. Neary has been untiring in his efforts to bring the standard and work of this practical shipbuilding school to the high rank it has attained, and has shown the utmost regard for the welfare of the 200 young men who comprise the school. Incidentally, I noticed at this banquet that the apprentices fully appreciated their progressive inspector, judging by the tremendous applause following his address."

K. OF C. INSTALLATION.

Joseph P. Kelliher, D. D. S. K., and the following members of his suite, Daniel Doherty, William Mahoney, P. H. Dean, Edward Doherty, John Crowley, Charles Mahoney, Edward Forrest, Michael E. Clark and James E. Foley all of Randolph, installed the officers of the newly formed Braintree Council 1462, Knights of Columbus, Sunday afternoon in Braintree Town hall as follows:

Grand Knight—Dr. C. A. Sullivan.
Deputy Grand Knight—Edward V. Heffernan.
Chancellor—Moses H. McGaughey.
Warden—John F. Madden.
Recording Secretary—J. Raymond King.
Financial Secretary—John F. Kelley.
Treasurer—James G. Cuff.
Inside Guard—Alfred DsCoste.
Outside Guard—Alfred DeCoste.
Trustees—Edward Shay, Phillip H. Sullivan and John H. Sullivan.
Lecturer—Edward J. Sullivan.
Advocate—Joseph Mohan.

The meetings will be held the first Monday of each month in Odd Fellows hall in Mellen's block until permanent headquarters can be had.

—The cost of living is growing so important a thing that few would be surprised to see some party take it up and make it a national issue. It would not be the first time in the history of the world that the quesion of bread changed the complexion of a country's government. It was only a few years ago that the country fell in behind a banner bearing this inscription. "The Full Dinner Pail." It is not wholly outside the possibilities that in the future the rallying cry of a strong political party might be, "Hands Off the Dinner Table." When you touch a voter or a voter's family in the vicinity of their stomachs you have reached the very spring of his political interest. A people will stand almost anything as long as they are well fed; but once threaten their supplies and they are ready to follow the leader who gives the biggest promise to lead them to a land full of milk and honey.—Detroit News.

SEVERAL FIRE ALARMS

Fires Saturday, Sunday and This Morning

The alarm from box 15 at 3.45 Saturday afternoon sent the central station apparatus on a long run to Germantown. The fire was in the old Hodgkinson house occupied by J. N. Cram, and was caused by an overheated stove in one of the chambers settings the bed on fire. As soon as the fire was discovered word was sent to the central station by telephone so that the apparatus had quite a start before the alarm sounded. The Houghs Neck combination was the first to arrive however and the fire was juickly extinguished. On the bed in the room was a suit of clothes in the pockets of which was $19 in money. The clothing was partly burned but the money was saved.

The alarm from Box 27 at 1.10 Sunday morning was for a fire in the Keating block on the corner of Washington and Canal streets. The fire started under the stairway in the rear of the grocery store of Sabestrian Fassi on the first floor. There was a lot of rubbish under this stairway and it is supposed that there may have been some matches in the rubbish, and they in some way ignited. The fire made quite a smoke and filled the building with smoke. The upper part of the building is occupied by Mr. Keating and he suffered some loss by smoke, but the fire was out before it had an opportunity to work its way upstairs. Chief Williams places the loss at $400.

The alarm from Box 64 at 9.03 this morning was for a fire in the basement of the store of Timberlake & Small at Atlantic. Some of the employes were in the basement thawing out water pipes when the wood work took fire. Word was telephoned to the house of Combination 2, from which place word was sent to the Central station where the box was snapped in. The firemen of the Atlantic combination made a good stop of the fire as it was in a thickly settled locality. The recall sounded in five minutes after the alarm. The damage was slight.

The alarm from Box 37 at 9.40 was for a slight fire in the house of Harry Berman at 45 Pearl street. This fire was also caused by the occupants trying to thaw out water pipes. There was no loss.

COOPERATIVE WAREHOUSE.

In a communication to the joint committee composed of 16 business men and the joint council of Shoe federated unions, President John F. Tobin of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union advises the unions to establish a cooperative warehouse to attend to the buying and distribution of the necessities of life for the entire Brockton membership which comprises about 15,000. In his letter Mr. Tobin further claims that the committee could better interest itself in devising ways and means to adjust the cost of living, including rent so that Brockton shoe workers should not be obliged to seek higher wages to meet the recent increases in cost of living.

COLDEST DAY OF WINTER

Below Zero All Night and Only 16 This Noon

Without much question last night was about as cold as any night this winter. The present cold spell dates from late Saturday afternoon when the wind began to breeze up, so that during the evening it blew quite a gale. With the increase in the velocity of the wind the mercury began to drop, so that by night it caused people to move rapidly to keep warm.

Sunday morning dawned pleasant but cold, with the high wind still prevailing. A high wind prevailed all day Sunday and Sunday night. The wind seemed to increase, if anything, and it was very disagreeable to be out. With night fall the cold increased so that during the night it was below zero. The temperature varied. In some places it was zero and in other places several degrees below zero. At sunrise this morning the glass registered 3 below and the wind still continued to blow. The indications this morning were that it would remain cold all day.

At noon t ehmercury had climbed to but 16. On Jan. 4 we had 12 degree temperature at noon, and on Jan. 5 it was 15. On Dec. 30 we had a 12 degree day, and on Dec 31 a 19 degree day. These have been the only days below 20 at noon this winter.

BRIEFS

A large number of deaths are reported today.

Hyde Park expects to have a soldiers' monument this year if the law is amended at this Legislature.

The town of Milton expended but $6,064.71 for interest in 1909. Quincy should learn how the item was kept so low.

Nomination papers have been taken out by Edward P. Histen as Democratic Independent candidate for councilman from Ward Two at the special election to be held March 1.

The body of the man found in the woods of Stoneham Saturday were identified Sunday by H. E. Teasdalue of Quincy as David H. Beals of Dorchester.

Practically all of the stone sheds are shut down today on acocunt of the cold weather. Some little work however is being done in the quarries.

Miss Mildred Sheldon Bass is to give a recital tomorrow evening at the Wollaston Congregational church. She is a charming reader and will give a fine program, assisted by other talent.

Mrs. H. M. Willard of the Quincy Mansion school invites friends of the school to attend a lecture tomorrow night at the school to be given by Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus, whose subject will be "Perugia." The lecture will be illustrated by the stereopticon.

There was a merry gathering at the home of Miss Susan Bradbury on Pearl street one evening last week. The Ladies Aid society of the Universalist church surprised Miss Bradbury and in appreciation of her long and faithful service as treasurer of the society presented her with a gold pin and a bouquet of flowers. About twenty-five ladies were present and enjoyed the pleasures of the evening.

The Ladies' Aid of the Hall Place M. E. church held their annual meeting and election of officers last week at the home of Mrs. Blaisdell, the president, Mrs. William McCormick was re-elected with the following officers: Vice president, Mrs. George Hawes; secretary, Mrs. F. W. Bent; treasurer Mrs. James McCormick. A large number were present. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a very enjoyable time enjoyed by all.

Old shoes repaired as good as new is what the Goodyear Shoe Repairing Co. guarantee and they also give green stamps.

AFTER THE EXPRESSMEN

Police Said to Have Found Violation of Law

Officers Goodhue and Duane went on the war-path Saturday night for the pony expressmen, to see how they were living up to the law in relation to the transportation of liquor. During the evening they held up several of the expressmen and examined their books. As a result of their inspection some of the expressmen will be hailed into court for violation of the law.

The officers found that some of the expressmen had liquor marked for persons at certain addresses where it was found no such person resided. In other cases the officers found the expressmen without the necessary delivery book and in another case where the expressman was collecting for the liquor when delivered or collecting once a week for the liquor delivered during the week.

All of these cases are in violation of the law. These parties will be brought into court and if found guilty their permits will probably be revoked by City Council and they will stand a good chance of being left in April when the permits for this year are handed out by the City Council Committee on Licenses.

TODAY'S COURT.

Harry McCormick was fined $15 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Peter Callahan was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

John Keating, Penrd Kirdonen, Stewart McLeod and Alexander Steel were arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Cases placed on probation until June 1, on payment of costs.

TOOL SHARPENER KILLED.

Vittoria Grilli, aged 16 years, was instantly killed Saturday afternoon at the plant of the Quincy Adams Granite Co. on Penn street, by being caught in the shafting. The lad was employed as a tool sharpener and was near a power driven grindstone when his clothing caught in the belt and before he could pull himself free he was whirled about the shafting. When the machinery was stopped the boy was dead, having been horribly mangled, most of the bones in the body being broken. Medical Examiner Jones viewed the remains and gave them in charge of an undertaker. The boy lived at 78 Taber street.

BOLD ROBBERY.

William F. Green, aged 19 years, and Ralph Manuel, aged 15 years, of East Weymouth, employed by George S. Whitcomb, the East Weymouth baker, were held up near King Oak hill, North Weymouth, Saturday evening and robbed of $37 in money. The boys were returning to East Weymouth, when they saw two men standing in the middle of the street. One of the men walked up to the team and pointing a revolver in Green's face ordered him to hand over what money he had. Green handed over $37. While this was going on, the second man stood on the sidewalk evidently keeping watch. After the money had been handed over, Manuel was ordered to get into the back of the wagon and Green to drive along. When the boys got back to East Weymouth they told Mr. Whitcomb, who in turn notified the police. The men after taking the money started to walk toward North Weymouth.

—The evil of high prices for food stuffs has had the effect of causing housekeepers to adopt other ways of preparing food with economy in view, which is at least a benefit. It is not the most expensive food which is the most nutritious and if American housekeepers would learn from French cooks how to make a litle money go a long way the ywill find they can live as well ,and much cheaper.—Old Colony Memorial.

$4 PER DAY FOR PLUMBERS

Have Framed a New Bill for May 1

Plumbers of the city exepct $4 per day and extras after May 1. This morning in accordance with a vote of Local 275 of the United association of journeymen plumbers, gasfitters, steamfitters and steamfitters' helpers notice was sent to the master plumbers of the city stating that on May 1 the union will ask that the first-class minimum rate of wages for plumbers, steam and gasfitters shall be 50 cents an hour, eight hours to be a day's work except on Saturdays when four hours will be the day's works, Saturday afternoons and overtime to be paid at the rate of double time except Feb. 22 and June 17 which shall be the same as regular working days. The second class rate of wages asked for is 42 2-3 cents an hour. The union also requires that a first class man shall be employed in the shop before a second class man shall be employed.

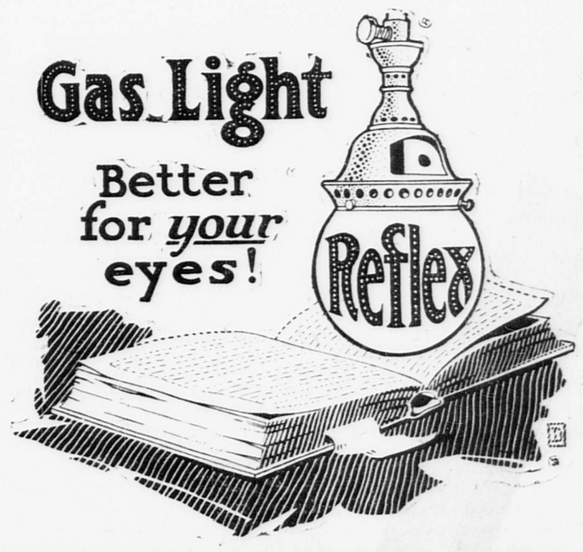

After a respite of three weeks' duration the City Council will hold a regular meeting this evening. At this meeting it is expected that the estimate of the amounts needed to run the several departments for the current year will be forwarded by the Mayor and City Treasurer. These will probably be referred to the Finance Committee without debate. There are several other matters in the Council calendar, any one of which is likely to come up for action. A sharp debate is anticipated on the order for water extensions should the Finance Committee report on the order at this meeting.

Washing Done By Electricity

The very latest invention, for sale at this store is the Electric Washing Machine. Every family should own one. 5 cents will pay for electric power, water and soap to do your entire week's washing. Dump your clothes into the machine, turn on the electric power and go about your other household affairs. Your washing is done automatically the electric motor by turning a switch turns the wringer which is attached to machine and wrings your clothes. Think of the change in house work and the contentment of servants with wash day turned into a sunny Monday. We ask your inspection of this machine.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Brockton people are much exercised because the mayor has granted licenses for the moving picture shows to do business on Sunday. Ministers are making it the subject of forceful sermons and petitions of remonstrance are being signed. It seems like letting dowh the bars, especially in staid old New England. Six days in the week seems about long enough for business of every kind.

It will doubtless prove a surprise to many of the critics of the Payne tariff law to learn that more than half of the merchandise, measured in terms or value, imported during the first six months of the operation of the law came in free of duty. The exact figures, including the six days in August during which the Dingley law remained in force, show that 51.5 per cent came in free. This is a larger percentage of free imports than has occurred under any previous bill except that of 1890 which admitted sugar free of duty. The principal articles which came in free during the last six months were hides and skins, India rubber, pig tin, raw silk, fibres, cotton, copper, tea, cocoa, chemicals, works of art and undressed furs.

The administration is gravely concerned, according to Washington advices, over the treatment which the Alaskan government bill has received at the hands of the Senate Committee on Territories, which in amending the measure has practically defeated the purpose of the President. In the opinion of the administration, so long as the affairs of Alaska are left to the immediate direction of Congress there will be maintained an unsavory lobby in Washington and improper influences will be brought to bear to obtain legislation inimical to the best interests of the district. The remoteness of Alaska and the inability of members of Congress to judge of the merits of the legislation urged contribute chiefly to this result. Holding this view the administration caused a measure to be prepared which conferred on a commission, to be appointed by the President, the power to prescribe most of the laws, subject to the approval of Congress. The influence which the great interests of Alaska are always able to exert in Washington have been untilfzed to defeat the purpose of the President but it is hoped that the desired bill will be passed by the House and that the mistakes may be corrected in the conference committee.

The Safe Roads Automobile Association has had brought to its attention during the year 1909, 1087 accidents, 896 serious injuries and 54 deaths, in connection with motoring in the state, as compared with 743 accidents, 624 serious injuries and 33 deaths in 1908, increases of 48 per cent 44 per cent. and 64 per cent respectively. During the last half of 1909, the figures were 768; 623; and 43, as compared with 509; 343; and 17 for the same period of 1908, increases of 51 per cent, 81 per cent and 153 per cent. In 1909, the greatest number of accidents occur ed in July (151) and September (148) and in 1908 the greatest number were in August (104) and September (102.) The increase in registration of motor vehicles in 1909 was about 30 per cent.

During the past year the Association took up cases with the Police of forty-eight cities and towns and with Selectmen and other officials, cooperating and advising when requested. It was represented at hearings before the Massachusetts Highway Commission on special regulations made by eleven towns under the new law; and at all hearings on automobile matters before legislative committees, advocating in practically all its provisions, the law as it now stands, including several amendments offered by the Association.

The facts in 92 cases were reported to the Commission and the Association's information put at their disposal. In these cases, a large number of which the Commission would doubtless have investigated on its own account, there were five revocations, twenty suspensions and eight warnings ordered. The Commission sent warnings at the Association's request in sixteen additional cases. The Association itself sent fifty-four warning letters and formally prosecuted fourteen complaints before the Commission and two in the Courts.

It is believed that the work of the Association aided materially in checking reckless and inconsiderate driving, but the figures above given would seem to show the need for increased efforts, especially in the summer months, on the part of all who wish to have travel on our highways safe and enjoyable. The Association now has a large membership and proposes to increase its activity and do its full share in the present year.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Abraham Lincoln was the nominal head of the army and navy of the United States during the period covered by the War of the Rebellion, but he did not take the field, and command in person. In 1863 when recruiting was difficult and a draft was ordered, he proposed to the cabinet that the members each put a substitute into the army as an example for the men who could not go to the front, but who should be represented among the fighting forces for the Union. He directed his adjutant general to procure a suitable substitute, who should be as nearly a perfect man, physically and mentally as he could find. Such a man was found in the person of a youth of 18, by name, J. Summerfield Staples, and he became "Private Abraham Lincoln," in the Second district of Columbia Volunteers. Young Staples went through the war, and survived until about 10 years, dying in Stroudsberg, Pa., where his remains are buried. Congress has been asked to appropriate $20,000 for a monument in memory of the "Representative recruit of Abraham Lincoln." It is not generally known that Lincoln was in the army by substitute, and the approach of the anniversary of his birth brings this, with other pertinent facts, to the attention of those who enjoy everything that relates to Lincoln.—Lynn Item.

QUINCY MAN APPOINTED.

George E. Adams, Esq., has recently received the appointment as assistant in the office of the District Attorney for Norfolk and Plymouth Counties which he will attend to in connection with his other law business. Mr. Adams was born and brought up in Quincy and has always taken an active interest in the affairs of the city, having been a member of the City Council for five years and being at present on the Board of Trustees of the Quincy Savings Bank and a Trustee of the City Hospital. He is a member of Rural Lodge, St. Stephen's chapter South Shore Commandery and the Shrine.

MUST HAVE WAGE INCREASE

Only Way In Which Miners' Strike Can Be Averted, Says Lewis

Toledo, Feb. 7.—"A substantial increase of wages of the mine workers of this country is the only basis upon which industrial peace can be established in the mining industry on and after April 1 next."

This was the final declaration of President Lewis of the United Mine Workers before he left here. He would not discuss his plans for bringing about an agreement with the operators, but made it evident that he had not given up hope of a settlement.

An Abrupt Greeting.

Some years ago Joaquin Miller, the "poet of the Sierras," and Blank, the "sweet swan of Packingtown," went to England together and made a pilgrimage to the home of Swinburne. Arrived at the jealously guarded retreat of the great metrist, they confessed themselves to the poet's faithful Cerberus, Mr. Watts Dunton.

The latter withdrew to break the glad news to Swinburne, and the visitors began to think anxiously of the nice things they wanted to say. Joaquin took a firm grip of his flowing whiskers, while Blank fingered nervously a neat roll of manuscript in an inner pocket. Soon a door was opened on an upper floor, Dunton was heard to make his announcement, and then the rich voice of the author of "Laus Veneris" floated down the stairway:

"Tell Miller to come up. Tell the other man to go to hell."

Redemption.

If from the darkened paths of guilt
To narrow ways of righteous love
Ye care to win the souls of men,
Use not the wearying words and tears
Which lend to endless chains of wrong
Another link to strengthen them,
But seek to gather from thy life,
As spinning daily, thread by thread,
A web of glory strong and bright,
And ask thy soul each passing hour,
Whilst flinging wide its shining mesh,
The question, "Am I living right?"

FOREIGNERS PARTICIPATE

Novel Features at Inauguration of Mayor Fitzgerald

Boston, Feb. 7.—The eyes of all nations, or at least all those recognized in international diplomacy, are resting upon Mayor Fitzgerald at the inauguration exercises today at Faneuil hall. The affair thus takes on an importance hitherto unknown in this city, for this is the first time that the foreign consuls stationed at Boston have participated in the inauguration of a mayor. They have very little to do with the ceremonies, it is true, but their presence establishes a precedent.

JOHN F. FITZGERALD

The transfer of the exercises from city hall to Faneuil hall, for the first time in the history of the city, gave the new city government a chance to be displayed at its best advantage. There was plenty of room for a truly impressive ceremony and plenty of seats for the friends of the mayor and the nine new councilmen.

Mr. Fitzgerald issued 200 invitations to his friends and each member of the common council issued fifty invitations. The capacity of the hall is less than a thousand seats. There have been occasions, even in the recent campaign, when the hall contained 1500 persons.

This is the first time in the history of the city that invitations by the wholesale have been sent out by the incoming city government. The small council chamber at city hall has admitted of no such liberality from the city fathers. Heretofore the mayor and the members of both branches of the city government have contented themselves with writing a note to friends for presentation to the city messenger, who would furnish seats in as desirable portions of the hall as were then available.

Inauguration day begun with the meeting of Mayor Hibbard and the mayor-elect, with the chief justice of the supreme court, the chaplain, Rev. Leo J. Knappe, the former mayors of Boston, the foreign consuls and the new city council, in the armory of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company at Faneuil hall at 10:15 o'clock. Ten minutes later the members-elect of the council with the city clerk proceeded to the stage of Faneuil hall. Councilman-elect Ballantyne, the senior member, presided and in opening the ceremonies requested the city clerk to call the roll. He then announced a quorum.

A member moved that a committee be appointed to notify the mayor-elect that the city council was in waiting. The committee later reported that it had waited upon the mayor-elect and that he would report presently. The committee was discharged and the city messenger proceeded to the armory to escort the mayor-elect, Chief Justice Knowlton of the supreme court, Chaplain Knappe and the foreign consuls, led by Consul General Leary, representing Great Britain.

At the entrance to the hall the city messenger announced the party and the chair rapped three times for all to rise. The foreign consuls were escorted to seats reserved for them in front of the stage, while the other members of the party took seats on the stage. After prayer by the chaplain, the chair requested the chief justice to administer the oath to the mayor-elect, and the mayor-elect in turn administered the oath to the councilmen-elect. The audience remained standing during this part of the ceremony.

The remaining feature of the program was that of the reading of the mayor's inaugural address, which was one of the longest that any mayor of Boston has delivered in years.

The councilmen, after the Faneuil hall ceremonies, returned to city hall, where they held their first meeting.

VAGARIES OF THE MODE.

Ear Burial In Hair One Instance of Absurdity In Today's Styles.

The wise woman avoids the extreme in fashion. If she be a person of refined tastes anything that is inclined to flamboyancy in effect does not appeal to her, and she chooses something less pronounced. It matters not how firmly the fashion makers deliver their dicta—if the products of their inventive genius are not consistent with the refined woman's own ideas she refuses to accept them.

It is for this reason that one never sees the fearfully and wonderfully constructed headgear which is displayed long in advance of the season in the windows of ambitious shopkeepers on the heads of those who are endowed with good taste. The woman of taste does not agitate herself over novelties of any description. The most carefully and even fashionably attired woman is the one who makes a study of her own especial style and does not permit another to dictate to her in matters of dress. Of course this does not mean that she ignores the established features of the current mode. It means rather that she declines to adopt those which she considers unsuited to her particular case.

There is cause for regret that feminine good taste in the matter of personal adornment is comparatively so rare. It would be a work of the most herculean effort to convince womankind that such is the case, but it is time that an active propaganda to that end were established. A good place to begin would be with hairdressing. Every now and then those who manage such matters succeed in effecting an entire revolution in the method of arranging the hair. From time immemorial woman has yielded a slavish obedience to this senseless custom. With most women it is not so much a question of what is becoming as of style.

Here, again, the woman of correct taste refuses to follow the lead of those who are willing to sacrifice everything to the vagaries of the mode. Without adopting a style which is conspicuous for its divergence from the generally accepted fashion she selects only that which is best suited to her own needs.

Unfortunately the wise women are in the decided minority. That this is so witness the speedy popularity of the absurd revival of the old time craze of entombing the ears beneath the front hair. ANNE MORRISON.

Tells Unique Children's Tales.

One of the busiest young women in America, particularly about Christmas time, is Miss Ethel Wood, a schoolteacher of Brookline, Mass. Miss Wood is becoming widely noted and deservedly popular because she has hit upon a new way of telling stories to entertain children. She ignores the old Mother Goose brand of children's tales. Her method is strikingly original. It was by accident that Miss Wood became such an original story teller. One morning she overheard a little boy say, "Jack Frost bit my nose." A little girl said, "He blew my curls too." The boy declared that wasn't Jack Frost, and the girl asked who it was, then. The boy was at a loss for a reply, but on the inspiration of the moment Miss Wood spoke up and said it was Tommy Tingle who blew the girl's curls. Of course everybody in school wanted to know who Tommy Tingle was, and the teacher told them Tommy was the wind. Then she had to improvise a story about Tommy Tingle and his doings, how he roams about tossing curls and carrying leaves and papers and all that sort of thing. After one such story Miss Wood found herself besieged for others. She was invited and then implored to tell stories before Sunday school children and at other gatherings. She has acquired a large stock of unique tales for children, many of them having to do with the Christmas holiday myths. Miss Wood is a native of Michigan. Her ability to discern the sense of humor in children and feed it properly accounts largely for her success.

Americans In English Society.

To illustrate the enormous proportion of Americans in English society it is interesting to take the most aristocratic row of houses in London. Carlton House terrace, a row which contains, among other residences, that of Mrs. George Keppel. Out of ten houses six are occupied at different periods of the season by Americans or persons deriving incomes from America. These six are Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. James W. Mackay, William Waldorf Astor, Lady Herbert, who was a Miss Wilson of New York, and two Englishmen, Lord Curzon and Sir Gilbert Parker, both of whom married American women.

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD BREAD RECIPE

ONE TABLESPOONFUL of shortening, one level tablespoonful salt, one-third cup sugar. Add one pint scalding water, then add another pint of cold water.

Let stand until lukewarm and add one yeast cake. STIR "WINGOLD" FLOUR into this with a spoon until it becomes as thick as you can possibly stir it. DO NOT KNEAD IT, as this is all the mixing it requires.

After Sponge has risen, KNEAD DOWN and let rise again. Then place on board, mold into loaves, and place in pans. Let rise until level with top of pan. Bake in moderate oven.

This recipe insures four perfect loaves.

N. B.—Bread made with water keeps moist longer than if made with milk.

"WINGOLD" is the finest flour sold anywhere at any price.

Grocers say the demand for "WINGOLD" is steadily increasing.

THE SEAMEN'S UNION.

Epitome of the Work of the Recent Convention—Furuseth Re-elected.

The International Seamen's Union of America, in recent session in New York, resolved to continue financial support of the local unions now on strike on the great lakes so long as it shall be necessary. The convention also resolved against an appeal to outside unions for financial aid to the strikers, holding that the locals of its own jurisdiction are capable of handling the situation.

Action was taken looking toward the organizing of the Latin element engaged in seafaring. If necessary, separate halls will be established and organizers chosen from among that element. The constitution was ordered printed in Spanish for the benefit of the Spanish firemen, of whom there are a great number in ships to the Atlantic and gulf ports. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: A. Furuseth, president; C. J. Harrington, first vice president; Victor A. Olander, second vice president; Edward Stack, third vice president; H. P. Griffin, fourth vice president; P. B. Gill, fifth vice president; George C. Bodine, sixth vice president; Thomas A. Hanson, seventh vice president; J. M. Secord, eighth vice president; Walter Macarthur, editor Coast Seamen's Journal, and William H. Frazier, secretary-treasurer.

President Furuseth and Victor Olander were chosen as delegates to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor. As delegates to the convention of the International Transport Workers' federation, which meets in Copenhagen, Deamark, next August, President Furuseth and George Bodine were elected.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of th's preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c, and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

SUNDAY IN CHURCHES

Two Clergymen Begin Their Local Pastorates

AT QUINCY POINT.

Rev. Charles P. Marshall began his pastorate at the Washington Street Congregational church on Sunday, and was greeted by large congregations. He preached in the morning from the text "We would see Jesus." Flowers added their beauty to the occasion and there was good music.

PARK AND DOWNS.

Rev. W. D. Ayres began his pastorate on Sunday at the Park and Downs Congregational church, preaching both morning and evening. The sermons were informal, being mainly a heart-to-heart talk with the people. Mr. Ayres left on the midnight train for Cape Vincent, N. Y., where he will visit for a week.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

The Endeavorers held a very interesting and inspiring service at this church Sunday evening in commemoration of the founding of the Endeavor movement by Dr. F. E. Clark in Portland, 29 years ago. There was a large attendance at the regular meeting which was conducted by Melvin Hayward. The anniversary service was held in the church. Alden H. Blanchard, president of the local society, presided and gave a fine address of welcome. The special music under the direction of Madame Morey, by the choir and the soloists, Miss Steeves and Mrs. Moore, was greatly enjoyed. The speaker of the evening was Rev. Samuel Lindsay of Newton. Mr. Lindsay is a Scotchman and has been in America but a year. He speaks with a strong Scotch accent, and is a young preacher of great promise. The subject of his address was "Regeneration." His address was complete with striking illustrations and given in a frank, earnest and forceful manner.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

All the evangelistic meetings at the Water Street church were very largely attended on Sunday, extra chairs being necessary to accommodate the crowd. Rev. C. T. Schaeffer was assisted by Mr. Arbuckle the singer, and they held the close attention of the congregations. It is expected that there will be large accessions to the church at the next communion as a result of the meetings which Mr. Schaeffer has conducted during the last fifteen days closing Sunday night.

HALL PLACE M. E.

"The Power that masters Life" was the subject of the sermon on Sunday morning at the Hall Place M. E. church, by the Rev. C. B. Hess of the Methodist Episcopal church at South Weymouth. Mr. Hess occupied this pulpit in exchange with the pastor. Mr. Hess comes from Ohio and has the same undaunted faith and courage of so many of our other western ministers. His text was taken from Matthew 23-8: "For one is your master, even Christ." In the course of his sermon Mr. Hess portrayed with all the pathos of an unmistakable realization of the sufferings of Christ, His betrayal, His trial, His long and weary journey from the judgment hall to calvary and His crucifiion and edath, and proved that Christ through His sacrifice became the only right power that masters human life. Mr. Hess was appreciated by his large audience, who will not soon forget his helpful thoughts.

A large number were present at the Sunday school session. The pastor returned in time to conduct the Junior League at 3 P. M. Joseph M. Francis was the leader of the Epworth League at 6.15, the topic being "How to watch." A duet was sung by Miss Ada and Mr. Wesley Williams.

The text of the evening service was taken from Col. 4-5—"Walk in wisdom toward them that are without, redeeming the time," the subject being "One phase of a Christian's opportunity." The pastor occupied the pulpit.

On Friday afternoon the Ladies Aid will hold a food sale in the Lamb block on the boulevard.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The Wollaston Unitarian Church enters upon its twenty-third year full of vigor and enthusiasm.

The Wollaston Unitarian Club will hold its regular monthly meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 8. Dinner will be served at 6.30 P. M.; speaker, Wm. U. Swan, of the Associated Press of Boston; Subject: "The collection and distribution of news."

Wednesday evening, Feb. 9, at 7.45 o'clock in the vestry the "Church Helpers" will give an entertaining play entitled "An ancient sewing society." The characters are

The Wednesday noon service at King's chapel this week will be conducted by the Rev. Charles F. Dole, D. D. of Jamaica Plain.

Remember the regular monthly vesper service next Sunday Feb. 13, at 4.30 P. M. A fine musical program will be rendered by a male quartet from Boston. All seats free and a hearty welcome to every one.

A neighborhood meeting was held in the Wollaston Unitarian church Sunday evening by the Young People's Religious Union. Unions from Quincy, Braintree and Neponset being present. J. Harry Hooper, local president was in charge of the meeting and following the devotional exercises, Dr. Harris Kennedy of Milton delivered a most interesting stereopticon lecture on Japan. The journey taken by Dr. Kennedy was out of the beaten course of travel and this together with the fine slides from pictures taken on the trip made the lecture doubly interesting to the audience.

Miss Abbie Penley rendered a pleasing vocal solo and William E. Weston presided at the organ.

Following the meeting an informal reception was tendered Dr. and Mrs. Kennedy in the vestry, refreshments being served.

In charge of the affair were: Rev. Harl G. Horst, J. Harry Hooper, Louis B. Weston, George E. Brown, Charles M. Thompson, Roy C. Baker, Misses Marion and Helen Browne, Miss Helen Wade, Miss Almira E. Simmons, Miss Dorothy Fay, Miss Gladys Howe, Miss Priscilla Robinson, Misses Bertha and Mildred Polk.

AT ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S.

Rev. Albert Edwin Clattenburg took for his text Sunday morning: St. Luke 18:41—"What wilt thou that I shalt do unto thee?" He said in part: "People do not seem to realize that development is as necessary in the spiritual life as it is in the physical life. One looks with disdain on the individual in the world who is not progressing, going from a lower stage to a higher one. But when it comes to the spiritual life people do not seem to so instinctively feel that progression is necessary. Yet it is just as necessary."

At the evening service the rector gave his second address on "The teaching of Christ.

WOLLASTON M. E.

All the services at the Wollaston Methodist church were largely attended. At 10.15 A. M. an interesting love feast was held in the vestry led by the pastor. At 10.45 the pastor preached taking for his subject, "Faithfulness Rewarded." He said no service rendered by man received such compensation as the service for the Lord. The Gospel of Christ abounds in blessings. The reward is only to the faithful. Our Lord was an example of faithfulness. He was faithful in every detail? He urges faithfulness an essential that we may have the crown of life.

At the conclusion of the sermon a large number shared in the communion service. The Sunday school was in charge of J. A. Sedgwick, teh superintendent. The report of the secretary showed the largest in attendance in the history of school. Mrs. Wiggin's class of ladies took the lead in attendance and the primary department a very decided gain.

The Junior league at 4 o'clock conducted by Miss Chamberlin was largely attended, Miss Sadie Teed assisted the superintendent. Mr. Leigh of Watertown led the Epworth League at 6 o'clock.

At 7 o'clock the pastor preached on "Self denial or the price discipleship." At the close of the sermon ten were received into the church, Mr. Fesler had charge of the praise service.

FIRE LOSSES OF YEAR 1909

Only $58,067.84 including the Boston Gear Works.

The report of Chief Engineer Peter J. Williams for the year 1909 shows the total fire loss of the city to have been $58,067.84. During the year there were 204 alarms. Of this number 83 were bell alarms and 121 still alarms. There was one general alarm and 6 false alarms.

The total value of buildings at risk was $244,775, upon which there was an insurance of $233,500, and the total loss on buildings was $26,439.40. The total value of contents of buildings at risk was $213,327, insurance $84,050, and loss $21,628.44.

The general alarm mentioned above was for the fire at the Boston Gear Works at Norfolk Downs. At the time of the fire the loss reported was very large but the adjustment of the insurance at this fire shows the loss on buildings to have been $20,000 and on contents $15,000. This was the largest fire of the year however, and probably the largest in the history of Quincy.

Considering the size of the city, and and the large amount of property at risk, the record of the fire department for the year is an exceptionally good one, and shows that not only is the department well organized, but that it has a first class chief with a record as a fire fighter that will be hard to beat.

BRIAN'S VERSATILITY.

Actor Who Won Fame In "The Merry Widow" Can Take Many Parts.

Donald Brian, who made such a name for himself as Prince Danilo in the original production of "The Merry Widow" and who is a leading member this season of "The Dollar Princess" company, is so clever at female impersonating that members of his own family have at times been fooled by him.

DONALD BRIAN AS "SHE."

In the Lambs' all star gambol which made that meteoric skip through eleven cities of the country last summer Donald Brian was the first name in the notable cast. He had the part of the heroine in the frolic, and novices never suspected that the fascinating creature in the latest creations was a man. "She" created as much of a flutter among the Johnnies as "Freddy Smythe" is doing among the matinee girls in the "Dollar Princess." The cut representing the heroine in the all star gambol of the Lambs is from a photograph that is not easily obtainable.

Iron Molders Get Jurisdiction.

The A. F. of L. convention adopted a recommendation of the committee on adjustment by which the Iron Molders' union is given jurisdiction over brass molders as well as molders of other metals. This action was strenuously opposed by the Metal Polishers' union, which at the present time has between 500 and 900 brass molders in its membership, and a heated debate followed, in which a good deal of ill feeling was shown. The convention, however, gave a big majority in favor of the iron molders.

THE GREEN FLAME.

A Story of What Happened In Death Valley.

By CUTHBERT BAKER.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

"Father, tell us a story about something that occurred when you lived out in the far west."

"A true story about something that really happened?"

"Yes; a real true story!" shouted several children at once.

"Very well. I'll tell you what happened to Aaron Winters and his wife, Rosie, in the Death valley region."

"Death valley! That must have been an awful place."

"That's why they called it Death valley. It was so hot that people couldn't live there. Aaron and Rosie didn't live in the valley, but in a gulch called Ash meadows, not far from the mouth of the valley. But even at Ash meadows it was desolate and lonely. The couple lived in a little hut on the side of a mountain. The country was wild and rugged, so wild and rugged that no one else would live there. Their cabin was a hundred miles from the nearest neighbor. Aaron Winters was a hunter, and that's why he lived away from other people. Hunters must live where there is game, and when settlers come in the game moves away.

"Aaron often considered the feasibility of taking his wife to a more cheerful region, but he knew no trade but that of hunter. And how could he make a living except when there was game? Besides, having always dwelt away from men, how would he get on with them? If he had means to make him independent that would be another matter. He had nothing but his cabin and the game he killed. He longed for funds to enable him to make the change.

"But how could he ever hope to gather funds in a country where no man would come to settle? True, he could have all the land he cared to take possession of, but it wasn't worth anything. I have often thought that this might have been another cause to keep him there. Perhaps he thought that some day settlers would come in and he could sell his mountain side for enough money to enable him to get away. But if that was what he was waiting for he was doomed to disappointment.

"One day a desert tramp came along and asked for shelter overnight. He was the first human being that either Aaron or Rosie had seen in many a long day, and you may be assured the couple made him welcome. A desert tramp is not likely to be a very intellectual or well bred fellow, and this one certainly was not. He was burned almost black by the sun, and his clothes were dirty and ragged. But he could talk to them, and that's more than their cats or their dogs could do. And just think how the sound of another voice than their own must have delighted them!

"Rosie got up a good supper for the tramp, which he ate as though he had passed through Death valley, where there was neither flesh nor vegetable that a man could live on. After supper, while Rosie was clearing the table and washing the dishes, Aaron gave the tramp a pipe and some tobacco, and the two sat down for a smoke and a chat. Aaron didn't care what his guest talked about so long as he talked, and Rosie at her work enjoyed the sound of a voice, rough and uncouth though it was, as well as her husband.

"The tramp had visited many regions and naturally talked about them. He had been at Salt lake and told them that the water was so dense that persons bathing in it would float on its surface like a boat on water. He had been in Colorado and told them how the gold was stamped out of the rock. The last place he had been was Nevada. There are borax deposits in that state, and he told Aaron how they looked.

"Now, Aaron had often been in Death valley and had noticed something there that looked like what the tramp described. He asked how one might know borax deposits, and the tramp told him that there were certain chemicals which when combined with borax would burn a green flame. Aaron also asked the tramp what borax was used for, and he told him, as you all know, that it was used for washing purposes and that a little package of it was worth about 10 cents. Aaron thought that if this was the price what he had seen must be worth thousands of dollars.

"The next morning, after the tramp's departure, Aaron talked over with Rosie what had been said about the borax deposits. He thought it was possible that what he had seen in Death valley might be borax. But even if he went there he had no means of discovering whether what he had seen was borax or ordinary soil.

"'Rosie, dear,' said Aaron, 'I would like you to go to a town where you can get these chemicals for testing borax, but it will require a week or two, during which I shall have to stay here alone. Then when you come back we shall have to make a trip to Death valley, and after all our trouble there isn't one chance in a dozen that what I have seen there will turn out to be borax.'

"'I really think, Aaron,' replied the wife, 'that the chances don't warrant the trouble, but I'm worn out with this desolation and am yearning to see people. I feel as if I must have one of my own sex to talk to, even if only for a day.'

"'Well, sweetheart, go, but don't stay any longer than to have a good chat, for I'm very anxious to make the test.'

"So the next day Aaron took her where she could get some one to take her on farther and left her to go back to the cabin. As she kissed him goodby she looked at him wistfully and said:

"'Aaron, I won't leave you again. I know how lonely you are without me, how hard it is for you to have to get your meals, and I worry for fear something will happen to you. What would you do while I am away if you should become sick or meet with an accident?'

"'Never mind about that, Rosie. Bring back the chemicals as soon as you can.'

"'Oh, there's nothing in that, Aaron. Don't think about it. You're sure to be disappointed.'

"They parted, Rosie going on and Aaron going back to the cabin. It seemed very quiet there without his wife, and he wished it was the end instead of the beginning of their separation. After he had cooked and eaten his supper he sat smoking his pipe, thinking about what the tramp had told him. He realized that there was scarcely a chance of what he had seen being borax, but the thought of what would happen if it should be borax sent a thrill all through him. He would be the only person to know it, and no one was likely to come into Death valley to learn of the secret before he had established his legal claim to all the property he cared to possess.

"In ten days Rosie came back with a substance she had obtained from a chemist. But neither she nor Aaron thought much about this, they were so glad to meet again. After a day or two Rosie spoke of it and asked her husband when he was going to Death valley. He said he dreaded to go, for he felt sure he would have his trouble for nothing. But Rosie said that since they had the materials they might as well make the trip and she would go with him.

"So the next day Rosie spent the morning preparing a lunch of antelope steak—this was all there was, since they lived only on game—and in the afternoon they set out for the valley.

"They reached their destination some time before sunset, and, having procured some of the substance they had gone for, they mixed it with the chemicals. But they did not wish to ignite it till night came, because they might not be able by daylight to tell whether or not the flame was green. More than an hour must elapse before it would be dark, and they spent the interval in suspense, so much depended on what they hoped for. Aaron did not care so much for himself directly. It was of Rosie he was thinking. For years he had kept her in a wilderness, and now if this substance were borax he could take her wherever she cared to go. While he was thinking of this the wife's mind was full of dread lest her husband, who had built great hopes on this matter, should be disappointed.

"The sun set, darkness came, and yet Winters delayed to apply the match.

"'Why don't you light it, Aaron?' asked Rosie.

"Aaron made no reply. None was needed. His wife knew he dreaded the disappointment that both felt was almost sure to come. They had had no careful description of the appearance of the substance the tramp had seen, and even if they had there might be resemblance without the substances being at all alike. What folly to expect that they were the same!

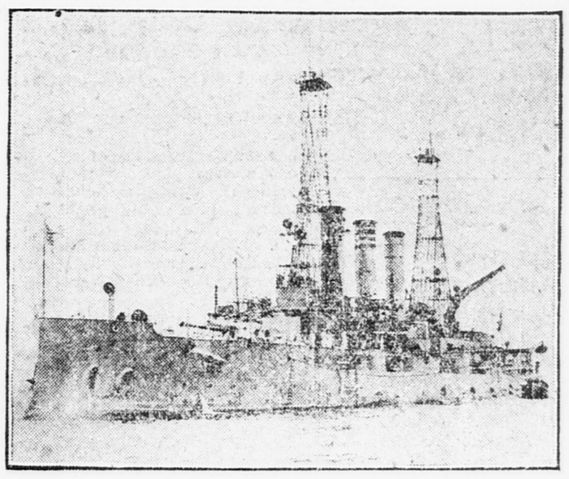

"Then Aaron scratched a match and held it to the combination. It blazed up in a bright flame.

"'It burns green, Rosie!' he shouted. 'We're rich!'

"So they were for people who had been so poor. They sold their property for $20,000.

"But they were not city people and would not enjoy a city life. Therefore the fortune they acquired was all they needed to make them comfortable and happy. They bought a ranch in Nevada, where they enjoyed a country life and had all the neighbors they wished for.

"That's the story, my dears, as I heard it, and I think it's about as it happened. The west is full of such wonderful cases of people without money, even in rags, lighting upon something of great value to make them rich. It was not riches that Aaron Winters and his wife required to make them happy, but sufficient means to enable them to leave the Death valley region."

ONE OF UNCLE SAM'S CRACK FIGHTING MACHINES.

The Louisiana was launched Aug. 27, 1905, at Newport News, and until the advent of the Michigan type of battleship she and her sister ship, the Connecticut, were regarded by naval experts as the most formidable fighting machines in the world. At that time there was no ship in the British navy to be compared to the Louisiana in speed, armament or coaling capacity. Her twelve inch gun firing record is unique—sixteen hits out of sixteen shots at 2,000 yards, two shots per minute. Until our new Dreadnoughts were finished the Louisiana was one of our crack warships. Her armament consists of four twelve-inch breechloading guns in pairs in turrets, eight eight-inch guns in pairs at corners of superstructure and the usual main deck equipment. She is also furnished with four twenty-one-inch submerged torpedo tubes.

BRIEFS.

C—O—L—D!

A high northwest wind makes it a very disagreeable day.

The mercury dropped below zero early Sunday evening and staid there all night. Some places report 8 and 12 below zero this morning.

Rev. Samuel Lindsay speaks this evening at the union rally of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavors at the Atlantic Memorial church.

The scout cruiser Birmingham, built at Quincy, has put out from Norfolk for assistance to the Kentucky.

Mrs. Edward Chase of Marion street, Wollaston with her daughter Lucy has gone to New York for a few weeks.

Lieut. O. Hill, who has been in command of the submarine Stingray at Boston, has received orders for duty at the Fore River shipyard in this city.

Robert Luce, recently a member of the Massachusetts Legislature, speaks tonight to the Men's Club of Christ church. Several men's clubs of the city have accepted invitations to be present.

Francis E. Carter died at his home at Needham on Friday. He had been in poor health for four years. The funeral services will be held today. Mr. and Mrs. Carter lived for several years on Wollaston avenue, moving to Needham last September.

John McBirnie of Quincy passed away at the Boston City Hospital Saturday evening aged 69 years. Mr. McBurnie was employed by the New Haven railroad as a carpenter and was stricken with apoplexy while at work Friday and was immediately taken to the hospital. He leaves a son and daughter.

HALL IS HELD IN $200,000 BAIL

He Is Unable to Procure That Amount and Goes to Jail

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 7.—John A. Hall, treasurer of the Southbridge Savings bank, was committed to jail here on his failure to secure $200,000 bonds, after being arraigned in the Webster court on a second charge of larceny of $125,000 of the bank's funds. The charge was preferred by President Paige of the bank.

There is no probability that Hall will be able to secure bondsmen, and he will doubtless have to remain in jail until the sitting of the grand jury on May 2. It is generally understood that Hall will make no defense to any indictments charging him with larceny from the bank, but will enter a plea of guilty, and ask the court for such leniency in the matter of sentence as the circumstances may seem to warrant.

While no direct, authoritative statement on the subject has been forthcoming, it is understood that the larceny of the $107,000 alleged in the complaint on which the warrant served was issued represents, approximately, the amount of money which the examination of the savings bank by the experts has shown was taken during the past six years.

It will be noted in connection with this that the experts have found that in the six years last past the defalcation from the bank has amounted to $110,000, a sum which the trustees of the bank will be called upon to replace in the bank, on the allegation that they are liable in that amount through their neglect in not making themselves, or having made, proper audits of the bank's accounts. The sum alleged to have been stolen during the time mentioned is fixed upon as the amount the trustees are to be asked to pay only because the statutes of limitation run no further back than six years.

It is said that preparations are being made to bring suit against all the trustees of the savings bank for the recovery of the $110,000, and that it is now intended to file the suits very shortly. It is understood that the suits will be brought by the attorney general of the state and a bitter contest is threatened.

The trustees also have some other litigation in prospect, as the bonding company which was Hall's surety in the sum of $20,000 has given notice that it will not pay, its ground being that the trustees were negligent, and it is said the trustees are going to bring suit to recover on the bond.

RUM TRAFFIC FLAYED

Bishop of St. John Calls on Canadians to Drop the Business

St. John, Feb. 7.—The Lenten pastoral letter of Right Rev. Thomas Casey, Catholic bishop of St. John, read in the Catholic churches of the diocese Sunday, caused a stir because of its strong pronouncement against the liquor traffic.

His words are declared to form the most severe arraignment of the liquor business ever given in official Catholic utterance in the maritime provinces and culminating in what is looked on as a direct call to every Catholic in the liquor business to give it up.

The pastoral was peculiarly of interest in the St. John city portion of the diocese, as nearly all the sixty-four retail liquor dealers here are of the Catholic faith.

ELEVEN MEN KILLED

But One of Gang Escapes Alive From Pennsylvania Mine

Indiana, Pa., Feb. 7.—Ten Hungarians and one American is the toll of death from a gas explosion in the Ernest mine of the Jefferson and Clearfield Coal company.

The explosion occurred in a heading where twelve workmen were, and one of these, Andrew Krazcer, escaped by crawling a quarter of a mile to evade the noxious gases.

How Krazcer escaped cannot be learned. When he recovers from fright and exhaustion it is thought he may be able to tell of the accident.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

CHEERFUL LETTERS

Are Sending Good Cheer Into Lonely Homes

Editors of Daily Ledger:

One of the most efficient means of increasing the universal brotherhood of man is the quiet little organization known as the "Cheerful Letter Exchange." Its members are found in all parts of this country and Canada. The purposes are:

1. To cheer and comfort the lonely and discouraged, not only invalids, but all who need cheer and comfort—by the interchange of letters and by gifts of books and periodicals.

2. To supply in some measure to young people in remote places the lack of schools, by gifts of schoolbooks, letters, and, for those who desire it, correspondence classes on history, the natural sciences, and other interesting branches of study.

3. Also to supply ,to some extent the lack of a church. One good sermon or sermon extract is printed in each number of the paper. These sermons are never doctrinal, but practical ,and intended to cheer and comfort the sorrowful and aid in giving a vital religion without regard to sect or creed.

The growth of the undertaking has revealed a genuine need among people remote from the great centres for words of encouragement and inspiration. One correspondent writes:—"I am thankful to you for sending me books and papers. We are very thinly settled here, but I pass all the reading on to my nearest neighbor who lives a mile away."

Another wrote that since he first began receiving reading and letters, nine years ago, the life of his home had entirely changed, and had become brighter and better.

On the other hand there are many to whom all opportunities for reading are open, who are willing to give their time in writing or sending reading to an unknown correspondent. One says that she has a book which she would like to send "some lonely woman on either a ranch or prairie."

Many have copies of magazines which they would be glad to send to an invalid or to any one unable to obtain reading amtter ,and the sunshine of new life and thought enters by these means into those lonely homes and limited lives.

Those who have the advantage of church ,schools, and libraries do not realize until they undertake the work how much can be done and how many lonely people there are who long for good reading and the words of comfort and cheer.

A paper called the Cheerful Letter is published each month. Many subscribers requesting that they be sent to "shut-ins" who cannot afford to subscribe. Tired mothers testify to the helpfulness of the sermon, and the mothers' council, others speak of the poems ,and still others of the natural history column. The possibilities of the work seem endless and only those who have a share in it can realize how great the opportunities are for educating the children and giving the words of cheer and advice so gladly received by the invalid, lonely ones and overburdened mothers.

Those who have been helped write appreciative letters, an extract from one such letter is:—"Tis you, my dear Cheerful Letter friends, who have taught me to take up my cross. I felt withdrawn from the world, when I had to give up my boy. As I write, the past comes back to me, I know just how happy the first copy of the Cheerful Letter made me. Can I ever forget what it means to me and mine? To ask blessings for our children is as natural to mothers as it is to breathe, or to go to rest, when the days' work is over; but to send blessings out to cheer the sad and lonely, No such magazine fills the bill as does the Cheerful Letter."

Those who are interested to know more about this work may address the Book Club Secretary, Mrs. W. B. Nichols, 80 Goffe street, Quincy, who will be glad to give any information, or receive any literature suitable for the work.

QUICK REPORT IS DEMANDED

Taft and Aldrich Plan Broad Inquiry as to Prices

Washington, Feb. 7.—President Taft and Senator Aldrich are planning an investigation of economic conditions as affecting prices which will reach out and overshadow anything of the kind ever attempted in the United States.

Behind it they will put a directing force which will make a new record in official investigations. Quick returns, based upon scientifically practical inquiry, will be demanded.

It will not be a long tenure commission of plump salaries and little labor. There will be a snappy, vigorous examination by experts with a view to remedial legislation.

When congress convenes next December the men who conduct the inquiry will be expected to have at hand information of a broad general character, backed by familiarity with actual conditions and a plan to blot out anything which is undesirable. If it be found that the conditions which are now harrassing every salaried man are basic and demand partial reconstruction, that duty will not be averted.

Out of the division of opinion which arose in the senate as to an investigation at all, and the breadth of such inquiry as should be made, there has grown a realization of the problems which hid behind the first step of reaching price causes. Deeper hold has been taken of the problem than the possibility that a combination of bakers have added a penny to the cost of the loaf or reduced its weight.

Delegation of the work to experts will shorten the time necessary for its completion. Discoveries very important to the national life may result from the inquiry. If, as Secretary Wilson contends, the farms have been deserted to the increase of the population in cities, there will be presented the problem of recolonization. Should the commission determine that we have over specialized and that we have developed too rapidly for our natural growth as a nation in manufacturing, then this must be sacrificed to the nurture of neglected occupations.

It is a problem which reaches out to the development of desert lands through irrigation to the abandoned New England farm, makes its way into the factory and the professions and leaves no system of wealth getting untouched.

Behind the figures which the committee or commission is expected to gather there lies the possibility of a general increase in wages that they may be adjusted to fit the higher prices of necessities and the turning of the city-bound hordes of farmer boys back to the work of producing food to feed those who have reached the town before. Nothing which has been advanced as a cause of the present condition of high prices and the reduction of the power of the single dollar will be excluded from the consideration of the committee.

It will be the attempt to open before it every avenue down which there can be located a reason or a possible remedy for the conditions which aroused the president to say in his message that "the high prices which such products bring mean great prosperity for the farming community, but on the other hand they mean a very considerably increased burden upon those classes in the community whose yearly compensation does not expand with the improvement of business and the general prosperity."

Plan of Sioux Indians In the Event That Estrada Is Successful

Boston, Feb. 7.—Chief Little Bison, full-blooded Indian and the leader of the Sioux tribe, arrived here on the steamer Esparta, having completed arrangements to move the remnants of the once warlike Sioux band from the present reservation in South Dakota to Janito, Nic., if the rebels under Estrada win.

In this event the rebel general has promised to cede 16,000 acres to the 8000 members of the Sioux tribe and the project of moving them has the backing of a number of prominent New York men.

QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

UNDER TWO FLAGS.

The Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes.

By ANNA BENTLEY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

As soon as we had dropped anchor at Valparaiso Jack Hoskins, Tom Archard and I, having been cooped up aboard ship for three months without setting foot on shore, determined that we would get together if possible in the first liberty party and have a good time in the town. Hoskins was a reckless, fearless chap, Archard was not much better on the score of recklessness, while I was the only peaceable one of the trio.

"Now, Hoskins," I said before starting, "I wish you to understand that if you get us into a scrape while we're on shore you and I will not train to gether again."

"I'll be meek as Moses," he said.

"If he doesn't drink too much," Archard put in.

"Well," I added, "both of you remember that these Chileans are a mighty mean crowd to offend, especially for Americans, when there's not a United States armed ship in the harbor.

"NOW SHOOT IF YOU DARE!"

Having thus lectured my chums, we went ashore. We walked about arm in arm till we met a pretty Spanish girl who looked admiringly on Jack's stalwart figure, when he deserted us for her. I begged him not to go, for the girl was in company with a Chilean, who seemed to me to be loath to turn her over to an American sailor. But the fellow made no objections, and Jack succeeded him. Whether this had anything to do with what followed I don't know, but I have always suspected that it had.

Tom and I roamed the town alone, looking in at the shop windows, taking in one or two shows, and when tired lounged in the tropical gardens, though the perfume of the flowers was rather sickening to me. Finally we concluded we'd better go and look after Jack.

We started up from the gardens where we were sitting at the time and went out into the streets. We hadn't proceeded far before we saw Jack coming toward us. When we met we saw at once that he had been taking aboard more spirits than was good for him. He began to tell us very noisily what a fine time he had had. He had soon parted with the girl, who couldn't speak a word of English, and joined a party from the ship who were having a fine spree.

All of a sudden a policeman appeared and, drawing a sword, hit Jack with the flat of it. Before we could interfere Jack planted his fist under the policeman's chin, raised him off his feet and sent him sprawling on the pavement.

I knew very well that there was but one chance for Jack. If we could run him to the shore, get him into a boat and out to the ship there might be some hope of getting him out of the scrape without serious consequences. Quick as a flash I seized one arm; Tom, following my cue, seized the other, and we set off as rapidly as we could get Jack on for the place where we knew the boats to be.

After turning a corner I released Jack's arm and shouted, "Run, Jack—run for your life!" If he hadn't been drinking he might have got away. As it was the policeman signaled for assistance, and very soon several of the police were on our track. They reached us just before we could get into a boat.

Jack was arrested and marched back to the town. Tom and I followed him, a policeman on either side of him and several in the rear, and saw him taken into the police office. We were not allowed to go in ourselves, but loitered outside till we were thunderstruck at being informed by a man who came out of the building that Jack Hoskins had been summarily tried for attacking a policeman and had been condemned to be shot the next morning. At first we thought the man was hoaxing us; but, getting the same information from others, we made up our minds that it must be true.

After a hurried consultation we determined first to go and inform the American consul of the circumstance, then go to the ship and tell the captain. The consul, however, was the proper person to act in the matter, and we went with him as he hurried away to do what he could in the name of the United States government to save Jack's life. He at first expostulated against the barbarity of executing a man for resisting a wanton attack of a policeman, but as the authorities turned a deaf ear to his expostulation he made a formal protest. No more attention was paid to the protest than to the expostulation.

That night was a distressing one for all our crew, and, as for Jack, it only remained for him to prepare for death. Our captain could do nothing. If the Chilean authorities would not respect a representative of the United States they would not pay any attention to the captain of the crew to which the offender belonged. The harbor was not only bare of a United States fighting ship, but did not contain one of any other nation.

Not a wink did I sleep that night, and when it was light enough for me to see I was scouring the harbor in the hope that some sort of a fighting machine had come in during the night. But I was disappointed. The waters were entirely bare of guns.

The condition of our crew was harrowing. We wanted to fight and had nothing to fight with. To permit one of our number to be shot to death by a lot of Spanish American undersized, bloodthirsty rascals well nigh threw every man of us into spasms. We got together in knots, and many were the foolhardy plans that were proposed to save our comrade's life. But as time wore on and the hour appointed for the execution approached an awful sense of our powerless position settled down upon us and stunned us.

Early in the morning I was made the bearer of a note from our captain to the consul. The captain dared not leave the ship for fear of some move on the part of the men which would not only be hopeless, but get us into more trouble. I was the only man of the crew to go ashore. While I was at the consulate a crowd was gathering in a field in rear of the house to witness the execution. What the note contained I don't know, but on reading it the consul shook his head.

At that moment I saw the British consul, whose house was opposite, come out to raise the British flag. He stood looking at the crowd in the field, and I saw the British bulldog indignation rising in him at the murder about to be committed. With the flag still in his hand he came across the street and, approaching the American consul, said to him:

"You're not going to let them shoot that man, are you?"

"What can I do?" replied the consul despairingly. "I have protested against the act. I am powerless to do more."

Meanwhile Jack had been marched out, and a firing squad was taking position before him.

"Give me your flag!" shouted the English consul. And in another moment the stars and stripes were clutched in his hand with the union jack. Then hurrying across the field, I and our own consul following him, we saw him elbow his way through the crowd and run up to the prisoner. The next instant the United States flag was folded around Jack's broad shoulders, and immediately after the blood red banner of Great Britain was placed over it. Then the consul who had done this, standing a few paces back, faced the firing squad and cried defiantly:

"Now shoot if you dare through the heart of England and America!"

This was too much for the dagos. If the moral power of the United States did not scare them that of the two most powerful nations on the earth and, what was more to them, on the sea was more than they dared defy. Then, too, this combined moral power was displayed in a way to give it full force. To deliberately shoot a man through the two flags representing the two wings of the great Anglo-Saxon race required a nerve that even the valiant Chileans did not possess.

After a hurried consultation the Chilean authorities, suddenly stricken with terror at what they had done and realizing what they had intended doing, hastened to release the prisoner. He was delivered to the American consul. With tears streaming down his cheeks he gratefully pressed the hand of the man who had saved him. Then he grasped that of the American representative. Lastly he permitted me to take his hand in mine.

Who gave the news of Jack's release to those on board our ship I don't know, but shortly after it occurred, when Jack and I went down to the ship's boat that had brought me ashore and which was waiting for me, we saw the crew dancing about, running up the ratlines and hoisting all the signal bunting there was to be had. When we left the shore there was a cheer, while we pulled for the vessel there were cheers, and when Jack climbed the ladder and stepped over the gunwale he found himself on the shoulders of the strongest and tallest men on the ship and was carried around amid a scene of wild rejoicing.

It is a long while since that narrow escape—a tragedy averted by the presence of mind of one man. Where Jack Hoskins is now I don't know, since that was in the days of our youth. Our sailor days have long been over, and we have been long parted. But there is one scene which for dramatic interest stands far ahead of all the events in my life. It is Jack wrapped in two flags, with a firing party before him and the British consul daring the dagos to fire on him, piercing as they must the emblems of old England and her stalwart son, the United States of America.

The main feature about this story is that it is true. The only difference between the arrest, condemnation and intended execution of Hoskins at Valparaiso and this account is that it is here given in story form.

GLAZIER SWOONS WHEN SENTENCED

Wife and Two Daughters Are Affected in Like Manner

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 7.—Ex-State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier of Chelsea was sentenced by Judge Wiest at Mason to serve not less than five nor more than ten years in prison for misappropriating $685,000 of state funds.

Glazier controlled a bank at Chelsea which failed and the money had been deposited in this bank contrary to law.

As the judge concluded sentence Glazier turned away from the bench and swooned. His wife endeavored to assist him to his feet, but in her excitement fell beside her husband.

Two daughters hurrying to the aid of their parents only added to the confusion and quickly fell themselves, all four lying upon the courtroom floor before the judge's bench.

Excitement was intense, but it was soon seen that none of the Glazier family was seriously ill. Glazier was at once sent to Jackson, where he has begun to serve his sentence.

WILL REMAIN IN SERVICE

Navy Paymaster Auld Is Found Guilty on Two Counts

Washington, Feb. 7.—Naval Paymaster George P. Auld, stationed on the Wabash at the Charlestown navy yard, has been convicted on two of the three complaints preferred against him as the result of the trouble at the hop on Dec. 11. He will not be dismissed from the service, but will be reduced about six numbers in rank.

The court martial found him guilty of the first count in the specifications, charging him with assaulting Dr. Edward S. Cowles, a civilian guest of Medical Director Ames, at the dance in question, and also found him guilty of the third count charging "conduct unbecoming a naval officer and gentleman."

The second count, alleging falsehood, the most serious in the department's bill, was dropped on request of Judge Advocate Catlin. If Auld was found guilty of that alone he would have to be dismissed from the navy.

LOCKED IN PADDED CELL

Crazy Man Wants to Kill President Taft and King Edward

Woburn, Mass., Feb. 7.—A maniac brandishing a revolver and yelling at the top of his voice that he was going to kill President Taft and King Edward, created a scene on Main street, which was ended only when Officer Murphy, assisted by citizens, landed the crazy man in the police station after a struggle.

The man has refused to give his name to the police, as he claims they are trying to prevent him from carrying out his mission. He is said to be a Lithuanian, and has worked in one the leather factories.

He is now safely locked in a padded cell at the police station. He claims that President Taft did not give him a position when he asked for it. Today he will be taken in hand by the state officials and placed in an institution.

FORD JURY DISAGREES

Evidently Under Impression That Warriner's Testimony Was False

Cincinnati, Feb. 7.—After twenty-four hours' deliberation the jury in the case of Mrs. Jeanette S. Ford, charged with blackmailing Charles L. Warriner, defaulting local treasurer of the Big Four railroad, was unable to reach an agreement and was discharged.

The unexpected end of the sensational case was explained by two of the jurymen as due to the fact that a majority of their colleagues refused to give any credit to the testimony of Warriner. They assert that a man who had confessed to embezzlement for twenty-five years would not hesitate to perjure himself against a woman whom he believed had been the cause of his exposure.

Vermont Man Slain In Georgia

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 7.—W. H. Hogan of Atlanta shot and killed R. Prentiss of Burlington, Vt., on the street here. Hogan claims that Prentiss and four others attacked him and he had to protect his life. Hogan is in custody. Prentiss was a waiter.

Train Robbery In Old-Time Style

Pittsburg, Kan., Feb. 7.—Three unmasked men held up a Missouri Pacific train about five miles from here and secured about $400 and a small amount of jewelry from the passengers. They stepped off the train at the next stop and escaped.

Said He Was Poisoned

Millinocket, Me., Feb. 7.—Crying, "I've been poisoned," Joseph Sears, 39 years old, died suddenly under suspicious circumstances. The physician who attended him refused to sign a certificate of death.

Jackies Are Not Water Dogs

Washington, Feb. 7.—Attention is directed in a official report by Rear Admiral Schroeder, in command of the Atlantic fleet, to the remarkable fact that more than 2500 men in the fleet cannot swim.

ESCAPE BY JUMPING

Occupants of Historic Mansion Have Close Call During Fire

Portland, Me., Feb. 7.—Awakened from their slumber by the roar of flames that licked the very portals of the doors leading into their sleeping chambers, Arthur T. Chaplin, his wife and maid, were forced to jump a distance of twelve feet, from the piazza roof to the ground, in scant attire. A few moments later the beautiful mansion was a seething furnace. All that now stands is the four brick walls.

The mansion was one of the most historic dwellings in this city. For years it was the home of the late Governor Washburn, and in it he entertained many notable gatherings of men high in the affairs of the nation.

Recently Chaplin, who is the treasurer of a big grocery firm, entirely refitted the building at the cost of $15,000. The damage is estimated at $30,000. The owner believes that the fire was caused by an overheated furnace.

CAUGHT IN BULGARIA

Long Hunt For Man Wanted In Murder Case Is Successful

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 7.—Upon information furnished to United States Consul Harwey at Bucharest, Roumania, Valhan Nalbandian, the alleged slayer of Minas K. Momjian, whose flight since the discovery of the victim's body in a trunk on July 22, 1909, has been persistently followed by the Lynn police and the United States authorities, his apprehension was accomplished by the Bulgarian police at Silistria.

Information concerning his arrest was received by Chief of Police Burckes in a cablegram from Harwey, through whose work the apprehension of Nalbandian was made possible. As soon as possible the necessary proceedings will be taken to secure extradition papers from Washington.

State Officer Wells will probably be sent to Silistria to bring Nalbandian back to Essex county.

FLINT WILL NOT SEEK RE-ELECTION

Senator Declares That He Has Not the Means to Run

Washington, Feb. 7.—Lacking the means to maintain the personal political organization essential to success, Senator Frank P. Flint of Los Angeles announced in a formal statement to the press that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the senate.

"Under the primary law in the state of California," the statement says, "it has become a requisite essential to success that a candidate for the United States senate should have a personal political organization in every state, senatorial and assembly district.

"I have not myself the means to maintain such an organization, nor would I be willing to enter upon a contest for the United States senate wherein others contribute to keep up a state-wide organization in my behalf."

Senator Flint's term will expire March 3, 1911. He began service in the senate March 4, 1905, succeeding Thomas R. Bard.

SETTLED BY ARBITRATION

Strike of Philadelphia Shirtwaist Makers Comes to an End

Philadelphia, Feb. 7.—Terms of settlement of the girl shirtwaist makers' strike were agreed upon here by a board of arbitration chosen at a meeting of strike leaders and manufacturers.

All the strikers are to be taken back by their former employers, but the "open shop" conditions insisted on by the manufacturers is to prevail.

The question of wages is left to be decided upon by the individual manufacturers and representatives of their employes. Three thousand girls are involved in the strike, which has lasted eight weeks.

HAIR SNIPPER APPEARS

Cut Foot of Braid From Head of Young Girl at Lynn

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 7.—Marion McKenney, 12 years old, was the victim of a "Jack the Snipper" while on her way home. She noticed that somebody was following her, but thought nothing about it until she felt something rub against her back.

When she arrived home it was discovered that about a foot of her braid of beautiful hair had been cut off. She was unable to give any description of the man to the police.

Seven Bullets In Girl's Breast

Oneonta, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Whether a girl could fire seven successive shots into her breast before expiring, is the question which must be settled before the authorities can determine whether Bessie Wheeler committed suicide or was murdered.

COMPENSATION FOR INJURED EMPLOYES

Accident Annuities May Be Made Compulsory by Congress

Washington, Feb. 7.—One of the most radical pieces of proposed legislation before the present congress is now being given serious consideration by the judiciary committee of the house and a hearing has been ordered for Feb. 17. The bill would require all persons "carrying on occupations and trades subject to the regulative power of congress," including railroads, express companies and sleeping car companies, to pay compensation on fixed bases to injured employes. Following are features of the proposed act:

Provides annuity in case of injury or death based upon previous earning power of victim. Eliminates common law defense and fixes definite liability for injury or death of employe without regard to the negligence of latter. Imposes obligation upon common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. Annuity equalling 70 percent of average monthly earnings, payable to family or next of kin. Pays 50 percent of monthly earnings for total disability up to six months, beyond that time two-thirds of amount of earnings during period of impairment. Five percent for loss of toe. Seventy-five percent for loss of both eyes. Sixty percent for loss of right hand. Establishes federal commission of injury awards.

WIDOW BRINGS SUIT

Says Police Allowed Her Husband to Die While They Held Argument

Paris, Feb. 7.—The widow of a young milk dealer is suing three rural communities for allowing her husband to die, while the authorities disputed which of them had the right or duty to cut the rope by which he had hanged himself to a tree.

The tree happened to stand on crossroads leading to three different villages. The constable of one of the villages came upon the suicide a few moments after the milk dealer had hanged himself. But since the face of the would-be-suicide did not point to his village, the constable doubted whether he was competent to cut him down.

Just then the constables of the two other villages arrived on the spot, and all three held a confab. Finally, after long arguments they concluded to cut down the hanging man not in their official capacity, but simply for humanity's sake. But before they reached this conclusion the man was dead.

SAVED FROM OCEAN GRAVE

Crew of Sinking Bark Picked Up by Steamer In Mid-Ocean

Boston, Feb. 7.—After being forced to abandon his sinking ship in the midst of a fierce gale and terrific sea, Captain Strach of the bark H. C. Dreyer of Bremen and his crew of ten men were picked up by the steamer Barendrecht, just as their vessel went down and the lifeboat was capsized, throwing them all into the water.

Captain Caerkamp of the Barendrecht, who personally directed the thrilling rescue of the shipwrecked sailors in mid-ocean, is highly praised for his heroic efforts.

Captain Strach told the story of the loss of his vessel and the narrow escape from death of himself and his men when they arrived on the Barendrecht at Mystic wharf.

DIES STANDING UP

Heart Disease Carries Off Lunch Cart Man While on Duty

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 7.—Not until a customer entered a lunch wagon on Silsbee street and received no response to his order for a sandwich was it discovered that O. F. Fuller, the proprietor, who was leaning against the counter in a lifelike posture, was dead.

John Smith, the customer, was horrified when he grasped the man by the shoulder to shake him from what appeared to be a doze. He called the police, who in turn notified the medical examiner. The cause of death was pronounced heart failure.

Five Families Homeless

Hartford, Feb. 7.—A garage, lumber yard, four tenement blocks, an office building and other smaller structures were burned at East Hartford. Five families were rendered homeless. The loss is between $200,000 and $250,000. The cause of the fire is not known.

Old Army Nurse Dead

Somerville, Mass., Feb. 7.—Miss Nancy Prendergast, the oldest living member of the Army Nurses' association, died of an illness of long duration at the home of her nephew, George H. Prendergast. Miss Pendergast was born in Barnstead, N. H., June 1, 1819.

Retired Banker a Suicide

Washington, Feb. 7.—Charles H. Davidge, a retired banker, 67 years old, committed suicide at his home here by shooting with a revolver. He had been showing evidences of melancholia since the death of his wife last June.

BRIEFS

Manet council, Royal Arcanum, will receive a visit this evening from Grand Regent Sweet.

Mrs. Theodore Hardwick entertained a large party at Bridge this afternoon at her home on Chestnut street.

Adams chapter Daughters of the Revolution, is meeting this afternoon at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club on Goffe street.

Editor Frank F. Prescott and Mrs. Prescott of the Daily Ledger are attending today the annual reunion of the Massachusetts Press Association in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hendry of 30 Farnum street, Quincy Point, are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a ten pound boy at their home on Sunday morning. Both mother and son are progressing favorably.

The meeting of the Quincy Women's club in First Church chapel tomorrow afternoon should draw out a large attendance as the subject will be a local one. Henry Turner Bailey is to speak on "A more beautiful Quincy" under the auspices of the Civic committee. It is a subject which should interest men as well as women and the committee hope to see several men present as guests of Club members.

Where is the boy who will not want to hear the story of the man who took Peary to the Pole? Captain Bartlett of the "Roosevelt" will describe the voyage Thursday afternoon Feb. 10, at 4 o'clock before the Quincy teachers and school children at Alpha hall. This lecture is given under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian Association.

Mrs. Brwn—"What do you think of this talk about domestic service as a fine art?"

Mrs. Smith—"It may be all right, but you won't get any servant to believe in it or try to become an artist."

"Think so?"

"Why, I am sure of it. Look, now, I am just coming away disappointed from the intelligence office because no girl wants to come to work where there is an old master."

OLD COLONY LEAGUE

The Salary Limit Placed at $50 per Game

Hotel Belmont, Brockton, proved to be a mecca for Old Colony league magnates, managers, newspaper men and baseball men in general Sunday afternoon when the third annual meeting was held.

President Jerome F. Murphy of Stoughton was in the chair and handled all business. One of the first things dealt with was the election of officers for 1910. Jerome F. Murphy was the unanimous choice to fill the president's chair again, a more able leader for this live organization would be hard to find. William McCarthy will again occupy the vice president's office. "Bill" is known as a "dead game sport," there being no yellow streak in his make-up and the league surely have the right man to jump into the breach should anything happen to President Murphy. Secretary Frank S. Alger came in for much well deserved praise and was elected again with every vote present. "Tommy" Nash the leader of the champion Dewey team was again elected to the office of treasurer.

The directors wil linclude one member from each club, the club themselves voting on the man they want to represent them. Many things were discussed during the meeting the most important being that of placing the salary limit at $50 per game. This is a move in the right direction and when it is shown that every team in the league ,with possible exception of Quincy, lost considerable money last season it can be seen this is important if the league wishes to continue. Every manager upon signing a player must send the salary he is to receive to Sec. Alger and any team found exceeding the salary limit is to be dealt with severely.

Treasurer Thomas V. Nash, President J. T. Murphy and Secretary F. S. Alger were elected to revise the constitution.

President John Faircloth of the Quincy club was heartily in favor of making the salary limit a uniform price and voted with every other magnate present to place it at $50.

Another meeting will be held in Hotel Belmont on March 20, when the schedule committee, which will be the board of directors, will meet with the various schedules for the approval of the magnates.

This should be a banner year for this league if all will stick to the $50 salary limit but just as soon as this rule is broken the whole workings will be clogged. Let us hope that we will soon see the result of this vote and that it will be for the best for no team would dare enter to repeat the losses of 1909 when the teams, with Quincy possibly excepted, lost so much money.

J. G. Hoye manager of the Randolph team and "Happy" Hazelum of the Stoughton speedsters both have informed me since the meeting that this is going to be the making of the league. Both are crack baseball managers and ever alert to add progressive ideas to better the league and their individual clubs and it surely shows that this is bound to prove popular all over the circuit besides prolonging the life of the league.

BRIEFS

The Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will meet with Mrs. Amos T. Leavitt of Lincoln avenue Friday afternoon. Secretary E. C. Wormen of Yale will speak upon college work.

The annual meting of the Wollaston Methodist church will be held Friday evening in the vestry. A supper at 6.45 will be followed by reports from the different departments and a review of church work.

A Way of a Clever Mother.

Few people are ready in little ways for sickness. I keep on hand a suit case, says a careful mother, containing a kimona, two nightdresses, bed slippers, brush and comb and toothbrush for emergency. Much confusion and hurry can be saved in a household, especially where there are children, if the mother will renew certain supplies before they are quite used up. I always keep on hand shoe laces and shoe buttons, side elastics, a new pair each of gloves and stockings, a toothbrush or two and many other things in my supply drawer, a plan I learned from painful experiences of breakages and holes found at the last moment, when it was too late to rush out for new articles. No one is allowed to help themselves from this source of supply without permission.

CHANGES IN BASEBALL RULES

Two Umpires Will Officiate In All Games.

FINING SYSTEM RESTORED.

Bench Warmers May Be Banished and Fined For Criticism of Decisions, but May Also Be Called Back—Other New Rules.

Thanks to the American and National league conference held in Pittsburg recently, baseball will be a better game next season. For the first time in many years the rules will be just and plain enough for the youngest exponent of the game to understand. The rules committee has done its work well.

The most important work accomplished by the rule makers deals with the "passed ball" and the "wild pitch." The members of the committee looked upon the pitcher and catcher the same as any other fielder, and from now on the battery will not be exempt from the error column.

For years it has been suggested that a wild pitch or a passed ball should count as an error, but the magnates who have never played baseball could not see it that way. This year, however, we have ex-ball players to handle the playing rules, which accounts for the common sense changes.

Last year a rule was passed that charged a pitcher or catcher with an error if a man reached first base through a so called battery error. At the same time if a player scored from third base on a wild pitch or a passed ball the battery was not charged with a misplay. The injustice of this rule raised a howl of protest from patrons throughout the country; hence the change.

President Lynch and John A. Heydler scored a home run hit when they put through a rule that will prevent "umpire baiting" from the bench. Uncomplimentary remarks hurled from the bench have always been a source of worry for the umpire. He was at a disadvantage because, with his back turned, he could not pick out the offender. Now, however, the umpire has the power to fine a player who talks from the bench, and if this does not remedy the trouble he can clear the bench of all extra players, sending them to the clubhouse, and when extra players are required they must be sent for one at a time.

This rule is sure to bear good results, and it will also shorten the playing time. Often an umpire is compelled to take off his mask and turn to the bench to warn offenders.

A change that will do away with a lot of kicking is that which compels both umpires to get into action when more than one base is occupied. Hereafter the umpire behind the plate must cover the play at third base, while the field umpire is looking after first base. This means that the man behind the plate will not have to be appealed to if the field umpire misses a play at third, which often happened last year.

MAHMOUT VERSUS ZBYSCO.

Two Sturdy Grapplers to Test Their Skill In Chicago Feb. 14.

The next big wrestling bout on the program will be between Yusuf Mahmout, the Turk, and Stanislaus Zbysco, the Polish champion, to be held in Chicago on Feb. 14. Mahmout has agreed to throw the Pole twice in an hour or forfeit the bout. Some time ago the men were matched to meet in private, but the Chicago police adopted the tactics of the government of Utah, and the private match was plucked before the blossom by the announcement that no private go would be permitted.

Mahmout and Zbysco are two of the best foreign mat artists that have visited this country in some years. Frank Gotch, the champion, has agreed to meet the winner.

INDOOR TENNIS TOURNEY.

Championship Contests to Begin In New York Feb. 26.

Dates for the annual national indoor tennis championships have been announced. Both men and women's tourneys will be held in New York. According to arrangements of the Seventh Regiment Tennis club officers who have charge of the tourney championship, play in the men's tourney will begin on Feb. 19 and conclude on Feb. 26. The women's tournament will be held from March 12 to March 16.

Theodore Roosevelt Pell holds the singles championship and is also one of the doubles champions. Last year he won the title with Wylie C. Grant. Miss Marie Wagner is the woman's singles title holder.

Wisconsin Plans Big Athletic Carnival.

As part of a comprehensive scheme to restore the University of Wisconsin to a place in the front ranks of intercollegiate athletics it has been announced that an interscholastic basketball carnival, in which sectional champions from Iowa, Indiana, Illinois and other states will participate, will be held in the gymnasium March 10, 11 and 12.

Ithacans Have New Track Star.

Cornell has dug up a new track star in John Paul Jones.

HACKETT IS SECOND

He and Clark Both Beat the World's Record

Up to Saturday the world's amateur indoor record for a 20 mile race was 2h, 7m and 11s., but on that date in the athletic carnival of Co. A., of the Naval Brigade in Boston, James Clark of New York and William J. Hackett of Quincy both reduced it, the time of Clark being 2h, 3m., and 40s., and that of Hackett 2h., 6 m., and 30 s. Hackett was in splendid form; he was fifth from the second mile up to the 18th. He finished three laps behind the winner.

GRAM WINS HANDICAP

And Marceau Takes Third Prize at Providence

Carl Gram, a former Quincy High boy, made good again at the indoor track athletic games at Providence on Saturday. He won the 50 yard handicap race in 5 2-5 seconds. He was also on the Boston A. A. team which defeated Providence A. C. in the relay race in 2 minutes 46 1-5 seconds, and established a new record for the track.

Franz R. Marceau, a Quincy High boy, also secured a third prize in the 1000 yard run.

NORFOLK LEAGUE FORMED.

The Norfolk County Baseball League has been organized, to consist of eight teams made up from the local players in Hyde Park, Quincy, Walpole, City Mills, Norwood, Dedham, Canton, Holbrook, Franklin, Medway and Norfolk. Each team will submit a list of 15 players to the officials on or before March 1. The next league meeting will be held Feb. 13.

SPORTING NOTES.

At basket ball, Saturday, Melrose High defeated Thayer Academy 27 to 8.

Medford High defeated Milton High at hockey on Saturday 1 to 0 and won the interpreparatory league championship.

Franz R. Marceau is entered in the B. A. A. meet for Saturday night.

The new sonder yacht for ex-Commodore C. F. Adams, 2d, of the Quincy Yacht club is planked and decked. It is from design by E. A. Boardman.

The Hingham Yacht Club for the first time is a challenger for the Quincy cup, sending a challenge on Saturday. Several more challenges are now expected.

The Quincy Employed Boys' basket ball team played the Everett Y. M. C. A. intermediates on Saturday at Everett and were defeated 104 to 14.

The cold weather has revived the skating.

LABOR BRIEFS.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers has 60,000 members.

According to figures of 1907, recently issued, Spain has a trades union membership of 32,612.

San Francisco Typographical union donated $10 to each of its members who are inmates of the Union Printers' home, Colorado Springs, as a Christmas gift.

The total membership of the United Brewery Workers' union is given by national officers as 45,233 men. There are 366 local unions and 187 branches. In the past year 4,954 new members were initiated into the organization.

Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor declined to entertain the idea of placing a labor ticket in the state and local political fields. Instead all locals were urged to support the candidates for the legislature and other officers who are friendly to labor.

H. Sarkin is selling out all his surplus stock to make room for spring goods and now is a good time to buy furs at a reasonable price, or suits, coats etc.

QUINCY LOST AFTER A TIE

Boston Y. M. C. A. Wins at Basket Ball

It required overtime play at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium on Saturday evening to decide whether the Boston or Quincy association had the best basketball team. With the score 19 to 19 Boston scored and won by the score of 21 to 19. It was a closely contested game.

Cheerfulness at Meals.

A thousand little windows are opened by the cursory conversation at the breakfast table through which to look into the deeps and shallows of the home.

Sometimes the only meeting place of a family of growing boys and girls is at the table. Yet, as a rule, how much is left to be desired in the way of cheerfulness and conversation during the mealtimes of most large families!

There is only one way to create a revolution in the family conscious of having dull, silent and uninteresting meals. It is for each member of it to turn over a new leaf. Each one must come to the table prepared to show his or her best side, the side too often withheld from family life, be it bestowed ever so abundantly elsewhere.

Every member of the family must realize as evening closes in and the varicolored threads of the busy day are gathered together that there must be a little unselfish effort made by each one if the unity is to be preserved and the family life kept harmonious.

The cheerfulness that tells most at family meals finds expression in light, pleasant, happy talk. Do not bring your troubles to the table, but interesting stories, anecdotes and the happenings of the corner of the world in which your work is situated. If the father brings home pleasant things to talk about, his business life will be real and glowing to those who love and believe in him and can see life only through his eyes. To be cheerful is not to be artificial; neither is it forcing insincerity upon those around you. Cheerfulness is a form of unselfishness, a difficult, noble form, which is too seldom given the appreciation it deserves.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 24 No. 33 QUINCY, MASS., TUESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 8, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

WATER LOAN OF $30,000 DISCUSSED

A'so Order Giving City Laborers a Half Holiday With Pay on Saturdays

Mayor and School Committee Submit Estimates for 1910

Prolonged discussions on the order giving city laborers a half holiday on Saturdays during the summer months and on the order appropriating $30,000 for the extension of the water system lengthened Monday night's meeting of the City Council until after 10.30. Neither order was passed. Every member with the exception of Councilman Woodward was present sometime during the evening.

JURORS.

A venire was received for the drawing of jurors. The Mayor assisted by the City Clerk and Councilman Cantfill drew the following:

Thomas Newcomb, Thomas J. Shortle, Henry M. Hughes, Miles J. McInnis, Amos E. Damon and Bernard J. Talbot.

MAYOR'S BUDGET.

A communication was received from the Mayor and Treasurer forwarding the estimates of the several departments of the city for the current year. Referred to Finance Committee. The budget will be found in full on another page.

OLD HIGH SCHOOL.

A communication was received from the Mayor asking authority to sell the old High School building on High School avenue. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Richards offered an order authorizing the Mayor to sell the building at public auction.

PUBLIC HEARING.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on petition of the Electric Light Co., and the Telephone Co., for a location for poles and for attachments. The orders were then recommitted to the Committee on Streets.

EXPRESS PERMITS.

A nomination was received from the Men's club of Christ church that it was the sentiment of that club that but one permit only should be granted for the transportation of liquor. Referred to Committee on Licenses.

SCHOOL BUDGET.

A communication was received from the School Committee inclosing its estimates of the amounts needed for the current year. They were as follows compared with the appropriations of 1909:

	Estimates 1910	Appropriations 1909
Salaries	$120,500	114,450
Janitors	10,600	9,175
Books, Supplies,	11,600	10,500
Fuel	7,000	6,500
Transportation	1,484	1 475
Rent	360	360
Evening Schools	2,000	1,500
	$153,474	143,960

Referred to Finance Committee.

SCHOOL TELEPHONES.

A communication was received from the School Committee recommending that the double districts be connected by telephone; that a new heating plant be installed in the John Hancock building during the summer months; that a line fence should be put on the east and south sides of the Washington school lot; that at least one hundred chairs be provided for each building for use on parents' day. Referred to the Committee on Public Buildings.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL.

A communication was received from the School Committee inclosing petitions for a new school building at Wollaston and requesting the City Council to provide a twelve room brick school building for the Wollaston school. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

DRINKING FOUNTAINS.

A communication was received from the School Committee calling the attention of the City Council to the pressing need of supplying drinking fountains in those schools not now provided. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

PUBLIC RECORDS.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Records relative to the violations of the city in not providing suitable place for the records of the city. That the time limit for complying with the statute and it is his duty to take the necessary measures to enforce the law. Referred to committee on Public Buildings.

APPOINTMENTS.

Communication was received from the Mayor appointing William Cashman and William D. Burns public weighers. Confirmed.

TUBERCULOSIS CAMP.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Board of Health in relation to the tuberculosis camp. The board says that the camp in its present location would not be dangerous to public health. That there will be a care-taker and that children will not be allowed to trespass within the limits of the hospital grounds. That the camp is merely a temporary affair and more or less of an experiment. If it is a success a permanent camp will be established and then a permanent site can be selected.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman McDevitt offered an order instructing the Inspector of Buildings not to issue a permit for any building for sleeping purposes, within 300 feet from the nearest house. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

PETITIONS.

A petition was received from Henry L. Kincaide for a tar concrete sidewalk in front of his block on Cottage avenue. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Moir offered an order for the same. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from the Telephone Co. for attachments on Wollaston avenue and Merrymount road and for underground conduits on Standish avenue, Beale, Granite and Copeland streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles on Merrymount road. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received from Russell A. Sears asking for an additional appropriation to complete the building of Glendale road. Referred to Committee on Streets.

A petition was received for the acceptance of Ritchie road. Referred to Committee on Streets.

FIRE DISTRICTS.

The Committee on Ordinances reported ought to pass on the order amending the Fire District ordinance. The amendment strikes out of the first district that part of Copeland street between Miller and Cross streets. Report accepted and order read.

STREET RAILWAY SERVICE.

The special committee on street railway service reported leave to withdraw on petition of residents of Houghs Neck that the Council petition the Railroad Commissioners for improved car service etc., at Houghs Neck.

Councilman Moir inquired if the acceptance of this report prevented the residents of Houghs Neck from petitioning the Railroad Commissioners. He did not wish to shut them off from a hearing before the Commissioners.

In reply to a question the City Solicitor said that the rights of the petitioners would not be infringed, but he would advise the report be changed.

Councilman Whiton said this was a new phase to him. He did not want to shut them off from going to the Railroad Commissioners if they desired.

Councilman Bryant moved that the Council recommend that the petitioners be given leave to petition the Railroad Commissioners and with their recommendation they refer the petition to the Executive to take such action as is necessary to allow said petitioners to petition the said Railroad Commissioners. Voted.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order requesting the Mayor to have the annual reports printed. Adopted.

HALF HOLIDAY.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order giving city laborers a half holiday during the months of June, July and August. Report accepted.

Councilman Bryant said he had looked into the matter some. This order provided for a half holiday for all city employes. It means an expenditure of $4 000. He had no objection to the regular men getting a half holiday. He moved to amend by adding the word so as to read permanent employes of the city. That means that those men will get the half holiday at an expenditure of $1,050.

Councilmn Cherrington thought considerable hinged on the word permanent. He moved the order be recommitted.

Councilman Smith said that would destroy the effect of the order. He had introduced the order early so that it could be provided for in the budget. The committee will have just as much bother discussing the word permanent. The question could be settled right here.

Councilman McDevitt thought the matter could be settled tonight. Pracically all of the men work eight months a year.

Councilman Cherrington thought that the Finance Committee could find some way to bring the order right.

Councilman Whiton hoped the order would go through as reported. It was not possible to form anything that will suit every one. The officials in City Hall have a half holiday the year round. He never say any official that looked as though overworked. The original report is good enough.

Councilman Richards—If the employes in the City Hall have a half holiday the men who work on streets are entitled to consideration.

Councilman Nowland inquired if it would not break up work on streets.

Commissioner Bainbridge said, we will have to let all go or none.

Councilman Bryant believed if the order was recommitted some way could be found to take care of the men regularly employed.

Councilman Snow inquired of the Commissioner what he considered a permanent man.

Commissioner Bainbridge, we have legal permanent men, about 40, employed throught the year.

Councilman Moir asked if men who went to work in April or May was entitled to a half holiday.

Councilman Moir asked the Mayor if he would say a man who went to

FATAL BURNING ACCIDENT

Little Girl of 9 Years Was Alone at Home

Stella DeCoste, the 9 year old daughter of Henry DeCoste who was fatally burned Monday noon at her home 7 Mill street, died at the City Hospital that night after suffering great agony. The accident happened shortly before noon. The little girl was alone in the house, and from what can be learned was seated before the kitchen fire to keep warm. Suddenly her clothing took fire and the next minute she was enveloped in flames. She rushed out doors and across the street to the residence of John A. Avery, where Mr. Avery wrapped a coat about her and extinguished the flames. A physician was summoned ,and he ordered her removal to the City Hospital where she died during the night.

EXPRESSMEN IN COURT

Plead Not Guilty to Violations of the Laws

Four expressmen were arraigned in court this morning on complaint of Inspector Goodhue for violation of liquor law. They were Samuel F. Barker of Wollaston, for illegal sale, Wesley S. Halm of Wollaston, for illegal transportation; Mark J. Myatt of Quincy and Joseph Fostello of Quincy, for illegal transportation. All pleaded not guilty. At the request of Officer Goodhue the cases were continued until Feb. 19 when the government will be represented by the City Solicitor.

—The verdict of the jury in the case of Charles S. Cummings who was charged with larceny in connection with forged notes of the town of Framingham was well warranted by the evidence. Cummings, if the sentence of the court is carried out, will be where he belongs. His whole career has been one that, even if not criminal, resulted in placing with the public, securities of little or no value, and the amount of suffering which he has caused to persons of small means who could ill afford to lose, will probably never be known. He exploits in connection with street railway properties were disastrous to those who bought the stock and notes which were issued by the companies he controlled and many will be gratified that justice, even if slow, has finally overtaken him. It will never be possible to rid the world of all the swindling promotors and sharpers, but the more Cummings and Kings that are placed behind the bars ,the safer the public will be.—Banker and Tradesman.

BEAUTIFUL SCENE AT ELKS ANNUAL BALL

Elaborate Decorations, Beautiful Gowns, Entrancing Music and all Details Perfect

Elks' Toast Sung at 11 o'clock and a Tableau Presented

Quincy Music hall never looked more attractive than Monday night for the annual concert and ball of Quincy lodge of Elks. The decorations were wholly by the committee of the lodge and were very elaborate. All the flags and bunting had been removed and a Japanese effect produced. Overhead were a few streamers and hundreds of small Japanese lanterns and a few sunshades. Many lanterns were grouped in the centre. The setting of the stage was beautiful with palms, pinks and a few other flowers, while the wall each side of the platform was solid purple, the Elks' color. Over the platform in gilt was "Quincy lodge 943, B. P. O. E." On the right of the platform was a banner flanked with flags with the motto—"The faults of our Brothers we write upon the sand; their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory." On the left, a twin motto—"Brothers in all things keep yourselves loyal to charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity." The front of the platform was festooned with purple and white. At the large windows on each side of the hall were lace curtains, and the walls were hid with decorations of pink, green and white. The same colors also hid the front of the balcony. Under each gas jet was a Japanese banner. Elmer E. Paine and his committee certainly showed good taste.

From 8 to 9 P. M. a grand concert was given by Cuff's augmented orchestra. The music both for the concert and dancing was exceedingly popular. The program was:

March	"Chicago Tribune"	Chambers
Overture	"Pique Dame"	Suppe
Solo for Cornet		Selected
	Walter M. Smith
Intermezzo	"Amo"	Remick
Solo for Xylophone
"Poet and Peasant"		Suppe
	W. E. Leighton
Solo	Harry Hudson	Selected
Finale	"Brookes Triumphal"	Leitz

At the head of the reception committee of 47 was Thomas P. Moran. This committee was alert to its duties and included: William T. Shea, Daniel J. Desmond, James F. Burke, Richard McKee, E. C. Hultman, Benjamin Johnson, William F. Cooper, Edmund W. Courtney, D. B. Reardon, Daniel J. Deasy, Daniel R. McKay, C. M. Bryant, Alfred W. Goodhue, Ralph W. Hobbs, Edward W. Larkin, William E. Maybury, Washington I. James, C. J. Lynch, Maurice F. Cohen, A. A. Galiano, Edward B. Marsh, A. C. Bruff, F. Ramon Burke, James H. Lalley, David A. Haley, John W. Sweeney, Robert E. McDonnell, John W. McAnarney, P. W. Branschied Shirley F. Nutting, P. J. Reardon, Philip H. Sullivan, Daniel J. Ring, J. T. Reynolds, Robert E. Foy, George A. Jordan, James H. Welsh, George B. Gavin, Thomas H. Buttimer, Michael H. Burns, John J. O'Hara, Archie F. Baird, Charles McGilvray, John H. Ash and Percy Herbert.

The grand march was started shortly after 9 o'clock. Leo J. McMasters was director of the march, as well as chairman of the committee on music and novelties, and he introduced some novelties at the start. When the couples came down the centre of the hall they divided, the gentlemen to the left and the ladies to the right, and then they criscrossed as they slowly went back to the head. It lengthened the march but added variety and picturesqueness to the scene as viewed from the balcony. The first eight couples in the grand march were: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Coleman, Mayor Shea and Miss Catherine Shea, Representative W. R. Thomas and Miss Thomas, Edward L. Bean and Miss Agnes Deasy, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cummings, ex-Mayor Charles M. Bryant and Miss Mary O'Brien of Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Sweeney. The order of dances were given out during the grand march by two pages in costume, Charles Williams and Herbert K. Shaughnessy.

When one of the waltzes was reached the electric lights were turned out, and colored lights were thrown from a stereopticon in the balcony. It was a wierd but pretty scene and an encore was given.

Floor director was Exalted Ruler W. J. Coleman; the assistants William R. Thomas, Charles C. Hearn, Walter Cummings and Edward L. Bean and the aids: John H. Johnson, John D. Smith, Thomas J. Dunphy, James W. Sweeney, Maurice A. Kerins, Alfred H. Remick, Joseph F. Mohan, John J. Deasy, John Hall, C. W. Nightingale, James G. Cuff, Edward D. Barrett, John J. Lane, M. J. Sweeney, Edward E. Miller, Ernest L. Saunders, J. H. Maloney, Alexis R. Elcock, John W. Walsh, G. Emery Green, Clarence L. Pratt, Rednor P. Coombs and Joseph A. Monahan.

At the mystic hour of 11 the brothers ,one hundred strong, met in the centre of the hall ,and with crossed arms and clasped hands remained silently while a tableau was presented on the stage, and Harry Hudson of Cambridge sang the Elks toast.

During the evening, punch was served in the corner at the left of the platform by Miss Julia Sullivan and Miss May DeCoste. From 9.30 until 1 A. M., a buffet lunch of salads, croquettes and ices was served by Bunleigh & Martin and the need of a large banquet hall was sorely felt. Dancing continued until 2 A. M.

The committee of arrangements for the fourth annual were: William J. Coleman, Leo J. McMaster, Daniel J. Deasy, William R. Thomas, Benjamin Johnson, Edmund W. Courtney, Elmer L. Paine, Robert J. Williams, Jr., George A. Jordan, Edward J. Desmond, Henry W. Tirrell, G. Emery Green, John D. Smith, Joseph A. Monahan, James J. Jeffrey, John Hilderbrand, William H. Callahan, Alfred H. Remick, George T. Magee, George W. Nightingale, Arthur Murphy, Timothy J. Collins, George A. Smith, Edward P. Cuff, John R. S. Ross, Edward L. Bean, Joseph M. Brickley, Thomas P. Moran, Clarence L. Pratt, Philip H. Sullivan, Harry H. Moseley and Maurice I. Gatcomb.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Have you any of those green stamps?

Wakefield people are breathing freely once more the smallpox quarantine being lifted on Monday.

Lucky that ground hog went back into his hole on Candlemas day for the cold weather would have nipped him.

While many Quincy men have become auto enthusiasts there is one who still enjoys the horse and that is Mr. Henry E. Hardwick of Revere road. He has an automobile but he is happiest behind one of his handsome trotters. He knows horse flesh and is never seen driving anything but speedy horses. His new white one is especially admired, being graceful and of fine color.

It is good news that the merchants association is to consider better lighting for City Square. On nights that the stores close at six o'clock which is three and Sunday makes four nights, the Square is as dark as a deserted village and looks anything but enterprising. To overcome this several merchants at their own expense have had large lights placed in front of their stores giving good results and attracting attention to their well arranged show windows.

There are those who think the water rate should be more equal than it is at the present time. Many have meters installed and get their water at $16 a year, while a nearby neighbor uses no more water but has not been put on the meter service pays $18, and $5 more for an outside faucet for summer use, making a total of $23. It hardly seems fair to those who are not metered. All houses should be put on a metered water service or none.

One thing Quincy has that is giving general satisfaction is the new post office and its equipment. The hours are the best we have ever had, and from early morning until well in the evening the office is open for business. At every window; stamp, delivery or registered letter, can always be found clerks who are not only thoroughly competent but are unusually obliging, which makes doing business with them a pleasure. If it is necessary to see a higher official, Postmaster Hammond can be found in his private office ready always to be helpful.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

We hear a lot these days about the "Don't Worry Clubs" and it is an extensive fad to hang up "Don't Worry" mottoes. "All rot" says the Memphis News Scimitar. The turtle never worries. He lives, it is said in some parts of the earth for one thousand years, or very nearly that long, and may be longer. Living one thousand years may be a good thing for the turtle; but animals that worry live more in a minute than a turtle does in a thousand years.

Worry kills they say. If it does, it is simply because it stimulates the qualities which are life, and in the degree that there is stimulation there is wearing out, which is death. But what man would like to live the life of a turtle? The successful man has to worry, and he does.

Worry is one of the best forms of expression of mental activity. It is the reflection of dissatisfaction with one's shortcomings or conditions. It is the first incentive to improvement. It is the first step toward resolve and effort. Worrying over trifles is foolish. Worrying other people with our worries is pernicious. You can make life miserable for yourself with the one and for everybody who knows you with the other. But don't be a turtle.—Norwood Messenger.

—Whatever may be said about the condition of the churches, there is assuredly one type of Church activity which is revealing quite extraordinary vitality. The growth of the men's clubs in the churches amounts almost to a revival. From small beginnings, nursed along by coffee and doughnuts, "smoke if you like" and "shop" talks from the members under the genial encouragement of the pastor, these secular bodies have become fairly impressive in numbers, in size and in their civic function. We have often felt regret at the passing away of the old mass meetings which used to be held at Central Music Hall. It was not so much the razing of that structure as it was the growth of the newspapers and the willingness of citizens to let the newspapers express vicariously their views upon public matters that was responsible for the dying out of this wholesome custom. With the atrophy of the mass meeting as an institution something went out of our citizenship a certain indifference threatened to creep in.—Chicago Post.

HOUSE CLASH ON CALENDAR

Leads Cannon to Yield a Point For the First Time

Washington, Feb. 8.—For the first time since the rules of the house have been made the subject of warfare on the part of the insurgents, Speaker Cannon showed signs of weakness by waiving his right to construe the rules and submitted to the house itself for consideration a construction of the rules.

The parliamentary tangle which prompted the speaker to allow the members of the house to make known their wishes on a particular rule was caused by the Fitzgerald amendment to the rules adopted last March, providing for a unanimous consent calendar.

When the calendar was reached yesterday Mr. McLachlan of California called up a bill authorizing the diversion of an appropriation on a harbor project. There was objection to the bill in many quarters, and rather than risk an objection, which would display the bill on the calendar, McLachlan asked unanimous consent that the bill go over "without prejudice."

Mr. Gaines (W. Va.) made the point of order that the request was out of order, and he was followed by several members who endeavored to construe the rule, some of them maintaining that the speaker could entertain the request and others that the passing of the bill over without prejudice would defeat the object of the rule. The speaker with considerable feeling announced that he was entirely without feeling in the matter and would submit the entire proposition to the house for its decision.

"After great agitation throughout the country," said the speaker, "in the press, both newspapers and magazines, in which it was charged that members had to crawl upon their knees and suffer the loss of their dignity in order to get bills considered, the house in its wisdom made calendar Wednesday the unanimous consent calendar to meet the very contentions claimed."

The speaker then declared that it was up to the house to decide how the new rule should be construed, and he submitted this proposition: "Shall it be in order after discussion of a bill on the unanimous consent calendar for the speaker to entertain a request for recognition for a motion that a bill be passed with prejudice?"

Heretofore the speaker has construed all rules as he saw fit, and never before has he asked the membership of the house to come to his assistance. As soon as the speaker's proposition was before the house debate began, Democrats, Republicans and insurgents participating.

SWINDLER OF WOMEN

What Police Say of Man Arrested by Boston Inspectors

Boston, Feb. 8.—Willis L. Fowler, 54 years old, was arrested by Boston police inspectors last night that the authorities of Hull might secure his custody to face trial on the charge of defrauding a woman through a promise to wed.

The police assert that scores of other women have also been made his victims.

This distinguished looking man, with iron gray hair and a tongue given to emitting well turned sentences, has had a great run throughout the country, according to the authorities, and women in the neighborhood of Boston have known and trusted him to the depletion of their finances.

HIS LAST OFFICIAL ACT

Hibbard Signs Telepost Bill Just Before Quitting Mayor's Chair

Boston, Feb. 8.—Ex-Mayor Hibbard yesterday approved the Telepost company franchise, which created a sensation at the final meeting of the board of aldermen, when Alderman O'Hare declared that he had been "approached" by President Sellers' on the matter.

The mayor signed the order two minutes before, according to the new charter, he officially ceased to be the city's chief executive.

JANUARY WEATHER.

With the exception of the cold wave on the 4th and 5th the weather during January was continuously warmer than that usually experienced The mean temperature of the month was 38.5 degrees, 3.5 degrees above the normal and the highest since 1906. The maximum temperature reached was 54 degrees on the 22nd and the lowest was 8 below zero on the 5th. The 4th and 5th were the only days on which the temperature fell below 10 degrees and on 19 days it rose above freezing.

The total precipitation of the month was 4.89 inches which is 16 percent more than the average amount, the greatest in January since 1905 and the most for any month since February, 1909, and rain or snow fell on 17 days. The total depth of snow was 18 inches most of which fell during the storm of the 14th and 15th. During the first three weeks the ground was covered with snow, the depths ranging from 15 inches on the 1st to 4 inches on the 13th, then increasing to 14 inches on the 15th and decreasing thereafter.

There was more cloudiness and less sunshine than usual and more than the average amount of relative humidity. There was also more wind than usual and the prevailing direction was west. Gales occurred on six days and the maximum velocity was 76 miles per hour from the southeast on the 22d. L. A. Wells, Blue Hills Observatory.

Reactionary Leader Suspended

Smallpox Quarantine Lifted

Wakefield, Mass., Feb. 8.—Wakefield's smallpox quarantine, which has been on the schools, library and other public buildings for three weeks, has been lifted. The epidemic broke out early last month and twenty-five cases were reported.

—Ten million young apple trees will be growing in the Yakima valley, west of Spokane, the coming season, according to A. W. McDonald, president of the Washington Nursery company of Toppenish, Wash. He predicts that within a few years Washington will lead the world in the nursery business. The Washington Nursery company will, within a few days, start between 60 and 70 men at work grafting trees. The work will continue 50 days, during which time they expect to graft 5,000,000 trees. Mr. McDonald was one of the nurserymen influential in having the new state horticultural law amended to provide for inspection of nursery stock by the state before it is shipped from the nursery. He believes it has saved much expense and annoyance to nurserymen and growers. He said: "The conditions surrounding the inspection of trees have been the most satisfactory this year that they have since I have been in the state. It has done away in a large measure with the loss from exposure which resulted heretofore when shipments of nursery stock had to be examined by local inspectors at the station at which they were received. Now the state sends an inspector to the nursery, where the trees are examined before they are shipped." Mr. McDonald is a strong supporter of the National apple show and believes it should be continued.

HOME ENDORSEMENT

Hundreds of Quincy Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement the public expression of Quincy people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Quincy reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

W. Charlesworth, 33 Cranch street, Quincy, Mass., says: "About five years ago I began to suffer from kidney trouble. I had pains in my back which were very severe at times and cold or damp weather aggravated my suffering. I knew that my kidneys were at fault and used everything I could think of in an effort to obtain relief but to no avail. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly advertised, I finally decided to give them a trial and I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Before I had taken the contents of two boxes, the backache was a thing of the past and I felt better in every way. Doan's Kidney Pills have my highest endorsement."

AN ESPECIALLY GOOD BREAD RECIPE

ONE TABLESPOONFUL of shortening, one level tablespoonful salt, one-third cup sugar. Add one pint scalding water, then add another pint of cold water.

Let stand until lukewarm and add one yeast cake. STIR "WINGOLD" FLOUR into this with a spoon until it becomes as thick as you can possibly stir it. DO NOT KNEAD IT, as this is all the mixing it requires.

After Sponge has risen, KNEAD DOWN and let rise again. Then place on board, mold into loaves, and place in pans. Let rise until level with top of pan. Bake in moderate oven.

This recipe insures four perfect loaves.

N. B.—Bread made with water keeps moist longer than if made with milk.

"WINGOLD" is the finest flour sold anywhere at any price.

Grocers say the demand for "WINGOLD" is steadily increasing.

Man's Money Making Mania Result of Woman's Craze For Dress.

By GRACE GEORGE, Actress.

THE DRESS PROBLEM IS ONE OF VITAL IMPORTANCE, INASMUCH AS WOMAN'S MANIA FOR FINE APPAREL IS LARGELY RESPONSIBLE FOR MAN'S MANIA FOR MONEY MAKING. THE PROBLEM IS ALMOST A DOUBLE HEADER. MONEY SITS ENTHRONED IN OUR COUNTRY, AND DRESS IS THE POWER BEHIND THE THRONE.

I honestly think the average man, reproved by his wife for over-attention to business, would gladly lessen the grind if it were possible for him to do so and still pay her bills. The average man has a normal longing for the simple life. It is WOMEN WHO MAKE NECESSITIES OF LUXURIES. The cost of woman's apparel, if the wearer wishes to keep up to date, is undoubtedly extravagant, and it naturally follows that the man who provides it must WORK OVERTIME OR GO INTO BANKRUPTCY. Of course he sometimes does both.

Women are not so much to blame for extravagance. It is rather the conditions by which they are surrounded. Women do not really dress for the men; they DRESS FOR THE OTHER WOMEN. The woman who wants to keep her set and maintain her social status—and surely no woman can be blamed for that—must always be well dressed.

A MAN MAY HAVE A DECORATIVE FRINGE AT THE BOTTOM OF HIS TROUSERS, OR THEY MAY BE A TRIFLE GLAZED AND BAGGY AT THE KNEE, WITHOUT BEING OSTRACIZED BY HIS FELLOWS OR BLACKBALLED AT THE CLUB, BUT FEW WOMEN HAVE THE MORAL COURAGE TO ENDURE THE POLITE SNEERS OF THEIR OWN SEX BECAUSE THEY ARE NOT STRICTLY UP TO DATE IN THE MODE OR TEXTURE OF THEIR APPAREL.

It is pitiful that what is worn outside of one should be such an important factor of life, but it is unquestionably true—not only true of wealthy people, but proportionately with the middle class. This condition exists in every city of the land. There are two fashion magazines published in this country to every one devoted to literature. It has become SIMPLY IMPOSSIBLE FOR WOMEN TO CONVERSE FOR TWENTY MINUTES WITHOUT DRESS BECOMING THE DOMINANT THEME.

CANADIAN LAW DISCUSSED BY LUCE

Provides No Strike Shall Take Place Until Efforts Have Been Made to Reach Agreement

Secretary Duncan Took Exception to the Penalty

A representative audience of Quincy club men greeted Hon. Robert Luce of Somerville at his address before the Men's Club of Christ Church on Monday evening.

Besides many men prominently connected with the city's affairs were members from the Board of Trade, Merchant's Association, Gallahad Brotherhood, Knights of Malta, Wollaston Methodist Men's club, Wollaston Episcopal Men's club and the Men's club of the West Quincy Methodist church, and Bethany Congregational church.

President Merton A. Turner presided, and previous to the speaker introduced his friend Senator Eugene C. Hultman. Mr. Hultman spoke briefly upon the present activities along the line of labor legislation, whose whole trend, he said, is to smooth out the conflict between labor and capital.

Ex-Representative Luce referred to the Canadian law for the investigation of industrial disputes as a measure in which capital, labor and the public of this country had shown great interest. He introduced himself as an enthusiastic apostle and missionary of this law, and proceeded to tell what it meant and what it promised. Briefly stated, the law provides that strikes and lockouts shall not take place until after an investigation has been instituted and an attempt to settle the matter been made.

Speaking at length upon the industrial warfare of the past century, Mr Luce referred to the struggles for a 13, 12, 10 and finally an 8 hour day. As late as 1851, said the speaker, a strike was inaugurated among workmen in Amesbury for a 15 minute shortening of the working day where they wo ked from 5 in the morning until 7 at night with an hour and three quarters for meals. The 8 hour day has not yet been established, but in another decade it will be practically the rule.

Various big strikes of the nation were mentioned, and the statement made that, while there were relatively few strikes in Massachusetts previous to 1880, they now average 200 a year. In the 5 years ending in 1908, there have been 950 strikes in Massachusetts involving five million working days, 10 millions of dollars and 140,000 workmen. Of these two-fifths have been wholly or partially successful while three-fifths have failed.

It is evident, said Mr. Luce, that we are opening upon an era of industrial friction. The steady rise of prices makes the income more difficult of adjustment and there are prospects of more and more trouble between the employer and employe in the future. Everywhere there is a natural unrest from the growing cost of living.

In regard to the benefits and injuries of strikes, it is a fact that every strike does good and harm and the whole matter is a question of balance. It can be seen that the industrial warfare of the nineteenth century has raised the condition of the working class, produced a higher standard of living, given the laborer a fair share of the product, and created a bureau of statistics and the passage of labor laws.

War is now a moot question. While some say there was never a good war or a bad peace, others claim that many wars have been useful. As we look back over the industrial warfare of the last hundred years who can deny that the sacrifices have not been well made? As we are now, in these days, raising a temple of peace at the Hague, so the evils of industrial war were felt and men began to see a better way.

In three years ending 1908, out of 541 labor disputes in Massachusetts, 23 or one in 25 were settled by arbitration. In the United States one in 60, and in England one in 40.

This is all right, as far as it goes, but why can it not go farther? The reason is that it is wrong to assume that labor conditions are the same as a civil suit. In a suit it is a question of fact and can be settled as right or wrong. In a labor dispute both may be right as it is a question of opinion.

In the opinion of the speaker, compulsory arbitration, as being tried out in New Zealand would not succeed here, as it is contrary to American ideals in interfering with personal liberty. Nowhere has the attempt to fix wages by law met with success. It is an American theory that a man may work where and when he will.

Mr. Luce dwelt upon the Canadian law regarding the labor question, which was put into effect largely through the efforts of McKenzie King nearly three years ago. This provides that in any public utility in Canada no man shall strike nor any lockout be made until all endeavors to avert a dispute have been made and a chance been given to make concessions.

In the 10 years preceding this law there were 100 strikes in Canada. In the last 2 3-4 years there have been 6. In this time, out of 80 disputes, 74 were settled. Of this number 11 before a formal investigation.

In applying this to Massachusetts the question came up whether it should cover all labor disputes or simply those arising in public utilities as in Canada. After exhaustive consultation with eminent Canadian authorities who had had an opportunity to see the law tried in its present state in Canada, it was finally decided to have it apply to all industrial disputes.

The "long jaw," as the Canadians say, is a great factor in the settlement of labor troubles. Formerly the issue was determined by brute force, and justice was administered by accident. It is time to replace this by reason and it is hoped that the present bill will win the support of both capital and labor.

Except that in Massachusetts it will apply to all industries instead of just public utilities it follows the Canadian law.

In conclusion, said Mr. Luce, it is not a question what is best for the individual, but what is best for the community and the race. Above the welfare of the individual stands the welfare of the commonweal.

At the close of the speech James Duncan of the American Federation of Labor arose and denounced the portion of the bill which provides a penalty for refusal to work. This, he said, is involuntary servitude. In Canada it only referred to public service corporations, but here it will apply to all industries. This clause, he said, is un-American and un-constitutional.

At the close of the address, refreshments were served and a musical program was enjoyed by those present, including selections by the club quartette.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

UNION C. E. RALLY

Rev. Samuel Lindsay Principal Speaker at Atlantic

A very enthusiastic and helpful meeting of the East Norfolk Christian Endeavor Union was held at the Atlantic Memorial church Monday evening. Over three hundred were in attendance.

Victor E. Lanstrom the president, opened the meeting with the hymns, "Stand up, stand up for Jesus," and "Pass me not of gentle Saviour" with Miss Davison as organist. Rev. Mr. Davison gave a hearty welcome to the Endeavorers after the reports of the secretary and treasurer had been read. At the roll call it was found that the banner for the largest attendance belonged to the endeavorers of the Park and Downs church. The choir rendered a selection followed with the scripture reading by Rev. Irad Hardy. Rev. Mr. Mitchell of Braintree led in prayer. Miss Reed sung a solo. Rev. Samuel Lindsay an evangelist was then introduced by President Lanstrom.

Mr. Lindsay took his text from Acts 26, 19 with the subject "Why am I a christian?" He said a man can only be made a christian by regenertion. He was a christian because of his mother's prayers, because he is a sinner, because of the knowledge there is a heaven. Many illustrations were used to lead up to the evangelistic purpose of the meeting. With the audience in silent p ayer and during the singing of "Just as I am" a number signfied their wish to become christians. Miss Martha Jenkins, Miss May Young, Miss Alice Waterhouse, Miss Grace DeWolfe, and Miss Marjorie Young served as ushers.

Together with other Christian Endeavor anniversary meetings of similar nature, it is expected the societies will be inspired to increased effort along the line of evangelistic service.

SUNDAY SERVICES

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The preaching morning and evening was at the Wollaston Baptist church was by the pastor Rev. Joseph Walther. Morning subject: "Agreement in Prayer." Matt. 18:19. Mr. Walther told of the value of united prayers ,mentioning the conditions to answered prayer. If two shall agree on any thing touching the kingdom it shall be done. Ask and it shall be given unto you. If we confess our sin God will hear us.

God loves music in the heart and easily detects a discord. The pastor gave names of several men who had been saved by prayer and asked his people to fulfill every condition and have the joy that comes from answered prayer.

Evening subject, "Our Two Spheres of Responsibility." John 3-9 and John 4-9. Two questions where art thou and where is thy brother? Continuing with the following: Are we saved? Do we know our sins are forgiven? Have we been redeemed? The necessity of salvation was mentioned. The soul that sinneth it shall die. The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life. God desires that all men shall be saved. Closing with the question: Have you been witnessing for Christ?

At the close of the evening service five people were baptized.

The Christian Endeavor service was of special interest it being the 29th anniversary of the organization. Two solos were very effectively rendered by Mrs. C. B. Kimball.

The cottage prayer meeting at Montclair Tuesday evening will be led by Seldon H. Nickerson.

Christian Endeavor business meeting and social will be held in the chapel Wednesday evening at 7.45 sharp.

—The National Educational association will hold its annual convention in Boston, July 2 to 8. When it met in Boston in 1903, 35,000 registered members were present. An even greater attendance is expected this year.

CITY COUNCIL

work in April or May was entitled to a half holiday.

The Mayor replied that he was not prepared to answer.

Councilman Smith asked of the City Solicitor if a man was employed Friday morning could he not be classed Saturday just as much of a permanent man as one employed for twenty years?

City Solicitor McAvarney—No person is clothed with the authority to say what a permanent man is. If when a man is hired no time is fixed who shall say on the next day if he is or is not a permanent man?

Councilman Clark thought the order should be recommitted.

Councilman Gardner—We are losing sight o fthe fact that the city cannot stand the expense. We have got to start this year to save money.

Councilman Branch said there was another thing to be considered. Some of the men who have a half holiday on Saturday will not show up for work until the following Thursday. It would be better to raise the pay of the men and employ them for so many hours a week.

Councilman Smith did not think it a question if we could afford it. Nothing will be gained by sending the order back. The gentleman is the only one to raise the question that the city can not afford it.

Councilman Nowland—I also think that the city cannot afford it. It did not seem to him that they needed it.

The motion to recommit was then voted.

WATER EXTENSIONS.

The Finance Committee reported ought to pass on the order appropriating $30,000 for water extesnions. Report accepted.

Councilman Moir asked the Commissioner how many miles of mains were laid last year.

In reply the Commissioner said that six miles of mains were laid last year and the amount paid for house connections was from $20,000 to $25,000 half of which was returned to the city. The abutters pay about 2-5 from the main to the house and the city had received from $10 000 to $12,000 from these services. Last year we had $42,000 and the balance from the receipts from services. The $42,000 was extended over thirty years.

Councilman Moir—It seems to me that we could have anticipated the receipts of $12,000 last year and borrowed $30,000 instead of $42,000. He moved to amend the order by striking out the words and figures $30,000 and inserting in place therefor the words and figures $20,000 also to strike out the words "and services" and the date of the bonds making them due in aMrch instead of February.

Councilman Smith asked if there was any special work last year, and the Commissioner replied that a pipe was laid to Squantum.

Councilman Nowland was willing to save $10,000 if it could be done without crippling the department.

In reply to a question, the Commissioner said that the city laid the service up to the curbing and the abutter paid for the other part into the house. The city did the work, however, and the water was not turned on until this amount was paid.

In reply to Councilman Richards, the Commissioner said that all supplies were considered in the $30,000. If no money was appropriated for services we could not put any in. The money received by the treasurer was for stock and labor furnished. He should be buying stock now. He intended to expend about one half of the amount asked for, namely $15,000.

Councilman Richards—The matter of interest should be considered. He was willing to allow enough for supplies and hold back the balance until wanted. If we can reduce the interest account it is not a bad idea.

Councilman Cherrington thought the o'der should go back and be changed so that certain money should be expended for certain purposes.

Councilman Whiton—This was thrashed out in the committee. We do not bond the city for thirty years for the receipts. The receipts last year will be used this year for house connections. If you want to cripple the only department in the city that is on a paying basis go ahead. There is nothing to be gained. This gasp at economy will not save the city any interest. The city treasurer will not borrow the money any faster than needed.

In reply to Councilman Nowland, the Commissioner said if the order passed he should expend about $15,000 for supplies.

Councilman Gardner did not think as much care was used in buying as should be. If $15,000 was expended for stock now, we would be losing money.

Councilman Richards desired to ask the City Treasurer some questions but that official was not present. From the Auditor, howeve , he ascertained that if the order passed the Treasurer would advertise for bids for the bonds. And that money would be used. Through other questions to the Auditor it came out that money borrowed for one purpose had been used for other purposes.

Councilman Richards then desired Sec. 42 of the Charter read. This section provides that money appropriated for a specific purpose shall be used for no other purpose. Continuing, he said it seems that money being borrowed for a specific purpose is being used for other expenses.

In reply to a question by Councilman Snow, the City Solicitor said that the City Treasurer was not obliged to issue the whole loan at one time. He can sell any part of it desired.

Councilman Ericson said it was not good business to reduce the amount when the city can save 15 per cent by buying supplies now.

Councilman McDevitt favored the amendment. He did not care to vote for any large loan considering the discrimination.

Councilman Snow moved the previous question. Voted.

The question was on ordering the order to a second reading. It was so ordered and took its second reading and was placed in the calendar.

Councilman Whiton was called to the chair and President Hobbs left the hall to attend the Elks' ball.

MORE LIGHT.

Councilman Richards offered an order for a light on Palmer street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Moir moved to take the Water order from the calendar and that the rules be suspended in favor of the order. Motion lost, 5 voting yes and 8, no.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for an arc light on the corner of Quarry street extension and Side street. Referred to the Executive.

WATER METERS.

Councilman Nowland offered an order for $45,000 for the purchase and installation of water meters. Referred to Committee on Water Supply.

Councilman Smith offered an order for an incandescent light on Barry street. Referred to Executive.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for a crosswalk on the east side of Crescent and Cross streets. Referred to Executive.

Councilman Sandberg offered a resolve requesting the Mayor to instruct the Board of Health to post notices in the public streets calling attention to the law prohibiting spitting on sidewalks. Adopted.

Adjourned at 10.16 until Feb. 21.

MISS HESLER'S HUSBAND-TO-BE

Why Robnett Took Up Grievance Against Cowles

Boston, Feb. 8.—Four words from Dorothy Hesler at the Dr. Robnett court martial yesterday laid bare the cause of the "tempest in the teapot" row at the Charlestown navy yard.

The low murmur of the crowded court room gave way to a tense hush when Miss Hesler was asked "Why should Dr. Robnett take up what you considered a grievance against Dr. Cowles?"

It seemed that spectators and gold-braided sea-dogs simultaneously scented what was coming. They bent forward as if fearing to lose a syllable. Then came the revelation.

"I am his fiancee," said Miss Hesler.

Dr. Robnett in his testimony said "aye" to Miss Hesler's words by stating that he was her husband-to-be.

Miss Hesler showed not the slightest hesitation when she gave the reply that told of Robnett's successful heart conquest.

The answer was given in her simple, girlish way, with just a bare suggestion of pride in her tones. The rose and gold color of her face was accentuated by a most becoming flush that rose slowly to her crown of golden hair.

Stylishly dressed women, who held the greater part of the seating space provided for the spectators, nodded their heads approvingly. Some of the young naval officers who were hovering about the room seemed a bit crestfallen.

"Dr. Robnett was the only man whom I could call upon to act as my champion," said the dark-eyed Chicago girl, whose father, a former naval surgeon, is dead.

"I felt annoyed by the attentions that Dr. Cowles was paying me and I also wanted the picture which he had taken without my consent returned to me. I have no male relatives that I could turn to for aid. So I appealed to Dr. Robnett."

Miss Hesler confessed that she had said "Yes" to Robnett last November. This was some weeks before the much-discussed trip to Fort Warren in the harbor boat, an event that Cowles was reported to have referred to in "boasting of his conquest of Miss Hesler."

"I told Dr. Robnett of Dr. Cowles' unwelcome attentions and of my futile endeavors to get back the picture he had taken from my aunt's house," she said, "and I told him of Dr. Cowles' request that I meet him in Sullivan square and of the candy and flowers that he had mentioned.

"At my request he tried to get Dr. Cowles to give back my picture. It was after I had written to Mrs. Cowles, declining a dinner invitation, and had left word at my aunt's house that I was to be 'out' in case Dr. Cowles called, that I asked Dr. Robnett to assist me."

When court had adjourned Robnett lost no time in showing that a man in love cares not for time or place. He hastened from the courtroom to the corridor where Miss Hesler had rejoined her mother after completing her testimony.

With utter disregard for persons who forget to turn their eyes away—and they were decidedly in the majority—Robnett clasped his arms around Miss Hesler's neck and implanted a resounding smack upon her lips. Just for an instant he held her to him, but in that time there was not the slightest sign of resistance. Apparently Miss Hesler cared not a whit for the outside world, either.

The aforesaid young naval officers who have been trampling upon each other in their efforts to prevent Miss Hesler from feeling lonesome during the days that she has waited in the gloomy hallway that adjoins the courtroom, looked quite ill when Robnett was taking that kiss.

Of course, congratulations were in order. One of the first to approach Robnett and Miss Hesler was Major Catlin, who as judge advocate has fulfilled the duties of prosecuting officer.

Next in the congratulatory line came Major Leonard and Captain Hirshinger, the men who have fought to save Robnett from the charges of "conduct unbecoming an officer" and "making threats." Then came a swarm of well wishers, led by Paymaster Auld, who was tried last week as a result of Cowles' story that he was "assaulted and insulted" at the navy yard dance of Dec. 11.

Onlookers agreed the incident a splendid climax in a case that has been marked by bitterness, insinuations of falsehood and bits of scandal that have come from warring social factions at the navy yard.

Regarding his acquaintance with Miss Hesler, the doctor said their friendship began six years ago.

ANOTHER PACKING PLANT

One to Cost Three Million Dollars Will Be Built at Oklahoma City

Kansas City, Feb. 8.—The Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing company of Chicago and Kansas City has signed a contract with the Oklahoma City chamber of commerce for the building of a new packing plant in that city to cost $3,000,000.

The company has an option on a large tract of land near the new plant of Morris & Co. for the site of its plant and the necessary stock pens. The Morris plant is being rushed and packing operations probably will begin early this summer.

There seems to be a disposition among packers to build new plants nearer to the main source of range cattle supply rather than to increase the capacity of the larger plants at Kansas City and Chicago. Oklahoma City is negotiating with other companies which have shown a disposition to branch out to locate their plants there.

BATTLE WITH TIMBER WOLF

Keeper In Bronx Zoo Subdues Animal With a Pickax Handle

New York, Feb. 8.—In a hand to hand struggle with a powerful female wolf, Richard Spicer, keeper of bears and wolves in the Bronx Zoological Gardens, narrowly escaped with his life, and after a fight of several minutes finally worked over to a part of the cage where there was a pickax handle. With this he beat the animal into submission, and finally escaped from the cage. His only injury was a badly lacerated hand.

The wolf is said to be the largest timber wolf in captivity. She had always been a particular pet of Spicer's and had become so docile that she would eat from his hand.

MERCHANT LEAVES HIS FAMILY BEHIND

He Disappears Simultaneously With a Young Woman

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Somewhere in Canada, or, perhaps, on a steamship bound for England, is George W. McKinney, Germantown's wealthy dealer in teas and coffees, and with him, it is the belief of Harry Brandau, a tailor, is Brandau's 18-year-old daughter, Amanda. McKinney, who is married, has two sons, one 22 years old and the other 12.

Except for a letter postmarked Montreal and written by Miss Brandau to her parents, no trace has been found of the missing pair.

Through the Philadelphia police Brandau has notified the police of this country and Canada to search for McKenney and Miss Brandau. The latter had worked in McKinney's store.

MORE ALIMONY ASKED

Lily Draper May Also Contest the Will of Her Father-In-Law

Boston, Feb. 8.—That Mrs. Lily D. Draper of Lexington, Ky., the divorced wife of George O. Draper of Hopedale, whose two sons are cut off in the will of their grandfather, General William F. Draper, will take fullest legal steps to protect the interests of her disinherited boys, is indicated by news from Lexington that the mother already has a suit instituted for an increase of her alimony allowance, declaring it is not sufficient for her boys' proper support.

When Mrs. Draper was granted her divorce she was given the custody of the children and $5000 a year for their support.

Now that General Draper is dead and his will cuts the two grandsons off from any share in his tremendous estate, it is certain that the mother will contest the will for her boys. The will leaves one-half the estate to General Draper's widow and one-half to his children and their issue, except the children of George O. Draper and Lily D. Draper.

TRUE STORY NOT YET TOLD

Hint of Great Scandal Behind Big Four Shortage

Cincinnati, Feb. 8.—Hints that a scandal of far greater proportions than has been revealed already in the theft of nearly a million dollars from the Big Four railroad by Charles L. Warriner, and that men of far greater prominence than he are involved, are being made here simultaneously with a report that if Mrs. Jeanette S. Ford, in whose trial on the charge of blackmailing Warriner a jury disagreed, after twenty-four hours' deliberating, is re-tried the whole story will be told in its entirety. The vote stood eight to four for acquittal.

Rumors have been persistently circulated that Warriner is shielding a number of others and that a coterie of wealthy and well-known women are interested in the case one way and another. If the true story of the entire shortage were told, it is declared persistently, the names of a dozen women and prominent men would be mentioned.

Attorney Thorndyke intimates that there is more behind the case than appears on the surface, and that if it is decided to try Mrs. Ford again that he will appeal to Governor Harmon for a complete investigation of the shortage in the road by the legislature.

"If the prosecution desires another trial I shall go to Columbus and appear before members of the legislature to demand that the general assembly probe the books of the Big Four to see just how far the shortage of Charles L. Warriner went," said Thorndyke.

"Of course, if Prosecutor Hunt wants to bring the matter to the attention of the courts again, he can, but the whole thing will be taken by me to Columbus if he reopens the case and laid before members of the legislature. I shall demand that the Big Four books be laid before the members of that body and that they be carefully examined.

"I am making no charges against the Big Four, but I think we can in this way find how money was spent and where. Mrs. Ford has been guilty of no blackmail, even though she did receive money from Warriner and from Cooke. She does not profess to be as white as the driven snow, as one of the prosecutors would have us believe Warriner to be, yet she has been at all times within reason in her actions."

TRAVELING IN WILDERNESS

Roosevelt and His Party Enter Jungle Full of Terrors

Nirmule, Uganda Protectorate, Feb. 8.—Theodore Roosevelt has started on ten days' march through the wilderness to Gondokoro.

The fact that this district has not been invaded by the linemen affords a hint of its character and of the difficulties before the Americans, who, traveling all the way on foot, cannot hope to average more than eleven miles a day. It is filled with wild beasts and other terrors.

Gondokoro, which it is expected will be reached on Feb. 17, is a village of the Sudan, on the upper Nile. Here a launch will be in waiting and the party will embark probably on Feb. 18 for the trip down the Nile to Khartoum.

HUGHES NOT TO RUN AGAIN

Under No Circumstances Will He Accept a Renomination

New York, Feb. 8.—Governor Hughes reiterates his determination not to accept a renomination, in a letter to Assemblyman Green.

"I have already publicly stated that I cannot under any circumstances accept a renomination," writes the governor, "and I suppose that is understood by the people of the state.

"Of course, you and others who have been so strong in my support should realize there is not the slightest doubt about the matter and that I mean exactly what I have said."

Flower Words

How an Ideal Man Declared His Love.

By ANNABEL D. CARTER.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Ethan Atwater was a well educated young man, with a fortune, good looks, good health and a good mind. His occupation was both occupation and amusement. He studied and did some scribbling, occasionally sending very pretty verses to magazines.

Atwater lived in a small place, but a very old one. Many of the dwellings stood alone and often in the center of large grounds. His house was quaint, and the grounds were a marvel of good taste. On entering his study one would immediately be impressed with the fact that it had been furnished and decorated by an artist with an exquisite sense for harmony in color. Through the window appeared grounds that had evidently been arranged by a landscape gardener. Both the artist and the gardener were Ethan Atwater.

Atwater had been drawn to one or two different women at different times, but had sooner or later discovered something in one or the other to offend his sensitive taste, something that either smacked of coarseness or an absence of ideality. Not that he was a sentimental man; he may rather be called a man of sentiment. The sentimental was as repulsive to him as coarseness.

On Atwater's return from a journey he found that the place next adjoining his on the east had changed hands. The same day he saw a young lady go into the house whose appearance struck him favorably. Her apparel was in good taste. Her hat appeared to have been made neither for a giant nor a dwarf. The colors of which her costume were composed were subdued. Her face, too, bespoke innate refinement.

It was in the autumn that Atwater first saw this girl and nearly every day after that he observed her either going out or coming in or at a window. His first impulse was to assume the privilege of a neighbor and go in and call on the newcomers, but it occurred to him that he would take pleasure in studying the girl from the brief distance that separated their abodes. One of his theories was that a refined person could not be unrefined; that an ideal person could not be commonplace. If she were both ideal and refined she would show her ideality and refinement to him without an acquaintance. If there was a lack of either he would be able to detect it without speaking to her or being spoken to by her.

Within a few weeks he had witnessed acts on the part of his neighbor indicating traits that he considered usual in, if not essential to, a refined nature. He saw her receive a child who came to her house and knew at once that her heart warmed to children. He was standing at a window when she attended an old lady to her carriage and was sure that she sympathized with the aged. These are but individual instances of Atwater's observations, no one of which was of supreme importance, but all, taken together, indicated a nature such as he could admire and revere.

Then he went away for awhile. When he returned he made a discovery. The young lady next door did not appear either in the grounds or at a window. He began to fear that he had seen her for the last time. That fear was akin to pain. He was tempted to make inquiries, but knew no one to ask. After a week of chafing one afternoon he saw her drive up to the house in a carriage and received with demonstrations of affection by the other members of the family. Atwater longed to jump out of the window and take her in his arms himself. But this was an impulse that didn't count for or against his natural idiosyncrasies.

Later he made another discovery similar to the first. He saw a very handsome young man leave the house next door and the young lady follow him out to the gate, apparently loath to have him depart. This time it was revealed to him not only that the young lady was a person of interest to him, but that he objected to her being of interest to any other man. From this point she ceased to be a matter of study by observation. She was to be appropriated.

My story up to this point has been one sided, and it must continue for the present to be one sided. It is not to be supposed that a girl may be under constant observation by a young man next door without some observation on the part of the girl. Atwater had never seen her looking at him, though he had never failed to look at her whenever she appeared. Had he detected her doing so he would have considered her as overstepping the bounds set for a modest young woman. If she did not do so convinced him that she did not consider him worth looking at.

One morning in February Atwater saw a man digging up the soil in the garden in the adjoining grounds. It was evident that the ground was not intended for vegetables, but for flowers. In a few days the young lady came out with a few light garden implements and a dainty little basket full of seeds and began to plant.

A few days later Atwater spaded a flower bed in his own grounds and planted seeds. His garden was protected on three sides by bush plants, but could be observed by the neighbor on the east. A warm wave germinated the seeds in both gardens, and tiny green lines were soon visible. Nothing unusual was to be noticed in the lady's garden, but in Atwater's a careful observer would have seen lines of tender green in which could be traced the letters "I Love."

As soon as his letters were large enough to be read from the next house the young man kept a constant watch with a view to discovering whether they were observed. Days passed, and the delicate lines were lost in the exuberance of the growth, but never did the planter see a face at the window. If his declaration had been seen it had not met with any response.

Atwater argued in this wise: If she has seen the flower words and is a person of ideality, refinement and kindliness she will make a reply even if unfavorable. So he waited and watched. Weeks passed, and neither the heavens, the air nor the earth gave a sign. Atwater's ideality was giving way before the impatience of love, and he was about to try some more commonplace method. Then one morning when the air was clear and the sun was shining on the garden opposite he fancied he saw in a new growth just appearing above the soil that which might be letters, but since it came up unevenly he could not be sure at so great a distance. In another moment he had a pair of glasses leveled at the flower bed. The only growth that looked like letters spelled "No."

Atwater was momentarily discouraged. But it was evident that there was more coming up which might change what appeared to be a refusal. Again the impatience of love impelled him to push for an immediate response, but his ideality again triumphed. He concluded to wait. Realizing how he should suffer watching for a response to his message to grow out of the ground, he absented himself for a season. He returned late at night, and the next morning, to his satisfaction, he saw plainly letters in the adjoining garden to read, "I Know You Not."

It is high time that we should have a view of what is transpiring in this ideal affair from the other side of the garden wall.

Miss Edith MacGregor was looking out of her window one morning when she saw a young man leave the next house and saunter down the street. It was enough for her that he was nice looking and that he lived next door. Unlike Atwater, whose musings on first seeing her were what she might be, she mused on something to happen and, womanlike, at once decided to place herself on the vantage ground of invisibility—that is, she would not be seen when within doors and she would appear unconscious of the fact that a nice looking young man lived next door.

While Atwater was assuming that she did not consider him worth looking at she was constantly observing him from a dark room that she had fitted up for that especial purpose. Nevertheless when at a window she took care not to look into the adjoining place and never appeared at all except when becomingly dressed.

And so it was that Miss MacGregor was perfectly aware that Mr. Atwater admired her before he supposed she was aware of his existence, and she knew he had been pierced by one of Cupid's arrows before he knew it himself. She had concluded to have a garden that they might have an excuse to meet with only a hedge between them, and when he planted seeds to spell "I Love You" she had seen the letters traced out in the soil before the seeds were put in the drills. Moreover, she had purposely planted in her response the letters "No" in thin soil in order that they might grow up before the others to give her lover a temporary disappointment.

Miss MacGregor knew very well that Mr. Atwater was a man of an ideal nature both from his face, which she had carefully studied with a glass, and from his method of making love. She did not therefore propose to destroy any illusions he might have. She knew very well that no man in love will be long satisfied with communications that must take the time necessary to grow out of the ground and awaited her lover's next move. So when she received a note begging permission to begin a correspondence on paper she replied that it would be a pity to descend from beautiful and natural letters to artificial ones made with a combination of chemicals.

To this Mr. Atwater replied that, while the flower words were beautiful and not usual, they were very slow. And he made a request to be allowed to call.

Miss MacGregor delayed to reply to this note, but a day or two later appeared in a becoming morning costume in her garden with a small watering pot. Atwater saw her and lost no time in going into his own garden with garden tools. The lady was watering her plants when, hearing a sound, she looked up with well feigned surprise to see her lover craning his neck over the hedge. He remarked that the plants needed rain, and she replied that there was no sign of rain.

Atwater looked for an opening in the hedge, but did not find any. In the rear there was a fence bounding both properties, and, getting on top of it, he passed the hedge. He was very much rattled. The girl was perfectly cool. She talked about her flowers as though there was no other subject in existence. But presently she invited him to inspect some that were in the house, and they passed in together. Then and there they began the speech where they had left off in the language of flowers.

Mr. Atwater has long been a married man, but he found, he fondly believes, that he attracted the attention of his wife and won her love by having declared his own in flower words.

REFUSED DISPENSATION

John L. Sullivan Married by Justice of the Peace at Boston

Boston, Feb. 8.—John L. Sullivan, one-time champion prize fighter of America, and the pride of young and old Bostonians alike, was married yesterday afternoon to Miss Katherine Harkins, a wealthy Sharon real estate owner, and a school-day sweetheart. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's brother and was attended by the immediate families.

A justice of the peace performed the ceremony. Owing to the inability of getting a dispensation, Sullivan having been divorced, the name of the justice was withheld at the request of the groom.

Sullivan and his wife sailed this morning for Liverpool and will go to Dublin, where the former is booked to appear upon a vaudeville circuit.

A HUSKY BOWERY LAD

Returns to Work After Burial Under Two Hundred Tons of Coal

New York, Feb. 8.—Burial eighteen feet deep for an hour and a half under 200 tons of pea coal befell "Bill" Thompson of the Bowery, but he was unhurt.

Police, laborers and clerks, frantically digging with bare hands, shovels and scuttles, made little impression on the enormous mass of coal. Somebody had the presence of mind to summon a hook and ladder company.

Guided by Thompson's weakening cries, the firemen ripped out the wooden sides of the coal pocket and out shot Thompson with about ten tons of coal.

He spat the coal dust from his mouth, accepted a drink of whisky and went back to work.

MISS HAVEMEYER BECOMES A BRIDE

James Webb Wins Second Richest Woman In Country

New York, Feb. 8.—Miss Electra Havemeyer, daughter of the late H. O. Havemeyer, president of the American Sugar Refining company, was married today to James W. Webb, son of W. S. Webb, president of the Rutland railroad. The ceremony was performed in St. Bartholomew's church.

Miss Havemeyer is the second richest woman in the United States, Hetty Green holding the premier position.

New York society regrets the announcement which presages the departure of Webb and his future bride from the metropolis, and which will remove two of its most prominent figures from the social arena. They are to reside in Shelburne Falls, Vt.

FINDING OF MISS LE BLANC

Final Search of Glover House Is Described by Attorney Elmore

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8.—How Hattie Le Blanc, the girl charged with the murder of Clarence F. Glover, the Waltham laundryman, was discovered under a bed in the house of the murdered man the day of the funeral was told on the witness stand in the Glover will case by Samuel D. Elmore.

Mr. Elmore is the executor of the Glover will. He said that he was not in the Glover house during either the first or second search, but the day of the funeral he suggested a third search.

Six persons participated in the search. They went to the basement and then to the third floor and finally to the second floor. In the guest chamber Police Sergeant Curran looked under the bed and found the girl. She was weak and sat on the edge of the bed. The witness got her some crackers and coffee and then she was taken to the police station.

Despite his objections Elmore was forced to tell Hattie Le Blanc's story of the killing of Glover as she herself told it to the police. It was substantially as given in the press reports at that time.

Girl Killed by Trolley Car

NUMBERING SYSTEMS

Many Valuable Plans Found For Designating Houses.

FINES FOR NEGLECTFULNESS.

Everett, Mass., Adopts This Up to Date Method For Keeping the Numbers on Houses—Plans of Many Other Towns and Cities Good and Successful.

Statistics of the wave of enthusiasm in towns and cities throughout the United States looking toward the revision of house numbering systems furnish interesting points of comparison with the plan recently put into effect in Chicago. The American Society of Municipal Improvements, which is organized as a sort of clearing house for ideas on municipal government, has made an investigation of what is being done in different parts of the United States.

Replies were received from 136 cities to the following questions:

"Who assigns street numbers to or otherwise has charge of the numbering of the buildings in your city?

"What form of application must be made and what charge paid by property owners to learn their respective house numbers?

"Does city furnish the figures to be used? At what cost?

"Does it place them? Is the size and style of figures specified in any way?

"Is there any standard for assigning numbers, such as distance from assigned axes or length of frontage to each number?"

The replies show that in the great majority of cases the city engineer or the department of engineering has charge of this work, this being the case in 104 cases out of the total 136. The building inspector has charge of it in eight cases. In five cases it is in charge of the board of public affairs, of public works or of commissioners, as they are variously entitled. In four cases the city clerk looks after this work, in three cases the assessor, in two cases the superintendent of streets, and a special committee, the inspector of the highway division, the board of aldermen, the mayor and council, the mayor alone, a local contractor and the city marshal, each are intrusted with this work in one city of those reporting. Printed forms are used in Dubuque, Ia.; Phillipsburg, N. J.; Cleveland, O.; Salt Lake City, Winnipeg, Man., and others. In Everett and Taunton, Mass., petition is made to the board of aldermen; in Schenectady, N. Y., and Duluth, Minn., to the common council. In Kansas City, Mo., and Lincoln, Neb., the number of the building is given with the building permit.

In 124 cases no charge is made for informing the owner or tenant of his house number. In Macon, Ga., there is a charge of 15 cents for this; in Springfield, Mass., the cost of looking up the information; in Ogden, Utah, 75 cents; in Lincoln, Neb., this is included in the cost of the building permit. Figures are furnished and placed without cost to the owner in Boston, Everett, Lowell, New Bedford and Somerville, Mass.; in Cleveland and Woonsocket, R. I., and in Winnipeg, Ottawa, Toronto and Calgary, Canada. Figures are furnished free of charge, but not placed in Concord, N. H., Reading, Pa., and Hamilton, Ont. Macon, Ga., charges 15 cents for furnishing and 10 cents additional for placing. San Antonio, Tex., charges 15 cents per figure and does not place them. Montreal, Canada, charges 20½ cents for furnishing and placing. St. John's, N. F., charges 3 cents per figure for furnishing and placing. A number of cities furnish and place figures if the owner fails to do so after notification and charges the same to the owner. In Grand Rapids, Mich., this charge is 20 cents per figure in place.

In most towns and cities the frontage allotted to each number is twenty to twenty-five feet. In several, however, ten feet is used in the business sections, this being the case in New Britain, Conn.; Lowell, Mass., and Somerville, Mass.

In some cities there appears to be no general ordinance concerning the matter of house numbering, while in others quite complete ordinances have been established. An illustration of a brief ordinance is that of Everett, Mass., which is as follows:

"The owner of any building or part of a building who shall neglect or refuse to affix to the same the numbers designated by the board of aldermen or by some person by said board duly authorized or who shall affix or retain for more than three days any number contrary to such direction shall be liable to fine of not more than $20."

In Rochester if owners do not place numbers on their houses the common council passes a local improvement ordinance, and the numbers are placed by the city, and the cost thereof, with the cost of placing, is charged against the property.

In a number of cities there appears to be no particular form of procedure by which the householder obtains information as to the legal number of his house nor by which the city compels the proper numbering of houses. In others, however, forms more or less elaborate are employed.

The style of figure to be used is specified in forty-five cities. In the majority of cases it is stated that the figure must be at least as large as designated minimum, which varies from two to three inches. In a number of cities the color and material also are specified. In Charlotte, N. C., the house numbers are placed in the cement walks as these are laid, the figures being red, costing 8 cents apiece and being paid for by the city.

LONG FOR CONGRESS

Popular Bay State Man Suggested as Successor to Lovering

Boston, Feb. 8.—John D. Long is the latest suggestion for the vacancy the Fourteenth congressional district occasioned by the death of William C. Lovering. A committee is in process of formation.

Ex-Governor Long is in his 72nd year and has had an exceptionally large share of the honors of public life. He was for three terms governor of Massachusetts, served his district three terms in congress, and was secretary of the navy from the beginning of McKinley's first administration until that of Roosevelt was well under way. He withdrew from congress before because he wanted to return to the practice of his profession; but that was more than twenty years ago, Morse and Lovering having been his successors meantime.

The next few days will determine whether Long is to be actively pushed for this office.

WITH OLD POLL TAXES

Confidence Men Scare Medford People Out of About $1000

Medford, Mass., Feb. 8.—The Medford police are searching for two well-dressed strangers who by means of a novel confidence game have separated Medford citiens from about $1000 during the past two weeks.

In some manner the two secured about 500 old poll tax bills, payable in 1908. They visited many houses, one representing himself as the tax collector and the other as a constable, and reaped a big profit, as the majority of the victims, fearing arrest, promptly paid their $2. One man, becoming suspicious, notified the police, and investigation by the latter revealed the fraud.

PROBING OF COST OF LIVING DELAYED

Congress Wants to Make Sure Matter Can Be Put Through

Washington, Feb. 8.—The house organization will not attempt to bring in a rule authorizing the ways and means committee to investigate the increased cost of living until it is satisfied that it has enough votes to put the matter through the house in the manner desired.

The committee on the rules of the house intended to bring in a rule providing for the consideration of the investigating resolution introduced by Chairman Payne of the ways and means committee. At the committee meeting, however, the fear was entertained that the resolution accompanied by a rule could not safely be taken into the house and it was decided to move cautiously. The resolution as reported from the ways and means committee authorizes that committee to conduct the investigation.

The rules committee, it was learned yesterday, is of the opinion that the insurgents, supported by the Democrats, will attempt to take the matter out of the hands of the ways and means committee and have the membership selected by a vote of the house. For that reason no action will be taken by the rules committee until Mr. Dwight of New York, Republican whip of the house, gives his assurances that he has the votes necessary to carry out the will of the organization.

EFFICIENT FIRE DRILL

It Prevents Panic When Children March From a Burning School

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8.—Four teachers showed great coolness in the face of grave danger when they gave the signal for the fire drill and marched 200 children out of the Lasalle primary school after fire had been discovered in the structure.

The pupils hardly left their places when the flames had spread from basement to roof, and damage estimated at $5000 resulted.

Not a child was injured in the slightest, yet excitement ran high in the neighborhood, and anxious mothers rushed to the building only to find their little ones safe and sound.

Two alarms were given for the fire, which started through overheating of the furnace.

BRIEFS

The Y. M. C. A. leaders corps weekly supper and meeting will be held tonight in the Y. M. C. A. hall at 6.30 and will be followed by a meeting of the athletic team at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of the American Peace society and one of its most forceful lecturers is to lecture on Wednesday evening at the Quincy Mansion school.

Friends of Isaac M. Holt of Cottage street are glad to see him out on the street and able to resume business after being confined to his home many months.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Rose and son Mortimer of Warren avenue returned Monday from Cohasset where they have been since December with Mrs. Rose's mother, Mrs. Andrew Souther.

Miss Margaret A. Leary of Huntington road East Milton returned Monday to her duties as supervisor at Quincy telephone exchange. Miss Leary has been at home for six weeks acting as nurse to her sister Helen who had scarlet fever.

The funeral services for Alvin H. Pountney of Taylor street were attended by many friends and classmates at the High school. The class of 1906 sent a wreath and the department of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. a standing piece, and there were other beautiful flowers. Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Congregational church conducted the service. Burial was at Mt. Wollaston.

WOLLASTON BOY MISSING.

The police department were requested Monday night to aid in the search for J. Robertson Williams, aged 13 years, of Wollaston who was reported as missing. The Williams boy attended school in the morning and was made to remain after the morning session. He was to come to school again at the afternoon session but did not and nothing has been seen of him since. The boy lived with his uncle, J. A. Jewell. The boy, as far as known, had no money with him, and he could not have gone far unless he walked. The same boy was reported as missing some time ago, but at that time he was found during the night by the police officer sleeping on a door step.

—The report of the treasurer shows that the Republican club of Massachusetts has a balance of $5,345 in the treasury. Unless they watch out club will have a good opportunity to spend it next fall.—Chelsea Record.

SWEEP FOR NORFOLK DOWNS

Record Breaking Score for Guinon of 327

The Norfolk Downs quintet in the Old Colony bowling league visited Braintree Monday evening and rolled off the league games postponed from January 26th. Guinon of Norfolk Downs hung up a score likely to land him that prize money his first string being 102, second 117 and third 108 with a three string total of 327, just fifteen pins better than his nearest opponent, Lyons of Quincy. The Downs team took everything.

The score:

LOCAL SPORTS.

The newly organized Quincy hockey club met defeat at Milton on Monday, score being 5 to 3 in favor of Milton. On Quincy team were Davenport Marqueau, Brown, Telford, Pinkham, Arnold and Thompson.

It was the Y. M. C. A. intermediates and not the employed boys who were so badly defeated at basket ball on Saturday evening.

Three brothers will be initiated as members of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows this evening.

The regular weekly whist party will be held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Boutilier, North Payne street.

COOKS' MASQUERADE.

How Nine Young Matrons Spent a Jolly Afternoon.

Bridget Kelley invites You to a Kitchen Tea
Thursday—4 to 7
400 Adams street

So read the invitations written on butcher's paper and inclosed in tiny new spice boxes, says a contributor to Table Talk.

The nature of the party we guessed from the invitations, and our surmises were confirmed by a telephone message. Our hostess requested my sister and I to masquerade as American and Dutch cooks for the afternoon.

Of course I as the American needed no "fixin's," wearing my usual kitchen seersucker and its accompanying long sleeved apron. My sister wore the short sleeved dress of the Dutch housewife, with its gathered skirt and white yoked neck. A plain gathered apron and wooden shoes completed her costume.

Thursday came, dark and rainy, but our apparel was storm proof, and we sallied forth anticipating a jolly time. On approaching the house we were not surprised to see a large sign—a hand—and written thereon, "Servants' Door to the Rear."

At the back entry we were met by our hostess, but what a transformation from her usual sunny self! Garbed in calico of Irish hue and padded in proportion, with hair tightly drawn and a bit of smut over one eye, she was indeed Bridget Kelley. Her Irish brogue kept us laughing as we doffed our shawls in the entry.

We were a happy set, nine young matrons in all. There were Mrs. Eaton, trim and chic, with the modish cap of the French cook, and Mrs. Rice, her brunette coloring enhanced by the glittering sequins adorning the sleeveless jacket of the Russian dress which she so charmingly wore. The dainty Jap, plaided Scot and tall Swede, with her peaked cap and homespun apron, not unlike a Roman scarf, added their varied colorings. Finally came Sue Farley, impersonating her own south ern mammy. She was the last to arrive, and so well disguised was she that we scarcely recognized her.

The spacious kitchen, with its blue tiled wainscoting, alcoved dining tables and hooded ranges, was a beautiful as well as convenient place in which to work. Our hostess gave us slips of paper on which were written various recipes.

These were prepared at stated periods, and while they were cooking our hostess, an accomplished cook, entertained us by a talk on the various dishes of the Germans. She spoke from experience, having lived several years in Germany. Household economics formed a profitable topic of conversation the last half hour before tea. The discussion served as an appetizer to the meal, which we enjoyed the more because of our part in its preparation. As souvenirs of the delightful affair we each received a wooden cake spoon, with date and "A Kitchen Tea" written on the handle.

—Things begin to look booming for the passage of a postal savings bank bill at the present session of congress. The Republican party owes it to the people to redeem some, at least of its platform pledges made in 1908.—Medford Mercury.

Oh, Where—Oh, Where, Will Jeff-Johnson Battle Be Held?

Where is the Jeffries-Johnson mixup, scheduled to take place July 4, going to be held, or is it going to be staged at all?

There is either some very fine politics going on between the promoters or else the dear old public is being made the butt of one of the finest cases of fourflushing ever seen.

The promoters, Tex Rickard, Jack Gleason and the others interested, all seem to be balled up in a muddle. Rickard has chosen Salt Lake City, Utah, as the scene of the battle and, despite the statement of the governor of Utah that a forty-five round mill cannot be pulled off within his bailiwick, has rented the big Salt Air arena, giving, it is said, a contract to the owners to hold up his end. This place has a seating capacity of 50,000 and would be pretty good for the purpose.

With almost as much emphasis as Rickard, however, Gleason is dispensing bulletins to the effect that San Francisco or its vicinity is going to be the favored section.

Besides quarreling about the place to fight, the promoters are mud slinging one another about the money part. It is said that only $20,000 of the $101,000 guarantee has been put up. Those who are shy in the pot are being overhauled by those who have advanced the little remnants.

What do you know about it? Is it going to be held or not? Stallers? Dopesters? Pikers? Eh?

MUSUDA CRACK ATHLETE.

Japanese Student at Harvard Makes Good Record In Gymnasium Test.

Mongolian athletes are certainly coming to the front very rapidly of late. Within the last few months three have shone prominently in the sporting world. Kao Chow Li, the Chinese student at Harvard, gives great promise of developing into a crack sprinter and high jumper. En Sue, another Chinaman in Honolulu, has been burning up the cinder path with his great speed. Coupled with this is the all around athletic ability of Musuda, the Jap at Harvard university. Members of the University of Wisconsin baseball team which made the trip to the orient last summer and which was beaten by the Kelo university team say that the Flowery Kingdom has any number of crack baseball tossers.

For the last five years there has been an annual novice gymnastic meet at Harvard for the benefit of those men who on account of their class in the university are unable to compete for the gym team and for those who are not quite good enough for the team. A competitor is required to show his skill on the parallel bars, the horses, the flying rings, the ladders, the ropes and at tumbling and similar features. If a competitor is perfect in every branch he scores 450 points.

Musuda, a Japanese boy, in the last meet scored 320 points. The man who won second place scored 270 points. The third man scored 142.6 points. Besides being a crack gymnast, Musuda is a star socker football player and a good baseball tosser.

FUTURE SPORT EVENTS

Omaha, Neb., will hold a big indoor track meet March 15.

Canadian curlers have been asked to compete at Switzerland in March.

Bill Lange, the Australian heavyweight champion, is expected to arrive in San Francisco Feb. 15.

Ian Hague, the English heavyweight champion, will sail for this country about the middle of February.

Columbia oarsmen and track and field athletes will meet the Navy on water and field at Annapolis on May 7.

CONQUERING POVERTY

What Trades Unions Have Done to Lessen Human Misery.

SOCIAL UPLIFT THEIR AIM.

Dr. Warne Gives Credit to Organized Labor For Its Work In the Prevention of Poverty by the Removal of Its Dominant Causes.

Dr. Frank Julian Warne, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and long an earnest student of social and industrial questions, takes up in the current number of the Metropolitan Magazine in the course of his study of "The Conquest of Poverty" the particular part played in that warfare by the labor unions. He takes the general position that the primary and dominant causes of poverty are not individual or social defects of character, but those economic forces over which the individual victim usually has no control, and he makes the claim that it is chiefly to the labor unions that the credit is due for the prevention of poverty by the removal of its causes—that is, the regulation of factory management, the provision of safety appliances and the general enforcement of better sanitary conditions. The record of death and casualty in the industries of the country is briefly reviewed, and authorities are quoted to show that were the same precautions taken and care exercised as in certain foreign countries a vast proportion of the accidents would be avoided and thousands of human lives saved.

From this Dr. Warne is led to a consideration of the movement for a change in the American law and practice concerning the employers' liability for accidents to workers, and he says that the brunt of the struggle for the prevention of industrial accidents is being borne by the labor unions. In this connection he gives the following table, not as a complete showing of the relief work of labor organizations, but as a suggestion of what is being done:

FEDERATION UNIONS.

Death benefits	$1,257,244.29
Sick benefits	553,541.34
Unemployed benefits	295,254.31
Traveling benefits	51,052.86
Death benefits (members' wives)	31,390.09
Tool insurance	5,871.63
Total	$2,144,395.43
Strike benefits	2,550,000.00
Total	$4,694,395.43
Railway brotherhoods	5,000,000.00
Grand total	$9,694,395.43

An interesting feature of Dr. Warne's article is the statement which he presents as showing the attitude of the unions on the subject. Thus he quotes John Mitchell, ex-president of the United Mine Workers, as saying:

To understand what the trades unions are doing to combat poverty it is necessary to consider the causes of poverty. Poverty is the result of unemployment, low wages, disease, accident and misfortune. The trades unions have sought, with marked success, to remove poverty by securing for the wage earners a rate of wages sufficiently high to enable workmen and their families to live in a manner conformable to American standards. They (the unions) have accumulated large funds which are used to relieve workmen and their families who may be in distress as a result of accident, death, sickness or unemployment. Last year there was paid for the relief of the unemployed members of trades unions out of the funds in the union treasuries not less than $5,000,000. This expenditure does not include several millions of dollars paid in strike and lockout benefits.

James Duncan, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor, in his statement of labor's campaign against poverty enumerates the reduction of the working hours per day and the increase of wages as the most important contributions toward the cause, and he adds:

I contend that the recurrence of panics has been changed by trades unions reducing working hours per day and to three-quarters or two-thirds instead of full time, so as to keep all employed; also in refusing to reduce wages during dull times.

Again, experience proves that the toiler who is not overworked and who receives fair compensation for his labor is a sober, thrifty living citizen, which fact gives him a better chance to guard against poverty. Thus again, prevention being better than a cure, we score. Judged from any standpoint, trades unions are performing their share in the campaign against poverty.

Union to Establish a Loan Fund.

Minneapolis Typographical union No. 42 is considering a new constitution and bylaws, a most important feature of which is the establishment of a loan fund for needy members. This is being established to circumvent the loan sharks who have preyed on workingmen in that city. Under the proposed law members will be able to borrow up to $50 if they can get three sureties, and loans must be paid back in weekly installments. A member securing a loan of $50 is required to pay into the treasury $2.50 a week, for $25 he must pay $1.50, while for $10 and less borrowers are required to reimburse the treasury at the rate of $1 a week until the full amount of the loan is paid. While there is no fixed interest charge, borrowers are required to pay $2 for a $50 loan, but there is no additional fee except a penalty of 25 cents a week for defaulted payments. The revenue derived from fixed charges and penalties brings the rate of profit up to about 10 per cent a year.

Badge of Mourning Suggested.

In a letter to Sam De Nedrey, which was published in the Washington Trades Unionist, D. G. Biggs urges workingmen to place crape upon their hats should President Gompers, Secretary Morrison and Vice President Mitchell of the American Federation of Labor be committed to jail in the contempt case and to wear it until they are again at liberty.

THOMAS J. LYNCH.

New President of National League an Umpire For Many Years.

The selection recently of Thomas J. Lynch for president of the National Baseball league places a most capable man at the head of this organization, his many years of work on the diamond highly fitting him for the position. He is a native of New Britain, Conn., where he was born fifty-one years ago, and became a dyed in the wool fan at an early age. In 1885 he took up baseball as a profession, becoming an umpire, and handled his first game in the New England league. His work was so satisfactory that he was appointed to the National league's staff by former President Young and for years worked in that capacity.

Veteran critics regard Lynch as the best umpire that ever called balls and strikes. He was a stickler for the rules and ruled the rowdies with an iron hand, and he had a stormy time of it all over the circuit. He remained on the National league staff until 1891, when he laid off a year. President Young finally induced him to return, and he went along smoothly until 1895.

Then at the New York Polo grounds he fined George Davis and Jack Doyle of the Giants $100 each for disorderly conduct. The president of the New York club took sides with the players, and Lynch resigned from the umpire staff. He came back later and did splendid work, but in a game played by the Giants in Boston he got into another tangle with Doyle.

After that Lynch tired of the game and went into the theatrical business.

—There are tools called shovels and tools called spades but either or both can be used for the same purpose and the same thing is true of organizations. It does not always matter what you call them but what are you going to do with them.—Weymouth Gazette.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 24 No. 34 QUINCY, MASS., WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 9, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

CITY ESTIMATES IN EXCESS OF LIMIT

Big Increases Asked for Public Works and in the School Department.

Grand Total About $40,000 Larger Than in 1909.

The grand total of the estimates of the Mayor and School Committee for the city appropriations of 1910 is $684,021 compared with appropriations of $644,785 in 1909, an increase of $39,236. On the same assessed valuation as last year, $29,811,565, the tax rate for city purposes in 1910 would be over $1.30 more than in 1909.

The increases asked by the Mayor inside the $12 per $1000 limit amount to $28,058, aside from maintainance of water and sewer departments and interest on temporary loans. The School Committee asks for $9,514 additional, a total increase of $37,572 to be provided for within the limit.

In 1009 the Mayor told us in his inaugural address that $339,393 was the limit for 1909; and in his recent address he said the limit was $375,695 for 1910. While the limit has increased but $36,302, the estimates have increased $37,572, and must be scaled down a little; the more the better.

In the Mayor's budget there are 66 items, and 33 are increased over 1909 while 26 are unchanged and 10 are reduced. The largest increases are in the Department of Public Works, $5,800 for bridges, culverts and drains $4,800 for street lighting, $4,000 for general highway expenses, $3,000 for removal of snow, $1,000 for watering or oiling streets and $500 for repairs of public building, a total of $19,100 in one department.

The increases asked by the School Committee are largely for salaries of teachers, but more is needed for janitors, supplies, fuel and evening schools.

The comparison by the Daily Ledger of Tuesday, item by item, afforded a chance for an interesting study.

MASQUERADED AS WOMAN

Cost Him However a Fine of Ten Dollars

Shortly after 8.30 Tuesday evening Officer Olsen had his attention attracted to the queer actions of a man and woman near the corner of Washington and Canal streets. Both were evidently under the influence of liquor and having the time of their lives. Upon approaching them the officer was somewhat amazed to find that the supposed woman had a heavy black mustache and between her lips was a long black pipe at which she was puffing with great delight.

Officer Olsen called up the wagon and sent the woman to the police station for drunkenness. There, some explanation was made. It appears that in Italy the 8th day of February is known as all fools' day and it is the custom for the men to masquerade as women and cut up all sorts of capers and the two Quincy Italians were simply carrying out the old country idea.

The supposed woman gave her name as Annena DePadro. In court after hearing the story the court imposed a fine of $10, which the man paid.

TALK FOR BOYS.

The boys of the Atlantic, Wollaston and South Quincy clubs and Y. M. C. A. are to have a rare treat at the Association building tonight at 7.30. Capt. John Ryan of West Newton is to tell of his experiences and memories of the great Indian wars and the Custer massacre. Mr. Ryan has lectured to several men's clubs throughout the State, and has a most interesting and vivid story of those terrible days. Every boy that has the opportunity of hearing such a man should take advantage of it and be on hand.

QUINCY CHORAL SOCIETY.

There was a very large attendance at the Tuesday evening rehearsal of the Quincy Choral Society, this being the last evening meeting before the concert of Feb. 15. It has been a season enjoyed by all and of great interest to the singers who have certainly given their best efforts to the work, and they may well be proud of the fact that their ability makes it possible for the "Messiah" concert to include the most difficult choruses in the score, a number of which are usually omitted by societies of greater prominence than our own.

HOW STATE CUTS BILLS

Not Willing to Pay Actual Expenses for State Charges

Quincy was well represented at the State House on Tuesday at the hearing before the Committee on Public Health in favor of the bill known as House Bill 868, relative to the compensation for caring for persons infected with contagious diseases. The bill proposes an amendment to Section 1 of Chapter 213 of 1902. The principal change in the bill is the substitution of the word "actual" for the word "reasonable" in the first line. The proposed bill is as follows:

Section 1. The ACTUAL expense incurred by the board of health of a city or town or by the commonwealth in making the provision required by law for persons infected with smallpox or other disease dangerous to the public health shall be paid by such person or his parents if he or they be able to pay, otherwise by the city or town in which he has a legal settlement, upon the approval of the bill by the board of health of such city or town or by the state board of charity; and such settlements shall be determined by the overseers of the poor and by the state board of charity in cases cared for by the commonwealth. If the person has no settlement, such expense shall be paid by the commonwealth upon the approval of bills therefor by the state board of charity. In all cases of persons having settlements, a written notice sent within the time required in the case of aid given to paupers shall be sent by the board of health, or by the officer or board having the powers of a board of health in the city or town where the person is sick, to the board of health, or to the officer or board having the powers of a board of health in the city or town in which such person has a settlement, who shall forthwith transmit a copy thereof to the overseers of the poor of the place of settlement. In case the person has no settlement, such notice shall be given to the state board of health in accordance with the provisions of section fifty-two of chapter seventy-five of the Revised Laws.

Section 2. Section one of chapter two hundred and thirteen of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and two, as amended by section one of chapter three hundred and eighty-six of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and seven, is hereby repealed.

Section 3. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

The real merit of the bill lies in the word "actual." Under the present law towns and cities are supposed to be reembursed for amounts paid for the care of State charges. The present bill which says that they shall be paid reasonable expense incurred is considered unfair.

To site one of the many cases that have come under the Overseer of the Poor of Quincy wil give an idea of the working of the present act. There was a case at Quincy Point where the

GATHERING THE NEWS

Associated Press Man Tells How It Is Done

The monthly meeting of the Wollaston Unitarian club was held in the vestry on Tuesday evening. William U. Swan, city editor of the Associated Press in Boston, spoke o n"The collection and distribution of news."

The race for news, said Mr. Swan, is like a yacht race, and while I will not say the Associated Press is ahead in every instance, I will say it is the leading boat.

The work is interesting and not monotonous, as it does not dwell long upon any particular subject. It requires, however, hard and vigorous work. The letters A. P., standing for the Associated Press, have aptly been renamed "Always Present." It is an organization of much magnitude and has a firm grip upon the pulse of mankind. It reaches from one hemisphere to the other, from the North to the South Pole, and reports the joys and sorrows of this life of ours from an impartial news standpoint.

Mr. Swan related the receipt of the bulletin of Dr. Cook's discovery of the pole on September 1, at 11.50 A. M. In two hours, he said, all the Associated Press newspapers had a story of from two to three hundred words containing this and the opinions of prominent explorers upon the same.

The speaker told of Dr. Cook's story, copyrighted by the New York Herald, and used by a syndicate of newspapers. This story was not copyrighted in Europe, and the Associated Press translated it and cabled it to this country; the story, owing to a favorable difference in time, reaching the Boston newspapers of the Associated Press as soon as those in the syndicate.

The mutual cooperative idea in the collection of news, said Mr. Swan, was inaugurated early in the last century by Samuel Toplift in Boston. In 1848 the first Associated Press was formed. This was broken up and again united during the Civil war. There are at present 900 papers in this country, Canada and Mexico which are members of it.

Leased wires which radiate from New York were spoken of, and the receipt of foreign news mentioned. To a Havana newspaper 400 words are sent each day, in the summer, 200 of which concern baseball. Speaking of the condensation of news and the code system, Mr. Swan told of several instances among them "cks" which means committed suicide. "Ckx jay" means blew out the gas.

In illustration of the news bulletins he read one received by the Associated Press that night. This stated that Dr. Cook had been discovered in Bermuda by a member of the Buswick club of New York. You will probably, said Mr. Swan, read of this in tomorrow morning's papers. Other bulletins mentioned were the assassination of McKinley, the San Francisco earthquake, wreck of the Republic, and others.

For the last 20 years the transcript of the president's message has been received 24 to 72 hours in advance and held by the newspapers until released. Presidents, said Mr. Swan, are an awful bother. One time when Mr. Roosevelt left the reporters for only half an hour he came near getting killed in an accident. Since then our reporters have been with him constantly, and we now have one accompanying him in Africa. Taft is easier to follow. Mr. Swan related many interesting personal anecdotes of Taft at Beverly, the visit of Prince Henry and the peace conference at Portsmouth. He told of finding out the decisions of a secret session of the Republican convention in Chicago, during which the anti-injunction plank fight was on.

Melville E. Stone, manager of the Associated Press and now on his fourth trip around the world, was eulogized, and spoken of as the man most acquainted with the news of the world, and having a larger acquaintance among the rulers of Europe and prominent men of this country than any one individual.

In our work it is the problem of serving the many and not the few. It must appeal to a wide and not a limited class. The Associated Press endeavors to place itself where the whole world whirls before it, and attempts to interpret the world every hour in the day and every day in the year.

President Edward Southworth of the Bethany Men's club was a guest and invited the club members and their friends to a memorial service of Lincoln to be held by the club on Monday evening.

Rev. W. S. Key, the first pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church, was also present. Mr. Key is engaged in sociological work in North Carolina and made a long speech concerning life as he found it there.

RECITAL AT WOLLASTON.

A large number attended the recital of Tuesday evening at the Congregational church at Wollaston given by Mildred Sheldon Bass, reader; Edna Goodell, soprano; and Ernest W. Harrison, pianist. The readings covered a wide range of character study and situations, including the three acts from "Esmeralda," and Miss Bass showed great proficiency and delighted those present. Miss Goodell was also down for three numbers and her solos were very pleasing. Well known ladies of Wollaston were patronesses.

LABOR LEGISLATION.

Senator Hultman was the guest of the Brotherhood of the Water Street Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. During the first part of the evening there was a social hour, after which Senator Hultman gave the brotherhood a talk on special labor legislation. The address or talk was an interesting one and gave his hearers an insight into some of the proposed labor bills now before the Legislature. Refreshments were served after the address.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

A more beautiful Quincy is now the watchword.

That street crossing sweeper in City square could use his broom with good effect on some of the sidewalks. The accumulation of dust and sand is pretty deep.

Quincy policemen seem to be alive to the pony express situation. It is hoped fewer licenses will be granted in the future and that those granted will be followed up to see that the law is complied with.

Monday night's meeting of the City Council was a lengthy one as shown in the report in Tuesday's Ledger but the subjects discussed were of great importance and not to be passed lightly over. Voters should read reports of the Council doings and see if the councilmen who represent them are casting their influence as they would do in their place and if the interests of the city are considered above everything else.

Frank Fessenden Crane, Quincy's water front commissioner is becoming a much sought after man not alone by men but by the women's clubs, all wishing to hear what he can tell of inland waterways. It is proving to be one of the big topics of the day and Mr. Crane is so well posted that he is much in demand as a lecturer. He spoke at the Monday club in Weymouth this week and the ladies said they would have liked to have heard him longer.

It is a pity more of our citizens could not have heard the lecture given Tuesday afternoon in First Church chapel by Henry Turner Bailey. The lecture was in the regular series of afternoon meetings of the Quincy Women's club and was therefore not open to the public. We would suggest that the various organizations get together and invite Mr. Bailey to come again some evening and give every one an opportunity to hear what he has to say about "A more beautiful Quincy." We can stand several repetitions of the subject.

EARLY ITALIAN ART.

In response to Mrs. Willard's invitation there was a large gathering in Livermore hall at the Quincy Mansion school to enjoy a lecture by Mrs. Everett C. Bumpus on "Perugia" Mrs. Bumpus spoke of early Italian art as studied by her on an automobile trip through the hill towns of Italy. She made quite a stay at Perugia and being an artist was enabled to appreciate the beauties of the town more than the ordinary traveler.

She spoke first of the Etruscan tombs outside the town; monuments of Etruscan art of the middle ages. The lecture was illustrated by the stereopticon. Mrs. Bumpus told of the great school of painting, the dominating saints, the struggles between the popes and nobles. The pictures illustrated the Umbrian school of painting which was one of great religious beauty; Raphael's Granduca Madonna being the finest example.

The lecture was an hour long, was interestingly given and well illustrated. Mrs. Bumpus received appreciative applause at the close. She is leaving the last of the week for Washington where she is to give a series of talks on early Italian art.

MASSACHUSETTS EDITORS.

The members of the Massachusetts Press Association held the annual meeting and reunion on Monday at Court hall, Huntington avenue, Boston, nearly 100 newspapers being represented. The election resulted in the choice of these officers: President, John C. Brimblecomb, Newton Graphic; vice-president, William White, Mansfield News; Lewis R. Hovey, Haverhill Criterion and Charles S. Parker, Arlington Advocate; secretary, William J. Heffernan, Spencer Leader; treasurer, Thomas Leavitt, Dorchester Beacon; auditor, Louis L. F. Langelier, Quincy, Popular Educator; Historian, Charles C. Doten, Old Colony Memorial, Plymouth.

Nearly five hours were spent about the festive board. A ladies orchestra furnished music while the menu was being served. The addresses which followed were interspersed with vocal and instrumental music, readings and stories. The chief address was by J. B. Lewis, the National patriotic instructor of the Grand Army. Representatives of different Boston dailies also spoke and recalled reminiscences. Resolutions were passed inappreciation of the services of George C. Fairbanks as president for four years.

HORNE—SADLER.

A pretty wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Estes, 42 Chester street, on Monday evening when Miss Lillian I. Sadler became the bride of Karl E. Horne. The marriage was performed by Rev. Joseph Walther under an arch and wedding bell, the double ring service being used. The bride was clad in white princess costume with veil and carried bridal roses. The wedding was a quiet one, the couple being unattended and only immediate relatives being present. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played by Mrs. Orvillle Estes. After a short honeymoon the couple will make their home in Nashua, N. H., which was the home of both. Mr. Horne is a brother of Mrs. E. V. Estes.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The average daily attendance at the public schools for the month of January was in excess of 5526, the High, Lincoln and Massachusetts Fields buildings having the best percentages. Supt. Barbour's report follows:

VALENTINE SUPPER.

St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church held its third annual Valentine supper, entertainment and dance on Friday evening, February 4th. The Parish house and tables were prettily decorated with hearts. In the center of each table was a large rose holding a favor for each guest.

There were about 175 present. Rev. Mr. Armstrong asked grace and at the close of the supper gave a few words of greeting. An entertainment followed, consisting of singing and reading, the president of the Guild, Miss Edith Fox announcing the numbers on the program: Mr. Joseph Marraja Frauenfelder of Quincy, accompanied on the piano by Miss Day, sang several songs, and Miss Marion Gertrude Webster of Emerson college, Boston read one of the Belinda stories, entitled "The Dark Man in her life" by Elsie Hoyt Brainerd; followed by "Life's Mirrow." Both entertainers were well received by the audience.

After the entertainment dancing was enjoyed the pianist being Mrs. Effie Rhines of Quincy.

The evening was in charge of a committee of which the following young ladies served as chairmen; entertainment committee Miss Nellie Drummond; supper committee—Miss Della Jones; decoration—Miss Emily Moyle; ticket—Miss Lizzie Dickey and table—Miss Gertrude Jones.

HUNT FOR SOUTH POLE

It Will Be Undertaken by the National Geographic Society

Washington, Feb. 9.—America has decided to seek for South Pole laurels similar to those won for her by Commander Peary at the North Pole.

The National Geographic society has resolved to send an expedition in search for the South Pole, provided the necessary funds can be raised. It is not believed that there will be any lack on this score.

Captain Bartlett, who was in command of the steamer Roosevelt on the trip to the North Pole, probably will be placed in charge of the expedition into the Antarctic regions. With the exception of Commander Peary, the members of the expedition will be the same as those who returned last year from the frozen north.

—One can hardly understand the kind of women who flock to the Cambridge court house and struggle and wrestle with each other to gain admission to the Probate court to hear every detail of the contest of the Glover will. It must be something more discreditable than mere curiosity.—Waltham Press.

MADE ERRORS PURPOSELY

Hall Tried Hard to Get Caught Stealing Bank Funds

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 9.—John A. Hall, ex-treasurer of the Southbridge Savings bank, has told for the first time how he had stolen nearly a million dollars in twenty years.

From his cell in the Worcester jail he gave out the following confession:

"I was unfortunate in investments which appeared to be gilt-edged when I took them on. That's the cause of the losses of the Southbridge Savings bank. When I first began to use the bank's money I was successful, but after that I lost. It preyed on my mind and three years ago I began to try to get caught so as to have it all over.

"Two years ago I deliberately went away and remained most of the summer, hoping that the condition of the books would be discovered.

"I left glaring errors behind in a way to attract attention, but they were overlooked, and I returned to Southbridge disappointed to find no notice had been taken of what I had intended to be an exposure.

"Another time I went to Boston and remained three days, leaving papers and glaring entries in my books which a blind man could hardly have overlooked. I expected every moment to hear that the whole thing had been revealed, but when I returned to Southbridge nobody seemed to have made any discovery, and so it went along. I hoped and expected that the discovery would be made.

"I suffered keenly all of that time. It weighed on my mind all of the time. For two years I have tried to have some one examine the books. I have made personal application to the bank directors to have the books examined, and I have talked the matter over time and again, but it is true that aside from my anxiety to have the books examined I gave no hint of their condition, as I did not have the courage to confess.

"Several years ago a relative and I made $40,000 each in the South station deal in Poston. It was a capital investment and the profit was large, compared with the amount invested. After this, when other investments offered I took them on and made a small profit. Then I developed a losing streak, which has hung to me.

"I patronized Boston and New York brokerage houses to some extent, losing many times where I thought profit was certain. I took little sums from the bank at first to finance fresh investments in the hope of retrieving my fortune. Then from bad, things went to worse.

"No one seemed to take an interest in the bank. No questions were asked and the thing went on from year to year.

"It was easy to get the money. Being 'a good fellow' cost me lots of money. It was one of my principal failings. Money came easy, but it went easier. Investments were easy to find, but it was hard to make them pay.

"The hardest thing to do was to get caught. I tried different methods. I urged President Paige that the books of every bank should be examined, no matter in how good shape the bank appeared to be. I made the same request and argument to other bank officials.

"All this time I suffered mentally as I had never thought a man could suffer. The sufferings from conscience are worse than those from bodily injuries.

"My mental condition led to gossip starting about my dissipating. The gossips were wrong. I did not drink to excess. It was the constant nightmare in my brain day and night, sleeping and awake, until my face looked careworn and dissipated.

"When I went away for a time I knew I would come back and face the penalty. If the charge had been murder I would have returned to see my family. I am anxious now to have the thing settled and pay the penalty. I have no excuse except as I have said."

The shortage amounts to $424,442.89 and covers a period of twenty years. As Hall stole only $100,000 in the past six years that is all he can be held accountable for by the statute of limitations.

RECALLS OWN DEAD BOY

Divorce Epistle Causes Aged Attorney to Break Down In Court

Portland, Me., Feb. 9.—Breaking down in tears when the case at hand reminded him of his own little one he had lost years ago, Enoch Foster, formerly a member of the Maine supreme court, was so overcome with emotion in the supreme judicial court room that Justice Peabody, who was presiding, consented to postpone further hearing on the matter for two days.

Judge Foster at the time was reading a letter from a mother to her husband, from whom she is now seeking a divorce, concerning their little boy, who had died.

This reminded the aged attorney of the loss of his own child, and he was so overcome with emotion that he requested a postponement of the trial.

To Remove Paper From Stamps.

Old stamps as they are purchased usually have a part of the envelope from which they are taken sticking to them, and in removing this paper many valuable stamps are torn or ruined. Place all the stamps that are stuck to pieces of envelopes in hot water, and in a short time they can be separated without injury. Dry the stamps between two white blotters.

MODERN HAIR DRESSING

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

At the meeting of the Monday club of Weymouth in Masonic hall this week Rev. Melvin S. Nash spoke on the "Doings of the Legislature" and Frank Fessenden Crane of Quincy on "Inland Waterways." The ladies showed considerable interest in both subjects.

Owing to several other attractions the Junior Friday club meeting on Monday afternoon was not as largely attended as usual. The hostess was Miss Etta M. Prescott and the program committee Mrs. William Whitney.

The biweekly meeting of the Atlantic Study club was postponed in order that the members might attend the lecture by Mrs. Bumpus of the Quincy Mansion school on Tuesday night. The courtesy of Mrs. Willard was greatly appreciated for the subject was of especial interest to the members, much of the ground having been covered in the previous year's work.

ADAMS CHAPTER D. R.

A very pleasant and well attended meeting of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution was held Monday afternoon at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club. The regent presided during the short business session and dispensed hospiality during the social hour serving tea and sandwiches.

The next meeting which will be held the first Monday in March, will be the annual with the election of officers. The present regent Miss Prescott, who has served nearly three years has asked the nominating not to use her name for reelection, not because of lack of interest but because of a multiplicity of other duties.

Action was taken on the death of Mrs. Flora Adams Darling, a member who has taken an active interest in the chapter and was the original founder of the National society and well known throughout the country. The meeting broke up at four o'clock.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Not only clubwomen but a few men were present at the regular meeting of the Quincy Women's club on Tuesday afternoon in First church chapel. Among the men were noticed W. G. Shaw, Elisha Packard, James Edwards, Henry M. Faxon, E. W. Branch, Charles Bickford and Charles H. Hardwick.

Promptly at half past two Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney called the meeting together for the business session. Reports were given by the recording secretary and treasurer, followed by reports of chairmen of committees. Mrs. Tenney for the Arts and Crafts told of classes forming in dressmaking, jewelry, basketry and millinery. Mrs. Shaw for the Civic committee spoke of a lecture to be given at the club-house on Feb. 15. Mrs. Mackay of the Education committee spoke of Capt. Bartlett's lecture.

Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham the club's delegate to the Federation meeting in Boston gave a good report in detail of the meeting bringing out all the special points of work and thought.

Mrs. Gurney announced that the five years' lease of the clubhouse would expire in May and renewing the lease would be discussed at the next meeting.

Mrs. Worster president of the Monday club of Weymouth and also an active member of the Quincy club extended an invitation to club members to attend the next meeting of the Monday club on Feb. 21, when Pasifal would be presented, well illustrated and with good music. An East Weymouth car would take the ladies right to the hall.

Mrs. Gurney for the program, committee said that possibly there was some misunderstanding about the character of the entertainment for the next meeting on Feb. 22. It is a play "Votes for Women" written by Elizabeth Robbins. It is interesting, humorous and thoroughly enjoyable. It will be read by Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth.

The afternoon's program opened with a group of songs by a club member Miss Alice Gertrude Coe, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, which were received with pleasure and appreciative applause. Mr. Henry Turner Bailey the speaker of the afternoon was introduced by Mrs. W. G. Shaw of the Civic committee who arranged the program. Mr. Bailey was assisted at the steropticon by Herbert Johnson.

In his introductory Mr. Bailey said his subject "A More Beautiful Quincy was significant of the times. Up to now we had been too busy to be beautiful. The masses thought nothing of beauty until the Centennial at Philadelphia in 1872. For several years after that there were ugly buildings and furniture in abundance. With the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893 came new ideals. People who visited the "white city" awoke to its beauty and took home with them thoughts of more beautiful buildings and boulevards. The country seemed to awaken to civic needs—it became a live topic.

Quincy occupies first place historically how does it stand as to beauty and civic pride? It was naturally beautiful.

To have a more attractive town it was only necessary to get one man or woman interested. Hunt up the man and when found, it was essential that he be allowed to go ahead. He should be backed by an organization or committee. Quincy seemed to have enough organization—there was the Board of Trade, Citizens Association, the Merchants' Association men's clubs in the churches and women's clubs. Should get together by representaton and back the executive officer. Arouse public sentiment. No one likes to be improved, but will cheerfully help improve others. Commend what has already been done.

The first thing to help in civic improvement was official stationery. It pleased your neighbor to be told how beautifully he keeps his lawn but if he were to receive a letter of commendation on the official stationery it would set him up and he would feel proud of the letter. Official recognition would help beautify Quincy.

Mr. Bailey said it was dusty in Quincy and there were papers blowing about. He recommended waste barrels. Should be concerted movement to clean up city. Inlist the school children, not by force but by cooperation. Offer prizes for gardens, make a specialty of back yards. Give prizes for photographs of the city. Have size of pictures regulated by librarian and have them exhibited at the library. They would be of benefit to next generation and do much toward a more beautiful city.

Mr. Bailey favored consulting an expert and planning now for the city of years to come. St. Marks square in Venice was the most beautiful in the world. Another was the square in Brussels, started in 1508 and finished 300 years later. That is the way they do things abroad,—in this country no one seems to care.

In Quincy there should be a comprehensive plan and a good architect. There is Faxon park, Merrymount park, the Ward 3 playground, State boulevards which will connect the parks some day.

What is the personalty of Quincy? Is its home (City Hall) the finest residence in the place and on the finest lot? Mr. Bailey approved of the old Hancock cemetery said it was a beautiful spot.

He thought the present City Hall would make a fine museum some day for old relics, etc. He would have a better front yard for the city that is he would clean out the stable back of City hall, also the buildings in front of the depot and have walks and park way, also dispense with wooden buildings along Hancock, Temple and Washington streets. In fact he would go back to the old "training field" of years ago. Quincy has a great opportunity for a fine civic centre with the beautiful library, post office, church, Coddington school and broad City square.

Now was the time to get to work because we all know how prices double over night. Just let it be known the city wishes land for a school house or the like and how the prices soar. People are so patriotic.

It is a good idea to get in touch with things politically—see that no elm trees are cut down, or that the park commissioners do not do foolish things in the parks.

Newspapers always seem ready to help. He would suggest a column each week on civic beauty. Mr. Bailey offered the following as a suggestion for the first newspaper article:

"Little beds of flowers
Little pots of paint
Make a pretty cottage
Out of one that aint"

The last half of Mr. Bailey's lecture was illustrated by the stereopticon and although the pictures were not of Quincy they were so similar to some that could be found here that they served the speaker's purpose admirably in illustrating his points. The unsightly back yards, dumps, buildings and fences covered with billboards, waterfront views, roads and bridges were shown as they exist all through this country and in contrast were shown the way they do it abroad. There are no back yards abroad, no dumps, no billboards except in locations granted by the city.

The lecture was listened to attentively and was thoroughly enjoyed. That there is room for improvement along civic lines in Quincy no one doubts and Mr. Bailey's forceful and comprehensive ideas should serve as a starting point in the work. There should be a getting together and a plan formulated for beginning a civic center in Quincy and a broadening out in the future.

The next meeting will be at the clubhouse on Feb. 22 at half past two.

A New Breed of Corn.

Last year a small lot of shelled corn of a kind new to this country was sent to the department of agriculture from Shanghai, says Scientific American. It proved to have qualities that may make it valuable in breeding a corn adapted to the hot and dry conditions of the southwest. The plants raised in the test averaged less than six feet in height, with an average of twelve green leaves at the time of tasseling. The ears averaged five and one-half inches in length and four and one-third inches in greatest circumference, with sixteen to eighteen rows of small grains. On the upper part of the plant the leaves are all on one side of the stalk instead of being arranged in two rows on opposite sides. Besides this, the upper leaves stand erect instead of drooping, and the tips of the leaves are therefore above the top of the tassel. The silks of the ear are produced at the point where the leaf blade is joined to the leaf sheath, and they appear before there is any sign of an ear, except a slight swelling.

Carpenters Well Fixed.

The International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners' financial statement for October shows that the receipts for the month were $46,534.61. Death and disability claims aggregating $17,914.90 were paid. The donations to unions on strike or in litigation amounted to $1,800, of which $1,000 was to the New York District council. The balance on hand, including $100,000 in real estate, was $451,150.52.

PLANS OF THE WRIGHT BROTHERS

Aviators to Use Funds From Exhibitions In Tests.

WILBUR TELLS OF THEIR HOPES

Their Work, He Says, From Now on Will Be Experimental, Both In the Laboratory and In the Air—How They Expect to Improve Their Machine—To Encourage Experimenting.

Wilbur Wright, the aviator, does not smoke. He does like to fool a little time away with highly striped ice cream. He was enjoying his favorite dissipation surrounded by his counsel, H. A. Toulmin of Springfield, O., and Pliny W. Williamson and J. B. Smith of New York city. A reporter lingering near was waiting for the aviator to satisfy his taste before inquiring into his plans. The place was the Underwriters' club, New York, the time early afternoon of a recent day.

"An odd thing happened in our office a little while ago," said Mr. Williamson. "A man from Indiana unfolded a scheme in which he solicited our cooperation. He said he came to us because we are counsel for the Wright company and he was promoting something that he thought we would like to handle on that account. He called it the National Mausoleum company—something new in apartment burial houses was its strong feature—and"—

"The Wright company will not have the kind of byproducts that that chap needs to make his patent mausoleum pay," said Mr. Wright, enjoying the incident.

Planning For Experiments.

Continuing in a serious manner, the aviator said:

"The whole problem of aeronautics calls for the conservation of the means that will make further experimental work possible. If flying machines can be made absolutely safe there will be no difficulty about finding a market for them. To do that will require experimentation; to carry on experiments takes money. Where is the money to come from? Not from the sale of machines for a year or two.

"The profits derived from satisfying the public curiosity in all the big cities of the country will enable my brother and I to develop the art. Such money should be conserved for the development of flying machines, and it is our intention to make such use, to a considerable extent, of moneys received from such exhibitions."

He added that neither he nor his brother would personally exhibit the Wright machines. Several men trained for that purpose at his company's aviation field in Florida would give the public exhibitions.

Mr. Wright will select a testing field in Florida. Sheds will be immediately constructed, and when everything is complete several aeroplanes will be shipped from the Wright factory at Dayton, O., and the two brothers will devote their time between now and spring in giving instruction to those aviators who remain to be selected.

Their Hopes and Intentions.

"They say you will choke the art if your patents are upheld in the courts," was suggested.

"Let men who pretend to fear such a result work as we did down at Kitty Hawk," he replied. "I don't suppose there will be very many lawsuits brought by our company against men working for the development of the art. We never fussed with Herring or Curtiss while they were experimenting. We feel we have a right to proceed against a man who copies our machine and uses it for exhibition purposes or uses it for his personal pleasure to avoid having to buy a Wright machine. It is to our interest to encourage all experimental work. 'Choking the art' is furthest from our minds. If we can keep the other fellows who have infringed our patents from taking all the cream there'll be more butter made in the end."

He epitomized the hopes and intentions of himself and his brother by saying, that the formation of the Wright company would enable them to do the experimental kind of flying they did at Kitty Hawk, N. C., before 1905.

"Our work from now on will be experimental—in the laboratory and in the air," he said. "Since 1905 we have been so busy catching trains, so to speak, that, in a broad sense, we were able then to do as well as we are able to do now. We think we can improve on our machine now that we shall have the time. Increased safety, added carrying capacity and one or two things that I am not at liberty to speak of are in prospect."

Ready Money Club.

Chicago has a new organization that may soon have a counterpart in New York city if the receivers of Manhattan's car lines go on increasing the number of pay-as-you-enter cars. The Windy City, report has it, now has a Ready Money club, one of the rules of which is "mount the steps of the street car with a five cent piece grasped firmly in the hand, press the coin into the expectant palm of the conductor and pass rapidly into the car." Anybody who has had to stand in half a foot of muddy ice water at a New York corner while a dozen slow people had bills changed by the fare taker ought to be willing to promote such a philanthropic scheme in New York.

Street Railways of India.

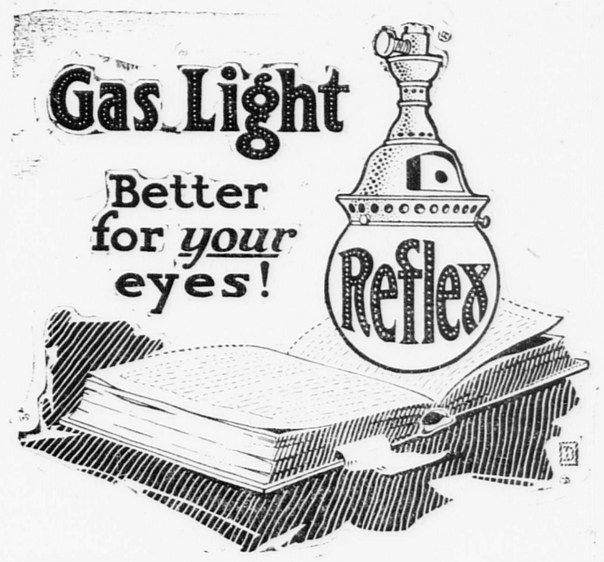

The Electric Railway Journal calls attention to the many problems which arose in modernizing the traction system of Bombay. As the average daily income of the inhabitants is but 25 cents, 5 cent fares are out of the question. The fare is 2 cents for a seven mile ride, while the average fare is 1 anna, or 1 1-3 cents. In order to withstand the ravages of insects special varieties of wood had to be used in the cars and track system. Even the overhead system had to be modified so as to permit of the passage of the tall shrines used by the natives in their religious pageants.

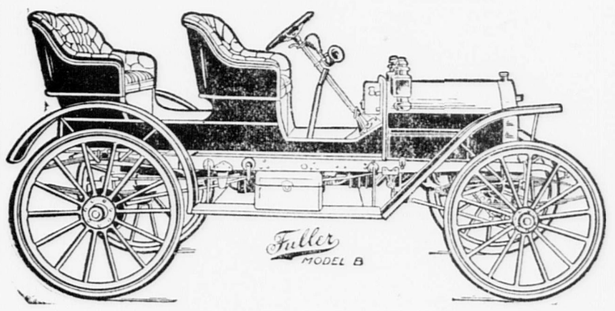

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL and THE SATURDAY EVENING POST want a man or woman in QUINCY and vicinity to look after subscription renewals and to forward new business. A guaranteed weekly salary, the amount depending on the work done, and a commission on each order. Experience unnecessary. Any one can build up a permanent paying business without capital. LODGE HEADS PROBE FORCE

Senate Inquiry Into the Cost of Living Will Be Comprehensive

Washington, Feb. 9.—Senator Lodge will have charge of the senate investigation of the cost of living, notwithstanding that the senate adopted the Elkins resolution in amended form. The rivalry for the honor of leadership on the most exciting question before the country has been warm, and Senators Elkins, Lodge and McCumber each have fathered resolutions intended to set the ball of investigation rolling.

Senators Lodge and McCumber have been united in the belief that the farmer has been receiving no extravagant price for his foodstuffs and that neither the producer of raw materials, like iron and hides, nor the manufacturer has been the prime factor in sending prices up.

The Elkins resolution, which the senate adroitly sidestepped the other day, did not indicate this view nor did Senator Elkins demand to know whether or not the tariff could be held responsible for the burdens laid on consumers. But the senators who steer things, while determined that Elkins should be chief investigator, were not unmindful of the popular feeling against the tariff. They were prodded, too, from the White House, where President Taft declared emphatically to his callers that he should insist upon an investigation which should place on the customs duties what ever responsibility properly belonged there.

Acting under all these impulses, the three resolutions were placed in the hopper of the financial committee and appeared in the form of the Elkins resolutions amended.

The specific amendments inserted in the Elkins resolution direct an inquiry as to "salaries and earnings" as well as wages, direct the committee to ascertain whether the increase in prices is due to "tariff or other legislation by congress," and include also this important command: "The committee is also authorized and directed, by sub-committee or otherwise, to make a thorough investigation of the prices of food products on farms in various parts of the United States; the wholesale prices of such food products at wholesale trade centres in the United States and the retail prices of such food products in the larger cities of the United States and also a comparative statement showing the cost of production on the farm."

Before it was thus revised, the Elkins resolution, which now becomes the official guide of the inquiry, was limited in its scope, nor has that scope been broadened by the finance committee except as to food stuffs. The committee is authorized to inquire only into the increase in prices of meat, grain, provisions, rents, cotton, wool, clothing, lumber, coal, iron, oil, brick and cement. The inquiry will thus touch no manufactured article except clothing, brick and cement. The committee believes, however, that these articles are fundamental and the list large enough to give opportunity to answer the popular query as to the high prices of necessities.

By the use of the words "tariff or other legislation of congress," the committee makes it possible, if it is so minded, to conduct an important inquiry as to the cost to the people of the Roosevelt administration. Among the most important laws put through by Roosevelt are the interstate commerce, food and drugs and meat inspection acts. Economists have suggested that these laws inevitably would operate to increase prices, and if the committee is curious to learn whether or not the process has begun it has the legal authority to find out. The expenses of all government administration increased enormously through the Roosevelt uplift laws, and some senators are inclined to believe that an opportunity has come to indulge in a little study for political uses. It is expected that Senator Lodge will head the committee and, as the investigation will be conducted, therefore, by the strongest Roosevelt man in Washington, the inquiry may develop some interesting phases.

The house leaders so far have been hesitating to push their plan. It house duplicate the expense, and the house probably might or might not reach the same conclusions as the senate. In this case the net result would be dangerous to the party. The whole idea of the investigation is prompted by political considerations.

Boston Opera Company Star Sues For Breach of Promise

Boston, Feb. 9.—Breach of promise proceedings in which damages of $100,000 are asked have been brought against Samuel Kraut, importer, whose office is in New York, by Miss Emma Hoffmann, 21 years old, prima donna in the Boston Opera company. The defendant is 25 years old.

Henry L. Franklin of New York is Kraut's attorney. He says that Kraut has spent more than $15,000 on Miss Hoffmann's musical education in Europe during the last four years.

According to the complaint in the case, Miss Hoffmann says that so long ago as 1905 Mr. Kraut promised to marry her. She alleges he promised to go to Europe in June, 1909, and marry her there, but that in the summer of that year he married instead Miss Selma Rothschild.

Niagara Falls, Feb. 9.—Investigation by the authorities into the cause of the dramatic suicide of Miss Beatrice Snyder, a pretty 25-year-old Buffalo girl, who went over the American falls after smilingly bidding goodbye to two would-be rescuers, shows that she was broken hearted over the death of her fiance, George F. Myers, and that she selected the date set for their wedding to end her life.

The body of the girl has not been recovered and perhaps never will be. It is supposed to be under the ice bridge and will probably be ground to pieces when the ice begins to disintegrate and break up.

ROBNETT MAY BE REDUCED IN RANK

Miss Hesler's Fiance Found Guilty on Two Counts

Boston, Feb. 9.—Dorothy Hesler's fiance, Dr. A. H. Robnett, was found guilty by the "tempest in the teapot" court martial at the Charlestown navy yard on two counts of the indictment against him.

These were that he had accompanied Paymaster Auld when the latter told Dr. Cowles, the complainant, to leave the navy yard dance hall, and that he used profane language over the telephone to Cowles on the following day.

The dance hall and telephone specifications come under the indictment heading of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

It is understood that the penalty fixed is the same as in the Auld case—a recommended reduction of not more than five numbers in rank.

Later the physicians diagnosed the case as one of appendicitis, requiring an immediate operation.

Annual Property Loss by Fire In United States Is $550,000,000

Washington, Feb. 9.—In this country every year fires cause a loss of 1448 lives and a property loss of $550,000,000, according to an investigation just concluded by the United States geological survey.

The fire loss in the United States is eight times as much per capita as in any country in Europe.

Taft Urges Aid For Canal Victims

Washington, Feb. 9.—President Taft sent a special message to congress urging relief for a number of workmen injured on the Panama canal prior to the passage of the act of May 30, 1908, which definitely fixed the compensation to be allowed to injured employes or granted to their families in case of death.

CANNON WINS OVER REBELS

Their Own Regulations Get Them Into Great Tangle

Washington, Feb. 9.—The house insurgents were much disturbed over the parliamentary inquiry given to them to decide by Speaker Cannon. As a result their own votes made possible a restriction of the very privileges for which they have been clamoring and the insurgents must bear their share of responsibility for the establishment of a precedent in construing the house rules which, in the future, will prohibit the speaker from recognizing a member, on calendar Wednesday, for the purpose of asking unanimous consent that a bill on the calendar be passed over without prejudice.

One of the chief complaints of the insurgents in their warfare against Speaker Cannon and the house organization has been the refusal of the speaker to accord a member recognition without prearrangement—without the member "going on his knees."

The Fitzgerald amendments to the rules have not yet been fully interpreted; in fact every time the unanimous consent calendar created by the Fitzgerald rules is reached a parliamentary tangle arises. Monday was no exception. When a bill on the calendar seemed almost certain to meet objection Representative McLachlan of California, in charge of the bill, asked unanimous consent that it be passed over "without prejudice."

Speaker Cannon quickly saw an opportunity for the insurgents to make political capital out of whatever ruling he made, and for that reason he asked the house to give its interpretation of the rule. This action was so unexpected that party and factional lines were forgotten and the house specifically instructed the speaker to refuse recognition to members making such requests for unanimous consent in the future.

The speaker's friends are today declaring that the vote demonstrated that the house itself favors limiting recognition of members for unanimous consent.

The insurgents were hopelessly divided on the proposition. Representative Norris of Nebraska, one of the insurgents who voted to have the speaker accord recognition, said that he was prompted by a desire to liberalize the rules, but the insurgents who voted the other way say insurgent principles were not at stake.

FOWLER GOES TO JAIL

Man Accused of Deceiving Women Is Held on Larceny Charge

Hingham, Mass., Feb. 9.—Accused by three women of deceiving them by promises to wed, Willis L. Fowler, 54 years of age, was remanded to jail in $2500 bail after pleading not guilty in the local court to a charge of larceny from Mrs. Mary C. Loneman of Quincy, Ills., with whom he became acquainted through a matrimonial advertising paper.

Fowler, it is charged, stole $1300 from Mrs. Loneman by filling in a blank check which she had signed, for $1600 instead of $300.

PREFERS PLAIN "DOCTOR"

Surgeon General Stokes Not Fussy About Being Called "Admiral"

Washington, Feb. 9.—Dr. Charles F. Stokes, the new surgeon general of the navy, has requested all his subordinates not to call him "Admiral" Stokes.

He takes the ground that although surgeon general, with the relative rank of rear admiral, that goes with the position, he is not really an admiral of the navy, but a doctor. He prefers to be simply called Dr. Stokes.

Negroes Hanged For Assault

Kansas City, Feb. 9.—George Reynolds and John Williams, negroes, were hanged here for assault on Mrs. W. H. Jackson, this marking the first time the death penalty has been inflicted in Missouri for this crime.

Fire Routs Hotel Guests

Bath, Me., Feb. 9.—More than a score of guests were driven from their rooms in the Shannon house last night by a fire which destroyed a wooden building nearby at a loss of $15,000. The hotel was but little damaged.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

THE LONE APPLE TREE

How a Girl Discovered a Murderer by Offering Him an Apple.

By ETHEL BOYER.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

On Lake Thun (Thunder lake), in Switzerland, is the little town of Oberhafen, with its schloss and tiled roofed houses and quaint narrow streets running in so many diagonal directions that if the town were not very small one could never find his way from one end to the other. A short distance from Oberhafen, bordering the lake, is a little fruit farm that for generations has belonged to a family of the name of Zeltner.

About a hundred years ago there was growing up on the farm Gretchen Zeltner, one of those plump, fair, flaxen haired Swiss lasses who are attractive even to this day. And today on going to church of a Sunday the Swiss girls wear the same costumes that Gretchen then wore—a short skirt of bright colors, a black velveteen bodice, with silver chains hanging the one end from the bosom, the other from the shoulder blade. On Gretchen's head was a dainty white muslin cap. A pretty girl in such a costume was unlikely to want for lovers, nor did Gretchen, but she gave her heart to one Max Beck and had no encouragement for any other.

"WON'T YOU HAVE AN APPLE?" SHE ASKED.

One day a peddler passed through Oberhafen and stopped at the Zeltner farm. Herman Zeltner, Gretchen's father, was seen to walk away from the house with the peddler in earnest conversation. They climbed up the mountain side and passed through a wood, beyond which was an open space, where grew a single apple tree. Zeltner returned to the house, but the peddler did not. Later his people, who missed him, tracked him to the Zeltner farm, but could gain no trace of him after his departure. The last person by whom he was seen was Herman Zeltner.

Naturally suspicion fell upon the farmer of having murdered the peddler, for it was known that the latter had a good deal of money on his person. Zeltner was arrested and taken before a magistrate. There were no witnesses, and he was simply questioned. He said that the peddler had told him that he had made enough money to buy a farm and was desirous of doing so. He asked Zeltner to show him over his own farm and give him some instruction as to what he would need. Zeltner had done so, and when the two reached the apple tree which marked the farthest point the farm extended up the mountain side they had stood under it for awhile, Zeltner telling the man what implements he would need and where to procure them. While talking some loose stones were detached above and came down the incline. Thinking it was some animal they had listened, but heard nothing more. Then the peddler had gone on, having inquired the way to one of the villages higher up on the mountain side.

There being no evidence against Zeltner, he was discharged from custody, but, though he had previously borne an excellent reputation, many people believed him guilty. Unfortunately for Max and Gretchen old Carl Beck was among this number. He told it was known that the Becks had for generations borne a spotless reputation and that he would never consent that the daughter of a murderer should come into the family. This meant that the young man should give up Gretchen.

"Max," said Gretchen one day in tears, "if we could but find the murderer that would relieve father of this suspicion which is killing him."

"He was grafting yesterday," said Max. "I saw him from the height above. He was at work on the lone apple tree."

"That is the only work he has done. He goes up there often, but usually to plant seed. You know that is where he left the peddler or the peddler left him when he went away. I wish father wouldn't go there. The neighbors see him sitting under the apple tree and think he is drawn to the place where they say he killed his victim."

"What fruit did he graft on the trees?"

"A branch from the red apple tree over there."

"Those on the lone tree are white. There will be a curious mixture."

One summer morning Gretchen was passing the lone apple tree and stopped to look at the fruit. While doing so a man came and, leaning on the fence, began to talk with her. He had a very restless eye and was constantly changing his position. He asked her a number of questions pertaining to the locality and finally began to talk about the tree.

"It was here," said Gretchen, "that my father more than a year ago parted with a peddler whom he had been showing over his farm. The peddler has never been heard from since."

"What became of him?" asked the man, looking away and changing his position from one foot to another.

"My father was accused of murdering him."

"And was it proved against your father?" asked the stranger.

"No. There were no witnesses. But father is as innocent as you or I."

Gretchen thought she saw the man's pale face grow a little paler.

"And is he believed to be guilty?"

"Some people think so because he comes up here at times and sits under the tree. They say that something draws a murderer back to the scene of his crime."

Gretchen saw the stranger tremble. Her mind was absorbed in her father's trouble, which also kept her and her lover apart. This made her garrulous. She kept on:

"I've tried to persuade father not to come up here. But he will in spite of all I can do."

"Doesn't that look as if he were guilty?" asked the man.

"No. It seems to me that he expects to meet the real murderer here. And if it's true that murderers must revisit the scenes of their crimes perhaps father will find him here some day."

The man hurriedly turned to go. Gretchen noticed that the hand he removed from the fence was trembling like a leaf in the wind.

"Won't you have an apple?" she asked.

"No, no, no!" Then, suddenly checking himself, he added: "Thank you, my girl. I never eat apples. They're sour and hard."

"These are not. They're sweet and juicy." She moved toward him, holding out one of the apples she had plucked from a lower branch of the tree.

"No, no, no!" repeated the man, staring at the apple as if there was something about it to be dreaded.

Gretchen looked at him in astonishment. Then, as if to show him that the fruit was harmless, she raised it to her mouth, took a big bite and held the exposed pulp up for him to see.

Down at the farmhouse Herman Zeltner heard a wild cry. It seemed to him that it came from the direction of the lone apple tree. Bounding up the incline, in another moment he came in sight of his daughter. A man was standing on the other side of the fence holding to the top.

"Take it away!" cried the stranger "There's blood on it! It's from his veins! It has grown up through the trunk and has got into the apples!"

Gretchen stood speechless. Suddenly her father dashed up to the stranger, leaped the fence and, grasping him by the shoulder, forced him down into a kneeling position.

"You fiend! You killed him and left me to suffer for your crime! What do you mean by blood from his veins? Where did you bury him? Under the tree?"

"Yes," gasped the man, his terror at the blood stains, as he supposed them, in the grafted apple dominating his terror at being accused of the crime.

Zeltner called for assistance, and some of his farm hands came running toward the party.

"There is the murderer," he said. "He killed the peddler and has buried him under the apple tree. Bring spades."

Spades were brought, and the body of the peddler was exhumed. His murderer refused to look on it, covering his face with his hands.

"So you took a grafted apple for blood stains, did you?" cried Zeltner, white with rage. "Thank heaven, who prompted me to put a red apple on this tree, for heaven, who sent you back here, must have led me to furnish the means to draw out your confession." Then to the others, "Take him away to jail."

When the man had gone Zeltner questioned Gretchen as to how it had occurred, and when he found that she had been the instrument by which he had been freed from the incubus that had been resting upon him he took her in his arms and wept tears of joy.

"The good book says," he cried, "that a woman tempted a man with an apple. It has been for you, my child, to convict a man with the same fruit and exonerate your father."

A more detailed confession showed that the prisoner, who was walking from Interlaken to Thun, was resting on the mountain side on the day the peddler left Herman Zeltner. He saw the peddler take out a handful of gold and attempt to induce Zeltner to accept one of the pieces in recompense for the information he had received. Throwing himself in the peddler's path, the man struck him from behind a tree, as he passed, on the back of the head, stunning him, then killed him. He hid the body till night, then buried it under the apple tree, thinking if it was found that the murder would be attributed to the owner of the farm, as indeed it was.

Max now had no difficulty in getting his father's consent to marry Gretchen, and the wedding occurred without delay. The baron, hearing of the incident, gave a fete to the young couple at the Schloss.

MAY GET $100,000 FOR SAVING SHIP

Crew of Erika Saves Steamer Varzin In Terrible Storm

Boston, Feb. 9.—After a series of misfortunes that establishes a record in marine circles, the disabled German steamship Varzin, from Australia, was towed into Boston harbor by the German steamer Erika.

Buffeted by heavy gales and driven from her course, the climax was reached on the night of Jan. 29, when the propeller shaft broke, throwing the ship and crew to the mercy of one of the worst storms that ever swept the Atlantic.

With a cargo valued at over $2,000,000 and drifting helplessly in the heavy seas, Captain Nicolia had emergency sails rigged, but they proved fruitless in navigating the steamer.

Passing vessels twice neglected to answer distress signals, and hope was almost abandoned when the Varzin was picked up by the Erika, whose crew may get $100,000 salvage.

FORCED TO NAME CHARGES

Conger Declares That Moe Delivered $1000 Bribe to Allds

Albany, Feb. 9.—Under compulsion of the senate, which is investigating his bribery charges against Senator Jotham P. Allds, Senator Benn Conger filed a sworn bill of particulars. He declared that "the person who delivered $1000 to Allds on or about April 23, 1901, was Hiram G. Moe of Groton, Tompkins county."

This sum, he asserts, "was demanded by Allds of Benn Conger and Frank Conger in the interests of the American Bridge company (a corporation)."

The particular bill referred to in his charge, declared Conger, was an act amending the highway law, which had been referred to the assembly committee on internal affairs.

Conger was compelled to file his bill of particulars by a vote of the senate, 38 to 8.

Carrots Plugged With Prussic Acid Send Animal to Her Death

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 9.—More than 4000 persons saw the execution of Fargo, a big female elephant belonging to a circus, now wintering here.

The elephant went mad and the management decided to kill her. The animal got loose from her keeper, however, and, running through the fair grounds, attacked horses and other animals and badly injured several attendants.

The attendants finally got Fargo under control and no time was lost in feeding her two carrots plugged with prussic acid.

BOYS FORCE WORKMEN OUT

Several Departments In Coats Thread Mills Are Forced to Close

Pawtucket, R. I., Feb. 9.—One by one the different departments of the J. & P. Coats, Ltd., thread mills were closed because of another strike among the back-boys and doffers, whose demand for the restoration of a 10 percent wage cut had been refused. The mule spinners were the first to be affected. The twisting room employes followed.

There is every indication that conditions which existed at the mills a week ago, when 2500 operatives were forced out of work, are to be duplicated.

SHORTAGE OF $4508

Charge Against Ex-Town Collector, Who Is Placed Under Arrest

South Hadley, Mass., Feb. 9.—Another chapter in the startling series of irregularities in the funds of Massachusetts towns was revealed last night when Frank E. Moos, former town tax collector, was arrested on a charge of larceny of $4508.

It is said that further investigation may reveal other discrepancies, as well as possible losses in other accounts of which Moos was custodian. Moos became tax collector in 1907, but suddenly resigned last July.

Isadora Duncan's Sister-in-law Bringing Up Her Baby Son as an Ancient Greek—Originator of Red Cross Stamps.

MRS. RAYMOND DUNCAN, whose husband is a brother of Isadora Duncan, the artistic dancer, is a Greek woman. Mr. Duncan is Greek in his inclinations, having lived some years in Greece. He persists, even though he be in England or in California, in wearing the ancient costume of the Greeks. Mrs. Duncan wears the classic female garb of old Hellas with charming grace. The garments seem to be the most natural things in the world for her. Some women would look exceedingly ludicrous in the classic Grecian costume, but Mrs. Duncan seems to have been molded expressly to make those clinging draperies look graceful. Her little son also wears the costume of boys of his age in old Greece. Whether he will continue to go about in the fashions of 2,000 years ago when he grows up sufficiently to escape his mamma's apron strings—of course she has no apron strings, though—is a matter of conjecture, or it may be a matter of climate. When the Duncans appeared in Berlin a few years ago after Mr. Duncan had gone to Greece and acquired a native wife and son they had with them a Greek boy in the dress of the serving man of ancient days as nurse for the baby. The boy wheeled the child about in an up to date English gocart, the only modern thing in the whole group. The sensation the Duncans created in Berlin was not repeated when they went to California for an extended sojourn, for in southern California there is usually a choice collection of oddities in the human line who parade themselves before the public in unconventional makeup.

It is interesting to recall that the young woman who is Mrs. Taft's unofficial social arbiter at the White House this winter is the originator of the Red Cross Christmas stamps, which have been sold the past two holiday seasons throughout the country and have netted several hundred thousand dollars for the Red Cross work in tuberculosis treatment and other lines. Miss Mabel T. Boardman's idea caught the popular approval at once, though it is said that she has been amazed at its wonderful success. For years Miss Boardman has been a special friend of President and Mrs. Taft. Mr. Taft, who is president of the Red Cross society, interested Miss Boardman in that work about ten years ago. She it was who practically resuscitated the society when its affairs were in confusion incident to the Spanish war. Miss Boardman has a desk in the offices of the society, which are located in the war department building. She goes there every morning and spends as much time as is required to attend to the work. For her relief work after the Messina earthquake a year ago Miss Boardman received a gold decoration from Italy, bestowed through the Italian ambassador at Washington.

While Colorado women are talking about electing a member of their sex to congress next fall, Miss Anna Rogstad, a schoolteacher, has been chosen as a sort of semi-congress woman in her country, Norway. It is the custom there to elect two persons from each district, one to sit in parliament as the regular deputy and the other to serve as alternate. In case of the death, disability or disqualification of the deputy the alternate becomes deputy. Miss Rogstad was elected an alternate. She is the first woman to achieve that distinction. Women vote in Norway. The regular deputy elected for Miss Rogstad's district is a man. So, after all, woman's path to power is blocked by the old time ogre.

WESTERN MISSOURI TOBACCO FARMING

No Difficulty Experienced In Disposing of Big Crops

Kansas City, Feb. 9.—Farmers in western Missouri are finding tobacco such a profitable crop that it is expected that the acreage devoted to tobacco this year will be double what it was last season. The crop grown in the western part of the state last year is estimated to exceed 3,000,000 pounds and was of fine quality, selling at from 14 to 17 cents a pound. Buyers from all of the large tobacco markets have opened headquarters in the larger towns, and every pound offered has found a quick sale.

Farmers who grew tobacco last year report profits ranging from $200 to $300 an acre. They are turning their attention now to improving the quality of their leaf, and confidently expect next year to turn out high-grade leaf equal in quality to the best Kentucky leaf.

Careless Hunter Pays Fine of $400 For Causing Companion's Death

Farmington, Me., Feb. 9.—One of the first sentences imposed since the passage of the statute making it a criminal offense carelessly to kill a person while hunting was given by Judge King in the supreme court.

A fine of $400 and costs was given to Mial Lamb, who pleaded guilty to carelessly killing his companion, Ralph Coleman, whom he mistook for a deer during the last big game season in the woods near Rangeley. Coleman was shot through the neck. Lamb paid.

CASTRO WATCHING EVENTS

Former President Believed to Be Planning a Return to Venezuela

Washington, Feb. 9.—The American consulate at Canary islands reported to the state department that ex-President Castro of Venezuela had arrived there from Spain.

Nothing was known as to his plans or future movements, but it is suspected that Castro has gotten to the nearest point of vantage to watch developments in Venezuela with the purpose of returning to that country if conditions are favorable.

party was a State charge. The state allows $15 for the burial of a pauper. In this case the man's friends learning that the state allowed $15 passed around the hat and raised $18 more, and the man was given a good funeral. The Overseer forwarded his bill of $15, which he had paid out to the State board of Charity, who upon learning that friends had contributed toward the funeral promptly disallowed the city bill of $15 and Quincy was out just so much. They could do this as the law read "reasonable" expenses.

In another case the city actually paid out $50 for the care of a State charge, and a bill was rendered for that amount, but the State Board of Charity taking advantage of the word "reasonable," cut the bill in half, and the city was out $25.

If the proposed bill becomes a law, the State Board will be obliged to pay what the actual expense in the cases are as they will have no authority to do otherwise.

Among those from Quincy who appeared in favor of the bill were Representatives Langelier and Thomas, Overseer of the Poor Elcock, President Hobbs of the City Council and Dr. F. Ramon Burke of the Board of Health.

SWIMMING POOL.

A 48-hour test of the water proofing of the new Y. M. C. A. swimming tank is being held. On Tuesday at 2 P. M. the Fire department turned on water from a hydrant, filling the tank, and the time will be up at 2 P. M. Thursday. Some boys bound to be first, took a dip on Tuesday but found the water rather cold. If the test is satisfactory, more cement and then the tiling will be necessary, and the tank will not be ready for use for three or four weeks.

LEAGUE STANDING.

The standing in the Old Colony bowling league including Monday night's postponed games at Braintree is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Weymouth	30	6
Norfolk Downs	19	17
Quincy	14	22
Braintree	9	27

SPORTING CHAT.

(By Rube.)

The Old Colony baseball league magnates are to be congratulated upon the stand they have taken in adopting a salary limit of $50 per game. From a square deal standpoint it seems as though all teams should live up to this new rule, and not force any official in the organization to point out that there are violations and ask the clubs to punish the offenders. Remember there is strength in unity.

Hats off to our athletes, Saturday, Carl Gram, one of the fastest sprinters in the country went to Providence wearing the B. A. A. colors. He took first in the 50 yard dash and also ran on the victorious B. A. A. relay team that defeated the Providence A. C. squad. "Babe" Marceau brushed elbows with some of the best of them and finished a good third in the 1000 yard run. "Billy" Hackett was also in good form and broke the record for a 20 mile race by doing it in 2h. 6m 30s. at Boston.

Many lovers of horseflesh in Quincy will be pleased to learn that Cochato, the horse reared by Col. A. C. Drinkwater of Braintree is gaining in value every day. It was only last week that this speedy stallion with a record of 2:11 1-2 again changed hands, this time being purchased by Arthur Parker who will ship him to the Shawsheen River farm at Bedford.

That must have been a beauty basketball game at the local Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. When a quintet holds the Boston cracks to such an even score they have something to crow over. Morris by the way scored ten of Quincy's 19 points.

Weymouth continues to land at least three straight on all games in the Old Colony bowling league. Get just glance at the standing and see what a runaway they are making for that pennant.

Skating again has the call. Get out your old rockers, and get out onto the smooth ice. There certainly is no better winter sport than skating. It keeps you out of doors where you get good fresh air. Skating to winter, is in my opinion what baseball is to summer. "Nuf Ced."

—Alexander Buchan, a retired granite manufacturer of Barre, died on Monday, aged 51 years.

FRIGHT AT MAYOR'S OFFICE

Mysterious Box Thought to Contain Infernal Machine

Visitors to the office of the Mayor at City Hall this morning were somewhat startled when they attempted to enter His Honor's private office to see a mysterious iron box in a chair near the door that resembled one those infernal machines of which so much is heard in foreign countries. The box was a small affair and from the cover there protruded the knob of a lever.

There was considerable speculation as to what the machine could be especially so when some one more brave than the others touched the knob. Instantly there came from the interior of the box the sound of whirling wheels. The onlookers were then sure that it was an infernal machine, and no time was lost in getting to a place of safety, as it was expected the thing would go off with a bang at any minute.

Someone hunted up the City Messenger, while another stepped into one of the offices and telephoned to the Mayor's office that there was an infernal machine at his door that was likely to go off at any minute, and he had better lose no time in getting out of the window. He had the window open, and was just about to climb out, when the whirling machinery stopped. Just about this time City Messenger Tirrell showed up on the scene, and let out a hearty laugh when he learned of the fears of the occupants.

There is no danger, says Harry, for that box is nothing more or less than one of the fire alarm boxes that was burnt out during the Christmas storm brought to City Hall by Chief Williams, to show what happened to practically all of the fire alarm boxes of the city in that storm.

Everybody breathed considerable easier when told it was a fire alarm box, yet it was noticed that when they passed the box they gave it as wide a berth as possible. Mayor Shea said that he was not at all frightened but it was noticed that he was a little pale, and that his hair had begun to turn white, although no one dared venture to say that it was from fright.

BRIEFS

Weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club tonight. Refreshments will be served after the play.

The Board of Health has organized with William H. Callahan as chairman and Dr. F. Ramon Burke as secretary.

The change in temperature from Monday is quite remarkable. That day with the high wind was probably the most disagreeable day of the whole winter.

The Managers of Public Burial Places met Tuesday evening and organized with Albert W. Fay as chairman and Wellington W. Mitchell as clerk. James Nicoll was reelected as superintendent.

The officers of Merrymount lodge, A. O. U. W., were installed Tuesday evening at Wilson hall by Grand Master Workman William J. Horrigan and suite from Winter Hill lodge of Somerville. The work was done in a fine manner. A spread followed and was served by J. W. Dennen, the caterer.

Society is looking forward to the Valentine dancing party at Music hall on Friday evening. The affair is under the auspices of the Quincy Day Nursery association and is for the benefit of the Nursery. Mrs. E. E. Jameson and an efficient committee have looked after the arrangements and a long list of matrons, ushers and subscribers ensures a successful party.

Miss Corlew has postponed her dancing class held at Wollaston on Saturday afternoons and next Saturday will take charge of the Valentine German to be given at Music hall for the benefit of the Day Nursery. Miss Corlew in charge means that the children will have an enjoyable time. Mrs. Charles M. Bryant arranged the party and the matrons for the afternoon will be Mrs. Henry I. Hall, Mrs. Clarence Burgin and Mrs. Russell A. Sears.

LOCAL SPORTS.

The great hockey game between Milton Academy and Milton High on Monday was won by the former 4 to 1.

At basket ball on Tuesday the Milton High team defeated the University Preparatory school 45 to 10.

The Milton Hockey club was defeated at Newton on Tuesday by Brae-Burn, 2d, 3 to 1.

THE LABEL IN THE HAT.

Brief Review of the Hatters' Union and Its Valiant Fight.

The test of a great labor union's strength and permanency may be said to lie in the intelligence with which it meets its powerful enemies when a struggle is on. This is notably the fact in the case of the United Hatters' Union of North America, one of the oldest unions in the labor movement, which has been fighting most valiantly for almost a year against tremendous odds. All of the usual methods of the opposition to organized labor have been employed against the hatters' union. It has been subjected to about every form of legal prosecution, including, besides the lockout, the rejection of the label, the attachment of personal belongings of the membership, and still it has not been dislodged from its foremost position among the trades unions of this country. In its legal controversies the union has become familiar with every stage and degree of American jurisprudence, in its experience embracing every court from the Danbury justice of the peace to the supreme court of the United States. It was the first labor union charged with restraint of interstate commerce under the Sherman anti-trust law.

In October, 1903, the hatters were sued in the Connecticut state and federal courts for damages to the amount of $340,000 by Loewe & Co., hat manufacturers. The hatters tried to convince their friends that the Loewe hats were not for union men to wear, and the company sued for the amount stated. On the same date the personal bank accounts and real estate holdings of over 300 of the members were attached to satisfy any judgment which might be rendered by the court. The United States supreme court denied that labor organizations were not exempt from the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law, and if the hatters were guilty of the acts complained of they were liable for threefold damages to the Loewe company.

Whether or not this company was boycotted and sustained loss by reason of said boycott by the Hatters' union is now being tried before the United States court at Hartford, and the decision is expected some time in March, 1910. During the years that the savings and homes of the hatters have been tied up there has been much suffering among them, and the union has done much to alleviate the hardships entailed.

On Jan. 14, 1909, the Hat Manufacturers' association, believing the troubles of the Hatters' union had taken all the fight out of it, precipitated a strike and lockout by refusing to recognize the union label. The trouble began when a Boston concern which had a contract binding it to pay the Boston scale attempted to transfer its work to Philadelphia at a lower scale. This was objected to by the union, and fifty-eight manufacturers combined to try conclusions with the hatters, bonding themselves to the amount of $25,000 each to fight to a finish. Of the original fifty-eight forty have recognized the union and are again using the label as the result of the intelligent fight made by the union and the aid rendered it by the movement generally.—Brooklyn Eagle.

To Cook Mushrooms.

One of the nicest ways in which the meadow mushrooms can be prepared is to peel, trim off the stalks and lay in a porcelain lined saucepan for half an hour with a tablespoonful of butter. This draws out the juices of the mushroom. Then allow as much cream or rich milk as there is mushroom liquor and simmer in this delicious sauce for six minutes only. Season lightly with salt and pepper and turn over delicately browned slices of toast

Uncle Sam's Highest Mountain.

If most Americans were asked which is the highest mountain in the United States they would probably answer Mount Rainier. As a matter of fact, the honor belongs to Mount Whitney, which exceeds Mount Rainier in height by less than 200 feet. The summit of Mount Rainier is 14,363 feet above mean sea level, and that of Mount Whitney, by checked leveling, is 14,501 feet above mean sea level.—Scientific American.

GRANITE EXHIBIT.

The Quincy exhibit of granite which was at Philadelphia at the convention of the Monumental Retail Dealers will be shown in New York city on Feb. 15, 16 and 17. It includes blocks of granite measuring about one foot each way with different surfaces. One side is finely hammered and another polished, etc. The exhibitors are: Field & Wild, J. S. Swingle, Falconer & Co., O. T. Rogers Granite Co., Quincy Quarries Co., J. C. Ballou, the Granite Railway Co., P. W. Mannex, Merrymount Granite Co., Robert Cantley, Bishop Bros., and others.

DOUBLY BROTHERS NOW.

An unusual event took place at the meeting of Mt. Wollaston lodge of Odd Fellows on Tuesday evening, when three men from one family were initated into the order. The late John L. Esau of East Milton was a charter member of the lodge, and his sons had opportunity to witness the good work of Odd Fellowship during his last sickness. So the three sons Benjamin, John and William, all made application for membership, and were all initiated on this evening. They are doubly brothers now.

ICE SCOOTER RACING POPULAR

Devotees of the Unique Craft Increasing Every Year.

HOW THE BOAT IS UTILIZED.

Can Be Used For Business and Sporting Purposes—Some of the Novel Sights Furnished by These Remarkable Craft.

By TOMMY CLARK.

While ice yachtsmen, skaters and other sportsmen who enjoy and delight in the fact that a glassy surface covers the water are helping to make sport history, the devotees of ice scooters are having their innings. There is perhaps no more healthy or heartening sport than that afforded by "ice scootering," which is exceptionally good on many lakes and rivers where the cold weather holds sway, and especially on the Great South bay, New York. The ice scooter is essentially a New York creation and notwithstanding the few years in which it has been known has attained a remarkable stage development. While neither a yacht nor an iceboat, its ingenious construction is such that it combines the advantages of both and travels with equal facility on ice and in water.

STYLE OF SCOOTER USED EXTENSIVELY ON LONG ISLAND, NEW YORK.

The craft, which is twelve to sixteen feet in length, carries a sail and jib, while two long steel runners are fastened to the bottom, which is shaped like a spoon. It can be steered either by a rudder, consisting of a long pole carrying a sharp edged runner, or by the jib, the latter method, although requiring more skill, being preferable, as it admits of greater speed being attained.

The scooter is valuable both for business and sporting purposes. In the former capacity it is extensively employed by the members of the Smith Beach (N. Y.) life saving stations, who, regardless of ice floes or open water, are enabled speedily and safely to cross the ten miles of bay to their mainland homes. Before the appearance of the scooter they were compelled to remain for weeks at a time on the beach owing to the impracticability of crossing the bay in catboats in wintry weather.

The scooter is also utilized in visiting vessels which may have become caught in the ice offshore and which would be inaccessible by any other method. Food and fuel are often carried to some skipper who has been unfortunate enough to become icebound and but for the assistance which the scooter enables the life savers to afford would be threatened with freezing or starvation.

It is a pretty sight to watch a scooter after traveling at full speed over the frozen surface of the bay plunge into open water, cutting a furrow across it and emerging on the surface of the ice again on the other side. Owing to the great sail area carried, the scooters on entering the water with a heavy wind are exceedingly difficult to handle.

The owning of the champion scooter is regarded as a great honor among the Long Island bay men, and every year new craft are built by the rival competitors for that distinction.

Sportsmen, particularly the more venturesome ones, employ the scooter for visiting air holes, where the wild fowl congregate. Hunting grounds ten or twelve miles away which would be otherwise inaccessible may be reached in less than half an hour by the scooter, which also answers admirably the purpose of a blind.

The average price of an ice scooter is about $40, though the more elaborate and speedy ones cost as much as $80 or $100.

Vol. 24 No. 35 | QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 10, 1910 | PRICE TWO CENTS

MANY SIDES TO THE WATER QUESTION

The Installation of Meters Is Expensive and Will Also Reduce City Receipts.

Basis of Metropolitan Assessments Largely Responsible.

The order appropriating $45,000 for the installation of water meters, introduced at Monday night's meeting of the City Council by Councilman Nowland, will if it passes enable the Commissioner to install a water meter on every service of the city within a year. All of the firms that manufacture meters belong to a trust and the price of meters is kept at the top notch, and there is but very little discount whether one is purchased or 500. If however enough meters could be purchased to meter the whole city a fair discount could be obtained.

It was in the city of Melrose a few years ago that the city fathers took the bull by the horns, so to speak, and metered every service in one year. The results were surprising for the consumption of water was cut in half, which meant a great saving to the city.

Another argument advanced is that an equitable rate cannot be established until all of the services are metered, and until such time some one has to pay more than others. Many believe that the charges for water should be on the same basis as the charges for gas or electricity. That is a consumer should pay for what he uses and no more.

With the whole city metered the Commissioner could establish a rate of so much per cubic foot and the families who were economical in the use of awter would be the savers. It has long been a well established fact that the present system of charges for water is unfair for it often happens that the family who use a small amount of water pay more than some families that use a large amount. Take for instance some of the boarding houses in the Fore River district. Some of these houses have but one faucet and pay $6, yet there are a dozen men who use water from it every day, and probably consume a great deal more than some houses that are fully plumbed and pay $16.

Under a recent act of the Legislature every service in the Metropolitan district must be metered within ten years. Several years have already passed and here in Quincy but little more than a start has been made.

The Committee on Water Supply of last year's City Council were of the same mind as Councilman Nowland for when it reported the order for water extensions the amount was made large enough to purchase meters for the whole city. That part of the order however was eliminated in the Finance Committee.

It is undoubtedly a fact that the city would lose in income were all services metered, as the total receipts for water have not increased as rapidly since the city began to install meters as they did before, although there are hundreds of new services.

The only comparison many people make is one house with another. Why should manufacturies have a different meter rate for awter than houses? Considerable of the water which the city purchases from the Metropolitan Water Commission is now sold below cost, which is an injustice to householders who must pay a minimum rate of $16 per year for a fully plumbed house, and make up the loss.

It should not be overlooked that the large sum borrowed for meters, together with the interest thereon, must be paid by the water takers or taxpayers. Every year the taxpayers are called upon to pay toward the Water department, either for maturing water debt ,or interest, or Metropolitan assessment, or maintenance.

Perhaps the city of Quincy will awake some day to the fact that THE BASIS of the Metropolitan water assessment, largely for FIRST COST of the works, is entirely wrong. That consumption has little to do with it. That Boston is not paying the proportion that the city should. That the cities and towns with higher per capita valuation than Quincy are paying less than they should. That Quincy's assessment is too heavy and should be reduced when a new apportionment is made. If the assessment was cut the water rates of Quincy would be reduced.

GOSSIPERS AT WOLLASTON

Most Trivial Matters Greatly Enlarged Upon

The entertainment of the Wollaston Unntarian church Helpers on Wednesday evening drew a most enthusiastic audience. "The ancient sewing society" was just what it's name implied and the ladies in the old fashioned costumes of poke bonnets and hoop skirts formed a very odd and pleasing picture.

As might be supposed, Gossip was the chief theme and things of the most trivial importance were enlarged into matters of great magnitude by the time they had gone the rounds. A program of solos and readings in charge of Mrs. William E. Rowe, preceded the play. Mrs. E. C. Eldon, a pupil of Willis Clark, accompanied by Miss Florence Olney, rendered pleasing soprano solos, among them "My heart is thine" and "Tonight." Miss Leffingwell, a pupil of the Leland Powers school gave a number of readings, including "The fight." "Mothers Day" and "A country sketch."

The cast of the "Ancient Sewing Society" included:

Mrs. President—Mrs. Charles. L. Monroe.

Mrs. Knowall—Mrs. Edmund S. Taylor.

Mrs. Wise—Mrs. H. F. McLean.

Mrs. Short—Mrs. William A. Bense.

DINNER FOR COMMISSION

President Bowles Giving One This Week in England

Assistant General Manager Brown of the Fore River Co., who has been in Europe with President Bowles in connection with the contract for the battleship for the Argentine Republic sailed for home today. President Bowles will remain in Europe a few days more, however, in order to entertain the Argentine Commission at a dinner. President Bowles will sail for home Saturday or Sunday.

DEMAND FOR HOUSES.

Since it became known that the Fore River were to build the big battleship for the Argentine Republic there has been a great demand for houses. This contract will bring a large number of additional skilled workmen to Quincy and many of these men have families and would perfer to reside here if suitable houses can be obtained.

DIPLOMACY AND INDUSTRY

Award of Battleships Great Cause for Satisfaction

Newspapers are still commenting on the Argentina award of battleships to the Quincy shipyard. The Christian Science Monitor says editorially:

"London learns some interesting details on the subject of the recent international success of the American shipbuilders. The diplomats in Washington were naturally very curious to find out how the negotiations for the contracts of the warships to be built for the Argentine Republic came to result in the victory of the American builders. A number of rumors were made to account for this victory; it was said that very strong diplomatic pressure had been brought to bear by the state department, that the contracts were taken at a loss in order to underbid the British, German and Italian yards and that the United States government had arranged to reimburse the American concerns.

"All this was emphatically denied from authoritative quarters, as the contracts were secured strictly on a business basis, the American competitors profiting largely by the naval reputation acquired through the world cruise of the Atlantic fleet. Nevertheless, it is admitted that a hot diplomatic battle was waged, both Germany and Italy exerting especially strong pressure, and it is even claimed in some quarters supposed to be connected with the cabinet that the specifications for the vessels were actually changed, more than once, so that the European shipbuilders might stand a better chance against the American quotations.

"Leaving a large margin for embellishment in these reports, it is still plausible that the Argentine contracts were regarded as a big prize from a political no less than a business point of view and that the American victory was one of diplomacy as well as industry. If it was actually won on purely commercial and technical lines, there is certainly much cause for congratulation, since no more formidable competition can be imagined than that of Great Britain, Germany and Italy; all three have immense economic interests in the Argentine Republic while the shipyards of the first and the last have in the past built all the men-of-war of the Argentine navy. But there is still greater cause for satisfaction if it may be assumed that the United States won a big diplomatic battle. Such a victory is particularly reassuring at this time when a series of incidents appear to have introduced a most regrettable element of uncertainty into the relations between this country and Latin America. Its importance will be understood by future developments into which the cultivation of closer relations between the United States and the Argentine Republic must introduce a new and influential factor."

MRS. CATHERINE LYONS.

Mrs. Catherine Lyons, wife of Mr. Charles S. Lyons, passed away this morning at her home 115 Squantum street. Mrs. Lyons has been a resident of Atlantic for thirty years and leaves a host of warm friends. She leaves besides a husband two daughters and a son. Her children are Charles S., Jr., Miss Nora M. and Mrs. William P. Coleman of Salem. Mrs. Lyons was a cousin of Rev. George A. Lyons of the Lady of Lourdes church at Jamaica Plain.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Who said "a more beautiful Quincy?"

Jog-along would not be a bad game for the clock on the Universalist church to play.

Halley's comet will be visible about May first but it need not expect to receive all the attention. A star of the first magnitude that has been in eclipse in Africa for a year will be visible about the same time.

Dorchester has been held up by some as a community which gets everything, but the Boston papers today have a long list of the needs of Dorchester, as presented to the new mayor and city council. The district dont seem to have much of anything.

Those who would like to increase any of the city estimates as recommended by Mayor Shea must first find other items to cut, as the total is now in excess of the limit provided by law. This limit is not well understood by many who want larger appropriations.

Keeping City Hall for a musieum for old relics as suggested by Henry Turner Bailey in his lecture on Tuesday afternoon is not a bad idea at all. The building is too good to destroy and is not just what the city needs for an administration building.

Shall women vote does not seem to be so burning a question now as the one—shall women run the United States Navy. The petticoat court martial at Boston suggests the time honored thought that "womans place is in the home," and that feminine feuds should be settled at pink teas and over bargain counters rather than by Naval Boards of Enquiry.

Tracing laboriously the causes of the high cost of living to marketing by telephone, the waste of the cooks, the bridge playing of the women and the employment of delivery wagons by the retail grocers while Food trusts, cold storage and the tariff are overlooked reminds us of Yankee Doodle who couldn't see the town for the houses. Let us reform the ext avagant women and the wasteful cooks but let us also try not to be diverted from the big offenders.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Commenting on the price of foodstuffs and cold-storage the game and poultry dealers are reported to have said: "Were it not possible to preserve eggs by cold storage we would have periods of scarcity when prices would soar to a point beyond reach. During the winter months eggs would sell at $2 a dozen. Our individual opinion says the Waltham Free Press of that statement is that it is about as devoid of foundation as the little yarns that gave Annanias his notoriety.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Wollaston Methodist church met with Mrs. Carrie Durgin, 248 Beale street, Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. An unusually large number were present. The program was in charge of Mrs. Wesley Wiggin, the president of the society. Prayer was offered by Mrs. George Crothers. The program consisted of short accounts by different ones on Home Missions. After which two chapters "From darkness to light," were taken up by Mrs. George Taylor and Miss Ethel Smith. Mrs. Crothers reported the mite box opening of the Deaconess Aid Society recently held at Brookline. Refreshments were served and a very pleasant social hour was enjoyed by all.

A MORE BEAUTIFUL CITY

This interesting subject of Mr. Bailey's on Tuesday afternoon, and delivered as it should be on historic ground was so fully reported by the Ledger under the heading of "Women's Clubs—What they are Doing" that it would seem to cover the whole ground. I fear I am taking too much of your valuable space but as a citizen can endorse every word, and all present were deeply impressed that some action in the matter should be immediately sta ted. The gentleman theoretically destroyed a good many old buildings but there are a lot more that he did not touch. For instance—all of the old traps back of The Greenleaf; also the collection of imitations near the head of the canal.

The three beautiful never-failing brooks that transverse our city should be widened, deepened and architecturally improved. The old canal should be deepened and its banks and immediate vicinity, now almost worthless land, beautified. In ten years it would vie with the Charles river for canoeing and would have more visitors than either of our parks.

The land now occupied by the Insurance building should be acquired and on that spot should be erected not necessarily the tallest but the finest soldiers monument in Massachusetts. A grave-yard is not the proper place.

I consider myself almost wholly responsible for the narrow Maple street and before it is too late it would seem good policy to widen its whole east side. That would take in that old cellar. Then across Bethany yard as straight as the conditions would admit, continuing to the Hollow opposite the new Kincaide building giving an opportunity at that point for a beautiful public square.

That brings me to my pet project and would carry out one of Mr. Bailey's suggestion of beautiful public squares such as he found in Europe.

That particular square should be named Colonel Packard, the first man to offer himself and regiment to the Government. I was present at the time when Governor Andrew asked him "Will the Democratic militia leave the state" and he replied "in the event of war there would be no Democrats or Republicans—they would all be Union men."

The square at the head of the canal should be named Abercrombie. At the head of Franklin street, Daniel Baxter square and so on throughout the city.

We have already a John Hancock square. How many of us know its location?

"Beautiful Quincy"would, as you suggest, make a good watchword and is in line with,—

"Bigger, Better and Busier"
"Talk Springfield Everywhere"
"Watch Seattle Grow."—and others.

Mr. Bailey suggests that the various clubs and societies send delegates to some central body to act on these matters so important to our citizens.

Elisha Packard.

ACTOR CRITICISED.

Editor Ledger:

I understand from a reliable source that during a moving picture performance at a well known hall near Quincy square, one of the "actors" tried to be over smart and made insulting remarks about well known and respected citizens. Now Mr. Editor when a man who pretends to be a professional so far forgets his dignity as to do such a thing he is to my mind a disgrace to the stage.

PUBLIC BEQUEST.

The will of Elizabeth M. Turner, who died in Brookline on Jan. 9, was admitted to probate by Judge Flint in the session of the probate court at Quincy Wednesday. After a number of minor bequests she leaves the income from the residue to Sarah F. Turner during her life. At her death the will provides that the sum of $1,000 shall be given to the Episcopal City Mission of Boston, half of the amount to be appropriated to the mission for sailors.

$6000 A YEAR DURING LIFE

Peary Is to Be Retired With Rank of Rear Admiral

Washington, Feb. 10.—Commander Robert E. Peary's magnificent act of renunciation and generosity in New York Tuesday, whereby he turned a $10,000 gift to himself into the fund for equipping the Antarctic exploring expedition, met with quick recognition in the senate Wednesday.

Senator Hale of Maine reported and asked for immediate consideration of his bill authorizing the president to appoint Peary a rear admiral in the navy and place him upon the retired list. With Vice President Sherman in the chair and not a word spoken in behalf of this belated recognition, the senate amended the bill on Hale's motion to make the retired pay the highest of the grade and unanimously passed the bill.

With like action in the house, which is expected as soon as the Allen bill is formally approved by the navy department, Rear Admiral Peary will draw $6000 a year for the remainder of his life and yet remain free to dispose of his own time as he pleases.

His promotion is accomplished without injustice to any other officer in the service, as the law will create an additional number for the beneficiary. Peary will now be free to accept the many invitations to appear before scientific and other audiences with which he has been deluged from all parts of the world. His immediate plans contemplate, of course, his assistance in the outfitting of the Antarctic expedition.

The resolution introduced in the house by Representative Allen of Maine, authorizing the promotion of Peary to the rank of rear admiral and retiring him from active service, was received at the navy department. The resolution was sent to the department by Chairman Foss of the house naval committee, and the present expectation is that it will be returned to congress approved. The judge advocate general probably will be required to pass upon the resolution and will submit it with his views to Secretary Meyer.

It is now regarded as certain that Peary will be officially recognized by his government as the discoverer of the North Pole. Secretary Meyer has announced that he favors the advanced rank for the explorer as a reward for his Arctic explorations.

Dublin, Feb. 10.—The Irish parliamentary party held its first meeting since the general election at the mansion house, the official residence of the lord mayor of Dublin. John E. Redmond was again elected leader.

Fifty-four members of the party were present. Neither William O'Brien, Timothy Healy nor the other six members of the "independent" faction were present. Nor were they invited, as they had refused to take the party pledge of unity signed by seventy-two of the Nationalist representatives of the country.

CAPTAIN BARTLETT

To Make Dash for the South Pole

A Washington dispatch today, says that Capt. Robert A. Bartlett who lectures in Quincy today, and was in command of the steamer Roosevelt on the trip to the North Pole, probably will be placed in charge of the expedition into the Antarctic regions. With the exception of Commander Peary, the members of the expedition will be the same as those who returned last year from the frozen north.

The proposal is that the quest be made in the Roosevelt, already partially equipped for such an expedition, and that the start be made from Coates Island. This is on the opposite side of the Antarctic region which is to be explored by a British expedition under the command of Capt. Robert F. Scott, R. N. The directors of the geographic society believe financial assistance will be forthcoming in time to begin the exploration not later than September next.

GRAND SENIOR WARDEN.

Samuel Wood, Jr., of East Milton, a member of Manet Encampment, I. O. O. F., of Quincy, was elected grand senior warden on Wednesday at the annual session of the Grand encampment. The report of Grand Patriarch Kingsbury showed a net increase in membership during the year, and a much more enthusiastic membership owing to the new ritual. The net gain in membership for the year was 79, bringing the total up to 11 377, number of chief patriarchs, 1814; degrees conferred, 1833. The semi-annual per capita tax was fixed at 18 cents.

HOME FURNISHERS.

Quincy furniture dealers are prominent in the Home Furnishers Association of Massachusetts, which held its annual meeting and dinner at the Revere House, Boston, on Tuesday evening. Henry L. Kincaide of this city was reelected president, and was the presiding officer of the evening. Fully 250 were present. Among the speakers were President Treadway of the Senate, Guy A. Ham and William A. Morse. President Kincaide in his report denied the charges made by magazines, but complained of the unreliability of a few concerns. He advocated closer co-operation with the national commission and predicted prosperity for 1910.

BOYS GREATLY INTERESTED.

Capt. John Ryan of Newton told the most interesting stories of the Custer Massacre and of his experiences to the boys club of Atlantic, Wollaston and South Quincy, and Y. M. C. A. boys at the Association Wednesday evening. About one hundred and fifty boys were present and all pronounced it a great treat. The Daily Ledger recently reported at length his talk at Wollaston on the same subject. At the close of Capt. Ryan's talk, the boys were shown photographs that were most interesting. Alex Robertson was chairman of the committee which conducted the meeting.

—"Every workingman should realize that a chicken coop in the back yard is a surer way of fighting the meat trust than anything done in politics," says the Beverly Times. We suggest ,as another means of reducing the cost of living, that the workingmen cultivate a vegetable garden, —most of them have leisure time enough to make it a success ,besides obtaining a healthy exercise.—Athol Chronicle.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

GASOLINE CORN HUSKER.

Expense of Farming Reduced by Small Portable Engines.

At slight expense, by the development of the gasoline motor, the farmer is now enabled with modern labor saving devices to do many times the amount of work formerly possible. The accompanying illustration shows the use of a small portable gasoline engine driving a corn husker by belt transmission.

For operating the husking machine only a four to six horsepower gasoline engine is required, while it is stated that hundreds of bushels of corn have been husked by a machine of this type with only a three horsepower engine under favorable conditions. In central Ohio a four roll machine has been able to husk 250 bushels in a day, requiring four teams and one extra man, besides the three men that operate the machine, with a cash outlay of $25 per day. It is stated that one of these small husking machines operated by a light gasoline engine will handle the same 250 bushels at less than half the expense, or $11.50. This motor driven husker is of the two roll type, the rolls being four feet in length and large in diameter. It runs at high speed, thereby greatly increasing the capacity, which is about twenty bushels per hour under normal conditions, but has been operated at over thirty bushels without difficulty. It is stated that the average run is from seven to ten shocks (twelve hills square) per hour. The shredder head is composed of knives strung on a shaft eleven-sixteenths of an inch in diameter, held in position so that only one knife strikes at a time. The knives strike with a shear cut each two and one-half inches on the stalk, leaving the blades in good condition.

The blower is arranged at the rear of the machine, so that all the stover must pass over the screen. About sixteen feet of nine inch pipe is connected to the machine. A bevel gear is used for driving the corn elevator, which is so constructed that the receptacle for receiving the corn is out of the way in driving up to the machine with a load. The power is disengaged as well as the rolls by the simple movement of a lever attached to a spiral plug.

HELPFUL WORDS

From a Quincy Citizen.

Is your back lame and painful?
Does it ache especially after exertion?
Is there a soreness in the kidney region?
These symptoms indicate weak kidneys:
There is danger in delay.
Weak kidneys fast get weaker.
Give your trouble prompt attention.
Doan's Kidney Pills act quickly.
They strengthen weak kidneys.
Read this Quincy testimony.

Mrs. J. Boyle, 8 Marsh street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and can say they are unequalled for kidney disorders. They built up my entire system and in six weeks, freed me from kidney complaint from which I had suffered for a long time."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

The gifts to the school by individual alumni have been few, although the graduating classes have decorated many of the rooms with pictures bought from the proceeds of the publication of the Goldenrod. In a large public school, the school spirit is not the same as in academies or private schools. But many of the benefits offered equal those in first-class schools. It is said that in the Plymouth High school, from which Mr. Howlett recently came, the scholars and graduates strove constantly to beautify the school and grounds and to keep them beautiful. This loyalty was established through Mr. Howlett's efforts. The spirit of the school here is good, but there is still ground for improvement. If the headmaster can foster a sentiment similar to that at Plymouth he will do good service to the school.

The Senior College English Division have taken up the study of argumentation studying Burke's Speech of Conciliation. As an illustration of the subject, a debate was held last Friday: Resolved—That Shylock's punishment is out of proportion to his offence. Alfred Hanson and Leon Brown took the affirmative, and Charles Kendall and Gordon Jameson the negative. The judges were William Northrop, Miss Grace DeWolfe, and Daniel Sullivan and they decided in favor of the affirmative.

The so-called dull boys and girls in our schools frequently turn out to be the smartest business men and women. They broaden out when they get into business channels. I have in mind," said Mayor Fletcher, of Providence, R. I., "a young man who failed utterly in mathematics. He crammed for an examination for 48 hours without a wink of sleep. He passed all right and the next day couldn't answer any of the questions. He was called a dullard. Look at him today. He holds a $10,000 salaried position in this city, and is making big money otherwise. His was a typical case of the need of individual attention, and that is just what has got to be resorted to in our public schools, costly though it may be. This is about the only explanation the school committee can give or remedy I can suggest so far as I can see."

Tommy ,aged five, accompanied his father to church one cold Sabbath morning, and upon their return his mother asked if he could repeat the minister's text.

"Course I can," replied the little fellow. He got up and rubbed his hands together ,and said, "Many are cold, but few are frozen."

LADIES' NIGHT ON HOLIDAY

Houghs Neck to Cooperate with West Quincy

A regular meeting of the Houghs Neck Associates was held Wednesday evening, but was not very largely attended as there was but little business of importance to come up. Arrangements were completed for the annual ladies' night banquet to be served on Washington's birthday. The menu for this occasion includes a turkey supper.

A committee consisting of President Daniel Maloney, Leo Noonan and James Whall were appointed to meet with the West Quincy association to discuss the needs of the city, so that concerted action may be taken to secure some of the improvements desired, in the way of street railway service, street lighting, etc. Similar committees have been appointed by other improvement societies of the city.

The remainder of the evening was taken up in the discussion of things desired to improve the conditions of affairs at Houghs Neck. It was announced that the matter of taking the question of improved street car service for Houghs Neck to the Railroad Commissioners was progressing as fast as possible, and that it was hoped a hearing would be given the residents at an early date.

CONGRESS MAY ACT

Ask to Erect Statue to William J. Burke of Quincy

If the bill introduced in Congress on Wednesday by Congressman O'Connell becomes a law, the sum of $2,000 will be appropriated to erect a memorial to William J. Burke of Quincy, who lost his life on the battleship Georgia in the spring of 1906.

Burke was one of the jackies on the battleship Georgia and when an explosion took place, although badly burned himself, he prevented the explosion of the powder magazine, thus saving the lives of many of his shipmates, and probably the destruction of the battleship. Burke was so terribly burned that he died a few days later. The accident took place during the manoeveres of the fleet off Provincetown.

Last year Councilman McDevitt introduced a resolution in the City Council requesting Mayor Shea to bring the matter of the erection of a suitable memorial to Burke to the attention of Congressman O'Connell. This resolution brought fruit, for as stated above Congressman O'Connell introduced a bill in Congress for the memorial to cost $2 000. Burke is buried in St. Mary's cemetery and if the bill becomes a law the memorial will probably be erected in Quincy.

LIQUOR BY FREIGHT.

Taking alarm at the activity of the Lynn police in arresting drivers of express and delivery wagons and charging them with illegal transportation, Boston liquor dealers will soon put this city on the blacklist and refuse to ship wet goods here except by freight. Such action has already been taken by several of the largest liquor houses in Boston, and it is understood today that other dealers who have had a profitable business in Lynn for a long time will soon decline orders from citizens of Lynn. That, however, will apply only to orders which must be delivered.—Lynn Item.

TODAY'S COURT.

Theo Matheis was arraigned on complaint of a deputy of Fish and Game Commission for setting a snare for birds at Cohasset. He was found guilty and a fine of $15 imposed.

—The aggressive woman suffragists of Chicago are greatly rejoiced that one of their number by mistake has been drafted for jury service. She who has been drawn declares that only death or an injunction can prevent her from a serving.—Milford Gazette.

$5000 FOR FORE RIVER

Included in River and Harbors Bill

The river and harbors bill of $40,000,000 to be reported to Congress includes $5 000 for maintenance of the channel of the Fore river between Quincy and Weymouth, $135,000 for stone breakwater at Provincetown, also for deepening the entrance to Newburyport harbor, $50,000; for continuing work on the breakwater, Sandy Bay harbor or refuge, $100,000; maintenance of existing channel . Plymouth harbor, $10,000; continuing work on breakwater, Nantucket harbor, $50,000; widening the existing channel, New Bedford and Fair Haven harbor $50,000; maintenance of existing channel, Merrimac river, $10,000; for deepening the channel of Mystic river, below the mouth of Island End river to 30 feet, $72,000; for removing certain rocks in Gloucester harbor which are a menace to navigation, $25,000; to provide for a deeper and wider channel in Lynn harbor, $60,000; for extending the channel in Hingham harbor, $9,762, on conditions that the state or local authorities assume further improvement and maintenance of the harbor.

ENGLISH DREADNOUGHT.

A London dispatch to the Monitor says: "As has already been reported, the order for the Thames dreadnought has been definitely placed by the admiralty with the Thames Iron Works and Shipbuilding Company. The construction of such a gigantic battleship, the largest vessel of its nature that has ever been launched on the Thames, naturally necessitates considerable alterations to the yard, such as the strengthening of the slip from which the vessel will be launched, the testing of such machinery as is already in existence, as well as the installation of such new machinery as will be necessary to enable the company to fulfil the terms of the contract. As far as is known at present, the increase to the staff will include some 30 or 40 draughtsmen and about 1000 extra men, the latter being employed on the ship herself, while about an equal number of men and boys will be employed in preparing the material before it is ready to go on board. The slip on which the dreadnought will be built is the one from which the "Black Prince" was launched some 5 years ago."

LECTURE BY MRS. MEAD.

The doors of the Quincy Mansion school have been hospitably opened this week to friends of the school. On Tuesday Mrs. Willard invited friends to listen to a lecture by Mrs. Bumpus and again on Wednesday evening to a lecture by Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of the American Peace society. On both occasions there was a large attendance. Mrs. Mead is a well known speaker in favor of peace and presents her facts in a forceful and at the same time pleasing way that never fails to interest her audience.

STARTLING BARGAINS.

W. G. Shaw proprietor of Shaw's mammoth furniture store in City square offers residents of Quincy and surrounding towns the chance of a lifetime to improve the appearance of their homes. Mr. Shaw needs no introduction to the Quincy public which has watched him grow up to his present standing, that of one of New England's leading furniture dealers. All know him to be a hard worker for the welfare of Quincy, in fact his furniture and home furnishings are sold at small profits as a special inducement to keep trade at home.

Mr. Shaw advertises today a startling bargain and if there is any family contemplating purchasing furnishings or furniture they can rest assured that the prices offered are genuine. If you think you can do better in Boston just call at Shaw's and price articles before going in for the result will surprise you and please Mr. Shaw.

As a special inducement during this sale customers will receive, by calling at the store, free, 30 "S & H" Green trading stamps. All in all, this sale at Shaw's is going to wake up Quincy buyers and there will be no excuse for anyone not fitting their home out in a way that will show friends and relatives that you pride yourself in your home and its surroundings.

THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL and THE SATURDAY EVENING POST want a man or woman in QUINCY and vicinity to look after subscription renewals and to forward new business. A guaranteed weekly salary, the amount depending on the work done, and a commission on each order. Experience unnecessary. Any one can build up a permanent paying business without capital. Richard Harding Davis.

"Finis" Written to Famous Author's Own Romance.

Richard Harding Davis, the well known teller of romantic tales, whose own romance has ended in disagreement with his wife, first attracted attention in 1899 with his story "Soldiers of Fortune." Mrs. Davis was the pattern for the heroine of the book.

BRIEFS.

Forty degrees temperature at sunrise; a big change from Monday.

The senior class of the Woodward Institute will hold a dancing party Friday evening at Woodward hall.

The light rain Wednesday evening removed what little snow there was left on the ground.

Rev. Reemt Libbers of Emden, Ill., will occupy the pulpit of the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday morning.

South Shore commandery, K. T., will observe Washington's Birthday as usual with a sociable and ladies' night at Masonic hall, East Weymouth.

Mrs. Mary Pollock has purchased of W. C. Hunt the pretty estate at the corner of Bigelow street one Miller Stile road which she has recently occupied.

The City Committee on Fire Department matters are looking up the need of new fire alarm boxes, and for that purpose will make a trip about the city at an early date.

A regular meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association will be held tonight. There is no special business to come before the association, but there will be a general discussion of the needs of the ward.

The monthly social and entertainment of the Wollaston Congregational church was held in the vestries on Wednesday evening. At 6.30 a bountiful supper was served by the ladies of the society. Following this an entertainment of readings and musical selections was enjoyed.

MONEY USED BY EMPLOYES

One of Carnegie's Partners Discovered $250,000 Loss

Pittsburg, Feb. 10.—Alexander R. Peacock, one of Andrew Carnegie's "young partners," has astounded Pittsburg by the unexpected. Finding some of his employes had squandered about $250,000 of his money, he locked himself in a room with each of the erring employes one at a time and beat them soundly with his fists, then chased them from his poffice, declining to prosecute.

Before personally chastising them, however, Peacock, who is yet worth $15,000,000, made the gay employes sign over to him all the real estate, etc., that they owned.

Some time since Peacock became fearful that all was not right in one of his ventures and he employed an entire bureau of detectives to trail his employes, instructing that daily reports be made to him.

The first report put Peacock into bed with a nervous chill. He was told that two his most trusted men had bought wine by the case for chorus girls and men about town at the Hotel Lincoln until far into the morning. Peacock refused to believe this.

He ordered that the hotel be watched again. This was done, and once more the multi-millionaire was floored with the report. Not only were his two employes meeting all comers with wine at the hotel, but one of them had paraded openly in public places with a well-known woman of the town, who was showing a coat given her by the Peacock employe and which she proudly boasted had cost $400.

After midnight one of the men being watched started a poker game with only chorus girls and himself playing, he staked all of the girls to $25 each to play against him. With $500 in front of him he had been overcome with the wine and had to be started off to bed, while a male friend of one of the chorus girls took the "angel's" seat in the game—and lost the money to the ladies.

It required only a few days on the part of Peacock to find that from this one particular branch of business there had been $250,000 in profits in the past year which he had never seen.

Peacock has been quoted as saying that he himself rode in an automobile because he feared he might bump against some girl in a street car and give her grounds for a suit, and his abhorrence to women is known, so he became really ill when shown that his money was being spent on chorus girls each night.

Finally, when he had the proof conclusive, he called one of the men into his office, locked the door, and told what he had found. The employe fell on his knees and begged for mercy.

Peacock made him sign over to him all his property, which did not reach one-hundredth part of the money missing, and then the husky Scotch millionaire, with his dander up, landed his right fist flush on the jaw of the erring employe.

When the chastised employe finally escaped to the street he said he had been knocked down nine times in the office of Peacock. Another employe came unthinkingly, and he, too, ran into serious trouble.

"Buy wine for women of the streets and for chorus girls, and buy them $400 coats with my money, will you?" said Peacock as he feinted for the employe's stomach with his left, crossing to the jaw with his right. "I'll mark you up a little, anyway."

UNSAFE AFTER 9 O'CLOCK

Fifth Avenue Has Become a Parade For Light-Fingered People

New York, Feb. 10.—Fifth avenue has become so truly a parade for strong-arm women, "panel workers" and pickpockets, that the Fifth Avenue association, organized originally to promote the beauty of the avenue, has adopted resolutions calling for better police protection and more lights.

In ruling on a recent robbery case, Magistrate Cornell said that Fifth avenue is unsafe after 9 o'clock for men with much money about them.

Abdul Hamid Tries Suicide

Vienna, Feb. 10.—Abdul Hamid, the former Sultan of Turkey, was seized with a paroxysm of frenzy and attempted to strangle himself with a silk handkerchief. He was prevented from suicide by a servant and was subsequently placed in a strait jacket.

Ten Naval Cadets Dropped

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 10.—The roster of midshipmen at the naval academy was further reduced when the resignations of ten cadets who were unsatisfactory in studies at the recent semi-annual examination were accepted.

COLONEL SWOPE'S DEATH

Coroner's Jury Finds It Was Due to Poison Administered by an Heir

Independence, Mo., Feb. 10.—Colonel Thomas Swope was killed by strychnine administered in a capsule by Dr. B. C. Hyde. That was the verdict handed in by the coroner's jury, which has investigated the death of the millionaire, who, it is alleged, was killed in as strange a plot as ever was hatched, having for its object his $4,000,000 fortune.

Dr. Hyde is one of the Swope heirs and for a time was the family physician. It was during the period he occupied that trust that the strange epidemic of typhoid fever raged in the family. He withdrew after a consultation of nurses, and several members of the family who were ill immediately recovered. He has since sued John G. Paxton, executor of the Swope estate.

FOUR WRECKS AFLOAT

Revenue Cutters Hunting For Derelicts Which Menace Shipping

Washington, Feb. 10.—Four wrecked or abandoned vessels in the Atlantic ocean are now claiming the attention of the revenue cutter service.

The cutters Acushnet and Gresham have been sent out to look up the ship reported bottom up by the incoming vessel Pisa. The wreck is twenty-five miles east of the Nantucket lightship.

The Seneca is giving her attention to a waterlogged schooner, name unknown, off the Virginia coast. Lumber is drifting around the wreck.

Off Cape Hatteras is an unknown schooner which has been afire. The cutter Onondaga has gone out to destroy her if she cannot be saved.

ONE PASSENGER INSTANTLY KILLED

Eighteen Others Badly Hurt In Street Car Accident

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb. 10.—Coasting uncontrolled down a steep grade for a space of half a mile, a big double-truck electric car on the Pittsfield Street railway jumped the track on a curve at the foot of the hill and crashed into the abutments of a railroad bridge, killing one person instantly and injuring eighteen others so severely that they required surgical attendance. The accident happened in the town of Dalton. The rails were slippery with frost and the combined application of air brakes and hand brakes failed to check the speed of the car on the steep hill.

Miss Bessie Ryan, 22 years old, was killed instantly, her head being crushed between two seats. Medical Examiner Henry interviewed Motorman Murray and Conductor Blake and was informed that there was no sand on the car.

REBEL LEADERS CAPTURED

Chamorro Said to Be Retiring, With Government Forces In Pursuit

Managua, Nic., Feb. 10.—The prisoners taken at Las Garitas have arrived at Managua. They include several officers of the revolutionist forces. The government column sent in pursuit of Chamorro reports that he is retiring in the direction of the Rio Grande.

Jose Ramirez, minister of posts and communications under former President Zelaya, who was arrested and thrown into jail about six weeks ago, is still kept in confinement awaiting trial. He was charged by Madriz as having used he telegraph lines of the country to further the political aims of the enemies of the government.

EPIDEMIC AMONG INSANE

Fifty or More Cases of Diphtheria Reported In Hospital at Danvers

Danvers, Mass., Feb. 10.—On account of a number of cases of diphtheria and one or two cases of scarlet fever, the Danvers state hospital for insane has been placed under a rigid quarantine by the Danvers board of health.

There are said to be fifty or more cases of diphtheria at the hospital, but the officials do not consider this an alarming number in a total institutional population of more than 1500.

VILLAGE OF BYGONE DAYS

Scientists Will Investigate One Just Discovered In Arizona

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 10.—Another prehistoric village has been unearthed in Arizona.

Frank C. Erwin, while digging an irrigation ditch fourteen miles from Cochise, unearthed a number of utensils and skeletons and then found a wall twenty feet long and tables bearing remarkable hieroglyphics.

Work at the place was stopped and the Smithsonian institute has been notified of the discovery.

Quick-Witted Woman Saves a Life

Waltham, Mass., Feb. 10.—The waters of the Charles were sweeping 6-year-old Joseph Eagle to a certain death beneath the ice when Miss Eliabeth Roach, aged 22, improvised a lasso from a clothes line, cast it about the lad and held him until a man came to her aid and dragged him to the bank.

HONESTY NOT QUESTIONED

Hall's Reputation Made by the People of Southbridge

Southbridge, Mass., Feb. 10.—President Calvin D. Paige of the looted Southbridge Savings bank stamped as untrue the story told by the embezzling treasurer, John A. Hall, that he had tried to get caught half a dozen times and that the trustees refused to catch him.

"There never was the slightest suspicion of the man's honesty," said Paige. "The people consulted him as their adviser in investments, and far from trying to lead us to catch him he put up a big bluff even up to the last, when I found something wrong with the interest account.

"Nobody can guarantee the honesty of an official. We knew Mr. Hall and the people knew him. His reputation for honesty was made by the people. Even up to the last day people came to him to ask his advice about investments. He was the people's adviser and no word had ever been breathed against him.

"Do I believe Hall's statement that he tried to get caught? Would any man believe that he left the books so he would be caught when only a few days before the investigation he tried to laugh off my proposition that we get an expert accountant to look into the books?

"Not a soul ever had any inkling that anything was wrong with the books or accounts until I began to suspect that the interest account was not right. I went over to Hall and said to him: 'We'd better get an expert to fix up the books.' He laughed and said: "You'd better get a good one. If you don't I shall."

"And last summer he worked the same kind of a bluff. He said to Dr. Bradford: 'Every time I come into the bank the perspiration comes out on my forehead. And there is no reason for it, for everything is all right.'"

Discussed at State House

Boston, Feb. 10.—Bank Commissioner Chapin and Attorney General Malone are to have a conference on the affairs of the Southbridge Savings bank, and the possibility of proceeding in the courts against the trustees and auditing committee was announced at the state house.

Members of the legislature who have been hearing from the folks back home are anxious to find out what, if anything, is going to be done with C. F. Hill, C. W. Johnson and G. C. Winter, three men of Southbridge, who have been in the habit of reporting to Bank Commissioner Chapin once a year that they had hired an accountant to go over the books of John A. Hall, and that the accountant had found everything in apple-pie order.

Hill, Johnson and Winter were the "auditing" committee. Their last report to the bank commissioner at the state house was that S. D. Perry was the expert accountant employed by them and that Perry was paid $150 for his services.

Perry is the cashier of the Southbridge National bank. He says he never made such an expert examination of the bank and that Hall never employed him for that purpose.

"Well," the auditing committee say to the state, "Hall told us that he had employed Perry. We took his word for it!"

Because no member of the auditing committee ever asked Perry about it, although he was there in the same small town and they saw him every day, their savings bank has established the record of the biggest total loss ever achieved by a Massachusetts Savings bank and the depositors are asked to take 85 cents on the dollar and be glad to get it.

SWITCHMEN TO STRIKE

Increase In Wages Refused by Eighteen Railroads Entering Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 10.—By a reported vote of 3007 to 91 switchmen members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen of eighteen Chicago railroads decided in favor of a strike. The vote was announced by F. A. Whitney, vice president of the Switchmen's union.

At a recent conference between representatives of the union and general managers of the railroads, an increase in wages was refused.

MISS LE BLANC'S HANDS DISCOLORED

Claimed That Glover Threw Her Against a Machine

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 10.—Hattie Le Blanc's hands bore marks that would not come off after three days' concealment, Attorney Elmore told the probate court yesterday.

On the lower part of the index finger were stains like lead pencil marks. Others, smaller in character, stood out on the first knuckle of the right hand. The lower two-thirds of her hand was black. The other third was reddish, as if the skin had come off. A number of smaller marks stained her left hand.

When Elmore said to her: "Hattie, what are those?" she did not answer.

Later, in the examination at the police station, she said that in a quarrel or struggle with Glover he had knocked her hands against a machine.

Again yesterday the relative position of Hattie LeBlanc and the murdered man at the time she said she heard the shot could not be fixed.

POLL TAX DODGERS

There Are Eighty Thousand In Boston, According to City Treasurer

Boston, Feb. 10.—Chairman Sullivan of the finance commission declared that poll tax assessing was a "screaming farce" at the state house in urging his recommendations for amending the charter before the committee on metropolitan affairs.

"Of the 180,000 persons assessed last year in Boston, 100,000 failed to pay their poll tax," he said.

City Collector Brown admitted last night that while about 45 percent of the poll taxes had been collected

NATIONAL PAYS $604,304

Settles With Government For Underweighing Importations of Sugar

New York, Feb. 10.—The National Sugar Refining company formally turned over to the United States treasury the sum of $604,304, due the government for shortage in importations of sugar between 1907 and 1908.

In announcing the settlement W. T. Dennison, who is assisting in the prosecution of the sugar frauds, said: "This settlement in no wise affects the criminal prosecutions of any individuals who may be shown to have been responsible for any criminal frauds."

MORE LANDS WITHDRAWN

Supposed to Contain Valuable Mineral Deposits and Water Powers

Washington, Feb. 10.—Secretary Ballinger has withdrawn from public entry more lands supposed to possess valuable water power sites or deposits of minerals.

More than 16,000 acres along the Brenau river in Idaho, and about 28,000 acres along the Salmon river in Idaho and Nevada were withdrawn temporarily in aid of proposed legislation to effect water power sites.

The secretary also withdrew more than 500,000 acres in Wyoming supposed to contain valuable deposits.

Newport, R. I., Feb. 10.—Accompanied by intense lightning and repeated volleys of thunder, a heavy rain storm settled over Newport last evening.

FAIL TO MAKE MOE RETRACT HIS STORY

Allds's Attorneys Subject Cashier to Steady Hail of Questions

Albany, Feb. 10.—The reputations of two senators were the stakes for which two of the foremost cross-examiners in the country battled in the state senate.

Before them sat Hiram G. Moe, the bank cashier from Groton, whose assertion that he gave Senator Jotham P. Allds $1000 to suppress a bill hostile to the bridge building combination has made him up to this point the foremost figure in the senate's investigation of the bribery charges made against Allds by his colleague, Benn Conger.

Moe was under cross-examination three hours, but a steady hail of questions failed to make him retract any of his startling assertions. Allds' corps of prominent lawyers tried to undermine Moe's competency and reliability, but were unsuccessful.

ELECTRIC SIGNALS OF FIRE

Enable Miners to Find Safety in Specially Constructed Manhole

Zanesville, O., Feb. 10.—Another in the fast growing list of frightful mine disasters was narrowly averted when 150 miners in King's colliery, warned through electric signals of fire, which poured down the main shaft, made their way to a specially constructed manhole and escaped.

Arriving above ground they joined the small force fighting flames in the tipple and power-house, and the mine itself was saved by their aid. The surface buildings were destroyed, the loss being $40,000.

CAUSES STOMACH TROUBLE

Embalmed Beef Said to Be Responsible For Much Sickness In Peoria

Peoria, Ills., Feb. 10.—Health Commissioner Scholl of this city has ordered an immediate investigation as the result of what is declared to be a widespread epidemic of stomach and bowel trouble, the cause of which is thought to be embalmed beef.

Seven physicians have forty-seven cases in charge. Dr. Scholl estimates that there are at least 2000 cases of stomach or bowel trouble in the city at present.

CHILD LURED TO BARN

Little One Mutilated and Then Deliberately Strangled to Death

Newark, N. J., Feb. 10.—The murder of a 5-year-old girl was revealed by the finding of her mutilated body in an old broken-down barn here.

The discovery was made by the child's father, Harry Tishkowit, at the head of a party who had been scouring the neighborhood in search of the missing little one. Lying on a heap of refuse in one corner of the dilapitated structure was the twisted body, from which practically the clothing had been stripped.

There was every evidence that the murderer had finally deliberately strangled his victim to death. The little one's outstretched hand still grasped a penny, which had evidently been the lure which drew her to the dismal interior and to her death.

Detectives had their hands full trying to prevent an excited mob of foreigners from lynching a suspect who was arrested. The man taken into custody is a foreigner.

ON THE MERIT SYSTEM

Telephone Company Appropriates $200,000 to Raise Salaries

Boston, Feb. 10.—The sum of $200,000 has been appropriated by the New England Telephone and Telegraph company and placed at the disposal of the heads of the operating and clerical departments for the purpose of raising the salaries of the employes in those departments.

The merit system will be used in increasing the different salaries. The new salary schedule will be the standard schedule until the company finds it in its power to advance salaries further.

MISS HESLER'S FIANCE

Evanston Society Supposed That He Was One of Their Set

Boston, Feb. 10.—Miss Dorothy Hesler's declaration on the witness stand at the navy yard court martial that Dr. A. H. Robnett, who was found guilty, was her fiance, has caused a sensation in Evanston, Ills., society, where she was very prominent, according to dispatches last night.

It has been reported in that aristocratic suburb of Chicago that Miss Hesler was engaged to H. L. Dahl, a member of one of the most prominent families in that town.

Young Dahl, who is a well-known clubman, had been very attentive to Miss Hesler, and it was reported over a month ago that their marriage would take place within a year.

Dahl, it is reported, refuses to make any statement regarding the affair, but his friends say that his disappointment is very keen.

SPANISH CABINET CRISIS

Morte Ministry Resigns After Less Than Four Months' Existence

Madrid, Feb. 10.—After a stormy career the cabinet headed by Senor Moret resigned Wednesday. It took office on Oct. 21, 1909, as a result of the agitation over the execution of Francisco Ferrer, that caused the downfall of Premier Maura.

The king has charged Jose Canalejas y Mendos, a Democrat and leader of the Extreme Liberal Left, to form a new ministry.

BRIEFS

Whist party tonight in Poland's hall, Norfolk Downs.

Lincoln day will be observed in the public schools of the city tomorrow.

A hearing on the Quincy courthouse bill will be given at the State House next Wednesday at 10:30.

The Sons of St. George have organized a degree team which will meet every first Wednesday.

Girls employed by the Telephone Company in all exchanges are to receive advance in pay.

The case of John Jacobson vs J. S. Swingle is on trial in the Norfolk superior court, to recover $5000 for injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Mitchell, Jr., of 131 Glendale road are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son today.

Gertrude A. Boyd auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans will hold a supper and whist party at G. A. R. hall Friday evening.

Samuel C. Melville of Quincy Point left this week to accept a position in Toronto, Canada. He will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., entertains its kindred organizations tonight at Union hall. There will be music, an entertainment, refreshments and a general good time.

City Treasurer Curtis awarded today a $50,000 loan in anticipation of taxes to Blake Bros. of Boston, at a discount of 3.83. It matures Feb. 10, 1911.

The predicted high wind for today arrived on time and this noon it was blowing almost a gale. There is one good thing about the high wind, and that is it will dry up the mud in the streets and make walking good.

The new polishing mill of Hughes & Johnson is in operation and there is considerable activity at the plant. Tthirty-two men are employed. New machinery for the polishing mill arrived this week.

The will of Mrs. Anna S. Bigelow allowed Wednesday leaves the bulk of her estate of $115,000 to her three daughters, Caroline M. Amory, Marion G. Ely and Clara B. Dabney. The grandchildren receive $500 each.

Under the triennial apportionment of the State taxes this year, Quincy's proportion will be larger because of the increase in valuation. The largest increases will be in Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Cambridge and Brookline.

Mrs. Mary Curry, widow of Thomas Curry, who died at the residence of her daughter in Cambridge on Tuesday was brought to Quincy Wednesday and will be buried Friday from the residence of her son Michael, a 8 Ashland street. Mrs Curry has always made her home in Quincy and has raised a large family of children, eleven of whom are now living, eight sons and three daughters.

Her sons are John, a call member of the fire department; Edward, manager of a large grocery house in Dorchester; Michael, James, Simon, Thomas and Martin, the latter being a sheriff in New York. Her daughters are Mrs. Delia McMahon of Quincy, Mrs. McCormick of Watertown and Mrs. Patrick Keefe of Cambridge.

Mrs. Curry had been in poor health for some time, and a few months ago went to her daughter's home in Cambridge. It is somewhat remarkable that out of a family of twelve children all save one are living. At the funeral services Friday her eight sons will act as pall bearers. The burial will be in the family lot in St Mary's cemetery.

GAS STOCK AT $125

Will Probably Pay a Dividend This Year

The Citizens Gas Company has 3,830 shares of stock valued at $125 each, a total of $478,750, and is expected to pay a dividend this year.

The securities held in the treasury of the Massachusetts Gas Companies have an estimated value of $52,400,540 based on present market prices for similar securities, which compares with $49,207,500, the present stock market valuation of the bonds and shares issued by the Massachusetts Gas Companies.

The valuations placed on the shares of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company, East Boston Company, Newton & Watertown Gas Company and the Citizens Gas Company are based on the last sales of shares of similar gas companies made at public auction or private sale, while the securities of the coal mining and distributing companies and the New England Gas & Coke Company are valued at the actual amount of money invested in these properties, coupled with earning power.

The following table gives the list of companies owned by the Massachusetts Gas Companies incorporated under Massachusetts laws, the outstanding shares of each ,their present dividend rates and estimated market value per share:

	No. Share	Divi dend	Market value
Boston Consolidated	151,106	9	$225
East Boston Gas	22,792	12	*70
Newton & Watertown	5,000	10	225
Citizens Gas Quincy	3,830	‡0	125

*Par $25
‡Dividends to be paid probably this year.

BRIEFS

The many friends of Lawrence J. Barrie of Whitwell street, who underwent an operation at the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, three weeks ago, will be pleased to learn that he is expected home this week, much improved in health.

Masses were held at St. Johns, St. Marys and the Sacred Heart chu ches on Ash Wednesday. There were also services in the evening, including the recitation of the rosary, sermon, and benediction of the blessed sacrament. During Lent services will be held on Wednesdays and Fridays.

A supper will be served free at the Wollaston M. E. church tomorrow evening preceding the annual meeting. The program for the evening will be of an interesting character, including readings, music reports and addresses. All attendants at the church will be welcomed.

NEW BALL CLUB.

A new baseball team known as the Rambler has been formed in Wollaston composed of a majority of the old Excelsus team. Milton Burton has been elected manager and Billy Manning captain. Among those forming the team are Mel and Boodus Chapman, Conway, McCarthy, Stan Bates and others. The team is out this year for the 16-19 year championship of Quincy and will answer all challeges of this nature received. Practise will begin as soon as weather conditions permit, and it is expected to fill the season's schedule early. The team has the best of material to work with, and with the proper practise will make local fans sit up and take notice. A benefit for the team is to be held at an early date.

CUP DEFENDER.

George W. Wightman of the Boston Yacht Club will have a new boat for the sonderclasse races this season, to be sailed in the trial races of the Eastern Y. C. to select a team of three boats to meet the Spanish sonders, and to be a candidate for the Boston Yacht Club's defense of the Quincy cup, says the Post.

The Wightman boat will be designed by George Owen, who turned out the rating class champions, Dorello, Timandra and Wiano. This will be Mr. Owen's first essay at a sonder boat. The Wightman boat will be built by Hodgdon Bros., at East Boothbay, Me.

Mr. Wightman, although one of the youngest skippers in the bay, has had much experience with small racing yachts. He had the Bonito and Bonitwo in the 18-foot knockabout class, the latter one of the fastest boats ever entered in the 18-footers; the Bonidrel in the first year of the sonderclasse, 1906, which was one of the speediest of the class that year and narrowly missed winning the Quincy cup, losing on a protest in the final race, and the Bonifor in the Gull 15-foot class. The new sonder will probably be named Bonita.

SPORTING CHAT.

(By Rube.)

The Old Colony league Magnates voted at the annual meeting that each club deposit $25 before the next meeting as a guarantee of good faith. We will soon learn what players the clubs have reserved for 1910, for all clubs have filed a list with Secretary Alger.

• • •

Watch the Quincy athletes that take part in the B. A. A. games Saturday night. Plan to attend if possible for the cream of the athletic world will compete.

• • •

"Bill" McCarthy of the Taunton Old Colony league club certainly is a gamester if one ever lived. He now comes out flat footed and says he will not transfer his franchise to Brockton as has been the talk, but intends to "take a chance" again in Taunton. We all admire his nerve but how about judgment in this case?

Eddie Claxton of East Milton has my sincere sympathy for it is hard luck indeed to break an arm when engaged in a friendly bout of self defense. We all hope his arm will knit rapidly and not bother him in years to come.

If it is in any way possible for you to take in the basketball game tomorrow at the High school don't fail to do so. Quincy High school quintet play the speedy Thayer Academy five from Braintree. Both teams claim a victory and a good game is sure to result for victories have come often to the two schools in games to date.

• • •

It is the first time I ever knew Hingham to lead in anything. I refer to that challenge for the Quincy cup.

"Johnny" Rudderham the well known former ball player and New England league umpire and last season trainer of the Philadelphia National league club will the coming season be trainer for the Montreal club in the Eastern league. "Coon" Rudderham of the champion Dewey team is his son.

Three cheers for that swimming pool at the Quincy Y. M. C. A. It seems too bad that it will take three or four weeks more to finish it and just think how many are watching for a chance to take their initial dip.

Let us hope Quincy of the Norfolk County Baseball League will be on top when the bell rings next fall. We can all stand two pennants, for everyone says the Old Colony league club will clinch the bunting in 1910.

WHIST TOURNAMENT.

The weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club Wednesday evening drew out a large number of players and the play was sharp and interesting from start to finish. As usual some good scores were made although the top scores were not so close as a week ago. W. O. Wellington secured the top score again this week winning 43 points and losing 17 which gave him 71.6 per cent. Mark L. Read Jr., was second high man with 26 points won and 12 lost a per cent of 68.4. Ice cream and cake was served after the play.

GEERS PLANS BIG CAMPAIGN.

Silent Driver Has String of Thirty-three Harness Horses.

From a string of thirty-three harness horses now quartered at the Billings track, Memphis, Tenn., Ed Geers, the veteran horseman, will select his 1910 campaign material. The "silent driver" will have one of the biggest years of his career as a trainer and pilot. Leff Shafer, second trainer of the string, says Geers has all sorts of promising campaigners in the stable and several good green animals.

"Demarest has shown more improvement than any horse I ever saw under Geers' direction," says Shafer. "The Harvester is great. He's the king of trotters. Watch him in the races this year for miles in 2:02. The old campaigner Walter Direct, 2:05½, looks as if he would stand training this season and give another flash of his form that once put him in the honor niche as the leading pacing winner of the season.

"Marie N., 2:08¼, after gaining the reputation of being the first 2:10 trotter of last season, did not do as well as some of the critics expected, and these same critics would better be prepared this year to do this mare honor. She will do better than 2:05½ next summer or I'll be badly mistaken."

SPANISH MIDDIES COMING.

Dons Will Send Sonder Yachts to Race Americans Next September.

Yachtsmen the country over became deeply interested upon learning that a series of international sonder boat races will be held off Marblehead, Mass., next September between yachts of that type representing Spain and America.

The Eastern Yacht club of Boston some time ago sent a formal invitation to the San Sebastian Royal Yacht club, of which King Alfonso is the head, asking that three Spanish boats be sent to this country in 1910 to race against three American yachts for suitable trophies. An acceptance was received within a day or two, and the committee of the club will proceed at once to make arrangements for the races with a committee of the Spanish Yacht club.

In 1908 the three American sonder boats that raced at Kiel, Germany, went to San Sebastian upon invitation of the yacht club there and were defeated in a series of contests. An informal invitation was then extended on behalf of the Eastern Yacht club to the Spanish yachtsmen to come to Marblehead for a return series.

KETCHEL TO FIGHT AGAIN.

Middleweight Champion to Take on Three Within Next Two Months.

Evidently Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, who has not fought since he was defeated by Jack Johnson, intends to be a very busy pugilist within the next six months Ketchel has agreed to take on Harry Klaus of Pittsburg in Memphis, Tenn.

KETCHEL, MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION.

the first week in March for ten rounds. Later he will tackle Joe Thomas in Philadelphia. After these two bouts Stanley will go abroad and meet Tom Thomas, the English middleweight champion, in London. As Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, has offered the "Michigan Terror" a good sized purse to try his skill against Tommy Burns it is more than likely that he will journey to the antipodes.

Benbrook Michigan's New Captain.

Albert Benbrook of Chicago, engineer and brilliant player on the University of Michigan football team last fall, has been elected captain of the 1910 eleven to replace Joy Miller. Miller was elected captain in a close race with Benbrook, but was recently barred from the team when it was learned that he had not been eligible to play during the whole of last season.

Want English Archers to Come.

The National Archery association has invited W. Dods and Miss Legh, the British archery champions, to come to this country next August and enter the American championship scheduled to be held in Chicago. They may meet an American team in a dual contest if they prefer the event to open competition.

PRESIDENT BOWLES' WORK APPRECIATED

Business Men of Quincy Will Give Him a Grand Reception and Banquet.

The Public Generally Will Be Invited to Attend.

Arrangements are being made for a public expression of good will and banquet to President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. on his return from Europe where he secured the contract for the building of two mammoth battleship for the Argentine Republic.

Acting upon the suggestion of Mayor Shea several well known business men of City Square met in the office of the Mayor a few days ago to consider the matter of a public expression on the part of the citizens of Quincy to President Bowles. Although known at the time of the meeting at the request of the Mayor, the move was not made public until it was known just when President Bowles would return. Assurances that he would sail for home Sunday having been received, the gentlemen met again Thursday afternoon in the Mayor's office, where the preliminary arrangements were made for the banquet.

At this meeting it was decided to tender President Bowles a banquet on Wednesday evening, Feb. 23. The banquet will be held at Music hall, and a general invitation to the citizens of Quincy to attend has been extended. As now planned, there will be an informal reception at Alpha hall from 6 to 6.45, after which an adjournment will be made to Music hall where the banquet will be served at 7 o'clock.

The committee which met Thursday afternoon organized with Mayor Shea as chairman, Henry L. Kincaide as secretary and James F. Burke as treasurer. It was decided that there should be a general committee of one hundred. The names of these gentlemen will be announced in a few days.

It is the desire of the gentlemen having the banquet in charge that as many citizens as possible attend. Music hall will seat 500 and as tickets for the dinner have been placed at one dollar each there should be no trouble in selling the number that can be accommodated.

These tickets will be placed on sale in a few days in every drug store in the city. In addition to this the tickets may be obtained at the news stand of Branscheid & Martens at Atlantic, residentce of Eugene R. Stone on River street and A. L. Whitman's store at Quincy Point, and at the office of James F. Burke in the Savings Bank building.

There are some minor details yet to be arranged which will be provided for when the personnel of the general committee is annaunced.

GRAND ARMY ENTERTAIN

Womans Relief Corps and Others as Guests

Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., entertained the members of the Women's Relief corps, Ladies' Aid, the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans, sons of Veterans and Spanish War Veterans, in a royal manner Thursday evening at Union hall. The entertainment, as Commander Phillips said in his address of welcome, was in order that the members of the organizations, all of whose objects are of a kindred nature, might become better acquainted with each other. The affair was attended by about one hundred and all report having an enjoyable evening.

Following the address of welcome by Commander Phillips, there was a selection by Frenoh Bros., orchestra, composed of a piano, violin, banjo and harmonica; readings by Mrs. Kate A. Blaisdell of Dorchester, song with banjo accompaniment by Henry O. Studley, piano and violin duet by Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Loud, recitation by Commander Phillips, and brief address by Comrade Sanborn of Post 15, Boston, and Col. Charles H. Porter of Paul Revere post.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served after the entertainment followed by a social hour during which old acquaintances were renewed and new ones formed.

CURRENTS EVENTS LECTURE.

The February meeting of the Currents Events class of the Quincy Women's club met at the club house Thursday afternoon. Mrs. May Alden Ward, lecturer was unable to be present and sent her husband, Prof. Ward as her substitute.

Mr. Ward gave a most interesting talk. It was comprehensive and enjoyable. He told of conditions in Spain; of the dissolving of the old cabinet and forming the new one. The new king realizes that Spain is way behind the times and throws his influence with the progressive party. Mr. Ward explained the difficulties with the monaste ies and the new treaty about to be made with the Vatican.

Mr. Ward gave his listeners a very clear idea of affairs in England especially on home rule for Ireland. The Irish people have no home parliament; have to apply to London for every little thing.

Years ago England took away all their land and gave it to the barons and it was not until Gladstone's time that conditions changed. He favored selling farms of eight acres. Of the 25,000 farms bought on the 50 year payment basis all but three had been paid for, and in these cases death had been responsible for the non-payment.

The liberal party in England favors home rule for Ireland and it will be interesting to watch the papers for the budget. Three things are to be decided: first, home rule for Ireland; second, to establish limitation of power of lords over their villages in procuring votes, etc.; third, the curtailment of the veto power.

In his hour's talk, Mr. Ward said much and greatly interested the ladies present.

OBJECT TO STABLE.

A large number of abutters attended the public hearing held by the Board of Health on Thursday evening at their office in City hall on the petition of Herman G. Bryan, for a permit to construct and occupy the basement of a building on Madison street, Atlantic, as a stable for four horses. Practically all of those present at the hearing were opposed to the occupation of the building as a stable. These were largely abuttors who objected on the ground that it would not only be a nuisance but a menace to public health. After the hearing the board took the matter under advisement.

DASH TO NORTH POLE

Interestingly Described by Captian Bartlett

Captain Robert A. Bartlett of the Roosevelt had two large audiences at Alpha hall on Thursday. In the afternoon over 200, largely school children, and in the evening nearly 500. In the afternoon the polar explorer was introduced by Secretary Gay of the Y. M. C. A., the lecture being given under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary; in the evening by Senator E. C. Hultman. The captain had over 100 excellent views, which were brought out very clearly by Dr. A. H. Gilson of this city who was in charge of the lantern. Mr. Bartlett does not pose as a lecturer, but from his experience, and with the aid of the photographs recited a very interesting tale new in many details.

First, he showed a picture of the "Roosevelt," built purposely for the dash to the North Pole, and told of its extra strong construction. Then he showed map after map and explained the currents, ice formation, glaciers, ice bergs, etc. He said the nearest known land to the pole is 413 miles, and that there was a large ocean at the pole with water 3000 to 7000 fathoms deep.

Capt. Bartlett showed many pictures of Esquimaux, and told of their characteristics, dress, habits, etc. He was enthusiastic over the Esquimaux dogs, but said it was necessary always to let them know you are manager. He told of the capture of walrus, musk oxen, etc. But the most interesting details concerned the plans for the expedition, learned from experience. The Esquimaux and the dogs were not always ready to carry out what was expected of them, but success crowned the efforts of Admiral Peary and his loyal assistants, and the stars and stripes were planted at the North Pole. All honor to Peary.

Capt. Bartlett was interviewed by the reporters, and talked freely. When asked if he would like to make a dash for the South Pole he said yes, certainly. When asked if he knew who would probably command the proposed expedition he said he did, but was non-committal. It was largely a question of money to fit out the expedition, but he thought it would be forthcoming.

A Boston paper prints today a dispatch from St. Johns, N. F., which reads: Capt. Robert Bartlett, who comanded the Roosevelt in Peary's expedition, wired today from New York his resignation as commander of the steamer Southern Cross, scheduled to go to the seal hunting grounds next month. Capt. Bartlett in his telegram says that he resigns to take command of the American Antarctic expedition.

EIGHT SONS PALL BEARERS.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Curry was held this morning at 9 o'clock from the home of her son, Michael Curry, 8 Ashland street, West Quincy, and was followed by a high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church. Rev. Henry T. Grady, pastor of the church was celebrant with Rev. John P. Cuffe of the Sacred Heart church of Atlantic as deacon, and Rev. William Duffy of St. Mary's church as sub-deacon.

The Gregorian mass was sung by the regular choir with Miss Mary McKay as organist. At the offertory Mrs. J. F. Fennessey sang De Profundis, and after the elevation Joseph Morrissette sang Pie Jesu. After the mass Miss Elizabeth Lyons sang Libera.

The services were very largely attended and there were many beautiful flowers to testify to the worth of the deceased. The burial was at St. Mary's cemetery, her eight sons, John, Edward, Michael, James, Simon, Thomas, Martin and Patrick acting as pall bearers.

—We are willing to risk the prediction that the average citizen is now planning to do a little intensive farming in his back yard next spring and summer in order to reduce the price of living.—St. Paul Dispatch.

THE GRAND BANQUET

Principal Topic of West Quincy Improvement Society

A well attended meeting of the West Quincy Improvement society was held Thursday evening. Reports from the committee having in charge the banquet of the society to be held Thursday evening, Feb. 24, were made. These showed that many tickets had already been sold, and that the banquet could not be otherwise than a success. It was voted to extend an invitation to the president of the different improvement societies of the city to attend the banquet. Following this there was a general discussion of things for the improvement of the city and the ward.

IMPORTANT HEARING

To Determine the Basis of Apportionment

Notice has been received at City Hall of the hearing to be held before the justices of the Supreme Judicial court of Suffolk county, April 5, at 9.30 A. M. on the petition of William B. de las Casas et al of the Metropolitan Park Commission for the appointment of a commission to determine basis of payments of the cities and towns of the metropolitan district for metropolitan improvements. The hearing is to be held in accordance with Chapter 419 of the acts of 1899. No hearing is of more importance to Quincy, which should be represented with a definite plan. The nearer these apportionments are made on valuation of the cities the more equitable they will be to all municipalities concerned and the taxpayers.

—It is said that the members of both the Rockland Woman's club and the Commercial club are sitting up and burning midnight oil in their efforts to be prepared for the spelling match that is to be held between the two organizations. There must be some brave men in the Commercial club if they really intend to tackle the Woman's club in a spelling contest.—Rockland Standard.

ITALIAN CONTRACTS FOR QUINCY SHIPYARD

Fore River Will Build Six Turbine Engines for Two Cruisers of the Italian Navy,

Each Set of Engines Must Develop 28,000 Horse Power.

That the success of the American Curtis turbine engines installed in the battleship North Dakota is attracting world-wide notice, was again made manifest Thursday evening, when a cablegram was received from President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. announcing that he had signed a contract with the Officinie Meccanischi at Naples for the building of two sets of three each of the American turbines for two scout cruisers which the Royal Italian navy is building. Each set of engines will develop 28,000 horse-power, and the contract calls for a speed of 28 knots.

This contract coming at the same time as the contract for the two battleships for the Argentine Republic means employment to a large number of skilled workmen at the Fore River and a business boom for the city, which as General Manager Smith, said at the banquet of the Fore River apprentices, will make Quincy as famous for its shipbuilding as it has been for its granite. It means that Quincy, Massachusetts will become familiar all over the world, and that hereafter it will occupy a more prominent place on the map than ever.

The Italian Navy now includes 14 modern battleships all built since 1897; another the San Marco will be completed this year, and two more in 1912. These last two are the largest but will have a displacement of only 19,000 tons; both will carry eight 12-inch guns and twelve 4-inch guns; a speed of 24 knots is called for. The new contracts of the Quincy company require the completion of battleships of 28,000 tons in two years, but the contracts for the two Italian battleships to be completed in 1912 were awarded in 1907, allowing five years. The contract for the San Marco, to be completed this year was also awarded five years ago 1905.

The admiral of the Italian navy is H. R. H. Prince Thomas Duke of Genoa. The commander of the active squadron is Vice Admiral Bettolo, and of the squadron for instruction Rear Admiral Grenet. The minister of marine is Rear Admiral Mirabello.

KNIGHTS OF MALTA.

John Adams commandery met in Greenleaf hall Thursday night and nominated officers for the coming year. The companions who attended the lecture at Christ church Men's club reported enjoying the entertainment very much, as did the delegation who attended the Brockton Malta commandery the same night. The commandery voted a letter of thanks to the Men's club. The companions enjoyed cigars and a wholesome talk from Past Command John D. Mackay. A long calendar of business was transacted in a manner gratifying to all present, and preparations made for working the second degree on the 24th of this month.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

It is now, "Beautiful Quincy."

How many Quincy people are there who want to go to the Antarctic with Capt. Bartlett?

One of the best ways to save money is to read the home newspaper thoroughly for the bargain news from our home merchants.

The President says he is lonely and so is the country. Every one is waiting until Teddy comes marching home to get things going again.

The Brooklyn Eagle advises people to live within their income or quit. This is a bid for the undertakers advertisement.

Before we all join the meat boycott, it would be well to inquire whether it means a corresponding rise in price of vegetables.

A house, a house, a kingdom for a house. This is going to be the great cry when work is started on those Argentine battleships. Better build as many as you can. It will be an excellent investment.

The Daily Ledger not long ago pointed out excellent chances for improvement at Quincy Adams. Why not strike now after Mr. Bailey's interesting talk and try to remove those ugly billboards and that horrible corner lot at Goddard and Franklin streets?

Let the reception to President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company be a rouser, and show the State and Nation that Quincy can enthuse at times. We certainly have occasion to rejoice, not only over the Argentina contracts, but the Italian contracts, and more to come. All up for Quincy that moves the World."

It begins to look as though we will soon see a memorial to William J. Burke erected in Quincy. We are all heartily in favor of this for Quincy is indeed proud of her native son who lost his life in preventing the destruction of the battleship Georgia with all on board in 1906. Long live the name of William J. Burke.

Now it is Italian naval contracts that have been secured by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company. First it was for the United States navy, then for the Japanese navy then for the Argentine Republic, and now for the Italian navy. Quincy is getting world-wide reputation and renown.

Congressmen are to have a gymnasium in the Capitol. It is to be the best equipped and maintained in the United States and since Bailey of Texas and Tillman of Carolina have been trained to stand hitched the need of such a chamber for the exercise of members has been sorely felt.

Senator Depew has been appointed to read Washington's Farewell address to the Senate on Washington's Birthday and for once Mr. Depew is anxious to give full credit for its authorship. His lavish entertainment of the visiting delegation of New York editors and newspapermen for three days makes it evident that Mr. Depew wants to postpone his own farewell address for at least six years.

The public views with trepidation the announcement that Congress intends seriously to investigate the high cost of living. In the past every serious investigation by Congress has been followed by an increase in prices and the Beef Trust busting, the Pure Food laws and the Tariff have all resulted in bigger bills for the householder. White wash and red tape are expensive Governmental commodities.

Women's Clubs. That name today does not convey the thought of a neglected home or a meeting place where unfortunates are ridiculed in conversation as it did a few years back, but instead it causes us to think of a body of women meeting occasionally to talk over ideas that benefit the home, the community in which they live and mankind in general.

The women today are doing as much good in helping unfortunates as men ever did and in some cases women have enlightened men with ideas they never even thought of.

In Quincy this week at the Quincy Women's club the speaker was Henry Turner Bailey, a man who has shown the country the value of improving the looks of its squares, beautifying the home surroundings, etc., and as a result they have a oused citizens in the matter.

At Braintree the Philergians are interesting themselves in the movement for a sewer which must come soon. Throughout the country the women are fighting the white plague, establishing out-of-door wards, etc., for the unfortunates. Quincy women are intensely interested on this subject. The man who begrudges the women an afternoon at a club of this kind is a drawback to his community.

The women again, help poor foreigners and poor people in the towns in our cities by selling from tables to the members and their friends articles that may be sent to them.

This is called the Exchange and anyone is given the opportunity to send in their work that it may be sold. If your wife, mother or sister talks of joining a women's club, by all means encourage them; it will be one of the best things you can do to get them to take a much needed afternoon out. It will prove helpful too.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

The increase in the city's salary list which amounts to about $2000 for the coming year is the subject of considerable comment. It was understood sometime ago that the Board of Control would not, for the present at least, grant any further increases in salaries and the salary list as printed in the Record yesterday, showing the number of increases and the amount of each, came as a surprise to the citizens at large.—Chelsea Record.

Among the good things American municipalities did during the year past is the general advancement of the playground idea. Of the larger, cities 154 spent $1,353,114 in giving to the children of the tenements a breathing spot where they might run and romp from daybreak to sunset; then 326 cities maintained and supervised playgrounds. The total amount of money spent by both municipalities and p ivate persons is more or less problematic, but the good done is a certainty. It is printed upon little faces and bodies and it is written in tiny hearts.—Haverhill Gazette.

Some humanitarian has thought it out and given it to the world: "Don't be in jail the 15th of next April." On that date Uncle Sam turns loose a great army of enumerators to find out "who's who and why" and a few other things to hand down to posterity. If a person is arrested on April 14th, spends the 15th in jail, is released and exonerated on the 16th he goes down on record as a "jail bird" and there he will stay. So it will pay a person of average sensibilities to be real good during the early part of April. Many of those persons who are in jail awaiting trial, will probably make a grand hustle to get out before the 15th of April.—Norwood Messenger.

The number of merchants who will sit down and seriously argue that it does not pay to advertise, is not half as great today as it was five years ago. The fortunes that have been accumulated by successful advertisers, the direct response of the buying public to judicious publicity, are such apparent facts as to have convinced a large share of the former doubters. But occasionally there is a merchant who gets it into his head that there is a method of getting at the public through some means other than newspaper space. There is some serious objection to every such method. It is the newspaper only that gives the chance for thoughtful presentation of business news.—Beverly Times.

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

How President Adams Was Elected Selectman

(Historical Paper No. 7.)

During the Revolutionary period when Quincy was a part of Braintree, John Adams who was afterwards President, was elected as one of the Selectmen. He was then 31 years of age, and it was 31 years later that he was elected President. In his interesting diary, volume 1, page 185 of 1766, he wrote as follows:

"Mar. 1st, Saturday. Spent a part of last evening with Mr. Jo. Cleverly. He is a tiptoe for town meeting; he has many schemes and improvements in his head,—namely, for separating the offices of constable and collector; collecting taxes has laid the foundation for the ruin of many families. He is for five selectmen, and will vote for the old ones, Mr. Quincy and Major Miller. He hea's they are for turning out all the old selectmen, and choosing a new set; they for having but three, etc.

"The only way to oppose schemes is to schemes, and so break in upon them. Cleverly will become a great town meeting man, and a great speaker in town meeting. Q. What effect will this have on the town affairs? Brother tells me that William Veasey, Jr., tells him he has but one objection against Jonathan Bass, and that is, Bass is too forward. When a man is forward, we may conclude he has some selfish view, some self ends.

Brother asked him if he and his party would carry that argument through. It holds stronger against Captain Thayer and Major Miller than it ever did against anybody in this town, excepting Colonel Gooch and Captain Mills. But I desire the proof of Bass's forwardness. Has he been more so than Major Miller? Come, come, Mr. Veasey, says Master Jo. Cleverly, don't you say too much; I ain't of that mind. Ego. Pass is an active, capable man, but no seeker by mean begging or buying of votes.

"3d. Monday. My brother Peter, Mr. Etter and Mr. Field, having a number of votes prepared for Mr. Quincy and me, set themselves to scatter them in town meting. The town had been very silent and still, my name had never been mentioned, nor had our friends ever talked of any new Selectmen at all, excepting in the South Precinct; but as soon as they found there was an attempt to be made, they fell in and assisted; and, although there were six different hats with votes for as many different persons, besides a considerable number of scattering votes, I had the major vote of the assembly the first time. Mr. Quincy had more than one hundred and sixty votes. I had but one vote more than half.

Some of the church people—Mr. Jo. Cleverly, his brother Ben and son, etc., and Mr. Ben. Veasey, of the middle precinct, Mr. James Faxon, etc.,—I found were grieved and chagrined for the loss of their dear Major Miller. Etter and my brother took a skilful method; they let a number of young fellows into the design, John Ruggles, Peter Newcomb, etc., who were very well pleased with the employment, and put about a great many votes. Many persons, I hear acted slyly and deceitfully; this is always the case. I own it gave me much pleasure to find I had so many friends, and that my conduct in town has been not disapproved. The choice was quite unexpected to me. I thought the project was so new and sudden that the people had not digested it, and would generally

DISCONTENT IN MIDDLE WEST

Effort to Check it by Passing Postal Savings Bank Bill

Washington, Feb. 11.—A majority of eight votes is counted for the postal savings bank bill in the senate, consequently the leaders are giving assurance that the measure will go to the upper branch when friends and opponents are talked out. In the house the bill will be referred to the committee on postoffice and post roads, and as some doubt exists whether that committee will be found willing to report the bill, the plan is to call a Republican caucus and demand enactment of the measure.

The bill is going through under whip and spur not because a majority of congress believe it is wise or even needed legislation. It is regarded as the most popular offering congress can make to the discontented middle west, and the leaders are fearful that a failure to provide postal banks would add one more important indictment to the list which is being found against the party in the court of popular appeal.

From the economic point of view the bill is admittedly defective because it does not give precedence to a provision requiring that the deposits shall be used first for the purchase of government bonds. Unless the bill explicitly provides that this shall be the first use to be made of the money, it will meet with the powerful opposition of Senator Aldrich, whose plan of currency reform might be seriously embarrassed if the postal deposits were not made readily available for the retirement of the Panama 2 percents and perhaps other government securities. An amendment by Senator Root to cure this defect will be offered.

The amendment, of course, antagonizes the principal of the Carter bill, which provides that the money shall first be deposited in local banks. It is estimated, however, that if the deposits are forthcoming in any such volume as friends of the measure predict enough money will be received, not only to take care of the bonds, but to allow the western banks some generous droppings. The banks must pay 2¼ percent to the government and the government must pay the people 2 percent interest on deposits.

Under this measure, the postmaster general will designate as rapidly as consistent with good administration the money order offices as places for the receipt of savings deposits and he is empowered so to designate such other offices as he deems advisable.

There are approximately 50,000 money order postoffices, so that the postmaster general may at first restrict the depositories to postoffices of the presidential grade, of which there are about 7000. Accounts may be opened by persons 10 years or more of age. Married women may have accounts free from interference by their husbands. No person can have more than one account. The minimum deposit which will be accepted is $1. Interest is to be allowed at a rate not exceeding 2 percent per annum, an evidence of the intention of the government not to compete with local banks.

No account shall have a total credit exceeding $500 exclusive of accumulated interest and not more than $600 may be deposited in any one month. Withdrawals may be made under rules and regulations to be prescribed by a board of trustees.

The bill does not undertake to prescribe administrative details for the reason that it is believed wiser and far more prudent to leave such details to be worked out by the board in the light of experience.

BENNET FOR GOVERNOR

Boom For Congressman as Hughes' Successor Will Soon Be Launched

New York, Feb. 11.—Following Governor Hughes' declaration made recently for the second time that he will not consider a renomination, friends of Congressman Bennet advocate his nomination for governor by the Republicans next fall.

AIRSHIP EXHIBITION.

The founders of the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanics Association little dreamed that some day the Mechanics building, Boston, would be given over to the exhibition of what is those days seemed merely a chimera of a fantastic brain, practical airship.

But the practical air ship has come however not only in one but in many different types widely diverging as to principal and practically all of them will be shown at the First National Exhibition of Aerial Craft to be held at Mechanics building, Feb. 16-23. Chester I. Campbell the manager will have the distinction of giving the public the first exclusive exhibition of air craft ever held in America. In a way it might be called an international exhibition, as both sides of the Atlantic will contribute to the success of the show. Manager Campbell has imported a number of models of foreign types, and one of the latest full sized air ship The Demoiselle of Santos-Dumont, is already enroute and will be exhibited by a well known gentleman who is interested in aeronautics.

A remarkable feature in rounding up exhibits has been the great number of machines in course of construction and completed in New England. Nearly every town and hamlet contains an embryo Wright or Curtiss and while many of them are yet to fly some remarkably clever ideas are embodied in the construction of most of them. In fact the interet in aeronautics in this vicinity is even greater than was anticipated with the result that many thousand will attend the exposition to see the marvelous strides that have been made in the past year.

Among the heavier than air ships will be seen the Antionette and small Blériot of Stanley Y. Beach of the Scientific American, a wright model, a Curtiss type, Santos-Dumost, Langley, Farnum and all the other types. The L. A. W. air ship of a new type with the engine on similar lines to the Gnome will be shown by Pawtucket parties. This machine has already been purchased by E. H. Sears of Boston, whose interest in aeronautics is practically occasioned by the fact that he is a nephew of Langley the aviator.

Hundreds of models of every description, engines ,motors, and all the accessories of aerial flight will be shown and the exhibition should stimulate the interest in aeronautics in New England. The exhibition will be open to the public on Wednesday evening, Feb. 16 at 8 o'clock continuing for one week closing at 10.30 Wednesday evening, February 23.

MAINMAST SPLINTERED

Lightning Bolt Hits Steamer Devonian, When Nearing Boston

Boston, Feb. 11.—Officers and crew of the Leyland line steamer Devonian, from Liverpool, had an exciting adventure yesterday, while still 125 miles from port, when a lightning bolt struck the mainmast, splintering the entire wooden section down to the part where it connects with the steel mast.

The fragments fell to the deck with a crash, the top burying itself in the wooden deck covering, and one large piece broke off and struck the door of Captain Trant's room with great violence. On one was injured.

A Simple Six Room Bungalow.

Design 861, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FLOOR PLAN.

In the bungalow line this design is a gem to study. This is what is called a six room bungalow. The rooms are all thrown together, the living room opening up with the reception hall and forming practically one large room twenty-nine feet wide. There is a little hall from the back of the bungalow which allows one to pass from the front to the rear of the house without entering or passing through any of the rooms, into each of which there is a hall entrance. This is as near a perfect floor plan as can be got up for a bungalow of this size. There is a small basement under the kitchen with a bedroom across the rear. The size is 30 by 38 feet over the main part. The first story is nine feet in the clear, finished with hardwood floors throughout and Washington fir for finish in each room. Cost to build, exclusive of plumbing and heating, $1,950.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 861 for $25.

STEAMSHIP SAWED IN TWO

Lengthened Forty Feet and Now Ready to Launch

The steamship Ransom B. Fuller, formerly of the Boston and Bath line, having been sawed in two and lengthened by the insertion of a section 40 feet long in her middle, is ready to launch again, equipped to carry many more passengers and a good deal more freight the coming season than heretofore, says the Globe.

The Fuller which was built six years ago and soon afterward discovered to be too small for the patronage she received, has been undergoing enlargement just 70 days, at the hands of about 30 workmen on an average and at an expense of $100,000. Her original length was 277 feet. Her gross tonnage has been increased from 1862 to 2000 tons. She will in future run between Boston and Portland.

The boat was to have been returned to the water Thursday, but something went wrong on the ways and the operation had to be postponed. It is thought that she may be released about 11.30 A. M. today.

GETTING MAD NOW.

A Boston paper reporter that the granite cutters' committee at Barre, Vt., resigned Thursday when accused at a joint meeting of bad faith and bribery. The members later reconsidered their action, but refused to confer with the manufacturers again. No progress was made toward settling the strike.

WED, KISS AND SEPARATE

Unusual Action of Newly Married Couple After the Knot Is Tied

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 11.—Mystery surrounds the strange agreement made by a young couple who were made man and wife here by City Clerk Packard.

No sooner was the marriage ceremony over than the newly-weds kissed one another and solemnly promised each other to separate at once, meet in this city in one year and be remarried by a Jewish rabbi.

The couple are Joseph Swartzberg, a real estate owner, and Miss Lena Moskovitz, a milliner of New York city.

The young bride hastened to the railroad station to catch a train for New York, while Swartzberg retraced his steps toward his home. He declined to give a reason for the mysterious and sudden separation.

"THEM WAS ME ORDERS."

How Pat Diskin Came to Grief While Sawing a Beam.

Patrick Diskin, a carpenter employed on a new building at Beekman avenue and Oak terrace, the Bronx, New York, was told the other day to go to the fifth story and saw off a wooden beam which protruded from a window over the street.

He went up, got out on the end of the beam and carefully sawed it in two between himself and the window. He and the end of the beam fell together to the pavement. Neither was hurt much. The beam was a little bruised on one corner, and Patrick got a slight scalp wound.

He was taken to the Lebanon hospital merely as a matter of precaution, but the doctors there couldn't find any other injuries he had sustained. When asked why he had done such a thing he replied in some heat:

"Sure, them was me orders."

Make Home Happy.

Make the home life as happy as you can for the children. Many a boy goes astray not through lack of care and training, but because home life is not made as happy as it might be. Children, while they are young and impressionable, should be surrounded with happiness. It is as essential to their well being as sunshine is to flowers. If, as they grow up, they find that happiness is not to be had at home they soon learn to look for it elsewhere.

Old Cunard Captain Dead

Peterboro, N. H., Feb. 11.—Captain William S. Seccombe, 61 years old, for many years a commander of Cunard liners, died here at his country residence. During the Spanish war he commanded at different times the auxiliary ships Glacier and Celtic. He retired three years ago.

—An unprecedented occurrence in American history so far as can be learned, is scheduled to take place in Marquette, Michigan, next April, when the voters of that city will elect their postmaster. Congressman H. O. Young of the Twelfth Congressional district decided upon this way of disposing of an embarrassing three-cornered fight.—Norwood Messenger.

WHY TAFT IS "LONESOME."

Callers of Certain Sorts Throng to the White House.

CHUMS NOW WAIT TO BE ASKED

Most of the Visitors Want Something or Have Advice to Tender—The President Has Neither "Kitchen" Nor "Tennis" Cabinet—Experience of a Friend Who Called Uninvited.

The presidents before Roosevelt had "kitchen cabinets." Mr. Roosevelt had a "tennis cabinet," a kitchen cabinet under another name. Mr. Taft has neither a kitchen cabinet, a tennis cabinet nor even a golf cabinet. It was attempted to form one for him in the days immediately succeeding his inauguration last March, when he first began to go out to Chevy Chase and play a round over the links every fair afternoon. Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon qualified as caddie and wrap carrier, but the cabinet never formed. It is rather curious that none has been formed. Mr. Taft has a highly developed social instinct. He loves company; he is never happier than with a group of congenial, pleasant, story telling, laughing friends; he makes friends easily.

And now Mr. Taft confesses publicly to the newspaper correspondents at Washington that he is lonesome; that nobody drops in for a friendly, neighborly call. This shows how alert is the scrutiny and how rigid in the matter of making selections are his doorkeepers and secretaries. Many drop in at the White House and promptly drop out again without the president ever learning anything about them. Perhaps it is just as well. Most of the knockers at the gate who are turned away would add little to the president's happiness, nor would they supply the companionship he craves.

Most Visitors Want Something.

Most of the people who go to the White House go to ask for something. Those who go to give have only advice to offer. Between the two classes they have precious little diversion to offer a tired man. The drawback to a kitchen cabinet from Mr. Taft's viewpoint is that all the members would want to talk shop. The president has a cabinet for that purpose, and he does not solicit or desire irresponsible advice from friends, not members of his administration, about how to run the government. What Mr. Taft expressed the other day when he said he was lonesome was the human desire for somebody to play with. His old friends who used to seek him out in his leisure hours and propose various diversions now wait to be asked. They have a proper feeling that they do not want to thrust themselves forward when the president may have more important things to do.

Since it has become too cold to ride in the afternoons Mr. Taft goes walking. It has been remarked and widely commented upon that he does not seek the seclusion of Rock Creek park or of the country about Washington for his promenades, but chooses rather to walk about the city parks or along the streets, where he will brush up against and meet people. The other afternoon he rode out to Senator Newland's home in Woodley lane and walked back home. Before that he walked into a Pennsylvania avenue hotel one Sunday afternoon and asked at the clerk's desk for Judge Horace H. Lurton, whom he had just appointed to the supreme court. Judge Lurton was not in his room, and Mr. Taft fished out a card and left it for him. His visit to the Press club the other afternoon was made in the same casual way. He was out walking and just "dropped in."

An Uninvited Caller.

A man who has known the Tafts for a long time, in telling of an evening he spent at the White House last spring, said:

I had just come to town and didn't know that one wasn't supposed to call at the White House without being invited. I had known the Tafts for a long time, and after I had finished my dinner at the hotel I walked up to the White House and sent in my card. Almost immediately I was taken into one of the parlors, where I found Mrs. Taft and one of her sisters. They were glad to see me apparently, and we talked along about every sort of thing for three-quarters o fan hour or more until the president came downstairs. He had been up in his study dictating. He was unaffectedly glad to see me.

After we had talked for awhile he wheeled out into the room one of those big cabinet graphophones or gramophones, and we had some music. They had records made by various opera singers, and we sat around and listened. About 11 o'clock I got up to go back to the hotel, and the president walked with me to the front door. He said he thought he would go to bed, too, as he had had a hard day and as I was leaving the whole household was making preparations to go upstairs and go to bed. It all seemed fine and simple and democratic to me. I caught myself wondering how many thousand other American families had spent the same sort of evening in chatting with a neighbor who had just dropped in and in listening to some music, either canned or extracted from the piano by the daughter of the house.

No New "Intimates."

President Taft has made no new intimates since he has occupied the White House. He always takes Captain Butt, his chief military aid, with him when he goes abroad, and sometimes General Clarence Edwards, chief of the insular bureau. Once at least it is of record that John Hays Hammond went walking with him in the afternoon, and once or twice Secretary Meyer was one of the riding party last summer. Yet none of these men can be called intimates in the sense that qualified members of a kitchen cabinet are intimates.

Mr. Taft, it would seem, is too catholic in his sympathies and tastes to form a kitchen cabinet. Nor does he require a little circle of admirers constantly around him to sustain his happiness. He does not take much stock in unofficial advisers. He holds the heads of the departments responsible. When he wants to know something about the navy he asks the secretary of the navy. He discusses legal questions with the attorney general, and he talks over financial problems with the secretary of the treasury. He doesn't have any traffic with bureau chiefs about departmental business.

Mr. Roosevelt's tennis cabinet was made up of subordinates in the various departments who were honored above their chiefs and transacted their business directly with Mr. Roosevelt instead of through the secretaries of their departments. All that sort of thing has stopped. If Mr. Taft ever does have a kitchen cabinet it won't be built up on that basis.

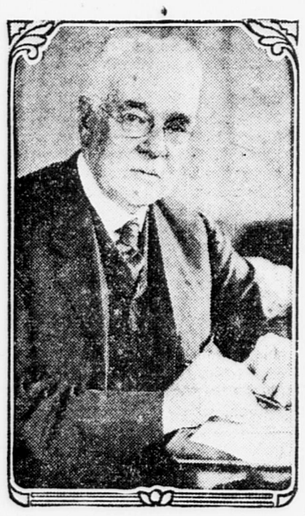

Meanwhile, if you are an old friend of Mr. Taft, drop in at the White House and see him when you are in Washington. He won't mind if the senators are kept waiting in the anteroom. Let the doorkeepers worry about that. They do.

A RACE OF VEGETARIANS.

Predicted by Horace Fletcher Within Next Ten Years.

Dr. Horace Fletcher, commenting at Pittsburg on the increased cost of living, prophesies the passing away of meat as a common article of diet and justifies this by citing its alleged ill effects.

"This no meat agitation if persisted in long enough," the doctor said, "will result in the practical elimination of meat as a diet product. It is my firm belief that meat will cease to be eaten in America in the next ten years. By the continued eating of meat there is in time produced a condition known as autointoxication, which is akin to alcoholic poisoning and just as fatal in its effects.

"Meat is in nowise needed in the economy of the body. In every test I have made it has been found to be positively deleterious."

LINCOLN'S WAR SUBSTITUTE.

Monument Planned For Pennsylvanian Who Served For Martyr President.

The soldier who fought through the civil war as the personal substitute of Abraham Lincoln will have a statue erected in his honor if a bill appropriating $20,000 for the purpose, presented by Representative Palmer, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, is passed. The substitute was J. S. Staples of Stroudsburg, Pa., and it is there that it is proposed to erect the statue.

In the little burial grounds at Stroudsburg a small tablet today marks the resting place of Staples, bearing on its face the inscription:

"Here lies the body of J. Summerfield Staples, representative recruit of Abraham Lincoln."

In 1863, when the fortunes of the Union cause were at their lowest ebb, it was decided by President Lincoln and his cabinet that they should send personal substitutes to the front as an example to the country. Lincoln directed his adjutant general to choose for him as a substitute "as nearly a perfect man, physically and morally," as could be found. The adjutant general saw young Staples on the streets of Washington and explained to him the president's proposition. Staples, then eighteen years of age, accepted instantly and was taken to the White House to meet the president.

With Lincoln's benediction, he enlisted in the Second District of Columbia volunteers and served honorably until the close of the war.

The Meat Boycott.

Stomach said, "You'll eat it."
Conscience said, "You won't!"
Stomach said, "You need it."
Conscience said, "You don't!"

Stomach said, "It's juicy.
Done in first class style."
Conscience said: "You'll be dead!
The stuff is simply vile!"

Stomach said, "Don't waste it."
Conscience said, "Beware!"
Stomach said, "Just taste it."
Conscience said, "Don't dare!"

Well, at length I ate it.
What can a fellow do?
'Twas a tender steak in a gravy lake.
I had to. Wouldn't you?

THE KEY OF DEATH.

A Story of Italian Methods In Mediaeval Times.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

When Venice was mistress of the maritime world she attracted many young men desirous of profiting by her commercial advantages. Among them was one Giuseppe Pessero, who went there from Rome. Pessero was of good family and had been intimate with the Borgias, the Farnese and other great families at a time when the Italians were very skillful in getting rid of those who stood in their way by means of poison.

One afternoon, while being pulled in a gondola from St. Mark's down toward the Rialto, Pessero passed a barge in which sat a vision of loveliness.

"Giovanni!" exclaimed Pessero when the two boats had passed. "Who is that lady?"

"That, signor," replied the gondolier, "is Signorina Francesca del Prombo."

"Turn, Giovanni—turn at once and follow."

The gondola was swung around and pulled to a flight of steps leading to the square of St. Mark's. The lady had embarked and entered the square when Pessero's gondola drew up to the steps. In a few minutes he saw the Signorina Francesca join a party of gentlemen and ladies who were sitting idly, some reading, some playing on lutes, others chatting. Pessero, seeing one among them he knew, spoke to him and was introduced to the group.

But it was Francesca that he wanted. Seizing the earliest opportunity, he devoted himself to her, though without encouragement. Francesca was betrothed to Luigi Sansovino, one of her own rank and high in favor with the doge. Disregarding this, Pessero persisted in his attentions and after an acquaintance of a few weeks made bold to ask for Signorina del Prombo's hand. It is needless to say that his suit was rejected.

That was a far different age from this. While the people had attained a certain refinement, they seemed still to retain the traits of their barbarian ancestors. It was not an uncommon thing for a man rejected by a woman to revenge himself upon her

HORROR STRICKEN, HIS BRIDE BENT OVER HIM.

Pessero resolved that no one except himself should possess Francesca. But he bided his time. He heard of the preparations making for her wedding with Sansovino, how the looms were spinning fine fabrics for her wedding gown and how the most delicate lace was being woven for her adornment. He showed no sign of dissatisfaction. He was engaged most of the day and at times far into the night in a little workshop that he had fitted up in his home.

When the day for the wedding came Pessero stood at the entrance to St. Mark's church, where the ceremony was to take place, among a crowd of people eager to see the beautiful Francesca del Prombo attired for the bridal. The groom as he passed in saw the face of the man who had aspired to his place wearing the look of a fiend. Pessero was on the inner edge of the crowd, and the two men touched as the procession passed. Sansovino looked away and in another moment felt a sharp pain in his breast. Before he had entered the body of the church he fainted. Horror stricken his bride bent over him, endeavoring to recall him to consciousness—all in vain. In a few minutes he was dead.

Francesca's quick eye had detected the malevolent face of Pessero in the crowd, and she was seized with an indefinable dread. From the moment her lover had sunk down on the marble pavement she divined that he had been stricken by the hand of her rejected suitor. She was carried to the canal, placed in her barge and rowed to the family palace. As soon as she came out of the frantic condition into which she had been thrown by the tragedy she cried:

"He was killed by Pessero!"

"Pessero!" exclaimed her father and mother in a breath.

"He was at the church. He rubbed against Luigi as we passed. The fiend killed him!"

Signor del Prombo consulted with his most intimate friends, and it was considered possible for Pessero to have stabbed his victim by means of a blade so thin that no blood would flow. A surgeon was directed to carefully examine the body, with a view to discovering if the mark of any instrument of death had been left upon it. The examination was made and the report awaited with intense eagerness.

"Well," said Signor del Prombo when the surgeon came to report.

"He was assassinated."

"How? Stabbed?"

"Not exactly. A small steel needle was injected into the flesh."

"How? By whom?"

"That I cannot tell."

"Was death caused by this instrument?"

"There may have been poison on it."

"Could you detect poison?"

"There were no traces of anything on the needle."

The Del Prombo family were sure that the needle had in some mysterious manner been injected by Pessero into the breast of the murdered man. But who was to give evidence of the fact? Nor were the courts of that time overburdened with justice. More than that, the detective methods of the present day were then unheard of. So there was nothing to do but suffer and permit the murderer to go his way.

Francesca, feeling that her life had been blighted, decided to go into a convent. The palace of St. Mark's and its gay company knew her no more. She disappeared entirely from the world.

One day not long after her retirement Pessero succeeded under the guise of a mendicant in gaining access to her. Before she was aware of it she was in an apartment alone with the murderer of her lover. Throwing off his disguise, he knelt at her feet and implored her to take pity on one who loved her better than life.

He was greeted with a look of horror, of detestation and with but one word:

"Murderer!"

He attempted to plead, but Francesca raised a cry for help, and in a moment the room was filled with nuns. Pessero, foiled, slunk away. But as he departed he gave Francesca a look that froze her soul. It was love changed to hate, and with it was mingled triumph.

He had no sooner gone than Francesca quickly placed her hand on her breast. The expression on her face told those about her that something serious had happened. Then she began to tear open her bodice, and there on her bosom was a drop of blood. In a word she told them that she had been stabbed by the man who had killed her lover.

A surgeon who attended the nuns when they were ill happened to be in the convent at the time. He was hurried to Francesca. In as few words as possible he was told that something was doubtless underneath the tiny wound, and he probed for it. In a few moments he extracted a steel needle.

By this time Francesca was losing consciousness from the effects of the wound, and the surgeon, believing that the needle had been poisoned before being injected, used such antidotes as he was acquainted with. For several hours Francesca's life hung in the balance; then slowly she began to revive and in a few days was restored.

In the present case Pessero was known to have been with his intended victim at the time she was stricken, and this, taken with the circumstances of Sansovino's death, was strong evidence against him. Francesca's father had concealed the cause of the death of Sansovino and the suspicion that rested on Pessero. Desirous of getting other evidence, he directed that the murderer should be kept in ignorance of what was known of his methods. Pessero, who had stricken Francesca in a moment of passion and knew from her greeting that the circumstances connected with the two tragedies would be sufficient to convict him, fled.

Signor del Prombo no sooner learned that his daughter was out of danger than he sought Pessero. Not finding him and learning that he had been seen pulling in a boat for the mainland, Del Prombo followed, caught the murderer and, single handed, brought him back to Venice. Pessero was thrown into prison and his home searched. There in his workshop were found a number of parts which together made up the implement used in his crimes.

It was a large key, in appearance very simple, but really very complex. The handle, being turned, exposed a spring which, when pressed, sent from the other end of the key a poisoned needle of such fineness that it entered the flesh and buried itself there, leaving no external trace.

There is a bridge in Venice called the "Bridge of Sighs." It spans a narrow canal leading from a prison to the palace of the doges, where court was held. It is generally supposed that in mediaeval times political prisoners passed over it for trial. It was, however, a passage for common malefactors. Visitors in Venice may now go from the palace over the bridge to the prison and down into its dungeons. In one of these dungeons Pessero was confined. He passed over the "Bridge of Sighs" to his trial and, after his conviction, passed back over the same bridge to await his execution.

It is said that Francesca, whose life he had turned from one of happiness to a cloister existence and who had, under the influence of the sisters, been turned to piety, wished to petition the court to spare Pessero's life, but was dissuaded from doing so by the mother superior on the ground that the church did not interfere with justice. Pessero was hanged.

Francesca never left the convent in which she had sought a retreat when the world paled before her. After the death of her father she inherited a fortune, which she gave to the poor. The waters of the Grand canal wash the steps leading to the palace of her family, but it is now occupied for commercial purposes. The glory of Venice and her former home have vanished.

MILTON.

An important meeting of the East Milton Improvement society has been called for tonight, when questions of interest to that section of the town will be considered. At the meeting last week the word liar was frequently used as the discussion warmed up, and another warm meeting is expected tonight.

Samuel Leavitt, a long and well known resident of East Milton passed away Wednesday of pneumonia after a brief illness. Mr. Leavitt who was about 60 years of age was born in Milton and always made his home there. He has been employed by the town for many years.

Special Lenten services are being held every week at the Mission of Our Saviour church.

A new platform 175 feet in length is being built at the northerly end of the present platform at the East Milton depot. There has been considerable complaint because trains stopping at the depot blocked up the crossing at Adams street, thus preventing people from the east side getting across to take trains. The new platform will allow the trains to run down far enough to clear the crossing. Incidentally the new platform may have something to do with the rumor that all south shore trains are to be run via of the Granite branch the coming summer.

LET THE PUBLIC KNOW.

A duck who had faithfully stuck to business during the summer and laid several dozen large fawn-colored eggs, complained that she was not appreciated. "See that hen over there?" said the duck, "she hasn't laid so many eggs as I have, nor so big, but she has books written about her and verses composed in her honor, while nobody is saying a word about me." "The trouble with you, is," said a wise buff Leghorn cock that was standing near, "that you don't tell the public what you have done. You lay an egg and waddle off without a word, while that sister of mine never lays one without letting everybody in the neighborhood know it. If you want to cut any ice in this community you must learn to advertise." Ring up the Ledger man and he will call.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

WRONGFULLY CALLED INSANE

Some Matteawan Criminals Are In Perfect Health

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 11.—That there are more than half a dozen men not insane incarcerated in the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane is the remarkable statement contained in a report just made public by Dr. Robert B. Lamb, which has been forwarded to the state prison commissioner.

This unusual statement is borne out by Lamb's assistant, Dr. Baker, who also declares that there are patients in Matteawan hospital who have nothing the matter with them. He added, however, that Harry Thaw was not one of the "notable criminals" referred to by Lamb.

"A skilled psychiatrist," Lamb asserts, "might have examined any of these men on the day of admission and found no symptoms of actual mental disease. He might have made continual examinations at any time during their residence at the hospital; his results would have been equally negative."

Dr. Lamb contends that he should either have the right to inform the court of his opinion as to whether the man is insane or not or the court itself should make supplemental inquiry relative to the patient. He says:

"In the eyes of the law these men are lunatics, but the hospital physicians detect no actual lunacy and we know they are not insane, yet, as superintendent, I am not provided by any provision of law with the authority to inform the court of my opinion and the poor devils stay here year in and year out.

"To secure a court action in such a case, where it is necessary to certify that recovery is complete, the assumption is that an actual change has taken place—something which in fact is not so."

Dr. Lamb takes the stand that the question is an important one and that his position should be either strengthened or destroyed. He believes he should have the right to inform the court of his opinion as to whether the man is insane or not. In concluding his report Lamb asks:

"What disposition shall be made of these cases?"

UNPAID BILLS OF $6714

That Amount Remains to Be Paid by Fitzgerald Campaign Committee

Boston, Feb. 11.—Mayor Fitzgerald or somebody connected with his campaign committee will yet have to dip into his pockets to the tune of $9714.21 in order to settle the outstanding bills of that committee, which has spent all its money and still owes the above amount, according to a statement filed with the city clerk's office by the treasurer of the Fitzgerald campaign committee, John F. McDonald.

The total cost of the Fitzgerald campaign amounted to $37,640.81, including the $10,500 which it personally has cost the mayor to date.

Yesterday was the last day for filing statements of receipts and expenditures under the corrupt practices act, which gives political committees thirty days after an election to make their returns.

OFFICIAL "TRUST BUSTER"

Fowler Likely to Assume Position Just Vacated by Ellis

Washington, Feb. 11.—James A. Fowler of Knoxville is slated to succeed Wade H. Ellis as the official trust-buster of the Taft administration, according to information from high authority. Ellis has just resigned as assistant to the attorney general to take charge of the Republican campaign in Ohio.

Fowler is an assistant attorney general, and has been with the department about a year. He is understood to be the personal choice of Attorney General Wickersham.

suppose the town would not like it, and so would not vote for it. But my brother's answer was, that it had been talked of last year and some years before, and that the thought was familiar to the people in general, and was more agreeable than anything of the kind that could be proposed to many, and for these reasons his hopes were strong.

"But the triumph of the party was very considerable, though not complete; for Thayer and Miller, and the late lessees of the north commons, and many of the church people, and many others had determined to get out Deacon Penniman; but, instead of that, their favorite was dropped, and I, more obnoxious to that party than even Deacon Penniman or any other man, was chosen in his room, and Deacon Penniman was saved with more than one hundred and thirty votes—a more reputable election than even Thayer himself had.

"Mr. Jo. Bass was extremely sorry for the loss of Major Miller; he would never come to another meeting. Mr. Jo. Cleverly could not account for many things done at town meetings. His motion for choosing collectors was slighted; his motion for lessening his fine was thrown out; and he made no sort of figure as a speaker; so that I believe Mr. Cleverly will make no hand. Elisha Niles says, 'set a knave to catch a knave.' A few days before a former March meeting, he told Thayer that he had a mind to get in Deacon Penniman. Thayer asked him who he would have with him. He answered, Capt. Allen. Thayer made him no answer, but when the meeting came, was chosen himself.

"Mr. Thomas Faxon, of this end of the town, told my wife he never saw anybody chosen so neatly in his life, —not a word, not a wisper beforehand. Peter Newcomb gave him a vote; he had one before for Miller, and had heard nothing of me; but he thought I should have one. So he dropped that for Miller. Jo. Nightingale asked my wife, 'Mr. Adams will have too much business, will he not; the courts to attend, selectman and representative at May etc?' Mr. John Baxter, the old gentleman, told me he was very well pleased with the choice at the north end, etc. Old Mr. John Ruggles voted for me; but says that Thayer will (be chosen) at May. If I would set up, he would vote for me, and I should go, but Mr. Quincy will not. Lieut. Holbrook, I hear, was much in my favor, etc. Thus the town is pretty generally disputing about me, I find.

"But this choice will not disconcert Thayer at May, though it will weaken him. But, as I said before, the triumph was not complete; Cornet Bass had the most votes the first time, and would have come in the second, but the north end people, his friends, after putting in their votes the first time, withdrew for refreshment, by which accident he lost it, to their great regret.

"Mark the fruits of this election to me. Will the church people be angry, and grow hot and furious, or will they be cooler and calmer for it? Will Thayer's other precinct friends resent it and become more violent, or will they be less so? In short, I cannot answer these questions; many of them will be disheartened, I know; some will be glad.

"10th, Monday. Last week went to Boston and to Weymouth, &c. I hear that Mr. Benjamin Cleverly has already bespoke Mr. John Ruggles, Jr., against May meeting,— promised him as much as he could eat and drink of the best sort if he will vote for Captain Thayer; told him he would not have acted as he did, at March, if it had not been for Thomas Newcomb, and that he would vote for Thayer, at May, if it was not for Thomas Newcomb. By this, the other side are alarmed the craft they think, is in danger; but I believe their fears are groundless, though I wish there was good reason for them.

"Drank tea at Mr. Etter's. He says all the blame is laid to him, and that a certain man takes it very ill of him. By the way, I heard today that Major Miller and James Brackett Jr., were heard, since March meeting, raving against Dea. Palmer, and said he was a knave, &c. Q. About this quarrel?"

HYDE PLACED UNDER ARREST

Husband of Swope's Niece Charged With Murder

Kansas Cty, Feb. 11.—As a climax to the lengthy investigation of the mysterious death of Colonel Thomas H. Swope on Oct. 3, 1909, Dr. D. C. Hyde, husband of the late millionaire's niece, was arrested here, charged with the murder of the philanthropist.

The warrant upon which the arrest was made was issued at the request of Attorney Paxton, executor of the Swope estate, with the endorsement of the prosecutor. Murder in the first degree is charged. The warrant says that Hyde, with felonious intent administered strychnine to Swope on the day of his death.

Dr. Hyde submitted to arrest without demanding to hear the warrant read. From here the party went to Independence, Mo., where Hyde was arraigned before Justice Loar. The physician pleaded not guilty.

He was released on a bond of $50,000. His preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 17.

Prosecutor Conkling originally planned to have the bond fixed at $25,000. But Hyde's attorneys had arranged for a $50,000 surety and as they expressed a willingness to give this amount it was accepted.

The calmest man in the justice's office in Independence was Hyde. While attorneys were busy making out the papers in the case, he sat near County Marshal Mayes, who made the arrest, and read a paper, describing the developments in the case. As soon as the bond was accepted Hyde hurried home in an automobile.

By dismissing his libel suit for $60,000 against Attorney Paxton, Dr. Frank L. Hall and Dr. Edward J. Stewart, Hyde removed himself from the range of the attorneys who have been using every legal means known to them to get his depositions in the case. One suit for $100,000 is still pending against Paxton. It alleges slander.

The verdict of the coroner's jury in full was:

"We, the coroner's jury, duly summoned, impanelled, sworn and charged to diligently inquire into and true presentment make as to how, by whom or what means Thomas H. Swope, whose body we have viewed, came to his death, found from our evidence laid before us and from our knowledge that he came to his death by strychnine poisoning, and from the evidence we believe said strychnine poison was administered in a capsule at about half-past eight o'clock a. m. of the day he died, by direction of Dr. B. Clark Hyde, whether with felonious intent we, the jury, are unable to decide. Said deceased came to his death at the residence of Mrs. L. O. Swope, in Independence, Jackson county, Mo."

ELOPED WITH ARMY MAN

Baroness De Forest Is Being Searched For by Her Husband

London, Feb. 11.—The world-wide search Baron Arnold de Forest is making for his wife has just revealed the fact that she eloped with Lieutenant Ashton of the Second Life Guards.

Pinkerton detectives are striving in every country to find the couple, giving much attention to Spain.

Ashton is a noted show horseman, popular in and out of the English army set, but very little is known of his acquaintance with the baroness. To those who have followed the career of the former Ethel Gerard her act is less amazing.

BUT ONE PENSION OFFICE

Seventeen Agencies Scattered Around the Country Are Cut Out

Washington, Feb. 11.—Seventeen out of eighteen pension agencies scattered over the country are abolished under the terms of the pension appropriation bill reported to the house wherein no appropriation is recommended for these offices.

The one remaining office is in Washington and the usual appropriation for its maintenance is made.

Among the seventeen agencies thus cut off are those in Augusta, Me., Boston and Concord, N. H.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

IN THE THEATRICAL WORLD

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE

The poularity of "Shore Acres" has demanded another week for that drama of New England life at the Castle Square. Not only has the play made a hit, but Mr. Craig is doing a remarkable piece of character acting as Uncle Nat Berry. He gives a strong, a vivid and a picturesque portrayal of that eccentric character that ranks it only second to the remarkable impersonation of James A. Herne that brought the play its greatest successes some seasons ago. "Shore Acres" strikes so directly home, it offers such faithful scenes of actual life in a New England fishing village on the Maine coast, it is such a clever mingling of humor and pathos, that it is no wonder the Castle Square is being filled at every performance, and that it is to be continued for a second week to equally large audiences. Every detail of Mr. Craig's production of "Shore Acres" is perfect, scenery and acting alike having their appropriate part, and the lighthouse and the shipwreck scenes being especially realistic. Seats for this second week should be procured at once, for the advance demand is certain to be very great. As a classic of the New England rural drama, "Shore Acres" has no equal.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Of all the splendid spectacles staged within the past twenty-five years none has surpassed in beauty of pageantry, magnificence of pictorial execution or strength of dramatic force the Klaw & Erlanger production of "Ben-Hur." Presented originally at the Broadway theatre, New York November 29, 1899, this romance of the House of Hur is now in its eleventh year, and from the demand everywhere for the great drama this season gives promise of being bigger than any of its predecessors in point of monetary returns, which is due principally to the fact that the high standard of its first production has been faithfully maintained. Any changes that have appeared in the play or its equipment have been but to add to the grandeur of the scenic and costume embellishment or to correct some slight archaic defect in painting or dress. So it is that the Wallace drama is today the standard for all sorts of theatrical offerings which have Rome or the Orient for a background. "Ben-Hur" has in it everything that appeals to the orginary theatregoer, and it has as well that which takes to the playhouse the casual visitor and the churchgoer who never attends the theatre unless some religious work is being presented. It was because of these attributes together with the special adaptability of the Boston theatre stage for a production of the immense proportions of "Ben-Hur," that Messrs. Frohman & Harris, always anxious to please their patrons, selected it as the most appropriate Lenten attraction for that playhouse. During the limited engagement at the Boston theatre there will be Wednesday and Saturday matinees, in addition to which a special holiday matinee is announced for Washingtons Birthday.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Sensations are following each other in rapid succession at Keith's theatre these days ,and it has become a question when the management will reach the limit. Following Chevalier came Denman Thompson, then Loie Fuller and her Ballet of Light breaking all records at the house for four weeks, and then the Countess de Pierrefeu who proved a veritable sensation. Now there is another promised in the Marvellous Griffith, a western man who has never appeared in the east, who has been brought on by Mr. Keith as a special attraction. Griffith has been described humorously as "the man who eats figures alive" and the newspapers of the west have devoted columns and entire pages to describing his wonderful feats in mathematics. Griffith is not the dry mathematician that one is accustomed to look for. He has a fund of humor, answers what would seem almost impossible questions, and can keep an audience both entertained and amused for any length of time. No one who is interested in figures will want to miss him and it is predicted that he will be as great a sensation in a different way as Loie Fuller's barefoot dancers.

NEW HAVEN ROAD PLANS MONOPOLY

Wants Chance to Spend $50,000,000 In Ten Years

Boston, Feb. 11.—Vice President Byrnes of the New Haven railroad outlined plans for a big and novel monopoly when he appeared before the legislative committee upon railroads to talk upon the suggestion of the railroad, bank and tax commission, that there be a body of experts to investigate the New Haven.

Byrnes flatly refused to admit that the New Haven had violated the laws of the commonwealth, and pleaded for sanity in handling the great transportation problem, while he promised that if given a chance the New Haven would spend $50,000,000 in ten years, and that in fifteen years would be lighting by electricity every town and city through which it passed.

Byrnes said that the New Haven wanted to operate trolleys, steamships, use water power and furnish light and power. He said that it was a step backward not to permit the company to do what it can do more cheaply than anybody else.

VISIONS OF DYNAMITE

Trio of Suffragists Badly Scared by Package Received by Mail

Washington, Feb. 11.—The postman walked into the headquarters of the American National Woman Suffrage association and laid an important looking package upon the table. Three suffragettes, who started to open it, were deterred by a suspicious odor.

"Dynamite!" exclaimed one, and there was a rush for the street. The police carted the bundle off to the navy yard and turned it over to Admiral Luetze, an expert in high explosives. When opened there was found an old tin paint box filled with dry clay, the head of a small guinea hen and some clippings relative to votes for women.

The package was mailed in Philadelphia by a crank, the police concluded.

QUESTION OF DRINKING

Ruling of Iowa Supreme Court In Case of a Public Official

Des Moines, Feb. 11.—The Iowa supreme court has upheld the constitutionality of the Cosson removal law which provides that public officials may be removed for intoxication. The decision confirms the ouster of A. H. Henderson as mayor of Marengo.

The court holds that the question of drinking goes to a man's qualification for office and that even though this habit is an issue in the election and the people decide for him, he can still be ousted for that very fault.

Food Exports Decreasing

Washington, Feb. 11.—Exports from the United States of breadstuffs, meat and dairy products, cattle, hogs and sheep, cotton and mineral oil, were less by $22,123,601 during the month of January this year than during the same month last year.

HALL'S BOGUS CONFESSION

Marine Is Likely to Get Into More Trouble Than He Bargained For

Washington, Feb. 11.—James Hall, who made a bogus confession to the effect that he was the murderer of Anna Schumacher in the cemetery in Rochester, was turned over to the civil authorities by the naval commandant at Portsmouth, N. H., and taken to Rochester for trial by the civil authorities, and it was found that he had been working on a farm at the time of the murder.

Now the Rochester authorities cannot hold him, but the navy department has rescinded the order for the discharge of the man from the navy, and he will be taken back to the prison ship at Portsmouth to serve out the unexpired portion of his sentence for enlistment under false pretences. Moreover, it is probable that Hall will be tried on a fresh charge of practising fraud against the navy.

HOLDS OVERDUE NOTE

Newton Man Brings Suit Against Town of Framingham for $25,000

Boston, Feb. 11.—A suit for $25,000 against the town of Framingham was started in the United States circuit court by John F. Bentley of Newton in an action to recover on one of the notes connected with the defalcation of John B. Lombard as town treasurer.

The note is for $15,000 and is seven months overdue. It is said to have been purchased by Bentley from Charles M. Cummings, who assisted Lombard in his alleged frauduient transactions, and who is now serving a sentence of five to eight years in prison.

A writ of attachment returnable Feb. 26 has been served on the town for $25,000.

KILLS TWO FOR $60 DEBT

Jealous Man Confesses Slaying a Woman and Her Husband

Cleveland, Feb. 11.—Jealousy made more furious when the husband of the woman he loved refused to aid the woman in returning $60 she had borrowed of him, induced George Boscardo to slay John Janowski and his wife, Enferna, in their home last Sunday, according to a confession which the police say Boscardo made.

Boscardo was arrested a few hours after the finding of the bodies in the bedroom of the Janowski home yesterday. The slaying had gone undetected since Sunday.

YOUNG ROOSEVELT TO WED

Engagement to Miss Alexander of New York Is Announced

New York, Feb. 11.—Society is greatly interested in and not a little surprised at the engagement announced by Mrs. Henry A. Alexander of this city of her daughter, Miss Eleanor B. Alexander, and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., eldest son of Theodore and Mrs. Roosevelt

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR.

Miss Alexander, who is 21 years old, is the only daughter of Mrs. Alexander. Her father, Henry A. Alexander, was formerly a New York lawyer, but now resides in Paris, where for several years he has been counsel for the American embassy.

Mr. Roosevelt is now employed in the Axminster department of the Hartford Carpet company. He is 23 years of age.

PEARY CLASSED AS CIVILIAN OFFICER

Not Entitled to Rank of Rear Admiral, Says Roberts

Washington, Feb. 11.—It is possible that the bill passed by the senate, conferring on Commander Peary the rank of rear admiral of the highest grade, on the retired list, may not be acted upon so expeditiously in the house. Representative Roberts of Massachusetts, a member of the naval affairs committe, says he is against the measure and knows at least one other member of the committee who is with him.

"I see no reason for making Peary a rear admiral," said Roberts. "He is a civilian officer of the navy and I am unable to understand why it is any more proper to make him a rear admiral than it would be to make him a major general. Congress could with propriety vote him a medal for his achievements as a North Pole explorer, but I do not favor giving him a place on the retired list at $6000 a year for life."

SPITZER GETS TWO YEARS IN PRISON

Says He Had to Go to Save Sugar Men Higher Up

New York, Feb. 11.—Oliver S. Spitzer, former dock superintendent of the Williamsburg refinery of the sugar trust, who was found guilty of conspiring to defraud the government in the weighing of importations of sugar, was sentenced to serve two years in the federal prison in Atlanta, by Judge Martin, in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court.

"The sugar trust made a scapegoat of me. It deserted me absolutely, it pounded and ruined me after I served it faithfully for twenty-nine years," said Spitzer after sentence was pronounced. In broken tones Spitzer bitterly arraigned the sugar trust, saying that the government wanted a victim and he was given. He declared that he had to go to make those higher up safe, and denied that he had even the slightest knowledge of frauds at the docks.

PLOTTERS OUTWITTED

Alfonso's Choice of Premier Shows He Is Constitutional Sovereign

Madrid, Feb. 11.—The assumption of the premiership of Jose Canalejas, the Radical and anti-clerical, has caused great surprise among the reactionaries, who had assumed that when Moret fell King Alfonso would institute a more moderate rather than a more radical regime.

The impression prevails that the king has outwitted the intriguers by boldly confiding the government to Canalejas for the purpose of giving to the country a clear proof of his sincerity in the role of a constitutional sovereign.

The revision of the concordat of 1851 and the reduction in the number of religious orders will be a feature, it is expected, of the new cabinet's policy.

BITTER AGAINST HIS WIFE

Glover Said to Have Declared That She Threatened His Life

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 11.—Mrs. Lillian M. Glover threatened to shoot her husband, Clarence F. Glover, who was murdered at Waltham last December, according to testimony given in the probate court by Arthur P. Glover, a brother of the dead man.

The brother swore that Clarence had told him of his wife's threat last summer. Glover testified: "Clarence said that his wife had stated that she would shoot him some day. She said she would do it if it took the rest of her days."

Arthur Glover's story was a narrative of family troubles as related to him by Clarence. He declared that his brother had told him his life had been "a h—l on earth on account of Lil," and that so miserable was his family life that he had tried to sell out his profitable business and get away from Waltham.

Clarence stated that he would do different in the making of the will were it not for the woman he lived with.

BIGGAR TRIAL OPENS

Facts In Old Conspiracy Case Are Again Rehearsed In Court

New York, Feb. 11.—Mrs. Agnes M. Hendrick of Brooklyn has brought suit against Laura Biggar, the actress, for $100,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of Dr. Charles C. Hendrick, from whom Mrs. Hendrick was recently divorced.

All the facts in the once famous Biggar-Bennett conspiracy case, in which Laura Biggar and Hendrick were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud the Bennett estate, were recited by Mrs. Hednrick, who took the witness stand at the opening of the trial.

Bribery Charges In Kentucky Senate

Ex-Mayor Thompson left an estate valued at $21,000.

James Thomas of Billings road is confined to his home by illness.

The case of John Jacobson vs. J. S. Swingle has been settled by agreement.

Business was quiet at the district court this morning, not a criminal case being heard.

G. B. Bates has forwarded to the Daily Ledger another letter for publication on Saturday.

Charles H. Penniman has moved from Foster street to the Hall house on Revere road.

The owners of Music hall have given the free use of the hall for the complimentary dinner to President Bowles.

Dogs got into the hen houses of Thomas Burke of West Quincy and George Young at Houghs Neck Thursday night and killed a number of spring chickens.

The inspectors of the Water street department have begun to shut off the water on premises where the owners have not paid their bills. It will cost them a dollar to have the water turned on again after the bill is paid.

AT THE WOODWARD.

Exercises appropriate to Lincoln day were held at the Woodward Institute this morning. The exercises opened with the reading of the Governor's proclamation by the principal, Frederic W. Plummer, which was followed by the singing of the The Star Spangled Banner. The remainder of the program included selections from Emerson on Lincoln by Miss Helen Mitchell, '11 singing of the Battle Hymn of the Republic, reading of Lincoln's second inaugural by Miss Bertha Schultz, '12, reading from Public Tributes by Miss Ruth A. Keating, '10, reading of Lincoln's speech at Gettysburg by Miss Alice Waterhouse, '10. The exercises closed with the singing of "America."

BASKET BALL.

Thursday afternoon the Freshmen basket ball team of the High school met the Coddington school team and defeated them 11-8 at the High school gymnasium. The Coddington players were, Acorn and Hunt, forwards, Baird and Finley, backs, and Mahoney center. Although the team was much lighter in weight than its opponent, it put up a good game. It excelled in passing. The Freshman team was composed of forwards, Scanlon and Prout, backs, White and O'Rourke, with Estey as center. They did not play as hard as sometimes, perhaps from fear of knocking out some of the smaller men against them. The largest scores were made in the second half.

Did young Jones kiss you when he left last night?"

"No, pa."

"Well, he's got to after this. I'm not going to have him neglect you."

UPLAND ROAD DEFEATED

South Quincy Team Shows Them How to Bowl

The South Quincy team was victorious in the Makaria bowling league on Thursday evening, defeating the Upalnd Roaders two games out of three and leading on totals 1166 to 1112. The Upland Road boys took the first game by a margin of 6 pins.

They improved a little on the second, but South Quincy took a long brace and led 418 to 375. The rubber was closer, the South Quincy team winning by 17 pins. Nicol was high man both on single and totals, with an average of 93.

LINCOLN DAY AT HIGH

Birthday of Martyr President Observed

Exercises appropriate to Lincoln's birthday were held this morning at the High school. When Mr. Howlett arose to speak he was greeted with much applause. As this was the first time he has assembled the school his remarks were in the nature of suggestions for the betterment of the school. The "Battle-Hymn of the Republic "was then sung followed by the recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, by Artemus Dingwell. Anecdotes concerning Lincoln were given by Miss Marion Rand, Dwight Gearwar, Paul Blackmur, and Margaret Hall. The summary of Lincoln's character, written by Mr. Frank Parlin, formerly superintendent of schools, was read by Alfred Hanson. Miss Juanita Metherall read "Captain, oh my captain." The singing of "America "closed the exercises. A finely executed drawing of Lincoln by Miss Clara Bushnell, a member of the school, was on the platform.

—Hyde Park voted in town meeting Thursday evening to purchase the plant of the Hyde Park Water Company. The cost was $416,000 and bonds of $500,000 will be issued.

PUTTING NEW FACE ON HIM.

St. Louis Driver Having His Countenance Reconstructed.

When Thomas Herbert of St. Louis leaves the City hospital in that city he will have a brand new face. Half a dozen physicians and surgeons are now making it for him, and they promise such an improvement over the face that nature gave him that even his best girl will not know him.

While driving a wagon the other day he fell off, and a wheel passed over his face. The hospital physicians found thirty-three fractures in the bones in the face. In fixing him up it was necessary to remodel his face entirely along new lines. They are now wiring the bones so they will knit, readjusting the flesh so as to give the face symmetry and character

ROOSEVELT FOR SOUTH POLE

Peary Hints at His Choice of Leader For the Expedition.

Commander Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the north pole, referred to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt the other day in connection with the antarctic expedition which he has proposed in a way to indicate that he believed Colonel Roosevelt should be chosen to lead the venture which has for its object the discovery of the south pole. Commander Peary spoke of Colonel Roosevelt as being familiar with the situation confronting antarctic explorers and gave him credit for sympathy with the proposed movement. He declined to say positively whether he meant that he would like to see Colonel Roosevelt at the head of the expedition.

Commander Peary made it clear that he himself would not take part in the south pole hunt. He said that he could not interfere with any inference drawn as to whether Colonel Roosevelt should lead the movement and added that he was not authorized or entitled to select a leader and that all he could say was that he (Peary) would not lead it.

Commander Peary said also that now was the psychological moment for the proposed dash to the south pole. It was the only time, in fact, he said. He declared that all that was needed were $50,000 and the right man to lead and the southern pole was won. He referred to the vast amount of information in regard to the antarctic region that would be available for polar enthusiasts, much of it being information which had been collected by himself in his twenty-three years of north polar effort.

"It will be a crying shame for the United States and the American people to lose this magnificent opportunity which offers itself to them," he said. "A year from now our chances will be depreciated 50 per cent at least, if not more. Two years from now they will disappear entirely. With $50,000 ready the expedition can be put into the field by the beginning of next fall."

Commander Peary said he had in his possession a letter from Captain Robert F. Scott, the British explorer, in which the latter said that the British antarctic explorers would do nothing to impede any American expedition, but really would welcome it.

COAL TO LOSE ITS PLACE.

Alcohol, Water and Wind to Furnish World's Power, Says Dr. Wiley.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the government's chief chemist, told the house committee on expenditures in the agricultural department the other day how the department spent the money allotted to it. He said that by means of the polariscope test, by which the government supervises the grading of sugar, the chemistry bureau had saved the government not less than $10,000,000.

Another statement was that in fifty years alcohol, water and wind would bear the burden of furnishing the world's power, superseding in importance coal and petroleum and their products. Although Dr. Wiley admitted that at present there was not a farm still in the United States for the making of denatured alcohol, except the one at the government experiment station, he said it was only a matter of time before the farmers of the country would take up the manufacture of alcohol from their waste products.

Young Sidis' Sense of Location.

Of all the strange stories going the rounds about William J. Sidis, the boy marvel at Harvard, the strangest and one that is vouched for is that he has no sense of location and has to be led from place to place. He goes from building to building at Harvard university, but it is said he cannot go from one town to another without a companion.

HEARTS and FLOWERS
The Most Effective Valentine

Beautiful blooming flowers are far more in keeping with the tender Sentiments of St. Valentine's Day than any expression in the form of tinseled paper. Nothing expresses the spirit of the day so perfectly; nothing you can send your sweetheart or wife which will convey tenderness, love and affection so well, for "Flowers are lovely; love is flower-like."

Of all the missives SHE receives throughout the "Day" none will win her favor so much as Flowers from JOHNSON'S.

Wise is the man who on St. Valentine's Day remembers his wife even as in the days when she was only his sweetheart with flowers from JOHNSON'S.

SPORTING CHAT.

(By Rube.)

Who wins, Quincy High or Thayer Academy?

• • •

Those Ramblers certainly look as though they will be able to "ramble" opponents during the coming baseball season. How about accepting their challenge boys?

• • •

It is to laugh. To think that Braintree would take three out of four from Weymouth in the Old Colony bowling league is hard to believe, but it was done. Norfolk Downs by winning all from Quincy is now on the heels of Weymouth. Keep it up N. D.

• • •

Quincy Y. M. C. A. basketball quintet continued their winning streak at Hyde Park Thursday evening defeating the Y. M. C. A. there by a score of 39 to 26. McKenzie and Morris as usual were the scoring machines for the locals.

• • •

"Tommy" Nash, the popular and hard working manager of the champion Deweys, is now a full fledged lawyer having passed the bar during the recent examinations. "Tommy" is also chairman of the Weymouth school committee and well liked by all.

• • •

At a meeting of the directors of the Quincy Old Colony league baseball club Thursday evening "Al" Bjorkland of the old Neponset-Dorchesters was elected manager. "Al" played in the outfield here once or twice last year then going to Randolph. There were many after the berth among them being Hurley of Neponset, McCarthy of Taunton, Hazelum of Stoughton, Duffy of West Quincy, Ford of Quincy and one or two others. Let us hope the new manager puts a speedy outfit onto the field and that Quincy fans give him a good chance to make good before passing judgment. If this is done all will be well.

Poor old Quincy in the Columbus Club bowling league again got four bumps Thursday evening. What's the matter boys; too fast company?

George W. Wightman of the Boston Yacht club is to come out with a yacht to race in the trial races next summer with high hopes of being one of three selected to defend the Quincy cup. "Georgie" is young in years but has the experience tucked away and has made them all go to beat him in contests to date.

• • •

You of course have planned to attend the big B. A. A. meet in Mechanics building, Boston, Saturday night. Think of seeing nearly 750 cracks compete for the valuable prizes among them being some native sons. Is it not enough to make you want to go when you may see a Quincyite bring home a victory and break a world's record?

SPORTING NOTES.

E. E. Hoxie and D. H. Vincient made one of the highest scores in the weekly tournament of the American Whist club Thursday evening.

There are 736 entries for the B. A. A. games of Saturday.

Wrestling Game a Gold Mine For Gotch.

Frank Gotch, the world's champion wrestler, drew down more box office money last year than Mr. Roosevelt received for his last year's labors as president of the United States. Gotch claims that he earned exactly $52,000 in the many bouts and the theatrical engagements he had last season.

Most of this money was taken in while he was traveling about the western states. Particularly in the farming districts, where every man, woman and child is interested in wrestling, did Gotch do well. There is not a farmer lad but would rather "rastle" than do anything else.

One of the largest farm owners in the upper Mississippi valley is Gotch. He has hundreds of acres of farm land. It is his greatest ambition to become known as the farm king of the west, and he is now working on a scheme of great dimensions.

SCHILLING'S BIG SALARY.

Crack Jockey to Receive $15,000 For Services Coming Season.

Owners of good race horses are beginning to look around for crack jockeys for next season, and, judging from the high prices that are being offered for retaining fee, men who want a high class pigskin artist will have to pay dearly for the article. The latest engagement of a rider is Carrol Shilling, who has been signed to ride for Sam Hildreth for the coming season at a salary of $15,000, dating from April 1 to Nov. 30. The arrangement is made contingent upon his being granted a license by the Jockey club.

This action of Hildreth places him in a position to cope with August Belmont and James R. Keene for the big prizes of the turf. Belmont has engaged Eddie Dugan, and Keene has Butwell under contract.

The contingent part of Hildreth's contract was inserted on account of the trouble Schilling had with R. L. Thomas last fall at Gravesend, New York, when he stabbed him during an altercation at the stable. Schilling's case will likely come up in the spring, and it all depends upon Thomas what the outcome will be. If he presses the charge of assault with attempt to kill it may go hard with Schilling, but the general belief is that Thomas will not appear against the boy.

BASKETBALL TOURNEY.

Best Teams of the Country to Clash In Chicago.

Charles A. Dean, chairman of the National Amateur Athletic union championship basketball committee, has announced that the unlimited championships will be held in Chicago on March 17, 18 and 19. As an incentive to bring the best teams together in this meeting Dean has offered to pay part of the expenses of the Montreal five, champions of Canada; the Birmingham (Ala.) team, one of the strongest aggregations in the south; the Salt Lake City Y. M. C. A., which has had an unbeatable team in the last few years, and the San Francisco Athletic club, which is represented by one of the strongest teams on the coast.

Coast League May Expand.

The Pacific Coast Baseball league may expand into eight clubs.

SPORT IN SHORT METER

Chicago has an indoor golf school.

Georgia's new athletic field at Athens when completed will be one of the best in the south.

Pitcher Comiskey of the Chicago Americans will lay the cornerstone of his new baseball park at Chicago on St. Patrick's day.

Hefferon, the South African runner who competed in the Olympic Marathon, has challenged Dorando to a Marathon race to take place in England at Easter for $500 a side and the best terms offered.

The Bulldog Breeders' Association of America, an organization formed for the purpose of furthering the interests of that animal, has been started in New York city by several of the leading fanciers of the breed.

William Averill Harriman, the son of the late E. H. Harriman, has been elected to take charge of the rowing squad in Yale's freshman class. Harriman led his fellow oarsmen on a mile run through the snow the first day he assumed charge.

WOLLASTON METHODISTS REVIEW HISTORY

And Hear Reports Showing Progress and a Good Financial Condition.

Music and Readings a Feature of Annual Meeting.

The annual parish meeting of the Wollaston Methodist church was held last evening following a bountiful supper served by the following ladies of the church: Miss A. M. Merrill, Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. W. C. Sanders, Mrs. Dewslap and Mrs. Eric Ewarts.

From the reports as read, it was evident that the church was in a prosperous condition and as one speaker said the society was on the upward grade. The church at present has a membership of 147 with 10 on probation. The record attendance in the Sunday school was reached on last Sunday, when 134 were present.

With George Taylor presiding in his usual jovial and humorous manner, reports from the various organizations were received. J. A. Sedgwick, superintendent of the Sunday School, told of the good work it was doing with a full corps of earnest and interested teachers.

Mrs. W. C. Sanders read the financial report of the Ladies Aid society. This showed the society to be in excellent financial condition after having been of great assistance to the church.

For the Epworth League, Herbert Cassidy, its president, spoke inviting the older members as well as the young to attend. He said their presence was a great help. The Men's club was reported for by George Taylor who said that its membership was growing.

One of the most interesting parts of the evening was the church history read by S. N. Belcher. In the fall of 1872, said Mr. Belcher a class was organized in Wollaston by Rev. Samuel Kelley, then pastor of the Methodist church in West Quincy. In the spring of 1873 prayer meetings were started, and on January 4, 1874, a church and Sunday school were organized by Rev. William R. Clark, the meeting being held in the hall of the schoolhouse. On November 22, 1874, it was voted to build a church, a lot of land at the corner of Beale street and Central avenue having been presented by the Wollaston Land Associates. The new edifice was dedicated on April 7, 1875, the membership at that time numbering 16, with 15 on probation. Later a new site was purchased and in 1897 the church was moved to its present location, a vestry being built underneath, and a tower on top. In March, 1903, the property at 52 Brook street was purchased for a parsonage.

J. A. Sedgwick spoke on the spiritual side of the church. The first care of the church is the soul, and if a church is not built on that foundation it will not stand. There is nothing grander in the world than a good upright Christian man.

F. G. Bennett, speaking of the social side of the church said that the time had come when the church also must advertise, and that each one should be a walking advertisement of the benefits derived from a church life.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to a discusion of ways and means in charge of A. N. Murray during which reports were received by the treasurer, A. B. Cassidy, and the collector, F. A. Sutermeister.

Interspersed during the evening were piano duets by Miss A. C. Stone and Mrs. Orville Estes, a reading by Mrs. J. A. Sedgwick, and selections by a chorus of young ladies consisting of: Miss Ethel Smith, Miss Irma Douglas, Mrs. Orville Estes, Miss Mary Cleveland, Miss Nettie Chrittenden, Miss A. C. Stone, Miss Bessie Wilbur and Miss Florence Bennett.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

The program for the fifth of the monthly musical services at Bethany church will be given Sunday evening at 7.30. The program includes:

Organ prelude Ave Maria d Arcadelt	Liszt
Te Deum in E minor	Buck
Solo, "Fear thou not O Israel"	Buck
Response "A Prayer for eventide"	Landi
Solo and Chorus, Come thou Holy Spirit"	Barnett
Postlude	Rinck

An enjoyable social, supper and whist party was held Friday evening at Grand Army hall by Gertrude A. Boyd Ladies' Auxiliary to the Spanash War Veterans. Supper was served by the ladies at 6.30 and was enjoyed by half a hundred. After supper whist was in order, fourteen tables particiting. Souvenirs of the occasion were given those having the highest scores.

MEN RIGIDLY EXCLUDED

Masquerade Party by Young Ladies of the Woodward

Gentlemen were rigidly ecluded Friday evening from Woodward hall, where there was a dancing party given by the Seniors to the Juniors. It was a masquerade matronized by Miss Burgess and Miss Dinegan of the teaching corps. Most of the other lady teachers of the school were also present. Although no gentleman was allowed within the portals there were apparently as many gentlemen as ladies present. This was due to the fact that half of the young ladies were gowned as young gentlemen.

All were en-masque and they had a "high old time." The young misses who impersonated the gentlemen were very gallant, and could any males have witnessed the scene they would have had a practical lesson on the way the young misses thought the young gentlemen should conduct themselves. The costumes were well gotten up, nearly all the well-known characters being impersonated, and so well was the identity of the masquers hidden that it was not until unmasking came that the real identity of the personages was known. The music was furnished by one of the young ladies who presided at the piano. The dance was over at 10 o'clock.

MORE SNOW.

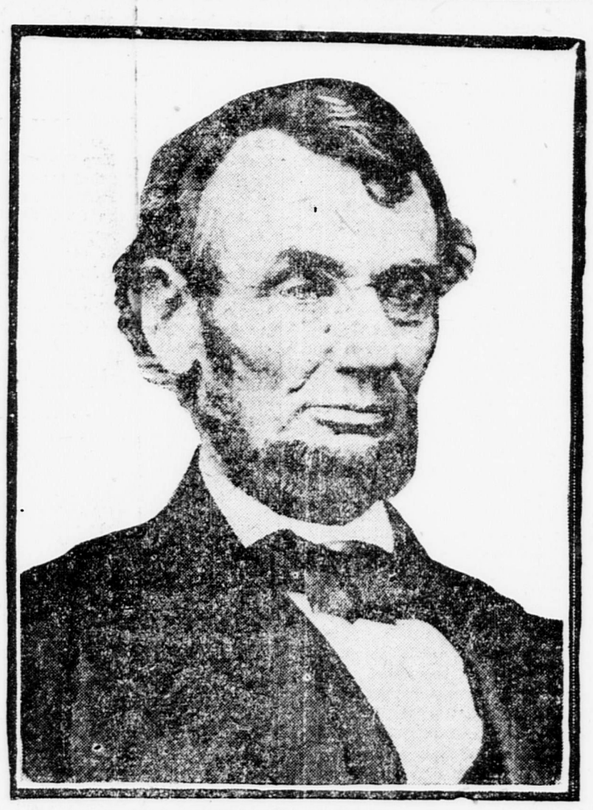

The snow storm predicted for Friday night arrived on time, and before the snow stopped falling some eight inches had fallen. It began to snow shortly after 9 Friday evening, and continued through the greater part of the night. This forencon the snow turned to rain and by noon it had become quite slushy in places. The rain was a fine one or the walking would have been something terrible. The street department started its plows out at 5 o'clock this morning, so that by 7 o'clock practically all of the sidewalks had been cleaned. The street railway began to run its plows shortly after 10 o'clock last night and kept them moving all night, so that this morning practically all the lines were open, although it was the middle of the forenoon before the East Weymouth line was in operation its whole length. The indications this noon were that it would clear before night.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The Men's club of Bethany church have prepared a very interesting program for the Lincoln memorial service on Monday evening. The various men's organizations connected with the churches of the city have been invited. Members are invited to bring their lady friends. There is so much interest in the service that it has been thought wise to extend a general invitation to the public. The program is most attractive, and the many friends of the musicians and of Stacy Southworth, the chief speaker, will be glad to attend the service. It includes:

Song	"Vive L' America"	Millard
	Howaid G. Berry
Violin solo	"Travatore"	Veili
	M. Ellen Forsaith
Recitation		Tom Taylor
	"Abraham Lincoln,"
	Louis Ruben
Song	"For all Eternity (with violin obligato)	Mascheroni
	Emma Schufeldt Moore
Address	Stacy B. Southworth
Song	"Roses in June" (with violin obligato)	Edward German
	Mrs. Moore
Recitation	Extract from "The Perfect."
	Mary R. S Andrew
	Hugo Lyle Stalker, Jr.
Song	"Battle Hymn of the Republic"	Julia Ward Howe
	Arthur A Lincoln
Accomp nist	Frances Forsaith

A Manchester, N. H., item in a Boston paper says "Jack" Finn, pitcher of St. Anselm's college baseball team, is at his home in Quincy, Mass., suffering from frost bites. Finn took a trip to the city from St. Anselm's Monday night, when it was 12 below zero, and when he returned, while walking from the car line, he had both of his ears and two of the fingers on his right hand frozen. He reached the college in a bad condition and was found on the steps, where he fell from exhaustion.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

VALENTINE PARTY

Society Ladies Interested in the Day Nursery

Although not as largely attended perhaps as usual, the valentine dance at Music hall last evening, in aid of the Quincy Day Nursery, was a very pretty as well as a very enjoyable affair. The music was by Poole's orchestra, and was delightful as they gave their numbers with a vim and snap that made it almost impossible for one to remain from actively participating.

The matrons were Mrs. Dexter E. Wadsworth, Mrs. Eugene C. Hultman and Mrs. Charles R. Safford. Mrs. Wadsworth was in green, Mrs. Hultman in old gold, and Mrs. Safford in white, and they made a charming group. The ushers were Dexter E. Wadsworth, Dr. N. S. Hunting, Gion. E. C. Hultman, John H. Johnson, E. E. Jameson, Charles A Howland, Martin Erisman, W. G. Ogden, W. E. Burke, Delcevare King, Frank Baxter, George E. Pfaffmann, Charles A. Price, F. Morton Smith, Carrol M. Bill, W. I. Dewson, R. R. Freeman, Jr., J. Sheppard, Carl R. Sheppard, G. F. Hall, J. J. Cain, Harry P. Dowst, C. C. Lane, Henry E. Frick, L. H. Sturtevant, Tyler Brigham, Frank K. Patch, Herbert Curtis, J. C. Wilson, N. G. Nickerson, Jr., and H. C. Gilmore.

The committee in charge of the party were Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. Theo. King, Mrs. Herbert Lawton, Mrs D. E Wadsworth, Mrs E. E. Jameson, Mrs. E C. Hultman and Mrs. J. H. Welch.

The patronesses who contribated largely to the success of the party were Mrs. C. T. Hardwick, Mrs. E. E. Davis, Mrs. A. P. Homer, Mrs. E. B. Bird, Mrs. Redfield Allen, Mrs. Harold M. Gage of Braintree, Mrs. Carl R. Sheppard, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Mrs. H. L. Kincaide, Mrs. H. L. Rice, Mrs. J. M. Sheahan, Mrs. Arthur Sibley, Mrs. F. H. Smith, Miss Maud Macfarland, Mrs. George E. Pfaffman, Mrs. J. F. Moore, Mrs. F. S. Davis, Mrs. Sidney C. Hardwick, Mrs. Henry R. Holden, Mrs. Franklin K. Patch, Mrs. Thomas Fenno, Mrs. Charles R. Safford and Mrs. Herbert S. Barker.

AT CODDINGTON.

Lincoln Day exercises were held yesterday at the Coddington school and included music by the school, "Come thou Almighty King"; the Gettysburg address by the eighth grade; composition, "Abraham Lincoln," by Julia Coyle; "Love of Country," grades seven A and B,; music, "The Old Kentucky Home," by the eighth grade girls; "The Bugle Song" by grade six; singing of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," by the school; recitation of "Sheridan's Ride," the sixth grade; a talk appropriate to the occasion by Principal Bentley; music, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," the singing of "America," and closed with the Salute to the Flag.

RECEPTION TO JUNIORS.

A most pleasant reception was given by the Sophomores to the Juniors last evening at the High school gymnasium.

Dancing was enjoyed by about fifty couples from 7.30 to 10.30. Music was furnished by the Wollaston Orchestra composed of Harry Smith, pianist; Max Pinkham, violin; Ernest Pletsch, cornet; and Charles Sayward Jr., drum. The chaperons for this delightful occasion were Miss Evaline A. Salsman and Miss Mary A. Brown, two of the popular teachers of the school. Among the geusts present were: Headmaster James D. Howlett, Miss Lilla R. Birge, Miss Marie C. Bass, Miss Grace A. Howe, Miss Louisa R. Holt, Mr. Isaac Goddard and Mr. John F. Roach, teachers at High.

The committee to whose untiring efforts the success of this reception was due, was made up of Miss Eleanor Whittemore, Miss Juanita Metherell, Miss Bessie Dorley, Miss Dora Staples and Miss Avis Tobey. The gymnasium was prettily festooned with valentines and other decorations.

VALUE OF EDUCATION

Many Lessons from Lecture of Capt. Bartlett

Editor of Daily Ledger:

Those who were so fortunate as to hear the lecture given by Captain Robert Bartlett, in Alpha hall, on Thursday evening, must have come away impressed with the fact that the lecturer, although, as you observe, "was unused to the lecture platform" was a man deserving of respect and admiration, and he received both in full measure.

A Harvard professor, in introducing Captain Bartlett to the Twentieth Century club, well said: "The man who has something to tell, is the man to whom we wish to listen." Those who heard the Captain found his story worth listening to—a story of awful hardship and almost insurmountable difficulties of suffering and privations, a story which showed the amount of courage and resistive power necessary to accomplish the task of reaching the northern most point of the globe.

When all is said about the achievement of this wonderful feat, it was Captain Bartlett's hand which guided the "bonnie ship" (as he affectionately called the Roosevelt) through those awful and dangerous seas of ice, and brought her safely back into port. It was his mind that grappled with the navigator's tremendous task; it was his seamanship, his courage, his will and steadfastness of character which made possible the transportation to and from the spot from which his commander was enabled to realize the dreams of all explorers.

Captain Bartlett told the story in his own rugged style. It needed no apology. He held his audience; he told them something and they carried away a clear idea of the dash to the North Pole. A polished and finished professor could not get greater results, but this thought was ever present in the minds of his audience. If he had only had in his youth the opportunities for learning which so many of our High school children toss aside so wantonly, what an advantage it would be to him, and what conscious power he would feel as he addressed his audiences. He made the most of what training he has acquired, and did wonderfully well when all things are considered.

It is a pity that more of the young men of the community did not hear the lecture. It would have been an inspiration to them; it would have interested them in things other than the vaudeville and the dance; it might have taught the lesson that it is worth while to make the sacrifice of personal comfort and enjoyment for the purpose of furthering the advancement of science; that it is worth while to think of things besides present pleasures and easy positions; and incidentally, it would have suggested to them the importance of acquiring an extensive vocabulary and the handicap experienced when there is poverty of expression and wealth of subject matter. But above all it would have emphasized the chance for education which this city is offering them, and accentuate the fact that whatever a man's chosen vocation, a good command of the English language is a sure foundation.

Captain Bartlett's lecture was an interesting lecture by an interesting man. It was apparent throughout that the speaker had been trained in the school of adversity, that he had faith in himself, and deservedly so, but it was also apparent that in spite of his achievement he suffered regret because of inability to express himself clearly and concisely. So often great men have this drop of bitterness added to their draught of success, that the youths of today cannot learn too early nor too well, the great importance of an ability to speak and write good English.

Captain Bartlett's place, notwithstanding all this, will be among those who have accomplished great deeds; his name will go down to posterity as one of the makers of history, but his own peace of mind, as he anticipates giving a lecture, would be greater if he had had the opportunity for early training which our High school pupils have offered to them. In the words of the great English dramatist, "The readiness is all."

Martha C. Mackay,

Quincy, Feb. 12, 1910.

The installation of Rev. Alfred Ray Atwood, recently of Quincy Point, as pastor of the Presbyterian church at Patterson, N. Y., will take place on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15. The sermon will be by Rev. M. H. Gardner of Brewster and eight other clergymen will take part in the order of service. Music by orchestra and choir.

HEARTS and FLOWERS

The Most Effective Valentine

Beautiful blooming flowers are far more in keeping with the tender Sentiments of St. Valentine's Day than any expression in the form of tinseled paper. Nothing expresses the spirit of the day so perfectly; nothing you can send your sweetheart or wife which will convey tenderness, love and affection so well, for "Flowers are lovely; love is flower-like."

Of all the missives SHE receives throughout the "Day" none will win her favor so much as Flowers from JOHNSON'S.

Wise is the man who on St. Valentine's Day remembers his wife even as in the days when she was only his sweetheart, with flowers from JOHNSON'S.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The St. Louis Post Dispatch announces that Bibles have gone up in price. It appears that even the Gospel is not to be free.

The complete disappearance of Dr. Cook is one of the mysteries of the period. Perhaps Mr. Peary will find the Cook flag planted on the South pole when he gets there.

Dr. Wiley of the Bureau of Chemistry says his Bureau has saved Uncle Sam a hundred dollars for every dollar it has spent, which makes a return to the United States of ten thousand per cent on its Food Chemistry investments. This sounds suspiciously like wild cat advertising.

The toll for loss by fires in the United States during the year 1907 amounts to $456,495,000. In these fires 1443 people were killed and 5,654 others injured. These are figures upon which to base a public demand for better building and better fire protection in this country, which suffers more from fire than any country in the civilized world.

It behooves people entering a street car to keep their eyes open for bundles for the full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court has decided that a street railway company is not liable if a passenger entering a car falls over bundles and packages placed on the floor by another passenger.

Although it is still cold and wintry and stoves and heaters are working overtime the time is not far distant when the mehodical and scrupulous house holder will begin the task of spring housecleaning. The comic papers for many years have had their little jokes about this annual period of woe. Thanks to the modern methods of building and the multitude of vaccuum cleaners, dustless dusters, etc., etc., the former back-breaking tasks are being reduced to a minimum. Perhaps in future years one will but have to press a button and the house will be electrically washed, swept and dusted while the family are out about their everyday labors.

At the close of the last term of the superior criminal court of Middlesex county the judge in discharging the jurors uttered some very interesting facts. He thanked the members for the intelligence and judgment displayed at the various trials and commented on the extreme youth of the defendants. His Honor said that the average age of the offenders was twenty years and that this early deviation from the straight path is the direct result of children being allowed to run the streets at any and all hours. How many parents in this town know where their children are and what they are doing after the evening meal is finished? There are many who neither know nor care and upon their shoulders rests the responsibility.

Dr. Andrew White has discovered that only one murderer out of seventy-four is executed. The wave of sentimental reform that is sweeping justice and restraint away is responsible not only for the number of unconvicted murderers but may also be held responsible for much of the crime of the country. Lax laws, easy evasion of sentence, warm prisons and appetizing fare all contribute to make crime attractive. The hysterical and sentimental reformers who are demanding probation sentences for all criminals forget everything and everybody but the criminal and are oblivions to the fact that the chief object of conviction and punishment is to restrain the criminal impulses of the potential malefactor. Justice tempered by mercy is admirable but justice negatived by hysterics is the spectacle we see only too frejuently in our courts.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

If the voters of the 14th district could unite on John D. Long, as the man to succeed Congressman Lovering, it would be a worthy accomplishment. It is, however, almost too much to expect. Keith of Brockton has announced his candidacy, Doctor Wheatley, of North Abington, and Senator Nash of North Hanover, are receptive and ex-Senator Garfield of Brockton is known to be a candidate. Doctor Wheatley was a candidate for the nomination in opposition to Lovering, two years ago, and was credited with an intention to try titles again with Lovering next fall had the latter lived. It would not be surprising that in view of the conflicting claims, ex-Governor Long should become the candidate, and in that case, his triumphant return to the national House of Representatives would be assured. He says, "If I were younger, and were looking forward to a political career, it would be very pleasant." He is 71, and would easily acquire the title once bestowed on John Quincy Adams of "The Old Man Eloquent." Adams was nearly as old as Long when he was elected to Congress, after having been President of the United States, and he served nine terms in the House before he died.—Lynn Item.

Commenting on some phases of American life at the close of his recent visit to this country, Sir Thomas Lipton, who is himself a dealer in groceries and provisions, and therefore presumably interested in their consumption, said the thing he could not get used to was the great waste at American tables.

This he had noted alike in the home the hotel and the restaurant. Enormous quantities of food were carried from the kitchen to table, to be toyed with more or less and then sent back useless and destined to the garbage pail.

For himself he remarked he could never bring himself to send his plate awoy with "leavings" on it. The waste of meat struck him as particularly reprehensible. A living creature had to be deprived of its life to furnish a food for man, of which man made the scantiest use. Huge steaks were served out of which only the tender spots were cut. The question of nutrition gave way entirely to taste or whim. No soil could forever produce food enough to permit such waste.

This observation will readily be confirmed by every observer of American habits. Desire and needs are kept as far apart as possible in the average mind. A boycott of waste would work a greater reform in the cost of American living than any other step that could be taken.

Cold storage is catching it in some directions just now because of the belief that storing up food stuffs has had much to do with the present high prices. It would be at some periods in each year a tough world for the lovers of good food if there was no such thing as a cold storage plant in existence. These plants enable people to have, the year round, food which without the cold storage scheme could only be enjoyed at certain seasons in many instances; also, the plan enables people to have on hand in readiness for their use food stock which would otherwise vanish with other perishable things of earth. The proposition to "tag" goods so that it might be readily told how long they had been held, and to make laws preventing holding goods for any great length of time in order to enable people to "corner" markets and create an artificial scarcity, sounds better than it would probably work out in practice. It would not be a very difficult matter for anybody who was dishonest to shift tags and make other changes that would naturally deceive any inspector except one who lived in a storage plant and watched proceedings there every minute of every day.—Brockton Enterprise.

GRADE CROSSINGS

Railroad Plans Said to Be Favored by Commission

It is reported that the New Haven railroad is to build a new depot in Quincy near Adams street and the new parkway.

No report has yet been made by the special commission appointed to consider the abolition of the grade crossings at Saville street and Water street but it is rumored that the commission will favor the plans of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., to raise the grade of the railroad from Adams street to Braintree. This would raise the bridge at Dimmock street, close Saville street to travel, give more headway under the Granite street bridge, raise the School street bridge and put Water street under the railroad.

In place of the Saville street crossing, there may be a subway for foot travel, but it is proposed to extend Upland road through to Granite street, giving a wide thoroughfare which would be used largely by people coming from Boston, who will be landed on the west of the tracks and not allowed to cross at grade. Tunnels may be provided but the street would be more direct for many, going either south of north. By this plan Granite street would be greatly improved.

It will be quite a problem to connect the freight yards and granite yards when the main tracks are raised but that is a matter for the railroad.

MILTON

A citizens' caucus will be held next Friday evening at the Town hall to nominate town officers.

Col. Oliver W. Peabody camp S. of V., observed Lincoln's anniversary on Thursday evening at the Town hall.

Mrs. Martha A. Andrews, who died in Quincy, Feb. 5, was the daughter of the late Eben Gott and Eben Gott and Eunice Story Tibbetts. She was born in Rockport, Mass., Sept. 24, 1831. She married Benjamin Parsons of that town in 1851, and lived there during her early life, removing to Boston in 1869. Mr. Parsons died in 1881, and in 1885 she married Stephen P. Andrews, who died in 1898. Mrs. Andrews was a descendant of Jabez Tarr and John Gott, soldiers of the American Revolution, and of the Puritan Charles Gott, who came to Salem in 1628 with Governor Endicott, who was a Deputy in the Colonial Government of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. She was a member of the First Congregational church of Rockport. She is survived by three sons, Charles S. Parsons of Boston, Clarence T. Parsons, of Arlington and William D. Parsons of Milton, also five grandchildren and one great grand-child.

SNIPTUIT CLUB.

The members of the Sniptuit Rod and Gunning club held their first annual banquet in a private dining room in the South terminal station, Boston, Saturday evening, February 5. In the absence of the president, H. A. Simonds who was unable to be present because of illness, the chairman of the arrangement committee, Arthur Russell of Wollaston, assisted by W. C. Seeley of Quincy, conducted the affairs of the evening. The guests of the evening were the members of the Gun Island club, who share the privileges of the same lake which is near the town of Marion.

There was an especially good menu which was provided by one of the best caterers in the South station. The menu cards were the work of one of the members and were worthy of the many praiseworthy compliments bestowed upon them. They will serve as treasured souvenirs of the affair. The banquet was a decided success, promoting good fellowship among the members. The following gentlemen comprise the club: H. A. Simonds, president; secretary and treasurer, J. F. Gray of New Bedford; manager, Alfred Reed, Marion; trustees, W. C. Seeley, Quincy; Frank Reed, Middleboro; Charles E. Sweet Dedham; Edwin Stone, Boston; Dallas Monk, Edward Bailey, Guy Wood, Orin Jackson of South Braintree, Will Cranton, Rockland; Dr. S. Hardwick, Quincy; Arthur Russell, Boston; George Clark, Marion, and Layton Clarke of Fairhaven. It is hoped that this will be followed by many reunions of a similar happy nature.

Telegraphers Get an Increase

Cincinnati, Feb. 12.—There will be no strike of telegraphers and station agents on the "Queen & Crescent" route, a wage agreement having been signed here. The men receive an increase in wages of 10 percent at once.

Almost Entire Village Sold

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 12.—Almost the entire village of Hiverdale has been sold to the Kupfer Brothers company, New York. The transfer includes the Hiverdale woolen mills, forty tenements and 106 acres of land. The mills are assessed for $132,440.

SAFEGUARDING SAVINGS BANKS

Special Message From Governor Draper on the Subject

Boston, Feb. 12.—Governor Draper sent a special message to the legislature on the Southbridge Savings bank defalcations, urging that the auditing of the books of Massachusetts savings banks, in which are deposited $1,222,000,000 of the people's money, be placed in the direct control of the bank commissioner's department.

By inference, he blamed the trustees of the Southbridge Savings bank for having permitted defalcations of more than $400,000. He declared in effect that the present system of examining banks is insufficient to prevent great frauds.

It had been expected that the governor might have something to say about the offer of the Southbridge bank trustees to settle with depositors at 85 cents on a dollar. The offer has been approved by Bank Commissioner Chapin. Governor Draper realizes, it is said, that this indorsement may be made a campaign issue this fall. He does not, however, mention the Chapin proposition in his message.

After calling attention to the fact that the Southbridge defalcation covered a period of twenty years, Draper remarked:

"During all this time the bank has been examined by the bank commissioner's department and its predecessors and the defalcation was not discovered."

The bank commissioner's examination, he said, does not have anything to do, generally speaking, with the auditing of the books of banks. It is entirely the responsibility of the trustees. The bank commissioner only prescribes the extent to which the books shall be audited by the bank's themselves. The Southbridge trustees, he said, reported that they had made such examination.

"Defalcation would be difficult if the trustees had the proper audit," the governor declared. "If not, wrongdoing is easy."

The governor takes strong ground in behalf of Bank Commissioner Chapin's recommendation that the auditing of the accounts, as well as the examination of assets, etc., should be in charge of the bank commissioner's department.

"If this were so," says the message, "an examination would be made more thorough and practical in its results than at the present time, and defalcations would be extremely difficult. I believe that proper auditing of savings banks and co-operative banks should be under the direction of the bank commissioner. I further believe that the expense of such auditing should be borne by the institutions for which it is done."

ONCE WORTH $7,000,000

Tewksbury, Known as Skyrocket Financier, Passes Away Penniless

New Orleans, Feb. 12.—Lewis G. Tewksbury of New York, who has been in the Charity hospital here since Jan. 28, died yesterday afternoon. His death was due to uremic poisoning. The body has not yet been claimed, and unless relatives or friends appear it will be buried in the potter's field.

The skyrocket financier, once worth as much as $7,000,000, had been unconscious most of the time.

Since his identity had been established he had had a number of fashionable visitors, but none of these left his name. So far as the police have been able to learn, Tewksbury is entirely without funds, and his body is a charge of the city.

CYLINDER HEAD BLOWS OUT

Goes Through Brick Wall and Causes Shutdown of Shoe Factory

Middleboro, Mass., Feb. 12.—The blowing out of the cylinder head of an engine in the shoe factory of Leonard & Barrows in this town caused the shop to be shut down, throwing 500 employes temporarily out of work.

The engineer, Harry Rogers, narrowly escaped death, as the cylinder head went past him and out through the brick wall of the engine room.

Immediately after the blowout the steam began to escape, but the plucky engineer managed to shut it off quickly.

STATISTICS WANTED

Of All Manufacturing Firms of the City

The Manufacturing firms of Quincy have begun to receive blanks for the census of manufactures being taken by the National bureau. Small manufactors are included as well as the big ones.

Director Durand has taken extraordinary precautions to assure the manufacturers that all answers will be held absolutely confidential. This statement is conspicuously displayed on the front pages of the various schedules, and it is also emphatically declared that no publication will be made in the census reports disclosing the name or operations of individual establishments in any particular.

The act of Congress provides that the Bureau of the Census shall not permit any other than its sworn employees to examine the individual reports. It provides also that any employee who shall, without the authority of the Director of the Census, publish or communicate any information coming into his possession shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not to exceed $1,000 or be imprisoned not to exceed two years, or both, in the discretion of the court.

There is "but a limited time in which to complete this work," says Durand. "It is essential that all the field employees exert themselves to the utmost. Those who do good work will be reassigned to other districts and retained in the service until the work is finished.

"If manufacturers or others furnishing data object to a supposed disclosure of the secrets of their business, the special agent will assure them that the results of their individual business will not be made public. They are equired also to explain that the information will not be used for the purpose of taxation, nor in any manner to identyfy the operations of the individual establishments, and will not be disclosed to any other bureau of the Federal Government. The intent of the law, which will be carried out, is to prevent the disclosure of information which might operate to the detriment in any way of the person or establishment supplying it.

"The period covered will be, wherever possible, that of the year ending December 31, 1909. In the majority of cases the data can be secured for it, as the buisness year of most establishments will correspond to the calendar year 1909. For establishments beginning operations for the first time during the year it will not be possible to make the report cover more than the period actually embraced.

"A manufacturing establishment, which is the unit of enumeration for the census, is deemed to be one or more factories, mills, or plants owned or controlled by one individual, partnership, corporation, or other owner, located in the same town or city, and for which one set of books of account is kept. As the statistics will be presented by kinds and by classes of industries, it is essential that the precise character of the work performed by each establishment shall be clearly determined. A general schedule must be prepared for each establishment reported, and, in addition, such special supplemental schedule or schedules as may apply to the industry, if any.

"The method of the canvass requires that a few days prior to the day when a given firm is to be canvassed the special agent shall mail to the manufacturer a copy of the general schedule, with the proper supplemental schedules together with the request that they be filled out in readiness for the special agent on his arrival. In the event this has not been done at the time the agent calls, he will proceed to get the facts immediately.

"The information secured must be accurate. In drafting the schedule every effort was made to frame the inquiries in such a form that the answers to them can generally be taken directly from the books of accounts and the records of the establishment canvassed. In no case are general statements or estimates to be accepted where it is possible to secure answers directly from the books of accounts and records.

"As there is a general interest in the subject of the comparative importance of the cities, States and Territories with reference to the larger selected industries, it is exceedingly desirable that, from the standpoint of civic pride alone, the manufacturers throughout the United States should furnish the data without delay in order that the industrial centers in which they operate may be completely and correctly represented in the statistical tables. Every manufacturer is therefore urged to cooperate promtly and fully with the Bureau of the Census."

MISSION WORK IN MEXICO

Intetesting Talk at St. Chrysostom's Church

Miss Josephine Bumstead, chairman of the Latin American mission work of the auxiliary, which includes Mexico, Brazel, Cuba and Hayti, pleased the members of the Women's guild of St. Chrysistom's church Friday afternoon when she talked so interestingly of the work done in Mexico, the nearest foreign mission, showing with a map the extent of territory over which Bishop Aves travels to reach his people.

One finds there members of the Auxiliary, St. Andrews brotherhood, Girls Friendly society and the church Periodical club. Massachusetts sent them their Lending library. Miss Bumstead told of the gold, silver and copper industries and said Mexico was called the treasure house of the world

Her chairmanship has become a sort of sacred obligation to her, which strengthens the more she knows of their needs. Her special pet seems to be the Mary Josephine Hooker Memorial school for girls at Mexico City. She told of the splendid work being done by the teachers Miss Driges and Miss Roper, and she showed a number of pictures of the pupils, the buildings and surrounding country, which were thoroughly enjoyed, besides many interesting souvenirs.

Tea and cake were served by the committee, Mrs. John E. Walter chairman, and appreciation was shown Miss Bumstead in the card greeting given her during the social hour.

Quincy People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Quincy who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Quincy. Here's Quincy testimony.

Charles Somers, 17 Newcomins Place, Quincy, Mass., says: "It is a pleasure for me to make known to other kidney sufferers, the benefit I received from Doan's Kidney Pills. I had lame back as the result of weak kidneys for almost ten years. I could get no relief from the many remedies I tried and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Before long this remedy completely cured me. I shall always praise Doan's Kidney Pills."

HEROISM REWARDED

Big Medal Presented to Henry F. Tilden

It frequently happens, although often thoughtlessly, that real acts of heroism go unnoticed, so that when some act is fittingly noticed it should be mentioned. Early on the morning of Feb. 5, there was a fire near the corner of Washington and Canal streets. Those who were early on the scene noticed one gentleman particularly prominent in his efforts to extinguish the blaze as well as his utter disregard for his own life when he assisted in saving perhaps the life of some of the occupants. The local agent of the Carnegie commission happened to be present, however, and promptly made note of the occurrence.

It was not an act that called for a gift of money but more properly a medal, that the hero might keep and hand down to future generations. The medal selected was a very elaborate affair round in shape and 6 inches in diameter. Sheet iron was its base, both faces being highyl polished and fittingly engraved. On the face were the letter: "Chief—G. C. C." On the reverse face was the inscription which read as follows: "Presented to Henry F. Tilden in recognition of heroic conduct at the fire of Feb. 5 1910."

The formal presentation was made last evening, when Mr. Tilden was called before the committee of the local Carnegie commission and presented with the medal by John Johnson in an eloquent speech. He suspended it about Mr. Tilden neck with a small piece of rope.

In accepting the medal Mr. Tilden made one of his characteristic speeches during which it was said he thanked the commission and assured them that should a similar occasion arise he would not be found wanting when the call to duty came.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

"WISE, STEADFAST IN THE STRENGTH OF GOD, AND TRUE."

BRIEFS.

A patriotic service is to be held on Sunday night by the Y. P. R. U., of First church in commemoration of Lincoln's birthday. Miss Lela B. Smith is the committee and there will be special music by William Weston and the Y. P. R. U. choir.

The Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters will hold their meeting Monday evening, Feb. 14th at 8 o'clock with Mrs. E. H. Bowker of Highland avenue.

On February 23 the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Atlantic Memorial church will give a colonial entertainment introducing such famous women as Martha Washington, Abigail Adams and many of their contemporaries. Such well known talent as Miss Ella Horton, Mr. and Mrs. Briggs of Cambridge and others equally as delightful will combine to make a most interesting evening.

At the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday morning the minister, Rev. Carl G. Horst, will take for his text "Seasons of Quiet." The egular vesper service will be held at 4.30 when there will be special music by the Bostoniana male quartet: Robert T. Hal, tenor; S. Fuller Whiting, subtenor; George G. Henry, baritone and A. T. Palmer, bass.

Owing to the next meeting of the Quincy Women's club coming on the 22d, a holiday ,the Arts and Crafts committee has decided not to have its exchange open on that day as it will be impossible for many of the committee to be present.

The Ward Two Republican committee met on Thursday evening. The resignation of Percy Holman as secretary and treasurer was accepted. William Webb was elected to fill the vacancy on the committee, caused by Mr. Holman's resignation. Plans for the coming special election were discussed and members of the committee feel assured that the Republican candidate for ward councilman, Mr. Harry Studley will be elected.

The Women's Missionary societies of the First Baptist church of Wollaston meets on Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. C. D. Young of 134 Prospect avenue. The Philippines will be the subject of the meeting under the leadership of Miss Laura J. Jones.

NAVY VERDICT IS SET ASIDE

Court Martial Punishment of Auld Is Disapproved

Washington, Feb. 12.—Paymaster George P. Auld, U. S. N., is restored to duty, and the sentence imposed by the court martial that he lose five numbers for his row with Dr. E. S. Cowles is entirely remitted by an order of the navy department.

Passed Assistant Surgeon A. H. Robnett's sentence is mitigated to the loss of but two numbers, instead of five, as recommended by the court martial. In both cases the department held the sentence of the court too severe.

The reason that Robnett did not escape entirely without loss of numbers was chiefly because of his telephone conversation with Cowles following the episode at the navy yard hop Dec. 11.

It was made known that the navy department found much provocation for the assault on Cowles by Auld at the hop and furthermore that the department believed he grappled with Cowles after the beginning of the quarrel and did not strike from behind, as Cowles contended.

The motives that inspired Auld in defending Miss Hesler and in wishing to carry out what he thought was the desire of the hop committee are also directly referred to as commendable by Beekman Winthrop, assistant secretary of the navy.

Here is what the navy department has to say of each case.

"The conduct and actions of Paymaster Auld as shown by the evidence introduced before the court, are deserving of severe censure.

"The complaining witness, whether or not objectionable to certain members of the committee, was an invited guest, and while in the yard should have been treated with proper courtesy as such.

"The department deeply regrets that Paymaster Auld should have permitted himself to behave in such an undignified and unseemly manner, and is of the opinion that the court properly found him guilty of conduct unbecoming a gentleman.

"In view of the fact, however, that although his conduct cannot be justified, the motives that actuated him were commendable and the assault occurred after considerable provocation, the loss of numbers adjudged by the court is hereby remitted and Paymaster George P. Auld, U. S. navy, will be released from arrest and restored to duty.

"Owing to the peculiar circumstances of the case and the great provocation given to the accused by the complaining witness, the sentence is mitigated to a loss of two numbers in his grade, and Passed Assistant Surgeon A. H. Robnett, U. S. navy, will be released from arrest and restored to duty."

HENDRICK ALIENIATION SUIT

Plaintiff Is Awarded Verdict of $75,000 Against Laura Biggar

New York, Feb. 12.—A verdict of $75,000, said to be the largest ever rendered in an alienation suit, was awarded to Mrs. Charles C. Hendrick of Brooklyn against Laura Biggar, the former actress, for alienating the affections of Mrs. Hendrick's divorced husband, Dr. Charles C. Hendrick.

Mrs. Hendrick sued for $100,000 and was so overcome when the jury unexpectedly awarded her three-fourths of that amount that she fainted in court.

Neither the defendant, who is said to be in California, or Hendrick appeared at the trial, but were represented by counsel.

WHITE HOUSE FOR GAYNOR

New York Democrats Also Plan the Deposition of Connors

New York, Feb. 12.—Taking the reins in their own hands for the first time in history, the majority of members of the state Democratic committee have issued a call for a special meeting of that body, to be held here within the next ten days. It is understood that William J. Connors will have to use all his power to save himself from being deposed as chairman.

WILLIAM J. CONNERS.

Not only are the Democrats who are opposed to Connors going to make a fight to have another elected in his place, but it is understood that plans are to be made which will reorgaize the Democratic party in the east, with a view to having William J. Gaynor nominated as their choice for the presidency in 1912.

BEGS FOR SIGHT OF BOY HE SHOT

Father Dies as Soon as His Desire Is Gratified

New York, Feb. 12.—"Doctor, I know that I am going to die. I'll meet my daughter in heaven. Please let me see my son for the last time on earth."

Suddenly rising in a state of agitation in the Flower hospital, where he had been suffering from a bullet wound that he inflicted on himself after he shot and killed his 3-year old daughter, Emily, and seriously injured his 2-year-old son, William, in his home, Daniel Ryan, Jr., made this appeal to a physician, declaring that he would die happy if the boy were brought to his bedside.

The sincerity of his appeal had its effect, so the boy was carried to his cot from the children's ward.

The father, who has been stricken with remorse over the murder of his daughter and the shooting of the boy, ran his hands over the child's face, cried and fell back in bed. Two minutes later, with tears dropping and murmuring a prayer, he died.

Ryan became despondent when he lost his work. He had little money left. He decided to die and kill the children so that his wife would not have to support them. He sent her out on an errand and in her absence shot the children and himself.

SAW ALLDS GET BRIBE

Conger's Story Gives New York Senators Something to Ponder Over

Albany, Feb. 12.—Skillful maneuvring by Senator Conger's attorneys sent the members of the state senate home for the week-end recess with the personal testimony of Senator Allds' accuser ringing in their ears.

Conger's affidavit charging Allds with taking a $1000 bribe from the bridge building combination was read before the senate when it began this investigation as a committee of the whole, but its cold legal phrases could not carry the weight of Conger's accusations voiced on the witness stand yesterday, when he declared he saw Allds receive the alleged bribe and related the incidents preceding the actual delivery of the alleged bribe.

LAST OF FAMOUS JURY DEAD

Case In Which Lincoln Used an Almanac to Clear His Client

Boone, Ia., Feb. 12.—Milton Logan, Sr., foreman and sole survivor of the jury in the famous Armstrong murder trial at Beardstown, Ills., in which Abraham Lincoln used an almanac to free the accused man, died here last evening, aged 90 years.

Lincoln, as attorney for the accused, proved by the almanac that no moon was shining on the night when one of the witnesses swore he saw the murder and recognized the murderer by the light of the moon.

NO PROMOTION AWAITS PEARY

House Naval Committee Displays Decided Objection

Washington, Feb. 12.—Commander Peary will not be rewarded by promotion in the navy for his discovery of the North Pole, if a sub-committee of the house committee on naval affairs can prevent such legislation.

The committee voted unanimously to report adversely the Hale bill creating Peary a senior rear admiral in the navy; the Allen, which is similar to the Hale bill, and declined to consider a suggestion by Secretary Meyer that Peary be retired as a civil engineer with the rank of rear admiral.

Secretary Meyer's opposition to the Allen bill was that it would take Peary from the staff and make him a line officer senior to such naval veterans as "Bob" Evans. He would favor a bill, he said, which would retire Peary as a rear admiral, provided he remained a staff officer. The sub-committee was not willing to consider even this proposition and reported to the full committee that Peary is not entitled to any reward at all. The two bills either will be tabled in the committee or the Hale bill will be reported adversely to the house with the recommendation that it lie on the table.

Representative Roberts of Massachusetts, who is a member of the sub-committee which considered the Peary bill, said he opposed any legislation giving Peary promotion. "Peary," said Roberts, "has been in the navy since 1881. Since 1886 he has been absent from duty for more than thirteen years. During the last three years he has been drawing the full pay of commander, despite the fact that he has performed no real duty. His discovery of the North Pole does not entitle him to advance in rank over naval officers who have been in the service for many years and many of whom have been under fire. This whole procedure has been ill-advised. If his friends wished to have him recognized by congress the proper course would have been to introduce a bill awarding him a gold medal. Discovering the North Pole consists of ability to endure great hardship. Matt Henson went to the Pole with Peary. We might as well consider making Henson a captain in the navy as to create Peary a rear admiral."

Secretary Meyer returned to the house committee on naval affairs without his approval the bill introduced by Representative Allen of Maine advancing Peary to the rank of rear admiral in the navy and placing him on the retired list with the pay of his rank. Up to a day or two ago it had been generally understood that Meyer not only would not oppose the Allen bill but would endorse it. It developed, however, that the line officers are up in arms over the proposition to put Peary on a par with Evans, Schley and other naval officers who have been in active service for years and many of whom have been under fire.

In his letter returning the Allen bill to the house committee without approval Meyer sets forth that Commander Peary's discovery of the North Pole was in no way connected with military or naval duty. For this reason, the secretary wrote, he could not see his way clear to approve a bill which takes Peary from the staff, raises him to the rank of rear admiral in the line and retires him with that rank. Such action, Meyer maintains, would be an injustice to the line officers. The secretary suggests that a bill placing Peary on the retired list as a civil engineer, with the rank of rear admiral, thus keeping him in the staff, would have his approval.

It is now certain that the manner in which Peary's promotion shall be brought about will result in considerable controversy.

Senator Hale's bill, which passed the senate, is identically the same as that to which Meyer raises objection. Several members of the house committee on naval affairs are opposed to the plan for Peary's promotion and are certain to fight the proposition when it is brought before the house.

156 Perish as Steamer Goes Down In the Mediterranean

Palma, Island of Majorca, Feb. 12.—Swept helplessly from her course in one of the wildest storms that has visited the Mediterranean sea in forty years, the French Transatlantic Steamship company's steamer General Chanzy dashed at full speed in the dead of night on the treacherous reefs near the island of Minorca and all but one of the 157 souls on board perished.

The sole survivor is an Algerian customs official, Marcel Rodel, who was rescued by a fisherman and is in a hospital raving, as a result of the tortures through which he passed, and unable to give an account of the disaster.

Of the ship's company there were eighty-seven passengers, of whom thirty were in the first cabin. The crew numbered seventy. It is believed no Americans were aboard the liner. The ship was in command of Captain Cayol. In his long experience he never before had met with an accident. He was soon to have retired.

The General Chanzy sailed from Marseilles Wednesday at noon and was due at Algiers Thursday afternoon.

"GOOD WALLOP ON THE JAW"

Judge Endorses Chastisement In the "Good American Way"

Orange, N. J., Feb. 12.—"So long as you uphold your dignity in the good American way, as I would uphold mine under similar circumstances, I see no wrong in your action," said Judge Roll, as he discharged William H Evans, a business man who had been accused of striking an employe.

Evans, who is 60 years old, was accused by Raymond Keller, 20 years old, of punching him in the street. Evans admitted he had struck the youth when the latter used indecent language to him.

"If a young man meets a man three times his age and calls him indecent names," said the judge, "there is no better way to demonstrate to the younger man he is wrong than to give to him a good wallop on the jaw."

BAKER ON "VACATION"

Gaynor Takes Commissioner's Place as Head of New York Police

New York, Feb. 12.—Commissioner William F. Baker's departure yesterday for a ten days' vacation at a time when the police department is undergoing the severest overhauling it ever received, has occasioned reports that Mayor Gaynor contemplates supplanting Baker as the head of the force.

This belief is strengthened by the fact that the mayor has assumed complete control in the investigation of the cases of Policemen Weitzel and Grove, on the charge of plying a woman with liquor in a barber shop and attacking her.

Mayor Gaynor made the vacation announcement after he had suspended Weitzel and Grove.

THEIR LOVE OF MUSIC

Bond That First Drew Miss Alexander and Roosevelt Together

New York, Feb. 12.—In the first interview she had ever given, Miss Eleanor B. Alexander, the fiancee of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., told why she had come to love Teddy, Jr.

"I think—well, I guess it's because he's so brilliant and has such a great future," she declared in her home.

They had first been drawn together, she said, by their love of music. Miss Alexander is an accomplished violinist. Asked if she knew her future father-in-law well, she replied: "Not very well, but I want to know him better and I want him to like me. Ethel Roosevelt has been one of my most intimate friends for a long time, and I am very fond of her mother."

ALDERMEN GOING TO LAW

Railway Company Disregards Their Order to Cease Operating Cars

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb. 12.—At a special meeting last evening the board of aldermen of this city adopted an order directing City Solicitor Warner to appear in Springfield before Chief Justice Knowlton of the superior judicial court and petition for an injunction restraining the Pittsfield Street Railway company from operating cars on its Country club and Lake avenue lines.

Wednesday the board ordered the company to cease operating cars, but the order was disregarded.

MEAT BOYCOTT A FAILURE

Animals In Pittsburg Zoo Refuse to Depart From Usual Diet

Pittsburg, Feb: 12.—The meat boycott which has been on in Pittsburg for some time, and which has been in full force at the Highland Zoo, has been lifted at the latter place on unanimous complaint of the neighbors within a mile, their plaint being that they were not able to sleep at night for the howls of the animals.

Head Keeper Tetrow of the zoo decided a week since to try dog biscuit on the lions, tigers, etc., and make them like it, but he has not succeeded.

With meat at prohibitive prices, Tetrow piled the cages of the animals full of biscuits, but none of them were even nibbled by the animals, who had been used to their meat daily. The big animals became very thin and very ill tempered, roaring all night long. So bitter was the complaint that Tetrow was instructed by the police to lift the meat boycott so far as the zoo was concerned.

REMOVED BY GOVERNOR

Public Administrator Charged With Malfeasance In Office

Boston, Feb. 12.—Attorney Oscar F. Bateman of Somerville, a public administrator, has been removed from office by Governor Draper and his council, charged with malfeasance in office.

It is alleged that Bateman took up cases where savings banks deposits, whose owners were missing, had been advertised, and produced documents by which he obtained payments. The savings banks were mulcted of $8500 by this method, it is alleged.

The case has been turned over to the state police, and an effort has been made to find Bateman since Wednesday, but without success.

SENSATIONS DUE IN TRIAL OF HYDE

What Prosecution Will Seek to Prove Against Doctor

Kansas City, Feb. 12.—Around Dr. Bennett C. Hyde the prosecuting attorneys have drawn their first thread of a web of evidence they expect to weave to prove him guilty of murdering the millionaire philanthropist, Colonel Thomas H. Swope.

The attorneys will seek to prove that Hyde, with the millions of Swope as his motive, sought to exterminate the members of his family mentioned for large amounts in his will, that the greater portion of his millions might divert to his own family. They will seek to prove that the eight members of Swope's family who suffered and almost died from typhoid fever were inoculated with the germs by him while he was acting as their physician, and that he caused poison to be administered to Swope that caused his death.

On the other hand, Hyde, who is regarded as a leading member of the community, is making preparations to combat the contentions of the prosecutors, and consequently one of the bitterest and most sensational murder trials of the decade will probably result.

REWARD FOR HONESTY

Man Who Found $1800 Receives Damaged Five-Cent Cigar

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 12.—Visions of what he would do with $1800 which he found near Harvard square were passing through the mind of Abijah Farnsworth. He is a driver for an ice company, and while going along Massachusetts avenue he made the discovery of the well-filled pocketbook in the road.

Hardly had he completed the count of his treasure trove before a man came along looking for something which he had lost. Inquiries were made and he correctly described the contents of the pocketbook. Thereupon Farnsworth returned the property and received in reward—a 5-cent cigar with a torn wrapper.

The generous man did not even give his name.

WHILE FIRING A SALUTE

Shell Explodes on Battleship Virginia and Two Men Are Injured

Washington, Feb. 12.—Two of the seamen of the battleship Virginia were injured in a shell explosion while the vessel was on her way to Guantanamo, Cuba, according to advices received by the navy department.

The injured are J. Irban, gunner's mate, whose right arm was later amputated above the wrist, and P. W. Brunner, gunner's mate, who was severely burned about the face.

An investigation of the explosion has been ordered. The accident happened while the Virginia was firing a salute, a charge exploding as it entered the breech of the gun.

Death of General Meade

Lexington, Mass., Feb. 12.—Brigadier General Robert L. Meade, gadier General Robert L. Meade, United States marine corps (retired), died at his home here, aged 68. He had been in failing health for a year or more. Meade, who had made a distinguished career for himself in the service of his country, was born Dec. 26, 1841, at Washington.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Flighty Bostonians to View Swarm of Aeroplanes—Conductor Fiedler Will Continue to Coach the Symphony Fiddlers—Curfew Bell Curtails College Girls' Strolls—Many New England Ministers Called to Sociological Service at the Hub—Other Doings at the American Athens.

Hubbites are all up in air over the exhibition of aerial machines to open at the Mechanics Building next week. And quite justly so, it would seem. It is the first affair of the kind in the history of the world, and will embrace all manner of air craft thus far manufactured. The attraction is expected to draw thousands of people from a distance, as the cost of the exhibition makes it prohibitive in many smaller centres. These folk, however, will come in railroad cars and trolleys, not in aeroplanes and dirigibles.

Major Higginson, who pays the fiddler, assures Boston music lovers that they are to have Mr. Fiedler as conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra two years longer. There is much satisfaction expressed over this decision among the many ladies who haunt the Hub's great cave of the winds, paying good prices for the kind of noise that is music. It was predicted a short time ago that Mr. Fiedler would not conduct another season, but those who have listened to his harmoniously and tastefully arranged programmes and enjoyed watching the technical skill of the famous orchestra become more and more notable under his direction are congratulating the management and themselves upon their good fortune in being able to attend at least two years more of concerts presided over by the German conductor.

More and more clergymen these days are finding good work for their hands outside the pulpit. The number of New England ministers who have been called into sociological occupations of late has been somewhat surprising. In the Boston-1915 movement which seeks to have converted the Hub into the world's best city five years hence are Rev. J. L. Sewall and Rev. C. Bertrand Thompson, while Rev. Ralph Albertson is educational director at the great department store conducted by the originator of the 1915 idea. Rev. Francis H. Rowley has been called from one of the most prominent Baptist pulpits in the country to take up Dr. Angell's old work of preventing cruelty to animals. Only the other day Rev. Harry W. Kimball announced his resignation from the pastorate of the Union Congregational Church at South Weymouth to become field secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League and in that position to preach the gospel of thrift, through the medium of wage earner's insurance at the savings banks, up and down the Commonwealth. The successes of these and others of the modern school of ministers are certainly reversing the old notion that a clergyman is of necessity a dreamy, unpractical individual who would be helpless in facing the world as it actually exists.

Just what kind of milk will be reposing in the bottle on the fire escape a few months hence the Boston girl would like to know. The more one reads about the question of the Hub's milk supply the less one seems to know. Here is the Woman's League trying this winter to have the state board of health authorized to say just who shall or shall not produce the milk and cream without which our breakfast food is but as sawdust, our fragrant cup of coffee but as bitters. Here, on the other side, is Mr. Burton W. Potter, president of the Massachusetts cattle owners' association, informing us that if the exactions of the milk inspectors do not cease no more cows will be raised in Massachusetts and it may be necessary to go further and pay more for that which makes the non inebriating cup palatable. There is still well remembered from some months ago the protest of Dr. S. H. Blodgett, director of one of the clinics at the Homeopathic Hospital, and a well known specialist in Bright's disease and similar disorders, who urged that under the stiff rules now regulating the proportion of solids he was actually unable to secure legal milk which his patients could take with safety—since in certain instances they require a thin but perfectly pure fresh milk. This authority, who for every obvious reasons, since the life itself of people undergoing treatment at the hospital or privately depends on their getting just the right milk, has been intensely interested in the question of the milk supply, is said to believe that the whole matter of regulation should be turned over to a commission in which the various interests concerned would all be represented. And that sounds like a reasonable solution of the milk controversy which has already plunged several factions into hot water. On account of the treatment developed under Dr. Blodgett at the Homeopathic Hospital well to do sufferers come to this state from many other states of the Union. They ought not to be killed here by the Commonwealth's insistence on a certain proportion of butter fats in the milk.

There is still hope for the shattered nerves of the anemic Bostonese. The Women's Municipal League is endeavoring to the best of its ability to suppress the unnecessary noises in and around the city. They have a serious stumbling block in the form of public indifference or inertia, but are trying to rouse people to the realization of how large a part of their nervous ailments are due to the rattle and bang and clash of the streets, shrieking of whistles, clanging of bells and tooting of horns. Considerable results have been brought about in New York City in this line, and the League is in hopes to accomplish equal benefits for frazzled Bostonians.

The florists have a series of treats in store for New England eyes and noses in the next year or so. In March, 1911, comes what will probably be the greatest flower show ever held in this country, when the National Society of American Florists will hold their exhibition. At the same time the American Rose Society and the American Carnation Society will exhibit. The first show this spring will be the last week in February, and is to be followed by a great orchid exhibition, for which preparations are being made to eclipse any other exhibition of this kind ever given. Then in the fall comes the great corn show, of interest to all New England agriculturists. Altogether the society has a busy year laid out for itself.

The time-honored "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight" may be pictured in a modern version when the new order at Wellesley college goes into working operation. The students' governing board—with which the faculty has nothing to do, by the way—has ordained that every student shall be within the grounds of the college by seven-thirty on winter evenings and by eight o'clock on summer evenings. This will seriously interfere with the habit of taking quiet strolls with suitable escorts beneath the light of the moon, which has prevailed for now many years at this famous college. South Natick was the favorite destination, and many maids of many minds whiled away their leisure hours in rambling tete-a-tetes in this direction. Should the governing board decide on a bell to signal the approach of the hour for returning to the classic shades of the campus trees there will probably be a nightly scramble up the stairs of the bell tower that history may repeat itself.

The centre of literary interest, book binderies and publishing houses, is fittingly the first city to undertake to teach printing and bookbinding in the public schools. The old East Boston High School has recently become the most modern of institutions through the installation of a course for the purpose of fitting young men and women to become expert printers and bookbinders, thus enabling them to leave high school prepared to take up a definite trade by which to earn their living. The students begin their studies with type-setting, following this with proof-reading, press work, sewing, trimming and binding. Students have grasped the subject with interest, and the project has all the signs of being very successful. It is already expected that it will be necessary to enlarge the shop next year. A two-year course is thought to be sufficient time in which to turn out an efficient apprentice printer or bookbinder. It will be necessary, of course, for the student to perfect himself in spelling, punctuation, capitalization, and the general use of grammar, in connection with his work in the printing shop. Ethel Angier.

BRIEFS

Flags are displayed on all public buildings today in honor of Lincoln's birthday.

Gertrude A. Boyd Auxiliary, S. W. V., gave a supper in G. A. R. hall last evening which was attended by over one hundred ,after which fourteen tables enjoyed whist the following being the successful winners of the souvenirs: James Morrison, W. F. Carmen, Mrs. Walter Howes, Miss Hadden and Mrs. James Hector.

Gov. Willson of Kentucky, ex-Gov. Long, and Col. Edward Anderson will make a great combination for the Middlesex club, says the Boston Record. Boston's Lincoln dinner of 1910 should be notable. Col. Anderson is one of the few men about here who saw Lincoln acting really as commander-in-chief, and his accounts of him are most graphic.

The letter received from G. B. Bates for the Daily Ledger is too hot for publication.

In making the award in the case of Carroll vs. the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., the jury awarded $3000 for conscious suffering and $1850 for death.

The Supreme Judicial court will come in at Dedham next Tuesday before Judge Morton.

Franklin C. Soule formerly of Brook street is critically ill at his home in Waterbury, Conn.

Miss Fannie Fraser of Beach street who has been ill since Christmas is convalescing and able to be down stairs.

A reception will be tendered next Thursday evening to Rev. and Mrs. Charles P. Marshall at the Quincy Point church.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the First Presbyterian church held an enjoyable social last evening. Games were played and refreshments served.

The Girls' Murray Club will give a valentine social in the vestry of the Universalist church on Washington street, Monday evening.

The Quincy Cold Storage Company plant is not in Quincy.

People living at North Weymouth and the Point are wondering what is the matter with the street railway service when a little storm like that of last night puts the cars out of commission, so that they have to walk to Quincy center or go by the way of Braintree. It is a great inconvenience and expense to business people, who must get to their work. It used not to be so.

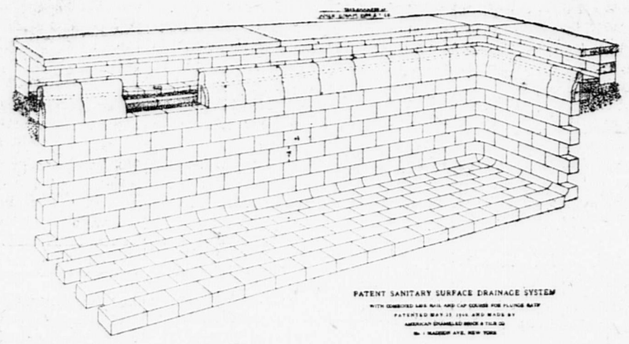

DEATHS.

PERKINS--In Milton, Feb. 8, Mr. Fred W. Perkins, aged 30 years.

KELLEHER--In Ho'brook, Feb. 10, Mrs. Margaret Josephine Easton, wife of Mr. Timothy Kelleher, aged 27 years.

THE QUINCY Y. M. C. A. SWIMMING POOL.

The cut which appears herewith shows a section of a swimming pool which is similar to the one now under construction in the Y. M. C. A. building. It is built of white enamel brick and tile, the combination life rail and over flow gutters of enamelled terra cotta. This system is the most up-to-date method of preventing scum and other foreign substances from accumulating on the surface of the water and so poluting it.

This material is purchased from the American Enamel Brick and Tile Co., of New York, who have built some of the largest and best pools in the country. The pool is progressing finely now, the water proofing is complete, the test being made on Tuesday. While the water was in, at least a dozen of the most courageous boys took a plunge, even though the water was only 38 degrees.

The work laying the enamel brick will be commenced on Monday.

Barring unforseen delays the pool will be finished by March 1, as it is being pushed by all the contractors on the job.

QUINCY HIGH 20 THAYER ACADEMY 17

The Great Basket Ball Game of Season Results in Local Victory

Great Work by Capt. Bates Largely Responsible

(By Rube.)

"We have met the enemy and they are ours." This is the well known message Congress received from Perry after his destruction of the British fleet on Lake Erie in 1812, and this same message would be a fitting one for Capt. "Russ" Bates to flash to the sporting fans in Quincy last evening, after that great game in which Quincy High school basket ballteam took Thayer Academy's measure by a score of 20 to 17.

It was just 3.45 when Leander MacDonald stepped onto the floor and called the teams together. The royal red and blue rooters instantly got to working and I can truthfully say I never saw a more enthusiastic group of students at a game of any kind than I viewed yesterday at the High school. Quincy certainly is well up in "school spirit" if that has anything to do with it.

From the referee's whistle the game jumped into a "three speed" match, and it was plainly evident the close match promised was going to be a sure thing. "Sure Shot" Alden the speedy little forward of Thayer Academy threw a basket from the center of the floor a few minutes after the start and the yellow and black rooters seemed crazed with joy.

Quincy was not far behind, for Prout dropped one in and the score was tied. Then the hard fighting for victory bgan to tell and both officials began to call fouls. The Quincy rooters took exceptions to some of MacDonald's rulings, but he was perfectly fair and square, and as Umpire Gifford informed me between the halves it was impossible to call all fouls for they were unintentional and they were surely to be seen at the fast rate the game went. The first half ended with Thayer leading 9 to 7.

Gifford came in to referee the second half and several Quincyites breathed easier. The half had not progressed long when Capt. Bates began to evade Morrison and he got the leather into the scoring circle four times from the floor, and once on a free try practically winning the game. The surprise of the game was the poor showing of "Billy" Manning. "Billy" usually lands as many baskets as any of them, but Manager Wilson upheld his reputation of being one of the best backs in school basket ball and as a result we missed Manning's score.

Capt. "Ed" Avery of the Thayer quintet brought anxious looks to the High school rooters for time and time again he came down the floor and tossed in the leather for points. During the second half Gifford called fouls at frequent intervals, but only one point was gained on them, Bates landing that one.

Willard of Thayer was no match for Prout, despite the latter's lameness and his teammates on the yellow and black did not get his assistance at any time during the game.

Taking everything into consideration it was a great game to view and in my opinion the best team won.

The Quincy team must have been inspired by their photos which were shown them before the game or else the steady rooting done wonders towards a victory. One thing that impressed me was the way all kept up their rooting for Quincy, even the janitors in their work clothes rooting at the top of their lungs, and it is safe to say there are many hoarse ones in Quincy today. As the whistle for time was sounded, bedlam broke loose, and poor Prout and "Russ" Bates tried to break records getting to the dressing rooms, but they got theirs at the hands of happy Quincyites before reaching there.

Quincy has much to be thankful for and in speaking of them just add the basket ball team of 1909-10. They certainly deserve to be mentioned.

The score:

QUINCY H. S.	THAYER ACADEMY
Bates, rf	lb, Morrison
Manning, lf	rb, Wilson
Prout, c	c, Willard
Chapman, rb	lf, Avery
Harmon, lb	rf, Alden

Score, Quincy H. S. 20; Thayer Academy 17. Goals from floor, Bates 4, Manning, Prout 3, Harmon, Avery 5, Alden 3. Goals from fouls, Bates 2, Avery. Referee, MacDonald. Umpire, Gifford. Scorer, Miller. Timer, Landers. Time, 20m halves. Attendance 400.

FAST HOCKEY GAME.

The Orient A. A. hockey team of South Quincy took the Bass' Rink seven into camp Friday afternoon at Bass' Rink by the score of 3-2. This is the second victory of the week for the Orients, for on Tuesday they defeated a fast Braintree team at the Quincy reservoir by the score of 9-6. George, better known as "Mike," Barry, played a fast game for the losers, taking many difficult shots. "Steve" Markham, the midget goal tender, of the Orient seven, blocked many fast shots and his excellent work enabled the Orients to come out victors.

The summary:

ORIENT A. A.	BASS' RINK.
Bradley, f	f, Barry
Sullivan, f	f, Josephine
Curtin, f	f, Bugfors
Mattson, f	f, Bishop
Small, cp	cp, Porter
Cremmins, p	p, Ahearn
Markham, g	g, Nagle

Goals—Sullivan, Bradley, Mattson, Josephine and Barry. Time—20 minute halves. Timer—Goodhue. Referee—Anderson. Scorer—Torne.

BRIEFS

A meeting of the executive committee will be held at the residence of Mrs. Carmon 110 Upland road Tuesday afternoon.

Nomination papers have been taken out by Harry G. Studley as Republican Independent candidate for councilman from Ward Two.

THE MESSIAH CONCERT.

It seems eminently fitting that the choral concert coming in the Lenten season, as it does, should be the presenting of an oratorio so in keeping with the spirit of the time, while the Choral society is not in any sense a religious organization ,the officers are trying to make it in every way a civic enterprise in which all may take part, and so, one of the fundamental thoughts in regard to its management, was that under the present rule, no concert should ever be given during Lenten season unless it was of a deeply religious nature. In the Messiah music(, Handel has given to the world some of the most beautiful melodies ever written, the solos in particular being tone pictures that appeal to all the best instincts in humanity. From the first tender message, "Comfort Ye My People, "to the last "Amen," new beauties are constantly appearing, and it is most interesting to study the effect of these compositions upon masters of interpretation. For instance, one musician of very high standing is of the opinion that the chorus "Surely He hath borne our griefs" is the geratest of all the choruses. This opinion would be upheld by very few in an average Messiah audience, yet the student of music comes to know by study that it is well grounded.

Great familiarity with a work like this only adds to the pleasure of hearing it and it is safe to assert that those of our citizens who are most anxious to hear the Quincy Choral society sing the Messiah ,are those who have heard it many times before and practically know every note of the music.

MRS. LYONS.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Lyons ,wife of Charles S. Lyons, who died Thursday at her home 115 East Squantum street, was held this monrning from the Church of the Sacred Heart at Atlantic. The services were largely attended and there were many beautiful floral tributes. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. John P. Cuffe, pastor of the church, with Rev. John J. Casey of St. John's church as deacon and Rev. William Duffy of St. Mary's church as sub deacon.

The Gregorian mass was sung by the regular church choir with Miss Louise Costello as organist. At the offerto y Miss Clara Duggan sang Pie Jesu. The burial was in the family lot at St. Mary's cemetery ,the bearers being, John O'Connell, J. Henry Cunningham, Daniel O'Connell, John Leary, Daniel Golden and John F. Leary.

BRAINTREE PHILERGIANS.

The executive board of the Philergians, have made no mistake in selecting for the entertainment of "Gentlemen's night" Feb. 15—a lecturer of acknowledged ability of Mrs. Emily M. Bishop. All men may not be interested in Dante or Browning but men of widely diffe rent pursuits and interests have a common interest in the words and acts of Senators who deal with the great issues of the day.

Mrs. Bishop's "Who's Who in the Senate" is not a travesty. The purpose is to present public men exactly as they appear in New York, people went to Mrs. Bishop's reading and laughed. But imagine the shock of American Senators when he finds out, for the first time that he is funny, and particularly that he is funny when he talks about the tariff.

Bald Elisha, solemnly prophesying to the Hebrews of old could not have been more indignant when the rude boys laughed at him: and if the Senators had the miraculous power that Elisha had, they would undoubtedly turn the bears loose on Mrs. Bishop and her auditors.

In Washington, D. C., a select and distinguished audiences attended the lectures, showing an enthusiasm throughout the evening. The minicry of many of the Congressional leaders provoked gales of laughter.

Mrs. Bishop shows in her "Scenes from the Senate, "that the Congressional Record is a mine of dramatic events. This is her discovery. It remained for Mrs Bishop however to discover and develope in her readings the tremendous educational and dramatic possibilities of those facts.

SPORTING NOTES.

At hockey yesterday at Milton the Milton Academy seven defeated Mechanics Arts 3 to 1.

At basket ball Revere High defeated Milton High 28 to 25.

It was a close game but Quincy High won from Thayer Academy.

Quincy Y. M. C. A. first and second basket ball team will play Malden first and second tonight at the local Y. M. C. A.

A race has been arranged between William Gover and Frank Bruce for Saturday, March 5.

COUNTY COURT HOUSE

Business in East Norfolk District Demands One

A meeting o fal lthose interested in the movement for a Norfolk County court house building in Quincy has been called for tomorrow evening at 7.30 at the rooms of the Board of Trade. The hearing at the State House takes place Wednesday morning before the Committee on Counties, and it is desirable that the petitioners be united on the bill which authorizes the County Commissioners to make a loan of $100,000, to purchase land and erect building.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Quincy friends of Mrs. D. M. McFall were shocked to hear of the death of heart trouble on Sunday morning of her husband, Dr. McFall, at their home in Matoon, Ill. Mrs. McFall will be remembered as Miss Fannie Johnson, sister of Joseph and Robert Johnson and Mrs. Isabelle Davis of this city and Mrs. Henry W. Sprague of Malden. Mrs. Sprague left immediately for the west to be with her sister during her great bereavement and takes with her the sympathy of the family and friends. Dr. McFall has been a frequent visitor to our city. Being of a genial happy nature he made many friends who will mourn his sudden passing away and will miss his usual summer visit.

WATER SHUT OFF.

Owing to two cases of glanders having been reported in Quincy and considerable trouble among horses at Weymouth, who travel through Quincy, Austin Peters, chief of the Cattle Bureau, has notified the city to immediately shut off the water from all public drinking fountains, that the troughs be thoroughly cleaned, and that the water remain shut off from the fountains until the first of April. There are some eight or ten public drinking fountains in the city that will come under this order.

COLLAPSE OF THEATRE.

The roof of the Pandora theatre a one story building on Sea street, Houghs Neck, fell with a crash Saturday evening. The collapse of the roof was due to the weight of the damp snow. When it went down it carried part of the side walls with it. The theatre was for summer use and of very light construction. No one was in the building at the time and no one was injured. The loss is estimated at about $800. Repairs will be made before the opening of the season.

TODAY'S COURT.

Cutter Meyers was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case placed on probation until April 1.

Bonnessi Benvennto was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Fibera A. Sass was arraigned for threat and trespass at Randolph. The case for trespass was dismissed, and the case for threat continued until April 1.

—A little girl, suffering with toothache, was in the dentist's chair to have a tooth removed. She refused to let him proceed at first, being afraid of the pain. "It won't hurt you, little one," said the dentist. "Here, now, open your mouth. It won't hurt." Half a minute's work removed the tooth, and as the little girl cried softly the dentist said: "Didn't I tell you it wouldn't hurt? What do you think of me now?" Looking up at him with her big brown eyes she replied: "I think you're the biggest liar in town."—Mansfield News.

VALENTINE GERMAN

Pretty Party of Children at Quincy Music Hall

The valentine German on Saturday afternoon at Quincy Music hall called out a very large number of young people who had their fill of dancing and likewise a good time. The affair was under the personal direction of Mrs. Charles M. Bryant and was a success in every way. It was matronized by Mrs. Russell A. Sears, Mrs. Clarence Burgin and Mrs. Henry I. Hall.

Music for the German was furnished by Harrison S. Loud's orchestra of Wollaston.

The ushers were: Clarence Armstrong, Gordon Jameson, Norton Nickerson, Willett Safford, Arvin Page, Paul Blackmur, Maurice Blackmur, Jack Pfaffmann, Stanley Churchill, Howard Johnson, Jack Nolan, Leon White, Charles Kendall, Paul R. Coombs, Kenneth Smith, Donald Crane Winslow Sears, Samuel Sears, Kendal Doble, Herbert Johnson, Bruce Saville, Earle Richardson, Erick Patch and Willard Atkins.

The patronesses were: Mrs. Harry L. Rice, Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann, Mrs. Paul R. Blackmur, Mrs. Eugene H. Sprague, Mrs. John H. Johnson, Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Joseph A. Dasha, Mrs. Luther S. Glover, Mrs. Walter Burke, Mrs. Frank Page, Mrs. Walter E. Blanchard, Mrs. Ralph W. Hobbs, Mrs. N. G. Nickerson, Mrs. Mark L. Read, Jr., Mrs. William E. Rowe, Mrs. Adelaide Armstrong, Mrs. Clinton Jones, Mrs. McLennan, Mrs. H. Y. Follett, Mrs. James H. Churchill, Mrs. Jesse Litchfield, Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. George C. Saville and Mrs. Herbert Johnson.

Miss Corlew the popular dancing teacher had charge of the German which was unusually pretty to watch; the figures, the Valentine favors, and the dainty gowns contributing in the make up of an animated picture. Among out of town people to enjoy the dance were Mrs. Bill and her two pretty daughters; Natalie Dorr, Juliette Corlew, niece of Miss Corlew, and the two young sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, all from Brookline.

Miss Corlew looked very charming in a gown of deep mode tint. Mrs. Bryant wore Nattier blue with toque of sable; Mrs. Burgin a beautiful netted jet and large black velvet hat; Mrs. Sears old rose with white beaver hat with black plumes; Mrs. Hall gray blue with black hat with blue feathers.

It was one of the largest and prettiest children's parties ever given in Quincy. Beside a large attendance of children there were also many to look on so that the party was a financial as well as a social success and will net a goodly sum for the Quincy Day Nursery.

AN UNJUST BASIS OF APPORTIONMENT

Quincy Paying the State Annually About $15,000 More for Water Than It Should.

Like Taxing People for Number of Children in School.

It has been claimed that the introduction of water meters will reduce the Metropolitan water assessments of Quincy, but figures seem to tell a different story. As the city installs meters and increases its water debt, the Metropolitan water assessments increase. It was on Jan. 1 1899, that Metropolitan water was turned on here. The city then had practically no water meters. Note in the summary below how meters have been installed and how rapidly the assessments have increased:

Year.	No. Meters.	Assessment.
1899	——	$4,477.59
1900	122	11,271.59
1901	147	22,004.38
1902	152	24,379.11
1903	165	30,237.42
1904	181	34,084.24
1905	194	35,832.50
1906	847	46,314.16
1907	1505	50,027.14
1908	1983	49,285.01
1909	2632	$51,230.04

But it is not the meters which are increasing or decreasing the Metropolitan assessments very materially, but THE CHANGES IN THE BASIS of apportionment to the disadvantage of Quincy. Every five years there has been a new basis, and a hearing is already advertised for 1910. Valuation of the cities, population of the cities, and consumption of water by cities have been different factors. In 1905 it was determined that the basis should be "one-third upon taxable valuation and two-thirds upon the consumption of water of each municipality." At first thought it seems equitable to assess largely upon consumption of water, and it would be if there was no debt, but note the reading of this paragraph from the annual report of the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board for the year 1907, and it was similar for 1908 and 1909:

"Assessments for the year amounting to $2,195,406.71 were required for the payment of the interest on the bonds issued by the Commonwealth, the sinking fund requirements, and the expenses of operation and maintenance of the water works. The requirements were: for interest, $1,281,908.77; for the sinking fund, $523,697.26; and FOR MAINTENANCE AND OPERATION, $389,800.68."

Less than 18 per cent of the assessment was for maintenance and operation, yet 66 per cent was assessed for consumption. The nearer all taxes are levied upon valuation the more equitable they will be. Inasmuch as over 82 per cent of the assessment is for FIRST COST and interest, at least 80 per cent should be assessed upon valuation of the municipalities. The balance of 20 per cent instead of 66 per cent might be assessed on consumption of water by the municipalities. Had all the assessment of 1907 been upon valuation of the municipalities, the assessment upon Quincy that year would have been $34,082.48 instead of $50,027. 14. On the present basis Quincy's proportion is .02278 plus, while on the valuation basis it would be .01557 plus. For this reason Quincy should endeavor to keep the basis as near the valuation basis as possible.

The tax levy of the Assessors of Quincy for 1907 further illustrates the contention above, containing this item:

"By the provisions of Chapter 488 of the Acts of the year 1895, entitled an act to provide for a Metropolitan Water Supply, we have been assessed for the year 1907, $50,027.14; of this amount $11,933.59 is to meet the requirements of the sinking fund established under said chapter, $29,211.10 is to pay interest, and $8,882.45 is on account of the cost of maintenance and operation for the year 1907."

Note the small proportion for maintenance.

Now the facts are that the 19 cities and towns of the Metropolitan Water district must contribute EACH YEAR to the State over $2,100,000.00 (for the district has a water debt of over $40,000,000) regardless of amount of water used. If the assessments of some cities are reduced those of other cities must be increased. Without meters the cities were on an equality. When all the cities are fully metered they will again be on an equality, but at a greater cost for meters and their maintenance than is saved on Metropolitan assessments. It would have been a saving to the taxpayers to have cut the water rates rather than expend such a large sum for meters.

To levy assessments upon consumption of water is like taxing people for the number of children they have in school. Some without children would escape free, like Brookline and Cambridge which should be included in the water district; some with one child would have a small tax, while the man with three or four children would have to bear the burden as the less favored municipalities now do on the water assessments. It will be seen that the hearing advertised for April 5 is very important to Quincy.

TRESPASS CASE.

Fibera A. Sass was brought into the Quincy court by Officer Heaney of Randolph this morning on two complaints charging him with trespass on land of Elbridge Jones and with threatening to assault him. The case arose out of a dispute over the ownership of land. Jones testified that he owned certain wood land and that Sass sent his men to cut wood from it. Sass was with the men at the time, and when Jones ordered him off, Sass said, "If I had my gun I would kill you right here," also that he further said, "You wait and I will kill you." The court after hearing the testimony dismissed the complaint for trespass, and continued the threat case under $200 bonds until April 1, until the ownership of the land in question may be settled on the civil side of the court.

Cousin Bob—"So Arthur proposed last night?"

Maud—"Yes."

Cousin Bob—"And did you accept him?"

Maud—"I was so awfully excited, I don't know whether I accepted him or not. If he comes tonight I did, and if he doesn't I didn't."

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Hearts are trumps.

There is nothing in the progressive messages of Mr. Taft but what have popular backing.

The way to be sure that you are not eating cold storage eggs is to eat French-fried potatoes.

"A dollars today buys more than it is worth," says New York college professor, evidently strenuously surprised to find that a dollar buys anything at all.

Speaker Cannon declares that he will never quit under fire. It has been previously demonstrated that he won't quit when there is no firing. So there he is.

A Chicago woman physician declares it is woman's duty to aid nature with false hair, rats and padding. It doesn't look as if anyone was shirking duty.

The American people are good natured, but "Uncle Sam" can hardly expect them to use more souvenir postal cards, even to help them make up a postal deficit.

Secretary Ballinger speaks bitterly of the press. The only paper he can indorse is the esteemed Congressional Record, and even that worthy publication has its faults.

Another important addition to the list of agencies which are representing the insurance departments of the Whitman and People's savings banks has just been announced from the office of the State Actuary, 161 Devonshire street. Walter M. Lowney, of Boston and Mansfield, representing a candy manufacturing concern that bears his name, with plants in both places, has signed an agency agreement. Following the usual procedure, the literature of the savings insurance subject will be distributed among the employees, and a little later on one of the instructors engaged by the wage earners' insurance committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce will visit the plants to explain features of the system to those who are interested. Mr. Lowney is the first of the candy makers of this section to undertake this form of welfare work which has already been successfully applied in many shoe manufacturing establishments and other industries. Several other leading manufacturers are said to have the agency proposition under consideration.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Many of the old world cities have greatly enriched their physical aspect by utilizing and preserving the gifts of nature. Our American cities are not sufficiently developed along this line. Most cities have established parks and some have created preservatory conditions around small sections which please the eye, but one of the chief sources of artistic attractions, the watre front, has been almost wholly neglected.—Haverhill Gazette.

The "Greater Boston," scheme is again rearing its hateful form in the Massachusetts Legislature. Marcus Cook, the originator of the scheme, has passed on to join the great majority, and a newcomer, Frederick P. Fish has taken his place. Cook fought hard and as well as a man with a poor cause could fight, to foist his plan on the people. They would, however, have none of it, and the legislators, bowing to the popular will, turned down his plan each time he presented it to their attention. Fish's plan should also be turned down. The tier of cities and towns about Boston have absolutely no desire to be annexed to Boston. Annexation would in no wise benefit them, and once joined to Boston each would lose what it now has, a distinctive character of its own. Certain politicians, arguing for the Greater Boston plan, say annexation would bring about a better Boston. The hard-headed, clear thinking suburbanites cannot be caught with that kind of chaff. Adding to Boston's territory will never reform it, if indeed it needs reforming. A large city is never a well governed city. The taxpayer's money is almost invariably spent for the improvement of the heart of the city, and the outskirts get mighty little attention. The outer wards of Boston today get scant attention from the powers that rule, and it is a constant battle between the citizens of the outlying wards and the "bosses" to get even the few improvements that they now enjoy. Another thing to be considered is that Annexation would in the end mean a high rate of taxation, much higher than any of the outside cities and towns are now burdened with, and a general lowering of standards would be inevitable.—Dedham Transcript.

We know of no more just raise in wages than that proposed by the New England telephone company for its girl employes, who sit at the desk from morning to night, answering innumerable calls, trying to be pleasant to irate subscribers—and all for a sum which is not commensurate by far with the amount of time, labor, nervous wear and tear which the company exacts from them. Subscribers of a large telephone company do not appreciate the trying position in which the "hello girls" are placed during the rush periods of the day, when the calls come rushing in on the heels of each other in bewildering confusion. It demands a very composed mind to attend to this business and maintain the same cheerful voice through it all; and few girls there are who are able to go through it without breaking down within a few years and being forced to seek other occupations. So we say that while the amount proposed by the New England company is not large, it is doing something toward making the wages commensurate with the quality of the work demanded.—Barre Times.

It is often said that every great man is unscrupulous and doubtless most of those to whom usage has attached the title have been so. To preserve truthfulness and conscientiousness appears scarcely possible in the stress of life where immense issues seem to make it necessary, and therefore make it right to toss aside the ordinary rules of conduct in order to secure the end desired. To Abraham Lincoln, however, truthfulness and conscientiousness remained the rule of life. He felt and owned his responsibility not only to the people but to a higher Power. Great men are the noblest possession of a nation, and are potent forces in the moulding of national character. They set for succeeding generations the standards of public life. They stir the spirit and rouse the energy of the youth who seeks to emulate their services in the service of the country. Thus did the memory of George Washington stir and rouse Lincoln, himself. Thus will the memory of Lincoln live and endure among you, gathering reverence from age to age, the memory of one who saved your republic by his wisdom, his constancy, his faith in the people and in freedom; the memory of a plain and simple man, yet crowned with the knightly virtues of truthfulness, honor and courage.—James Bryce.

MILTON.

Miss Edith Robertson has returned from a month's trip with the Boston Opera company.

The public school teacher s met Tuesday and formed an organization with the following officers: President, Clarence Boylston; vice president, Miss Gordon, secretary, O. A. Andrews, treasurer, Miss Sears, executive committee, Supt. Jacoby, Miss Chamberlin, Miss Ord, Miss Brown, Miss Houghton and Mr. Hunt.

WEYMOUTH.

Reynolds Woman's Relief Corps has appointed the following chairman of committees: Executive committee, Mrs. Junie B. Morrill; relief, Mrs. Mary R. Flint; reception, Mrs. Mary E. Holbrook, entertainment, Mrs. Carrie Farrar, auditor, Mrs. Agnes Baldwin. The corps is to hold a patriotic meeting the evening of Feb. 22 in Odd Fellows hall.

The choir of Pilgrim church is preparing to give an old folks concert.

—The deep waterway canal project has been revived in France to connect the Atlantic with the Mediterrean. The plan calls for a canal 160 feet wide by 35 feet deep, capable of accommodating the largest merchant steamers and battleships. It is thought it would be worth a squadron of battleships to France and be very profitable commercially. It would cost about $150,000,000.

OUR ITALIAN CONTRACT

Quincy Naval Architect Gives Valuable Information

Editor Daily Ledger:

For the sake of correctness, allow me to rectify an error of print that appeared in this evening's statement in regard to the award to the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. of the contract for the construction of Curtiss turbines for the Royal Italian Navy. The Italian company referred to in the Associated Press cablegram is the "Officine Meccaniche of Naples" and not the Officinie Meccanischi." This company is the successful bidder for the construction of the machinery for the new 28 knots scouts for the Italian navy, and has sublet the contract for the turbines to the Fore River Co.

I notice a squib in another Quincy daily ,in which an attempt is made to translate the above firm's name as meaning "Official Mechanics," this is erroneous, for "Officine" means "shops," and aside from the fact that a translation of a concern's official name into another language, would technically change its name, from a legal standpoint ;a proper and correct translation should be "Engineering Shops of Naples."

This company is the outcome of the consolidation of the old British firm of Hawthorn, Guppy &Co., and other engineering shops in Southern Italy taken over by Italian capital, and which have been for years builders of the machinery for Italian and other countries' war vessels.

BANK EXAMINATIONS.

Editor Daily Ledger:

After the looting o fthe Southbridge Savings Bank, it is now proposed to have more frequent and thorough examinations of our banks. And it is proposed that the cost be charged to the banks. That is only another way of saying that the depositors should pay for same. There is no earthly reason why the poor people who entrust their savings to our banks should have to pay extra to save the same from larceny. The merchant next door is not obliged to pay for special protection to his goods. Why therefore should the working man or common citizen be obliged to pay for insurance against the dishonest acts of well-paid officials? If the law is to be amended at all, let the amendment be one increasing the liability of trustees and directors for stealings due to their negligence.

ARTHUR B. HULTMAN.

DENTAL CLINIC FOR SCHOOLS.

To Editor Ledger:

If Quincy is to keep in line with the methods of the day, a dental clinic will be the next step forward. The following clipping suggests what is being done, even in our smaller towns:

A dental clinic has been formed in Revere for the treatment without charge of the defective teeth of poor children, scholars in the public schools. All the dentists in Revere are to give their services a half a day per week free of charge, and a fund is being raised to buy the necessary equipment and place for operating.

Many cities of Massachusetts are alive to the fact that we are "our brother's keeper" not alone in the matter of hospitals and anti-tuberculosis camps, but in the vital fact of the care of the teeth of the poor. Knowing that defective teeth are hotbeds for the breeding of bacteria, it is our duty to provide for this neglected branch of health. Of what use is it to examine teeth in the public schools, and return to the parents the result—"teeth need immediate attention," when the parents can barely provide food for the child, much less the services of a dentist. In Waltham, for instance, a portion of the City Hospitol is devoted to a dental clinic, and it is immensely successful. I feel quite sure that were the Quincy dentists to organize toward a movement in this direction, our city would not be found wanting when it came to the practical question of place and funds.

ONE PIECE HOUSE GOWN.

Prevailing Fad Is One of the Most Convenient Garments Ever Devised.

Although the one piece gown for street wear has not been received with the popularity which was predicted for it, it has attained a considerable vogue for house wear. The everyday house frock is really a matter of much importance. As a matter of fact, we have advanced a good deal since it was sufficient to make a house costume of a cloth skirt and a shirt waist. It took the woman world rather more than a decade to discover the truth of the matter in this shirt waist and skirt business. It was supposed popularly to be the most convenient house wear possible. Now, however, a different opinion prevails.

It is the fad now to find in the one piece house gown the most convenient garment ever devised. As it is developed today it is made without a boned lining. It is held in place by a three inch fitted girdle of belting. There is a body lining of soft china silk, which keeps the cloth from rubbing against the skin. The skirt is quite short, frequently very short, and the neck is finished with a wide Peter Pan collar of lace or embroidery. Those who cannot make up their minds to part with the stock have chemisettes and lower sleeves made of lace, net or mull. These are mounted on a thin white muslin waist which is fitted, but not boned. Never make the mistake of believing that a chemisette can be pinned into a frock so that it will be satisfactory.

The blouse part of this frock is draped or folded or arranged in tucks or small plaits. The fastening is usually in the back, except in the case of the frocks that are fastened at the left side of the front. The sleeves are made long and are entirely of the material or have a lower half sleeve of tucked net or other contrasting material.

The skirt is cut with a slightly high waist and is joined to the blouse under a fitted band of the material or a girdle of soft satin sloping upward under the arms toward the middle of the back.

The fabrics used in the construction of these little costumes are legion, but the favorites are soft woolen materials, worsteds, shepherd's plaids and foulards. They may be trimmed in a variety of ways, bands of embroidery, braid or pipings in silk or satin all being used. The yokes are of silk, net, chiffon cloth or lace, as may be preferred.

The yoke has come to stay. The reason it has obtained such a hold on the affections of womankind is because in some form or another it seems to be necessary to enable most women to appear at their best. Heavy or dark materials carried up to the face line are almost always unbecoming. They may sometimes be worn that way on account of a vagary of the mode, but everybody is glad when they give place to the universally becoming yoke. Nowadays we have the yoke proper and what is known as the subyoke.

If the yoke is to have a collar it is not quite so simple, for it involves further fitting and boning. The overlapping of the collar is a matter for professionals or very clever amateurs. The yoke properly finished, it is not a difficult undertaking to supply the subyoke. The yoke proper is the base on which to build the subyoke. This latter is generally of lace or net. Shadow lace is new, and Persian lace is much used. Gold fish net is excellent. To drape it successfully a fitted lining should be used for the bodice. This is allowed to extend from collar to belt, and on it the yoke proper is finished. The subyoke is arranged over this perfect fitting lining on a dress form. The upper line of the subyoke is usually finished with piping, a cord or a fold to make a perfect joining.

MADE OVER FUR SET.

In spite of the increasing rarity and consequent high cost of chinchilla, it is still a favorite fur for those who can obtain it. In many long coats of it the skins are placed horizontally at the lower part of the garment, forming a deep hem. The sleeves are also arranged in this way. Some of these chinchilla coats are lined with gray satin, and three accordion plaited flounces of chiffon are added. These flounces are graduated in size and are headed with a band of silver embroidered net.

Taft Declares That Business Must Conform to Law

New York, Feb. 14.—"If the enforcement of the law is not consistent with the present method of carrying on business, then it does not speak well for the present methods of conducting business, and they must be changed to conform to the law."

This was President Taft's answer to Wall street and its cry of "panic." It was made to a cheering audience of hundreds of prominent Republicans gathered at the annual Lincoln day dinner of the Republican club of this city. Governor Hughes shared the honors of the evening with the president.

Mr. Taft adhered to his purpose of discussing platform pledges and how they should be kept. It was at the conclusion of a detailed argument as to how the Republican party is redeeming its pledges that he came to the anti-trust law and Wall street, on which his utterances had been awaited with the greatest interest.

The president declared that the administration would not "foolishly run amuck in business and destroy values and confidence just for the pleasure of doing so.

"No one," he continued, "has a motive as strong as the administration in power to cultivate and strengthen business confidence and prosperity.

"But there was no promise on the part of the Republican party to change the anti-trust law except to strengthen it. Of course the government at Washington can be counted on to enforce the law in the way best calculated to prevent a destruction of public confidence in business, but that it must enforce the law goes without saying."

The president said the Republican party has made no promise to soften application of the anti-trust law and that hysteria and hyprocrisy were shown in blind denunciation of motves of men of the highest character.

Leaders of the Republican party, he said, are subjected to questioning of their motives without adequate evidence to justify it.

Mr. Taft declared that the true reason for high prices is increase of values and possibly in some cases to combinations in restraint of trade.

President Taft did not hesitate to deal with the attacks which have been made upon the administration and the party, or the danger to future successes in the insurgent movement and other dissensions. But Republicans who feared defeat at the polls in November, he declared, should take courage from the demoralized condition of their opponents, the Democrats.

Mr. Taft again came to the defense of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. He did not hesitate, he said, to repeat that it substantially complied with the party pledge for tariff revision, and that, through this bill, the party had "set itself strongly in the right direction toward lower tariffs."

The president brought statistics into his argument to demonstrate that, during the first six months of the new tariff law, there has been a 12 percent reduction in the percentage ad valorem duties have paid on imports and a 12 percent increase in the percentage of imports admitted free. Time and a wider knowledge, he thought, would serve to justify the bill.

Reviewing the party platform, the president dwelt upon postal savings banks, amendments to the interstate commerce law, the anti-injunction plank, statehood for Arizona and New Mexico, and the conservation of natural resources, bills to carry all of which promises into effect were pending in congress, and he believed would be passed.

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Over One Hundred Religious Services in This City

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

"Enthusiasm for service" was the subject of an interesting sermon by the pastor Sunday morning. In the evening Rev. John H. Morley, D. D., was the speaker and the special musical program was the best yet.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock Rev. E. A. Chase of the Wollaston church will begin a series of weekly Lenten addresses in the chapel, speaking on "Christian friendship."

Friday evening the church committee will meet any who wish to unite with the church in March.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters meets with Mrs. Edward Bowker, 313 Highland avenue, at 8 o'clock this evening.

The Young People's social society will meet in the vestry Tuesday evening, Feb. 15.

A large number of the members of the Wollaston Ladies' Aid Alliance, connected with the Unitarian church, will attend a neighborhood meeting with the Women's Alliance of the First Congregational parish (the Rev. Roderick Stebbins minister) at their church Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 3 P. M.

The mid-week service at King's chapel Wednesday, Feb. 16, at noon, will be conducted by the Rev. Benjamin R. Bulkeley of Beverly.

Rev. Carl G. Horst attended this morning the monthly meeting of the Ministers' Monday Club at 25 Beacon street, Boston.

The Earnest Workers Lend-a-hand club will meet with Miss Marcia Adams, Brook street, Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 16 at 4 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank C. Babcock and Mrs. Ralph Williams Oldham have charge of the floral decorations of the pulpit during the present month.

The Wollaston Ladies' Aid Alliance will hold an all-day sewing meeting for the benefit of the Quincy Hospital Wednesday, Feb. 16, at the home of Mrs. Frank A. Page, 107 Winthrop avenue. Luncheon will be served at 25 cents per plate. A full attendance is requested.

The regular monthly supper will be served by the ladies of the parish with Mrs. J. N. Smith as chairman. After the supper a play entitled "An Interrupted Proposal" will be given by some of the young people in the church under the direction of Mrs. John Norrie.

At the Young People's Religious Union meeting next Sunday evening, Feb. 20, at 7 o'clock. Mr. Charles Thompson will conduct the devotional service and the Rev. Charles B. Ames of Quincy will give an address on "Patriotism." All are cordially invited.

The annual collection for the American Unitarian Association will be received the first Sunday in March.

The Earnest Workers Lend-a-hand society meets Tuesday, Feb. 15 at 4 o'clock.

WOLLASTON M. E.

"Christ present in the world, but not known," was the pastor's subject at the Wollaston Methodist church on Sunday. Mr. Wiggin said: "Christ is not known because of the spirit of indifference manifest. The spirit of indifference has checked many an aspiration to know Christ. Not open hostility, but indifference keeps men from knowing Christ. Christ is not known because of ignorance. By this we do not mean a lack of intellectual knowledge, that is absence of knowledge in the general sense, but ignorance because of a failure on our part to meet conditions in order that we might know Christ. Here with our churches, our Bibles, our christian homes, our great missionary movements and living as we do in the full blaze of Gospel light, men are still ignorant as to a personal knowledge of Christ.

Christ is not known because of worldly mindedness. Worldy learning cannot renew heavenly things. Worldly wisdom cannot be substituted for revelation. Jesus is present in the world, but not known. To know Him is but to love Him, to love him is but to serve Him. To know Christ makes our lives a power for good.

In the evening the pastor spoke on "The World's Hope." The subject of the sermon to the children was "Witnessing for Christ." Mrs. Estes sang tenderly "Rock of Ages."

There was a large attendance at the Sunday school. Every teacher was present and many new scholars joined the school. J. A. Sedgwick, the superintendent, was in charge, and reviewed the lesson in his interesting manner.

Miss Rena W. Chamberlin, superintendent of the Junior League, assisted by Miss Sadie Teed had charge of the service at 4 o'clock. Mrs. O. Estes led the Epworth League at 6 o'clock. At the 7 o'clock service Mrs. William Darling sang "The voice of Jesus" and "Here and there" with acceptance.

ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

At St. Chrysostoms church Sunday morning the rector Rev. Albert Edwin Clattenburg preached a sermon of great worth on "Formalism in Worship" and he said: "One should not do anything in the religious life that had not the heart of the doer in it."

At the evening service the fourth monthly service was given as follows:

Voluntary
Processional Hymn 590 "Today Thy mercy calls us."
Magnificat, Clare
Nunc Dimittis Clare
Anthem Hymn 30 "To thy temple I repair."
Solo "More love to Thee O Christ." Sheldon
Hymn 81 "Christian! dost thou see them."
Offertory Ave Verum
Presentation 408
Solo "Abide with me" Liddle
Seven Fold Amen
Recessional 535 "Now the day is over."
Postlude

The regular vested choir was assisted by Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett soloist. Prof. Frank Wrigley, organist.

LAST REHEARSAL.

The Quincy choral society held its last rehearsal of the season on Sunday afternoon. It was largely attended and the singing was excellent, everything seeming to promise a notable performance of the "Messiah" on Tuesday evening. The ready sale of tickets for the concert has been most encouraging to the members, all of whom are anxious to have the choral society self-supporting, in spite of the fact that they know the guarantors are ready and willing to assist if necessary. It seems now as though the second season would close as successfully as did the first and if this proves to be so we may begin to feel that there is established in Quincy as promising a choral society as exists anywhere in the state, excepting of course the largest cities.

POPULAR WEDDING GIFTS.

New Things to Vary the Monotony of the Butter Knife.

The most popular wedding present of the moment is miniature furniture of the Sheraton and Chippendale period, and little chests of drawers, armchairs, tables and bureaus, just big enough for a fair sized doll's requirements, are being diligently searched for in the old curio shops.

These pieces of furniture, handed down from the classic period of English cabinetmaking, are exquisitely made and finished and altogether perfect specimens of the maker's art.

The miniature chests of drawers and bureau serve as jewel cases, the small top drawers taking the rings and brooches and the bracelets and necklaces being safely stored in the larger drawers. Not so long ago they could be picked up for small sums, but now choice specimens command high prices, and as the price is likely to go up still further they are profitable investments.

Old silver is a favorite wedding present, and more than one bride this season has been given one of the beautiful old silver toilet services of the Stuart period. They are for only very wealthy brides, however, for the price runs sometimes into the thousands.

Old cut glass makes a handsome present, but it should be bought with care, for there are many spurious imitations.

But the present most prized by dainty brides is old lace, the price of which goes up and up each year. There are many societies and organizations acting as distributing agents for modern laces, and very beautiful many of these laces, reproductions of the old patterns, are, but old lace comes rarely into the market. Few dealers indeed specialize in it, and the old lace sales in a year can almost be counted on the fingers of one hand.

A quaint little present, also from the antique shop, is a little silver or enamel patch box.

Praises French Mothers.

The Duchess de Chaulnes, who is visiting in this country with her mother, says that one thing she has learned during her residence in France is that young society women in that country take better care of the children than American mothers do. She says that when the child is as young as three years old it is allowed to sit at the luncheon table with its mother and members of the family and there learns table manners and the art of table talk in such a way that it is never awkward or at a loss in after years. She intends, she says, to bring up her boy in that way and scores those mothers who go out with their pug dogs while time serving persons are taking care of their children.

Airship Excursions.

During the sportsmen's exhibition to be held at Vienna is to be run an excursion airship around the city, fare $20 the round trip.

RAILROAD TO RUN A FARM.

New York Central Buys Rundown Property For Demonstration.

INCREASED YIELD ITS OBJECT

Practical Experiments to Be Made on a Farm at West Bergen, N. Y.—Crops of Potatoes, Cabbage, Alfalfa and Wheat to Be Raised to Encourage Husbandry.

Not content with merely showing how two blades of grass can be grown where only one has grown before but to show how to produce four or five bushels of potatoes where only one has been obtained before and other produce in proportion, the New York Central railroad has purchased the first of the demonstration farms it will establish throughout the state of New York.

This is the first step in a comprehensive campaign for agricultural extension which has for its purpose the education of the farm owner as to how the greatest yield at the greatest profit can be obtained. William C Brown, president of the New York Central; James J. Hill and other railroad men have been foremost among the advocates of the movement for the increase of the yield of farm products, which would alike increase the profits of the farmer and decrease the cost of living.

The raising of potatoes will illustrate what is sought to be accomplished. The average yield an acre in New York state is 85 bushels, and in Germany, Belgium and Great Britain it is 250 bushels. Experiments in New York state have shown it is possible to increase the yield to 300 and 350 bushels an acre, but if the yield could have been increased to 225 bushels on the crop of 1908 more than $52,000,000 would have been added to the bank accounts of the farmers.

To Build Up Rundown Farms.

The first farm property obtained by the railroad is in Monroe county, a few rods from the station at West Bergen. It is a so called rundown farm, and it is proposed to show by practical example how, with a reasonable expenditure, by fertilization and intelligent cultivation the farm can be made profitable. There will be nothing like a scientific experimental farm, but common sense methods will be employed, and the co-operation of the farmers of the neighborhood is invited.

This is one of three farms which the railroad will establish. One will be in the Mohawk valley and the third will be on the western slope of the Adirondacks. When the farms are developed to the highest degree of efficiency they will be sold and the railroad will start in to build up other rundown farms.

T. E. Martin of West Rush, N. Y. will have charge of the Central's new enterprise. He is a practical farmer, and when he took his Genesee valley farm several years ago it was yielding sixty bushels of potatoes an acre. By common sense methods he brought the yield to 300 bushels. The farms will be put in charge of practical farmers, if possible those who have taken one or two courses in agricultural colleges.

Four Crops to Be Developed.

On the West Bergen farm, which is a "less than average" farm, efforts will be concentrated to develop its four present crops—potatoes, cabbage, alfalfa and wheat. Experiments will be conducted with and without fertilizers and spraying, so as to show the greatest possible cash yield in proportion to actual expenditure.

The railroad company is anxious that the experiment shall not be regarded as faddish or extravagant, and the expenditures will be within reach of the average farmer. The purpose of the railroads is to point the way to the farmers of the particular section in which the demonstration farms are located. Neither does the railroad company assume that it is inspired by an altruistic motive in making this test.

May Be Tried by Other Lines.

"Prosperous farmers along our lines would mean increased traffic," said Mr. Brown in discussing the new plan. "There is no altruism about that. It means that it is good business for the railroad to do all it can to increase the products of the farm and better farming conditions. If the railroad by moderate expense and thought can make these conditions radically better for the farmer it is plainly in its own interest to do so. That is why we have planned the three farm stations in New York state.

Mr. Brown admits that he is an enthusiast on the subject and believes that the movement will be continent wide in its scope. The results of the experiments will be carefully watched and tabulated, and if the results are at all like what the railroad anticipates it is believed that other lines in all parts of the United States will take up the work as a practical business plan for increasing traffic.

The experiment is of particular interest to all the people now in view of the agitation over the present high price of food. Experts have declared that the most reasonable remedy and perhaps the only one for the high prices is the increase in the production of agricultural products, and as there is little chance for this increase through increased acreage it must be by more intelligent methods and along the lines proposed by the New York Central.

WHOM GOD HATH JOINED.

The Course of Events After They Had Parted.

By VIRGINIA COOMBS HILL.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Sheldon McAllister left the courtroom a free man—free after five years of married life. Yet somehow he didn't feel quite proud of his success. It had been easier than he expected, for Sadie had not entered a cross bill, as he had feared she would. In fact, she had not even appeared in court at all.

He had really dreaded it, feeling so uncertain about the result, for he knew very well that she had had the best of reasons for deserting him after she had discovered that "little affair" of his. How well he remembered it all—how she had taken Laddie and gone back to her father's and how strangely lonesome the house had seemed till he had concluded to go on the road for that New York house. He thought he should feel better after that, but somehow he didn't, although he had written to her, inclosing a deed of their cozy little home.

But now, he assured himself, everything would be all right. Fritz had said so, too, and Fritz ought to know (his wife had resumed her maiden name and gone on the stage). Of course Sadie was not that kind of woman at all, but he had had a generous alimony settled on her. Still, "desertion"—It did sound pretty bad, and he hadn't another thing against the girl. He began to think of what his mother had always said—that he was so impulsive and slow to forgive.

He paused in front of an art store to take in the window exhibit. He had always been fond of a really good picture, and Sadie—she had quite a talent along such lines and before their marriage had done some really creditable little things in oil. He had been proud of her and thought her quite a genius. But she had really disappointed him there, for after Laddie was born she painted only at rare intervals. He had often complained about it, but she always looked hurt and said she no longer had the time for it. The baby, to be sure, had been mighty cross day and night till Sadie was almost ill herself, and when it did forget itself and go to sleep she had had to rush about and catch up with her household duties.

But when he came home early one day and caught her putting away her easel and brushes to turn her little studio into a nursery he had been severe, justly so, too, he thought. And she had cried and cried, but was just as stubborn as she could be about it.

"What! Down in the mouth a bit, old man?" came Fritz's voice over his shoulder, and he felt himself suddenly whirled about and brought face to face with his own fair bigness in a mirror belonging to the next window display.

"There, look at that!" continued Fritz. "What has that handsome fellow to complain of anyway? Why, I'm happy even with this!" blandly surveying his own reflection, which was so ugly as to be almost comical.

"Why, do you know, Mac," he continued confidentially as they strolled up the avenue, "my wife's company is playing in town this week, and I went the first night for the express purpose of testing that part of my anatomy where my heart is supposed to be located. But, say, didn't I stand the test all O. K.? And this morning, too, I met her driving in the park with one of her adoring swains, no doubt. So, you see, old man, it's simply a matter of a short time only and a little manly grit. And to a handsome cuss like you a little matter such as a divorced wife in the background ought to be no handicap whatever."

"Handsome! Oh," said McAllister disgustedly, "good looks have been a curse to me. I only hope that that kid of mine will grow up as homely as a"—

"Nonsense! Hear the boy talk!" put in Fritz; then, pausing in front of his hotel, "Just come into the grill room here and have a nice little dinner on me, with some extras to top off on, and you'll feel like a new man."

* * * * * * *

Five years later Sheldon McAllister, on his semiannual trip west, was detained in Chicago for a few days. On the night before his departure he found himself standing in the middle of his room studying the handwriting on a faintly perfumed note he held.

In the past five years he had avoided all women with a stubbornness which had won for him the everlasting contempt of his former friend Fritz, and when that gay Lothario had gradually let their friendship cool he had laughed quietly to himself with the real relief of it. But this dainty little note somehow struck him quite irresistibly as he read:

Mr. S. D. McAllister:

Dear Sir—You will, I fear, consider it the height of presumption for a stranger to write and ask a favor of you, but I trust you will judge leniently of the eccentricities of a white haired woman who is wedded to her art. This is the favor. Will you call at my studio some afternoon this week and grant me a half hour pose? I am a magazine illustrator, and your type suits the subject matter better than any other I have yet discovered.

Very truly,
VERA SHELDON.

Studio No. 6, 44 Blank street.

It is needless perhaps to say that McAllister accepted his singular invitation, staying over in order to call the next afternoon. He had always been a haunter of studios and had many a friend among the artists. This, to be sure, was an exceptional case, being a woman, but then she was "only a little, white headed old lady," he remarked complacently to himself, "old enough probably to be my mother."

So he sauntered on up Blank street, looking for her number. When he found it he entered.

The door he looked for stood open, and he paused for half a breath before knocking. Through the rope hangings of a small anteroom the large inner studio looked like a picture in a frame—draperies and rugs from the orient, luxurious pillowed divan and window seat, a cozy 5 o'clock tea table, statuettes and graceful bric-a-brac and pictures, pictures everywhere. Near the great north bay window she stood at her easel, her back toward the door.

Simply gowned in black, her figure looked young in spite of its regal crown of lovely white hair, which the western sun touched softly with a peculiar halo-like radiance. A singular little pain clutched at his heart. She turned, and "Merciful heaven, it is Sadie!" he cried, springing toward her.

She met him with hands outstretched, placing them in his; then he would have caught her up to him impulsively had not an undefinable something forbade him.

"Sadie! My wife, my wife!" he cried, crushing her hands between his.

"No, not that, Sheldon, any more, but—I wanted to see you once more—forgive the subterfuge—and—I had to keep one of your names; Vera is my middle name. It is the name, Mrs. Vera Sheldon, that I have gone by ever since I came here three years ago to try to forget—that which is unforgettable."

He stood there, looking at her in a bewildered way. What had happened? In one lightning flash he saw it all. What a fool he had been—what a fool! There was no other woman like her, and he loved her—yes, he loved her; he knew now that he had loved her through it all. And he had been so impulsive, so blind, so unrelenting. He poured it all out to her—passionately, penitently, yearningly—all the pent-up emotion of those five long, long years. And she—she listened, very gravely for a time; then she reached up and laid her hands against his broad shoulders and smiled.

He caught her to his heart with a long, low cry:

"Oh, oh, can I ever forgive myself? And you—oh, of course, you will not—you cannot!"

"You might at least ask and not take everything for granted!" she pouted, trying to turn away from him, ever so slightly.

"And Laddie," he asked, a few moments later, "our little Laddie, where is he? Surely he"—

"Laddie is at school, but will be home presently. He is quite a big boy now, dear." And she smiled up at him again. How very dark her eyes looked beneath her wonderful hair, far more beautiful, hair and eyes both, than ever before, though at what grievous cost he shuddered to think. Somehow as he looked at her he was reminded of great purple-black pansies caught under an untimely snowdrift. He touched the fluffy whiteness reverently, almost fearfully, as if it might chill his fingers. He could not speak some way, but his eyes did it for him.

"Yes," she said gravely, looking down, "sorrow has made an old woman of me. I am sorry"—

"Hush, sweet! It is not for you to apologize."

After a little he espied over by another window a second easel, quite small, upon which stood a very creditable sketch of a handsome Scotch collie dog. Crossing over, he scrutinized it approvingly.

"What have you here—the work of some pupil?"

"Yes," she answered proudly; "that is the work of my favorite pupil—Laddie!"

"Indeed!" he exclaimed, with enthusiasm. "What—our little Laddie? Why, the dear little fellow couldn't have done anything that would have pleased me more."

When Laddie came in from school an hour later he found mamma, with such a happy look in her dark eyes, pouring tea at the tiny table, and—yes, his papa standing by her with his hand on her glorious white hair and looking just as if he did not know whether to cry or be happy or both at once.

"The half hour's sitting" was, strange to say, forgotten, but Sheldon McAllister proved his "leniency toward the eccentricities of a white haired woman" by insisting on a flying visit to the county clerk's office, and when he came back he brought a minister with him.

BRIEFS.

St. Valentines day.

The weather loked a little like snow this morning and the air felt like it.

The third day of sleighing, but not very good.

The Intermediate Christian Endeavorers of Bethany church will meet this evening with Fred Ward of Lowe street.

The public is invited to the Lincoln memorial services to be held this evening by the Men's club of Bethany Congregational church.

Thomas Curley of the Massachusetts Civic League will address the Education and Civic committees of the Quincy Women's club, Tuesday afternoon, at three o'clock at the club house. All persons who are interested in this work are cordially invited to be present.

Tonight is an off night for the City Council as no session of that body will be held. The next regular meeting will be on Monday Feb. 21. This will be an important meeting for the hearing on taking land by right of eminent domain for a school house at Montclair will come up.

JANUARY COURT CASES.

The report of Probation Officer Francis A. Spear for the month of January shows the total number of criminal cases before the district court to have been 109. Of this number 51 were for drunkenness, 19 for assault, 6 for larceny, 8 for violation of the liquor law and 8 for search for liquor, 7 for violation of the metropolitan park auto and town by-laws and 2 for being tramp. Of the other cases they were for various minor offences. Of the cases 3 warrants were not served, 8 were continued for further hearing, 1 appealed, 14 placed on probation, and in 18 cases the sentence was suspended.

SEARCHERS FAIL TO LOCATE NINA

Naval Tug Many Days Overdue at Boston Navy Yard

Boston, Feb. 14.—All hope of rescuing the thirty-two men of the missing naval tug Nina, which has not been heard of for eight days since leaving Hampton Roads, has been abandoned, and one of the ten government vessels engaged in the search has already been recalled to Newport, R. I.

The destroyer Lamson, which was patrolling the Delaware coast, put into Newport last night, her commander reporting that not a single clue had been discovered.

Although the destroyer has quit the search, there are still nine government vessels engaged in the hunt from Cape Cod to Cape Henry, although there is no hope now but the doubtful chance that the wreck of the tug may be discovered, or some wreckage that may clear up the mystery of her disappearance.

The possibility that any of the crew had been picked up by outgoing craft is very slight. Being naval men they would have insisted on getting a report of the loss of the craft to headquarters, and word must have been received from them long before this.

In addition to the nine government craft that are engaged in the search that is now considered hopeless, every ship equipped with wireless has been enlisted in the hunt, which is the greatest that has ever been made for a missing vessel on the Atlantic coast.

All the vessels engaged in the hunt, which will cover the Atlantic coast with the thoroughness of a dragnet, numbering in all as many as thirty, have failed to discover the least trace of the tug or any of its men since she was reported at the very start of her journey from Norfolk to Boston by the tug Savage a week ago Sunday.

Between Cape Henry and Cape May it is feared that the little tug foundered, carrying down with her the entire crew.

In the storm another vessel would not have known of her distress a mile away, but no vessel has been found which might have been near the tug.

The Nina should have reached her destination, the navy yard here, last Tuesday. If she weathered the first gale she must have either put into port, or if in distress been able to get word by some passing craft of her trouble.

In the clear weather between Sunday and Friday's storm not a trace of the boat has been found and the belief is growing hourly that the vessel went to the bottom soon after she had sailed out of sight into the storm after leaving the Savage.

SCHOOL BOARD INQUIRY ON

Claim That Boy Was Kept on Steps Until He Developed Pneumonia

Marlboro, Mass., Feb. 14.—Mrs. A. H. Taylor, whose 5-year-old son was nearly frozen to death on the steps of the Hildreth school, has retained an attorney to investigate what she charges was the ill treatment of her son by the teachers and the cause of his illness. The lad is now seriously ill with pneumonia.

Superintendent of Schools Morton has determined upon a special meeting of the school board to sift the matter, and both sides of the case will be heard.

Mrs. Taylor charges that her son was denied admittance to the school and was forced to remain on the steps in zero weather.

PUBLIC RESORTS CLOSED

Whole Population of North Brookfield May Be Vaccinated

North Brookfield, Mass., Feb. 14.—Every person in North Brookfield may have to be vaccinated. The smallpox epidemic which broke out here several days ago is spreading and the board of health is considering an order that everyone in town be vaccinated.

Five cases have been reported within the last two weeks, and all public gathering places have been ordered closed.

Priests Should Not Acquire Wealth

Boston, Feb. 14.—No priest can be in possession of large sums of money, unless by inheritance, was the statement made by Archbishop O'Connell at the cathedral yesterday. He declared that priests who died leaving large amounts constituted a scandal which he did not approve.

ENDS HER STAGE CAREER

Eleanor Robson Is to Become the Bride of August Belmont

New York, Feb. 14.—Formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Robson to August Belmont has been made to a wide circle of friends.

AUGUST BELMONT.

Miss Robson closed her season Saturday night in Brooklyn, passing with the fall of the curtain from professional to private life. She will return to her home in this city, where she will remain until the marriage.

Miss Robson was born in England in 1880, but was brought to this country as a child and has always lived in New York state.

August Belmont is a widower, 57 years old. His wife died in Paris in September, 1896. He has three sons. The wedding will take place some time in March at Miss Robson's house, and only intimate friends will be present.

PREACHERS ADOPT A WAGE SCHEDULE

Negro Baptists Want Real Money For Their Eloquence

Red Bank, N. J., Feb. 14.—The negro Baptist preachers of this and surrounding towns, in assembly gathered, agreed that too long had they given their eloquence free of charge to grace all sorts of semi-public functions, including marriages and funerals.

This was at the Atlantic Coast Baptist ministerial conference here, and the resolution was passed unanimously and enthusiastically.

The "therefore" clauses say that the ministers will in the future charge $10 for a political sermon or oration, $5 for a newspaper and similar anniversary, and $5 each for weddings and funerals, with car fare extra.

If any pastor of the conference violates the agreement he is to be fined $1 and can't preach for thirty days.

TROLLEY LINE ENJOINED

Company Forbidden by Court to Run Cars Over Disputed Routes

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 14.—Another development in the street railway situation at Pittsfield came when Chief Justice Knowlton of the Massachusetts supreme court issued a temporary injunction restraining the Pittsfield Street Railway company from operating cars on the Country club and Lake avenue lines.

The injunction is in accordance with a bill in equity which City Solicitor Warner has filed in behalf of the Pittsfield board of aldermen.

It is thought that the legal representatives of the city of Pittsfield and the street railway company will endeavor to reach an agreement without bringing the matter into the courts for a settlement.

ON ROOF OF SKYSCRAPER

Novel Spot Chosen by Texas Couple For Their Wedding Ceremony

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 14.—More than 200 feet above the sidewalk, upon the top of the Praetorian building, James M. Carlisle and Miss Vera Bartee were married by Dr. Thornton Whaling, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Upon the conclusion of the ceremony, he congratulated the bridegroom, and shaking the hand of the bride, he urged them to remember the high plane upon which they had started the married life.

Freight Conductor Killed

Boston, Feb. 14.—William G. Irving, recently promoted to the position of conductor on the B. and A. R. R., was found dead under his own train in the Brighton yards. He was struck by a Chicago fast mail. Irving was conductor of a freight for the west and was making up.

Mrs. Taft's New Secretary

Washington, Feb. 14.—Miss Mary D. Spires, a clerk in the office of the surgeon general of the army, will succeed Miss Alice Blech as social secretary to Mrs. Taft. Miss Blech will become the wife of Lieutenant Richard Wainwright, U. S. N., this spring.

NEW FEATURES IN SWOPE CASE

Revealed by Executor of the Millionaire's Estate

Kansas City, Feb. 14.—That poison had been found in the contents of the stomach of Miss Margaret H. Swope and that Chrisman Swope went into convulsions, according to Miss Anna Houlehan, his nurse, a few minutes after she had given him a capsule at the direction of Dr. B. C. Hyde, were two statements made under oath by John G. Paxton, executor of the Swope estate.

These new features in the Swope mystery were revealed by Paxton only after he had been threatened with commitment if he refused to answer the questions concerning these phases of the case asked him by Frank P. Walsh, Hyde's attorney. Paxton was giving his deposition in the slander suit for $100,000 brought against him by Hyde.

Although it was known that the death of Chrisman Swope was being investigated, the acknowledgement of Paxton that an examination of the contents of the stomach of Miss Swope had been made came as a surprise. Miss Swope recovered.

"Poison was found in marked quantities in the contents of Miss Swope's stomach by Dr. Victor Vaughn," said Paxton.

Scarcely had Paxton said this when Attorney Walsh eagerly demanded of the witness:

"Did anyone tell you of any medicine that Dr. Hyde gave Chrisman Swope?"

"I do not remember the exact words," answered Paxton, "but Miss Anna Houlehan told me that just before Chrisman Swope had gone into convulsions Dr. Hyde had give her a capsule to administer to him. She gave the capsule and a few minutes later Chrisman Swope went into convulsions."

The stormy scene in the Swope homestead on Dec. 18, that day when the nurses threatened to leave if Hyde was not dismissed and another physician obtained to care for the sick members of the family, was detailed by Paxton. It appeared that Miss Houlehan was the leader in the insurrection. Just before leaving she turned to Mrs. Swope, according to Paxton, and said:

"People are being murdered in this house."

The departure of Hyde and his wife from the home followed amid a fearful scene.

"It was on this day," Paxton said, "that for the first time poison was mentioned in connection with Colonel Swope's death. It was on this day that for the first time I was made aware of the awful story of the nurses and their suspicions."

Paxton said he learned of these things from Dr. Twyman, who began to treat the patients when Hyde was dismissed.

NEW ANTARCTIC LAND

It Is Discovered by French Expedition Under Explorer Charcot

Valparaiso, Chile, Feb. 14.—The French Antarctic expedition under Dr. Jean M. Charcot reached latitude 70 degrees south, longitude 126 degrees west, and discovered 120 miles of new land to the west and south of Alexander island.

Alexander island, or as it sometimes called, Alexander Land, is a small island in the South Atlantic ocean about latitude 69 degrees south, longitude 75 degrees west, and is considered to be a part of the so-called Antarctic continent. It was discovered by Bellingshausen in 1821.

MAN THOUGHT DEAD RETURNS

Relatives Buried a Stranger by Mistake Many Months Ago

Randolph, Mass., Feb. 14.—Residents of this town were greatly surprised to meet on the street William D. Adams, who was supposed to have been drowned at Providence last July and buried in the family lot here. Who was buried in Adams' place is a mystery.

There was no suspicion that a mistake had been made until a letter was received from Adams. Now he has appeared in Randolph. Adams has no idea as to who the dead man was.

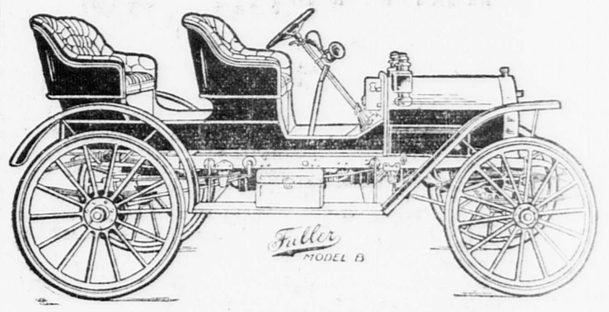

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HUGHES' TRIBUTE TO THE PRESIDENT

Doing His Duty With Fidelity and Will Be Re-elected

New York, Feb. 14.—Governor Hughes of New York, in closing his address at the Lincoln day banquet here, said:

"The American people are fair enough to recognize a fair man, filling a great position, and doing his duty with absolutely fidelity. And for that reason President Taft will be renominated and re-elected."

Mr. Taft, he continued, had great tasks of housecleaning before him, but by his character and training he was well suited to perform them. No man in the United States, he said, was more fit for the office he holds, or more fit to carry out its vast undertakings.

DIVORCE IS REFUSED

Master In Chancery Thinks Injured Husband Was Too Complacent

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 14.—Jacob Rosentine sued for a divorce, naming a neighbor as corespondent. Rosentine testified that he discovered his wife and this neighbor in a compromising situation in a room in Brooklyn.

Rosentine testified that as soon as he had found the pair he withdrew, deeply mortified, and did not attempt any attack on his wife or her companion. Mrs. Rosentine denied her husband's story, and, in refusing to grant Rosentine a divorce, Master in Chancery Gilmore says:

"The petitioner, when he gave this testimony, appeared to be a man of robust health and great physical strength. His complacency in the face of a wrong, which, to most men, would be not only an occasion but also a justification for homicide, is, in my opinion, not only highly improbable, but it also impairs the value of his testimony, if it does not entirely destroy it."

SOCIALISTS VS. POLICE

Number of Casualties Reported From Various Places In Germany

Berlin, Feb. 14.—Demonstrations by the Socialists throughout the kingdom, after mass meetings held Sunday to protest against the suffrage bill, resulted in serious affrays between the demonstrators and the police at many places.

The worst affair occurred at Nuemuenster, where a workingman was mortally wounded by a knife through the lungs, another's hand was cut off and a third lost an ear.

At Halle about 2000 Socialists attacked the police, who drew their sabres and wounded many. At Koenigsberg the police, in attempting to divert the crowds into the side streets, used their side arms. They also made a number of arrests.

At Duisberg the Socialists came into collision with the police.

LIFE IS RESTORED

Man Who Apparently Passed Away Is on Road to Recovery

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Breathing and pulsations ceased entirely for ten minutes in the body of Frederick McNear at the Chicago Baptist hospital on Thursday. Now he is clamoring for a beefsteak.

McNear was brought to the hospital on Wednesday night, suffering from neurotic edema. Toward morning he seemed improved, and Dr. McNamara and the nurse, Miss Anderson, both left the room. Returning with an oxygen tank, Miss Anderson found the patient apparently dead.

Injections of atropine and nitroglycerine were hastily administered, McNamara continued his efforts at artificial respiration and at the end of about ten minutes McNear gasped.

Oxygen was then administered, and today he is considered out of danger.

GETS VERDICT OF $2500

Miss Devitt Proves That O'Connor Broke Promise to Marry Her

Boston, Feb. 14.—For a broken promise of marriage, Miss Agnes G. Devitt, 19 years of age, was awarded a verdict of $2500 against John J. O'Connor, a groceryman, by a jury of the superior court.

She had worked as cashier in O'Connor's store, and they became engaged to marry on April 14, 1909. O'Connor admitted making the promise of marriage, but claimed it was not binding because of misrepresentations.

NEW YORK FASHION LETTER.

The above design is by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

The pretty fabrics and hats and summer gowns shown at all the shops, make a woman realize that it won't be long now until spring is here and everyone is planning for new clothes.

DRAPERY STYLE CONTINUES.

One can have dress lengths of new cotton foulards or other flexible materials made up after any of the pretty ankle, or knee, draped skirt models ,and be assured that these will continue good style until autumn at least. Modified princess and Moyenage types are coming in, in the latest Paris importations. The kimono waists with sleeves cut in one with the bodice are revived in Paris models as are also the short plain skirts of two seasons back.

RUSSIAN COATS AND SUITS.

The Russian bloused coat is the leading type in suits for Spring and Summer wear, though there are many others, rather more closely fitted than those now worn, and short for the most part. Skirts have yokes and pleatings in various forms, though our old short plain skirts are seen on the very latest arrivals from Paris.

TOP COATS AND COSTUMES.

For top or extra coats, the coat-suit is presented in especially pretty designs and promises to be more popular than last autumn. These take place of a dress, or cover one, and are both smart and practical. The Russian models are quite as good for extra coats of silk, or cloth, and for run about wear long loose models of cheviots or plaids have collars of burnt orange, scarlet or Lincoln green. Rough silks and mohairs of the same character will follow these.

PRETTY, NEW LINGERIE.

Combinations, two garments in one, are growing in favor with discriminating people, who realize the importance of good cut, well fitting underwear if the figure is to appear trim. Women who like French daintiness of material and trimming with American correctness of cut and finish are buying Defender underwear. Made here in a well lighted factory, under ideal industrial conditions, these bring to the woman of average means the best possible value at a moderate cost. Their liberality of cut insures a comfortable fit and the sizes marked can be relied upon while the finish and styles are dainty and up-to-date.

A SMART LINEN FROCK.

A smart linen frock for southern wear is made in princess style with front panel extending to a yoke of Irish lace. On each side of the panel a belt goes about the waist ,and the skirt is pleated below the flat tunic effect. Sleeves end at the elbow where they meet long cuffs of Irish lace, and these and the front panel are braided in cotton soutache the color of the linen.

NEW HATS AND WAISTS.

Leghorn and Milan braids with horsehair are are the material used for the more dressy models and very coarse rough braids are smart for more general wear. Turban shapes of tulle or metal gauze are the present fad and go well with the turban coiffure which is the most advanced style of hair dressing. For wear with Spring suits chiffon cloth waists the color of the suit, made up in jumper and kimono styles over white lace, or net linings, which extend to the neck and wrist forming the yoke and long cuffs are among the smartest models shown. For remodelling a lace waist this style offers many possibilities.

GOLDWIN SMITH, THE AUTHOR

Anecdotes About Canada's Grand Old Man and Famous Historian.

Goldwin Smith, the famous historian, essayist, economist and Canada's "grand old man," who recently fell and broke his hip at his home, the Grange, in Toronto, Canada, was born at Reading, England, Aug. 23, 1823 He was educated at Eton and at Oxford, gained two scholarships and various prizes and was called to the English bar in 1847. He was regius professor of modern history at Oxford from 1858 to 1866 and later honorary professor of English and constitutional history at Cornell university. Dr. Smith has written many books on economics and history. His works are read throughout the world.

Dr. Smith's friends say that absolute fearlessness, mental and physical, has been his most pronounced characteristic. Once, when traveling from the far northwest through Minnesota to Toronto, he was annoyed by a bad man, who strutted up and down the car with two big pistols in his belt, defying everybody in sight to mortal combat. Most of the passengers wilted, but Dr. Smith looked the terror over calmly without moving a muscle.

The ruffian walked up to him and shouted, "Well, you don't reckon you can lick me, do you?"

"No," replied the old professor, "I don't think I could, but I am quite satisfied that some one should."

The real Goldwin Smith's preference has been to discuss horses and dogs and flowers rather than the destinies of nations. When he posed in his garden on one occasion for a photograph he was more anxious to get his dog properly placed than himself. Being presented with a copy later, he remarked with the enthusiasm of a schoolboy:

"Well, well! At last I have a photograph which shows me and my dog as we are. How delicious it is to be presented just as a man, leaving out all that stuff about a 'scholar' and a 'historian.' It is just a common dog, too—not a blooded animal, but a waif that secured a night's lodging at the Grange and liked the place so much that he has stayed here ever since."

Actor Fields' Joke on Tax Man.

Lew Fields, the actor, appeared at the tax department in New York city the other day and, tackling Tax Commissioner White, demanded: "You said you had $20,000 here for me. Now show me." When Mr. White recovered from his surprise he ascertained that Fields had been assessed for that amount and was endeavoring to explain he didn't possess it. "Not a chance," Fields said. "I spend it faster than I get it. Ask Mrs. Fields."

Killed at His Friend's Feet

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 14.—While leaning over a balustrade on the third floor of the Franklin building, talking to a friend on the floor below, John Bahlen, aged 42, lost his balance, fell and was instantly killed at his friend's feet. He leaves a family.

Fatal Game of "Indians"

Hancock, N. H., Feb. 14.—While playing "Indians" with George Rockwell, Jr., Ernest Sleeper, aged 11, was accidentally shot and killed by his young comrade.

BEEF GOT STUCK IN HIS WINDPIPE

Surgeons Cut a Man's Throat and Thereby Save His Life

Boston, Feb. 14.—That Deric Erikson is alive at the relief hospital is due to the skill of the hospital surgeons. They were obliged to cut into the man's throat in order to dislodge a piece of steak which he had eaten at a nearby restaurant and which was choked him to death.

The operation is a rare one. It consists of an incision through the trachea at the Adam's apple and the insertion of a silver tube through which the patient is enabled to breath and get nourishment.

Erickson was in a dying condition and rapidly choking to death when taken to the hospital, and only the prompt action of the surgeons saved him.

FORSAKE PARLOR FOR WORK

Delaware Woman Gives Girls Advice on Her 113th Birthday

Delmar, Del., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Hester Cordrey, known as Aunt Hester, celebrated her 113th birthday at her home here yesterday. With her were her four grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Cordrey was born nine miles from this town on a farm. Her eyesight is good and she has lost only one tooth. When asked to what she attributed her old age, Mrs. Cordrey said:

"When I was a little girl I used to go out and work on the farm like the men. Many days have I ploughed all day and come to the barn after dark and milked seven cows.

"If a girl now has to go out and plant corn or cut wheat she would be considered a slave, but we were praised up for being industrious. If girls these years would do more work and think less of the 'parlor' they would be more healthy and live longer."

Mrs. Cordrey now has a plot of ground which she cultivates yearly unaided.

"MEN'S CHURCH" ABOLISHED

Moving Pictures, Vaudeville and Smoking Were Features

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 14.—After a two years fight waged by some of the members of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, the "Men's church," which provided moving pictures, vaudeville and smoking facilities to draw men to the fold, the church has been officially declared out of business by the Ascension vestry. The "Men's club," carried on as an offshoot of the "Men's church," will be continued.

Followers of Rev. Sydney Goodman, rector of the church, who include saloon men, business heads and professional men in various walks of life, have begun a movement to restore the "Men's church" as an independent organization.

SHORTAGE OF $500

All That Town of Southbridge Stands to Lose Through Hall

Southbridge, Mass., Feb. 14.—Five hundred dollars will cover the maximum shortage in the town accounts of John F. Hall, former town treasurer and ex-treasurer of the Southbridge Savings bank, who stands accused of the larceny of nearly $425,000 from the bank, and is now in jail awaiting action by the grand jury.

This was the report made to the board of selectmen by Robert S. Campbell, the expert accountant who has been investigating the books Hall kept as town treasurer.

Out of total receipts of $253,650.36 handled for the town by Hall in 1909 and up to Jan. 22, 1910, Campbell found an actual shortage of $58.02, but this is likely to be increased to a sum not exceeding $500.

COOK IS LOCATED

Explorer and Wife on Board Steamer Which Touched at Chilean Port

Valdivia, Chile, Feb. 14.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the explorer, and his wife arrived here on board the German steamer Osiris, having taken a cabin at Montevideo.

Dr. Cook traveled under the name of T. Craig. He and his wife sailed north yesterday. He declined to be interviewed.

Hog Sales Inquiry Coming

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Whether or not any agreement has existed to keep down the price of hogs when bought from the farmer by the packing houses is to be the line of inquiry when the federal grand jury resumes its hearing on the meat industry.

Killed While Boarding Freight

Lynn, Mass., Feb. 14.—Ernest L. Ditty of Salem, a shipping clerk for the Boston and Maine, was killed at the railroad freight yard here. Ditty tried to get aboard a freight train. He fell between a car and engine and his neck was broken.

War Veteran Hangs Himself

Woburn, Mass., Feb. 14.—Major Ambrose Bancroft, a veteran of the Civil war, committed suicide by hanging while in a state of partial dementia, at his home. He had been in feeble health for the past two years.

The Labor Press.

Again I may refer to the splendid service rendered our movement by the labor press of America. In no country on the globe are there so general or so effective publications purely devoted to the interests of the wage earners as are issued by the men of our movement. The service of the labor press in organizing and uplift work cannot be calculated in dollars and cents. It is our duty as trades unionists not only to give them our moral support, but the more substantial assistance that they may live and prosper and be of still greater efficiency to help in the struggle for justice and right.—From President Gompers' Report.

BRIEFS

Grand Protector Parker will visit Maple lodge, K. & L. of H., on Wednesday.

Letters remain unclaimed at the Quincy post office for: G. Belton, John Fenton, Charles Grappone, Miss Nellie Anderson Ritchie, David Walker and William Williamson.

Frank C. Packard of Chestnut street assistant engineer of the Fire department, has been confined to the house a week, and is suffering from acute indigestion.

Frank H. Wrigley, son of Prof. F. Wrigley played the organ at St. Chrysostom's Sunday morning. Prof. Wrigley played in the evening. Miss Louisa Allison Ross, the regular organist was confined to her home by illness.

The City Council committee on Fire Department and Police made a trip about the city on Sunday, visiting all fireand police stations. The committee made the trip in an automobile, thus enabling them to cover the whole city in a short time.

A Lincoln memorial service was held at the Congregational church in Whitman on Sunday evening, the speaker being Dr. E. N. Hardy of this city who took for his subject "Lincoln the Peerless American." There was special music and the service was attended by the G. A. R., S. of V., W. R. C., and the Boys' Brigade.

Mrs. Herbert Y. Follett of Park street, whose singing is always received with pleasure, kindly sang the solos at the musical service at St. Chrysostom's church Sunday evening, Mr. Leon Pratt of Hyde Park who was to have been the soloist being confined to his home by illness.

F. Wrigley organist of Christ church, will give an organ recital in the church on Thursday evening, February 24th, at 8 o'clock assisted by the choirs of Christ church, Quincy, and Emmanuel church, Braintree, with Mr. C. L. Green and a soprano soloist to be announced in place of Mrs. Hunting who was going to sing but has been called away, owing to the death of her mother. Admission by tickets which may be obtained from the church officers.

—Here's a curious state of things in Newton: For 10 or 12 years Newton ice dealers have divided up the city, and a citizen can buy of only one dealer. However ,there has been practically no complaint, because prices have not been raised, and service has been good. If the anti-monopoly law should be invoked it would be difficult to prove a conspiracy, and if a conspiracy was proved, the present management would probably be succeeded by a merger of all the companies, with, perhaps, poorer service, and higher prices.—Boston Record.

DEATHS.

SCALES—In North Weymouth, Feb. 11, Louisa I. Scales, aged 59 years.
FITTS—In East Weymouth, Feb. 11, Mary S. Fitts, in her 80th year.
KENILEY—In Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 12, Mr. Eugene F. Keniley, formerly of Quincy, aged 49 years.
WALSH—In Randolph, Feb. 13, Mr. James Walsh, aged 80 years.

PUMPING STATION

Bill Introduced That Houghs Neck May Have Sewer

The legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs of which Representative Thomas, is a member, reported a bill in the legislature this morning directing the Metropolitan Sewer Commission to erect a sewer pumping station at Houghs Neck. The bill did not carry any appropriation as the Commission has money enough at its disposal for this work.

The site of the pumping station when built, is on Island avenue near the main sewer. The object of the station is to lift the sewage from Houghs Neck into the main sewer. Owing to the lowness of the land about Houghs Neck it would be impossible, when this section is sewered to empty it into the Metropolitan sewer by gravity, and a pumping station is necessary. Should the bill become a law it is probable that steps will be taken by the city to put in the sewer at Houghs Neck at an early date.

REPRESENTATIVE THOMAS

The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs also has before it the bill to connect the Quincy Shore boulevard with the Furnace Brook parkway and Representative Thomas has had a hearing assigned for this bill for Friday, Feb. 18. The connecting of these two boulevards is of vital importance to Quincy and the city should be largely represented at this hearing. While the city can depend upon its senator and two representatives to do all that it is possible to further the bill, it behooves the citizens to manifest their interest in the bill by attending the hearing in a body.

FORMER RESIDENT.

Word has been received of the death Saturday night at Brooklyn, N. Y., of Eugene Keniley, formerly of Quincy. Mr. Keniley was 49 years of age, an dalways made his home in Quincy up to 18 years ago, when he removed to Brooklyn, N. Y., where he has since resided. Mr. Keniley was a stone cutter by trade and was engaged in this business in New York. He leaves a widow and four children. He also leaves four brothers who reside in Quincy, D. H., J. E. and J. J. Keniley ,and a sister Mrs. D. F. Driscoll. The body will be brought to Quincy today for burial. He was a member of the Knights of Columbus, Royal Arcanum and Granite Cutters' union. The funeral will be held fro mthe residence of his sister, Mrs. D. F. Driscoll, 22 Franklin street.

CARL GRAM PROMINENT

Helps B. A. A. to Defeat New York A. C.

Carl W. Gram of this city, representing the B. A. A., made a great showing on Saturday evening in the B. A. A. track games. In the 40-yard dash handicap he won a trial beat in 4 4-5 seconds. In the semi-finals he was second in his heat and was second in the final heat for second men. In the final heat he took third prize, the first going to E. P. O'Hafa of Columbia University, and the second to Joe Horner, Jr., of Chicago A. A.

In the 40-yard invitation race, Gram won a trial heat, but did not get a place in the finals.

In the relay race he helped the B. A. A. to defeat the New York A. C. Gram for B. A. A. and Edwards for New York A. C. were in the first relay. B. A. A. had the pole and shot ahead three yards in the first lap winning relay by two yards. The race was fairly even till the last relay when B. A. A. sent in Nelson to run McEntee. He was equal to the task, for after a magnificent struggle the B. A. A. man passed his rival in the last lap and won out by five yards. Time 3m, 8 3-5s.

OTHER SPORTS.

At Milton on Saturday the Cunningham gymnasium team defeated the Somerville Y. M. C. A. at basket ball 30 to 14.

Ex-Commodore C. F. Adams of the Quincy Yacht club is on the committee of seven for the Spanish American races off Marblehead next September ,and will probably, enter his new yacht in the trial races.

LABOR GOSSIP.

The machinists have decided to accept transfer cards of members of the craft who come here from foreign lands, providing the cards show the holder to be in good standing at the time.

John Burns, the British labor leader, suggests that working hours should be internationally adjusted, inasmuch as the labor of every nation is in direct competition with that of every other nation.

The California legislature has passed a bill prohibiting any one not entitled to do so from wearing a button of any labor union or from carrying a union card without being an actual member of the union.

The new scale of the Sheet Metal Workers' union of Boston calls for a wage of $3.75 a day on Jan. 1 and $4 on and after June 1 next. The present wage is $3.60 a day. Nearly all employing firms have signed the new scale.

The imperial statistical bureau in Berlin has published the result of a census taken of all the professions, trades and occupations in the German empire. The complete list includes 15,016 items. It is regarded as a remarkable growth of specialization.

MALDEN VICTORIOUS

Trims Quincy Y. M. C. A. by a Close Score

A fast basket ball game was played at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday evening when the crack team from the Malden Y. M. C. A. was here and won 26 to 23. The Quincy boys did well to hold at that score.

The line up was:

FULL WEEK FOR BOYS

The Y. M. C. A. Have Events Every Night

Big things this week in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. Tonight an older fellows' conference will take place at which events are to be planned for the boys of Quincy.

Tuesday, the Bible class supper and classes at 6 o'clock. At 7.30 Allen S. Williams will be on hand to give his lecture on "South Western Indians and Hope Snake Dance." Every boy in Quincy is invited to this entertainment.

Wednesday night the South Quincy club will meet and have a stereopticon story of Abraham Lincoln.

Thursday evening the Wollaston club will meet in the Wollaston Congregational church and a stereopticon story of Abraham Lincoln is the program. The Atlantic club will also meet and their program is a stereopticon story of George Washington.

Friday night the college club will meet and discuss important matters.

Saturday morning, the regular younger boys' meeting will be held and is expected to be one of the best of the season.

GREAT BOXING MATCH.

Frederick Schenkelberger and George Jennings are announced to box on Feb. 26. It is expected to be a good fight, as they are both about evenly matched. Schenkelberger weighs 116 and Jennings about 111. They have both gone in training. Maurice Blackmur is Jenning's trainer and Schenkelberger's father is training him. The contest is going to be held at Schenkelberger's home and is interesting a large number.

TOO MANY UNION LABELS.

Multiplicity of Designs Detracts From Efficiency of the Emblems.

According to President John B. Lennon of the union label department of the American Federation of Labor, too much money is being spent to promote the efficiency of the various union labels in proportion to the results obtained. He also holds that there are too many labels for the average purchaser to keep in mind, though he does not quite approve of a universal label, and adds:

"Wherever I have traveled, and this is particularly true among the farmers, I have been met continuously with a criticism of the large number and entire lack of similarity of labels that are now used. To individuals that I have met I have been able to explain the situation to their satisfaction. The public, however, can and do excuse themselves from patronizing union label goods, assigning as a reason the great multiplicity of labels and that they do not know what is genuine and what is counterfeit. I do not believe that it is possible, nor do I believe that it is advisable, for the different organizations of the country, through the medium of the federation, to adopt a universal label. The reasons for this are numerous and have been gone over so many times that I will not attempt to repeat any of them. I do believe, however, that it is possible for all labels to bear some uniform design, and I can't think of anything better and more appropriate than to have every union with a label use the seal of the American Federation of Labor or the Allied Printing Trades council in connection with its label, or both."

BOWLING MEETS COST FORTUNE

Few Realize Expense of Holding National Tenpin Event.

DETROIT SPENDING BIG SUM.

Before Doors Open at American Bowling Congress Feb. 26 Nearly $15,000 Will Have Been Expended—Bowlers Themselves Put Up Money.

Few people have the slightest idea of how much money is required to prepare for and conduct one of the annual tournaments of the American bowling congress, such as will be held in Detroit during February and March. Probably a few hundred only of the many thousands of bowlers scattered in the different states could give any idea of the finances required to make this big winter sporting event a success.

To begin with, it will require between $7,000 and $8,000 to put in alleys at the Wayne Gardens and prepare that place for the pin spillers. The alleys' builders will have seventy-five expert mechanics for the better part of the month doing this work. During the last three months a constant stream of advertising matter has been sent to every bowler within a thousand miles of Detroit. All in all, the Detroit Bowling Tournament company will have spent somewhere between $12,000 and $15,000 before the doors are opened Feb. 26. Then there will be thirty pin boys, thirty scorers and a large crew of other workers employed for the seventeen days which the tournament will run, all of whom must be paid good wages.

But this is only a start on what it costs the bowlers of the country to conduct the tournament.

From present indications the entry list will reach 450 five-man teams, coming from as far east as Montreal and Brooklyn, on the south Mobile, and Denver and St. Paul on the west and northwest. These men will spend from $30,000 to $40,000 in railroad fare and probably twice that amount while in the city of Detroit, for bowlers are liberal when out on their annual jaunt. From forty to fifty newspaper correspondents attend the annual tournaments and remain the entire three weeks.

To the person who is not a bowler it seems almost incredible to state that these enthusiasts do all this to go after cash prizes, and that their own money. The pot in Detroit will be something like $30,000, and every cent of this is put up by the bowlers themselves in entry fees.

Detroit and Michigan have many thousand bowlers who have been unable in the past to attend this big international event, so that state will undoubtedly turn out large.

The low railroad rate made, one and one-half fare for the round trip, will greatly assist in increasing the attendance in Detroit. Other cities that will run special trains are Milwaukee, Louisville, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Toronto.

Washington and St. Paul both promise to turn out the largest crowds they have ever sent to an American bowling congress tournament.

From these facts and figures some idea can be formed of what it means to Detroit to have the tenth international tournament, which opens Feb. 26 and closes March 15.

Detroit bowlers worked hard to land this tournament, campaigning at St. Louis and Cincinnati before being successful at Pittsburg last February; also many Detroit bowlers have done much good and effective work during the last few months to make the event a success, raising money and creating local enthusiasm as well as handling the general preparations.

STAR RUNNERS TO MEET.

Cracks of World Will Try For Honors In New York Feb. 14.

The greatest professional foot races ever put on in this country will take place at Madison Square Garden, New York, Feb. 14. Eight of the speediest middle distance men in the world will come together in a fifteen mile race, in which a special prize will be offered for the breaking of the indoor record for that distance.

From a field of at least a hundred applicants the following men have been selected to start: Alfred Shrubb, the English speed marvel; Hans Holmer, the Canadian Marathon runner, who has come to the front very rapidly during the past year by defeating such men as St. Ives, Marsh, Hayes and Longboat; Acoose, the western Canada Indian wonder; Charley Mueller, the New York crack; Jim Crowley, who recently turned professional and will have his first try at the professional game; Ljungstrom, the Swedish champion; Tom Eck's Indian, Redhawk, and Fred Meadows, the Canadian who recently defeated Shrubb.

Jockey Spencer to Ride Again.

Jockey Henry Spencer, who for the past few seasons has been riding in Germany with excellent success, has decided to take out a license to ride in this country for the coming season. Spencer is still able to do 115 pounds and is a jockey whose experience in the saddle should afford him ample opportunity, as he proposes to ride free lance.

RAILROAD PLANS A CHINESE WALL

To Abolish Saville and Water Streets Grade Crossing They Would Divide the City

Upland Road Extension Only a Little Dust in Your Eyes

Editor of Daily Ledger:

The truth is never too hot for the people to know. I noticed in your issue of Saturday, headed "Grade Crossings," that you stated that no report has yet been made by the special commission appointed to consider the abolition of the grade crossings at Saville street and Water street. But it is rumored that the commission will favor the plans of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. by raising the tracks from the Wollaston station to the Braintree line.

Now, that rumor is, no doubt, the father of the thought of private interests of its emissaries. Almighty God, in His infinite wisdom, has created, by the laws of nature, natural and perfect conditions for the only perfect, ideal, safe, and sane way of solving these two great inseparable questions of completing the Parkway, and the grade crossing problem, and that is by depression of the railroad tracks, beginning at the Wollaston station, at the present track level of 31 feet above the city base, continuing on that same level of 31 feet through our city until we get to just beyond the Quincy Adams station, thence coming to the present level of the railroad track opposite the pumping station, thereby creating perfect and level railroading from Wollaston to Quincy Adams, removing all the bumps and pinacles in the present grade of the railroad tracks of 16.75 feet rise and fall from Wollaston to Quincy Adams, by the plan of depression, whereby perfect and ideal railroading is accomplished.

We also accomplish and save 200 feet less in the building of the Parkway over the tracks, between Grant and Carruth streets, besides being much better and attractive over the tracks, than under the tracks. Newport avenue could be made beautiful, passing thro the Parkway bridge, and the present grade of Newport avenue would be much improved. Adams street bridge would be lowered, taking out that hump that has been there for 65 years.

Dimmock street bridge would be lowered, making the grade of that street, which is now prohibitive for heavy teaming, much better Saville street, the most central street, next to the Quincy station would be saved, and the new bridge over the depressed tracks at Saville street would only be three feet above the present tracks. (Wouldn't that be fine.)

Granite street would have an overhead bridge, which is badly needed. The new Granite street bridge would be about as high as the present tracks are in crossing Granite street, and the railroad tracks would be where the present Granite street is under the railroad bridge. (Wouldn't that be grand.) The main tracks, at 31 feet, could not be better for connecting with the spur tracks at the Quincy freight yard.

School street would be saved and the bridge lowered, making the grade better. The South Quincy freight yard could be nicely connected with the Quincy freight yard through the School street bridge.

We have now come to Water street. With the railroad tracks depressed to 31 feet city base there would be a bridge over Water street with a grade of about 2 per cent which would be ideal for heavy teaming, and every spur track and the South Quincy freight yard would remain as they now are. By depressing the railroad tracks at Water street to 31 feet city base, or 8.5 feet, it will not change the per cent of grade one atom more than what the grade is now from the pumping station to the Braintree line. I have only made that grade a little longer. So much for beautiful Quincy.

RAILROAD PLANS.

Now a few words about the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. plan of retrogradation, namely, a veritable Chinese wall peircing through the very heart of our city, dividing, for all time, every interest in our city more than anything else possible, making existing conditions much worse and intolerable.

Let us look at the facts. First, by building the Parkway under the railroad tracks, it will be dangerous, unsightly, and dirty, a slough hole and an eyesore, besides making the grade of Newport avenue crossing the Parkway prohibitive; also raising the Adams street bridge still higher, damaging the adjoining properties and increasing the grade; Dimmock street bridge is to be still further humped up into the air. The grade now is prohibitive for heavy teaming. Saville street is to be stopped up. Closed forever. A public thoroughfare which has been in constant use for nearly one hundred years, in the very heart of the city, next to the Quincy station, the second important street that crosses the railroad track; just to satisfy this cheapest and most selfish plan of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., regardless of the needs of the people and the best interest of the city. Granite street is to remain as it is now and as it has been for 65 years only worse, for there will eventually be four tracks instead of two, continuing to be a boghole and a nuisance.

By the railroad plan I see no other way but to close up the present School street. The closing of Saville and School streets, will necessitate great changes, by new streets, which expense will be wholly up to the city to bear, the expense of purchasing land for new streets. Keep your eyes open Mr. Taxpayer. Now we come to Water street and the railroad plans with its Chinese wall proposes to make a cesspool out of Water street at this cross-

LINCOLN SERVICE

Complimentary Entertainment by Bethany Men's Club

The Men's Club of Bethany church had an attendance of nearly 400 at the Lincoln memorial service on Monday evening, and gave an exceedingly pleasing program, President Edward Southworth calling upon some of the Boston teachers and Boston pupils for talent, and everyone was a star.

The program follows:

Song "Vive L' America" Millard
Howard G. Berry
Violin solo "Trovatore" Verdi
M. Ellen Forsaith
Recitation Tom Taylor
"Abraham Lincoln,"
Louis Rubin
Song "For all Eternity" Mascheroni
(with violin obligato)
Emma Schufeldt Moore
Address Stacy B. Southworth
Song "Protestation" Edward German
(with violin obligato)
Mrs. Moore
Recitation Extract from "The Perfect"
Mary R. S. Andrew
Hugo Lyle Stalker Jr.
Song "Battle Hymn of the Republic"
Julia Ward Howe
Arthur A. Lincoln
Accompanist Frances Forsaith

Howard G. Berry, Louis Rubin and Hugo Stalker are all seniors at the Boston Latin school, and added much to the service by their parts, the solo of the first named, and the recitations of the other two being well rendered and heartily applauded.

By permission of "McClure's"

Abraham Lincoln

Miss Ellen Forsaith delighted all with her violin solo, and was accompanied by her sister, Miss Frances Forsaith, a former teacher of the Coddington school.

Mrs. Emma Schufeldt Moore contributed two beautiful solos, and it is always a pleasure to listen to her.

The speaker of the evening was Stacy B. Southworth of Roxbury, a son of President Southworth a native of Quincy, a graduate of Adams Academy and a former teacher at the Quincy High. His subject was "Abraham Lincoln," and he said at the outset it was his purpose to lay as beautiful a wreath as I can at the altar Lincoln It was a polished address and he held the closest attention while he depicted the life of Lincoln from humble origin to youth, manhood, lawyer, legislator and President. In reply to the question, what made Lincoln great, he said: A strong body, a very strong mind, a tremendous courage of conviction, and a reverence and trust in God. Mr. Southworth enlarged on each of these qualities, and without notes of any kind quoted from addresses of Lincoln and tributes and criticisms of others. As a leader of men Lincoln will long be an historic figure.

Long applause followed the address, showing great appreciation.

That well known and popular song of Julia Ward Howe, "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was the closing number, with Arthur A. Lincoln as soloist and the audience could not refrain from joining in the chorus, which was repeated with a will.

The chapel was prettily decorated with flags and red, white and blue. A framed picture of Lincoln was placed on the platform and decorated with flags. In the audience were several members of Paul Revere Post, G. A. R., who occupied reserved seats and were greatly pleased with the service.

An important meeting of the West Quincy Improvement association will be held Thursday evening at Dolan's hall.

INCOME FROM WATER

Number of Services Have Nearly Doubled in Ten Years

It is a mistake to think for a moment that the Metropolitan water assessment would be decreased one-tenth or one-quarter if Quincy's consumption of water was decreased one-tenth or one-quarter. These 19 cities and towns must between them pay to the State over $2,100,000.00 per year, largely for sinking fund requirements and interest, and Quincy's proportion is sure to be between two and three per cent under the present basis of apportionment. In 1907 the cities and towns contributed as follows:

Quincy	$50,027.14
Arlington	14,738.41
Belmont	6,026.81
Boston	1,726,588.68
Chelsea	58,058.80
Everett	41,044.26
Hyde Park	1,194.73
Lexington	6,987.53
Malden	40,082.71
Medford	35,126.98
Melrose	26,971.19
Milton	14,532.00
Newton	6,026.82
Nahant	4,204.56
Revere	19,633.70
Somerville	106,334.61
Stoneham	7,734.91
Watertown	15,468.18
Winthrop	14,624.69
	$2,195,406.71

The following table shows the number of water services of Quincy each year and the income from water:

Year	Services	Income
1899	3889	$54,059.14
1900	4030	61,975.01
1901	4630	69,331.24
1902	5000	78,093.48
1903	5327	86,044.29
1904	5564	96,819.39
1905	5827	94,839.05
1906	6043	105,053.50
1907	6091	112,546.37
1908	6403	108,612.56
1909	6814	113,901.86

There has been a very large increase in services in ten years from 3889 to 6814, and the income has more than kept pace with the new services, having more than doubled in the ten years, from $54,059.14 to $113,901.86. The income has increased more rapidly than the services because during the period the shipyard which is a large user has been established. The Tubular Rivet works, Boston Gear works and some of the granite companies have largely increased their use of water. There is no question but all manufacturing concerns using water should have meters installed.

A misprint on Monday made the Ledger state that there were 2632 meters in Quincy on Jan. 1, when the total should have been 2032. This shows that only 49 meters were installed, although there were 411 new services in 1909.

VALENTINE PARTY.

A very enjoyable valentine party was held at Colonial hall Monday evening by the Delta Sigma Kappa society of the Quincy High school. The hall was made to assume a sombre color by colored crepe paper draped about the chandelier and side lights. Merrill's orchestra furnished the musical accompaniment and the party was matronized by Miss Evaline A. Salsman and Miss Holt, two of the teachers at the school. Dancing was enjoyed from 8 to 12 o'clock.

HOSPITAL BOARD ORGANIZE

New President the Son of Hon. W. B. Rice

The annual meeting of the trustees of the City Hospital was held Monday afternoon at the hospital. Fred B. Rice was elected as president, to succeed his late father who was president of the trustees since the hospital was built. The other officers are:

Vice President—Henry M. Faxon.
Secretary—T. Reed.
Treasurer—Nathan G. Nickerson.
Executive Committee—Dr. John A. Gordon, Dr. John F. Welch and James F. Burke.
Finance Committee—Harry L. Rice, Henry M. Faxon, Joseph A. Dasha.

The new wing of the hospital has not been officially turned over to the trustees as yet, but probably will be very soon.

VALENTINE PARTY.

A very pretty valentine party was given by the Prosit Pleasure club at their rooms on Mechanic street. Songs, monologue and games were the order of the evening and some very nice chorus work showed that the club members are musically inclined. Jack Maynes rendered "What's the use "with his usual good style. Gilbert Booth presided at the piano. Jack Moyle got the crowd going with "Silvery Moon." The young ladies were each given a ribbon to follow which brought them to a valentine, at the end the young men were busy matching colors to the ribbons they held. The evening broke up yith a salute to the president, Jack Souter and the song, "Good Night Ladies."

TODAY'S COURT.

Thomas F. Quinlan was arraigned for drunkenness and assault at Quincy. Case continued on probation until March 16.

Randolph Whittam was arraigned for assault at Quincy. Case continued on probation until March 10.

Luigi DiBona was arraigned for neglecting to send his minor children to school at Quincy. Case continued until March 8.

A similar complaint was issued against Nichola Sibastini but he failed to answer when his name was called. He will be brought into court later.

SUICIDE BY HANGING

Victim Had at One Time Been In an Asylum

John Furmingham aged 60 years of 11 Kent street, committed suicide Monday afternoon by hanging himself at his home. Mr. Furmingham who was a granite quarryman, was not in the best of health and was thought to be mentally impaired. Some years ago he was committed to the Westboro asylum, but was later discharged.

Monday afternoon he went into one of the upper rooms of the house, and placing a broom handle across the opening of a scuttle leading to the attic, he stood on a box, and after adjusting a rope about his neck kicked the box from beneath him. His wife, missing him and becoming alarmed, instituted a search, and was horrified on entering the upper room to see his body swaying with his toes just touching the floor. Although nearly overcome by fright she managed to cut the body down. The body was warm, showing a slight spark of life, and Mrs. Furmingham worked over it, trying to restore life. She then summoned help but too late. Medical Examiner Jones was notified and the body given in charge of an undertaker. Mr. Furmingham leaves a widow and three children.

ILLUSTRATED WITH SNAKES

Also One Hundred Colored Slides of Interest

Allen S. Williams of New York City is to lecture tonight to the boys of Quincy at the Y. M. C. A. on "South Western Indians and the Hope Snake Dance." Mr. Williams has with him live specimens of snakes and about one hundred colored slides which have no equal in the country along these lines. Upon the subject of snakes Mr. Williams is an eminent scientific authority, recognized as possessed of respectable knowledge by the authorities of the Smithsonian Institution at Washington and by leading American Biologists.

Mr. Williams for three years owned the largest private collection of serpents representing every continent, that ever existed. He is a popular lecturer who succeeds in interesting every audience in any of his several special subjects, but aided by living rare serpents of brilliant hues, handled as indifferently as if they were pet kittens, his talk on South Western Indians and Hope Snake Dance, lives forever in the memories of of the auditors and spectators.

Every boys in Quincy ought to be present and see and hear this most interesting talk.

RUGS OF QUALITY THAT GIVE FAITHFUL SERVICE

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

A politician does hate to see any office abolished.

New York messenger boys are getting careless, losing $10,000 bills out of their bocket change.

It may yet become necessary to take the Elkins-Aldrich dispute to the Hague.

If there's anything in a name the Hon. Joe Tinker, of Chicago, ought to be given a place on the tariff commission.

"Let the children eat what they want," advises a physician. But suppose you are a meat boycotter, and the children are not?

"At least the ham sandwich hasn't gone up," notes the Atlantic Journal. And the average slice of ham therein can hardly grow thinner.

Another American heiress has purchased a nobleman at a record-breaking price. Even noblemen are going up.

The cold storage magnates seem likely to find themselves in rather hot water before they are many years older.

Those who believe the ocean was built as the annex of the Atlantic City boardwalk, will be surprised to learn that it is 170,000,000 years old.

A Southern paper tells us "there are worse men in the world than Cannon." We have to look to the South for sensational novelties these days.

G. B. Bates has a prolific pen, and has written a letter upon another subject which the Daily Ledger is pleased to print today. It is his pet hobby, but nevertheless has many good arguments.

There is already a demand for back copies of the Daily Ledger with the series of historical papers on "Quincy of Years Ago." Seven papers have now appeared, usually one a week, and the facts are new to the majority of Quincy people.

The editor has been asked why he quoted water figures of 1907 instead of 1909; but the facts are that some reports of 1909 were not issued. Here are some figures, however , for 1909 which the inquirer may be looking for, which also show that the Metropolitan assessment for water is not for consumption but to pay the FIRST COST of debt and interest. The warrant in 1909 for the Metropolitan water assessment upon Quincy amounted to $51,230.04; of this amount $11,291.60 was to meet the requirements of the sinking fund established in 1895, $30,281.35 to pay interest and ONLY $9,657.09 on account of the cost of maintenance and operation for the year 1909.

RECORD CARGO OF TEA

Two and a Half Million Pounds In Hold of Steamer at Boston

Boston, Feb. 15.—The most remarkable cargo of tea to reach Boston since the historic tea party is the gigantic consignment of 2,500,000 pounds, which arrived here from the Orient in the hold of the steamer Wyneric, in command of Captain Lindsey. It is the largest consignment of tea ever received here.

The bulk of the cargo was taken on at Hong Kong. Additions, however, were made at Shanghai, Tientsin, Keelung, Singapore and Penang.

ing by having Water street go under the railroad tracks. Ridiculous, isn't it? What is to become of all these business properties in this section? Think it over, Mr. Business Man and Mr. Taxpayer.

UPLAND ROAD.

Now, one word about the new proposed Upland road through to Granite street. Such a proposition is a little dust thrown in your eyes. It is entirely foreign and has nothing to do with the grade crossing problem which is to be reported upon, to the court, by the special commission. Such a proposition as extending Upland road to Granite street will have to be done entirely at the expense of the city. Don't let us grab at any "gold brick". Hold to the text and the law. The statute explicitly states that the abolition of grade crossings shall be performed in the present location of streets when practical. Nothing in this world is easier or more simple.

Drop the railroad tracks to a perfect level, 31 feet above city base, in the present location, and you save every street that crosses the railroad track with improved conditions. Every piece of property becomes more valuable, every business concern connected by spur track.

Notwithstanding these rumors, that the commission will favor the railroad plans and that commissions are owned and controlled by railroad interests, and that the railroad will do just as it pleases, etc., I will not believe them, for I have the highest regard for the ability and composition of the special commission. One of them in particular having had a great practical experience fighting for depression for his own city, and he got depression, and there is no finer or more beautiful city in Massachusetts than the city of Newton, pertaining to railroads.

There are two plans for the consideration of this special commission. The railroad plan of selfishness and destruction, and the city plan of depression and salvation. Is there any argument, is there any question which is the right one?

Not withstanding this foreign corporation, whose receipts for traffic in our city reaches nearly one million dollars yearly and fast increasing (is not appreciated) desires to inflict an abortion on our fair city that is a barefaced, cold blooded imposition pure and simple. I will not believe that this special commission and the Metropolitan Park Commissioners, will jeopardize for all time to come the best interests of the city of Quincy, and all its people, as well as their own reputation as fair broad-minded and just men to satisfy the demands of Shylock.

Yours for the salvation of our city,
G. B. Bates.

Quincy, Feb. 15, 1910.

WIFE'S WAY IN AMERICA.

Mrs. Brutker, Newly Arrived, Quickly Learns It and Shows Hubby.

George Brutker, a German, who arrived at New York recently with his wife and small child, was rather disconcerted when he found out how rapidly his wife was becoming Americanized. When Mr. Brutker went to the railroad room at Ellis island to buy tickets he found the 700 marks he had were gone. The money, he thought, had been either lost or stolen on shipboard. Mrs. Brutker came to his help at this embarrassing moment. She produced 330 marks which she had hidden in her clothes and paid for the tickets.

The husband expected the ticket seller to give him the change. Mrs Brutker would not have it that way. She took the money and carefully put it away again.

"We are in America now," she told her husband. "Here the women hold the purse strings. The men bring their pay home to their wives every pay day, and that is the way we will do."

Then she led her husband away.

TAFT SILENCES PARTY DISCORD

Lincoln Dinner Speech Hits Traducers of Administration

Washington, Feb. 15.—Traducers of the Taft administration and those supposed to be conspiring to widen the dissensions that have occurred in the Republican party since he became president are said to have been disarmed by the speech that President Taft made in defense of his administration and the Republican party at the Lincoln dinner in New York.

It is believed that the speech will have the effect of silencing those in the east who have created discord in the party and sought to undermine the president. In the west and southwest, where a feeling of unrest has been engendered by the enemies of the administration, a similar speech will be made by President Taft in the spring.

The utterances of the president are accepted as an ultimatum that he will abandon the policy of remaining silent while the detractors of his administration assail him, and he will hereafter defend all his acts and policies almost as vigorously as Mr. Roosevelt did.

The Taft smile has come off. Henceforth he is to be "Taft the militant" rather than "Peaceful Bill" who leads the Republican party in the supreme test that is coming in congress and in the country.

In his speech the president hit more heads than can easily be counted. He is against the men who are stirring up strife in and out of congress. He is against the men who are seeking to remedy the evils of the party by creating factions rather than fighting within the party. He leaves the questions of rules and speakerships to be settled by the results at the polls next November and directs attention to passing the legislative program that he has marked out.

It is, perhaps, significant that the very day the president made his speech in New York a Chicago Republican newspaper which is assuming a very independent attitude with reference to the administration contained a poll of the Republican editors of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin and Minnesota on the tariff and Speaker Cannon. This showed 254 for Cannon and 1749 against him; 440 for the Payne-Aldrich tariff and 1887 against it.

It so happened that the very day these figures were compiled there was a convention of the Republican editors of Indiana. In the Chicago newspaper's poll the Indiana Republican editors were placed as 50 for the tariff law and 162 against it.

INQUIRY INTO HIGH PRICES

Delays In Senate Until Elkins Relents In His Opposition to Lodge

Washington, Feb. 15.—The senate's much-advertised inquiry into the causes of high prices still hangs fire, awaiting the return to Washington of Senators Aldrich and Crane, who have in hand the delicate task of organizing an efficient committee. Senator Elkins has not yet relented in his opposition to Senator Lodge for chairman and prefers Senator Gallinger, who does not want the job.

The action of Lodge in presenting his own resolution was taken only at the instance of the committee on finance, hence Elkins is opposing, instead of one man, the whole organization on the Republican side. How the leaders will manage to quiet Elkins is still as much a puzzle as ever.

CONDEMNED TO DEATH

Slayer of Prince Ito Was Formerly Editor of a Korean Newspaper

Port Arthur, Feb. 15.—In Chan Angan, the Korean who assassinated Prince Ito, former Japanese resident general of Korea, was convicted and sentenced to death.

The assassination occurred at Harbin, whither Prince Ito had gone to meet M. Kokovsoff, the Russian minister of finance, for discussion of Manchurian affairs, on Oct. 26, 1909.

Angan was formerly an editor and was alleged to be a member of a Korean secret organization the purpose of which was the assassination of Prince Ito.

MOVE FOR SAFE FOURTH OF JULY

Governors Approve Plan of an Anti-noise Society.

INDORSED BY THE PRESIDENT

Executives of Eighteen States Have Promised to Aid Mrs. Isaac L. Rice In Having a Sane Celebration of the National Holiday—Makers of Fireworks, Too, Favor Less Din.

Celebrations of the Fourth of July in the last seven years have caused 1,513 deaths, 33,073 accidents and a fire loss of $20,000,000. This is the black record of the national birthday, which has caused the Society For the Suppression of Unnecessary Noise, of which Mrs. Isaac L. Rice of New York is president, to open a campaign for "a safe and sane Fourth."

The first step in this campaign has been to request the governors of the various states to give their aid in the movement and to ask them to compose a national committee with this end in view. The argument which the society makes is this: "The Fourth of July is a day of national rejoicing, true, but must it be for that reason a day of national death? It is a day for the children, and their pleasure should not be curtailed, true. But shall we not rather help them to enjoy it more fully and without danger rather than let thousands of them be blinded, maimed or disfigured for life? It is a day of patriotism, not so; it is a country wide holocaust."

President Taft approves the plan, and eighteen governors have promised to help.

Replies from a few of the governors already received follow:

C. S. Deneen, governor of Illinois, said:

"I appreciate the value of the suggestion, and I shall be glad to co-operate with the other governors in bringing about the abandonment of the noisy and dangerous use of fireworks and explosives, to which so much suffering and loss of property are due every Fourth of July.

Better Than Proclamations.

"I am glad that such a movement has been entered upon to bring about this result. This plan, I am sure, will be far more effectual in securing a more rational observance of the national holiday than the usual proclamations issued by the mayors and police authorities of cities each year. These have proved almost invariably a dead letter and have been totally disregarded."

Governor Eben S. Draper of Massachusetts said:

"I am perfectly willing that you should use my name in the manner indicated in favor of a saner celebration of July 4. I do not object to the noise so much as I do to the danger to our children and young people through an indiscriminate use of dangerous explosives."

North Dakota's governor, John Burke, said:

"I shall be glad to act with you in securing a safe and patriotic observance of our national holiday. The explosives used are becoming more dangerous every year. When I was a boy there was no such thing as a giant firecracker, and the firecrackers used were small and almost harmless compared with those of today. I am willing to lend whatever assistance I can."

The President Approves.

Braxton B. Comer, governor of Alabama; John Franklin Fort, governor of New Jersey; James O. Davidson, governor of Wisconsin; Martin F. Ansel, governor of South Carolina, and Henry L. West, commissioner of the District of Columbia, have all declared their approval, and Mrs. Rice has received through Representative William S. Bennet the assurance of President Taft's hearty sympathy with the movement.

The plan of the society does not stop with the governors, however. Petitions to which are attached the letters of these chief executives are to be sent to 452 college presidents and then circulated among men of prominence in general. Already some of this work has been done, and it will be extended to include commissioners of health, fire chiefs, police commissioners and insurance companies in all of the larger cities.

In New York such a petition has been signed by Bishop Greer, William H. Maxwell of the department of education, Ernst J. Lederle of the department of health and John Wyeth, president of the Academy of Medicine.

Favored by Makers of Fireworks.

Strange as it may seem, the manufacturers of fireworks are in sympathy with the movement, for the more elaborate and consequently more expensive fireworks are far less dangerous than the ordinary firecracker and especially the giant cracker, in which the profit is comparatively small.

As Mrs. Rice said in a recent article on "Our Barbarous Fourth." "When the preparations for the celebration of a great anniversary are identical with those for a battle it is time to pause and reflect whether a better observance of the day might not be advisable—to ask ourselves whether one might not be planned which would honor and not dishonor a glorious memory."

COMET'S POISONOUS TAIL.

Yerkes Observatory Finds Cyanogen In Spectrum of Halley's Comet.

Although astronomers at the Harvard observatory at Boston have not yet made a photographic spectrum of Halley's comet, which is rapidly approaching the earth, a telegram recently received by them from the Yerkes observatory states that spectra of the comet obtained by the director and his assistants show very prominent cyanogen bands.

Cyanogen is a very deadly poison, a grain of its potassium salt touched to the tongue being sufficient to cause instant death. In the uncombined state it is a bluish gas very similar in its chemical behavior to chlorine and extremely poisonous. It is characterized by an odor similar to that of almonds. The fact that cyanogen is present in the comet has been communicated to Camille Flammarion and many other astronomers and is causing much discussion as to the probable effect on the earth should it pass through the comet's tail. Professor Flammarion is of the opinion that the cyanogen gas would impregnate the atmosphere and possibly snuff out all life on the planet.

Only once, as far as known, has the earth passed directly through the tail of a comet, and at that time no unusual phenomena were noticed except that there were abundant showers of meteors.

THE HUSKY WOMAN COMING.

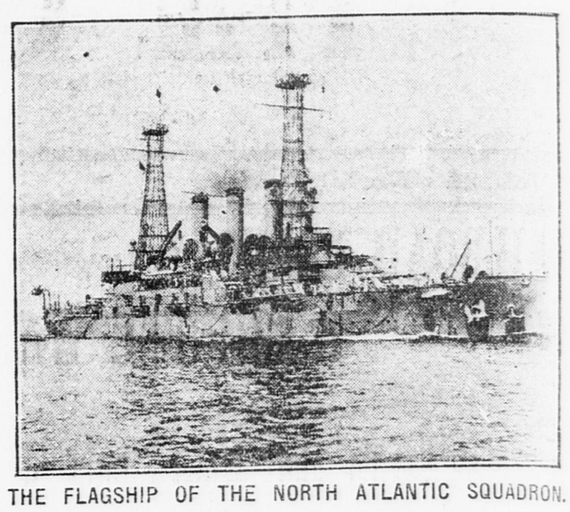

Physical Experts Say She'll Soon Be as Strong as Man.

Dr. Dudley A. Sargeant, physical director of Harvard university, and the Baroness Rose Posse, one of Boston's most celebrated teachers of physical exercise for women, sound a note of warning to the sex which has hitherto held undisputed the field of physical prowess.

They say that in the near future woman will approach the capabilities of man not only in mental powers, but in physical strength, and that the weak, puny, dependent woman content to wait by the fireside for the masculine protector is disappearing rapidly, and in her place a virile, robust, broad shouldered, independent type is appearing.

THE FLAGSHIP OF THE NORTH ATLANTIC SQUADRON.

At the time of her completion the Connecticut was with one exception the heaviest armed vessel in the world. She was built in a navy yard plant—the Brooklyn navy yard—under close government supervision and at the time represented the highest type of naval architecture ever reached, but her proud pre-eminence was short lived, for five other ships of the same tonnage were under way before she was completed. She became at once Admiral Evans' flagship and at his retirement was commanded by Admiral Sperry. Later she became Admiral Schroeder's flagship. The Connecticut has a displacement of 17,600 tons and an indicated horsepower of 16,500. She is 450 feet in length on water line and has a draft of 24 feet 6 inches.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of th's preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

DEMAND FOR TICKETS

Accommodations Not Ample to Admit Ladies

Tickets for the banquet to be tendered President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company by the citizens of Quincy next week, were placed on sale Monday morning, and almost immediately there was a great demand for them. One of the gentlemen having tickets reported the sale of twenty-five before noon. Another reports that everybody whom he met in City Square desired a ticket. Reports from sections outside of City Square are the same, so that it would appear that the five hundred tickets, the number that the hall will accommodate, will soon be sold and that tickets will be at a premium before the night of the banquet.

There have been numerous inquiries if ladies were to be at the banquet. This question was fully discussed by the committee and it was decided to exclude them, as they could not be accommodated. There was some talk of admitting them to the balcony but as the balcony at Music hall only seats 250 and there did not seem to be any equitable way to give out tickets for this privilege it was decided that it would be impossible for any ladies to attend the banquet or to watch the scene from the balcony.

The caterer has not been selected, but the committee, desiring if possible to patronize home industry have requested local caterers to submit menus.

The reception will not be a full dress affair, the tickets stating that dress will be informal.

Tickets for the banquet are on sale at the following places:

William Carey, Fore River Ship & Engine Co.

Eben W. Sheppard, 27 Granite street.

Edward J. Murphy, Hancock street

Edward J. Sandberg, Buckley street.

Henry L. Kincaide, Hancock street.

Charles F. Hearn, City Square.

Broks Pharmacy, Newport avenue and Beale street.

Brooks pharmacy, Hancock corner Beach.

Branschied & Martins, Sagamore street.

Albert L. Whitman, 583 Washington street.

Walsh Drug Co., School and Hancock streets.

Walsh Drug Co., Water and Franklin streets.

Walsh Drug Co., Copeland and Cross streets.

George W. Berry, Copeland street.

James H. Burke Room 4, Savings Bank building.

It has been decided not to have any out-of-town speakers at the banquet as it is desired to make it purely a local affair.

In the list of the reception committee as published Monday, three names were omitted. These were Joseph A. Dasha, Delcevare King and T. J. Collins. Mayor Shea has called a meeting of the reception committee for Friday evening, at 7.30, at City Hall, when final arrangements will be completed.

Plan to Mark Lincoln's March.

Congressman Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, formerly of Burlington, Ia., is planning a project to set up permanent markers to outline the march of Abraham Lincoln during the Black Hawk war. Mr. Lowden has donated considerable money to the plan, and others have become interested. His object is permanently to fix the march and the places where the followers of the martyr president camped. The march started from Beardstown, continued to Oquawka and thence to the mouth of Rock river. The markers are to be of stone with suitable inscriptions. It is Mr. Lowden's plan also to have maps drawn of the territory, copies of which will be kept in the public records of the state of Illinois.

Unique Snowplow For Sidewalks.

This is one instance where a lawn mower, an instrument which is a big factor in making the rural town attractive, can be made very serviceable during the winter. Any industrious person keeps the sidewalk in front of his home clean of snow and makes travel easy for the mail carrier by simply turning his mower into a first class snowplow. Take the handle and braces from the lawn mower and attach them to a branch one inch thick, twelve inches wide and eighteen inches long. Then take two strips of wood 1 by 2 and ten inches long and use them as battens over the handle braces. Then fasten with screws and you complete the plow. A piece of tin tacked over the face of the board will greatly assist the snow in sliding from the plow.

SUNDAY SERVICES

Reports from the churches which fail to reach the Daily Ledger office before 12 noon on Monday, are deferred until Tuesday:

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The preaching Sunday morning and evening was by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Walther; morning subject, "Fire as a figure of God's presence and spirit." Heb. 12:29. Several Bible references were made proving that God is a fire. As fire refines the gold, so Jesus refines men. Men were baptized with the Holy Ghost and with fire. Fire is illuminating and revealing so the presence of God. Fire is spreading so is salvation. Closing Mr. Walther repeated the following in great earnestness "Revive us again; fill each heart with thy love; may each heart be rekindled with fire from above."

The evening service was very earnest and effective; subject: "Three reasons for becoming a Christ." The following words were used as subjects for reasons. "Yesterday, today and forever,". We should be Christians because of our past sins. God is merciful and kind and the past can be blotted out if confession is made. We should be Christians today because Jesus takes away the desire for sin and helps us to be of use in the world, and helps us to help men. In the future we need God as we stand before Him. Where shall we spend eternity? How terrible to stand before God having rejected Him. Mr. Walther asked his people to be deeply concerned for others.

A glowing report was read at the Sunday school showing that it rated very high in the different branches of work.

A deep interest is being shown among the young people in the Christian Endeavor Society. Miss Florence Newcomb of Brookline rendered two solos in a very pleasing and effective manner.

The Cottage Prayer Meeting at Montclair this evening will be led by the pastor.

Thursday evening at 7.45 the business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society will be held in the chapel.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The second of a series of monthly vesper services was held on Sunday afternoon by Rev. Carl G. Horst in the Wollaston Unitarian church, a large number of parishioners and others being present. The music as rendered by the Bostonian Male quartet accompanied by William Weston was especially pleasing. Rev. Mr. Horst preached a strong sermonette taking for his text Acts 27:29—"Then fearing lest they should have fallen upon rocks they cast four anchors out of the stern and wished for the day." The four anchors we need in this life, said Mr. Horst to proect us from the storms of adversity are, Duty, Hope, Mortality and God.

A Lincoln memorial service was held in place of the regular session of the Sunday school at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday. Besides anecdotes and incidents of Lincoln by the various classes, Frank A. Page, the superintendent spoke briefly. The minister drew lessons from Lincoln's life and said that we should all take advantage of every opportunity as did this man. He deplored the number of loungers that waste their time loafing on the street corner. A number of older people were present at the service.

HALL PLACE M. E.

The Rev. Reemt Liibbers of Emden, Ill., preached at the morning service at the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday. He took for his text the 14th verse of the 15th chapter of St. John, the memorable words of Christ, "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you." Mr. Liibbers compared the friendship of earthly friends with the friendship of Christ; the many acts of kindness which our friends perform, their helpfulness to us, but emphasized the fact that though we have multitudes of friends ready to make any sacrifice for us, there comes a time when the friendship of loved ones here on earth cannot help us. It is the hour of death, when, though friends stand by soothing the dying one, they cannot go with him through death's door. Then it is that earthly friendships fail. Christ is the only one who can be a true friend to us here and he can go with us through the battles of life and can carry us safely through the dark dreary hours of death to the shores of eternity. Truly the friendship of man is nothing compared to the friendship of God.

Sunday school was held at 11.45 with a good attendance. During the hour Mr. Clee of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., addressed the Sunday school.

Junior League was held at 3 P. M. Miss Beryl A. Hannant lead the Epworth League devotional service at 6.15. The topic was "The true dignity of human life."

The text of the evening service was taken from Malachi 3-8. "Will a man rob God?" The pastor Rev. Carl H. Raupach occupied the pulpit and answered the question of the text by telling of the different things which we deprive God of, and their meaning together with the results, and urged the people to give more of their time and thought to those things which belong to God. The writer could not help but think as they listened to the earnest words of the pastor that there was a great deal of room for thought and meditation in the text. The pastor showed both sides of the question without sensationalism or display, and yet he could not fail to impress his congregation with its seriousness.

A short session of the Brotherhood was held at the close of the morning service.

SLOGANS OF THE CITIES.

They Are a Valuable Asset In the Growth of Municipalities.

The slogan habit is growing. A euphonious slogan is supposed to be as valuable an asset to a city or town as it is to a proprietary article advertised in the street cars, although it is not without significance that the three cities which have gone forward the fastest in recent years—Los Angeles, Seattle and Kansas City—have no trademarks.

Chicago started the game with its "I will." The idea has since spread so widely that nearly every city which has a commercial association has a motto to go upon its advertising literature. Boston uses "Bigger, busier, better Boston." "Buffalo means business," adopted after a competition, so pleases the Queen City that its manufacturers, many of them, use it on their stationery. Rochester has selected the stilted "Rochester made means quality," recalling the equally awkward "Worcester made invites trade." The Syracuse chamber, while it has no official motto, favors "Syracuse spells success," at times using current slang for its purpose in "If you're in Syracuse you're in right."

Schenectady boasts that it "lights and hauls the world," which is more inviting than its invitation to "Skedaddle for Schenectady." Two cities popular for conventions use the same form in more euphonious language—"Come to Columbus" and "Steer for Springfield." Walla Walla carries alliteration a degree further in "What Walla Walla wants is you." El Paso advises succinctly "El Paso the pass; don't pass El Paso."

The slogan which indicates growth and prosperity is more popular. That reminder to all tourists of its remarkable advance in population, "Watch Tacoma grow," is probably the best known of all city mottoes. Dayton calls itself "The city of 1,000 factories." Oklahoma City boasts that it is "the fastest growing city in the fastest growing state." Chattanooga calls itself "The city that pays dividends." Augusta, Ga., does its northern rival honor in defining itself as "the Lowell of the south." "In Kalamazoo," they tell us, "we do," and the Kansas capital does a bit of punning in "Topeka, Kan., Topeka will." "You'll like Tacoma" was so graceful and inviting a phrase that other cities have adopted it with only change in name.

UNCLEAN SCHOOLROOMS.

They Are a Constant Menace to the Lives of Children.

No parent, school board or law has the right to compel children to go to a school that gives them diseases that may permanently undermine their health or manufacture physical defects. So important did one school principal consider protection from contagious diseases that he had a culture taken of every child's throat before it came to school. Those in whose mouths were the germs of diphtheria, tuberculosis, etc., were excluded not because they were sick, but because they were able to infect other children. This prevented an epidemic in that school for the first time in its history. Mothers, if you find that proper precautions are not taken to protect your children from contagious diseases and physical defects, keep them out of school. Arouse other mothers to do likewise and to interest or coerce your health board, school board, physicians and council to provide an examining physician, a school nurse and a sanitary schoolhouse.—Delineator.

Help For Their Old Home Town.

There are several groups of country born big business men in New York who have formed country clubs to meet once a year, talk over old times in the towns and villages they came from and the good or betterment of the old home place. Among these are men like Hon. Seth Low, James G. Cannon and Commodore Wadhams. At an annual dinner Mr. Cannon made the suggestion that they could do nothing better than to get back of a Young Men's Christian association work in his county (Greene), and it was done. Mr. Cannon told Mr. Low about it, and now his county (Westchester) has come into line, with a secretary on the field, whose headquarters will be at White Plains. Commodore Wadhams heard of it and asked what it would cost. He was told $2,500. "Go ahead; it is done. I will look after the money for my county." Here is an idea for every big city where the country boys have grown up to be the city's leaders. The good work that was begun last year at county fairs in supplanting horse racing and gambling by the introduction of clean athletics and control of the sports by the county associations has been kept up in the country east and west with increasing results.

How He Got Even

With a Girl Who Refused Him.

By SUSAN YOUNG PORTER

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Your action toward me throughout this affair has been dishonorable," said Shotwell.

"I see no occasion for you to make any such charge. You proposed to me, and I asked for time in which to make a decision. Meanwhile I was studying you. Had you not accused me of treating you dishonorably I should not have given you the result of my observations. As it is, I will say that I have discovered traits in your character that I do not fancy."

"This is simply an invention to cover your duplicity. You know very well that you encouraged me, then threw me overboard."

With that he withdrew, inwardly vowing revenge. The girl, instead of considering a man who would take the position he had taken contemptible, was crushed at his charge, weeping hot, bitter tears.

Shotwell was suffering from what he considered unfair treatment and in no mood to look at the matter dispassionately. Had he done so he would have recognized the fact that no contract had been made between them. Miss Gwynne had not accepted him, and even if she had and afterward dismissed him he should have remembered that it is a woman's privilege to change her mind. But in this particular case the lady had refused him for reason. Beyond all this no man should take revenge on a woman for refusing him, whether for or without cause.

The rejected lover's path led across a district of the city where the lowest part of the community lived, or, rather, existed, for in such crowded tenements as are occupied by the poorer classes people cannot be said to live. Coming toward him he saw a man whose face and bearing belied his torn and dirty clothing.

"That fellow resembles Belding, the multimillionaire, for all the world," mused Shotwell. Then, suddenly caught by an idea, he turned and called:

"Hi! You there!"

The man faced about. Shotwell beckoned to him, and the two stood together on the sidewalk, when Shotwell began a series of questions.

"Have you ever been told you look like any one?"

"Not that I remember."

"Want a job?"

"What kind of a job?"

"Well, there's a bit of personation in it."

"What do you mean by that?"

"I know a young lady who I think wouldn't mind marrying a fortune. You very much resemble Howard Belding, the millionaire. How would you like to try it?"

The man looked Shotwell square in the face, but Shotwell could not tell how his proposition was received. For a moment he thought he saw a flash of indignation, but the first remark that came from the ragged man reassured him.

"I couldn't play a game like that in these rags."

"I'll dress you up like a gentleman."

"But how would I pass myself off for one with such ignorance as mine?"

"Oh, you've seen better days! I can tell that. Something has broken you down. What was it—liquor?"

"No; I don't drink."

"Well, do you accept?"

The man appeared to be thinking. Presently he asked:

"What is there in it if I don't succeed in marrying the girl?"

"I'll give you $500, besides what you need for spending money."

"All right. When shall I begin?"

Shotwell gave him an address at which he was to call at a certain hour the next day. When he appeared Shotwell had a wardrobe ready for him, and when properly dressed he certainly looked like a refined and intelligent man. Shotwell told him that Howard Belding, whom he was to personate, had inherited an estate of several million dollars, which he was giving to charity.

Having coached his man, Shotwell sent him away to form the acquaintance of Miss Gwynne. He instructed his decoy so far as possible as to the lady's idiosyncrasies, recommending him not to go too fast with her and that he might not want for funds he instructed him to draw on his employer for reasonable amounts. The decoy was to report regularly through the mail.

Shotwell waited in vain for a report. A week passed, and he became impatient; two weeks, and he began to think he had been duped. The man had doubtless taken the good clothes and the money furnished him and decamped. But why no drafts came Shotwell could not imagine.

Unfortunately for Shotwell, he had broken with Miss Gwynne and therefore had no occasion to visit her. He knew several of her intimate friends and would have asked them if she were receiving attentions from any one, but he was himself known to have been attentive to Miss Gwynne, and any such questions from him would of course be impertinent. He went so far as to hang about the Gwynne domicile at hours when a visitor might be expected to call, but discovered nothing. He listened to all the gossip he heard, hoping he might hear something pertaining to the case. He was disappointed in all his attempts to learn if the man he had employed to do his work was doing it.

Finally he made up his mind that if a man resembling Mr. Howard Belding were paying marked attention to Miss Gwynne it would be known and he (Shotwell) would certainly hear of it. There was but one inference—the man had either gone off without even an attempt to make Miss Gwynne's acquaintance or he had betrayed his employer with a view to making capital with the young lady. Either of these propositions was sufficient to throw Shotwell into a fever. He fretted and worried and pried till at last he could stand the strain no longer and concluded to get away from it by making a trip abroad.

He came to this conclusion not only because he wished to get the matter off his mind, but because, having somewhat cooled, he felt that he had risked the respect of all good men and women who knew him. If the matter should be known he would rather be where he could not be called upon to face it. Perhaps by the time he returned, if any trouble came of it, it would have blown over. These considerations, however, did not seem to him of great importance, for he had little doubt that the fellow he had hired to personate Belding had simply pocketed the perquisites and left the job to take care of itself.

Three months after Shotwell had laid his plan for revenge upon Miss Gwynne he went to Europe. There after a time the matter he had come away to get rid of ceased to occupy the greater part of his attention, and eventually he thanked heaven that the man he had employed to revenge him had gone off without doing so. He was feeling much relieved when in Venice he met an acquaintance from America, who said to him, among other things:

"I hear your old flame, Virginia Gwynne, is to marry the rich young philanthropist Howard Belding."

Shotwell was astonished, terror stricken, that so long after he had repented of his meanness the damage had yet been done. He questioned his informer as to when the wedding was expected to come off, but received no satisfaction.

One desire now took possession of Shotwell—to reach America before Virginia Gwynne should fall irrevocably into the trap he himself had laid for her. Making for Genoa, he found a steamer about to sail for New York. For two weeks he paced the deck, looking out on the same watery waste trying to stifle his impatience. They were the longest two weeks he had ever known. But at last the voyage was ended, and he hastened ashore, his first object being to learn if Miss Gwynne had married.

The wedding had not yet taken place.

Shotwell wrote his former love a note telling her that he had something of great importance to her welfare to communicate to her and asking for an interview. He received a brief reply appointing the next afternoon at 5 o'clock at her house. The clock was striking the hour when he mounted the steps leading up to her home and rang the bell. He was all of a tremor when he entered the drawing room, where he had had many happy tete-a-tetes with Miss Gwynne and where he had parted with her in anger. Presently she came in and stood with her hand resting on the back of a chair. He rose and stammered:

"Thank heaven I am not too late."

"For what?"

"To save you from marrying a man whom you suppose to be a gentleman, but who is really"—

"Heavens!"

"I am here to make a confession. On the day I left you I felt much aggrieved. I did that which, I admit, was unworthy of me. Seeing a man in rags who was the perfect image of Howard Belding, I persuaded him to personate that person to win your heart. But I never intended that the matter should go so far. And, not hearing from my man, in my cooler moments I congratulated myself that he had disappeared without taking any action."

Miss Gwynne stood for a moment as if trying to recover from the blow; then with one word, "Wait!" she left the room. In a moment Shotwell heard the ring of a telephone bell. He remained where he was for some minutes, when the front door opened and Miss Gwynne entered with her fiance.

"We've met again," said the man who had come in to Shotwell. "What have you to say against me?"

Shotwell was astonished at the man's assurance.

"You know what you are and of the bargain I made with you," said Shotwell.

"I know of the bargain most assuredly. As to myself, I am Howard Belding. When you met me that day I was endeavoring incog. to find out the needs of the poor. I was succoring. I could best do this in the costume of that region—rags. I have to thank you for being the means of my winning a lovely girl. I have never told her till now of her own escape by making known your contemptible conduct. Will you oblige me by vacating these premises?"

Shotwell stood for a moment looking at the man, wondering if there could be truth in his assertion.

"Prove what you say," he said presently.

The man turned to his affianced. "Do you require proof?" he asked.

"Proof? No. If that man said you were Mr. Belding I would require proof that you were what he said you were."

"Then, sir, I see no reason for you to interest yourself further in our affairs."

Changes at the Belgian Court.

There is to be a peaceful revolution at the Belgian court. King Albert believes that a new reign should have a new entourage, and so his majesty and his consort will retain only a small number of the personages who constituted the personnel of the court of Leopold II. The new king and queen will not take up their residence at the palace in Brussels until the extensive alterations and decorations ordered by the late monarch have been completed. In the matter of receptions and court fetes there will be nothing to complain of during the present year. Society in Brussels has had few court functions during late years owing to King Leopold's frequent absences from his capital. But Brussels has its universal exhibition this year, and the new sovereigns will take advantage of it to hold numerous receptions.

SEARCH NEAR VIRGINIA CAPES

May Reveal Fate of Missing Government Tug Nina

Washington, Feb. 15.—The search of the United States navy and revenue cutter service for the naval tug Nina and her crew of thirty-two men is being continued with grim fidelity.

Not a trace of the little craft has been found and the only ray of hope is found in the absence of any reports of wreckage in the broad expanse of water from Norfolk to Boston.

Even this hope is discounted by the fact that the vessel, being of steel construction, may have gone suddenly to the bottom of the sea before the crew had time to launch a boat or displace a life preserver.

The fate of the crew is all a matter of conjecture and the hope to which officials cling is that they were picked up by some passing vessel not yet spoken by the searching squadron. It is possible that they may be aboard a foreign-bound steamer and have not yet been transferred.

The government is pushing the search with all possible speed and thoroughness and will continue the work until all hope is abandoned.

The navy department has ordered the fast scout cruiser Salem, which is searching the Virginia Capes, to proceed to Winter Quarter and Fenwick island lightships, a little above Hog island, off the Virginia shore, to explore the waters in that vicinity.

The action was taken as a result of word from Baltimore that the steamship Howard sighted the Nina at noon, Feb. 6, nine miles southeast of Hog island, which is just below the lightships toward which the Salem has been sent.

At that time, only a few hours after she left Norfolk, she was heading northeast. A gale from the northwest, with increasing velocity, was tossing the tug about, and the sea and spray were washing over her pilot house. The Howard passed within one-eighth of a mile of the craft and one man could be seen on the bridge. She was weathering the gale, however, and did not seem to need any assistance at that time.

The plan of Boatswain Croghan of the Nina, before he left Norfolk, was to proceed up the coast within sighting distance of all lightships. He made a statement to this effect to the master of the Brutus the day before he sailed, and it only increases the anxiety of the department officials.

If the tug was able to maintain this course she would have been heard from long before now, in their opinion. Their theory is that she foundered in this established "lane," or was blown to sea, far outside the range of the lighthouse course.

The Nina carried whaleboats, oars and other buoyant apparatus on her decks. Running head on in a heavy sea, as she was when last seen, it is considered likely that heavy seas may have penetrated her engine room, put the fires out and otherwise disabled her so that she would toss about as she drifted out to sea, in which case she could probably last until picked up.

PUZZLED HER DOCTOR

Young Woman Unwittingly Harbored Live Mole In Her Body

New York, Feb. 15.—For several weeks Miss Katherine Purcell of Paterson, N. J., suffered pains in her chest. The pain gradually worked up in her throat. She seemed likely to die, although the doctor was unable to diagnose the case.

It has now become apparent that the cause of the trouble was a mole, which Miss Purcell had apparently swallowed when it was very small and which kept alive until it reached full size.

It was removed yesterday alive, but died soon afterward. Miss Purcell, the doctor says, will suffer no serious effects from her experience.

FOREIGNERS ARE BARRED

Chinese Naval Force Called Ashore to Quell Disturbance In Canton

Canton, Feb. 15.—The city is in a turmoil as a result of a battle between the foreign-drilled Chinese soldiers and the city police. A Chinese naval force was landed and killed and wounded more than 100 rioters.

The city is closed to foreigners for three days. Many Chinese are leaving for Hong Kong, fearing a general outbreak. Officials believe that the trouble is now quelled.

Kills Husband and Shoots Self

'EGOTIST" AND "BRAGGART"

Peary Is Bitterly Assailed In Letter to Naval Sub-Committee

Washington, Feb. 15.—Captain Osbon, secretary of the Arctic Club of America, has written a letter to the sub-committee of the house naval committee approving the latter's action in voting down the proposition to make Commander Peary a rear admiral. Osbon says in his letter:

"The action of the sub-committee on naval affairs in the matter of Civil Engineer Robert E. Perry—not Peary, for that is an assumed name—deserves the heartiest commendation of every American citizen who values justice and respects the United States navy.

"To have given this selfish egotist, this braggart, the rank of rear admiral, would have been a foul blot on the records of congress and an insult to the navy of the United States. It would have disgusted millions of our citizens who have no confidence in this alleged pole hunter and Arctic fur trader and story-teller, who for nearly a quarter of a century has been living off the people and sailing under a naval rank to which he had no legal right."

PITTSFIELD ROAD SOLD

Said to Have Been Taken Over by New Haven Railroad Interests

Pittsfield, Mass., Feb. 15.—The passing of control of the Pittsfield Street Railway company to the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company was practically consummated at a conference held in this city, according to an unofficial announcement.

It is understood that the negotiations resulted directly from the trolley car collision on the Pittsfield company's line in Dalton on Feb. 9, when one person was killed and many were injured.

FINDS NEW PROOF OF LIFE ON MARS

Lowell Says Canal Has Been Built Through a Desert

Chicago, Feb. 15.—Announcement of final proof that the planet Mars is inhabited was made by Professor Percival Lowell, the Martian expert and director of the observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., to Chicago astronomers.

Professor Lowell announced that he had seen and photographed a new canal, showing, he declared, that it had just been completed by the Martians, water had just been turned into it, and vegetation had just sprung up in a hitherto uninhabitable part of the great desert which comprises most of the planet's surface.

Previous photographs of this region made as late as last May failed to show any trace of the new canal. The fact is that it developed between May and September, when it was first observed.

Professor Lowell regarded this as positive proof that it was artificial and therefore that living beings exist in the neighboring planet.

STRIKE HAS COST $5,000,000

Hostilities In Cape Breton Collieries About to Be Suspended

Halifax, Feb. 15.—It is announced that the great Cape Breton coal strike is likely to come to an end within a few days.

When the strike was declared a year ago at the collieries of the Dominion Coal company, about 4000 men ceased work to obtain recognition of the union. Since that time the strikers have received a weekly allowance from the United Mine Workers' association.

The long struggle is estimated to have cost the men and the Dominion Coal company a total loss of $5,000,000. It is said that the strikers return to work without winning recognition.

FOUGHT POLICE TWO HOURS

Murderer of Two Women Finally Has His Own Life Extinguished

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Armed with an automatic revolver with which he had just murdered two women of his own race, William Withers, a negro, barricaded himself in a house and fought a two hours' duel with a force of policemen.

He fired the last shots just as the policemen entered the attic, where he had retreated after receiving a fatal wound. He was found dead upon the floor, still holding the revolver.

TO BALLINGER AND DENNETT

Glavis' Charges of Official Misconduct Are Narrowed Down

Washington, Feb. 15.—Under cross-examination Monday Louis R. Glavis, who is responsible for the investigation of the interior department, narrowed his accusations of official wrong-doing to Secretary Ballinger and Fred Dennett, commissioner of the general land office.

These two men he accused of misconduct in office and with failure properly to protect the interests of the government. He absolved Assistant Secretary Pierce, H. H. Schwartz, chief of the field division, and numerous other employes in the land office and agents in the field, of deliberate wrong-doing, and in the case of Schwartz he attributed the actions which he regarded as wrong to thoughtlessness and a desire to carry out the orders of his superior officers.

J. J. Vertrees, counsel for Ballinger, took an active part in the investigation and after Glavis had corrected over 400 pages of his testimony began to cross-examine the witness with a view to determine against whom Glavis desired to make charges.

Glavis fought shy of being put in the position of accuser and said he preferred that the committee draw its own conclusions from the facts presented in his statement before the committee and the papers presented Vertrees persisted in his questions and Glavis formally charged Ballinger and Dennett with misconduct in office Their official acts, he said, to which he took exception in his presentation of the case to President Taft last August, were not such as would justify an accusation of criminal misconduct.

"Had I been in possession of evidence in support of a charge of criminal or corrupt misconduct on the part of Ballinger and Dennett," said Glavis, "I should have taken the evidence to a grand jury. I should not have troubled to take the case to the president."

GIRL BEATEN TO DEATH

Police Searching For Brothers Who May Know Something of Crime

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 15.—Jane Adams, aged 18, whose body was found on the beach here, was beaten to death and then thrown into the ocean, the police have learned. William M. Siler and his brother Arvis, who accompanied Miss Adams and her sister to the dance, are missing and are being hunted for by detectives.

The girl had been missing since she attended a dance on the pier on Feb. 4.

The Siler brothers disappeared the following day, after the girl's mother had obtained a warrant for William Siler, charging him with the abduction of her daughter.

The body of the girl was found in sea grass. Her clothing was torn, her face battered, both eyes being blackened, and there was a deep hole over her left eye.

CUT A WIDE SWATH

Harold Prouty, Who Passed Bogus Checks, Gets Six Months In Jail

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 15.—A hint at suicidal intent by Harold G. Prouty, the youth who reaped a harvest cashing bogus checks as a relative of several prominent men, has resulted in a close watch being maintained over him in jail here.

Six months was the penalty imposed on Prouty in the Newton police court yesterday for obtaining $75 in clothing and money also from a merchant of that city in return for one of his checks.

In five years Prouty has left a trail of victims that extend from Laconia, N. H., to Newport, R. I. Over a score of cities and towns figure in his operations.

Farmer Perhaps Fatally Shot

Ludlow, Mass., Feb. 15.—Herbert E. White, a farmer, was shot and probably fatally injured by George Freeman. White refused to allow Freeman to see a girl who was being cared for in his family and whom Freeman claims is his sister. Freeman was arrested.

HER REVENGE.

How a Woman Punished an Innocent Man.

By MURIEL E. GRAY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

Johanna Selfridge was unfortunate in love. She was wooed and won by Ben Tillotson, a dashing sailor lad. She loved him devotedly, but he was at heart a mean, overbearing man and treated her cruelly, especially when under the influence of liquor. His wife's ardent love was turned to bitter hate. One of his voyages having lasted four years without tidings from him, his wife concluded that he had found a watery grave.

Johanna at this time was but twenty-two years of age and a very attractive young woman. She longed to meet some one who would heal the wound, occasioned not by the loss of her husband, but by her disappointment and suffering on his account. It was not long before she met George Trevor, a man socially her superior. He had a fine way with him that was very attractive to women, and Johanna bent the knee before him. He was without fortune and had got an idea that Johanna had some money stored away. It was this and not Johanna herself that tempted him.

As there are people who are color blind, so there are people who are blind in the mater of character. Johanna was one of these character blind persons. Trevor fooled her with the greatest ease. A few flowers, which he never paid for, and a drive or two, at a livery man's expense, were quite enough to give him the victory. For a whole month Johanna reveled in a delerium of happiness intensified by the memory of her past misfortune. Then Trevor suddenly ceased his visits without even taking the trouble to make an excuse. He had discovered that she had no money.

Six months passed, during which the young widow fretted without telling any one. Some said she would never dally with the little god again, some said she would go on trying till she got the right man, but not even her friends knew her feelings.

"I SHALL TAKE HER TO HER HOME."

One day a real man came along. He was forty years old, a hard worker, kind and considerate to every one and strictly honorable. He saw Johanna, learned of her past bad luck in love and proposed to her.

When it was announced that Johanna had accepted a third offer of marriage, this time from John Parke, everybody said: "Thank heaven, she has at last found a good man! John Parke is the salt of the earth."

This time Johanna kept her own counsel as to her feelings toward her lover. She didn't say whether or not she was very happy or whether she was about to marry for the sake of ending her unfortunate train of love affairs by taking a worthy if not a showy man. Her most intimate friends were at a loss just why she was intending to marry John Parke. Some said he wasn't the kind of man to produce that love the others had excited, and they didn't believe that she was very much in love. To this others replied, "Still waters run deep."

John Parke knew more about the matter than any one else, but he was not a man to have confidences. Besides, what he knew was very little. He, too, found it difficult to understand his fiancee. She was not demonstrative. But she told him that she had been demonstrative twice and that he must be content with her present treatment or give her up. Not being a very demonstrative person himself and having grown very fond of Johanna, he accepted the situation.

Johanna insisted that the wedding ceremony should be a public affair in a church. Her women friends noticed that she took no interest in collecting a trousseau and wondered why she should care to make a display in the matter of the marriage ceremony. But Johanna did not enlighten them.

When the wedding day came round every one that Johanna knew was there. All were interested to see how a woman who had been twice crushed in love would bear herself when taking a third risk. The hour was set for high noon. At the appointed time Johanna appeared in traveling costume. She met the groom at the chancel steps, and the ceremony was begun.

When that part of it wherein the groom is asked "Will you take this woman to be your wedded wife?" was put to him Parke answered in a firm voice "I will." Then the clergyman asked Johanna, "Will you take this man to be your wedded husband?" The bride, instead of replying with the accustomed "I will," answered harshly:

"No."

Had a blue bolt from heaven struck the church the astonishment could not have been greater. Having spoken the word, Johanna turned and walked defiantly down the broad center aisle of the church.

But she had scarcely started when there was another surprise. From the back of the church came a voice:

"I forbid the banns."

Johanna stopped. Her defiant look was changed in a twinkling to one of horror.

Down the aisle reeled a man in a pea jacket and sailor cap.

"I got back jus' 'n time, my dear, didn't I? In a few min'ts you'd 'a been a bigamist."

Approaching Johanna, Ben Tillotson attempted to put his arm about her. She drew away from him as from a serpent.

The assembled guests, men and women, the clergyman, all except one person, stood transfixed with horror. That one person was John Parke. Stepping forward, he placed himself between Tillotson and Johanna.

"G'way!" roared the sailor. "She b'longs to me! Wha' right you got to her?"

"The right of escort. I brought her here, and I shall take her to her home."

John Parke had always been considered a prosaic man, but at the moment he spoke these words he looked like a god. The intruder shrank back cowed. Then the one good man whom Johanna had stabbed for the sins of two other bad ones drew her arms through his and took her out of the church.

The guests for a time remained where they were, then began silently to disperse. Not one but felt that a tragedy had been enacted before them instead of the happy event they had come to witness; not one but condemned, not one but pitied, the woman who had been driven by barbarous treatment to wreak her vengeance on an innocent man.

Tillotson found his way out among the others, every one he passed avoiding him as if he were an adder. Once out of the church he was lost in the crowd on the street. He had been wrecked on an island in the Pacific ocean and lived there with the natives, preferring to remain among them rather than return to civilization. He had finally shipped on a vessel that brought him to his own country and arrived just in time to complete the dramatic climax of his wife's revenge.

If those who had witnessed the scene in the church mingled pity with their condemnation of Johanna those who had heard of the affair—and it was a seven days' wonder—said that she had deserved far more than she had received. But one held Johanna blameless. That was the man she stabbed. Whatever may have been his inner feelings, his words said that to a woman who had been wronged as she had been wronged there must come an irresistible desire for revenge and that women, since they do not possess judicial minds, are as likely to punish the wrong man as the right one. In defense of his position he reminded those to whom he made this defense that no woman had ever been appointed to sit on a judicial bench or serve on a jury.

But as to what passed between him and Johanna on their way from the church to her home or on their arrival there or afterward John Parke spoke no word. The flippant looked upon him with that contempt one naturally feels for a man who has been duped. Others gave him sympathy. To those who had witnessed his splendid self control, his assumption of the manly part, under any and all circumstances, of protector of the weaker sex, he was a hero.

There was much speculation, much curiosity, to know the condition, mental and physical, of Johanna. She shut herself up. For a long while not even her most intimate friend was permitted to visit her. When this friend was at last admitted she found Johanna in a far better condition than she had expected, but withal unintelligible. Johanna seemed to be in a state of mental fever. Her friend had expected to find her crushed. She was emotional. Her friend had expected to find her hopeless. But not a word passed between them concerning that frightful scene of which one had been witness and in which the other had acted the principal part. Not a word of regret escaped Johanna's lips, not a word of appreciation for the man who had returned good for evil.

"It seems to me," said the lady after the visit, "that Mr. Parke is to Johanna simply as a block of stone. All the use she had for him was through him to stab the male sex. But I judge this merely from appearances. Johanna confided nothing to me."

One morning a newspaper contained an item that a man found on the street in a drunken stupor had been taken to a hospital and had died there.

The next day John Parke called on Johanna and sent up his card. She came down the stairs and entered the room so quietly that Parke, who was standing at a window, did not hear her. Presently he turned and saw her standing near the door, her hands resting on the back of a chair. She was very pale.

"Now that I have the right," he said deferentially, "I have come again to ask you to be my wife."

He made a step forward and stopped. She was trembling. She did not speak, though for a moment he thought he saw her lips move. Then she began to sway. She put out her arms to him. He ran to her and caught her only in time to prevent her from falling.

SIGNS OF REVOLUTION

Raiders In India Are Getting Beyond Control of the Authorities

Calcutta, Feb. 15.—The English officials are much disturbed by a revolt that has broken out in Bastar, a feudatory state, contiguous to the central provinces.

The whole country is in such condition that only a spark is necessary to start a general revolt. There have been assassinations, which are termed patriotic murders, and other crimes indicating general unrest and conditions prone to revolution.

The raiders have descended on bazaars, police posts and schools, pillaging, burning and torturing. The uprising, which is spreading, began in the Bastar hills, from which the bandits operate.

After their sorties the bandits scurry back to the hills, and police, in spite of bravery and quick action, are unable to cope with the situation.

CASH BAIL OF $500

Readiness to Produce It Results In Chauffeur Getting His Liberty

New York, Feb. 15.—The automobile of M. C. D. Borden, the millionaire textile manufacturer, knocked down and injured Hurst Beaumont, a pedestrian, on Fifth avenue.

Borden, who was in the car, had the injured man taken home in a taxicab, suffering from what is believed to be a fractured ankle.

The Borden chauffeur, George Witte, was arrested and held in $500 bail for examination. Borden produced $500 in cash and his secretary took it into court and offered it as bail.

"If this chauffeur is as valuable as that to Borden," said Magistrate Herrman, "I guess I will parole the prisoner in his custody. Give him back the money and tell him to have the chauffeur here tomorrow."

DRIVEN TO STREET IN SCANTY ATTIRE

Women In Turkish Baths When Startled by Flames

Boston, Feb. 15.—Twenty women, driven from the Turkish baths at 49 Salem street by a brisk fire last night on the same floor, raced into the street clad in any kind of frantically snatched-up covering they could find in their flight.

The fire started in a dry goods store in the front of the building, just in the rear of which are located the Turkish baths.

The women were bathing and were suddenly brought out of the drowsy enjoyment of the steam baths by the warning cries of a neighbor who saw the blaze and ran into the building to give warning to those in the bathrooms.

Almost with the alarming cries of the girl, great swirls of smoke burst in, choking the terrified bathers, and overcoming any hesitancy to leave the building.

Some of the women had time to wrap sheets about them. Some of those who had the thin cotton wraps worn in the bath, lost them in the wild dash to safety. Others lost everything but the desire to get out into the open.

Realization of their plight, and the immediate collection of an immense crowd, struck another panic into the bathers and prevented them from seeking shelter. They just huddled up together, some shrieking, some cowering in back of the others.

As soon as the firemen arrived they saw that the fire could be safely confined to the store and they hustled the shivering women back into the baths, relieving them of the horse blankets with which they covered the less fortunate on their arrival.

SUCCESSES OF CHAMORRO

Madriz and His Government Greatly Alarmed at Recent Turn of Events

Managua, Feb. 15.—President Madriz and the members of his government are seriously concerned over the report of the taking of Matagalpa by the insurgent general, Chamorro, but whatever they have learned concerning the details of the revolutionary movement in that district they have not permitted any of the facts to leak out.

This has given rise to various rumors that the government is making an attempt to surround Chamorro.

Charity Gets $41,000 by Court Ruling

Boston, Feb. 15.—The will of Bridget B. Fay, late of Chelsea, which disposed of about $41,000 among various Roman Catholic charities in the United States, and which was objected to by cousins of Mrs. Fay, was yesterday allowed by the probate court.

Governor Sprague's Memorial

Washington, Feb. 15.—Signing himself the "sole surviving war governor," ex-Governor Sprague of Rhode Island has written a memorial to congress in support of the bill for the retirement of former officers of the Civil war.

Oil Fuel In British Navy

London, Feb. 15.—The admiralty is said to have decided definitely to substitute oil fuel for coal in the navy. It has placed an initial order for 11,000,000 gallons, or 50,000 tons.

Woman's World

CZARINA VERY ILL.

Empress of Russia Said to Be Failing Steadily.

Advices received from Europe are to the effect that the czarina of Russia is very ill and that the gravest fears for her complete recovery, mentally and physically, are entertained by the members of the Russian imperial family. At present the czarina is at Livadia, on the coast of the Crimea, and the members of her family have been summoned there. The czarina's trouble has been diagnosed as neurasthenia. It is said that she has suffered from attacks of melancholia that end with a storm of tears and leave her exhausted almost to the point of semi-consciousness. These attacks have grown in frequency since the birth of her son five years ago, and their effect is plainly recorded in her physical appearance. Her anxiety concerning the life of the heir apparent, many attempts to kill him having been discovered in time to prevent a tragedy, has brought about the sad mental condition of the royal mother.

The czarina was married to Czar Nicholas II., emperor of all the Russias, in November, 1894, just after his succession to the throne. She was before her marriage Princess Alexandra Alix, daughter of Ludwig IV., grand duke of Hesse, and was born on June 6, 1872. Five children—the Grand Duchesses Olga, Tatiana, Marie and Anastasia and the Grand Duke Alexis, the heir apparent—have been born to her.

A Matter of Manners.

In a recently published letter of Lafcadio Hearn he says of his cook:

"He wears a mask of happiness as an etiquette."

Rather a new idea this.

To most of us frankness in any form and under any circumstances seems to stand out as among the most prominent of the cardinal virtues.

The idea of appearing to be cheerful just for the sake of manners is entirely foreign to our occidental minds.

To the orientals this might do, but here in America etiquette consists in using the right fork for the oysters and in knowing when to wear a dinner coat and when to appear in full dress. That's all. One may wear the expression of a storm cloud, and if you pay your dinner calls on time your etiquette is saved, only now they are saying that even dinner calls are going out of fashion.

The Japanese conception is rather an artificial one, you may say. Perhaps it is, but just a little more of this sort of artifice wouldn't hurt any one.

In Japan it seems even the cook feels called upon to observe the etiquette of a cheerful mien.

In this country we recognize this obligation to strangers.

To wear the mask of happiness as an etiquette just for one's own family would be considered an obligation which it were totally unnecessary to assume.

Why not adopt the oriental custom in its entirety?

Happiness! I regard it as the most sacred right of youth.—Solange, Daughter of George Sand.

We become chiefly what we are more through others than through ourselves.—Max Muller.

It rests with each of us to make as much of ourselves as could be made out of the stuff.—Jean Paul Richter.

How can one expect a child to be truthful when he sees how servants—yes, often parents—practice deceit?—Max Muller.

CONNORS ASKED TO RESIGN

Tammany's Leader Slated to Head Democracy In Empire State

Albany, Feb. 15.—That the days of William J. Conners as chairman of the Democratic state committee are fast nearing an end is indicated by the announcement that thirty-six of the fifty-three members have signed a petition asking for his resignation, and that an almost equal number favor ousting him in case he refuses to resign.

CHARLES F. MURPHY.

Plans for the dethronement of Conners are being arranged by Democratic leaders from all sections of the state, who have been arriving in Albany during the last few days to hold a conference. Charles F. Murphy, the leader of Tammany Hall, it is believed, will be his successor.

The dethronement of Conners, if it takes place, will be attributable to an understanding between Murphy and the Brooklyn organization.

RADICAL REVISION OR DISCONTINUANCE

Fall River Operatives' Attitude Toward Sliding Scale

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 15.—According to present indications in textile operative circles here the sliding scale wage agreement is the nearest to dissolution that it has been in the three years of its existence. The prediction is freely made in labor circles here that the labor organizations will all vote to withdraw unless the terms of the agreement are very materially modified in the interests of the operatives.

In the present condition of business of the mills the manufacturers are hardly to be expected to grant any demand for more wages than the agreement provides. They have steadily resisted strong pressure from outside to induce them to curtail. There is little room for profit in the business. Monthly and quarterly reports to directors recently have shown how little this profit is.

The time for giving notice of an intention to withdraw from the wage agreement expires Feb. 28.

CHASED HALF A MILE

Yeggs Who Planned to Break Postoffice Safe Foiled by Police

Southbridge, Mass., Feb. 15.—This town and Franklin have been thrown into a turmoil of excitement by a visit from a gang of yeggmen who have been terrorizing Massachusetts the past winter. A pistol fight between officers and robbers foiled the evident plan of the yeggs to break the safe of the postoffice in this village.

Only two men were seen in the gang that visited this place. They were fired on by the night officers and then chased half a mile, but so far as is known neither man was wounded.

Woolford Boucher of Franklin was held up yesterday while returning in a sleigh from Medway and relieved of nearly $100. All the highwaymen seen in this vicinity wore masks.

CREW PROBABLY DROWNED

Capsized Schooner Found Floating Around In Massachusetts Bay

Boston, Feb. 15.—A capsized coasting schooner, evidently a two-master, was reported floating aimlessly out in the bay by Captain Sears of the tug Neponset. A boat dragging alongside with oars lashed indicates that the skipper and crew have gone to a watery grave.

That the disaster was of recent occurrence was apparent from the appearance of the derelict. The overturned schooner was floating directly in the path of shipping and constitutes a dangerous obstruction.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

SOUR STOMACH

"I used Cascarets and feel like a new man. I have been a sufferer from dyspepsia and sour stomach for the last two years. I have been taking medicine and other drugs, but could find no relief only for a short time. I will recommend Cascarets to my friends as the only thing for indigestion and sour stomach and to keep the bowels in good condition. They are very nice to eat."

BRIEFS

Mrs. Isaac R. Chase of 36 Pleasant street passed away on Monday in her 68th year.

An important meeting of the Granite Cutters' Union ,the Tool Sharpeners and the Polishers has been called for Wednesday evening at Clan McGregor hall.

Senator Hultman and Representatives Thomas and Langelier attended on Monday evening the banquet given by the Republican State Committee to the Republican members of the Legislature. The address of Speaker Walker was the event of the evening.

Frank F. Prescott has received from his friends in New Orleans, copies of the four carnival editions of the Mardi Gras festivities at New Orleans last week. The floats in each parade are beautifully reproduced in colors. One of the papers is on exhibition in the show window at the Daily Ledger office.

The cruiser Salem, built at Quincy and equipped with turbine engines, is the one selected to make the search for the missing tug Nina. She was dispatched from Norfolk and is sweeping the seas in every direction along the much travelled highway and questioning all vessels she meets whether anything has been seen by them of the Nina.

The Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon with Mrs. George T. Magee, on Hancock street. Lincoln was the topic of the meeting, interesting papers on Lincoln as a boy, as a man, and as President, being read by Miss Marion Mitchell, Miss Alice Arnold, Miss Burnham and Curtis Arnold. Light refreshments were served.

LANDMARK RAZED.

The old house on East Howard street near Quincy avenue, which has long been a landmark in that vicinity is being razed by the owner, Henry M. Faxon. The old house will be remembered as the one with a brick basement. The building was originally a woolen mill and was located in South Boston. It was in the year 1809 that the building was loaded onto a scow and floated to Quincy Neck and put on its new foundation. For some years the building continued to be used as a woolen mill, but the concern soon went out of business, owing to English competition. The building was then altered into a dwelling house and has been used as such ever since. It has been known as "red house."

COURTHOUSE HEARING

Board of Trade Actively at Work for Quincy

Lawyers and others who have business at the district court are all in favor of the passage of the bill now before the legislature, authorizing the County Commissioners to erect a county court house in Quincy. The present quarters, while the best that the local court has ever had, are inadequate for the needs of the court. All of the officers of the court are cramped for room and the arrangement of the present rooms are not what they should be.

For instance the office of the judge is in the front part of the building and when he desires to enter court he must pass throught the main corridor which is often crowded with people who desire to attend the session. This is not only unpleasant but undignified for the judge. His office should be so located that he may enter directly into the court room from it.

Then again the office of the clerk is none too large ,although an additional room was connected with his office a short time ago. The office of the probation officer is not situated as it should be for the re is no privacy for him. If he desires to confer with an officer of the court or a prisoner committed to his care, he must do so in the presence of others, or, if he clears the room, pratically everything he has to say can be heard by the general public in the corridor.

Still another great objection to the present court room is the fact that unless one stands very near the witness testifying it is nearly impossible to hear what he is saying. Added to the poor hearing qaulities is the noise, especially during the summer that come from the street.

These are only a few of the many arguments that can be brought forward in favor of the bill. The Board of Trade who instigated the movement for the new court building have called a special meeting for tonight and has extended invitations to local members of the bar, the City Council and others to attend, that plans may be made to have a strong argument put up at the hearing before the legislative committee on Counties on Wednesday at the State House.

VALENTINE SOCIAL.

The Murray club of the Universalist church held a Valentine social Monday evening in the church vestry. The social was of an informal nature yet very pleasing to those present. During the evening valentines were distributed from a valentine box and they created much amusement. Candy was on sale during the evening. There was no entertainment.

Scheme to Improve Business.

A large American publishing house has a "suggestion box" conveniently placed. Into this employees are urged to drop any criticism or suggestion they may have for the betterment of the business. The box is opened each morning, and the contents are placed on the desk of the president. At his leisure he calls in each individual and discusses with him the pros and cons of the suggestion. If it is good it is put into operation. Thus employees feel that they have a share in running the establishment, and the scheme has proved of benefit to the concern. The plan is about to be adopted by one of the largest supply houses in New York city.

—To relieve the congestion of the cities, make life attractive for the present residents of the rural districts and to increase the productiveness of every acre of tillable land in America is the object of Governor M. E. Hay, of Washington, in requesting President C. M. Fassett, of the Spokane chamber of commerce to appoint a committee of educators, business and professional men to formulate a practical working plan for the country life movement inaugurated by former President Roosevelt. In his letter to President Fassett, Governor Hay says: "I am firmly convinced that there are more dissatisfied people in the cities than in the country. It is not the adult population of the country which is lured to the city, but the younger generation attracted by the glare and glimmer of better raiment, more leisure, less hardship and more social advantages. The city man in his wisdom, brain and body weary of the maelstrom of strenuous commercialism, looks longingly at the green fields, the river and hills, yet dreads the bad roads, poor school, limited social intercourse and many other conditions which must be rectified.

SPORTING CHAT BY RUBE

Considerable Doing Among the Local Athletes

Carl Gram is certainly a speed merchant.

• • •

Manager Gardner Wilson of the Thayer Academy quintet informs me that he and his hopefuls are desirous of meeting the Quincy High school basket ball team on a neutral floor with a disinterested party as referee. In my opinion another game between these two schools would be a big drawing card and every sporting fan in this city would be sure to attend. It is up to you, Quincy, to get in line and accept this challenge.

There will be a meeting of the directors of the Quincy Old Colony league baseball club this evening to plan for the coming season. It is expected that "Al" Bjorkland the recently elected manager of the club will be present to outline his plan of "attack" so that the directors can suggest various trades, etc., if they deem it advisable to strengthen the team. Everybody should shout for Quincy in 1910. It means much to all, and your hearty cooperation is needed to land that bunting for the Water street ball tossers.

Harry Kemp of the Cranch school asks me to issue a challange through this column to George Jennings of the local Y. M. C. A., for a 100 yard dash to be run off in a near future. Jennings already has a boxing match on his hands and with this match will have a chance to get in some good hard work at the Y. M. C. A. gym. Any others who want to meet the white haired boy in anything?

• • •

Quincy Y. M. C. A. basket ball team went down to defeat after a hard fought game Saturday night, losing to Malden association boys by a score of 26 to 23. Morris and Bates got only one basket each, and this has much to do with the defeat.

• • •

Ex-Commodore C. F. Adams of the Quincy Yacht club is on the committee of seven for the Spanish American yacht races to be held off Marblehead next September. Let us hope that Mr. Adams enters his own new yacht in those trial races and that he comes over the finish of the course far in advance of all others.

The Old Colony Bowling league has taken a new lease of life since the games of Wednesday evening of last week when it was shown that Weymouth could be beaten. Norfolk Downs is going to make us sit up and take notice before the schedule is over if I don't miss my guess.

• • •

The boys' department of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. are doing big things this week. Tonight they will hear a lecture on "South Western Indians and Hope Snake Dance." This is a thrilling subject and it is safe to predict that few boys will be absent.

• • •

Perhaps the Thayer Academy basket ball quintet can lay the cause of their defeat in Quincy to the fact of having to go under a ladder while on the way to this city from Braintree. It was at the corner at Goddard and Franklin streets where linemen were at work high above the trolley wire on ladders, the car passing directly under the ladder. Was it hard luck?

OLD COLONY DRIVING CLUB.

The Old Colony Driving Club are entering into their third year in a very good condition with a large membership. The following officers have been elected for the year 1910: Bradford C. Wilder as president; D. Frank Daley as vice president; Theron L. Tirrell as secretary and treasurer; James F. Young, chairman of racing committee, with George A. French, S. A. Litchfield, Lot Lohnes, and A. Spenser Marsh, as directors. The racing season opens April 19 and continues until November 1.

LOCAL SPORTS.

Milton Academy was defeated at hockey for the first time on Monday, Melrose High winning 2 to 1.

The Scrap Book

A Tough Time With a Joke.

Henry E. Dixey told a story to the effect that John Stetson once went behind the scenes in his New York theater and found fault with a certain piece of scenery then in use. "What is the blamed thing anyway?" he asked. The stage manager informed him that it was a scene after Michael Angelo, whereupon Stetson pompously exclaimed: "Well, it's no good. Pay Mike his salary and let him go!"

"PAY MIKE AND LET HIM GO."

A day or two afterward Dixey was reciting the incident to Jack Haverly, but Haverly didn't seem to catch on to the joke. So Dixey repeated the yarn, and Haverly, forcing a property smile, exclaimed, "Oh, yes, I see—there ain't no such person as Angelo!"

"A GOOD ONE ON HAVERLY."

This amused Dixey more than the original story, and he hurried off to tell Stetson about it. But Stetson was quite as thick witted as Haverly had been in detecting the humor of the thing. "Why, don't you see?" exclaimed Dixey, with great earnestness. "I told this yarn to Haverly, and he replied, 'There ain't no such person as Michael Angelo!'"

"Ah, yes," cried Stetson, with a sudden gleam of intelligence, "he ought to have said, 'There isn't any such person as Michael Angelo!' Yes, yes; a good one on Haverly! Ha, ha, ha!"

Tomorrow.

Have faith and thy faith shall sustain thee.
Permit not suspicion and care
With invisible bonds to enchain thee.
But bear what God gives thee to bear.
By his spirit supported and gladdened,
Be ne'er by forebodings deterred,
But think how oft hearts have been saddened
By fear of what never occurred.

Let tomorrow take care of tomorrow.
Short and dark as our life may appear,
We may make it still darker by sorrow,
Still shorter by folly and fear.
Half our troubles are half our inventions,
And how often from blessings conferred
Have we shrunk in the wild apprehension
Of evils that never occurred!

Didn't Blame Him.

Jim Bidwell was a pioneer and frontiersman in the old days. As women were few and far between at that time in his section, Jim married a squaw. On her departure some years later for the happy hunting grounds Bidwell, who was really a good fellow and whom any of the recently arrived women would gladly have accepted as a husband, went east and there met and married a bright and pretty young woman.

He took her back to his home to live among his old friends, and one day the dear neighbors called in a body to pay their respects to the bride.

"Of course," they said to Mrs. Bidwell, with a tinge of spitefulness—"of course you know—er-r-r—Mr. Bidwell has probably told you—that his first wife—that he married a squaw."

Mrs. Bidwell beamed. "Yes," she said enthusiastically; "he told me so and, do you know, judging from the white women I've seen here, I don't blame him."—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

It Looked Suspicious.

A witness in a railroad case at Fort Worth, asked to tell in his own way how the accident happened, said:

"Well, Ole and I was walking down the track, and I heard a whistle, and I got off the track, and the train went by, and I got back on the track, and I didn't see Ole. But I walked along, and pretty soon I seen Ole's hat, and I walked on and seen one of Ole's legs, and then I seen one of Ole's arms and then another leg and then over one side Ole's head, and I says, 'Well, I be hang! Something muster happen to Ole!'"—Everybody's.

A Poser For Matilda.

In a rural town there lives an old lady who is the possessor of a very economical disposition and two prepossessing daughters who are belles of the town. One Sunday afternoon two youths drove out to see these two fair damsels. They were cordially received, delightfully entertained and when supper time came invited to partake of the evening meal. Supper over, they still lingered. Bedtime come, they still tarried.

The old lady, used to early hours, went to her slumbers, but the two young men found no fault with that. Waking from a sleep of a couple of hours and seeing a light still burning, the old lady called:

"Matilda?"

"Yes, mother."

"Have the boys gone?"

The boys, with nods and pantomime, besought Matilda to answer in the affirmative, so the daughter answered again, "Yes, mother."

A moment of silence, then "Matilda?"

"Well, mother?"

"Wasn't them two boys hogs for butter?"

THE JOYS OF ICE YACHTING.

An Exciting Winter Diversion In Which Many Delight.

GREAT SPEED POSSIBILITIES.

Recently the Imp Went a Mile In 36 Seconds—How Yachts Are Rigged. Many Big Races Have Been Decided This Season.

This winter will no doubt be long remembered among the ice yachtsmen as unusual, for the absence of much snow and the thickness of ice on all inland lakes enabled the ice regattas to be held frequently. To the enthusiasts, and they are many, keenest suffering comes from the fickle elements, which one day promise a perfect condition of wind and ice and the next day bury hopes in snow and calm.

This season more championship events have been decided than in the last three years, the most notable one being that for the third class yacht challenge pennant of America, which was won by Charles Burd's Imp of the North Shrewsbury club of Red Bank, N. J. Later the Imp established a record for a mile, going the distance in 36 seconds.

Ice yachting is enjoyed in every state in the Union where the ice forms regularly each winter, but it is especially popular in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, New York and New Jersey. In the three states named first races are held almost entirely on the lakes, while in New Jersey and New York rivers afford the most favorable speedway stretches.

The Shrewsbury river, which rises not far from Long Branch and flows into New York bay at Sandy Hook, is probably the greatest ice yachting center in this country. Upon the broad, shallow reaches of the river near Red Bank, Branchport and Pleasure Bay, N. J., scores of the fleet craft are seen daily. Bird swift racers shoot by faster than the fastest train that ever rolled on wheels.

The middle west as well as the east is passionately fond of ice yacht racing. Wisconsin probably has more ice craft than any other state in the Union. On her score of lakes hundreds of the sensational fliers may be seen at any time during midwinter. Lake

THE IMP, WINNER OF AMERICAN CHALLENGE CUP PENNANT.

Winnebago is one of the greatest of Wisconsin racing centers. The Lake Winnebago Ice Yacht association is a highly prosperous organization with a tremendous fleet. Winnebago is thirty-five miles long and sixteen miles wide in places. Its surface usually remains hard for three full months in each year, so there is practically unlimited opportunity for ice yacht sailing.

Few persons except those who have ridden in one have an accurate conception of the appearance of an iceboat. Save for the tall masts and sails it bears little resemblance to the ordinary yacht. The body of the boat is shaped like a cross with the top part forward. The beam is barely wide enough to bear a couple of figures lying at length.

On the underside extends a long runner, where is usually the keel in a sailboat. The ends of the cross arm are shod with steel runners about a yard in length. The rudder acts on the same plan as that of the ordinary boat, but is also re-enforced with a steel runner, which cuts into the ice in swinging the yacht around.

Once started, the boat travels very easily, even in a moderate breeze. Its course is a series of leaps through the air, in each of which the boat rises several inches from the ice and shoots through the air like a flying machine. The return to the ice is so even and easy that there is not the slightest jar. It is this continual rising and falling at high speed which make ice yachting so attractive.

With all its so called dangers ice yachting has a fascination that cannot be denied, and it is a glorious pastime. With the racers wrapped in warm clothing and speeding faster and faster, with the air full of electric sparks and the ice sparkling ahead, the glowing cheeks and flashing eyes of the participants in this sport attest its wholesomeness. To steer in a bitter wind and to stand on the windward side of an iceboat is one of the joys of life.

For some boats records of a mile a minute are easy, while in a heavy wind, with perfect ice, two miles a minute have been accomplished. In fact, there is a wonderful record on the books of five-eighths of a mile in 15 seconds, or at the rate of a mile in 24 seconds, two and a half miles in a minute, faster than any automobile or other machine has ever annihilated space.

MEAT BOYCOTT'S STARTER.

Fred Sebelin Believes Fight For Cheaper Food Will Be Won.

Fred W. Sebelin, a foreman in a factory at Cleveland, O., is the man who started the meat boycott that in two days spread over Cleveland like wildfire and has gone now all over the United States.

Not that Sebelin is "scrappy" by nature, for personally he is a kindly man. But he is a born leader. That is why only six meat orders were called for in the general dining room of the factory the other day when nearly 200 hardworking men rushed in to satisfy the ravenous appetites born from hard physical exertion.

Sebelin is the general foreman, but he is not of the "biled shirt," college variety of manager. His overalls are as grimy and oily as those of the greenest helper, his hands and his muscles as hard. The boys beg tobacco from him and he from them.

Sebelin does not give orders nor send an instructor when a new man is "stumped" on a piece of work. He gives a practical illustration. He himself has worked up from the stock room, and his secret is knowing how. He has a temper that shows in his piercing black eyes—has it because he seldom allows it to get away from him. They are strange eyes, because with their penetration there are sparks of humor. There is also a certain retirement. So that Sebelin looks the general, the humorist and the picture of bashfulness, and in truth he is all three. Sebelin was bashful when his sudden prominence was mentioned, but he was the general when he spoke of the future.

"It's a winning fight, of course," he said. "The people seem to realize that it is their last chance. They have been suffering a long time. They are now showing the inborn American independence. Buy no meat and the battle is won. It's rather bitter medicine, but a sure cure."

HANDEL'S MESSIAH A GRAND SUCCESS

Quincy Choral Society Assisted by the Boston Festival Orchestra at Concert

Enthusiastic Reception for the Soloists and the Chorus

Handel's masterpiece, "The Messiah," was given a fine rendering last evening at Quincy Music hall by the Quincy Choral society, assisted by the Boston Festival orchestra, John W. Crowley, principal, and the following soloists: Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams, soprano; Miss Nora Burns, contralto; H. Lambert Murphy tenor, and Willard Flint bass, all under the direction of Arthur S. Wenson, conductor.

CONDUCTOR WONSON.

An audience of over 800 greeted the singers as the curtain rose, which showed the interest taken by the public in the second concert given by the Choral Society, and an appreciation of past work as well as expectations of a good interpretation of this season's work. That none were disappointed in their expectations was manifest as the concert proceeded, the audience being especially appreciative of the fine solo and ensemble work and not slow in showing its approval.

PRESIDENT POLLARD.

Mrs. Williams, soloist at the Arlington Street church, Boston, was the favorite in the solo parts, her charming personality, combined with a perfect voice, won instant recognition. Her interpretation was a delight, her pure voice and clear enunciation being easily sustained throughout, and expressing feelingly the words and mood of the composition. The recitative following the Pastoral Symphony was beautifully rendered as were the lines, "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion," and "I know that my Redeemer liveth." It is seldom one hears a more perfect voice, so satisfactory in every register and true in interpretation.

The contralto soloist, Miss Nora Burns sustained her part well having a rich voice of good range and quality. Her work improved as the concert progressed, as she lost some of the nervousness, manifest during her first solo. Frequent applause expressed the approval of the audience.

Mr. Murphy in the tenor solos was pleasing, bringing to the part a good understanding of the lines. As in his work last year in Elijah, he gave a good interpretation and received merited approval in the hearty applause of the audience.

Mr. Flint who sang last year in Elijah, was received with enthusiasm, his clear enunciation, deep well rounded bass voice winning instant approval and recognition. His was a most satisfactory interpretation in every way.

Too much praise cannot be given the chorus and Mr. Wonson, conductor, for their part in the rounding out of a finished performance. The ensemble work was fine and well sustained, the parts being well shaded showing careful training by Mr. Wonson and an appreciation of his training on the part of the chorus. The words were clearly enunciated, the time well marked and the whole complete in every detail.

In rounding out the presentation the orchestra contributed much, and did good work throughout.

From the beginning to the closing Amen chorus it was a most satisfactory presentation of what is considered the greatest work of a great composer. It is doubtful if any musical organization in one short season could have rendered "The Messiah" better than did the Quincy Choral society and nothing but praise is heard of their work of last evening.

The ushers were: George E. Adams, Frank C. Blake, George Follett Charles H. Hardwick, Melvin T. Holbrook, Delcevare King, Dr. C. J. Lynch, Dr. J. G. Maloney, Victor E. Miller, John F. Roache and Carl R. Sheppard.

ACTIVE MEMBERS.

Throughout the rehearsals the active members have been unfailing in their attendance and interest as was shown so fully in the results at the final presentation of last evening. The members are:

Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., Mrs. M. I. Bean, Miss Nellie E. Bolles, Miss Beatrice Cashman, Miss Margaret Carruthers, Mrs. Bessie H. Chase, Miss Eleanor Crane, Miss Grace Doble, Miss Alice Dunn, Mrs. Ernest V. Fitts, Mrs. A. F. Forbes, Mrs. Sarah L. French, Miss Elizabeth A. Garrity, Miss Helen G. COUNTY COURTHOUSE FOR CITY OF QUINCY

Board of Trade Men Present Arguments at Hearing at State House.

Increasing Business of District Demands Larger Quarters.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade was held Tuesday evening to make plans for the hearing at the State House on the bill authorizing the County Commissioners to expend $100,000 in the purchase of land and the erection of a court house building in Quincy. Invitations to attend the meeting had been sent to a number of citizens and quite a number were present. Among these were Lawyers Tirrell and Mackay, Representative Langelier, Councilmen Smith, Sandberg, Carey, Richards and Ericson, and D. J. Maloney, president of the Houghs Neck Associates.

President Eugene R. Stone in opening the meeting stated it was to prepare for the hearing on the bill. He then read the bill. This provides that the County Commissioners may expend $100,000 in the purchase of land and the erection of a building. It provides in section two that no contract shall be made until the plans have been approved by a board consisting of the judge and clerk of the district court and the judge and registrar of probate. Section 3 provides that the contract shall be approved by this board, and Section 5 that no contractor shall receive any sum in addition to the contract for additional work or material furnished unless the same shall have been approved by the above-mentioned board.

Councilman Sandberg objected strongly to the board of approval, and he did not think that the clerk of the court should have anything to say as to approval of the plans. Then again he thought there might be a tie in this board and the contract held up.

Councilman Sandberg moved that Section 2 be stricken out of the bill.

Representative Langelier said it was useless to go before the committee and ask for these changes unless some plausible reason is given why it should be stricken out. He would advise leaving it alone, as this section would remove one of the objections to the building.

James F. Burke thought it unwise to try and strike out any clause. We should go to the hearing as a unit.

The motion was put to a vote and lost.

Several other amendments were proposed, but the only one passed was to change the date of the payment of the first note to Jan. 1 instead of July 1; to amend section one, so as to read a building for the several courts of the commonwealth, which may hold session here; and to amend so that the approval of the plans should be by a majority of the local board.

James F. Burke was appointed to speak on the financial end of the bill, J. D. Mackay on the legal end, F. A. Tirrell on the inconvenience of the present quarters, and Eugene R. Stone on the county in general.

The meeting then adjourned.

AT STATE HOUSE.

The committee on counties held a hearing at the State House this morning on the bill for a Court House for Quincy. The committee room was crowded with representive men from Quincy, the Board of Trade and legal profession being well represented. Braintree, Weymouth and Cohasset were also represented.

The following spoke in favor of the bill, Representatives Langelier and Thomas, Mayor Shea, Judge Avery, President Hobbs of the City Council, Lawyers Frank A. Tirrell and John D. Mackay, Eugene R. Stone, W. P. Thompson and James F. Burke.

County Commissioner John F. Merrill also gave some valuable information.

The only opposition came from Milton, Charles S. Pierce giving as the reason that the town of Milton would be assessed ten per cent of the cost, and town did not feel that the expense was warranted.

The committee seemed to be favorably impressed with the needs of the East Norfolk district for a court house at Quincy.

NEW AVENUE TO BOSTON.

Dorchester citizens were at the State House today to urge the passage of the bill for the building of Old Colony road from Columbia road at Crescent Avenue to Quincy. The proposed avenue, according to the speakers, will be an approach by way of the Neponset bridge to Boston, connecting with Columbia road at the Strandway. There will be a space in the middle for electric car tracks to facilitate the introduction of rapid transit into Dorchester. On one side will be the pleasure drive, and the other side will be given up to teaming and trucking. It is the intention of those in charge to aid the opening up of the great extent of dock lands along Dorchester bay, with good approaches to the railroad under the avenue.

FIRE ON PENNS HILL.

Box 34 was pulled at 12.18 this noon for a fire in the small shoe shop owned by Hannah Hobart on High street. Some shingles were being dried out near the stove and while left alone took fire. Small chemical streams extinguished the fire with a loss of about $15.

A boy 16 years old was hired by a firm of New York bankers. After a few weeks employment he was given a $10,000 bill and told to deposit it in the bank to the firm's credit. The boy lost the money. A firm that will place such a temptation in a boy's way deserves to lose $10,000.—Mansfield News.

DR. EVERETT PASSES AWAY

For Many Years Master of Adams Academy

He was the son of Edward Everett and for many years master of Adams Academy of this city. He served one term in Congress.

TORPEDO STATION

Congressman O'Connell Would Locate on Neponset River

Joseph F. O'Connell, the Congressman from this district, is persistent in his demand that the United States government shall locate a torpedo station near Boston. On Wednesday he re-introduced in the House his bill for the erection of a torpedo station for the use of the navy near the mouth of the Neponset river in Quincy.

There are over two miles of Quincy water front on the Neponset river, mostly marsh land, but the river is navigable the whole distance. The proposed station would be within five miles of the State House, and accessible both from the Boston navy yard, the Fore River shipyard, and the new naval magazine at Hingham, yet well protected by the forts in Boston harbor.

Charles H. Johnson is to give his illustrated lecture "Historic Quincy" at the Woodward school tomorrow evening. He gave it at Wollaston last evening before the Men's club of the Congregational church, it being received with much enthusiasm.

HABITS OF THE INDIANS

Interesting Lecture by Mr. Williams at the Y. M. C. A.

One of the most interesting evenings for boys spent in the Y. M. C. A. was Tuesday evening, when they enjoyed the pictures and lecture of Allen S. Williams on "South Western Indians and Hope Snake Dance." A large crowd was present and every minute was full of helpful and interesting facts. Mr. Williams told of the customs and habits of these South Western Indians, and also the big feature and event of their life, the Hope Snake dance. After this part of the lecture, Mr. Williams exhibited live snakes and explained the different species and informed the boys as to harmful and harmless snakes. There are fifteen different species in Massachusetts, thirteen harmless and two poisonous. Mr. Williams announced that he hoped to have a snake exhibition in the Mechanics building in November and the boys would see there more snakes than they ever dreamed of. Three cheers were given by the boys for Mr. Williams when the lecture was over. It is hoped that Mr. Williams will again be here in March with his talk on wild animals.

PRESENTATION.

The house committee of the Quincy Yacht club met Tuesday evening at the office of F. F. Crane on Temple street. After the business, the commodore vice commodore and members of the committee presented Rear Commodore Crane a handsome ship clock as a tribute of esteem. The presentation speech was made by Vice Commodore Whittemore.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

A few comets "butting in," and some worthy frenzied financier probably will syndicate them.

Our landlady has also joined the anti-meat boycott, except as regards ham croquettes and beef hash.

The "elder statesmen" don't like the offhand way in which North Dakota turns out a Senator. It seems right flippant.

By and by the trusts will have to raise the Maine, presumably. At least, it seems likely that that will soon be about the only thing left to raise.

Dr. Wiley, the food expert, says if people abstain from eating meat it will change the disposition of the entire nation within four or five million years. Ain't it awful, Mabel?

Representative Sims of Tennessee says that franking privileges cost only $500,000 anually. Judging by most of the matter sent out under it, about $499,000 is wasted.

The Republican factions in Congress continue to swear fealty to the Taft legislative programme, but what is wanted is more doing and less swearing.

Now would seem to be the time for the advocate of "a more beautiful Quincy" to get busy for with the talk of dividing the city with a high stone wall for the accommodation of the railroad and the erection of a court building there is surely need of careful thought.

G. B. Bates, whether he has a personal interest or not in abolishing the grade crossings in our city, has the right idea and the city should heed his suggestions. Surely no one wishes to see one of those unsightly high stone walls at the Quincy station or to climb up long flights of steps in rainy or icy weather. One has only to take a look at any of the stations along the Providence division of the N. Y., N. H. & H. H. railroad; the Roxbury, Boylston, Jamaica Plain stations, to see just how ugly and inconvenient a station can be, then in contrast visit those along the Albany railroad through the Newtons where you get beauty combined with utility and comfort. Let Quincy insist on having its rights and in this case right means convenience and beauty for the next century.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

All trains run by electricity and all cities and towns through which they pass to be lighted by the same agency is the outlook for some 15 years hence in Massachusetts. The town lighting is to be done from the railroad plants and cheaper than by other means because the roads will not use all their power at times of the day and night and the surplus that would otherwise be idle then will be sold to the folks along the line. It is one of the dreams that men dream to come true, if possible to make them. T. E. Byrnes of the New Haven railroad told the story to the railroad committee of the general court at Boston. It is a simple dream and Byrnes is the man to make it come true. He says there is to be so much enlarging and improving the railroads of this state and section, regardless of what name is attached to them, that the whole business will be revolutionized. Much of it depends upon what kind of legislation the general court passes for the railroads as this state is the center of railroading in New England and that responsibility cannot be shirked by the commonwealth.—Framingham News.

BEAUTIFUL QUINCY

C. H. Johnson Illustrates the City at Wollaston

The annual ladies' night of the Wollaston Congregational Men's club was held in the vestries of the church on Tuesday evening.

The early part of the evening was devoted to an informal reception, during which an orchestra composed of Charles Sayward, Theodore Corey, Ernest Pletsch and Harry Smith rendered many pleasing selections.

The feature of the evening was the stereopticon lecture of Charles H. Johnson on "Quincy, past and present." This is the first time the lecture has been presented in Wollaston and the hearty applause at its close testified the appreciation of those present. In a most interesting manner Mr. Johnson dealt with Quincy's early history, bringing it down to the present date and ending with a tour of the city including its schools, churches and extensive waterfront and the Fore River shipyard.

"There was recently in Quincy," said Mr. Johnson, "a speaker who told how to beautify Quincy. I am about to show you beautiful Quincy." In speaking of the schools, Mr. Johnson expressed the hope that he should soon be able to include in his lecture the view of a modern school building in Wollaston.

At the close of the lecture a social hour was enjoyed, during which ice cream, cake and coffee were served by the following ladies: Mrs. C. J. Hogue, Mrs. R. B. Locke, Mrs. C. N. Godfrey and Mrs. R. J. Barker.

AS HAPPY AS KINGS

Sleigh Ride and Banquet of Choir Boys

The choir boys of Christ church enjoyed a sleigh ride on Tuesday evening, which was provided for them by the generous wardens and vestrymen of the church. At 4 o'clock they left the home of the organist, Prof. Wrigley, of 24 Coddington street and upon their return the "wee chappies" were received by Mrs. Wrigley and entertained at a knife and fork tea. At the sound of the old English dinner gong all took their places, and the doxology was sung, after which all heartily partook of the following: Escalloped oysters, macaroni and cheese, cream potato salad, Spiced boiled ham, pickles, olives, graham and white bread and butter, cream pie, mince pie, assorted cakes, apples, oranges, nuts corn crisp, tea and coffee.

If ever children enjoyed themselves they certainly did, and Master Clark in behalf of the choir thanked Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley for their hospitality ending with a rousing cheer for them both. The professor took the occasion to pay the boys their month's salaries, which added to their happiness after which they departed as happy as kings.

VALENTINE PARTY.

The Jolly Sixteen enjoyed a pleasant suprise in the shape of a Valentine party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Howes on Monday evening. The house was decorated with Valentines of all descriptions and sizes showing the handy work of Mrs. Howes. On arriving each was presented with a minature Valentine and told to find a partner for a social hour of whist. The honors were taken by Frank Stoddard, George B. Dexheimer, Mrs. Gragg and Mrs. Howes, Arthur Merritt had consolation prize. After whist the hostess presented each couple with a Valentine heart inside of which was the picture of the host and his good wife taken in the "good old summer time" Then followed a dainty collation prepared by the host and it goes with out saying it was delicious for Walter is an artist at the business. The party broke up at midnight wishing him and his wife good luck and thanking them for for their generous hospitality.

SIGHTED OFF LONG ISLAND

Captain of Whaleback Steamer Saluted Nina Last Sunday

Boston, Feb. 16.—Heading northward and apparently safe and sound, the missing naval tug Nina was under way off Montauk Point, L. I., last Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, according to Captain Cumming of the whaleback steamer Bayview, which arrived at Newport News, Va., yesterday from Searsport, Me.

Captain Cumming thinks that the Nina will put in her appearance at Boston today.

Charlestown navy yard officials believe that the main cause of the tug's delay has been occasioned by lack of fuel and hold the impression that the little craft and her crew are safe.

Marine observers at Nobska, Vineyard Haven, Highland light and Hull received instructions to keep careful watch for the appearance of the tug—orders hardly necessary since each has given particular attention to the horizon during the past few days in the hope of reporting her.

The dispatches from Newport News brought joy to the officers of the navy yard.

The fact that the tug was seen on Sunday showed that she had weathered the great storm which set in along the Atlantic coast last Friday night, wrecking a number of sailing craft and bringing the belief that the Nina had been overwhelmed by its violence.

Captain Cumming stated that the Nina was apparently all right. He said that she carried a staysail rigged on the forward derrick post—that she showed no signals of distress and after saluting her he continued on his voyage, as he had no knowledge that there was anxiety concerning her safety.

Captain Cumming reported that the tug was proceeding under steam so far as he could discern, and was using canvas as an auxiliary, there being a strong breeze blowing at the time.

The Nina steamed from Norfolk on Feb. 6, commanded by Chief Boatswain Croghan and manned by thirty-two men, bound for Boston.

Under favorable weather conditions she should have reached Boston last Wednesday, but as soon as the little vessel was outside of Virginia Capes she ran into a howling northeast storm, so her arrival on time was not expected.

However, when she did not arrive Saturday, and nothing had been heard of her since a Merchants and Miners' steamer reported passing her nine miles southeast of Hog island, Va., on the same day she steamed from Hampton Roads, the authorities became alarmed.

The battleship Louisiana and the scout cruiser Salem left Hampton Roads under hurry orders to proceed up the coast and search for the tug, and soon every available naval vessel was scouring the coast, expecting to pick up the Nina, helpless and in distress, but fearing to find evidence that the little craft had foundered in the gale. Since then the search has been kept up incessantly.

Opening of Will of Recluse Shows That He Accumulated $625,000

Plymouth, Mass., Feb. 16.—When the will of George N. Smalley of Carver was filed it caused a great surprise. The inventory showed that the testator had real estate valued at $600,000 and $25,000 in personal property. He had lived a quiet, almost secluded life at Carver, had apparently not been engaged in any business matters of any moment and was generally regarded as a person of but small means.

The sum of $300,000 is bequeathed in equal shares among his sisters and five nieces and nephews. Tuskegee institute received $2500, and the sum of $20,000 is left for the support of a library at Westboro.

ESTATE GOES TO NEPHEW

Several Persons Sought Share of the $500,000 Left by George Nelson

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 16.—The several claimants to a part of the accumulated $500,000 estate of George B. Nelson, who have sprung up from widely separated sections of the country, are ignored in Nelson's will, which was filed for probate here.

Aside from $40,000 distributed entirely among local friends of the erstwhile financier, the estate is willed to George D. Dunn of Rochester, N. Y., Nelson's nephew, who also is named as executor.

Four Motorists Killed

Lisbon, Feb. 16.—Four rich motorists were killed when their racing auto, making a mile a minute, dashed over a high cliff into the River Gaudiana, near Keyssengo.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

A CIVIC CENTRE.

Editor of Ledger:

Since Mr. Bailey's lecture on "A more beautiful Quincy" before the Quincy Women's club there has been considerable talk. Some think it is too late to improve Quincy, others that individuals should do all the improving, but if looked at in the right way there is plenty of work for both, and has been for years.

When the post office was talked of who cared much where it was to be located? A few had an ax to grind and when some one objected to this or that location, their interest waned. The present lot is not objectionable if certain features could have been eliminated and improved. The lot is too small. It should have been large enough to have put the building 25 feet further north and as many feet back from Washington street. As it is now the building has an almost useless front door, not available for carriage or automobile patrons, whereas the door that is the business entrance abuts on an alley called Maple street which boasts of no street crossings and an abundance of mud most of the time. Why not have looked ahead and given the building the setting it deserved even if the city had to help defray the cost? Too late to move the building now but Maple street can be improved.

With the post office where it is and the library with beautiful grounds across the way and not far distant the fine old church and new Coddington school why have we not the beginning of a fine civic centre? The city needs a new city hall soon, why not commence to think about it now and select a location, for as Mr. Bailey very truly said "property doubles in value over night if wanted by the city."

A good place for a city hall would be on the Faxon property at the corner of Washington and Coddington streets. Take all the land to the Coddington school, have the building face the library which would give a good southern exposure; also have an attractive entrance on Washington street. Cannot you picture the effect, especially if the insurance company would build on the Nightingale corner?

I would go a step further along civic lines and clean out the buildings south of the library and put the proposed court building there and any other building of a public nature. The land between Codington and Wibird, Washington and Spear streets, laid out as a lawn dotted with fine buildings would give a civic center to be proud of.

Washington street will probably not be a business street but as it is an important one and the main thoroughfare to south shore towns why not make it as fine a thoroughfare as possible especially when it radiates out from the old church centre.

A proper grouping of the church; post office, library, school building, Y. M. C. A., a new city hall and court building could make Quincy very attractive.

Think this over. Don't say it is too late, it is never too late to remedy a fault and start right. Insist on a more beautiful Quincy—talk a more beautiful Quincy and before long it may be a more beautiful Quincy.

PURE ILLINOIS 1892 ALUMINUM THE ORIGINAL

WHY
"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum
Kitchen Ware
Is Better Than Agate or Enamel

Because it is sanitary and saves your money, time and health. The genuine spun aluminum ware, stamped with the Maltese Cross, will outlast any other cooking utensils and is guaranteed by the makers for twenty-five years.

It is pure, wholesome and hygienic—no danger of metal poisoning—cannot chip into the food, because pure SPUN Aluminum expands with the heat and will not crack, scale or peel like the old style ware.

Enamel ware is iron coated with colored glass. Heat causes the glass to chip off into the food in minute particles, which, taken into the stomach, is apt to cause serious troubles, including cancer, according to some medical authorities.

"1892" Pure Spun Aluminum Ware is made from solid Aluminum throughout—no coating of glass—and expands uniformly under heat. It cannot crack, scale, peel like the out of date enameled utensils; it does away with all possible danger from this source.

You owe it to yourself, and to every member of the household, to give this new and better kitchen ware a practical test. If it fails to do what is claimed for it, you get your money back without a quibble or a cross word.

At your dealers.

WOLLASTON W. C. T. U.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U., met Tuesday with Mrs. James P. Perry of Marion street. After devotional services lead by Mrs. Perry the secretary's report was read by Mrs. Perry, secretary pro-tem. The resignation of Mrs. Frank Burgess treasurer was accepted with regret, and thanks for past services extended to her, and Mrs. Perry was elected treasurer.

Mrs. Ida S. Brown county superintendent said she had written every union in the county and sent the "Each one win one" cards, and explained that the W. C. T. U. is an organization of christian women banded together for protection of the home, the abolition of the liquor traffic, and the triumph of Christ's golden rule in custom and law. The World's W. C. T. U., is o ganized in over fifty nations, a total membership of half a million and she hoped each member would secure at least one new member.

Mrs. Amos D. Albee president reported that she with Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Mary E. Mills and Rev. Mr. Walther had attended the hearing before the legislatve committee on constitutional amendments held Monday at the State House, she gave a brief account of the morning session and Mrs. Brown told of the afternoon session. The afternoon's program was in charge of Mrs. M. E. Black who gave a biographical sketch of Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National W. C. T. U., since 1908 which proved most interesting. She said in part: "Mrs. Stevens called upon as vice president to preside over the great Geneva convention in 1903, when illness prevented the attendance of the world's president Lady Henry Somerset. Mrs. Stevens by the exercise of rare judgment and tact made herself felt as a very marked power in a strange country among strange people and won the recognization she held at home as a leader of women. She was born in Dover, Maine, her first public work was in the school room as a teacher, at twenty-one she married Mr. Stevens of Portland who is in full accord with his wife's principles and life work and their hospitable home "Stroudwater" with its quaint rooms make a fitting back ground for the rare china and other antique bits which have crept into them through the efforts of this enthusiastic collector and patron of art. To her executive ability Mrs. Stevens adds rare gifts as a speaker. She has an imposing diction and a forceful delivery, making her a power on the platform in office and in the field.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

As the next meeting of the Quincy Women's club comes on a holiday it will be in the nature of a gentlemen's day and members will be privileged to bring a man instead of a woman guest if they so desire. A good entertainment is assured as Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth is to read a play written by Elizabeth Robins entitled, "Votes for Women." It is said to be humorous and entertaining. A tea and social will follow the entertainment.

Owing to the holiday the Arts and Crafts committee will not have its exchange open as usual as several of the committee are unable to be present but consignments are solicited for March 8. Any one desirous of joining any of the classes now forming for the spring term should consult with the chairman Mrs. Tenney or members of the committee. The young women's classes will meet Feb. 19 as usual.

The food exchange under the auspices of the Home Economics committee is prospering, with the exchange open on club afternoons and on Saturday afternoons at the store of W. G. Shaw.

HANDICRAFT INCREASING.

The Arts and Crafts department of the Quincy Women's club has done much to interest the women of the city in handicraft work and has classes in most every department of work.

That the hand crafts are growing in favor as leisure hour employment for well-to-do persons is well confirmed by the popularity of the weaving and lace making classes.

Many women are scorning ephemeral fancy work and are returning to the sturdy employments of dames of old, making their own rugs, hangings, couch covers and the like. The new loom is so simple of construction that is may be made by a child or by any woman who knows how to weave; it requires no more substantial position than the back of a chair and the space occupied by it is trifling.

The rag rugs are of various qualities, from those of fine warp and slender strips of fine cloth, to the ones which have coarse warp and thick strips of the heavy cotton and wool domet. The rags of which the rugs are made are all bought white and are colored by a chemical process.

The old rust color of our grandmothers' times, one of the effective tones obtained by chemical combination rather than by the weary soaking of a nail in water for weeks until the right shade appeared, as in former times, illustrates the improvement made in home dyeing. The rugs are made in one or two tone effects or a

VALENTINE SUPPER

Park and Downs Ladies Have a Big Crowd

A most successful event both socially and financially was held in the vestry of the Park and Downs Congregational church on Tuesday evening, in the form of a valentine supper. The event proved such an attraction and such a large crowd gathered as to nearly embarass the plans of the entertainment committee.

A bountiful well cooked repast was served by the following ladies: Mrs. Frank C. Knowlton, Mrs. Carelton Merrill, Mrs. Martina Day, Miss Lilla Ewen, Miss Marion Brown, Mrs. Norman Northrop. As each person entered a heart was pinned on his sleeve or her waist. Cupids, hearts and red poppies formed the decoration. Following the supper a progressive conversation party was enjoyed. This occasioned much merriment as the topics were confined to strictly sentimental subjects.

The entertainment committee was composed of Mrs. George A. Smith, Mrs. Harry Howarth, Mrs. Reginald Shaw and Mrs. J. A. Macdonald. The supper committee consisted of the following: Mrs. H. L. Forsyth, Mrs. A. B. Podbury, Mrs. Frederick A. Torrey, Mrs. C. L. Gilliatt, Mrs. S. N. Ayres' Mrs. A. H. C. Bishops, Mrs. W. A. Thompson.

WOLLLASTON SOCIAL.

The monthly meeting of the Wollaston Social society was held in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Tuesday evening. Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served under the direction of an entertainment committee consisting of Frederick Bullard, the Misses Clapp and R. H. Eames. During the business session certain changes were made to the constitution of the society. Plans for a social whist party and dance in Wollaston hall have been made for the evening of Feb. 21.

WAY TO STOP FOOD CORNERS

Time Limit on Stored Articles Suggested In the Illinois Legislature.

Senator Edward J. Glackin, a Democrat, introduced a resolution recently in the Illinois legislature which declares that cold storage houses have been instrumental in giving the trusts the power to corner the foodstuffs of the United States by storing and cornering them and keeping them out of the markets until prices have risen.

The resolution suggests a law providing that every article of food placed in cold storage shall bear a date of entry, that no foodstuffs shall be allowed to remain in storage more than four months or it shall be condemned by the state food commissioners and that the cornering of foodstuffs shal be made a penal offense.

The resolution also urged the appointment of a committee of five senators and five representatives to inves tigate the methods of the cold storage houses throughout the state of Illinois and report to the next general assembly and to present the draft of a bill regulating them.

Bread From Cottonseed Flour.

Bread made of cottonseed flour was exhibited on the board of trade at Chicago the other day by Charles Stearns. Although ten days old, it was sweet and palatable and resembled brown bread, one of the best imitations of whole wheat bread that have been seen. The seed was ground and the bread baked at Ennis, Tex. The flour can be had at $30 a ton, or 1½ cents a pound. People in Texas are booming it as a substitute for wheat flour.

MECCA OF DIVORCE SEEKERS

Average of Fifteen Join the Colony at Reno, Nev., Weekly.

Reno, Nev., is actually becoming flooded with divorce seekers from every section of the United States and even from Europe. Hardly a day passes but what the strange faces of new arrivals, among the feminine sex especially, of prospective divorcees are seen. The rapidity with which those who are seeking relief from disjointed domestic ties are coming to Nevada is startling.

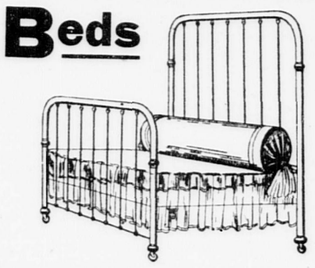

It is estimated that at least fifteen such discontented souls make their advent at Reno each week. There were the other day fifty-six divorce complaints yet untried by the two district judges. One day recently there were four new complaints filed and two decrees granted.

There is not a desirable cottage for rent in Reno today, as the supply does not equal the demand.

Former Representative, Who Was a Power In the House.

For many years, until his defeat for election to the Sixtieth congress, General Charles H. Grosvenor of Ohio was a prominent figure on the Republican side of the national house of representatives.

BRIEFS.

Members of the M. S. club will meet at the home of Miss Helen Connor, South Walnut street and all members are requested to attend as much important business is to be transacted.

Mrs. A. W. Parker of 87 Merrymount road is much pleased over receiving this week the dinner set which has been displayed in the show window at Wheeler's. Another set is on exhibition and there is considerable interest as to who will be the next lucky one.

Mrs. Mary L. Wade of Wollaston Park has resigned her position as teacher of domestic science in the public schools of Milton after a service of over fifteen years. The severing of the pleasant relations is regretted by teachers and pupils but Mrs. Wade's health is such that she feels obliged to give up some of the most arduous and will devote more of her time to lecturing.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Hall entertain the Pickwick club this evening at their home on Upland road.

Cochato club of Braintree is arranging for the annual children's party on Washington's birthday. The dancing will be under the direction of Miss Agnes B. Hayward. The committee for the party is made up of Mrs. William A. Norton, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Edward A. Haskell, Mrs. George E. Williams and Miss Elizabeth B. Pray.

Life Saved by Human Buffer

New York, Feb. 16.—John Kauffman, a window cleaner, fell backward and shot downward five stories only to land on the back of James Girdwood. Both of Kauffman's legs and arms were broken, but had he not struck the human buffer he would have flattened out on the pavement. Girdwood was scarcely hurt.

INDIFFERENCE IS DISPLAYED

To Principal Measures Advocated by President Taft

Washington, Feb. 16.—Startling and unexpected is the condition of affairs that confronts President Taft in Washington when, after making one of the best speeches of his life in New York, he finds his program for legislation at a standstill, instead of being spurred on to a rapid fulfillment, as was thought to be the natural result of the universal commendation evoked by his utterances at the Lincoln day banquet of the New York Republican club.

The Alaskan bill is lost in the senate unless President Taft can come successfully to its rescue. The Democrats are lined solidly against it, and when Senator Beveridge, chairman of the committee on territories, tried to advance it by the adoption of agreed amendments, he found so many Republicans critical of the legislation that he could make very little headway.

A solid opposition to the bill in the Republican ranks is forming, on the proposition that the provisions of the bill are obnoxious to 90 percent of the people of Alaska. A direct appeal has been made to Taft to use his influence in behalf of the legislation, and it has been intimated to him strongly that if he does not, the measure will fail.

This is only one of several administration measures which are seeing dark days. The Root amendment to the postal stavings bank bill, now that its full force is appreciated, has made the passage of this legislation extremely doubtful. The far-sighted men of congress are likely to oppose postal banks unless the money shall be used primarily for the purchase of government bonds; while Senator Carter, in charge of the bill, finds the ground cut out from under him by the opposition to prevent the postal funds from going into the coffers of local banks. This situation threatens a serious deadlock.

The prospects of the statehood bills are menaced also by the action of the senate in placing the Alaskan bill ahead of them. These bills always have required much time for their consideration and if the time is shortened by delay, they are in danger of failing altogether, as in the past.

The peculiarity of the situation is the strange indifference of the senators to the administration measures. Chairmen complain that they repeatedly fail to secure quorums of the committees to which the bills have been referred. Discussion thus lags and progress is impossible. The crash of the big stick is not even an echo now, much less a stinging bruise, and apathy, temporarily at least, is giving place to enthusiasm. Judging by the talk of some statesmen, the president's chief hope lies in his becoming aroused and insisting upon action.

TILLMAN'S GRANDCHILDREN

South Carolina Court Decides That They Shall Remain With Mother

Columbia, S. C., Feb. 16.—In a decision handed down in the supreme court the two children of Benjamin R. Tillman, Jr., are taken from the custody of their grandfather, Senator Tillman, and restored to the custody of their mother.

Young Mrs. Tillman had separated from her husband, and brought suit to secure possession of her children, who had been taken from her home in Washington by her husband and left in the custody of the senator.

The case came up in court in January, and an eloquent plea for the custody of the children was made by the senator, and, pending a final decision, the two little girls went to him.

$7500 FOR LOST EYE

Jury Finds That Man Was Injured by Employers' Defective Machine

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 16.—William J. Hines was awarded a verdict of $7500 in fifteen minutes against the Waltham Manufacturing company by a jury in the superior civil court here.

Hines sued for $20,000, claiming that while employed in the factory of the company in Waltham he lost the sight of an eye as a result of being struck by a piece of metal from a defective machine that belonged to the company.

VISITING NURSE WORK.

Quincy club women who established visiting nursing in our city may be interested in knowing what is being done along these lines in other places. In Chelsea recently Miss Alice Russell, visiting nurse told of her work as follows:

She goes only where asked to go by a physician but she is at the call of any physician at any time when not otherwise engaged. Her working hours are supposedly from 8 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock, with a rest at noon and a half day off every week. Her work includes practically three classes of persons, those who do not need the constant service of a nurse, but wish the services of a nurse once daily, for the dressing of a wound. The second class embraces those persons to whom she goes daily so long as her services are needed and who could not afford to hire a regular nurse but who can afford to pay a small fee, and in the third class are included the very poor. Her work is convned to no class of people. While the Jewish organizations, as a rule, prefer to and do take care of their very poor, yet she has been into many of their homes and warmly welcomed and paid when possible. The Italians have been particularly appreciative of this class of aid.

Miss Russell when making a visit not only does whatever is necessary for the comfort of the patient but often teaches some member of the family to do the necessary things, cooks simple food, and in one case has forced a landlord to make repairs by calling in the board of health to declare a tenement unfit for occupation until sanitary conditions were improved.

The committee in charge of the work of the district nurse, have kept a record of every visit made by the nurse and it shows that from 150 to 200 visits are made by Miss Russell each month.

The lowest fee ever charged by the nurse is 5 cents and the cost of a visit may run up to $4 or even more if ether is administered for an operation, but the most common fee is 25 cents. The nurse receives a regular salary and the fees received are turned over to the committee.

SCHOOL GARDENS.

The Education and Civic committee of the Quincy Women's club held a meeting at the club house Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Thomas Curley of the Massachusetts Civic League, was present to speak upon School Gardens and Playgrounds. He talked for some time upon gardens and then he was called away because of illness in his family.

For the short time that he spoke he had much to say that was of interest to these committees. He told of the growth of the work in Waltham. They came to Quincy when they wanted to start this garden work and they now have twelve hundred school gardens there. The movement has been of great benefit to the city. It has improved its appearance as neat homes with gardens about them must improve any city. It has taught the children to be thrifty besides developing respect for neighbor's gardens. It has taught them to love flowers and helps to make the community inviting.

The different men's and women's asociations have joined with the public spirited citizens to make the gardens successful. The Waltham Watch company gave $75 for prizes to the children having the best gardens.

He told how these gardens had been visited and inspected and how the parents' respect for the work grew with inspection.

He cited the case of one boy who made $35 on a garden which money enabled him to purchase clothes and take a vacation. He told of another boy who furnished his own table with fresh vegetables.

Mr. Barbour, Superintendent of schools was present and told of the garden movement in Natick. There the Village Improvement society assisted the garden work by giving financial aid. Then there were people of wealth who gave money to assist this work. Mr. Barbour told how some unsightly spots were made sightly by this garden work, and how much happiness came to the family with the interest in the children's gardens.

COMPROMISE BILL ON PEARY

Proposes Giving Gold Medal and Thanks of Congress

Washington, Feb. 16.—A bill to give Civil Engineer Peary, the discoverer of the North Pole, a gold medal and the thanks of congress, was introduced in the house by Representative Butler (Pa.), chairman of the sub-committee on naval affairs, which a few days ago reported adversely on a measure which had passed the senate to retire Peary with the rank of senior rear admiral.

This action by Butler followed a meeting of the full committee on naval affairs, which endorsed the action of the sub-committee in declining to recommend the discoverer for the rank of rear admiral, but which referred the whole matter back to the sub-committee with instructions to consider it further.

At the next meeting of the subcommittee the Butler bill will receive a favorable report, and the proposition to give Peary a gold medal and the thanks of congress will then be approved by the full committee and go before the house of representatives for action. It is believed it will be approved by that body without material opposition.

It was pointed out by members of the naval committee that even Peary's warmest admirers and most intimate friends should consider the action proposed by the Butler bill as substantial recognition, inasmuch as the thanks of congress carries with it the privilege of the floor of the house to the recipient and, in the case of a naval officer, adds ten years to the period during which he may receive the pay of an officer on the active list.

This would permit Peary to remain on the active list, so far as his pay is concerned, until 72 years of age.

The action of the full naval committee is the direct result of country-wide disapproval of the action of the sub-committee declining to give Peary any sort of recognition. The statements made by members of the committee belittling Peary's effort to reach the North Pole have called forth severe criticism from every section of the country and the decision of the full committee is generally recognized as being in response to that sentiment.

BOYS AGREED TO FIGHT

One Is Dying From Knife Wounds In Stomach as a Result

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 16.—Before a gathering of nearly 1000 mill operatives employed in the Pacific mills here last evening Walter McAvoy, 16 years old, was stabbed in the stomach three times by another boy. McAvoy is not expected to live.

McAvoy and the other boy, whose name the police refuse to make public, are both employed in the mill. The boys got into an argument and decided to fight it out later. At the end of the day's work the two boys left the mill and had hardly reached the street when the unnamed boy drew a knife and stabbed McAvoy three times in the pit of the stomach.

His assailant succeeded in making his escape and although a thorough search has been made by the officials of the foreign quarter, the boy is still at large.

STABLE FLOOR COLLAPSED

Chief of Lawrence Fire Department Is Perhaps Fatally Injured

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 16.—Chief James A. Hamilton of the fire department in this city was pitched from the loft to the cellar of a stable when the floor collapsed during a fire here late last night. He sustained contusions of the chest and internal injuries, and he is not expected to live.

Lieutenant Gibson, who was standing beside the chief at the time, also fell to the cellar and sustained a broken leg.

The cause of the fire is unknown, and damage is placed at $1000.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. OFFERED FAT JOB TO QUIT THE FIGHT

Hibbard Preferred to Run For a Renomination For Mayor

Boston, Feb. 16.—The Post says: It has leaked out in political circles that ex-Mayor Hibbard was offered a $10,000-a-year job for four years to quit the recent mayoralty fight.

The story, which gained considerable circulation at city hall, was confirmed by the ex-mayor himself in an interview with a Post reporter.

The proposition was put up to Hibbard by a prominent attorney, the offer being made in Hibbard's home when the ex-mayor was not simply a mayoralty candidate but was the chief executive of this city.

Who the attorney is or what the position that was picked for the mayor was, could not be learned. Hibbard declined to name the attorney, and said that he did not know what job the "would-be" briber had in mind for him.

WOOD HAS PARALYSIS

Operations on General's Head Have Not Proved Successful

Washington, Feb. 16.—General Leonard Wood, in command of the department of the east, may never be able to take his place as chief of staff of the army. Information has reached officials of the war department from Baltimore that the condition of Wood is such that he may never again be fit for active service. Paralysis has developed.

COPYRIGHT BY PACH BROS. N.Y.

GENERAL LEONARD WOOD.

The operations which have been performed on the general's head at Baltimore have not so far been so successful as he had hoped, and there is little chance that he will be relieved from the trouble which has afflicted him for many years.

The trouble is believed to have been caused when Wood was serving in Cuba. He arose hurriedly from his desk and struck his head against a chandelier.

IN UNOFFICIAL CAUCUS

Brockton Newspaper Man Named as Candidate For Congress

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 16.—William R. Buchanan, a local newspaper publisher, was the choice of an unofficial Republican caucus held here to select a candidate for the unexpired term of the late Congressman Lovering of the Fourteenth district.

Mr. Buchanan's selection removes from the field William H. Garfield and Edward H. Keith, who were defeated in last night's caucus.

His name will be presented to the Republican convention on March 5 as Brockton's candidate, providing the official caucus concurs in the informal meeting. This meeting is unique in Massachusetts political history.

The vote was: Buchanan 980, Garfield 566, Keith 221.

A PRECEDENT ESTABLISHED

Oklahoma Judge Will Not Permit Negroes to Serve as Jurymen

Muskogee, Okla., Feb. 16.—Because four of its members were negroes, a jury was dismissed by Judge Pitchford, in the district court at Wagoner. In excusing the negroes from duty, Pitchford said:

"The laws of Oklahoma provide that negroes shall ride separately in trains and street cars; that they shall attend separate schools and eat at separate tables, and I do not propose to insult white men by making them serve on the jury with negroes."

Negroes form one-half of the population of Wagoner county. Heretofore they have sat on juries with white men without question.

Nantucket Drought Is Lifted

Nantucket, Mass., Feb. 16.—Nantucket's valentine this year took the form of the right to sell intoxicants for beverage purposes. At the annual town meeting the voters declared in favor of license after a year of drought.

Kaiser to Sell Palace

Berlin, Feb. 16.—The kaiser has decided to sell the Achilleion palace at Corfu. He finds that it is too small to permit a long stay, and the cost of maintenance is too great for brief visits.

ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

Powerful Stimulants Restore Life to "Big Tim" Sullivan

New York, Feb. 16.—The heart of Timothy D. Sullivan, state senator, weakened and almost stopped beating while he was under the influence of an anaesthetic during the progress of an operation. Physicians who were at his side at the time say he was then at death's door, and that only the immediate application of restoratives and injection of strychnine and other powerful stimulants saved his life.

TIMOTHY D. SULLIVAN

Senator Sullivan underwent an operation for a chronic ailment that for more than a year has afflicted him seriously, although he never gave outward sign of his suffering. The operation was imperative to save his life. He has since improved greatly, but he is not yet out of danger. A physician is constantly at his bedside in a hospital where "the big feller" is today fighting to regain his strength.

FAITH AN ANTIDOTE FOR HUMAN WORRIES

Brooklyn Physician Prescribes It In Large Doses

New York, Feb. 16.—Faith in large doses is prescribed for bodily ills by Dr. Francis A. Hulst, a Brooklyn physician, in the current number of The Medical Brief, although at the same time he excoriates the philosophy of Christian Science as "rot," while approving of the mental attitude of the sect. Hulst is physician to two Brooklyn hospitals and pathologist to two others.

"Faith stimulates and energizes the body," he says. "It is the antidote to worries and the prophylactic against troubles. It matters not upon what it is based to produce the result. Just as one may be seriously frightened by an imaginary foe if he believes it to be real, so one is happy in an imaginary good provided his faith is equally strong. All that is necessary is a state of mental composure."

WHITE SLAVE EVIL

Commissioner Keefe Declares That It Is Fostered by Political Influence

Washington, Feb. 16.—The influence of politics is held responsible for "white slavery" conditions in several cities, in the report of Commissioner Keefe, who is advocating a new immigration law.

While no cities in particular are named, the report declares "the traffic is connected with local political conditions, and some of the municipal authorities are implicated or otherwise helpless to assist in eradicating the evil."

The federal government's powers, it is stated, are so limited as to make it essential if any marked progress is to be expected that the states and cities shall awake to the seriousness of the situation and exercise their co-operative authority to put down the evil.

ELEVATED TO PEERAGE

Honor Conferred Upon Herbert Gladstone, Son of the "Grand Old Man"

London, Feb. 16.—Herbert J. Gladstone, recently secretary of state for home affairs, and who through a recent appointment is to become governor general of British South Africa, has been elevated to the peerage.

Herbert J. Gladstone is in many ways a striking contrast to his father, William E. Gladstone, who more than once refused a peerage for himself. The latter was always a fighter, leonine and eagle-eyed, but the son is gentle almost to the extreme of shyness.

Smallpox on Cruiser Washington

Seattle, Feb. 16.—A wireless message from the armored cruiser Washington, on her way to Puget sound navy yard from Honolulu, states that there are five cases of smallpox on board and that the vessel will put in at the quarantine station at Diamond Point.

SIX THOUSAND MEN IN CHINESE MUTINY

Five Hundred Killed in Clash Between Troops and Police

Canton, Feb. 16.—Rioting has been resumed here, 6000 of the foreign drilled soldiers being in the mutiny. During the course of the desultory fighting about 500 of the mutineers were killed. The populace is not yet participating in the demonstration.

Petty troubles between the Canton police and the foreign drilled soldiery caused the first rioting in Canton last week. Though the situation was at first regarded as serious, local authorities believed they had matters well in hand. The city is still closed to foreigners.

MAINE DAY OBSERVANCE

Speakers on Warship's Hulk Plead For Removal of Wreck

Havana, Feb. 16.—The twelfth anniversary of the destruction of the battleship Maine was observed in Havana harbor with more elaborate ceremony than any anniversary since the tragedy. Hundreds of tourists and American residents visited the wreck.

On the hulk the service for the dead was read by Rev. Albion W. Knight. After this a bronze commemorative tablet from the Daughters of the American Revolution, a floral medallion from the Spanish War Veterans, a wreath from President Gomez and many other floral tributes were affixed to the wreck.

Addresses were made by Major Hale and Colonel Gihon, both of Boston, respectively the commander-in-chief and past commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, who came here for this purpose.

Several other speeches were made, and in all of them the earnest wish was expressed that this would be the last decoration of the wreck and that before the next anniversary this hulk would be completely removed and the dead within its shattered hull laid reverently in American soil.

NEGRO'S SIX-STORY FALL

Lands on His Head, Which Is Uninjured, and Breaks a Shin

New York, Feb. 16.—While helping his wife hang out the washing on the roof of his home in West Sixty-first street, Robert Wright, a negro longshoreman, fell through a skylight into an airshaft. His next stop was six stories below.

Wright landed on his head and broke his right shin. His head was entirely uninjured and at Flower hospital, to which he was taken, the surgeons said there wasn't much the trouble with the shin. Wright himself professed to believe that a little thing like a broken hone would not keep him from work and said he intended to report for duty today.

SWEEPING INQUIRY VOTED

Legislative Committee to Delve Into Southbridge Bank Stealings

Boston, Feb. 16.—The Southbridge Savings bank defalcation is to be investigated by a committee of the legislature under the sweeping provisions of the bank examination law which provides a fine of $10,000 or a jail penalty of three years for the person who fails to lay bare all the facts before the committee.

This was the vote of the leaders of the house and senate in the committee on rules after a sensational hearing in which Representative Lamoureux of Southbridge said that the depositors of Southbridge wanted an investigation because they believed that Hall was not the only person implicated in the defalcation. Ex-Representative Bazeley of Uxbridge stated that a legislative probe would reveal hidden plunder.

WROTE RAMBLING LETTERS

Governess Is Worried Into a Hospital by a "Little Yellow Man"

New York, Feb. 16.—Miss Augusta P. Mallet, formerly a governess in the home of Joseph W. Harriman, a nephew of the late E. H. Harriman, was committed to Bellevue hospital for observation on the complaint of Harriman and others, who testified that she had bombarded them with rambling letters.

In court Miss Mallet, who is 37 years of age, told an incoherent story of being persecuted by animal magnetism and hypnotism, and being constantly followed by "a little yellow man."

Damages For Injury by Light Bulb

Boston, Feb. 16.—Caroline Roy was awarded a verdict of $1950 against the Boston Elevated Railway company for injuries received by the bursting of one of the electric bulbs in a car in which she was a passenger. Her husband also recovered $50.

Paris, Feb. 16.—Rains have caused another slight rise in the Seine, which will probably continue for several days.

FIELD OF WOMAN

Washington Woman Teaches Vegetarianism to High Officials. Texas Has Only Woman Railroad Surgeon In America.

JUST now, while the boycott against meat on account of high prices is sweeping over the country, many thousands of families are trying to adapt themselves to a vegetarian diet. It is a difficult task both for the consumers and the cook to prepare purely vegetable meals after lifelong addiction to meats. There is a noted woman in Washington, wife of former Senator John B. Henderson of Missouri, who can give valuable suggestions to the self enforced vegetarians, and it may be that if they would follow her directions for a time they would not care to return to meat eating at all, no matter how low the prices fall. Mrs. Henderson is a vegetarian of long practice. She has converted many prominent persons to her theory. Among these is Wu Ting Fang, the recent minister from China. Mrs. Henderson made of Mr. Wu an enthusiastic vegetarian, and the Chinese diplomat declared he never felt so well in his life as he did after he got over the meat eating habit. Mrs. Henderson's vegetable feasts are famous. No meats in any form are served. No liquors are served either. Mrs. Henderson having practiced and preached teetotalism for many years.

MRS. JOHN B. HENDERSON.

Woman Railroad Surgeon.

Madam, how would you like to have a necklace—not a pearl necklace, but one made up of twenty-three bullets, each of which you had extracted from a wounded man? Don't shudder. There is a woman in Texas, Dr. Sophie Herzog of Brazoria, who possesses such a necklace, but probably she doesn't wear it on ordinary occasions. Twenty-two of the men upon whom she operated for gunshot wounds are alive and well to testify to her skill as a surgeon. Dr. Herzog is the only woman railroad surgeon in the United States. For years she has been chief surgeon for the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexican railroad. No sort of weather or other adverse condition deters her. She responds to calls at any hour in the twenty-four, going by locomotive cab, freight car, handcar or any other mode of transportation which promises to get her to the objective spot most quickly. The twenty-three men from whom she extracted her novel bullet necklace were shot during the exciting times when the railroad was being constructed through a somewhat rough country.

"First Lady" Americans.

The "first lady of the land" in Porto Rico is an American girl. Miss Margery Colton of Washington, and an unusually beautiful one. She is a sister of George R. Colton, recently appointed governor of Porto Rico. Miss Colton has gone to the island to preside over the governor's palace. She belongs to the younger social circle in Washington and is exceedingly popular. The young woman is an intimate friend of Mrs. Taft. She is not unfamiliar with life in our "colonial possessions," having spent some time in Manila when her brother held an official post in the Philippines. It is the prediction of Miss Colton's Washington friends that the bewitching senoritas and senoras of Porto Rico will find in their new first lady a charming leader. Another beautiful American woman, Lady Lowther, who was Miss Blight of Philadelphia, now presides as unofficial leading woman in the foreign society circles of Constantinople. Her husband, Sir Gerald Lowther, is the British ambassador to Turkey. They were married in 1905.

FRANCES WARD.

Woman Station Agent.

For twenty-five years Mrs. M. E. Read has been station agent for the Pennsylvania railroad at Ardmore, Pa. For ten years she did all the work herself, even handling the baggage. The town has grown much since she first began her work, and now there are men to do the heavy lifting incident to the position. Mrs. Read has made several recommendations for the improvement of the station facilities, which the railroad company has accepted.

TOWN TREASURER JAILED

Will Spend Two Years Behind Bars For Confessed Embezzlement

Bangor, Me., Feb. 16.—Betraying a public trust is worse than stealing from an individual, declared Chief Justice Emery in sentencing John F. Maloy, the former town treasurer of Mattawamkeag.

Maloy, who pleaded guilty to embezzling $900 of the town funds and $500 belonging to the American Express company, was given two years in jail.

Important Announcement
Howard Watches--No More--at $35
The above announcement means exactly what it says.

From Feb. 1st, 1910, The Howard Watch Co. has determined and made known to the Jewelry trade that their lowest price watch will be sold for $40.00 instead of $35.00. These watches has been the finest and highest priced watches for 65 years and when recently reorganized the price was dropped to $35.00 in a Fine Gold Filled Case. It is the intention to push their name and quality to its former Standard and keep their leadership in Complete High Grade Watches.

We are pleased to say that we have always carried this distinctive watch and shall sell those on hand at the former price

BRIEFS

Snow and colder is the prediction for Thursday.

The cruiser Des Moines, built at Quincy, has sailed from Port Limon for Bocas del Toro.

Mrs. George E. Drew celebrated her 51st birthday Tuesday evening at her home on South Central avenue. Many were present from all parts of Quincy and Mrs. Drew received several beautiful gifts.

Kate E. Finnemore was on Tuesday granted a divorce from Charles W. Finnemore, now under sentence for assaulting Wesley Grant at East Milton last year.

Sleighs were out early this morning, but the high temperature today has carried off most of the snow.

It is a pleasure to see the enthusiasm that is being manifested over the reception to President F. T. Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, to take place on Wednesday next. He may have other good news for Quincy on his return.

A sleigh ride to Mattapan was enjoyed Monday evening by the Baraca club and Busy Workers of the Swedish Baptist church.

John C. Murray, John L. Miller and others are attending the New York convention of Retail Monument Dealers at Albany. Quincy has a granite exhibit there.

The South Quincy Y. M. C. A. extension club hold their meeting tonight in the Water Street Presbyterian church vestry. The club is back on schedule again tonight, and after the Bible study classes a stereopticon lecture will be the program. The two farces which are to be presented by the club are progressing rapidly and will be given about the first of March. A full attendance is expected tonight and a most interesting time is anticipated.

DIVORCE LIBELS.

Several divorce cases were before the Norfolk Superior court on Tuesday.

Minnie D. Corliss of Quincy obtained a decree nisi for desertion from George L. Corliss of Westbrook, Me.

Stephen L. Harris of Quincy vs. Annie Harris of Boston. Decree nisi for desertion.

Charlotte G. Clough-Leighter of Brookline vs. Henry Clough-Leighter of Boston. Decree nisi for infidelity.

Mary E. Fanning of Wellesley vs. Augustus A. Fanning of Ploughkeepsie. Decree nisi for intoxication.

Helen Agnes Mansfield of Braintree vs. James Henry Mansfield of Rockland. Decree nisi for desertion.

May E. Merrill of Avon vs. Frederick Merrill of Boston. Decree nisi for desertion.

Kate E. Finnimore of Dedham vs. Charles W. Finnimore of Boston. Decree nisi for confinement of the libellee at state prison for more than five years.

Clara B. White of Avon vs. Herbert E. White (contested) on trial.

DEATHS.

EVERETT—In Quincy, Feb. 16, Dr. William Everett of Miller Stile road.

COOK—In Quincy, Feb. 15, Mr. Michael Cook, beloved husband of the late Catherine Cook, aged 78 years.
Funeral on Friday from late residence, 100 Brackett street, at 9.30 A. M. High mass of requiem at St. John's Catholic church at 10 A. M. Relatives and friends invited. 2t

EVANGELISTS AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

Yours on the firing line
Carl. Petrus Eklund.

The Evangelists Eklund and Eagle opened the revival in the Swedish M. E. church Tuesday night. A very good crowd attended. The singing and preaching were splendid. Judging from all signs, Quincy will have an enthusiastic time the next two weeks.

On Sunday afternoon Evangelist Eklund will lecture to men only at 3.30 P. M. This lecture has been given all over America with great success to thousands of men. In Boston two weeks ago this lecture was received with great enthusiasm by several hundred men. Meetings every night at 7.30.

HOW BASEBALL PLAYERS TRAIN.

Diamond Stars Must Work Hard Before Season Begins.

PRACTICE MANY HOURS DAILY.

Preliminary Work Gets Everybody In Shape For Opening Game—Spring Trips Very Costly—Training Season to Start Shortly.

By TOMMY CLARK.

The spring baseball training season is now at hand. Within the next few weeks the sixteen major baseball clubs will have their players batting the ball, running the bases, working to take off superfluous weight and undoing the crimes against good condition that have been wrought by a winter of idleness. In fact, many players are on their grounds now. Manager Johnny McGraw of the New York Nationals already has at work in Marlin, Tex., some of the pitchers upon whom he will depend in his efforts to have a championship team in Gotham this season. The coming of March is a signal for tilting the American landscape so that all big ball players who in the summer contribute to the excitement of the pennant races are sent flying to the different training camps to find the sunshine that is so essential in getting athletes in good condition.

Those who know the diamond heroes only by the work they do in August would not recognize the same men if they saw them laboriously striving to get in shape at the training camps. Work that is accomplished with lightning celerity in the height of the season is performed slowly, painfully, or not at all.

World's champion batsmen are unable to hit the curves of the bush leaguers, star catchers have not arms enough to throw the ball to second base, fleet outfielders hobble and limp at the protest of suffering muscles, and wonderful pitchers fall so far short of having their midsummer effectiveness that they are pounded not only by their own comrades, but by any minor league club that happens to be in the district of the tour.

Those who imagine that the professional baseball player is busy only a few months during the year and the rest of the time has it easy should see the teams at practice long before the season opens. The players go to work in the morning, like the average business man, and the way they are put through their paces sends them home at night footsore and weary and ready for bed soon after supper. The men start for the ball park after breakfast, and besides the games played with picked teams they practice running and throwing and batting.

Professional baseball today means weeks and weeks of training, just as the pugilist prepares for a match, and a player must have a strong constitution to stand the excitement and strain upon mind and muscle during the hard fought games. While the actual playing season is about six months long, from the middle of April to the first or second week in October, long before the race for the pennant starts the men are hard at work, and from then on to the last game played they earn every dollar they receive.

This early training is costly. Before the players assemble at the training headquarters the secretary and the ground keeper have gone on ahead to look after the playing field, the hotel accommodations, the advertising arrangements and the innumerable other minor details. With the team finally gathered together the work comes thick and fast. It costs a nice little figure to feed and house these healthy athletes, not including trainers, rubbers and other camp followers. Then there are big transportation bills and fair sized items for playing paraphernalia, which includes suits for home and out of town games, gloves, bats and balls and numerous sundries. The training trip is an expensive necessity, and the club is lucky if the preliminary games have paid half of the cost of the sojourn in the south and on the coast.

No other sport is as expensive as our national pastime. Some money is taken in at the gate by the exhibition games that are played en route, but it is safe to say that the big clubs spend every year about $150,000 on the spring training trips.

STONE CUTTER FIFTY YEARS.

Michael Cook of Brackett street, died on Tuesday at the age of 78 years. He was a resident of Quincy for about 60 years, and for over 50 years was a stone cutter. He first worked at the trade at Quincy Neck, and afterwards with C. H. Hardwick & Co. He enjoyed good health until about three days before his death. His wife died a few years ago and there are two daughters and two sons to mourn for him, Miss Mary A. Cook, Michael E. Cook, Philip D. Cook, and Mrs. Sarah A. Chrisom.

Since the establishment of St. Johns church he has been a prominent member and high mass of requiem will be celebrated at 10 A. M. on Friday.

Basket Ball, Base Ball and Bowling

The local High school basket ball quintet are going to be busy for a week or so for today they meet Rock Ridge Hall of Wellesley; on Saturday, Lynn English High school; on Tuesday next Newton High school, and Friday, Feb. 25, the Concord Preparatory school. Last Saturday Thayer Academy defeated Rock Ridge Hall by a score of 94 to 11. Here is hoping Quincy High makes it a 100.

The directors of the Quincy Old Colony League baseball club met last evening at their Water street rooms and talked over matters for the coming season. Manager Bjorkland was present and gave out plans and ideas he intends to introduce. A reserve list was made out and sent to Secretary Alger. Among last year's players reserved are: Lonergan, Strobel, Briggs, Murray and Bjorkland. Murray will undoubtedly catch again this year; Briggs may possibly be seen on the first station, and Lonergan will come into his own again, for he will be on third base. Bjorkland himself will play the outfield and with a good pitcher and other players promises to make all go to win out.

I received this in my mail this morning:

Dear Rube:—The following is intended for all those interested in the basket ball teams of the Quincy High School and the Thayer Academy.

The Thayer Academy basket ball team hereby challenges the Quincy High basket ball team to a game of basket ball to be played on any neutral floor, and under the supervision of impartial referees, the result of which game to go as the final season's standing between the two teams. All correspondence regarding this challenge should be directed to the Manager of the Thayer Academy basket ball team, South Braintree.

Again we must take our hats off to "Tommy" Nash of the Deweys. This time the popular manager announces that he has secured Dobbins of the Nashua, N. H., team to pitch for his champions during 1910. I saw this little south-paw win the championship from Rockland at Brockton in that great 12-inning wind-up by a score of 1 to 0, and can safely say he is the goods.

SPORTING NOTES.

The clubs represented at the Norfolk County base ball league meeting at Norwood were the Quincy, Hyde Park, Dedham, Holbrook, Randolph, Canton, Brookline, City Mills and Norwood. The Quincy delegates were J. B. Elcock, Joseph Ford, E. J. B. Desmond, and T. J. Sullivan and Mr. Sullivan will serve on the schedule committee.

The Washington Social club at their meeting this week elected these officers: President—A. B. Foster; vice president—Ernest Godfrey, secretary—G. Anderson, financial secretary— W. C. Caldwell, treasurer—A. L. Whitman, trustees—F. Tucker, F. Foster and H. Studley.

Harold F. Curtis, a graduate of the Quincy High, is one of the candidates for catcher of the Tufts College base ball team.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Vol. 24 No. 41 QUINCY, MASS., THURSDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 17, 1910 PRICE TWO CENTS

SCHOLAR OF NOTE AND PROMINENT LECTURER

Dr. William Everett Received Degrees from Several Colleges---Lawyer and Clergyman.

Became Known as Mugwump of Mugwump.

William Everett was born in Watertown, Oct. 10, 1839, and was the third son of Hon. Edward Everett. He was educated in the Cambridge High and Boston Latin schools, in Harvard College and Trinity College, Cambridge, England, graduating in 1863, and in the Dane Law School. He was admitted to the bar in 1866, but never practised law. In 1870 he was appointed tutor in Latin in Harvard College, and assistant professor in 1873, resigning this last in 1877.

While at Harvard, Dr. Everett in 1876 was nominated for the Legislature by Republicans of Cambridge, but felt obliged to decline the offer, as the State constitution at that time closed the Legislature to the faculty of Harvard College.

In 1872 he was licensed to preach by the Boston Association of Ministers, and occupied Unitarian pulpits in different parts of the country, as he did from time to time through later years.

Dr. Everett in 1878 was appointed master of Adams Academy in Quincy. He continued there till the permanent closing of the school.

Despite the demands made by the school in Quincy upon his time, Dr. Everett took active interest in many public affairs and his duties did not prevent his becoming greatly interested in the political life of the State and taking extreme positions on many subjects of national importance. From an ardent Republican, he joined the so-called "Mugwump" ranks in 1884 and in 1892 was elected to Congress as a "carpetbagger" in the seventh Massachusetts congressional district, as a Democrat. On the floor of the House, his inherited gift of oratory soon became manifest and his remark that one of the leading politicians in the country had been "deposited in a cavity" became a widely-known expression.

Dr. Everett, entered with his wonted enthusiasm and contributed of his time, talents and money toward support of the "Mugwumps." He wrote, he talked, he agitated. The dominating thought which gave impetus to his endeavor was that the Republican party could be saved, and saved only by the defeat of Blaine. Dr. Everett was still a Republican. When the designation "Mugwump" was applied to the dissentient Republican, he accepted it gleefully, and took pride in what was intended to be a term of reproach. "If to be a Mugwump," he said on one occasion, "Is to enjoy freedom of thought, and the right to differ with everybody in matters of detail, while holding fast to principle, I am a Mugwump of Mugwumps."

When this species of politician become well-night extinct, when the great majority of the valiant band of reformers had merged themselves with the Democracy under Cleveland's lead, Dr. Everett held out. Williams and Hoar, Andrew and Pierce, Codman, Storey and Quincy entered the Democratic party and became its most capable and trusted leaders, but the master of the Adams Academy still clung to his original declaration of independence, and "flocked all by himself" in the Mugwump camp.

Dr. Everett was one of the leading Latin and Greek scholars in the country and had few equals in his rendition of the classical literature of these two languages. He received the degrees of Bachelor and Master of Arts from Cambridge, while Williams College conferred upon him degrees of LH. D. and LL. D., and Dartmouth College gave him an LL. D. also. He was a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society. He never married.

Stories without number could be told of Dr. Everett's Lowell Institute lectures. His last course, given in October and November of last year was one of the most successful and his closing lectures and peroration will remain long in the minds of all that hea d it. Writing of this course in Transcript a reader said:

"Those who have been fortunate enough to hear the Lowell lectures on eighteenth century British orators must have greatly enjoyed Dr. Everett's treatment of the fascinating subject. The whole course has been most instructive, and it is a pity that the present condition of the lecturer's voice and health have necessarily limited the size of his audiences. Especially delightful was the last lecture of the series on Thursday evening. Nothing could be more charming than Dr. Everett's easy-flowing sentences as he sat in his chair and sketched the character and record of the younger Pitt. The close, when the lecutrer rose from his seat and gracefully traced the connection of our American orators with their British prototypes, was a scee not likely to be forgotten. It is to be hoped that the Lowell Institute will not acquiesce in Dr. Eve ett's prediction that this was to be his last public appearance upon their lecture platform. He is too popular and picturesque a character to be allowed to retire and seclude himself from the community."

The funeral of William Everett, L L. D., will be held tomorrow morning at 10.30 from the First church, where on many occasions he occupied the pulpit, and at other times presided in his unique and masterly way at the annual declamations by pupils of Adams Academy, and awarded to them prizes for scholarship. Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, the pastor will conduct the service. At 2.30 P. M. there will also be a service at the mount Auburn chapel at Cambridge to be conducted by Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham.

Since the closing of Adams Academy three years ago, Dr. Everett's health had been failing. In the fall of the same year he was chosen to deliver a course of lectures at Oxford, but he could not stand the climate of England, and was compelled to return to Quincy. He became a victim of consumption, but as long as health would permit he continued to lecture and write. Some years ago he was reputed to be worth over $100,000, but was unfortunate in investments. He owns the historic Miller estate on Elm street, Miller Stile road and Cherry avenue, containing about three acres, and through the kindness of the alumni of Adams Academy and friends enjoyed an annuity during the last years of his life.

OBERAMMERGAU.

An attraction of unusual merit will be the appearance of the American traveler, Mr. Henry Ellsworth and his pictorial reproduction of Oberammergau, its people an dtheir world famed Passion Play, at Music Hall, Friday evening, Feb. 25 under the auspices of the Quincy F. O. E.

Mr. Ellsworth's 304 marvellous views are the only ones in existence that have been shown to and endorsed by the villagers, performers and authorities at Oberammergau. Moving pictures were never taken of any scene in the Passion Play, and none will be shown. This is the same splendid attraction that had a run of 107 times in New York City, and now comes to Quincy with the highest indorsement from every Boston paper. Mr. Ellsworth, who will be here personally, has resided at Oberammergau every summer for ten years, and is considered to be the best authority in this country on the Passion Play. His 304 view are works of art, and pronounced by all to be the finest and most perfect now before the public. Mr. Ellsworth is personally acquainted with every performer in the Passion Play, and every man, woman and child in the village where he has spent nearly three years of his life. The Ellsworth views are the accumulation of ten trips to Oberammergau, and show everything pertaining to the people, the village and the Play. All the views were colored by Miss Louise Pollock, the noted colorist at Milan, Italy, and are correct in every detail. Mr. Ellsworth is an interesting talker, and his many experiences at Oberammergau are related in a manner that is both entertaining as well as instructive. Choir singers, cathedral chimes and colossal organ will be introduced in the beautiful church scene.

A NIGGER UNDER THE WOOD PILE

G. B. Bates Claims Grade Crossing Problem Must Be Settled Before Parkway Extension

Calls Upon People to Protest at Hearing Tomorrow

Editor of Daily Ledger:

Mayor Shea has petitioned for a special act of legislation known as House Bill No. 819, to authorize the Metropolitan Park Commission to complete the Furnace Brook Parkway in Quincy from Adams street to the Quincy Shore reservation and expend two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. The act to take effect upon the passage.

There is a Nigger under the woodpile, although on the face of the bill it appears to be a meek inoffensive but extravagant bill. We want to smoke this Nigger out, for there is a method in the madness and desperation of this bill at this particular and critical time, to complicate and confuse and cut off and stifle all the rights and voice of the City of Quincy and its people, relating to the grade crossing problem, which is inseparably intertwined with the Furnace Brook Parkway where it crosses the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. tracks which is now and has been for two years before the special commission for solution and is still pending.

The passage of this act, at this critical and dangerous time, would most decidedly jeopardize and deny the rights of the city of Quincy and its people, to appeal to the courts for a reopening of the case if there should be an adverse report of the special commission against the best interests of the city of Quincy and the city plans of depression. The passage of this bill would transfer the method of solution of the grade crossing problem into the hands of the Metropolitan Park Commission, which commission being a permanent commission created by the State, will do just as it pleases, and the city of Quincy would have nothing to say, and with two hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars in the hands of this commission, with the absolute power to take just what it wants and do just as it pleases and ask no questions, what earthly sight or chance would the city of Quincy have of preserving and guarding its rights, as recently said in an editorial of one of our dailies.

We might as well make up our minds to the fact that the State commission, being in absolute control, the city will have nothing to say about it. What do you think of that? These State commissions are great things for the people, and to think that our Mayor would petition and that our Representatives and Senator would advocate the passage of such an infamous bill, and deliver the city and its people into abject slavery and the jaws of vested interests, is beyond the comprehension of sane and just men. Shylock is demanding that pound of flesh; will our officials deliver the goods? Will Shylock get his pound of flesh, blood and all?

The cards have been stacked; will the citizens of Quincy allow the game to be played, or will the people of Quincy go to the hearing at the State House, room 240, tomorrow, Friday morning, Feb. 18, at 10.30, and protest against the passage of this infamous bill No. 819, for the following reasons:

1st.—Because it is untimely, injudicious and dangerous to the best interests of the City of Quincy.

2d.—Because the grade crossing question which has been before the special commission for the past two years is still pending and must be settled first.

3d.—Because the passage of this bill will allow the Metropolitan Park Commission to immediately proceed to construct and carry out the ideas of the parkway system regardless of the best and future interest or protest affecting the City of Quincy and its people.

4th.—Because we want our city officials, and Representatives and Senator if you please, to stand on their own bottom, for the people of Quincy propose to hold their officials to a strict accountability of their official acts and efforts relating to the parkway and the grade crossing problem and not allow them to duck or slip out through the back door of the Metropolitan Park Commission, and say, we didn't do it! We didn't create these proposed Chinese walls through our city! We didn't do it! It was the Metropolitan Park Commission who did it! Citizens come to the hearing at the State House tomorrow, and save our city.

G. B. BATES.

Quincy, Feb. 17, 1910.

BRIDGE HEARING.

Mayor Shea, Dock Commissioner Crane and the local representatives appeared at the hearing at the State House on Wednesday on the bill for the new bridge between Quincy and Neponset. Mayor Shea while not opposing the passage of the bill said that if passed in its present form, which was that Quincy should pay fifteen per cent. that he would not oppose. He however would oppose the bridge being built by a commission who should also apportion the cost. Representative Thomas opposed the proposition of Plymouth county, that they should not be called upon to pay any part of the cost. He argued that the bridge was largely used by teams and automobiles visiting Plymouth county.

—The mother of the twins found them fighting furiously, says the Housekeeper. Willie, the larger twin, was on top. He was beating Tommy about the face and head. "Why, Willie, how dare you, strike your brother like that!" cried the mother, taking the boy by the ear and pulling him off. "I had good cause to strike him," answered Willie. "What do you mean?" she asked. "Why" said Willie, with a righteous air, "didn't I let him use my sled all last Saturday on condition that he'd say my prayers for me all this week. And here I've just found out that he's skipped three days."

LADIES' NIGHT OF WOLLASTON MASONS

Fine Program of Music, Readings, Refreshments and Dancing Enjoyed.

Event Celebrated at Apartments of Rural Lodge.

More like a large family reunion than anything else was the ladies' night at Wollaston Masonic lodge on Wednesday evening. The affair was confined solely to Masons and their ladies, and a large part of the gentlemen present were members of Wollaston lodge. Each member constituted himself a committee of one on reception, and headed by Worshipful Master Walter S. Pinkham, saw that all were made welcome. Out of courtesy of Rural lodge and St. Stephens chapter, the reunion was held in the commodious appartments of Rural lodge in City Square but they proved none too large.

Special electric cars were run via Norfolk Downs and Wollaston, landing the guests at the door shortly before 8 o'clock, while special cars took them home at the close of the festivities.

The committee in charge were the master of the lodge, Walter S. Pinkham, Charles E. Monroe, Charles E. Cherrington, Wor. Albert W. Fay, Charles F. West and Alfred H. Richards.

The program of the entertainment was of high order and included music by Mullally's orchestra, original sketches, in dialect by Wor. Edwin D. Sibley of Somerville, and the Adelphi male quartette. The program was one of eight numbers but encores more than doubled that number. It was as follows:

Overture, Morning, Noon and Night, Suppe—Orchestra.
Come o'er the Sea, Bulard—Adelphi Quartet.
Reading, Original—Mr. Edwin D. Sibley.
'Cello Solo, Selected—Mr. F. L. Dotten.
Nellie Gray, West—Adelphi Quartett.
Narcissus, The Rosary, Nevin—Orchestra.
Reading, Original—Mr. Edwin D. Sibley.
Reveries, Storch—Adelphi Quartette.

The selections by Bro. Sibley were something new in the way of readings. They were quaint, dealing largely from incidents in real life and therefore a treat. The selections by the orchestra, especially those from the composition of Nevin and the 'cello solo was very fine. Of the quartette nothing but the highest praise can be given of their numbers. They freely responded to encores and all were greatly enjoyed.

Immediately after the entertainment a Boston caterer served salads and ices and then came dancing. The dance program was one that could not fail to please, for in addition to the usual waltz, two step and schottische there was a pentiful sprinkling of square dances to liven things up, and if anything were as fully enjoyed as the more modern ones. Dancing was continued until midnight and when at last it was time to go home it was with a general feeling that similar reunions should be held every year.

—The common drinking cup is barred on railroad trains and in public schools of Wisconsin by ukase of the state board of health. It should be banned everywhere. Common use is a common danger.—Boston Record.

FASHION IN GO-CARTS

OUR NEW 1910 STYLES are arriving daily. It seems strange to talk of fashion in GO-CARTS but this store is up to the minute in all the newest things. A few years ago the Go-Cart with parasol was all the rage, then came the English carriage, last year the little run-a-bout collapsible Go-Cart, and this year the most sensible thing we've had for years,

THE NEW AUTO GO-CART

It is larger than the collapsible, but smaller than a carriage, light, attractive and sanitary, comfortable, a sensible buggy top, reclining back, storm curtains, wonderfully attractive and not expensive. Bodies are either wood or reed and painted rich deep blue with yellow running gear, green with red gear, or all brown.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Do you realize how soon you will have to be putting in window screens?

Investigating the cost of living is getting to be a favorite amusement among congressmen.

Mr. Peter Devries, of Holland, has openly snubbed John D. Rockefeller. Crewel, crool man!

"Don't blame the dear old tariff" is the cry of Senator Cabot Lodge; the Senate throws up barricades the old "Standpatters" dodge.

Editors of papers that have little to say of meat prices are probably "sawing wood," with a view to starting a breakfast food factory.

He is a poor spender who complains about the high cost of living when a prize hen can be bought for only $12,000.

Rubber shoes are more expensive today than they ever were before, and yet they contain less rubber. The only answer is that the rubber trusts needs the money, of course.

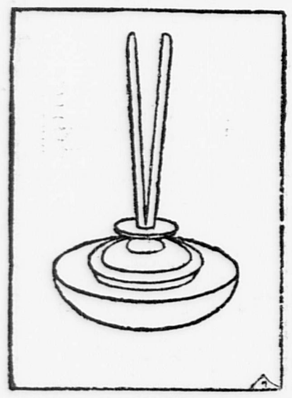

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., sat tight at home when he was not going courting and let his brother Kermit operate the gun and camera in Africa. Theodore, Jr., was out for a different kind of game than giraffes and hippopotami. What's a hippopotamus as compared with an American girl? The latter is much the more dangerous of the two animals, but paradoxical as it may seem, a much more desirable possession.

The President struck a stiff and sledge-hammer blow at the Wall Street gamblers last week, when he told them, "If the enforcement of the law is not consistent with the present methods of carrying on business, then it does not speak well for the present methods of conducting business." There are thousands and thousands of people in the United States who do not believe that any legtimate business is conducted in Wall Street.

SHOES ON THE PIANO.

Little Device Said to Be Superior to the Metal Caster.

A sliding shoe has been invented to take the place of the caster on heavy pieces of furniture, and it is said these may be used with the advantage that they do not mar the floor of its covering, whatever their character may be. They are especially recommended for polished floors. The device consists of a rounded button of porcelain or glass, fitted with a split spring stem, which prevents it from dropping out when the piece of furniture is lifted from the floor. The two parts are jointed by a ball and socket joint, by means of which the portion coming in contact with the floor is permitted to adjust itself to any irregularities of the surface over which it may be passing. These were originally made for use on pianos, so that the instruments might be moved around at will, but it has been found necessary to make them in a number of different sizes for different articles of furniture.

NATIVE AND FOREIGN BORN

Census Bureau's Instruction Regarding the Enumeration

What the census enumerators are required to learn regarding the place of birth of native-born and foreign-born persons, and other personal facts concerning the latter class ,in taking the Thirteenth United States Census ,beginning April 15 next, is fully set forth in the printed instructions prepared by the United States Census Bureau to guide then in filling the population schedule. It is pointed out that all the questions relat only to conditions existing on April 15, the "Census' Day."

On the subject of place of birth of a native-born person the instructions state that if the person was born in the United States the enumerator is to give the State or Territory (not city or town) in which born.

Relative to conjugal condition, the enumerators are to report whether the person is single, married, widowed, or divorced. Married persons are to be asked if they have been married before. If the present marriage is the first ,the fact is to be indicated by the sign "M 1;" but if it is the second or subsequent marriage, then the enumerator is to write "M 2," meaning married more than once.

The question calling for the number of years of the present marriage is declared by the Census Bureau to apply only to persons reported as married, and the answer should give the number of years married to the present husband or wife. Thus a woman who may have been married for 10 years to a former husband, but has been married only 3 years to her present husband, should be returned as married 3 years. The number of years entered should be the number of completed years. A person who on April 15, the "Census Day," has been married 3 years and 11 months should be returned as married 3 years. For a person married less than 1 year, the entry is to be "0," meaning less than 1 year.

In the case of persons speaking Polish or reporting that they were born in Poland, which is no longer an independent country, the enumerator is to inquire whether the birthplace was in what is now known as German Poland, or Austrian Poland, or Russian Poland, and he must write the answer accordingly as Poland (Ger.), Poland (Aust.), or Poland (Russ.).

If the birthplace reported is Canada, the enumerator is required to ask whether the person is of English or French descent and write Canada (Eng.), or Canada (Fr.), according to the answer.

The question calling for the year of immigration to the United States applies to all foreign-born persons, male and female, of whatever age. It should be answered, therefore, for every person whose birthplace was in a foreign country. The enumator must enter the year in which the person came to the United States. If he has been in the United States more than once, the year of his first arrival is to be stated.

The inquiry whether naturalized or alien applies only to foreign-born males 21 years of age and over. It does not apply to females, to foreign-born minors, or to any male born in the United States. If the person was born abroad, but has become a full citizen either by taking out second or final papers of naturalization or through the naturalization of his parents while he was under the age of 21 years, the enumerator is to write "Na" (for naturalized). If he has declared his intention to become an American citizen and taken out his "first papers," the enumerator is to write "Al" (for alien).

The inquiry as to the ability to speak English applies to all persons 10 years of age or over. If English is spoken, the enumerator must write "English "in the proper column. If the person enumerated is not able to speak English the enumerator is required, in such cases only, to write out the name of the language spoken, as Swede. German, Italian, etc. If more than one language is spoken by a person who, however, does not speak English, then the enumerator is to write the name of that language which is his native language or mother tongue.

HOPE FOR NINA IS ABANDONED

Navy Department Thinks Tug Foundered Some Days Ago

Washington, Feb. 17.—Hope of learning the fate of the tug Nina has been practically abandoned by the United States navy and her loss will probably go down in history among the mysteries of the sea.

In the opinion of the navy department she foundered, carrying down her entire crew of thirty-two men, at some point between Hog island, where she was last reported, and Winter Quarter shoals light vessel, off the coast of Delaware, on Feb. 6 or 7, only a few hours after she left Norfolk on her fateful voyage.

Statements to that effect were made by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Winthrop in response to several inquiries by telegraph from the friends of the unfortunate crew.

The commandant of the New York navy yard telegraphed the navy department that the vessel sighted off Montauk Point, L. I., last Sunday by the whaleback steamer Bay View was the naval tug Apache, and the mystery surrounding the fate of the unfortunate Nina became as deep as ever.

The zone of search having been reduced to the territory between the Virginia Capes and Fenwick island, a short distance up the coast from Winter Quarter shoals, the department is awaiting reports from the battleship Louisiana and the scout cruiser Salem, which are patrolling those waters.

No word was received from either vessel Wednesday, and if reports from them today indicate that the investigation has been fruitless, the active search will be abandoned. A sharp lookout will be kept, however, as long as there is a chance of finding any trace of the tug.

Even if the Nina is given up as lost it may be several months before her name is stricken from the list of naval vessels. It is recalled that the old Vincennes, a sloop of war, which was lost in the Pacific, was carried on the rolls for a year after her reported loss.

WANTED TO BE AN ACTRESS

Niece of Senator Elkins Attempts Suicide In Kansas City Hotel

Kansas City, Feb. 17.—Miss Agnes Elkins, a niece of United States Senator Elkins of West Virgina, shot herself in her room at a local hotel.

The bullet passed through her body below the heart. The physicians believe she has a chance for life.

A note found on the dressing table read: "I am tired of life and have no home or friends."

Miss Elkins is 25 years old. Her mother died about a year ago and shortly afterward she went to New York against the wishes of relatives in this city to apply for an engagement on the stage.

Senator Elkins induced her to visit him at Elkins, W. Va., but could not change her determination to become an actress.

AT SALARY OF $25,000

Ban Johnson Is Again Chosen Head of American Baseball League

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Byron Bancroft Johnson was re-elected president, secretary and treasurer of the American league at a salary said to be $25,000 a year at the closing session of the annual schedule meeting.

The agreement under which the league has existed since November, 1900, was renewed for a period of twenty years. Uniform tickets with rain check coupons, practically the same as now in use in the National league, were adopted.

A schedule of 154 games, opening on April 14 and closing on Oct. 9, was unanimously adopted.

BIG CANNED EGG SEIZURE

New York Pure Food Inspectors Condemn Twelve Hundred Pounds

New York, Feb. 17.—Canned eggs, 1200 pounds of them in twenty-four cans, were seized for condemnation by federal inspectors in a storage plant in Greenwich street.

The eggs arrived in New York from Chicago in September last. Under the provisions of the food and drugs act, the inspectors held the mass as unfit for human consumption.

This is the second big seizure of canned eggs since the investigation of cold storage plants was started in consequence of the high cost of commodities.

Senator Tillman Stricken

Washington, Feb. 17.—Senator Tillman of South Carolina was taken suddenly ill on the steps of the Capitol and had to be carried into his room. Later he was removed to his home, where he is now under the care of a physician.

COURT HOUSE ARGUMENTS

Prospects Bright for a Favorable Report

The Board of Trade and others who are behind the movement to secure a County Court house for Quincy, are much encouraged since the hearing at the State Houses on Wednesday, for the Committee on Counties seemed to be favorably impressed, and will make an early visit to Quincy.

In brief the arguments presented were these:

Representative L. F. R. Langelier spoke briefly in favor, but had to hurry for a hearing by his own committee.

Representative W. R. Thomas favored the bill. He said the Board of Trade, and indeed all the influential business men of Quincy endorsed the movement. Present building only leased, and we may have to pay more rent on new lease. A growing city of 30,000 should have some provision made for the future, and have better quarters. Would leave it for the Mayor and Board of Trade to handle

Mayor Shea said that if funds did not warrant its immediate construction we could wait a year or two, simply asking now to have it built in the near future. People now have to go 18 or 20 miles to get to Dedham. The surrounding towns have a population of 65, 000, and a valuation of $80,000,000, and should be accommodated decently. He believed it was the wish of practically all the professional and business men of the city.

A Selectman of Milton asked if provision is made for Superior court and was answered not at present.

Judge A. E .Avery said that question should appeal to the Committee on Counties. Many counties have had new buildings recently. Probate court is held in Quincy frequently. The Juvenile court needs separate rooms. The judge dwelt on the importance of privacy. These hearings should be held quietly, and witnesses should be in separate rooms. The Court business is increasing, 2,200 criminal cases being disposed of last year. There was barely room enough when these quarters were engaged,but now very much cramped. Not room enough for the Probation officer or lawyers. He considered that $2,500 was too much to pay for it. One great objection is the noise—a furniture establishment, music school and phonographic salesroom being in the same building. Soon the demands of the District Court will require extra quarters. At present the judge has to walk through the crowd and the length of the court room to the bench Court room should be built in contemplation of future needs. Probation officer had 440 cases last year. Amount collected for support of deserted wives was $1,700, and $2,200 was collected in fines. At present there are 500 on probation.

Lawyer Tirrell thought Judge Avery had been altogether too modest in speaking of the annoyance and inconvenience that he had been subjected to.

Lawyer John W. Mackay emphasized at length all that had been said. The landing and corridors are the only places where lawyers and clients could converse. Present quarters intolerable. Much litigation in and around Quincy.

James F. Burke wished to know if the treasury could stand it, and was told that it could. Thought that if $100,00 was too much, perhaps $75,000 would do. Quincy is a rapidly growing city, and the purpose of this bill is only to accommodate the rapidly increasing volume of business.

County Commissioner John F. Merrill did not wish to be considered as opposing the bill but thought Sec. 2 should be changed. The County Commission is responsible to the people, and they should have full charge. A large committee is always unwieldy. However, he would desire the co-operation of these gentlemen.

A rising vote was taken and nearly everyone present stood up in favor of the bill.

Mr. Pierce for the Selectmen of Milton thought it would benefit Quincy more than the other towns, but was willing to acquiesce if it was absolutely necessary. Mr. Pierce appeared to be the only remonstrant.

MODERN HAIR DRESSING

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Why William C. Procter Declines to Reconsider His Gift to Princeton.

William Cooper Procter of Cincinnati, an alumnus of Princeton university, who recently offered that institution $500,000 for a graduate college, but which was not accepted on account of certain restrictions, says that his gift to Princeton will not be reconsidered.

"All of us have a certain amount of pride, and I consider it would be humbling myself to return this gift to the university now," he said the other day. "I am a loyal Princeton man—in fact, I don't know of a single place in this country except my home that I revere any more than my alma mater. But just the same it cannot receive the money.

"I had a purpose in offering the gift —one which would have placed the graduate school of Princeton far ahead of any other in this country. That was why I offered it the money.

"A matter of nation wide dissension has sprung up, much to my surprise and regret, over this gift, and I am placed in the peculiar and unpleasant position of a man whose offer is questioned. The matter is closed for all time, and nothing can shake my determination in this."

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

The Lincoln Day exercises at the Quincy High last Friday were very pleasant and appropriate. They were for the school and by the school Artemus Dingwell, in his recitation of Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech, brought out the meaning clearly and eloquently. The selected anecdotes concerning Lincoln presented by Dwight Gearwar, Marion Rand, Paul Blackmur, and Margaret Hall showed the broad-sided character of Lincoln in new lights. The concise portrayal and summary of Lincoln's character written by Frank E. Parlin, former superintendent of schools, was read by Alfred Hanson. "Captain, O my captain," was read in a most pleasing manner by Miss Juanita Metherall. The expression was excellent although by the sudden inability of the scholar chosen at first to read the part she had but a very short time to prepare herself. During the exercises. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "America" were sung. A most cleverly drawn picture of Lincoln by Clara Bushnell adorned the platform. Credit is reflected to the school for having one of such ability in its midst.

This was the first time the school has assembled since Mr. Howlett became principal so his remarks were confined to welcome and suggestions for the welfare of the school. That he was cordially welcomed into the school was evidenced by the prolonged applause as he arose to speak. In his suggestions he showed he has searched to the roots for the needs of the school and grasped them. As these recommendations are carried into effect the school will benefit much by them. Another fact evidenced was his intense desire to be, not only a master of the pupils, but also a friend, a confident outside as well as inside of school.

Friday evening the Sophomores commenced their social events with a reception to the Juniors. A committee including Eleanor Whittemore, Juanita Metherell, Bessie Dorley, Dora Staples and Avis Tobey planned and made arrangements for this reception. Chaperoned by Miss Evaline A. Salsman and Miss Mary A. Brown, about fifty couples enjoyed dancing from 7.30 to 10.30. A number of the teachers and Mr. Howlett were present as guests. Punch was served throughout the evening. The gymnasium was so decorated that the bare appearance of the walls was covered. As this reception took place near Valentine's day, hearts and other valentine decorations were in evidence.

Tuesday, Feb. 22d the two Newton teams meet the Quincy High at basket ball. The tickets will be twenty-five cents to outsiders and fifteen cents to Quincy High pupils. Season tickets will admit. This game bids fair to be one of the best and hardest fought of the season. The home five was beaten by this team about a month ago at Newton 32 to 13. But, with the practice gained in the games since then, and now playing on their own floor, Quincy expects to reverse the score or at least win. Still it recognizes that it must show up the goods.

Quincy High will be represented at the B. A. R. Interscholastic meet next week. A relay team composed of Charles H. Kendall, Harold Miller, Everett Prout, Estey, and others will run. Franz Marceau expects to win the mile event and also to break the record of 4m. 43s. He should be able to lower the record for at the Providence meet he ran much faster than that, doing the mile in 4 m., 27s.

The leading article in the Journal of Education for Feb. 3 is a symposium conducted by Frederic Allison Tupper of Brighton on "Moral training in the public schools. Mr. Tupper was headmaster at the Quincy High previous to Charles F. Harper. In his introductory Mr. Tupper says in part: "It must be borne in mind, that the 'child' of educational theories does not exist. There actually are children. Averages are meaningless, when applied to human nature, every living, breathing unit of which is unique. Consider for a moment the magnitude of the task set before the American teachers. Think of the number of the pupils, each in a somewhat different stage of evolution. Then tell me' Is it harsh and purely theoretical critism that these long-suffering teachers deserve or as it sympathetic and intelligent co-operation? The task of the American teachers are enough to strain the ability of the greatest genius ever created. Such tasks cannot be lightened by the theoretical advice of non-participating stockholders in the public schools. When the Back Bay says to the North End teachers, You are doing everything wrong, the North End teacher may fairly reply, then join our ranks, and teach us better, if you can."

Supt. Albert L. Barbour of this city, and former superintendents George I. Aldrich and Frank E. Parlin have signed a communication to the executive Education of the National Education Association endorsing the invitation to meet in Boston in July. In 1903 there was an attendance of 34,000 at the convention in Boston.

The Cleveland Leader comments as follows on American common schools: In 1870 American considered their country far advanced in respect to its common schools. They believed that it was providing well for the education of the children who would have to run the affairs of the nation when they grew up. The school system was the pride of the country. Since that date the population of the United States has increased 123 per cent, but the number of pupils enrolled in the public schools has gained over 150 per cent, and the average daily attendance has risen almost 200 per cent. Moreover, the number of days in the school year is 15 per cent greater than it was in 1870, taking the average for the country as a whole. The schoolhouses and the teachers have much more than kept pace with the growth of the population, and the expenditure on the public schools is five times as great as it was when the population was half as large as it is now. There is still need of progress, especially in some backward sections, but the growth of the common school system is justly regarded as one of the best proofs of American safety, common sense and ability to meet the demands of the future however heavy they may be. A country which takes such good care of its children will find them able and willing to take care of its own vital interests, in the coming years.

EXPECTED ON TUESDAY

President Bowles Now on High Seas Homeward Bound

Word has been received that President Francis TiffanyBowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company has sailed from England, and that he is due to arrive at New York next Monday, He should reach Boston on Tuesday and may come to Quincy on that day. He has been apprised of the grand reception which the business men are planning for him on Wednesday evening, and is pleased that the company is to receive such recognition from the city.

Final arrangements for the reception and banquet will be made at the meeting of the general committee on Friday evening, but everything is progressing finely. There have been an unusual demand for tickets, and the limit of the hall will probably be reached. The reception will be imformal.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Business agent—Thomas Rogan.

SUIT AGAINST CITY.

A number of city officials and employes were summoned to Dedham on Wednesday as witnesses in the case of John M. O'Brien against the city. This is the case where O'Brien is suing for salary as an inspector in the Sewer department. O'Brien claims that he was appointed under the civil service rules by Commissioner Burke. That the following year he was told by Commissioner Bainbridge he was not wanted further, or that when he was again wanted he would be sent for. At that time work on the sewer had been stopped for the winter.

Sometime later work was resumed on the sewer but O'Brien was not put to work, but another man appointed under the civil service rules. While the case was not reached Wednesday at Dedham it is understood that O'Brien's claim is that he was a civil service appointee, and that he was not legally discharged, and he seeks to recover back salary for a year or more.

—Mrs. Mandanna Miller, who recently finished working at the watch factory after completing 46 years of service was the oldest woman employee of the company, having reached the age of 78. During the 46 years she has worked in the plate department Mrs. Miller has been employed in drilling holes. The largest sized drill she has used is .224 centimeter, or about 9-100 of an inch. Allowing four holes to a single plate, Mrs. Miller could average 400 plates an hour. That means that she could bore 1,600 holes of minute diameter every hour. —Kennebec Journal.

EVANGELIST HIT THE BACK SLIDERS

HILDING EAGLE.

Rev. Eklund gave the people a very straight talk last night at the reviva at St. Paul's church. His text was, "So it is your father's good will that not one of these little ones should perish." The church was well filled and both evangelists sang impressive solos. They both have very good voices which carry well to all hearers.

Rev. Eklund said in part: "The church of God is still discussing the question, which is grieving the Saviour's heart, 'which one of us is greatest.' This weakens and protestantism curses the church into inactivity while our children are slipping through our hands heading for perdition. Let the church of God forget the little insignificant differences and rally around the cross for service."

The evangelist hit infidelity and lack of home religion until people ducked behind the pews for cover." He cried out "I don't care what you think of me just so I can rub in enough carbolic acid into some of you miserable backsliders to keep you awake all night in agony over your miserable and blacksliders condition."

Tonight service at 7.30 both Messrs. Eklund and Eagle will sing. Mr. Eklund's sermon will be a red hot gospel talk on "Faith." The evangelists sell their own songbooks, a beautiful collection of both Swedish and English songs.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

COMMENTS ON CURRENT EVENTS.

Editor Daily Ledger:

You say truly that, even if he has personal interests to serve, Mr. G. B. Bates is taking a commendable stand on the railway crossing question. When the problem is solved it will be for all time, and it behooves us to solve it aright. It appears that the only argument against depressing the tracks is the cost. The argument is insufficient, when considered in the light of the safety of life and limb that would be insured by depression. Mr. Bates' utterances on this subject may sound to some like the voice of one crying in the wilderness and he may be unable to arouse the citizens of Quincy to a realization of the merits of the plan he advocats; but he will have the satisfaction that comes from consciousness of duty performed. The most "depressing" thing about the grade crossing question is the lamentable lack of interest that the people generally have taken in it. They will do their thinking (and talking) after the procession has passed.

The Board of Trade deserves the gratitude of the community for the excellent manner in which it has presented its claims for a court building to the Legislative committee. I am informed that a member of the committee remarked to a newspaper man after the hearing that a case in court could not have been presented more intelligently. This was due in a large measure to the plan of procedure laid out by the president of the Board, assigning a part to each of the speakers. Mr. Stone has proven himself to be a good deal of a brick.

The death of Dr. Everett removes a man who had little use for the present system of education in our schools. He felt that too much time and attention were bestowed on subjects of doubtful value at the expense of studies of indisputable worth. He leaned strongly toward those studies that are comprised under the term "humanities." His closing words to the last class that he graduated at the Adams Academy indicate what his conception was of the true end of education. I wish we could have the language verbatim. I quote from memory:

"Unless I have taught you to follow truth, even if it lead to the scaffold; unless I have taught you that you are under the eye of your heavenly Father, even when alone on a desert; then my work has been in vain." Spectator.

KNIGHTS AND LADIES.

The annual visitation of Grand Protector Parker and board of grand officers and of Deputy Carrie L. Ingram and suite to Maple lodge, K. and L. of H., was held Wednesday evening, and was the occasion of a large gathering of members and visitors. Among the visitors were members from lodges at Boston, Brockton, Somerville, Medford and other places. After the business session remarks on the aims and objects of the order, its growth and other matters of interest were made by the grand officers. Then an adjournament was fade to the adjoining hall where refreshments were served. This was followed by dancing and a social hour. One of the amusements of the evening was a bowling match, the winners being Mrs. Sarah J. McDonnell, Miss N. M. Cate, Charles Crane and Horace Totman.

—Cuba has gone through the year without pestilence and disorder. A third of its children are at school, where a sixth were ten years ago. Illiteracy is disappearing and is far below Spain today. The Cubans neglect the ballot. At the election in December, 1908, only 260,000 votes were cast out of 420,000, but as education spreads, public spirit will grow. Cuba already shows what every Spanish-American country will become, as it has like oportunity.—Philadelphia Press.

Danderine

Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

EVERYBODY CAN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR NOW, and they don't have to wait weeks and months for results either. You will notice marked improvement after the very first application.

Danderine is quickly and thoroughly absorbed by the scalp and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities. It is pleasant and easy to use—simply apply it to the scalp and hair once a day until the hair begins to grow, then two or three times a week till desired results are obtained.

A lady from California writes in substance as follows:
I have been using your wonderful hair tonic for several months and at last I am now blessed with a wonderful suit of hair that measures over 48 inches in length; the braid is over 8 inches around.

Another from New Jersey:
After using sixth bottle I am happy to say that I have as nice a head of hair as anyone in New Jersey.

This Great Hair-Growing Remedy can now be had at all druggists in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Cut This Out — Free To show how quickly Danderine acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this free coupon to the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10c in silver or stamps to pay postage.

PEARY STAFF REAR ADMIRAL

New Measure Introduced by Moore of Pennsylvania

Washington, Feb. 17.—The friends of Robert E. Peary in congress will not rest content with the decision of the house naval committee to award the Arctic explorer a vote of thanks and award him a gold medal.

Representative Moore (Pa.) introduced a resolution retiring Peary as a civil engineer with the rank of rear admiral and also giving him a vote of thanks by congress. Moore's bill is drafted along the lines suggested by Secretary Meyer, whose objection to the bill introduced by Representative Allen (Me.) was that it made Peary a line officer.

CONGRESSMAN MOORE.

The secretary is on record as favoring a promotion to the grade of rear admiral for the discoverer of the North Pole, and it is regarded as certain that no opposition to the Moore bill will be encountered at the navy department. It is believed, also, that Senator Hale would accept the Moore bill as a substitute for the one introduced by him and passed in the senate in order that there may be no unnecessary friction.

The greatest difficulty will be encountered in the house naval committee. It is known that Representative Roberts will vigorously oppose any proposition seeking to promote Peary in the service, regardless of whether the legislation proposed makes him a line officer or promotes him as a staff officer.

Richmond P. Hobson, a member of the house naval committee, expresses the opinion that the substitute bill which will soon be reported by the naval committee giving Peary the thanks of congress and awarding a gold medal will confer the highest honor congress could possibly give to any man, however great his feat.

"We have scores of rear admirals," said Hobson, "but you can count on the fingers of your two hands those who have been given the thanks of congress. Peary could not have greater recognition at the hands of his countrymen. The thanks of congress means the thanks of the entire nation, and that should satisfy any man."

The bill which will be reported from the committee will not, as had been supposed, automatically promote Peary to the rank of captain. It would allow him to remain in the service ten years longer than the age limit fixed by law, at the end of which time Peary would undoubtedly have reached the rank of captain, but he would have to remain in the service and wait for promotion in regular order before reaching that rank.

Peary's friends do not believe that he will take advantage of the ten years extension of service. By next October he will have served in the navy for thirty years and will be entitled to retire, a course which he will undoubtedly follow, inasmuch as he is anxious to accept invitations to appear before geographic and scientific bodies throughout the world.

REFORMERS SUBMERGED

Philadelphia Republican Organization Corrals Even Minority's Places

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.—Reform received its hardest blow in the municipal election here when the Republican organization swept the city. For the first time since the reform movement in Philadelphia has amounted to anything not a reformer was elected to city councils or to the board of magistrates.

The greatest feat of the organization was the election of men it had selected for minority representation on the magistral board. Fourteen magistrates were elected, but under the law no elector could vote for more than nine, thus giving the minority parties a chance to choose the other five. The Republican organization elected its own nine members by big majorities and threw enough votes to five other candidates it had selected under the party title of "Workingmen's League" to also elect them. The Republicans re-elected Hugh Black as receiver of taxes by a majority of 102,000 over the reform candidate.

ONE IS 116 YEARS OLD

Jewish Institution In New York the Home of Five Centenarians

New York, Feb. 17.—There are three women and two men who have all passed the century mark in the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, an East Side institution for the aged.

This was made known in the annual report of the board of directors, read at a dinner tendered Judge Otto Rosalsky of the criminal courts in honor of the service he has rendered the home.

Mrs. Esther Davis, the oldest inmate, is 116 years old. The others are: Mendel Diamond, 108 years old; J. Krivlin, 103; Mrs. Bessie Kalmanson, 102, and Mrs. Rachel Marcus, 101.

DEMANDS PATIENTS' BLOOD AS PAYMENT

Doctor Who Checks Cancer Accepts No Financial Reward

Washington, Feb. 17.—Stories of a doctor who cures cancer for a fee of a quarter of the blood of the patient are interesting physicians here. The doctor is Dr. Hodenpyl of Roosevelt hospital, New York. The patient who tells the story is Mrs. J. L. Faben of this city.

Dr. Hodenpyl will accept no money fee for his anti-toxin treatment, but exacts a bond that if the patient apparently is cured, at some later time he shall yield a quarter of his own blood to be used in the treatment of future patients.

In Roosevelt hospital Mrs. Faben became enmeshed in a new cancer philosophy. Impregnated blood was injected into her veins so powerful that immediate effects were visible. In ten days she returned home with new health and strength, thoroughly convinced she had been cured. Before she left New York she also signed the "blood bond."

SOLD "LOVE POTIONS"

Popular Pittsburg Doctor Finally Gets Into Clutches of the Law

Pittsburg, Feb. 17.—Dr Robert Brazett, who for years has been popular as a physician, was placed under arrest, charged with a misdemeanor—selling "love philters" to persons of both sexes and well up in Pittsburg's social scale.

The police assert that if the names of Brazett's patients which they have in their possession were made public it would create the sensation of decades.

According to testimony offered by victims of the physician, Brazett promised that one of his love potions administered to man or woman would cause that person to love the one who furnished the potion.

SLIDING SCALE DOOMED

Fall River Textile Workers to Present a Modified Agreement

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 17.—A possible increase in wages for Fall River's thousands of cotton mill operatives was forecasted last night by the action of the five great textile unions, which unanimously at separate meetings voted to refuse to renew the sliding scale agreement now in force.

With a single exception, the unions accepted a modified agreement presented by the textile council. This modified agreement will be presented to the manufacturers, who have until Feb. 28 to consider it.

FORCED INTO WHITE SLAVERY

Amazing Story of Daughter of a Venezuelan Diplomat

New York, Feb. 17.—Charges that the officials declare are astounding in relation to the white slave traffic, and which will lead to the arrest of a young man she accuses, are contained in an affidavit signed in the district attorney's office by a girl describing herself as Elsie Wright, but who in reality is said to be the talented daughter of a prominent Venezuelan diplomat.

A warrant has been issued for the young man she accuses of holding her in bondage. He is said to be a member of an organization of young men who make a living by this method.

The Venezuelan consul has been notified of the revelations made by the girl, and has cabled the facts to the man she declares to be her father.

The girl, who was arrested in an apartment in West Sixty-fifth street, has asserted that she was forced into a life on the streets at the point of a revolver soon after she came to New York city from Venezuela to take a place in the chorus at one of the opera houses here. She declares she was lured to this city by a promise of a career on the stage, but found that she had been deceived.

She has lived in constant fear of being killed by the man she accuses, she declares, and she bears marks which she asserts were received in beatings which he gave to her.

Miss Wright was arraigned in Jefferson Market night court after her arrest, and in view of her youth and apparent remorse she was placed on probation in the custody of a court officer by Magistrate O'Connor.

Some of the persons prominent in the white slave inquiry were in court at the time of her arraignment, and the girl's distress moved them to a further investigation of her case. Her lips at first were sealed by fear, but upon being assured that no harm could come to her she told her story.

She declared she had come to New York city from Venezuela and had gone to a respectable boarding house in the West Eighties. Soon after her arrival here she met the man whom she accuses, and he compelled her with threats of death to go to the flat in West Sixty-fifth street. When she refused to go on the street in compliance with his directions he threatened her with a revolver, she charges.

FUTURE PLANS UNCERTAIN

Roosevelt Delays His Journey to Have Another Hunting Expedition

Gondokoro, Soudan, Feb. 17.—Until Colonel Roosevelt reaches Khartoum it will be impossible to outline with any degree of accuracy his plans for his visit to the European capitals.

The ex-president was due here yesterday, but owing to his desire for a hunting expedition for elephants and giant elands on the Congo side of the Bar-el-Jabel, which will occupy a day or more, he will not reach Gondokoro until tonight or Friday.

The trip down the Bar-el-Jabel and the White Nile will then begin. A short stop will be made at Khartoum, where Mrs. Roosevelt will meet her husband. The voyage down the Nile to Cairo will be made leisurely.

Lawrence Firemen Out of Danger

Lawrence, Mass., Feb. 17.—Fire Chief Hamilton, who received serious injuries when he fell from the loft to the cellar of a stable during a fire, is now out of danger. At first it was feared he could not survive. Lieutenant Gibson, who also fell from the loft, breaking a leg, is also recovering.

Big Cargoes of Coal

Boston, Feb. 17.—Since Monday morning more than 100,000 tons of coal have floated into Boston harbor in the bottoms of a great fleet of carriers. In the fleet were two big steam colliers, one six-master, five five-masters and one four-masted schooner, and forty barges.

Cuba Has Credit Balance

Washington, Feb. 17.—Cuba, after a bitter financial struggle, is heralding with pride to the world today the fact that she has a credit balance.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

AMESBURY PRIEST IS MADE A BISHOP

Nilan Will Fill the Long Vacant Position at Hartford

Rome, Feb. 17.—The pope has approved the appointment of Rev. John J. Nilan of Amesbury, Mass., as bishop of Hartford, Conn. The bishopric of Hartford has been vacant since the death of Bishop Michael Tierney in October, 1908.

Amesbury, Mass., Feb. 17.—During his seventeen years' pastorate here, Father Nilan has held the respect of all classes as a public spirited citizen. He was born at Newburyport in 1854.

CONGER NAMES DEAD MAN

Burnett Said to Have Received Envelope Containing $1000 Bribe

Albany, Feb. 17.—The name on another of "Hi" Moe's envelopes was spoken at the legislative bribery investigation Wednesday.

The name the senate heard with hated breath was that of Jean Burnett, once assemblyman from Ontario county. Burnett died during the legislative session of 1907.

The story Conger and Moe told last week is that the $6000 sent to Albany by the American Bridge company on April 23, 1901, was divided in three envelopes. Allds, they say, got the first envelope, containing $1000. The second held $4000 and the third another $1000.

If the words spoken by Conger on the stand yesterday afternoon were true this third envelope is the one believed to have been given to Burnett.

The name on the second envelope is expected as the next disclosure of the investigation.

SECRETLY WEDDED

Marguerite Banks, Operatic Star, Becomes Bride of Harvard Man

Boston, Feb. 17.—Marguerite Banks, the operatic favorite who won the praise of President Taft when she sang before him in the home of Secretary Meyer at Washington two weeks ago, has married a Boston man.

Frederick H. Toye, a member of last year's class at Harvard, has won the heart and hand of the famous singer in the very heyday of her career.

The marriage ceremony was performed at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York city, on Feb. 2. The announcement will cause astonishment, for Miss Banks has been the particular attractive feature of winter life among the elect at Washington. She is 20 years old.

BARTLETT LOYAL TO PEARY.

Master of His Ship Resents Efforts to Stir Up International Feeling.

In reply to editorials printed in some newspapers in England and Canada condemning Commander Robert E. Peary because Captain Bartlett, master of the Roosevelt, did not accompany him to the pole Lawyer Charles J. Nichols of Portland, Me., announced the other day that the captain had given him this written statement signed by him setting forth his view of the situation:

There have been brought to my attention recently extracts from various newspapers commenting on the fact that I did not accompany Commander Peary to the north pole. Some even go so far as to interpret this as a cause for rivalry between the English and American nations.

I want to say that this was an American expedition, fitted out by American citizens with American capital, under the command of an American explorer, and its success depended entirely upon him in whose charge the expedition set out.

From his years of experience in arctic work he worked out a definite plan, and it is my judgment that had this plan been changed the pole would not have been reached. The four supporting parties were neecssary, and it was distinctly understood at the outset that each one of the leaders of these supporting parties should turn back at a certain point. Each party, consisting of one white man and four Eskimos, did the work for which it was best fitted on the sledge journey. For all to go on was impossible for several reasons, such as the additional loss of dogs, consumption of food and possible exhaustion of the individual members.

I was much pleased when Commander Peary selected me for the fourth or last supporting party, and I started out knowing that when I got beyond the eighty-seventh parallel I should lead back that supporting party. That I should be given this honor was very gratifying to me, and I never for a moment had any idea that I was going to the pole.

Through the entire sledge trip every man did his duty as assigned to him, and not one in the entire party have I ever heard express any resentment or disappointment. Everything was harmonious, and I regret that some of the newspapers are making insinuations or attempting to inject rivalry between England and America because I was a British subject.

All honor should be given Commander Peary for his almost superhuman endurance of twenty-three years of persistent effort, and I for one am fully satisfied if I aided such a man in any degree to accomplish this task. In all of his utterances and writings Commander Peary has given me full credit for all that I did, and I wish to say publicly that I would be glad of an opportunity to do again for him just what I have done.

Mr. Nichols sent Captain Bartlett's statement to London to be published in the English newspapers.

FOOT VALUED AT $14,000

Judge's Decision Puts an End to Litigation by Long Island Road

New York, Feb. 17.—According to a decision of Judge Garretson of the supreme court, at Flushing, in the application for a new trial of the suit of George Newberger against the Long Island railroad, Newberger will receive $14,000.

The boy, who is 12 years old, was crossing the railroad tracks at Winfield when his right foot was caught in a switch. A train was bearing down on him and the boy threw himself to one side of the track. He saved his life, but lost his foot.

The case was tried and a verdict of $14,000 was rendered. The railroad company moved to set aside the verdict, and Garretson's decision puts an end to the litigation.

CONVICT INVENTS AIRSHIP

Prison Authorities Willing to Turn Him Loose to Perfect It

Omaha, Feb. 17.—Judge Estelle of the district courtwas notified by the state pardon board that if he will designate a suitable person to take charge of William Howard, a convict in the state penitentiary, the latter will be paroled to enable him to perfect his invention of a self-balancing aeroplane.

The prison authorities are convinced this aeroplane will be an improvement over any machine now in use.

Howard was sent to the penitentiary for burglary. He has in his cell now a model of his proposed airship.

CREW OF FOUR MISSING

Two-Masted Derelict Towed Into Gloucester by Revenue Cutter

Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 17.—Another tragedy of one of the grimmest winters that New England shipping has ever known was revealed here when the revenue cutter Androscoggin towed into the harbor a derelict two-masted schooner believed to be the George E. Prescott of Rockland, Me. All four members of the crew are thought to have been drowned.

The wrecked schooner is believed to have been struck by the gale of last Saturday.

MURDERER'S PISTOL BOUGHT BY A WOMAN

Clerk Gives Startling Testimony In Glover Will Case

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 17.—Thomas Coffey, a Boston sporting goods salesman, on the eve of a surgical operation which may mean his death, swore in the probate court that he sold the revolver with which Clarence F. Glover was shot to a woman.

He testified that the woman who bought the revolver answered the description of Mrs. Lillian Marie Glover, who was pointed out in court to him.

The revolver referred to in the testimony, numbered 216,622, a Smith & Wesson 38-calibre, now reposes in the vault of the Waltham police station. The revolver was bought March 31, 1909.

SECOND DEGREE MURDER

Plouffe Convicted of Killing Stone and Goes to Prison For Life

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 17.—Raymond Plouffe, a young farmhand, was found guilty of murder in the second degree on the charge of killing Dr. Henry N. Stone. Judge Sanderson sentenced the youth to life imprisonment, with one day of solitary confinement. Plouffe collapsed as sentence was pronounced. The jury was out more than twenty-two hours.

It is understood that the jury's deliberation never went outside Plouffe's guilt, but that the question arose entirely over the degree of guilt. The jurors were instructed, on their request, that a verdict of second degree murder would be permissible. They were out from 6:30 p. m. Tuesday night to 4:10 p. m. yesterday. Robbery was found to be Plouffe's motive for the crime.

BUCKSKIN SHIRT FOR TAFT

Crow Indians Sized Up President and Refrained From Making Present

Washington, Feb. 17.—Fourteen Crow Indians from Montana came to the White House to protest to the president against the opening of their reservation to settlement as proposed in a bill introduced in the senate.

One of the party, an old Indian who was a scout for Custer, had brought with him an elaborately embroidered buckskin war shirt for the president, but at the sight of the proportions of Mr. Taft and having in mind the diminutive size of the shirt, he refrained from presenting his offering.

WHOLE COMPANY SLAIN

Five French Officers and 110 Men Fall Into Ambush In Senegal

Paris, Feb. 17.—A dispatch received by M. Trouillet, minister of colonies, from the governor of Dakar, Senegal, says that a French detachment has suffered heavy losses through an ambuscade in the Ouadai region.

A whole company, consisting of five French officers and 110 native soldiers, was massacred.

BARRED BY DEED OF GIFT

Opposition to Confederate Memorial Tablet at Harvard College

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 17.—Major Henry L. Higginson, who has given to Harvard the Harvard Union, Soldiers Field and innumerable other gifts, is opposed to the Confederate memorial tablet suggestion for Memorial hall. Higginson is also a member of the board of president and fellows of Harvard college, the organization which would be the court of last appeal in any such proposition.

Siding with Higginson is Judge Francis C. Lowell, another fellow, whose influence in the controlling board of Harvard is scarcely less than that of Higginson. He, too, is opposed to the suggestion because the initial purposes of the building make it impossible.

"Memorial hall," says Higginson, "was erected in honor of those Harvard men who died fighting to preserve the union, and its use as a memorial for others, especially those soldiers who fought for the disruption of the union, would be a violation of the deed of gift."

IN NEED OF CORRECTIONS

Magnetic Survey by Yacht Carnegie Shows Many Ocean Charts Awry

Washington, Feb. 17.—After a stormy 16-day passage from Bermuda, the yacht Carnegie, which is making a magnetic survey of the ocean, dropped anchor at New Haven, and her commander, W. J. Peters, reported her safe arrival to the department of terrestrial magnetism of the Carnegie institute.

The scientific staff of the Carnegie have gathered data which show that many of the ocean charts are in error. The corrections, which will soon be furnished to the hydrographic offices of all nations, will be of inestimable value to navigation.

DUNLEVY'S GOOD CATCH.

If He Had Muffed Rabbitt the Latter Might Have Been Killed.

With only the slender hold afforded by his left knee, which he crooked around a steel cross beam on which he was working twenty feet above the street, Walter Dunlevy, an ironworker in New York city, recently reached out and caught the flying body of John Rabbitt, who had fallen off a platform forty feet above him, and held Rabbitt for several minutes until other workmen came to his assistance, and then he fainted.

Dunlevy was working on the lower beam and looked up in response to the scream of Rabbitt. The falling man swung his arms wildly as he shot earthward, and Dunlevy reached out and grasped him by the sleeve as his body was passing him. Clinging to his burden, he called for help, and several men turned to his assistance. Rabbitt was rescued, and both men were carried to the ground floor.

A physician found that Rabbitt had a dislocated shoulder and his rescuer was suffering from shock. They were taken to St. Joseph's hospital. The men were working on an addition to an elevator company's plant in New York.

John F. Walsh was brought in on a default warrant from Randolph for non-support. Case placed in the care of the probation officer and Walsh is to pay his wife $4 per week.

PLUNGER'S "DREAM PALACE."

Features of the Late Lewis G. Tewksbury's House Without Windows.

At the heyday of his fortune Lewis G. Tewkesbury, once a broker who wielded great power in Wall street and who died recently at New Orleans, patronized the theaters where the chorus girls thrived and spent a fortune in entertainment after the stage door closed at night. He married Violet Aubrey, as she was known on the stage, and it was this union which led him to conceive the building of the "dream palace" at 29 West Seventy-ninth street in New York.

This palace, costing $1,000,000, was the most remarkable structure in New York on the outside. It was built of brownstone and was without windows in front or rear. Even the doors at the entrance were of solid oak, and the place was so constructed that not a ray of light entered. The ventilation was secured by means of dark shafts through which fresh cold or warm air circulated, depending upon the season.

The splendor, however, of the noonday sun was given on the inside of the palace by myriads of electric bulbs and chandeliers in nooks and corners and ceilings everywhere. The decoratins and furnishings of the house were brought from every quarter of the globe and were the finest that money could buy.

While many of the friends of Tewksbury used to joke about the dream palace, he knew his business. It was the best advertisement of Tewksbury that he ever put out, and the house without windows was talked about everywhere.

Born in New Hampshire about forty-eight years ago, Mr. Tewksbury went to New York in 1880 with $20,000. He was a shrewd speculator, and, taking advantage of the decline in the market in the early nineties, he amassed a fortune which at the end of the panic of 1893 was estimated at between six and seven million dollars. During the zenith of his financial career he was a member of the Consolidated Petroleum and Produce exchanges in New York.

Few men have ever attracted more attention in financial circles. His rise to wealth and power was almost without a precedent, and until the turn of the tide of fortune he was known throughout the world because of his lavish manner of living and the daring of his speculation. He had apparently risen on the highest wave of prosperity, and he had indulged in every costly luxury that whim could suggest.

A "GARDEN OF EDEN."

Community of Interest Planned by Wealthy Pittsburg Contractor.

William Schlingman, a wealthy contractor of Pittsburg, purchased a large tract of land near Scranton, Pa., the other day, on which he purposes to start a modern "garden of Eden." He plans a community of interest, where the earnings of the individual will be utilized for the benefit of the whole. Marriage is to be permitted in the garden, but it will not be compulsory, it is said.

Schlingman believes the jealousies caused by the expensive clothes of the present day woman is the primary evil, and in his garden simplicity will reign.

The case of Andrew G. Youngquist and Annie E. Youngquist vs. the Old Colony Street Railway Company is on trial in the Norfolk Superior court.

BASKET BALL VICTORY

Quincy High Puts It All Over Rockridge High

Quincy High won from Rockridge school of Wellesley on Wednesday afternoon at the gymnasium by the score of 32 to 7.

In the first part of the first half there was a lot of tries at the cage which did not land. The home boys did not seem to get a going, probably because they saw no necessity of playing the game of their life.

The second half Billy Manning kept putting in baskets one after another. H. Chapman and Arthur replaced Capt. Bates and H. Prout when the latter saw that it was a sure thing for High. Rockridge sent up a small and light weight crowd.

The summary:

QUINCY	ROCKRIDGE
Bates, H. Chapman, rf	lb, S. Wood
Manning, lf	rb, Sada
Prout, Arthur, c	c, Brown
M. Chapman, rb	lf, Johnson
Harmon, lb	rf, Wood

Score, Quincy, 32; Rockridge 7. Goals from floor, Manning 7, Bates, Wood 3, Prout 2, M Chapman, H. Chapman, Harmon 1. Goals from fouls, Bates, Manning, Johnson. Referee, Gourlie. Umpire, Marden. Scorer, Rice. Timer, Fouche. Time, 15 minute halves.

HONORS AT VASSAR.

Miss Ruth Evelyn Marceau of Wollaston, acknowledged to be one of the most poular girls at Vassar college, is one of the three New Englanders announced this week as honor girls. At the last class day at Vassar, twenty of the prettiest girls were selected to carry the daisy chain and Miss Marceau was one of them. There was some slight jealousy at the time, as there were six other Massachusetts girls in the college, but the judges were unanimous in their choice of Miss Marceau. Miss Marceau is vice-president of the class of '10 and a member of most of the clubs and societies at the college. She is a graduate of the Quincy Mansion school and was valedictorian of her class, that of 1905.

Among her other attainments Miss Marceau possesses unusual merit as a vocalist and pianist. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Marceau of Wollaston avenue, Wollaston. Mr. Marceau is a teacher at the Quincy Mansion school."

—A woman beggar arrested recently in New York was found to own a handsome home out on Long Island and besides having a comfortable bank account herself, she also had seven children all of who had money in the bank.

—Without intending the slightest reflection on Abraham Lincoln, one may say that spending $20,000 of government money on a monument to a man who is said to have enlisted in the army in 1863 as the president's substitute would be $20,000 thrown away. —Springfield Republican.

THE QUINCY BALL TEAM

Outlook Good for the Season of 1910

Now that "Al" Bjorkland has taken the ribbons in hand to guide the Quincy Old Colony baseball club through the season of 1910, it would be fitting at this time to bring out some of the faults we noticed of last season, that the new manager may avoid them and give the Quincy patrons by far the best baseball in the league.

Last season we had two men in the position, both were fine fellows, it would be hard to find two better natured fellows than Patterson or Guston, but they did not let the players know that they were in command and as a result they got into a rut and played listless ball.

They did not at any time use a code of signals neither did they keep live coachers on the lines, one of the most essential things today in baseball. Then again they took much advice from the players themselves and the public at large. These, all combined, were the cause of our downfall last season.

Look at Stoughton. "Happy" Hazelum, regarded as one of the craftiest of managers, was up against it because Graham went wrong in a game and lost the next in succession. The directors "butted" in and secured Howard. What was the result? He won his first game and then the teams got on to him. The directors were frantic and "Happy" almost got down on his knees begging for a chance to let Graham pitch that memorable game against the Deweys that Rockland might tie up the race. We all know the result how Graham made monkeys out of the "champs" and how they had to decide the race at Brockton. Who knows but what Stoughton would have won had the directors kept their hands off?

You have got to appoint a man to assume charge and give him the entire responsibility. If he can't make good get others. Look at Mahar at Rockland, McCarthy at Taunton and Nash at Weymouth, all had entire charge and their good showing is the direct result of having no one to tell them what to do.

Quincy has the timber for a cracking good nine. They will possibly retain Murray, Lonergan, Briggs, Bjorkland and one or two others, but there are a few men right here in this city that can play rings around some that received envelopes from the local association last season. It would be a big thing of an infield could be secured in this section that evening practice could be held and there is more truth than poetry in that old addage, "Practice makes perfect."

The Quincy directors certainly are gamesters to undertake to make such an uncertain thing pay here at such a ticklish period as we had last year, but this year all chance will probably be eliminated for a good team is going to be a money maker.

The fans too, deserve especial mention for sticking to the club in the time of need and I believe that had any other club made such a disagreeable showing as we did at the windup there would not be a handful of fans present at the games.

Therefore in summing up the entire baseball situation in the league circles here, I am loud in praise of all connected with it, and in bringing this idea to an end, I want to ask for your hearty cooperation to make Quincy the best baseball city this side of Boston, and sincerely wish as you do, that Bjorkland jumps into the lead at the start and never let others pass him.

If this can be done the Water street grounds will be found far too small to hold those that attend the games.

Rube.

—He who is seeking summer weather in winter months should cross the equator, but one who is seeking winter weather like a Northern spring will find it in South Florida ,and even in Jacksonville during a normal winter he will find more days that remind him of spring than of winter. The present winter is not normal, but, taking its average temperature, is probably the coldest ever known in Florida. It would be as unfair to judge a Florida winter by this one as to judge a New York summer by that of 1907, when men had shivered with overcoats on up to Saturday, June 29, and died of prostration by heat Monday, July 1.—Florida Times-Union.

ROSTAND'S "CHANTECLER."

Conception of French Play In Which No Human Characters Appear.

Edmond Rostand, the French dramatist and author of "L'Aiglon," "Cyrano de Bergerac" and other poetic dramas, in an interview explains the history of his conception of "Chantecler," the long heralded farmyard play, which was recently presented in dress rehearsal before an audience of the elect at the Porte Saint Martin theater in Paris and may be given in America next season.

"In 1901," said he, "while taking a walk in the outskirts of Cambo I was passing a humble farm when I suddenly stopped before the barnyard. It was just an ordinary barnyard, containing the usual pigeon loft, wire nettings, manure pile and, within, the animals, hens, ducks, guinea fowl, geese, turkeys, a cat asleep, a dog wandering about—in brief, a very common spectacle.

"I watched with interest, when suddenly in stalked the cock. He entered proudly, boldly, like a ruler, with disdain in his eye and a certain rhythmic movement of the head which produced the irresistible impression of a hero. He advanced like a buccaneer, like a man in quest of adventure, a king among his subjects. In a flash I saw in this spectacle a play. I returned to the barnyard many times, and rapidly the framework of the play was constructed in my mind."

Rostand's "Chantecler" is unique among plays in the fact that no human character appears in it. The dramatis personae are fowls, birds and animals, and as they are necessarily as large as the men and women who enact the parts everything which appears on the stage is on a corresponding scale. Chantecler, the hero, is filled with illusions about his place in the world. He imagines that the sun rises because he has crowed. The play dispels this illusion in the heart of Chantecler.

Tip on Saving Time.

Latest time saving wrinkle in the telephone business:

When the man you have called up answers the call and you say to him, "Is this Mr. Jones?" he, if he is up to date, no longer wastes time and words by answering, "Yes, this is Mr. Jones." He answers with simply this: "Speaking."

NOTABLE FUNERAL DR. WILLIAM EVERETT

Of Marked Simplicity and Very Short as Requested by Quincy's Great Man.

Large Number of "His Boys" of Adams Academy Pay Tribute.

Of marked simplicity and shortness were the funeral services at the First church this morning for Dr. William Everett, the well known scholar and schoolmaster. The body was taken from his late residence to the church about 9.30 an hour before the service, and placed in front of the pulpit, where the doctor had preached many Sundays. It had been requested that no flowers be sent, and there were only two floral tributes, a large galyx wreath with violets, placed on the casket, and palms with roses placed in front.

Because of the fact that Boston papers made no mention in the funeral notice of the services at Quincy, the attendance of out-of-town people was not large. Many well known people of Quincy were present, including Brooks Adams, Hon. Charles H. Porter, Hon. Harrison A. Keith, Hon. John O. Hall, Rev. E. N. Hardy, Rev. Edward Norton, Henry M. Faxon, Harry S. Rice, Walter S. Pinkham, Dr. John A. Gordon, Dr. Joseph M. Sheahan, Dr. William Gallagher, George W. Morton, George B. Dewson, Charles H. Hardwick, James H. Slade, H. W. Pinkham, F. F. Crane, F. H. Crane, John D. Mackay, Zenas Arnold, Frank A. Tirrell, T. J. Carey, E. J. Murphy, L. A. Chapin, E. C. Sargent and many others.

Promptly at 10.30 the pastor of the church, Rev. Ellery Channing Butler, conducted the regular King's chapel service, and read an anonymous poem which starts, "Father before Thy footstool kneeling."

By special request there was no eulogy or music, the entire service being read. An opportunity was then offered to view the remains.

It was not until the noon train that the body was taken to Boston, and at 2.30 more largely attended services were held at the Mt. Auburn chapel, Cambridge.

The ushers at the First church were: Perry Lawton, Fred B. Rice, Paul R. Blackmur, Morton Smith, Gilbert Kent, Hobart Lawton and Henry Sheahan.

OPPORTUNITY FOR YOUNG MEN

Boston Gear Works to Establish Night Shift

Business is reported rushing at the Boston Gear Works, a large number of new orders having been received since the first of the year. Beginning tonight the plant will be operated every evening, and an effort will be made to establish a night shift independent of the day workmen. The works now have a force of nearly 100 men, and have work for 30 to 50 at night, Next Tuesday, Washington's birthday, Mr. Burgess the proprietor invites all gentlemen interested in gear works to attend an exhibition at the plant, which has been rearranged and improved since the disastrous fire.

WEST QUINCY IMPROVEMENTS

Parkway Extension and Other Subjects Considered

A largely attended meeting of the Ward Four Improvement Association was held on Thursday evening.

Te bill in the Legislature for the connection of the Furnace Brook parkway and the Quincy Shore parkway was the principal topic for discussion. Naturally West Quincy would like to see the work pushed along, but James H. Elcock and others did not wish to jeopardize the interests of Quincy relative to abolition of grade crossings at Saville street and Water street, and caution was urged. The following committee was appointed to attend the hearing at the State House—James F. Burke, R. J. Teasdale, James H. Elcock, W. H. Teasdale and W. F. Lakin.

All plans were reported complete for the annual banquet to be held in Farnum's hall on Thursday evening, Feb. 24. There will be several invited guests.

The committee on transportation reported progress, and also the committee on railroad matters ,and there was a general discussion on improvements for West Quincy. It was 10.30 before the meeting adjourned.

COY—FLOWERS.

On Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 15, at the rectory of Christ church, Mr. Charles Weston Coy of Woodstock, N. B., and Miss Florence May Flowers of this city were married by the Rev. R. E. Armstrong. Immediately after the ceremony, the happy couple left on the 5 oclock express for New York, where they will enjoy a short wedding trip. Mrs. Coy is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Flowers of Quincy street, and is very popular among the young people of that section of the city. On their return they will reside at 105 Goddard street, and will be at home to friends after April 15.

They are very brave when they can get somebody else to do their fighting for them.—Mansfield News.

RECEPTION TO NEW PASTOR

Rev. Charles P. Marshall Welcomed at Quincy Point

In spite of the very stormy weather Thursday evening there was a good attendance at the reception tendered to Rev. Charles P. Marshall, the new pastor of the Washington Street Congregational church, and Mrs. Marshall. They were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sherburn and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bonney.

The ushers were Miss Cora Barnes, Miss Clara Buzzell, Miss Viola Hayden, Miss Helen Lincoln, Carl Sherburne, Carleton McNeil, Charles M. French and Albion Bonney.

During the reception Miss Bessie Chisholm presided at the piano. Following the reception cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Rollin H. Newcomb, Mrs. Edward Lee, Mrs. Marcus M. Wight, Mrs. William Hayden, Mrs. Thomas Lincoln, Jr., Mrs. Edward R. Blanchard, Miss Mabel Skinner and Miss Helen Sherburn.

At the conclusion of the reception, T. B. Pollard read a letter from Rev. Leon H. Austin expressing his regret at his inability to be present. There were also brief remarks by Rev. George F. Stanton, who supplied the pulpit during the time the church was without a pastor, and Rev. Dr. Edwin Noah Hardy, of Bethany Congregational church. Rev. Mr. Marshall expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present on such a stormy night.

There was also a soprano solo by Miss Eleanor Crane. The young people then gathered about the piano and sang songs.

CHAIRMAN HATFIELD

Makes a Visit to Quincy Republican Committee

A special meeting of the Republican City Committee was held Thursday evening at Union hall. It was in the nature of a love feast, and was confined exclusively to members of the committee. William M. Chase chairman of the committee presided.

The meeting was called for 6.30, at which time an oyster stew was served. After everybody had got warmed up, there was an informal meeting. There were two distinguished visitors who addressed the meeting, Mayor Charles E. Hatfield of Newton, chairman of the State committee, and Executive Secretary Groves also of the State organization.

Chairman Hatfield spoke on the general duties of a Republican city committee, the necessity of team work, and a good organization. Quincy was complimented on its vote for Congressman in 1908.

Secretary Groves surprised all when he stated that there were nearly 4000 men in the State who were working on Republican committees in cities and towns.

There was a general talk among members on the need of activity in registration and naturalization, and steps were taken toward organizing a Republican league.

The State officials returned to Boston on the 9.13 train. They are making similar visits to cities and towns throughout Massachusetts. Not in the recollections of many old Republicans has the chairman of the State Committee made a similar trip to Quincy. Chairman Hatfield evidently wants to get in touch with the Republican workers and refute the charge that the State Committee is dominated by one or two men.

THE DIFFERENCE IN ENAMEL WARE

WE carry all grades of ENAMEL WARE. We sell the cheapest, not from choice, but because there is a large demand for it. We recommend the best, because it gives greater service, and when customers feel satisfied with their purchases, they usually come back. For example—We sell a large Enamel or Agate stew pan for 10 cents it has a single coat of the cheapest enamel on very light tin. For 25 cents we sell a heavier article with three coats of better enamel. For 50 cents the same size pan, extra heavy in weight with four coats of finest enamel. The first article is almost worthless, the second good for long service, the latter one will wear a life time. Our complete stock covers all grades.

STATE APPROPRIATION IS URGED BY MANY

For Connecting the Two Metropolitan Parkways in City of Quincy.

Only Remonstrance Over the Railroad Crossing.

Quincy was well represented at the hearing before the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs at the State House this morning, on the bill for $225,000 to connect the Quincy Shore boulevard with the Furnace Brook parkway.

Among those present were Mayor Shea, Senator Hultman, Councilmen Hobbs, Branch and Richards, W. F. Lakin, James F. Burke of the West Quincy Improvement association, Eugene R. Stone and Walter E. Piper of Board of Trade, W. W. Adams, G. B. Bates, Thomas Swithin, Thomas Butler, A. W. Thompson, Peter T. Fallon, A. L. Whitman, Representatives Thomas and Lengelier.

Representative Thomas in opening said he felt Quincy was not asking on pleading, but simply asking for fulfillment of an agreement. When the boulevard was started, 2,573 acres of the backbone quarry land of city was taken. The present boulevard starts no where and ends no where. All the land has been taken, and we ask for an appropriation of $225,000 to complete it. Representative Thomas added that as the committee would go into executive session at 11.30 he might have to ask for a continuence.

Mayor Shea said Mr. Thomas had covered the ground. State had built 2 1-2 miles from Neponset then jumped for three miles, then started and built a mile and a half to the Blue Hills. We now have two dead ends. We do not think we have been treated fairly. If State had built a continuous line would have no grievance. The grade crossing question may come up. A citizen in a letter said there was a "nigger in the wood pile." that was not so. The boulevard was started long before the grade crossing. This should have been done long ago. People not getting benefit they are entitled to, and we ask for the appropriation of $225,000. If completed would make a beautiful drive.

G. B. Bates represented Board of Trade and member of grade crossing committee. He desired to ask Mayor Shea questions, but was not permitted to.

Ernest W. Branch said Quincy was entitled to have piece of parkway built. Seemed to us it ought to be built. Property owners along route do not know how to develop their property.

W. F. Lakin of West Quincy Improvement association thought some had wrong impression in regard to taking land. In relation to bridge at the railroad did not understand that was a question here. This was simply to complete. People of my ward are working people, and do not own automobiles, but do own baby preambulators, and desire to use this parkway. Desirability cannot be too strongly urged.

James F. Burke said it would be good thing to have appropriation of money to carry out plans. Quincy has the honor of having the man who started these parkways C. F. Adams. This will be one of the most beautiful drives in the state when completed.

When State has expended $237,000 for land and $338,000 in construction it is a matter of good business to complete work, and good faith of Commonwealth is at stake. We are simply asking you to allow the commission to complete this piece of work.

Representative Langelier hoped committee would see its way clear to do something for Quincy. The first section winds up in a marsh, and the citizens want to see this connecting link completed. There was a general demand for the completion of it. Think only opposition would be that it might establish a precedent on crossing the railroad. The matter of crossing is in the hands of a commission now. Did not think it would effect it.

Peter T. Fallon showed a map where railroad was. If parkway was complete from Hancock street would give a circuit from Hancock street to Neponset bridge. Railroad had nothing to do with grade of Hancock street. Neither has Newport avenue anything to do with boulevard, so by leaving

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

A scientist has dicovered that insanity among servant girls is increasing, but then it must be remembered that domestic help has always been aberrant and flighty in America.

It is a fine example that the President's eldest son is setting to the youth of America. Young Mr. Taft is at the head of a numerous class in a great university and is giving very little attention to football and other hoodlum athletics which accounts for his excellence in his studies.

Onr ex-Vice Presidents come occasionally into the lime-light. Stevenson, who was Vice President during Cleveland's last administration, has written a book of memoirs and Mr. Fairbanks is at present in the center of a controversey between Methodists and Catholics.

There is at present a convention in Washington urging the passage of a uniform motor vehicle bill by Congress, the result of which, if passed, will be to enable these vehicles to go from state to state and through the states without securing a special license from each state in passage. In other words, it means free trade and travel as far as the motor vehicles are concerned, throughout the United States. The great number of people now using automobiles and the greater number that will use them in the future makes such a law indispensable.

It is recognized by its leaders that the Republican machine is not in the best condition. It needs tinkering here and there and almost everywhere. In New York the Allds exposure presents a scandalous situation which will require all the splendid prestage of Governors Hughes' administration to efface. President Taft keenly appreciates perilous possibilities not only as represented in the New York situation, but in Washington, in the middle west and in the extreme northwest. His speech in New York last week was intended to rally the conflicting elements. This is an end he devoutly hopes to accomplish, for upon co-operation of all Republicans in the work laid down in the Republican platform and reaffirmed in his campaign speeches, depends the success of his administration. But it is believed by some that his New York speech had little other effect than to emphasize the irreconcilable differences and widen the chasm between the progressive and non-progressive elements of the Republican party. It is said of the Bourbons that they never learned anything and never forgot anlything. It may be said of the "strand pat Republicans" that they have forgotten all the traditions of their party and that any responsiveness to real conditions in the country and to public sentiment is with the insurgents.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

No one ever believed that the Sugar Trust swindles were carried out by underlings without knowledge of men higher up both in the Sugar Trust and in the customs department. Yet, up to date, only one trust official and a few weighers have been indicted.

The public looks to President Taft to prosecute the sugar swindlers as severely as Benjamin H. Bristow prosecuted the whisky ring under the Grant administration in 1875.

The whiskey ring was a conspiracy of distillers and inland revenue officers, and centered in St. Louis, where the ring was shown to have swindled the Government out of more than $1,200,000 a year for several years.

Secretary Bristow used every effort to vindicate his department, and finally rounded up the gang. He seized 16 distilleries, and indicted 152 whiskey men and 86 Government employees, most of whom were convicted, some by trial and many by admission.

When the papers showing the swindles were laid before President Grant he indorsed them with the now celebrated order, "Let no guilty man escape."

The American people, burdened by the extravagance of recent national administrations, are not in a mood to condone the sugar steal in the least degree. They demand that President Taft punish the thieves regardless of rank and to the utmost limit of the law.—Roach Financial Journal.

PLAY PRESENTED AT WOLLASTON

"An Interrupted Proposal" Makes a Great Hit

At the February sociable of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening a play entitled "An interrupted proposal," was presented by the young people of the church.

The cast was as follows: Stephen Howard, a practical joker—Raymond Hall. Samuel Tracy, his friend—Starrett White. Thomas Stone, a householder—Arvin Page. Mrs. Stone, his wife—Helen Browne, Helen Stone, their daughter—Priscilla Robinson. Mrs. Ramsey, a neighbor—Olive Fay. Betty, a maid—Mildred Polk.

The parts were well taken and were a credit to Mrs. John Norrie, under whose direction the play was produced. Preceding the play, John Norrie favored those present with several pleasing piano selections.

At 6.30 a generous supper was served, a large number attending. Following are the ladies composing the committee: Mrs. J. N. Smith, Mrs. E. F. DeNormandie, Mrs. Charles S. Comins, Mrs. Herman Wieting, Miss F. L. Johnson, Mrs. Charles L. Munroe, Mrs. George H. York, Mrs. H. C. Seymour, Mrs. E. Tyler Brigham, Mrs. Gorham Nickerson, Mrs. David T. Whiton, Mrs. Thurber, Miss Almira E. Simmons, Mrs. Clifton Baker, Mrs. George Weston.

CORPORATION RETURNS.

Every corporation, joint stock company, association and insurance company, not specifically enumerated as exempt, is required by law, whether it has for the full calendar year or any part of the calendar year of 1909, a net income in amount liable to tax or not, to make a return on the prescribed government blanks on or before March first, or be liable to a penalty of from one thousand to ten thousand dollars, also to the same penalty if the return is a fraudulent one, the importance of immediate attention will be seen and should be attended to whether dissolution or liquidation has been commenced. Affidavits should be made before a Notary Public with his seal attached, and Massachusetts returns should be sent to James D. Gill, Collecter of Internal Revenue at Boston.

PICTPORIAL REPRODUCTION.

Henry Ellsworth's pictorial reproduction of "Oberammergau, its People and their Plays," to be given at Music Hall, Feb. 25 under the auspices of Quincy F. O. E., is one of the rare treats that must be witnesed to be appreciated, and which mere words fail in describing. It is as strikingly beautiful as a classic poem, as a wonderful work of art, or as interesting as a story by the most talented romancer. Mr. Ellsworth tells of the quaint little village, the daily life of its inhabitants, their devotion to their self-imposed task of reproducing the great drama, once in every decade, how they obtain a living, and their remarkably devout and pure manner of living. To one who meets the daily annoyances, worldliness, duplicity and egotism of the average resident of our country, the existence of this little village and its people is a revelation that can scarcely be understood. Three hundred colored views will be used in the entertainment. A select orchestra, choir singers, cathedral chimes and church organ will also be introduced. As a special feature, Mr. Ellsworth will introduce for the first time here, views of the scenes, tableaux, characters and music from the Kreuzesschule, as produced at Oberammergau in 1905, when he visited Oberammergau for the fifth time.

Butter and Eggs Prizes at Card Party.

Butter and eggs have become so valuable that they are now deemed fit prizes for card parties. At a card party given by J. L. Hart and his wife of Gibsonburg, O., butter and eggs were given as prizes, and while they caused some surprise among the guests at the party they were nevertheless very acceptable. The winner of the most games was given a pound of butter. Eggs were given to other victorious participants in the games, and a single egg was awarded as the booby prize.

ROOSEVELT IN GREAT DEMAND

Anxiety to Have Him Approve the Taft Administration

Washington, Feb. 18.—The greatest efforts will be made by the various factions in the Republican party to induce former President Roosevelt to take a decided stand in one direction or the other in the matter of getting his O. K. for the Taft administration.

Mr. Roosevelt will return at a critical period, not only in the politics of the nation, but also in New York state. Friends of the administration, who realize that the Taft program to date is not proving wholly satisfactory throughout the country, are extremely anxious to have Roosevelt signalize his return by declaring that his policies have been followed out as nearly as could be expected.

The Republican congressional committee, which does not view with equanimity the approaching campaign, knows that its chances for a Republican congress two years hence would be greatly enhanced if Roosevelt announced that the legislation enacted since his departure had been all that could be desired.

want an indorsement from Roosevelt on the ground that they have almost courted political death in their efforts to carry out his policies in the face of tremendous opposition.

The information that reaches Washington from New York is to the effect that Roosevelt is the only man who can save that state for the Republican party, and that he will be asked to take an active hand in the management of party affairs there with a view to eliminating some now in control.

Each faction is anxious to get the first word with Roosevelt and to secure a promise of assistance. It is learned that a prominent man, long since identified with the "Back from Elba" movement, has stolen a march on the leaders who seek a Roosevelt indorsement. He started for the Nile two weeks ago to join the mighty hunter. He will go up the Nile with Roosevelt and during the journey unfold the political situation from the viewpoint that the present administration has failed to carry out the Roosevelt policies.

The insurgents are particularly alarmed because they feel that if Roosevelt is prevailed upon to endorse the administration of President Taft it will have the effect of undermining them politically, despite their assertion that they are standing for Roosevelt policies.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING

Mme. Paulhan Startles American Women by Her Aeroplane Voyages — Chicago Woman Has Million Dollars Life Insurance.

THE young wife of Louis Paulhan, the French aviator, is doing amazing "stunts" in aeroplanes in America. Mme. Paulhan came over early in January with her husband, who astonished the natives at Los Angeles with his daredevil exploits a la aeroplane at the great international aviation meet. She went up with him during the meet and caused the hearts of several thousand other women to go pittypat until her nervy husband brought her safely back to terra firma, her cheeks rosy and her lips parted in a smile of triumph. Mme. Paulhan is a handsome young woman, thoroughly French in aspect and actions. She has the utmost confidence in the ability of her husband to take her up, give her a voyage in the air and bring her back to earth safely. "If I were afraid to go up with him," she says naively, "I should not permit him to go up. You see?" It is very easy to see the point. Mme. Paulhan seems to be devoted to her young husband—so devoted that she will not let him do things she considers dangerous—so she shows that she thinks he is engaged in a nonhazardous occupation by joining him in the biplane. She says she expects to make several more flights in America.

Elbert Hubbard, who is not what you might call a man's man nor yet altogether a woman's man, sometimes says wise things about woman. Just now he is in the field with this appreciation of the one woman he knows about who carries $1,000,000 life insurance: "There are 105 boy babies born to every 100 girls. And yet there are nearly a million more women in America than men. Women outnumber men in every country where statistics are kept. Women live longer than men, and self supporting women are now regarded as especially good risks by all the great life insurance companies. There are quite a number of men in America who carry $1,000,000 life insurance, but I know of only one woman who is insured for this amount. This is Mrs. Netcher, chief owner of a big store in Chicago. When Mr. Netcher died, a few years ago, he left one life insurance policy of just half a million dollars. On this policy he had paid but one premium. There were several little policies, which he had been carrying for some years, but these were all thrown into the shadow by the big one. The business was fairly flourishing, but this half million dollars enabled Mrs. Netcher to clean up every liability against the store and have a goodly bank balance in addition. Mrs. Netcher thought that she could not better use this money than by extending the business. The store she regarded as a memorial and a monument to her beloved husband, who had founded it. So she set herself the lifelong task of increasing and bettering the business. She would serve the public, and she would serve the employees of the store. The value of life insurance had been brought home to her mind so vividly that she insured her own life, payable to the business, for $700,000. And in September, 1909, she took out $300,000 more."

Beating eighty competitors, Miss Belle Kinney of Nashville, Tenn., will design the memorial to women who suffered in the Southern Confederacy. Her design was chosen by a committee from the eleven states which made up the Confederacy. There will be a group of three figures, Fame sitting in the center, a dying Confederate soldier on one side and a weeping woman on the other. The central figure will be eight feet tall. Bronze casts of this memorial, it is expected, will be erected in each of the southern states which seceded in 1861. Miss Kinney is to receive $5,000 for her work.

DEBATE OF MEN'S CLUB

Resolve That Man is the Child of Circumstances

At the monthly meeting of the Wollaston Methodist Men's club on Thursday evening the question—"Resolved: That man is the child of circumstances" was discussed. For the affirmative Ascar Storer and J. A. Sedgwick held forth, while W. E. Sanders and E. H. Ewertz spoke for the negative. A. N. Murray was selected by President Taylor as an "impartial" judge.

Many men consider themselves self-made, said Mr. Storer, and pride themselves on their position in the community, when in reality it was but the result of an accident. He compared these men to a hen who cackled over a china egg thinking she had laid it. Man is a child of circumstances from the minute he sees the light of day until he lands in the grave. Our success is due to environment rather than the operation of our will sent out in a certain direction.

W. C. Sanders said that he did not consider that most men were controlled by circumstances, but that they made circumstances. Man is not dwarfed by them but rises above them. Man should be considered as a garden where by his will power it may be cultivated or run wild, and where useful or useless seeds may be produced.

In support of the negative E. H. Ewertz mentioned the foreigners who come to America not as a result of circumstances but in order to grasp those afforded. We can be hindered by circumstances if we so desire. Opportunity is here in the world and we are here to grasp it.

J. A. Sedgwick asked what one had to do with the domination of their affairs for the first 15 or 20 years. Two things enter into the question: first, the location of the individual; and secondly, environment.

Oscar Storer took the rebuttal for the affirmative and W. C. Sanders for the negative. The merits of the question were decided in favor of the negative.

The Wollaston Herald, as read by its new editor A. B. Cassidy, contained much of interest, including many flights of poetry and fancy.

Rev. Wesley Wiggin, the pastor, spoke briefly complimenting the club upon its success and expressing great hope for the future.

A body introduced by President Taylor as the procrastination quartet rendered effective vocal selections. This was composed of Herbert Cassidy, F. A. Sutermeister, S. N. Belcher and Chester Cleveland.

Five new members were voted in. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

PRESS COMMENTS

Boston Papers on the Life of Dr. Everett

Numerous editorial comments on the life and characteristics of the late Dr. William Everett of this city have appeared in the daily papers. A few are given below:

BOSTON RECORD.

William Everett of Quincy was one of the last of the old group of classical teachers, a rare Greek and Latin scholar, too full of idiosyncrasies to reach any wide influence in politics. The invention of the phrase "mugwumps" and his enjoyment of its acceptance were characteristic. He had more originality than his eminent father, but failed to reach his rank as an orator.

BOSTON GLOBE.

Doubtless if any one had asked Dr. William Everett what he was, his prompt answer would have been: "A schoolmaster." His invaluable service during 30 years at Adams academy made him to New England what Dr. Arnold was to old England in his head-mastership at Rugby.

BOSTON HERALLD.

Dr. William Everett of Quincy, who died at his home yesterday, was a scholar of the old-fashioned Harvard and Cambridge University blend, who, as occasional preacher, life-long teacher, and a perennial candid critic of men and measures, filled a unique place in the life of this section during the past forty years. Under a different political system than ours, with representation of the universities in the national legislature, he might have retained a place in public life, which is denied men of his attainments and temperament under our present system. His one term in Congress indicated that his resources as a student and as an orator would have made him an effective disputant and a searching critic of men and measures; but it was an environment uncongenial to most of his tastes and called for duties that he would not perform gladly. He was a thoroughgoing "individualist" in every respect, lived his own life, spoke his mind fearlessly and often caustically, indifferent to conventions and popular esteem, and he went through life an idealist, a believer in a type of education which emphasized the humanities and in politics above the suspicion of commercialism or power for powers' sake. The great masters of Greek, German and British literature and philosophy had in him a devout student and enthusiastic and singularly eloquent expositor.

BOSTON ADVERTISER.

Dr. William Everett, preacher, lawyer, teacher, scholar, orator, political independent and a man of extraordinary accomplishment in all ways of the mind, has died, vigorous in the mind which was his being, to the last. Through many years his body had been enfeebled, but there was no diminution of his brilliant mentality. There is no man to take Dr. Everett's place for he was an individual, and so desired to be and to be considered. His opinions, like his knowledge, were unwavering and to the point. He undertook no position which he was not prepared to hold constantly, and once arrayed in support or condemnation he was not swayed. It is as a scholar and as an individual that he will be most remembered. Possessed with a fine voice, though not a powerful one, his use of language won attention whenever and wherever he spoke. He was particular in all things, large and small. In exactness attracted his attention and his comments.

BOSTON POST.

The late William Everett will probably be remembered longest and most vividly as the master of the once famous Adams Academy at Quincy. He was a teacher with unique methods and an individuality that made a lasting impress on the minds of his pupils. They felt his genius, even as they smiled at some of his eccentricities. His learning was prodigious, his patriotism never-tiring, his moral influence strong and healthful.

In political life independence was almost a passion with Dr. Everett. He often took the unpopular side of public questions for the mere sake of fighting the harder. His single term in Congress, won by going as a "carpet-bagger" into the old Lodge district and defeating William E. Barrett, was notable for several brilliant and witty speeches rather than for any constructive work for which he seemed to have had little aptitude.

As a writer on all sorts of topics, from Greek mythology to stories for boys, he won deserved fame. Even as a preacher he made his mark. There is probably no man in Massachusetts today so admirably polished on every corner of his mental structure. Dr. Everett was a remarkable figure; with some slight shifting of characteristics, he would have been truly great.

GRADE CROSSING BILL

Proposes to Put Expense Upon the Railroad

There is one bill before the present Legislature of which little has been heard, yet the bill is one of great importance to Quincy and other towns and cities of the Commonwealth, where it is proposed to abolish grade crossings. The bill is entitled "An act relative to the abolition of grade crossings."

Under the present law it is provided that 65 per cent of the cost shall be borne by the railroad company, 25 per cent by the State and 10 per cent by the town in which such crossings happen to be. Up to the present time the first 165 crossings to be abolished have cost the cities and towns an average of $23,372.19 per crossing and this condition must continue as long as the present law remains upon the statute books.

If the Boards of Trade, Boards of Selectmen, Boards of Aldermen and other kindred organizations will only take hold of the matter and instruct their representatives to favor the proposed bill cities and towns may be relieved of this burden.

The proposed bill provides that where a crossing is abolished, according to the provisions of law, the whole cost, and all expenses incidental thereto, shall be paid by the railroad company except that street railway companies using the same crossing must pay fifteen per cent of the cost. In case the crossing is abolished on petitions from the towns of cities, then said town or city shall pay five per cent of the cost and the commonwealth 25 per cent and the street railway, if there be one 15 per cent.

The proposed bill reads as follows:

Section 1. In case where a grade crossing is abolished according to the provisions of law therefor, the whole cost of the abolition and all expenses incidental thereto shall be paid by the railroad company or companies concerned, except that in cases where a street railway company also uses the grade crossing such company shall pay fifteen per cent. of the cost. In case a city or town petitions for the abolition of a grade crossing, the city or town shall pay such amount not exceeding five per cent. of the cost of the abolition of the grade crossing and of the expenses incident thereto as the commissioners having the matter in charge may determine and the Commonwealth shall pay twenty-five per cent. of the same except that any street railway which also uses the grade crossing shall pay fifteen per cent. of the said cost and expense, the same to be deducted from the twenty-five per cent. otherwise payable by the Commonwealth.

Section 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

—Arthur Prague, dean of the newsboys in Spokane, will be a candidate for the state Legislature from the Second district in this city to succeed the late Judge Norman E. Buck. Prague served as page during two sessions of the Leyislature and his mind has been fired with a desire to serve his countrymen. He promises to take care of the newsboys, if elected, but declares he will not ask the state to furnish free car transportation, turkey dinners or leather-seated lounging chairs for the "newsies." "I'll see to it that the 'kids' get all that's coming to 'em," he said with emphasis. "There's one thing and that it I'm not afraid of the cars and I'll go the limit with the bunch that has stood by me through thick and thin, and I guess I'll have a few 'live ones' at court when it comes to a show down for the real goods. I'm not mixing up in this politics for the love of it, but to grab off something for my fellows and I'm going to make good all along the line."

The Maid—"I do see by the papers that Mrs. Astorbilt hev bought a $30,000 set av dishes."

The Scullion—"Ah, Norah dear, wouldn't it be just heaven to git into a kitchen like that for five minutes?"—Harper's Magazine.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

FROM ONE OF "HIS BOYS."

Editor of Daily Ledger:

There died in Quincy on February the sixteenth a man; a scholar; a master; who has left behind him a memory that is dear to every pupil that he ever had.

To our minds comes back the vision of the dingy form room, where boys dragged out their forty lines, while the white haired master paced up and down, his book hanging at his side.

We thought little of it then, and cared less when he said you will never know any Greek. He was right. We knew no Greek, but we carried away with us a love for Homer, for literature and the man who taught it that will last throughout our lifetimes.

The love that he kindled for scholarship in "his boys" has caused them to read on and drink in its substance whether it be in Greek or mathematics.

To him we owe all that we have done. To him, our master William Everett, belongs whatever credit we merit in this world as men. He pointed out the way and we have but to follow it.

"And now the sun had stretched out all the hills
And now was dropped into the western bay
At last he rose and twitched his mantel blue,
Tomorrow to fresh woods and pastures new."

Morton Smith.

CLUBMAN CLAIMS MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Arrested on Charges Brought by a School Girl

Boston, Feb. 18.—Edwin B. Cox, aged 51, prominent in exclusive club life in Boston and living in Brookline, was arrested in his office in this city on charges brought by Miss Blanche E. Reed, a Fitchburg normal school girl.

Miss Reed was positive in her identification of Cox as a man who approached her on four different occasions in Fitchburg, demanding that she sign a paper of some nature, sought to induce her to write to him at Boston, and attacked her on two occasions.

Cox maintains that it is a case of mistaken identity and claims that he never even had knowledge of the young woman's existence.

Cox was admitted to bail shortly after being placed under arrest and will go to Fitchburg, where charges of assault and battery made against him by Miss Reed will be heard in the police court there.

LODGE HEADS COMMITTEE

Five Republicans and Two Democrats to Probe High Cost of Living

Washington, Feb. 18.—The following committee was announced by Vice President Sherman to conduct the investigation into the high cost of living, ordered by the senate: Senators Lodge (chairman), Gallinger, McCumber, Smoot and Crawford, Republicans, and Simmons and Clarke, Democrats.

The statement was made that Senator Elkins, author of the resolution, had declined the chairmanship and membership on the committee owing to important business before the interstate commerce commission committee, of which he is chairman.

Trial of Alleged Assailants of Annie Moskill Begins at Bridgeport

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 18.—In the superior court here Annie Moskill told the story of her marriage to Joseph Morak, and how the latter, assisted by Bartonl Laski, threw her into a well on the Perry farm in Fairfield on the night of Jan. 15.

The two men were arraigned and pleaded not guilty to the three charges preferred against them, robbery and conspiracy to rob, assault and robbery, and robbery and attempt to murder.

OLD LAWS INADEQUATE

Victims Get but Small Percent of Damage Awards, Says Gompers

Washington, Feb. 18.—Less than 20 percent of the hundred millions of dollars recovered in personal damages in this country finally reached the hands of those for whom the law intended it, declared Samuel Gompers in advocating a new compensation law before a sub-committee of the house judiciary committee.

Mr. Gompers said the great increase in the number of accidents and deaths due to modern inachinery had rendered the old laws inadequate.

KIEF AND KAUF.

A Story of Two Friendly Telegraph Operators

By TOM CARLTON.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

Kiefer of telegraph station 12, Buller's survey, was bored. His station was not a busy one, and he longed for some one to talk to. He called up Kaufman of a neighboring station, whose acquaintance he had made over the wire some time before.

"Kauf, are you busy?"

"No. Are you?"

"Yes. I'm busy holding my chair down."

"I'm reading a novel."

"Who's it by?"

"Maria Edgeworth."

"Good gracious! You don't read such stuff as that, do you? I thought Maria Edgeworth wrote for women and children."

After a few moments this came: "I don't read much fiction. When I do I usually read Hardy, Hall Caine and such authors."

"What's your favorite athletic game?"

"Basketball."

"Don't you go in for football?"

"I never learned the game."

"When we meet some autumn I'll tell you something about it. Nothing pleases me so much as a fine punt. I think you'll like it too."

"No; I don't think so. I'm not much on athletics anyway. Pictures and music suit me better."

"I'm with you there. I'm fond of both. I play the violin. Do you play any instrument?"

"The harp."

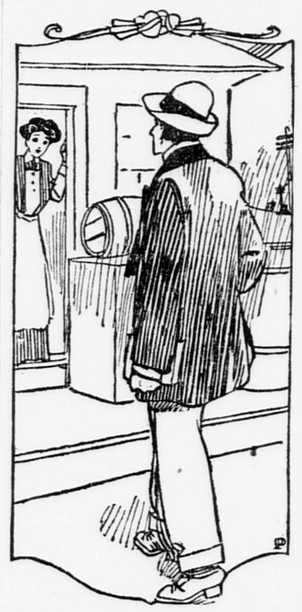

"I love the harp. But with the exception of street musicians I've generally found the girls take to the harp rather than men. I've always fancied that the girl I should tie up to would play the harp."

"That so? I should like my partner to play the violin."

There was a slight pause, after which Kief asked, "Aren't you coming up this way soon?"

"Don't think I'll ever get off. If I do I'd like to go in the fall so that you can show me how to kick football. You seem to be so bent on doing so."

"And you can instill into me a taste for Maria Edgeworth and that sort of feminine reading. That's the only thing about you I fancy I won't like if we ever meet."

"WELL?" INQUIRED THE GIRL AT LAST.

"Oh, you'll find me manly enough! Don't fear for that."

At this juncture Kauf said that some one was coming, and the dialogue ceased.

This is a sample of the chats the two operators had over the wire, but a very small one. They got to telling each other their joys and their sorrows. Kief said one day over the wire: "I wish, Kauf, I could express sympathy as well as you. I feel it all, but I can't get it out." Kief possessed certain traits that Kauf appreciated, and so the two, though they had never met, became fast friends.

One day Kief was offered a leave. Kiefer had not been absent from duty in three years. He had not wanted to be. But with that bit of ribbon just ticked from the instrument before his eyes he underwent a sudden change. Suppose he had no friends to go to and his instincts were not toward hunting, he would accept the vacation so tardily offered and make the most of it. His books said that a change was good for a man's soul, and he would come back refreshed in mind and body. He loved the sand views of station 12, for they signified home, but the changeless monotony of the four sides had grown a little oppressive since the arrival of 13.

Before ticking back an acceptance to the home office he let his finger fall upon the instrument for a moment, touching the hand of his friend, as it were.

"Hello, Kaufman!" he called. "Are you in for a vacation too?"

"A week," came back the prompt answer, "commencing on the 23d."

"The 23d! Why, mine ends on that date, and it's two weeks. But I understand. I've been here three years and you only three months, and now it's a dull time they're going to let you control the section while I'm away and then I'm to do the same for you. Too bad, though, for I'd thought we might go off together. Odd, isn't it? I feel you're the best friend I've got in the world—about the only one, for that matter—for we've wired no end of personal gossip and ambition, and our tastes run about the same way, and yet I've never seen you and don't know whether you're short or tall, lean or fat, heathen or a Y. M. C. A. or whether your mustache is still to sprout or your white hair is dropping out from old age. Queer world, isn't it, Kauf? But say, I believe I'll run down and spend my vacation with you. There's no other place I can think of, and we can see how each other looks and talk and smoke and"—

There was a quick, protesting click. "Don't you do it, Kiefer. What is your name anyway—the whole of it? Kiefer is so—so unceremonious and blunt. But about the vacation. You mustn't visit me now—mustn't. Why, it's impossible! I—I haven't the accommodations, and—and I'm so busy, and"—

There was a call from the home office, and with a hurried explanation to Kaufman he flashed in an acceptance of the proffered leave of absence, took and answered the call, made a few final arrangements, then bent over to continue the conversation, hesitated and swung back from the instrument.

"I won't do it," he chuckled. "Kauf's likely ashamed of his looks, baldheaded or fat or one eyed or something and don't want me to know. I'm going to visit him on the next train, and I'm not going to give him a chance for any more excuses. Ashamed! Great Scott! Don't we like the same books and music and everything else? What do I care how the old chap looks? He ought to know my regard rises above such petty considerations. And I believe he thinks just as much of me. His personal confidences prove it. I'll just drop in on him so suddenly and affectionately that he can't help taking me in his arms."

So when the through freight slowed at the water tank Kiefer swung himself into the caboose with a generous outfit of tobacco and books and a brand new pack of cards ordered up by the freight conductor. And this same friendly conductor when they reached telegraph station 13 obligingly slowed the train so Kiefer could drop into the white, yielding sand, the familiar, unvarying landscape of his own station.

"Accommodations," he chuckled as he strode eagerly toward the open doorway of the little building. "It's got two rooms like my own, and that's plenty of accommodations for any reasonable man. But perhaps Kauf was used to a big house at home. Hello! Window curtains and flowers at the end of the house, and—Lord!"

For a young woman, pretty and neatly dressed and with lips and eyes that were meant for smiling, but that just now were sober with inquiry and consternation, had suddenly appeared in the doorway. Kiefer had not seen a girl in over three years, and such a girl as this one appeared to him never. His mouth opened and shut without sound.

"Well?" the girl inquired at last.

"Is—is Kauf in? How's Kauf? Well? T-tell Kauf I'm out here to see him," answered Kiefer dazedly.

"I'm Kauf—Adalia Kaufman," said the girl. Then the utter blankness in the face before her seemed to restore the girl's equanimity, for she smiled.

"You're Kief, I suppose—er—Mr. Kiefer, I mean," she said. "Didn't I wire you?"

"I wouldn't take it," miserably. "I—I thought it was some foolish excusing of a man who wasn't used to visitors. I heard the instrument calling and recognized your touch, but I wouldn't listen. After that first time I kept my back turned and dodged out soon 's the train came in sight." He looked toward the track as though to see if the train were still waiting for him, but all that was visible of it was a dark line trailing into the white horizon.

"Train's gone," he said tentatively, "and it's fifty miles to the nearest house, and there aren't any more trains either way until tomorrow. Now, if I'd brought some food I might walk the fifty miles or start off one way or the other to meet a train, but it's been eight hours since I had breakfast, and fifty miles— You see," deprecatingly, "I felt so sure that Kauf—I beg your pardon, Miss Kauf—Kaufman, I mean—I—I—it doesn't seem possible there isn't any real Kauf after all the talking—wiring—we've done."

"You've camped outdoors a good many times, I suppose, Mr. Kiefer. All western men have."

"Of course," inquiringly. Then, with an odd note of eagerness coming into his voice, "you mean I can camp right here by the track until a train comes? It won't be presumptuous after—after my density?"

"I control only the station, Mr Kiefer, and you have a right to camp anywhere you please out of doors. But what I wish to say is that I'll be glad to have you take supper with me and all your meals until the train comes. At home I was considered a very fair cook. We can talk about books and such things."

The next day the down freight was four hours late, and when it began to slacken speed in answer to his signal Kiefer released a hand which he had caught suddenly on the first appearance of the train into the sand's level horizon.

"I'll go and fix up my station some," he said, his voice tremulous with the awed wonder in it, "and maybe have another room put on. The company will stand that much, I think. Then I'll run back and transplant the flowers and take over your things, and—and the day before my vacation expires I'll wire for a parson to meet us here. You'd better send in your resignation at once, Kauf."

"And announce my promotion, Kief," she finished softly.

Hogs Highest For Forty Years

Chicago, Feb. 18.—Live hogs at the stock yards touched a price unequalled since 1870, selling at $9.40 a hundred weight. Continued light receipts at the packing centers and reports of a scarcity of hogs on the farms call out prophecies that the $10 mark touched in 1870 may soon be reached.

Mrs. William E. Corey.

Former Stage Favorite, Now Wife of Steel President.

It was asserted some time ago that Mrs. William E. Corey, wife of the president of the United States Steel corporation, expected to present him the coming spring with an heir to his millions. Mrs. Corey was formerly Mabelle Gilman, the actress.

BRIEFS.

The City Council Committee on State Aid will meet tonight.

Cahrles H. Johnson gave his lecture on Historic Quincy at Woodward hall Thursday evening.

Clarence H. Moulton of Belmont street has returned from a business trip through Connecticut

The blizzard promised for Thursday night died in its infancy. It rained, snowed and blowed during the night.

A stereopticon lecture by Lester H. Clee was enjoyed by the members of the Wollaston Boys' club at the Congregational church on Thursday evening.

The reception committee of one hundred on the banquet to President Bowles of the Fore River Ship Building Co., will meet tonight at City Hall to complete arrangements for the banquet.

The case of John M. O'Brien against the city was reached in the Superior court at Dedham shortly before adjournment on Thursday and went on the first thing this morning. City Solicitor McAnarney represents the city, and Paul R. Blackmur appears for Mr. O'Brien.

The granite shipments from the two railroad terminals for the month of January amounted to 5,642,120 pounds. This was considerable less then the amount shipped in December, but compares favorably with January of the previous year. As a rule the month of January is the quietest month in the year for shipments. Of the total amount shipped West Quincy forwarded 3,172,185 pounds, and South Quincy 2,469,935 pounds.

OIL PIPE LINES TO HOT PLACE

Only Place Jeff Davis Is Willing to See Them Enter

Washington, Feb. 18.—Senator Jeff Davis of Arkansas startled the senate with the declaration that he would like to see John D. Rockefeller consigned to perdition and burned in flames caused by the consumption of the products of the Standard Oil company.

He spoke in opposition to a bill authorizing an oil and gas pipe line across the public lands of Arkansas.

SENATOR DAVIS.

Accusing Senator Owen, sponsor of the bill, of a business connection with the Standard company, he engaged in a spirited colloquy with that senator.

The bill was passed at a previous session of the senate and was recalled by Owen to accommodate Davis. In his speech Davis contended that the admission of the pipe line into Arkansas would violate the anti-trust law of his state. He said that hell was the only place he would be, willing to see the Standard Oil company's pipe lines enter, and that he would also be glad to see Rockefeller "incinerated in the flames caused by his own oil."

Mr. Owen denied all connection with the Standard Oil company and said that the oil of Oklahoma could be got out only through pipe lines crossing Arkansas. On the passage of the bill Davis cast the only negative vote.

"I thank God," said Davis, "that I have never made an exhibition in favor of the Standard Oil company." He went on to say that "oil doesn't smell good to me and I don't like it." Then he exclaimed in sonorous tones: "Before God, Mr. President, I'd rather have my right hand forget its cunning, my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth and the mother who bore me disown me than appear here as an advocate of such a concern as the Standard Oil company."

Here there was a long pause during which the senate laughed. Then Davis said he was most in earnest about the matter. Some of the senators again laughed.

"Let each senator vote as his conscience dictates," exclaimed Davis. "Let the blood be upon you. I submit my case without further comment."

Senator Owen replied that Davis' speech did not deserve an answer, but he explained all that stood in the way of the pipe line was about fourteen forty-acre tracts of public lands which could not be condemned in the usual way. He said the Standard Oil company had been admitted to Arkansas by the legal authorities of the state.

"By what authority?" demanded Davis.

"Does the senator from Oklahoma yield?" asked Senator Gamble, in the chair.

"I decline to yield," said Owen. "The senator from Arkansas has forfeited his right to consideration from the senator from Oklahoma. I desire that he remember that." His voice rang with indignation.

When he had taken his seat Davis said: "So far as forfeiting the respect of the senator from Oklahoma, I care nothing. Toss it to the winds. I never had any for him in the first place."

Davis closed his speech with another reference to J. D. Rockefeller, whom he characterized as an "old sly fox," but he admitted that he had many friends, in court and out.

CHILDREN ON THE STAGE.

The Association of Theatre Managers of Boston has petitioned the Legislature for a law to permit a child under 15 years of age to appear in a speaking part in plays when licensed so to do by some official of the city or town in question, provided that the employment is not of a nature to corrupt its morals or impair its health.

If the late decision of the Supreme Court is taken literally, children cannot appear in amateur performances, Sunday school entertainments, in charity plays, or in school exercises. Children simply cannot appear on a public stage, for such appearance is work and subject to the factory law, which forbids a child under 15 years of age from engaging in any employment, whether for compensation or not, that may in any way endanger its health.

H. B. Warner, in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," Francis Wilson in "Bachelor's Baby," Dustin Farnum in "Cameo Kirby," Mrs. Fiske in "Salvation Nell," Margaret Anglin in "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie" and many others that have children in the cast, are forbidden to appear in Boston and other cities of this State. The child labor law in Massachusetts and Illinois, ostensibly for the purpose of protecting children against excessive work, has been construed so as to discriminate against children on the stage. To present a play that requires a child in the company is now impossible in any city in Massachusetts, unless the manager adopts the expedient of engaging a dwarf past the age limit, for the child role.

A prominent manager of New York in a recent interview said:—"There should be a uniform child labor law. A law based on intelligence that would not place the stage child in the same category as the factory child. No one could honestly complan that the children in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," or in Mrs. Fiske's beautiful play "Salvation Nell," or Francis Wilson's charming play "Bachelor's Baby" are overworked.

All these children have the best of care; in most cases their mother travels with them; they are well dressed; they are given an education; they have their hours of study and their hours for play; they have far greater comforts than the majority of children, knowing this, isn't it absurd to try to "protect" such children to the extent of forbidding them to earn money almost without an effort,—or even completely without an effort? For children enjoy acting and make-believe."

An officer of the Massachusetts Child Labor Society said that child actors seldom reached prominence in the theatrical profession when they grew up. To show how wrong this officer was and how little he knows about the subject of stage children, let me tell you that Miss Maude Adams had a speaking part at the age of 5. Lena Abarbanell, the comic opera singer, began at the age of 7. Mary Anderson was only 16 when she made her first appearance, and her studies for the stage began four years earlier. Julia Arthur began acting at the age of 11. Lillian Blauvelt, the singer, appeared in public at the age of 7. Joseph Cawthorne was 3; Willie Collier was 10; Rose Coughlin began to play child parts almost as soon as she could speak. William Seymour, Charles Frohman's general stage director, was an actor at the age of 7. Mabel Teliaferro was a child actress. Fay Templeton was 3 years old when she made her first stage appearance; Fritz Williams was the same age. Mrs. Annie Yeamans, who is called the oldest actress on the stage, began her long career when she was but 10.

Unless the Legislature grants the prayer of the Association of Theatrical Managers, the theatre-going public will be sufferers to the extrnt that under the present interpretation of th law they will be deprived of seeing a great many of the very plays and stars now before the public. In many states the law is such that children can play the parts assigned them. The framers of the law never intended it to apply to children on the stage, but to those who were employed in factories and where their duties would impair their health.

PAULHAN IS ENJOINED

Court Thinks Aeroplane Steering Device Belongs to the Wrights

New York, Feb. 18.—Judge Hand, in the United States circuit court, granted the injunction pendente lite asked for by the Wright company against Louis Paulhan, who is charged with using in his exhibition flights a machine which is alleged to be an infringement of the patent granted to Orville and Wilbur Wright.

Judge Hand says he does not consider it necessary to decide the question whether or not the Wright brothers were the "first to fly" because that was not an issue in the case. He says, however, that he cannot find anyone prior to their patent had flown with the patented steering system.

ARMY AND NAVY ANTAGONISMS

May Result In the Lighthouse Board Being Abolished

Washington, Feb. 18.—Congress shows symptoms of a desire to end the ridiculous conditions under which the lighthouse service is conducted. It is a striking fact that one of the most efficient arms of the government service should be at the same time one of the most loosely organized.

The lighthouse service is the largest permanent division of the department of commerce and labor. It employs 2753 men, or more than twice as many as in the next largest division, that of naturalization. It includes sixteen districts, touching all navigable waters under the jurisdiction of the United States, and maintains a fleet of more than sixty vessels.

The affairs of the lighthouse service are administered by a lighthouse board, of which the secretary of commerce and labor is ex-officio president. The board also has a chairman —Rear Admiral Marix just now—but neither of these officials has any real authority.

The board as a whole, under the present law, is composed of two naval officers, two army officers and two civilians; and there are in addition a naval secretary, an engineer secretary and a chief clerk. The board is required to meet monthly, but no real business can be transacted or any authoritative decision made by anybody except at a meeting of the board.

The sixteen districts are administered each by two inspectors, one from the army and the other from the navy. Friction between the branches is very common. Each branch of the service has a tender (steamboat) of its own, each with its own crew and recognizing no authority but that of the arm of the service to which the inspector belongs.

Charles Nagel made up his mind when he became secretary of commerce and labor that such a state of things should not exist any longer. He has taken hold of the matter vigorously, and now congress is in the throes of straightening it out. Representative Mann of Chicago has succeeded in getting through the house a bill putting the lighthouse service under the charge of one commissioner, to be assisted by a chief constructing engineer. This bill does away with the lighthouse board, and also places the administration of the service in the hands of civilians instead of military officers.

The bill has gone to the senate committee on commerce, over which Mr Frye presides, and there it is meeting with some objections. Nagel admires the purpose of Mann, but thinks the legislation goes a little too far in excluding officers of the army and navy from the service. The chief defect of the present system, he says, is that the service has no adequate administrative head.

Mr. Nagel says it is for congress to decide whether or not military or civil engineers shall carry on the work of the service, and that he will be satisfied with either. His preference is that the president shall be given the power to designate in this respect. On the great lakes it might be found much more convenient and effective if civilian inspectors should be employed.

William Livingston, president of the Lake Carriers' association, favors reorganization of the service, but does not believe that it should be put wholly in the hands of civilians. His association had differences with the naval officers, he says, but they have been due rather to lack of an adequate head of the service than because of anything else.

IN THE THEATRICAL WORLD

SHUBERT THEATRE.

It is a jolly aggregation of merry-makers, singing favorites, models of beauty and grace, exponents of all sorts of terpsichorean art that keeps the audiences enthusiastically amused with "The Midnight Sons" at the Shubert theatre. Lew Fields evidentally believes in not only overpowering all possible oppostion from his audiences with numbers—there are 250 people in some of the scenes—but he makes a feature of the quality of his big company as well. Having provided strength in numbers and cast the proceeds to lavish money on the richest fabrics for his costumes and then amazes spectators not only with the beauty and variety of the scenic investiture but with the massiveness of it all. Then for good measure he throws in a few such startling novelties as the theatre scene, the flying Pullman train, and the stag dinner of 100 diners at the Insomnia hotel. But best of all, he provides a good show that everyone not only likes but goes away talking enthusiastically about. "The Midnight Sons" starts on its third week next Monday night, February 21. It is the regular thing now for the house to be completely sold out at every performance. This musical play—the only one in Boston, by the way—will not be seen elsewhere in New England. There will be an extra matinee performance Washington's Birthday, February 22d.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The coming week of "Shore Acres" at the Castle Square will be the third and last of the highly successful run of that popular drama of life way down East. Crowded houses have witnessed its scenes of rustic humor and emotion, and large audiences have laughed over the peculiarities of the Yankee characters, and have shown their sympathy with Uncle Nat in his struggle with his brother over the old family homestead that the one wants to retain and the other wants to sell. Not a little of the success of the production is due to Mr. Craig's acting of Uncle Nat, which is wholesome in its simplicity and faithful in its delineation of the Yankee character. It is an achievement of which Mr. Craig may well be proud. The scenery is picturesque, the between the acts music is entertaining. All in all "Shore Acres" is having a revival by the John Craig Stock Company at the Castle Square that it richly deserves.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

The season at Keith's is proving one of the most remarkable in the history of that vaudeville theatre, and all Boston is attending the shows. For five weeks Loie Fuller's Ballet of Light has been the attraction that has never been equalled in vaudeville and next week the bill will contain a host of new features of ejual importance. Nat Wills the tramp comedian who is now recognized as the leading humorist in this line of work, comes with an entirely new line of talk, stories that have been setting New York by the ears, and of course introducing something new about his famous affinity Hortense. Another big feature will be furnished by George V. Hobart's sketch entitled "Dinkelspiel's Christmas." Dinkelspiel is an old, wholesome German with a fund of wit and a song who is thoroughly Americanized and a mother who is unable to understand it. A sensational feature will be the famous Saxon Trio, who claim to hold the worlds record in new feats of strength in which they challenge all comers.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Klaw & Erlanger's new and greater presentation of "Ben-Hur" which inaugurated a limited engagement at the big Boston theatre on Monday evening scored a triumph unprecedented in the amusement annals of Boston theatricals. For the premier, thirty-five hundred persons crowded New England's historic playhouse to its utmost capacity while several thousands who clamored for admission had to be turned away. It was a glorious night for the big Boston theatre and one that will live forever in the memory of those who participated. As arranged on the vast stage of the Boston theatre "Ben-Hur "is a dozen entertainments rolled into one. It appeals not only to regular theatregoers but to all classes of men and women—those of the church and those who are not—for it has all the qualities that call the religiously inclined as well as all the dramatic fire and romance which attract the worldly. Pageantry and pomp there are for the lovers of those things; religious fervor and reverence for holy things for the church-goer; excitement and adventure, romance and lovers, for the regular patron of the theatre. and combining all these into one harmonious whole is the story of Ben-Hur's devotion to the cause of righteousness, his love of truth and honor, and his manly fight to maintain his position before the world.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

A glance over the list of attractions at the American Music Hall this week will convince any theatregoer that every act is of the headline variety. There is not a single filler or weak number in the whole bill. To begin with next week will mark the first appearance in Boston of the wonderful English singing comedian, George Lashwood. Mr. Lashwood came to New York a stranger to Americans only a few weeks ago and his engagement there stamped him as the greatest European importation since Lauder. While his style is different from the great Scotch comedian yet there is a wonderful similarity between them. Lashwood remains on the stage for almost an hour just as Lauder did and at the end of that time there are incessant calls for more. Lashwood has packed to the doors every theatre in which he has appeared just as Lauder has done before him. He has been called the Beau Brummell of the stage because of his faultless attire and his newest styles in clothes. Another headline act is that of Sidnew Drew and company in the screaming farce "When Two Hearts are Won." As a member of the famous Drew family Mr. Drew has long since been recognized as one of America's leading actors.

ROOSEVELT'S GREAT HUNTING TRIP ENDS

Picturesque Entry of Americans Into Gondokoro

Gondokoro, Soudan, Feb. 18.—Colonel Roosevelt, Kermit Roosevelt and the other members of the Smithsonian African scientific expedition arrived here Thursday. All are well and enthusiastic over their experiences and the scientific results of their explorations.

From here Roosevelt will go down the Bar-el-Jabel and the Nile to Khartoum, where Mrs. Roosevelt will meet him. Then on to Cairo and to Europe is the itinerary.

The ex-president was met by a brass band, Chief Kerriba's group of buglers, fifteen miles out, and the blast from the horns gave the word that the former president had reached the end of his trail.

The band broke into "America," as the town's population turned out in force. After it came the Stars and Stripes, borne by a porter, and then the caravan, the native porters bringing up the rear.

MISHAPS TO FAST TRAINS

Passengers on One Complete Their Journey on an Engine

Boston, Feb. 18.—Two northbound passenger trains from Boston met mishaps yesterday. One was the "Cannon Ball," bound for Plymouth, N. H., which, owing to a broken rail, left the track near Lakeport, N. H., the passengers being compelled to make the remaining twenty-one miles of their trip in the cab of a locomotive.

The other was the Boston and Maine express to Montreal, which ran into a freight engine at West Burke, Vt., causing the derailment of both engines and holding up the express several hours.

WHOLE TOWN GUTTED

Great Slaughter of Tribesmen In Another Raid by the Mad Mullah

Aden, Arabia, Feb. 18.—Mohammed Abdullah of Somaliland, the "Mad Mullah," is again on the warpath. A big force of dervishes has raided the sultanate of the Mijertins, killing and burning in all directions.

The slaughter of the tribesmen was very heavy. One whole town was gutted by fire and 14,000 camels taken by the dervishes. The administration of the sultanate of the Mijertins is intrusted to the government of Italian Somaliland.

NIXON RECEIVED $1000

Statement of Conger In the Graft Inquiry at New York Capitol

Albany, Feb. 18.—S. F. Nixon was the third name that Senator Conger says Hiram G. Moe wrote on one of the envelopes in which they carried $6000 to the state capitol nine years ago to buy protection for the bridge companies.

The name of the former speaker of the assembly announced by Conger on the stand completes the trio. Nixon's envelope, according to Conger, like that of Senator Allds, held $1000. The remainder of the fund, $4000, was in the envelope given to Nixon's lieutenant, Assemblyman Burnett.

These were the revelations that marked the closing minutes of the senate's investigation of the bribery charges yesterday afternoon.

Peru and Eucador to Fight

Lima, Feb. 18.—Preparations for war continue on the part of both Peru and Ecuador. The trouble grows out of the boundary dispute between the two countries. The only hope of foreign merchants is that the United States will intervene and prevent hostilities.

Big Orders For Scotch Rails

Glasgow, Feb. 18.—Scotch manufacturers have received inquiries for shipments of steel rails aggregating over 50,000 tons. Eighteen thousand tons are for shipment to Canada.

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

THANKS NOT ENOUGH

McCall Comes Out Strongly In Favor of Promotion of Peary

Washington, Feb. 18.—Representative Samuel W. McCall (Mass.) is disgusted over the way in which congress appears to be going at the matter of recognizing the achievements of Robert E. Peary as an explorer.

COPYRIGHT BY C.M. LINEBURST, WASH. D.C.

CONGRESSMAN M'CALL.

"I am very strongly of the opinion that Peary should be retired with the relative rank of rear admiral, as recommended by the secretary of the navy," said McCall. "He has certinly added lustre to the American navy by the most brilliant exploits recorded in the work of exploring the ocean and especially by his discovery of the North Pole.

"It is a belittling of his services to give him only the thanks of congress and a medal. What foreign navy would not be proud of such brilliant trophies? I shall certainly support the bill to retire Peary as a rear admiral if it comes before the house."

FIVE KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Many Others Seriously Injured In Disaster at Powder Works

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 18.—An explosion in the mixing room of the Trojan powder works at San Lorenz cost the lives of Chemist Reuben Tharp and four workmen and caused a property loss of $50,000.

Four other employes were seriously if not fatally injured, and a dozen more were severely burned and bruised.

TELLS OF DEATH THREAT

Testimony Against Mrs. Glover by Sister-In-Law of Slain Man

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Arthur P. Glover, a sister-in-law of Clarence F. Glover, testified in the probate court that Clarence had told her that his wife, Lillian M. Glover, had threatened to kill him, and that she had made the same threat to the witness.

Mrs. Glover also testified that Clarence told her and her husband that he had made his will and that his wife had forced him to make it as he did. This was the first time that testimony was introduced in the sensational Glover will contest to show that Mrs. Glover had influenced her husband in making the will which four of his brothers seek to have broken.

New York, Feb. 18.—Coincident with the growth of rumors that William J. Conners will resign from his office of chairman of the Democratic state committee, came a call for a special meeting of the committee in Albany on Feb. 24. Conners did not sanction the call.

Doughnuts Cooked In Machine Oil

Laurel, Md., Feb. 18.—A mistake in the delivery of two barrels of oil nearly caused fatal results here, when fifty persons were made violently ill by eating doughnuts served by a local bakery which had been prepared in machine oil by mistake for cooking oil.

TAX COLLECTION THROUGH LABOR

Slavery Will Continue to Exist In Belgian Congo

Brussels, Feb. 18.—The chamber of deputies, by a vote of 79 to 40, passed the Congo budget. It provides for no change in the system of raising revenue by compulsory labor.

The Congo reform scheme provided for a collection of taxes, wherever possible, in money, instead of labor. It is the latter form of assessment which has been the root of all the terrible abuses in the Free State.

The agents of Leopold demanded from each native in the Congo the collection of a certain amount of rubber, an amount to collect which would require the labor of each native for all his time, a state of affairs which was nothing more nor less than slavery. In case the native rebelled he was treated with the greatest cruelty, tortured, and frequently killed.

By the above dispatch, it will be seen, the collection of taxes through labor, which is liable to the gravest abuses, is still continued in the colony.

FOUGHT WITH BURGLAR

Rhode Island Youngster Says Intruder Came Out Second Best

Wakefield, R. I., Feb. 18.—Blood stains on the carpet, a slash in his jacket, and his watch with broken crystal and dented case were exhibited by Earl Rollinson, a small boy, to support his story that he was attacked by a burglar in his home here.

The youngster said that while he was alone in the house, he heard someone moving about and discovered an unknown man. He says he screamed for help and the burglar drew a knife.

The boy declares that he pulled out his pocket knife and in the fight that followed he cut the man's hand, while the burglar's knife penetrated the boy's jacket, but struck his watch. The man then ran out of the house and disappeared.

Dried Eggs at Low Prices.

The department of commerce and labor at Washington is spreading broadcast the information that Chinese eggs can be sold for 2 cents a pound—without the shells too. The eggs are dried by a special process. It is estimated that China produces 800,000,000 eggs a year.

BIGGER BETTER BUSIER

In order that we may purchase a bigger and better stock of goods and make our store busier during the next few days we offer everything here at prices much lower than cost. If you want a suit, skirt, waist, or furs call here during this week. This is the chance of your life to save money.

Our custom tailoring department continues to gain in popularity. No woman can be happy with a misfit garment and we guarantee all suits, etc., that leave our hands to be perfect in every way. Come in and look around. We invite inspection.

William E. Corey.

President of the United States Steel Corporation.

William E. Corey, president of the United States Steel corporation, is the husband of Mabelle Gilman Corey, the actress, who expects to give birth to an heir to the Corey fortune in the spring. Mr. and Mrs. Corey were married in 1907 after the first Mrs. Corey obtained a divorce.

BRIEFS

Secretary Duncan has advised the Granite Cutters' union of Barre to sign the manufacturers' bill.

The house of W. A. Mann of Flynt street, Norfolk Downs, was burglarized on Tuesday afternoon, and about $75 in property taken. The thieves were evidently frightened away as a bag of goods was left behind.

Charles S. Hanscom of Atlantic, a clerk, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $872 and assets of $275.

Maurice P. Spillane of Elm street reports that his house was burglarized Tuesday evening while the family were out, and a watch, watch fob and several pins stolen valued at about $75 .

"Do you pay for poetry?" asked the pretty girl.

"Y-yes, "replied the editor with some hesitation." "What do you pay?"

"Compliments."—Pearson's Magazine.

HEARING

out the railroad would have a connecting link and have a nice drive. No question why money should not be appropriated to do this work. State has taken 3,000 acres of our 10,000. Why should we be longer imposed on? We ought to have had $500,000 instead of what we got.

Thomas Swithin was one of original appraisors. It was time State finished what was started and when done it will be one of prettiest drives in the whole state. This is only entrance South Shore has to the reservation. Could see no argument in opposition. Was a disgrace to leave it in the condtiion it is now in. Unless you help us God knows when it will be built.

John Evans believed in economy, but did not believe in building a house with no way to get into the parlor. Did not believe in building a boulevard either with no way to get to it.

W. W. Adams explained what city had lost in taxable property by the failure to build the boulevard.

President Stone of the Board of Trade in opposition said that everybody was in favor of the boulevard being completed but not until the solution of the grade crossing was determined.

Councilman John R. Richards expressed the same sentiments.

G. B. Bates said that it had been said of some of those in favor of the petition that a great acreage of land had been taken, something like 2,700 acres, but the facts were that the takings were very largely waste land, marsh land and meadow land, and they were a happy people who were so fortunate to be able to relieve themselves of it by dumping it onto the Metropolitan Park commission and getting money. Mr. Bates stated that he was opposed to the appropriation under any conditions this year, or until the grade crossing problem was settled. Then give us the parkway.

BIG PAGEANT TO EXALT OLD ERIN

Ireland's Heroic Past to Be Shown at Chicago.

THOUSANDS ARE TO TAKE PART

Production of One Scene Will Require Presence of 1,000 Persons—History of Ireland From Earliest Times to Be Portrayed In Chronicle Play.

Announcement was made at the meeting of the Irish Fellowship club in Chicago the other day by former Judge Elbridge Hanecy that "The Pageant of Ireland" will be produced at the Collseum in Chicago during the second week of May. While the Irish Fellowship club has taken the initiative in the matter, the production, it was learned, will be participated in by all Irish organizations in Chicago.

Present plans indicate, it is declared, that not less than 2,500 men and women will take part in the various scenes, a production of one of them requiring the presence of 1,000 persons. A special effort will be made to have present day descendants of old Irish leaders represent their ancestors in the play.

Author Describes Plans.

The book of the pageant is being written and the production directed by Thomas Wood Stevens, author of "The Pageant of the Italian Renaissance," given at the Art institute last year, and "The Historical Pageant of Illinois," presented at Northwestern university in October, 1909. A large amount of material made in Ireland, it is said, will be imported for the costumes and setting.

In speaking of the proposed production Mr. Stevens said:

"The pageant will be composed of dramatic scenes connected and introduced by spoken interludes. It will present in this form of a chronicle play the great characters and events of Irish history and literature, from the coming of the Milesians (as related in the "Book of Iuvasions") to the last marshaling of the clans in allegiance to Roderick O'Conor. The effort is to visualize the heroic past and to make familiar the chief figures of a great age in the world's history. The setting of the pageant will be massive and artistically decorative, and a large number of persons will take part in it.

"The pageant will be divided by an intermission into two parts, of which the first will be for the most part legendary, representing the history and literature of Erin before the coming of Christianity, while the second part will deal with recorded events between the landing of St. Patrick and the acceptance of the last high king. The book of the pageant is based on the best Irish historical authorities and not only follows the great events of the period, but suggests at the same time certain main stems in the carefully recorded old system of Irish genealogy, since many of the events dramatized are connected with the founding of great families.

Milesian Landing Depicted.

"The first scene will represent the landing of the Milesians. They demand the kingdom of the Tuatha de Danaans, but accede to the condition that they return to their ships, go out to the 'ninth wave' and make their landing again. The sorcerers raise a magic storm, and the ships are scattered, in spite of which the landing is made, and the scus of Miledh become the masters of the island.

"The next scenes deal with the events of the red branch and Fenian cycles, and the themes are the chief figures and events of Irish romance—Cuchulain, Conchubar, Queen Maeve, the flight of Dierdre, Finn MacCumhail and the Feniáns. This closes the legendary phase. The first half ends with the coming of St. Patrick and the scene of the conversion of the king on Tara hill.

"The recorded authentic history is carried along through this period in the spoken interludes, and the second half deals only with actual historic figures. The first scene presents St. Bridget, Columkill and the age of learning, the scene closing with the coming of the Danes and the sack of the schools which the saints have founded. The next great scene shows the abdication of King Malachy and the acceptance of Brian Boroihme. This prepares for the great scene of the battle of Clontarf, which closes with the lament for Brian's death. The last scene shows the marshaling of the various clans in allegiance to Roderick O'Conor and is to be presented as far as possible by the representatives of the clans now living in the city.

"The pageant closes with a symbolic setting of a very impressive character and a procession of all those taking part. The spoken interludes throughout will be delivered in the character of an ancient ollamh, or bard, and will make clear the historical and chronological relations of the various dramatic scenes. The entire book, both the interludes and acted scenes, will be in verse, and there will be an elaborate musical setting specially written for the work."

JEFF READY TO START WORK.

Will Begin Training In Hot Springs Early In March.

IS WORRIED OVER HIS WIND.

Californian Intends to Do Most of His Work Outdoors So as to Perfect His Bellows—Big Fellow Should Engage Several Husky Pugilists to Help Him.

Since Jim Jeffries announced that he would start training for his coming contest with Jack Johnson the first week in March the big fellow has been receiving hundreds of letters daily from the fight experts and fans offering all kinds of suggestions as to how he should prepare for the coming mill and some advice as to how he should fight the negro. As Jeff has his own ideas as to how he should train for the coming mill, all the suggestions will go for naught.

Jeffries has announced time and again that he will devote most of his time to outdoor work so his wind may be as good as it ever was. He figures that with his bellows in good shape he will have very little difficulty in disposing of Johnson. While Jeff thinks this is O. K., still there is another thing just as important. That is for the big fellow to select a staff of husky young pugilists, not old timers, to fight, not box, with him, men that will try hard to sneak over a knockout wallop. He should engage in one of these real scraps twice a week. Then in a short time he would know whether his judge of distance is as good as ever. In justice to the people who are going to bet on him in the coming fight Jeff should do this. These men want to bet on James J., but they don't want to bet blindly. They want to know whether he is "there."

A man may train with the strength of a bull and the endurance of a Marathoner, but training isn't fighting—not by a long chalk. One round of real fighting sometimes takes more gimp out of a man than a half a day's hard work in the gymnasium. It's the nervous strain that does it.

When old John L. Sullivan turned up in New Orleans to train for Jim Corbett a bunch of prominent sporting men filled the gymnasium to see him begin training. Old John was fat; there was no getting away from that. But, fat as he was, there was one thing which he could do—he could skip the rope as nimbly as any other big man, and it did not seem to affect his wind.

John performed a few stunts, took hold of the waistband of his trousers and hauled in about a foot of slack, and that was enough for the wise boys. They went out and offered three and four to one that John L. would lick the youth Corbett. If a Corbett man turned up with any money they matched for him.

Jimmy Britt never showed more power of endurance than in his training for the Colma fight with Bat Nelson. Britt was also a rope skipper, punched the bag and slugged with his sparring partners for about two hours every afternoon, and such a glutton was he for work that he did not take the usual rest of one minute between rounds, but shadow boxed or mauled a heavy bag while the trainers were resting. He seemed to be able to last from noon till sundown, and he might have been able had he played his own game and boxed with Nelson instead of standing up in the sixth round to slug it out then and there.

At the end of that terrific three minutes both men were very tired, and Britt reeled to his corner, gasping for breath.

"I'm awful tired!" he said.

All his weeks of hard work, all his training for stamina and endurance, left him weak and shaky after three minutes of real fighting.

Jeff should have some real fights. The provisions of the articles of agreement will prevent him from engaging in public battles, but there is no reason why he should not take on some tough fellows and fight them to a finish in private. He will get nothing of assistance to him in boxing with a clever man. What he needs is real fighting. If Stanley Ketchel had trained for his second O'Brien fight by trying to pick up cleverness O'Brien would have outpointed him, because that is O'Brien's game.

Jeff will probably have the greatest all star training quarter staff in history, and seven or eight good cooks will always scramble the eggs and scorch the soup.

What Jeff needs is big, tough men who will stand up and try to knock his head off his shoulders. To win this fight he has got to perfect a system of rushing in with both hands and flailing away until he lands one good wallop, just as Stanley Ketchel went after O'Brien.

It isn't going to be brain which will lick Johnson so much as brawn and the wallop.

Roseben, once the mightiest sprinter in the country, is now one of the best hunters in New York state. Since his retirement to James Wadsworth's farm he has learned to jump. He soon became so proficient under the tuition of his young mistress, Miss Wadsworth, that he was permitted to try his prowess at the cross country sports. He is said to be one of the finest saddle horses in the land.

Hopes Old Colony Clubs Will Not Violate Salary Rule

Quincy Y. M. C. A. again got busy last evening at Malden defeating the association quintet there by a score 38 to 22. Morris got his usual five baskets and "Stan" Bates dropped in eight from the floor that helped bring home a fine victory.

Billy Haskett, the local long distance runner, will appear against some crack runners at the Charlestown State Armory games, Washington's Birthday night, in the 15 mile special race. The following have been invited: "Bob" Fowler, Joe Silva, Hackett, Henri Renaud and others. "Billy" must keep going to defeat these runners.

That surely was a hot match that Weymouth and Norfolk Downs had in the Old Colony bowling league Wednesday evening. The rolling by both teams was "all to the merry," and by the way Kiley of Weymouth equalled the high single string record with 117. The result was an even split.

The speedy Pinger A. C. basket ball team took our idols, the St. Mary's, into camp last evening at West Quincy by a score of 23 to 8. The game was exceedingly rough throughout but the best team evidently won out.

Harry W. Martin, the star twirler of the Rockland Old Colony league club, joined the Tufts varsity squad at Medford yesterday afternoon. Harry, as we all know, is the "goods" and the management at Tufts look to see him duplicate his great success of last year when nearly all colleges went before him.

The Hingham Yacht Club held a meeting and dinner at Rowe's wharf last night. Boston has accepted Hingham's challenge to race for the Quincy cup. The new boat "Bonivee" will undoubtedly be the Hingham's challenger.

Quincy High school basket ball team will play Lynn English High school five tomorrow afternoon at the High school gymnasium.

Let us hope that the clubs in the Old Colony baseball league do not violate the salary limit rule. Every wreck that baseball has known in the last five years was the direct result of leagues ignoring the salary limits of the players. We started on the downward path last year and must unite and pull together this season in order to continue. Take heed Quincy and remember "The Golden Rule. Rube.

THE QUINCY DAILY LEDGER

PUBLISHED IN THE CITY OF PRESIDENTS

Vol. 24 No. 43 | QUINCY, MASS., SATURDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 19, 1910 | PRICE TWO CENTS

CITY EXTENDS HEARTY WELCOME

The following wireless was flashed to President Bowles today who is speeding toward home on the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria of the Hamburg American line :

City of Quincy requests the honor of your presence at a reception and banquet tendered to you by her citizens on Wednesday evening next. I personally urge that you accept.

WILLIAM T. SHEA, Mayor

LET THE EAGLE SCREAM.

Quincy Business Men Aroused Over Reception and Banquet to President Bowles.

Bands will play!

Red fire will be burned!

Cannon will boom!

And enthusiasm will be let loose without restraint next Wednesday evening, when President Bowles leaves the train at the Quincy depot about 6 o'clock to become the guest of the guest of the citizens of Quincy, who will tender him a reception and banquet as a slight token of their appreciation of his efforts in securing the contract of $22,000,000 for the building of the two mammoth battleships for the Argentine Republic, as well as the securing of the contract of $500,000 to build six turbine engines for the Royal Italian navy.

Enthusiasm over the event has been like warm up to the present time, but since the meeting of the general reception committee last evening new life has been enthused into the celebration.

It was the first meeting that the general reception committee has held, so that the gentlemen composing the committee hardly knew what was expected of them. They know now, however, and each man will do his part toward making the reception and banquet the most successful event of its kind ever held in Quincy.

Mayor Shea presided at the meeting which was held in the Council chamber, and in opening said that it had been suggested that the city should show President Bowles in some way that it appreciated his efforts, and for that purpose a number of the leading business men of the city had been invited to meet at his office. He outlined what this committee had done. Briefly stated this was that President Bowles should be tendered a reception and banquet next Wednesday evening. The reception will be held in Alpha hall from 6 to 6.45 after which an adjournment will be made to Music hall where the banquet will be served.

It was also decided to appoint a reception committee of one hundred to create some enthusiasm. It had been suggested that the Governor be invited to be present, but it was later decided to make the affair purely local and confine it to citizens of Quincy. The price of the dinner tickets was one dollar. This whole amount would be paid to the caterer. Aside from this there would be some incidental expenses for music, decorations, cigars and flowers. He felt that President Bowles had done a great thing for Quincy and that the citizens should show that they appreciated it. The speakers would be requested to confine themselves to five or ten minutes so that the affair would be over at a seasonable hour. It was also proposed to present President Bowles with a scroll suitably engraved.

Upon motion of W. Ward Whitcher the action of the committee was endorsed.

James F. Burke, who had charge of the tickets said that there were now four hundred tickets out and returns to date showed 200 sold. The hall would seat 500 and it was desired that number should attend. It was absolutely necessary that the committee inform the caterer Monday morning of the number, and he urged that all returns be made to him by 9 A. M. that day. In reply to a question he said that no tickets would be sold to ladies as it had been decided to make it a gentlemen's affair. It was stated later in the evening, however, that ladies and children would be welcome at the reception in Alpha hall and that they be urged to attend. The contributions to the general fund up to date amounted to $50.-50.

BENEFIT TO QUINCY.

R. F. Claflin thought it would be a fine thing to show some appreciation of a man while he was alive. He believed that the Fore River Company had been a great benefit to Quincy. When the plant was started men had but a small conception of what would result. When President Bowles was secured to manage the company it took on new life and vigor and has proved a great benefit to Quincy. He certainly has done a great piece of work in securing a $22,000,000 contract. It was a big thing for a city of our size. If we do not take hold in a more lively fashion than we have we are a set of blockheads.

D. King said we ought to whoop it up for 500. If we have that number we will have a good time. From now on there should be two or three columns in the newspapers every day. We want to make the occasion the biggest kind of a success and he believed we could do so.

A. L. Whitman said that each of the one hundred members should sell ten tickets.

H. L. Kincaide was disappointed at not seeing more of the committee present. He hoped that everybody would help create enthusiasm.

PERSONALITY COUNTED.

S. T. MacQuarrie, secretary to President Bowles, when called upon said the office and yard would send a good number to the reception and banquet. The people at the yard had felt that this was a Quincy affair rather than a Fore River Co. We are all loyal to President Bowles. We appreciate what he has been up against in these contracts. It was his personality and skill that had counted in getting the contracts in competition with other ship building companies of the world.

It was his personality more than anything else that secured the contract, and it gave us a great deal of pleasure that Quincy has come forward with enthusiasm to honor him. We have felt that the benefitts of the Fore River to the city have entitled us to some consideration. We want to wake up and show that we appreciate Quincy's reputation for steel ship building. It will add to Quincy's glory as have her granite hills.

TURN THINGS UPSIDE DOWN.

John L. Miller agreed that we should do more than we had. Other cities securing such a contract would turn things upside down. It was a great achievement when a man can go up against foreign competition and secure such a contract. We should give him the most loyal reception.

Mayor Shea said that it had been suggested that the business houses along the route from the depot to the hall decorate. Saturday a wireless dispatch would be sent to the Admiral inviting him to attend the reception and banquet.

BAND WANTED.

A. L. Whitman wanted a band and quantities of red fire burned.

Ex-Mayor Hall trusted that there would be a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm. President Bowles is a quiet pleasant gentleman, never too busy to attend to any reasonable interview, and he will appreciate that the city of Quincy approves of his efforts. The Fore River has been a great addition to Quincy, for in addition to developing its water front it has carried its name over the country.

BIG PAY ROLL.

John C. Murray, president of the Granite Manufacturers' Association said that these contracts meant at least six millions of money in wages. It is something worth considering. It is one of the finest things that has ever come to Quincy.

Mr. MacQuarrie here said that the present pay roll of the company was about two million a year, and that for the next two years it would be nearer two and a half millions. About 75 per cent of the workmen reside in Quincy.

R. J. Teasdale hoped there would be a large crowd at the depot to meet the Admiral and give him the glad hand.

TWO BANDS.

A. L. Whitman again spoke of the bands, and it was voted that the committee see the two local bands and secure them at the best possible advantage, and that the committee pledges itself to the expense if there be any.

A recess of five minutes was then taken to allow those who desired to contribute to see Mr. Burke, the treasurer.

A DRUM MAJOR.

On reassembling the Mayor announced that A. L. Whitman had been appointed official drum major of the parade.

Ex-Mayor Porter said it was one of the best movements the company ever made when they secured Admiral Bowles for manager. The success of the company was not in sight until he came to Quincy. The company has added renown to our city. He hoped it would be a fine night and there would be lots of good music, red fire and enthusiasm.

Upon motion of John L. Miller it was voted that bells be rung and whistles blown between 5.30 and 6.15 P. M. on Wednesday.

TO DECORATE.

Clarence Burgin suggested a committee of three to see the business men along the route from the depot to the hall and get them to decorate. This was voted and the chair appointed M. Burgin, E. J. Murphy and H. L. Kincaide.

Mr. Burke then announced that $122.50 had been subscribed toward the general fund, $50 of which had been given by the National Granite bank.

The meeting then adjourned.

Unnecessary Knowledge—Aunt Sarah (a spinster)—"Now, dear, if you would only watch me closely, you might learn how to crochet."

Little Bessie—"Oh, I'm goin' to get married when I grow up!"—Puck.

OPEN MEETING OF QUINCY CAMP.

Friday evening, the regular meeting night of Abner B. Packard Camp No. 95 of Quincy was observed as an open meeting and was arranged especially to interest all eligible sons of veterans. There was a large number of the members of the Braintree camp on hand and all enjoyed a most enjoyable evening.

Division commander, Frank E. Warren, press correspondent Frank E. White and division secretary John Stratter were prominent speakers of the evening. There were a number of eligibles present and also members from many of the surounding towns. The camp orchestra gave several fine selections and bountiful refreshments were served.

It was a rousing meeting and one that showed that Quincy has a camp to be proud of and one that is bound to be heard from in many ways.

MEMORIAL CHURCH.

The Memorial Congregational church of Atlantic will have its annual church and parish meeting the first week of March. The trustees of the parish Messrs. E. E. Willey, Frank Jenkins, and H. B. Wells have been working for several weeks to have all finances for the running expenses of the coming year raised before the annual meeting. They are doing this so that the committee in soliciting funds for the new church can go to work at once after the annual meeting and also to avoid any possible deficit in the running expenses during the period when the church is being built.

Although no soliciting has been done for the church building fund, several of the leading citizens have expressed their willingness to give liberally.

The Ladies' Benevolent society is working hard so as to do their part in the furnishings. Wednesday, of next week they are to give a literary and musical entertainment in the church.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The new postal cards will be printed on light blue paper and carry a profile portrait of William McKinley.

The homecoming Theodore the First and the impending marriage of Theodore the Second will help to perpetuate the strenous Roosevelt legend.

A distinguished publicist has said that there have been four great liars in history. When he wrote this information he doubtless had not the census of Mr. Roosevelt's Ananias Club before him.

President Taft has registered a kick because nobody drops into the White House, and in the good old way says, "Hello, Taft!" Getting homesick in the White House won't effect the string of applicants for the presidential job three years hence.

A Pennsylvania pastor refuses to marry couples unless the bridegroom has an income of $1,000 a year. What's the use? A young couple in love will take chances with only the fee necessary for the ceremony, and you can't stop them.

It takes a rich man to draw a check, a pretty girl to draw attention, a horse to draw a cart, a porous plaster to draw the skin, a toper to draw a cork, a free lunch to draw a crowd, and a well displayed advertisement in this paper to draw trade.

No one can take up a modern school reader such as are used in the public school nowadays, without regretting the absence of some master-pieces in prose and poetry that were familiar to school children of fifty or sixty years ago. It is doubtful if the authors of school readers were as well read as were our fathers. It was common fifty or sixty years ago for school boys and girls to memorize passages from Shakespeare, like the speeches of Brutus and Anthony over the dead body of Caesar, Othello's defense, Miss Mitford's "Rienzi", Bryon's "Waterloo", or his address to the ocean, beginning, "Roll on, thou dark and deep blue ocean, roll", Gray's Elegy, Hood's "Bridge of Sighs", Macauley's "Horatius at the Bridge". These superb rhetorical models appear to have given way in the school readers of today to apparently ephemeral productions of latterday poets. It is extremely doubtful if in any respect the school teacher of today is in any way superior to his anti-type of the early nineteenth century. In almost everything the world has made progress, but unfortunately, very little here and in some respects it is to be feared there is actual retrogression.

It was very evident at the City Hall meeting last night that the citizens of Quincy need more prodding than the newspapers to arouse local enthusiasm. It is a theme on which the Daily Ledger has written in one way or another for many years. In nearly every issue of the paper since the big contract was awarded to the Fore River Company we have published some comment on the world-wide importance of the contract suggested a grand reception to President Bowles, took an optimistic view of Quincy's future, advocated the erection of 1000 new houses in Quincy this year,etc. One speaker thought the local papers should give three columns a day on the first page to arouse enthusiasm over the banquet next week. This showed how much is necessary to arouse Quincy people.

The Daily Ledger is contributing to the celebration a large advertisement every day, a 24-inch "Ad." worth perhaps $25 at regular rates. We stand ready to do more for this celebration and at all times to awaken a civic pride in Quincy. There is a great need of enthusiasm, however, all along the line.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Senator Hultman of Quincy, although he did not agree with all Speaker Walker said in his after dinner speech on Monday before the Republican state committee, admitted that he believed it would be better for the party if t he leaders would touch elbows with the rank and file oftener than they do. Representative Halgis, of Montague, not only agreed with Speaker Walker that a crisis had been reached in the party affairs, but went so far as to say that if the glaring defects in the party were not remedied by next fall he was afraid that Gov. Draper would be defeated. According to our way of thinking both gentlemen are correct in their views. The closeness of the vote last November was then a surprise to the Republican party, and should be taken as a lesson. The great falling off in the party vote was in a measure due to a general feeling of resentment against the conduct of the Republican party leaders in attempting to usurp powers that properly belong to the people to exercise, and unless there is a reform along this line, the prophecy of the representative from Montague will more than likely be fulfilled.—Athol Chronicle.

Necessity is the mother of invention, so the present necessity in the matter of food products throughout the United States has turned inventive minds to devising a menu which beats the high cost of living, or the cost of high living, as James J. Hill so aptly twists the expression. It was left to a Harvard professor, Dr. Franklin White of the medical faculty, to frame a daily fare which looks like thirty cents and only costs twenty. Here it is:

"Breakfast—Cornmeal mush, 1 cent; oleomargarine, 2 cents; syrup, 1 cent; total 4 cents.

"Lunch—Potatoes, 2 cents; oleomargarine, 2 cents; smoked herring, 1 cent; cocoa shells and milk, 2 cents; total, 7 cents.

"Dinner—Beans, 3 cents; potatoes, 3 cents; cocoa, 2 cents; bread, 1 cent; total, 9 cents."

Still, we shouldn't advise a hearty granite cutter to go out and try to swing a hammer all day on that diet; nor a farmer to cut and cord wood for ten or twelve hours. It might do however, for a man who was to recline all day in an easy, comfortable chair with a pipe in his mouth and a book under his nose.—Barre Times.

BRAINTREE

Mrs. Ralph Arnold (nee Hayward) presented her husband with a valentine, Monday, in the shape of a fine ten pound boy.

Miss Lucy E. Keith sails today from New York by the steamship Caronia for a three months' trip to the Orient. She will visit Egypt, Palestine, Turkey and Greece.

Contractor Robinson is planning to open a new street almost opposite Sherbrook avenue and build a number of new house thereon. Operations are well under way.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lefavour of West street entertained a few of the neighbors at bridge Wednesday evening. Mrs. Herman E. Roberts secured the ladys' souveni for obtaining the highest score and George O. Chamberlan received the first gentlemen's.

The members of the Matron's whist club met with Mrs. William Pettendreigh Monday evening. It was one of the prettiest parties of the season as the decorations and refreshments were symbolical of St. Valentine's day. The souveniers were secured by Mrs. L. H. Tirrell and Mrs. W. F. Woodsum.

Members of the Penniman School Association are rehearsing for two farces, "Dunducketty's Picnic" and "Sarah's Young Man" to be given in Penniman Memorial hall, Tuesday evening, March 1. Master Samuel Ellsworth will give violin selections acompanied at the piano by his mother Mrs. G. G. Ellsworth. Miss Edith M. Crafts will be the soloist. Tickets are now on sale.

Mr. C. I. Dimmock was tendered a surprise party by his friends from Randolph, Brookline, South Braintree and Braintree, last Thursday evening. Whist was enjoyed and souvenirs won by Miss Lillian Hollinshead, Mrs. L. B. Spaulding, Mr. C. I. Dimmock and Herndon Studley. During the evening E. Forrest Watkins in behalf of the friends presented Mr. Dimmock with a handsome oak rocker. After an hour of phonograph selections, ref eshments were served and the friends bid Mr. and Mrs. Dimmock good night wishing them many years of happiness.

JONQUIL SALE.

Mrs. Margaret Deland hopes to hold her annual jonquil sale at her house, 35 Newbury street, Boston, on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 22, from 1:30 to 6 o'clock, but it may possibly be a day or two later. This will be the sixteenth annual flower sale which Mrs. Deland has held for the benefit of a certain charity in which she is interested, and it will include this year nearly 300 pots of jonquils, hyacinths, tulips and little purple grape hyacinths.

BRIEFS

The Isles of Shoals Unitarian Summer Meetings Association hold a reunion at the South Congregational church, Boston, February 22, at 12 M. Luncheon at 1 P. M. Rev. John Haynes Holmes of New York ,toastmaster. Tickets may be obtained of Miss Caroline S. Burrage, chairman, 25 Beacon street.

The first is Miss Lillian Freeman Clarke's lecture talks on the life of Jesus on Thursdays at 9.30 A. M. They are free to all. The second is Miss Lillian B. Poor's story telling course on the construction and adaptation of stories with the view of Sunday school work. Arrangements for this course may be made at the school by applying to Mrs. C. T. Guild, at the Unitarian building, Boston. This course is given on Saturdays, 9.30 A. M.

On Tuesday morning at ten o'clock Bishop Lawrence will consecrate St. Chrysostom's church. Rev. Henry Evan Cotton, D. D., who first began the work, will preach the sermon, Rev. C. P. Mills, the first rector, will assist in the service. Elisha Packard, Esq., of Quincy who had much to do with the beginnings, will take a part, Rev. Arthur L. Bumpus is unable to accept an invitation. Confirmation will be administered at this time. Some 40 clergymen have accepted the invitation of the rector, wardens and vestry to be present.

OBERAMMERGAU REPRODUCTION.

One of the most beautiful scenes in the whole collection of 300 colored views presented by Henry Ellsworth in his pictorial reproduction of "Oberammergau, Its People and Their Plays", is the scene wherein, after a residence in the picturesque little village for fifteen weeks, Mr. Ellsworth bids a regretful farewell to the spot on earth where undisturbed contentment and peace apparently reign. The whole collection of views presented during Mr. Ellsworth's entertainment convey a lesson in themselves. There is a lack of strenuous striving for precedence, except in a calm, assured way, when each and every participant in the wonderful play tries to live up to the law of right and purity laid down for all who take part in the great drama. The one ambition of every inhabitant of the little village is to be chosen for a leading part in the play. Mr. Ellsworth appears at Music hall, Feb. 25th under the Quincy F. O. E.

LOST. STRAYED OR STOLEN.

One full sized, energetic, fierce, hustling, northeast February storm said storm left Texas two days ago, and yesterday morning was central over Alabama, and moving rapidly towards Boston. In honor of this expected guest storm warnings were ordered displayed from Delaware breakwater to Boston.

Since yesterday morning no trace of the missiong one has been found, although scores of boys and girls, young men and maidens look eagerly for the multitude of white noiseless messengers heralding the advent of this winter King, dressed in purest white and riding on the wings of the wind. Then hurrah! for jingling sleigh-bells,and fleet double runners.

Any one learning aught of the whereabouts of this missing storm will confer a great favor upon Boston's weather forecaster.

Lea—"I wonder if Prof. Kidder meant anything by it?"

Perrins—"By what?"

STORIES OF DR. EVERETT

Reminiscences Recalled by Some of His Classmates

The Boston Transcript has devoted several columns to Dr. Everett this week, and some interesting reminiscences are reproducted:

Of Dr. Everett's campaigning days, Mr. Winslow Warren, who was a comrade in arms for speech-making expeditions, contributes a pair of instances of the doctor's adroitness and candor. On one occasion Mr. Warren was addressing a meeting in Hyde Park. Dr. Everett was expected, but had not arrived. Twenty minutes late he came into the hall and announced generally, "I am the greatest anti-monololist in the country, and I have just had a railroad stop one of its fastest trains at Hyde Park to let me make a speech."

Again one night in Tremont Temple, Dr. Everett was speaking to a Democratic multitude. "I am reminded," he said, after the manner of parliamentary oratory, "of those familiar lines from Horace," he paused. "But since some of my audience would use the old manner of pronuciation and some the new, a part of you would be dissatisfied. I will give it in English."

Of Dr. Everett's Harvard class, that of '59, not many members survive, and the Bostonians who can be reached express the diverse views which pronounced individuality always provokes. "As a scholar, he was respected," says one classmate, "as a man, he was disliked because he was thought aggressive and grasping. 'Public opinion' is never more intolerant you know than it is in college, and there was a time when Everett could scarcely pass a dormitory without receiving the contents of the water pitcher. At that period he used to dodge across the yard— the only time, it may be, that he ever made a concession. Everett was elected class treasurer, for unexplainable reasons, and invested so deeply that our money never came back. This is not to impugn his honesty, which was always beyond suspicion. but his financial acumen, a quality that he never possessed."

Such is the judgment of a classmate who sat at Everett's club table, and, to put it mildy, was not inspired to accept him as teacher of etiquette. Idiosyncrasies that seem to have been manifested there are generously overlooked by some other classmates—for example, Mr. George A. Torrey, general counsel for the Boston & Maine Railroad; Mr. Ellis L. Motte of Commonwealth avenue and Paymaster Francis H. Swan, U. S. N., retired, of Beacon street. In happy phrase of Mr. Motte, who was Dr. Everett's classmate at the Latin School, he had "a photographic memory" and it was "impossible to head him off" at capping verses. And along the same line, Mr. Swan, a Latin School boy of t he class below, contributes a pleasing reminiscence. In an upper room of the old school building, when Francis Gardiner was headmaster, capping verses was a semi-public exercise on Saturday afternoons. Besides Everett, Nat Shurtleff and Frank Hopkinson engaged, and the reader who knows his Boston and Bostonians will comprehend all that this statement signifies. As the thing worked out, the boys in the lower classes who, like Mr. Swan, had a taste for scholarship, used to fill the benches "and always see Everett win," says Mr. Swan.

In the Latin School Everett won distinction as declaimer, and did it moreover, so frivolous a thing as Sergeant Buzfuz's oration from Pickwick, in the very face of a severe standard. At Harvard, though a slightly built man, "a bundle of nerves," he set out for another out-of-the-way- distinction and fancied he gained it by his running. At the class supper he had contributed a poem of uncommon force and spirit. For the fiftieth reunion of the class, last summer, Mr. Swan invited him to provide on equally excellent poem, whereupon Dr. Everett showed that he had not forgotten an old achievement of which few friends of later years would have suspected him. " I wrote a poem once," he said, "and once I ran around the Delta. But now I may be no more able to write a poem than I am to run around the Delta."

As Mr. Swan interprets his classmate, Dr. Everett had the will to be "sociable," but lacked the facile gift to make his intention known. He had grown up with his father as his best companion, had been trained to believe that he could duplicate the father's successes, and had been more than half persuaded that ordinary men and everyday affairs were scarcely worth while—though he would

SOUTH BRAINTREE.

Miss Ethel Cleveland of Braintree, Vermont, is making an extended visit with her cousin, Miss Ida Johnston of Tremont street.

The Adams express company assume control of the N. Y. & Boston express companies after the first of March, with the exception of the direct lines from Boston to New York.

It is reported that Mrs. Arthur Fisher who has been receiving treatment at a Sharon sanitarium is much improved and it is hoped she may soon rejoin her family.

Robert Sweet, Jr., grand regent of the Royal Arcanum of Mass. will make an official and fraternal visit to Monatiquot Council No. 987, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 23, in Odd Fellows hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Porter, former residents of this town but now residing with Mrs. Porter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bump of Randolph are rejoicing in the birth of a little son.

Harry S. Snow of Washington street who has been traveling through New Hampshire and Vermont for the past three weeks, has concluded this business trip and returned home.

Monday evening Mr. and M s. Charles Brown of Washington street, entertained about sixteen friends. Decorations suggesting St. Valentine's day made the house most attractive. Games and refreshments added to the pleasures of the guests.

The Krowel deen Society held a very enjoyable evening with Miss Florence Parkhurst of Franklin street, Tuesday evening. Next week the regular meeting will be omitted, and in its place a colonial party will be held in the vestry of the church on Wednesday evening. The members of the society are planning a very enjoyable evening, and it is hoped that many of their friends will come and help make the evening a success. A musical program has been prepared.

Mr. and Mrs. William Grover of Town street are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son. Mrs. Hinchley of Hyannis is staying with her daughter, Mrs. Grover.

Last Monday evening was the regular meeting night for the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, No. 16, but the proceeding of "the good of the order" took the form of a valentine party which proved to be amost enjoyable function. First on the program was a piano solo very well rendered by Miss Holbrook, followed by a clever reading by Miss Flora E Spea'. A most enjoyable feature was the presentation of the pantomine "Wanted a Wife"

The regular meeting of Braintree Grange was held Monday evening, Feb. 14, in I. O. O. F. hall. The usual Grange business was conducted by the Worth Master. The lecturers hour was given up to St. Valentine. First was a German song by Carl Waldecker. After that Mr. and Mrs. Schrader, Mr. Waldecker, and Mr Sholtze formed a quartet and sang. Mr. Borden read a very interesting story of St. Valentine. The awards for original valentines went to Miss Katie Crowley, Mrs. J. W. Watson. Mrs. Bangs and Mrs. Hayden. These awards were blue, buff, pink, and white certificates.

Mrs. Sarah Tarbell of Washington street sustained serious injuries last Tuesday evening by being struck by a swiftly moving electric car. Mrs. Tarbell accompanied by her daughter Mrs. C. F. H. Crathern, Mr. Crathern and Mrs. F. Eugene Dyer were waiting for the 7.15 P. M. car to take them to Braintree where they were intending to go to attend "gentlemen's night" of the Philergians at Cochato hall. The car was late and the party were abotu to cross the street and go to the station to take a train. Mrs. Tarbell crossed the track and stood at the edge of the sidewalk until the approaching car for Holbrook should pass. This was at the corner of Frederick road and Washington street and this locality is poorly lighted at night making it very difficult for motormen to tell whether the tracks are clear or not. Mrs. Tarbell evidently imagined herself to be at a safe distance from the swiftly moving car but was prevented from getting onto the sidewalks quickly enough by a bank of snow at the edge of the curb.

The second meeting of the Men's club of the South Congregational church was held in the chapel last Wednesday evening with about sixty-five members in attendance. A bountiful banquet was prepared consisting of chicken patties, potato salad, mashed potato, baked beans and brown bread, tea rolls, fancy pies, ice cream, cake and coffee. The appetizing viands vanished like dew before the sun and the gentlemen tendered a rising vote of thanks to the following ladies who so kindly and skilfully prepared the repast: Mrs. H. C. Thayer, Mrs. W. A. Torrey, Mrs. W. J. Robbins, Mrs. J. H. Schraut, Mrs. W. H. Stoddard, Mrs. J. E. Hayden, Mrs. M. C. Gillette, Mrs. H. W. Mansfield, Mrs. George H. Day, Mrs. H. A. Thayer, Mrs. C. F. H. Crathern, Miss May Stoddard.

After a little preliminary business was transacted, the president, of the club, Mr. W. A. Torrey, introduced as the speaker of the evening, Mr. E. C. Mansfield, post master of Boston. Mr. Mansfield gave a very interesting address on "The Postal Service" presenting what he called a bird's-eye view.

SOUTH BRAINTREE.

Those who did not know of the prolonged illnes of Mrs. Thaddeus L. Blake of Franklin street were grieved and shocked to learn of her death Tuesday morning. For about two years she had been in delicate health, being greatly troubled with an asthmatic difficulty. Of a patient and uncomplaining disposition she bore her burdens patiently, keeping the home for her loved ones and quietly performing the countless tasks.

Saturday, February twelfth, the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Torrey of Washington street was the scene of festivities, their daughter Miss Ruth Rogers Torrey was ente taining about thirty of her little friends who had gathered to help celebrate the tenth anniversary of Miss Ruth's birth. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion producing an effect which will doubtless linger for many years in the memories of the fortunate guests.

The first regular meeting of the Methodist Boys' club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Gammons South Braintree, who served a splendid supper to about twenty boys. After supper they retired to the parlors, each officer taking his respective chair when four more boys were accepted by the club. After which stories were told by Mr. Parkinson, Mr. Gammons and Mr. Powdrell. Piano solos by Richard Drew and George Dunkerly and songs by Stanley Slyvester and others were greatly enjoyed. It was voted that Mr. Heath be invited to the next supper as a guest of the club and address them on any subject he desires. Any person desiring to help this work along can make contributions to Richard Drew, Franklin street who is the treasurer.

WEYMOUTH

Reynolds Woman's Relief Corps has appointed the following chairman of committees: Executive committee, Mrs. Junie B. Morrill; relief, Mrs. Mary R. Flint; reception, Mrs. Mary E. Holbrook, entertainment, Mrs. Carrie Farrar, auditor, Mrs. Agnes Baldwin. The corps is to hold a patriotic meeting the evening of Feb. 22 in Odd Fellows hall.

Daniel Donovan, the oldest person in Weymouth, died at his home on Walnut avenue, Sunday night. Deceased had been a resident of Weymouth for the past sixty years. His house is just over the Braintree line, and he was as well known in this place as in Weymouth. He was born in Riscaberry, Cork County, Ireland, August 1, 1807, and 61 years ago came to this country, first locating in Abington, the next year coming to Weymouth where he has since resided. He is survived by his widow who is 85 years old and five sons, John W. Donovan, James E. Donovan, Daniel E., and Jeremiah Donovan of Weymouth and Thomas Donovan of this place. The funeral took place Wednesday morning from the Church of the Sacred Heart. Interment was at St. Francis Xavier cemetery, the five sons acting as pall bearers.

BRAINTREE PHILERGIANS.

The Philergians observed gentlemen's night, Feb. 15th, in Cochalo hall. The routine business of the club being dispenses with, Mrs. Emily M. Bishop was introduced by Mrs. Susan J. Avery, president of the club.

Mrs. Bishop is best known by her readings from the Congressional Records, by her discriminating selections, and her able presentation of them. She puts before her hearers, the educational, dramatic and humorous possibilities hitherto unknown, except in the comparatively narrow circle of Congressional activity. Her "Scenes from the Senate," consisting of well selected excerpts from speeches recently delivered on the floor of the Chamber, proved most interesting to the club members, and their gentlemen guests, the latter being highly enthusiastic in their praise of this unusual and educational entertainment. Miss Anna Ellis and Mr. Samuel Ellsworth provided the musical program, accompanied by Mrs. George Ellsworth. Refreshments were served by the Hospitality committe.

On Feb. 28th, Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern will give a talk at his home 1111 Washington street on Robert Burns. Club members and friends are cordially invited.

The next regular meeting of the Philergians will be held March 1st., 2:30 o'clock, in Cochala hall. The afternon program is under the management of the department of Home Economies. Mrs. Clayton Freeman, chairman. There will be a club tea.

Will Have No Candidate for Selectman

The citizens' caucus at Milton last evening to nominate candidates for the various town officers to be voted for at the annual town meeting in March, was the largest attended in the history of the town, due largely to the activity shown by the new Improvement Association at East Milton, formed largely that that section of the town might receive better representation in town affairs. Both of its candidates for members of the board of Selectmen, Percy Bates and Austin W. Green were however defeated. Maurice Duffy, Philip S. Dalton and Henry H. Barnes received the nomination. Both Duffy and Dalton are members of the present board.

The checklist was used during the balloting and one man, Samuel H. Shaw, was challenged by Thomas Bannon on the ground that Shaw lacked a few days of the required six months' residence. His ballot was marked and the question will be taken up later.

Aside from selectmen, the only contest was for auditors. There were four candidates for the two positions, and John F. Mitchell and Joseph J. Walters were successful. The other nominations were:

Town Clerk—Henry B. Martin.
Town Treasurer — J. Porter Holmes.
Assessors—T. A. Appolonio and Percy E. Sheldon.
Tax Collector—Josiah Babcock.
Member of the Board of Health—Dr. A. J. Draper.
Park Commissioner—N. T. Kidder.
Trustees of Public Library—O. A. Andrews, F. M. Stone and N. T. Kidder.
Cemetery Trustee—C. Minot Weld.
Sewer Commissioner—John Balch.
Water Commissioner—R. M. Johnson.
Overseers of the Poor—Mrs. Livinia H. Brackett and Parker B. Field.
Tree Warden—N. T. Kidder.
Town Committee—Charles F. Marden, A. E. Streever and G. A. Arnold.
Moderator for the Town Meeting—Robert F. Herrick.

Roger Wolcott presided at the caucus and Arthur H. Tucker was secretary.

ANNIE M. TATE.

The funeral of Miss Annie M. Tate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tate, who died Thursday, was held this morning from the residence of her parents 85 Phipps street and was followed by a solemn high mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. John J. Coan was the celebrant, Rev. John J. Casey deacon and Rev. Patrick Scannell sub-deacon. The regular choir with John Mahan as organist sang the Gregirian mass. At the offertory Miss Josephine McCarthy sang Pie Jesu, and after the mass Miss Mary Burnes sang "Libera." There was a profusion of beautiful flowers. The burial was in the family lot at St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were James Tate, Marcus Mahan, James M. Cantfill and Daniel Chisholm.

The interment was in the family lot in the cemetery.

BATES' PLAN MONDAY.

A full-page diagram showing the location of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. and the level proposed by G. B. Bates, was prepared for this issue, but was crowded out by the enthusiasm of the Banquet Committee. It will appear in the Monday Ledger.

S. OF V. OPEN MEETING.

Upwards of one hundred were present Friday evening at the open meeting of Col. Abner B. Packard camp, S. of V., held under the auspices of the recruiting committee. The meeting was held at Grand Army hall and a grand good time resulted. In addition to several Division officers present there were many visitors from neighboring camps.

Commander Phillips presided and the meeting opened with a selection by the orchestra. Remarks of an interesting nature to all Sons of Veterans were made by Division Commander Frank E. Warren of camp 67 of Abington; Commander George F. Phillips of Paul Revere post; Division Secretary John F. Stratard of Boston; Comrade Charles A. Higgins of camp 9 of Boston; Senior Vice Commander Ring and Junior Vice Commander Loud of Paul Revere post; Division Press Correspondent Frank H. White of camp 9 of Boston; Commander Hayden of camp 32 of Braintree; Samuel Allen of camp 17 of Brockton, a former member of the old camp 27 of Quincy; Color Guard Harry E. D. Gould, and Senior Vice Commander Frank H. Stoddard of Col. A. B. Packard camp of Quincy.

The remarks were interspersed with selections by the orchestra. At the close of the speech making there was a social hour druing which refreshments were served.

TODAY'S COURT.

Samuel F. Barker, Joseph Fostello, Mark J. Myatt and Leslie S. Holm, the four expressmen who were in court Feb. 8, for violation of the liquor law, had their cases called in court this morning. Most of the defendants were represented by counsel. The cases were again continued for hearing until March 5.

Patrick Hennessey was arraigned for assault at Braintree and was put under $200 bonds to keep the peace for two months.

CARPENTER'S BIG WINDFALL

Proves to Be All In His Mind When Landlady Gets After Him

Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 19.—Just as "Bill" Siegfried had succeeded in convincing most of the population that there was nothing chimerical about the story printed in the local newspapers a month ago to the effect that he had inherited great wealth through the death of a Pennsylvania relative, along came Mrs. Catherine Murphy with a deserted board bill for $472 and forced him to confess that he was the father of it.

In addition to being an expert short story teller Siegfried is a carpenter. He refused to be interviewed by his landlady, and she had him in supplementary proceedinsg. After a few questions by court and counsel Siegfried admitted he had been lying on his back too much lately.

He said he had inherited "some kind of a farm" in Pennsylvania and that was all.

CHECK SYSTEM MISUSED

Five Employes of Hotel In Alleged Big Theft Plot

New York, Feb. 19.—Systematic stealing, through an understanding that, the management alleges, existed among some of the employes of the Holland house, is said by Sebastine Sommer, the manager; to have resulted in a loss of at least $5000 in the last month. Five of the employes, a waiter, two bartenders and two cashiers, are under arrest in connection with the thefts.

Large reductions in the daily bar receipts during the past month, although there was no apparent diminution of business, gave the management its first clue that something was amiss.

It is charged that checks that the bartenders gave to customers were accepted by the cashier and many of them returned to the bartenders to be issued to other customers.

JEALOUS OF WIFE. HE CHAINED HER UP

Terrible Punishment Inflicted by a Paris Druggist

Paris, Feb. 19.—The disappearance of the young wife of a druggist named Parat has been cleared up, the police having broken in and found the woman heavily chained between the bed and the wall, and horribly scarred.

In addition to the chain, which was strongly padlocked around the neck, a cruel contrivance, resembling a coat of mail, but strengthened by a belt of copper rings, enveloped the body. Both objects could be removed only by the use of keys.

The woman told a pitiful tale of two years' imprisonment and martyrdom. Last November, while still in chains, she gave birth to her fifth child. The husband refused to call a doctor.

Parat, who was arrested, declared that he loved his wife, but was extremely jealous of her.

DERELICT IDENTIFIED

Capsized Schooner Towed to Gloucester Is the George E. Prescott

Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 19.—Definite assurance that the capsized derelict found off Cape Ann and towed to this port by the revenue cutter Androscoggin is the ill-fated schooner George E. Prescott of Rockland, Me., was gained when, in an attempt to right the vessel, the name "Prescott" was seen as one of her railings was raised to the surface for a moment. The Prescott's captain, T. D. Crowley, and her crew of three are believed to have perished.

The attempt to right the vessel proved useless. Further efforts will be abandoned until Monday, and the vessel, meanwhile, will be left where she lies, in the inner harbor.

COOK ADMITS IDENTITY

Pays Visit to Friend Who Was With Him In Belgian Antarctic Expedition

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 19.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook has cast aside all pretence of attempting to shield his identity and admits that he is the man who has been missing for so long.

He made this move after conferring with M. Rysselberghe, a Belgian engineer. They were companions in 1897-8 on the Belgian Antarctic expedition and the engineer came here on the steamer from Valdivia with Cook. Until yesterday, however, Cook had refused to recognize his former companion.

BRIEFS.

Thursday evening Mr. Clee of the Y. M. C. A. is to address the Galahad club of Christ church.

Ground is being broken for two houses on Hamilton street near the Park and Downs church.

The Woman's Guild of St. Chrysostom's church will hold its monthly missionary meeting on Friday at two o'clock and engage in Lenten sewing.

The regular meeting of the Hospital Aid Association will be held on Feb. 24th ,at the home of Mrs. William B. Rice, Adams street. The hour of meeting is two o'clock.

The Charitable Tens circle of King's Daughters will meet Monday February 21, at 2.30 P. M., at the home of Mrs. M. E. Tisdale, Hancock street, corner of Whitney road.

Rev. Eugene De F. Heald rector of House of Prayer, Lowell, will preach Wednesday evening at the regular Lenten service at St. Chrysostom's church.

The first in the course of Lenten lectures by the Women's Guild of Christ church will be given on Wednesday afternoon in the parish house, when Mrs. Robert E. Sturgis will speak on Africa.

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong rector of Christ church will the speaker at the meeting of the Men's club on Monday evening and will tell of his personal experiences in the tropics of the far east.

N. Stewart Sanford of Rawson road who fell from a building two weeks ago and was so severely injured that his life was dispared of is gaining very slowly under the care of Dr. Johnson and a trained nurse. His many friends are hoping for his ultimate recovery.

A jolly sleigh party under the direction of Carl Stocker left the Memorial Congregational church at 7.30 Monday evening. After a two hours' ride they returned to the church and were served a hot oyster supper, prepared by Mrs. T. W. Davison and Mrs. Welcome G. Young.

The first course of dressmaking lessons at the Quincy Woman's club concluded with the lesson Tuesday. So much enthusiasm has been displayed by the members, that another class has been formed which will hold its first meeting next Wednesday morning at the club house under the same efficient teacher Mrs. Herbert Holmes.

Dr. John M. Little of Boston is to speak at First Church chapel on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Junior Laymen of the church. Dr. Little has just returned from Laborador where he has done medical work among the fisher folk. He is a friend of Dr. Grenfell and is second to him in the friendship of the people.

Quincy readers of the February Harper's Bazar came upon a familiar picture in the architect's department of cosy homes, that of Miss Flora Underwood on Presidents hill being the subject of several good illustrations in interior and exterior views. It certainly is a most attractive home especially in summer when it nestles amid vines and shrubs.

DEATH RATHER THAN PRISON

Swindler of Women Takes Own Life In Plymouth Jail

Plymouth, Mass., Feb. 19.—Willis L. Fowler, convicted last Monday of embezzling $1300 from Miss Mary Loneman and accused of swindling other women under promise of marriage, committed suicide in his cell in Plymouth county jail. Fowler was to have been sentenced yesterday afternoon.

Fowler was in jail awaiting sentence. He succeeded in inducing a keeper to loan him a penknife on the plea that he wished to trim his finger nails. While the keeper's back was turned, Fowler plunged the knife into his throat.

The keeper's attention was attracted by a gurgling sound, and he tried to save the prisoner's life, but Fowler had inflicted such a bad cut that he soon bled to death.

Dr. E. D. Hill, the medical examiner, was called and he said Fowler had probably died almost instantly, as both jugular vein and the windpipe were severed.

Fowler had conducted correspondence with various women through a matrimonial paper. He induced Mrs. Mary C. Loneman, of Quincy, Ills., to part with $1300, and when he was tried in the Plymouth county superior court, Mrs. Eugene Meridith of Wilmington, Ills., and Abbie E. Swanton of Everett, Mass., confronted him with similar charges. All three claimed that Fowler got their confidence by means of the matrimonial correspondence and then took their money.

Mrs. Loneham gave him a check for $300 and he raised it to $1,600. They were to buy a home, according to her plan, but the Fowler fraud left her penniless.

Mrs. Loneman said in court that she heard of Fowler through a widow of Quincy, who had also become acquainted with him through a matrimonial paper. She liked his letters and was impressed by his photographs.

She met him in Chicago, then returned home, and continued the correspondence. She received letters from him dated Boston and Cape Porpoise, Me. Finally he told her he had established a home and asked her to come east. She did so, bringing bank books showing deposits of $1600 and $100 cash.

Fowler said he needed $3000 to finish his home, and she gave him the check, which he subsequently raised.

They went to Atlantic to live, but he kept putting off their marriage, and was frequently absent. He eventually disappeared and Mrs. Loneman looked for him in Hull, where he had a bungalow. The police found him in Boston as he was about to board a Portland boat.

Another warrant charged him with the larceny of $750 from Mrs. Swanton. Deputy Chief Watts of Boston declared that Fowler had been imposing on other women throughout the country under similar systems to that used in the Loneman case.

Fowler was 54 years old and quite distinguished in appearance.

BUDGET OF $18,879,996

Mayor Fitzgerald Prunes Department Estimates by Nearly $1,000,000

Boston, Feb. 19.—Mayor Fitzgerald yesterday afternoon sent to the city council an appropriation bill calling for $18,879,996. As the department estimates called for an outlay of $19,793,885, the appropriation bill shows a reduction of $913,889.

Last year's appropriation bill totalled $18,731,203.50, which, compared to this year's appropriation bill, shows an increase this year of $142,-792.50.

Although this year's appropriation bill is larger than last year, it is well within the limit which the city can appropriate. Under the law the city can appropriate $20,261,392.28.

MUST FURNISH SEATS

Order to New York Transit Company Will Please Strap-Hangers

New York, Feb. 19.—The public service commission yesterday gave the Interborough Rapid Transit company positive orders to furnish within five days the maximum possible service during the rush hours, and sufficient cars during the non-rush hours to afford every passenger a seat.

Frank Hedley, general manager of the company, was out of town, but a subordinate said that the order would be obeyed.

DR. EVERETT

have been more companionable had he known how to be. Mr. Swan remembers him as the most versatile man in the class, as well as the most scholarly— one who could "say the list of popes backward" and ask any professor most dangerous questions. It is one of the oddest of many contradictory phases of this character that such a man hoped to build up an American Rugby , and should have shown his largest impulses of kindliness toward his own boys. One of the last expressions of his inner heart and mind suggested the joy he frequently experienced in receiving letters from his old pupils—boys who, from the ends of the earth, wrote to say how gratefully they remembered all they had gained from Adams Academy and its head.

All three of Edward Everett's sons Sidney, Edward and William, were Harvard men, and Major Henry L. Higginson of the corporation notes the interesting fact that the strong individuality of these brothers expressed itself in each personality in a different way. "I was less familiar with William than with either of the others," says Major Higginson, "but I thought I could see clearly in him traits, mannerisms and perhaps I might say capabilities that were not so apparent in either of his brothers, who on the other hand, had qualities that William conspicuously lacked. William's combativeness was doubtless an inheritance. His lack of adaptability was all his own. He was a scholarly, eloquent, upright man, who in independence of thought and fearlessness of expression set a noteworthy example to the men of his generation. His might have been a larger and more successful life had he been less confident of the value of his own views; yet nobody ever questioned the extent of his knowledge, the vigor of his intellect or the scholarly integrity of his conclusions."

Dr. Everett's scholarship comprehended the small as well as the great. Readers of the Transcript will recall his passionate protests against "simplified spelling" and his demand for accuracy of pronunciation has frequently been expressed in unmistakable terms. The president of a literary club at the Back Bay once undertook to carry forward the programme in these terms: "I now have great pleasure in introducing Dr. William Everett, who has kindly consented to speak to us of the English poet, William 'Cowper." Dr. Everett remained seated. The chairman, suspecting temporary deafness, raised his voice and repeated his invocation. Still Dr. Everett declined to budge. Finally the chairman made it something of a personal matter. "Dr. Everett," he said, "I believe you promised to talk to us about William Cowper, the English poet—I believe I have your written agreement to that effect." Dr. Everett arose and trumpeted, "No, sir," he declared. "I made no such agreement. I promised to speak to you about the English poet whose name, though ignorantly mispronounced, should be given as William Cooper."

E. W. Metcalf of '59 says: "Being of slight physical proportions, Dr. Everett never took an active part in athletic exercises, but in mental equipment he easily took the lead. He excelled in every branch of study that he chose and undertook many that were quite removed from literature, such as chemical analysis, in which he took a high rank, although evidently undertaking it for a rounding out of his knowledge. The late Professor George M. Lane said of him that he knew more than any man in Cambridge. Having a quick apprehension and wonderful memory, he had no patience with dulness and ridiculed mnemonics or artificial aids to memory. As he had few equals, his friendships were few. He was impatient of opposition. The friendship between him and Tom Reed during his term in Congress was notable, for Reed, though less of a scholar, had an alert mind, and could readily apprehend a good point. To inferiors and those who ministered to his comfort he showed every courtesy and consideration and won their earnest esteem and admiration.

Rev. S. H. Hilliard, '59, head of the Church Temperance Society of the Episcopal Church of Massachusetts, writes of Dr. Everett:

"My most vivid remembrance of William Everett at Harvard is one which indicates what he himself would have, I imagine, considered his truest vocation. I can recall him in the college yard and on the street surrounding 'The Delta,' followed by a group of small boys. He was evidently enjoying them and they him. They had an evidently irresistible attraction for each other.

"I can easily imagine that his days at Adams Academy were his happiest days. He has helped greatly to elevate the calling of an educator to the high place it now occupies."

TILLMAN IS GRAVELY ILL

Senator's Right Side Is Almost Wholly Paralyzed

Washington, Feb. 19.—Benjamin R. Tillman, senior senator from South Carolina, and one of the most picturesque characters in congress, is critically ill.

His condition is extremely grave and Dr. Pickford, the attending physician, says that the outcome of his illness will be determined within the next day or two.

SENATOR TILLMAN.

The senator's right side is almost wholly paralyzed and aphasia has developed as a result of a cerebral hemorrhage on the left side of the brain.

He has nearly lost the power of articulation and this is regretted by the doctor as the most serious symptom of the senator's illness.

He may recover from the paralysis, but in all likelihood, it is said, he will never regain the complete use of speech, the senator's most cherished weapon in his public service as a national legislator, the keen edge of which has enlivened many debates of wide interest in congress.

This is the second stroke of paralysis Tillman has suffered, the first having occurred nearly two years ago when he suffered a nervous breakdown. At that time he was treated at an Atlanta sanitarium, and later took a trip for the benefit of his health.

The alarm of the family is evidenced by the fact that they have telegraphed for Dr. J. W. Babcock, superintendent of the South Carolina hospital for the insane, and the Tillman family physician. He replied that he will leave Columbia for Washington today. The fact that Babcock will not leave Columbia until today seems to corroborate the statement that there is no immediate danger of a fatal turn in the senator's condition.

Absolute quiet has been enjoined and practically nobody except relatives sees the patient. The senator's wife and their eldest son, Benjamin R. Tillman, Jr., are with him, and his other two children, Henry C. and Sallie M. Tillman, have been summoned by telegraph to the bedside of their father. They will probably leave Greenwood, S. C., for the national capital at once.

FATHER OF TWENTY-EIGHT

Man of Sixty-Five Has Another Addition to His Family

New York, Feb. 19.—Oscar Darling, a civil engineer and inventor of Babylon, L. I., became the father yesterday of his twenty-eighth child. He is 65 years old and has been twice married. The first Mrs. Darling died in 1884, the mother of fifteen, five of whom have died.

Two years after the death of his first wife, Darling married again, and in the twenty-four years of the second marriage has had thirteen children more, all of whom lived.

Perkins Returns to Senate

Washington, Feb. 19.—Senator Perkins of California was in his seat in the senate yesterday for the first time in more than six weeks. His absence was due to an injury to his spine received by falling on the ice.

$100 REWARD, $100.
The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HOUSEHOLD CARES

Tax the Women of Quincy the Same as Elsewhere.

Hard to attend to household duties
With a constantly aching back.
A woman should not have a bad back,
And she wouldn't if the kidneys were well.
Doan's Kidney Pills make well Kidneys.
Here is a Quincy woman who endorses this claim:

Mrs. Deborah Prouty, 39 Quincy avenue, Quincy, Mass., says: "I am in a position to speak in the highest terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached nearly all the time and caused me considerable trouble. Any sudden movement or an attempt to stoop, sent sharp pains through my loins. My health was much run down and I had but little strength or energy. I was very much alarmed about my condition. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I had known so many people who had used them with benefit, that I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. The use of three boxes convinced me that they were the best kidney remedy to be had. I am now in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Millburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MAY ABANDON TASK IN OHIO

Ellis Brings Himself Face to Face With Great Obstacles

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—A week from the time Wade H. Ellis accepted the "unexpected honor" of the chairmanship of the Ohio Republican executive committee, a position which renders its holder the Republican political autocrat of the state, it begins to appear as though Ellis would find the position untenable, and would retire.

The opposition to dictation from Washington, while not strong enough to be classed as a storm, is nevertheless deep-seated in the popular mind. Ellis personally is popular, and President Taft interfered with his customary tact, but just the same, there is a sentiment among the voters that the party should be left to fight its own battles.

WADE H. ELLIS

This demand for home rule in politics was exemplified in this city when Senator Burton ran for mayor against Tom L. Johnson in 1907. Burton sought the alvice of President Roosevelt. Roosevelt's letter in reply was made public. The most striking phrase was "make the fight." That phrase cost Burton many votes.

In addition to this opposition to outside interference, Ohio has in the past fortnight begun the investigation of alleged graft among state officials in the previous Republican administration. Governor Harmon first unearthed the graft.

This week the legislative investigating committee heard the confession of J. E. Brelsford of Dayton, a former business associate of former Public Printer Slater, that he had sold supplies to the state during Slater's regime and received $14,807.90 more than the supplies were worth.

Brelsford declared that he gave Slater $10,000 of this, and kept the remainder. The following day a warrant was issued for Slater's arrest in the police court at Columbus, charging Slater with rendering a false voucher for $5000. Slater's whereabouts are at present unknown.

As in the New York scandal, so in Ohio, much of the disrepute due to such disclosures has fallen upon the Republican party. Wade Ellis was attorney general of the state under the previous administration. Many Democratic papers in the state have seized upon the apparent failure of the "trust-buster" to unearth violation of the law in his own state, which, as a member of the legal machinery of the state, it was more or less his duty to discover.

Lest these facts give too one-sided a view of the Ohio political situation, it might be said that Ellis apparently is well started toward accomplishment of the purpose for which Taft sent him to Ohio. He has unified the political forces in the state. He has started the political machinery of the Republicans running smoothly, probably as much because the Republicans needed but a leader, as though any personal force he himself is endowed with.

The real task confronting the Ohio Republicans, to which this seeking after harmony is all preliminary, will come when they try to select a candidate to run in opposition to Governor Harmon this fall. At present it is an open battle. No mere politician will suffice this time, for the Democratic candidate admittedly is presidential timber.

Tabby Saves Master's Life

Portland, Conn., Feb. 19.—An Angora cat aroused by smoke jumped on the bed of Charles Malmquist and awoke him and he had hardly escaped from the house with the faithful cat before it was a mass of flames and it was soon flat with the ground. The man and the cat were alone in the house.

COX PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Says Nothing Except That He Never Saw Miss Reed Before

Fitchburg, Mass., Feb. 19.—After Edwin B. Cox had entered a plea of not guilty in the district court here to a charge of assault and battery on Miss Blanche E. Reed his case was continued until Feb. 26, without a word of testimony being given.

Cox refused to discuss the case further than to state that he knew absolutely nothing about the matter and he had never seen or heard of Miss Reed until his arrest in Boston. Miss Reed still stuck to her original story that Cox had assaulted her because she would not affix her signature to documents at his solicitation.

Cox was arrested in his office by inspectors from the Boston and the Fitchburg police. Miss Reed was with them at the time and claimed positively that Cox is the man who assaulted her.

COATS PLANT CLOSES

Back Boys Insist on Staying Out of the Big Thread Mills

Pawtucket, R. I., Feb. 19.—The great thread plant of the J. & P. Coats company, Limited, shut down at 6 o'clock last night and will remain closed indefinitely. The 2800 employes will be out of work.

The strike still continues because the back boys refuse to join the conferences of the other strikers and insist on staying out.

At a meeting of the other strikers an effort was made to induce the back boys to come in, and it was intimated that the other strikers would be willing to return to work, under an agreement with the management to put the matter of their demands up to the Scotland owners again. These strikers, it is said, wanted the fifty back boys to go to work, too, but the boys were obdurate.

CLEVELAND VOTES THREE-CENT FARE

Johnson's Fight Is Won In Referendum Election

Cleveland, Feb. 19.—Turning out to vote in a howling blizzard, the people of Cleveland ended the fight for low street car fares begun fifteen years ago and latterly made famous by Tom L. Johnson in his four terms as mayor.

The new franchise was approved in a referendum election by a majority of 8100, the largest majority ever given for a public measure in Cleveland.

The basis of the franchise is that street car service under control of the city must be furnished by the Cleveland Railway company at cost, plus 6 percent return to the stockholders on their investment. For the first eight months the fare will be 3 cents, with a penny charge for a transfer, this fixed rate being made as a test. The maximum rate of fare allowable during the term of the grant —twenty-five years—is 4 cents, or seven tickets for 25 cents.

"JUST COULDN'T HELP IT"

Youthful Bigamist Confesses to Marrying Three Women

New York, Feb. 19.—William Dresher holds the record for being the youngest bigamist now in captivity. Not yet 25, an awkward, ill-favored butcher's boy, he was sentenced to Elmira reformatory after fessing he had three wives.

The three women, who prosecuted Dresher, wept copiously as he was led away.

"You are very young to have married these three women," said Judge Foster before he sentenced Dresher. "Why did you do it?"

"Oh, I dunno," said the boy, sheepishly. "I just couldn't help it, I guess."

NEW HAVEN ROAD SEVERELY FLAYED

Morgan Also Castigated In a Sizzling Editorial

Boston, Feb. 19.—"Socialism or industrial slavery," is the issue being forced upon Massachusetts by J. Pierpont Morgan through the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, according to an editorial which appears in today's issue of The Commercial Bulletin. The article is written by ex-Governor Guild.

The editorial is the bitterest attack on Morgan ever published in a paper in this city. "A beefy, red-faced, thick-necked, financial bully, drunk with wealth and power," is one of the phrases used to characterize the New York financier, and President Mellen and Vice President Byrnes are called "hired megaphones."

The action of the New Haven road, if granted its demands, recently made through Mellen and Byrnes, will force, says the editorial, "public ownership of railroads."

PEARY'S POLAR RECORDS

Sub-Committee on Naval Affairs Wants Them Examined by Danes

Washington, Feb. 19.—Robert E. Peary may be called upon to submit proofs of his discovery of the North Pole to some scientific organization other than the National Geographic society.

This is the sentiment of the subcommittee of the house naval committee which has been directed to report a bill rewarding Peary.

Several members of this sub-committee are insistent that the findings of the National Geographic society could not be regarded as final in determining whether Peary reached the North Pole, and they suggest that the explorer should submit his proofs to another tribunal, preferably the university of Copenhagen.

NEW MAIN SHIP CHANNEL

Will Make Navigation Less Dangerous In Nantucket Sound

Chatham, Mass., Feb. 19.—Pollock Rip Slue, the scene of many wrecks and mishaps to all kinds of vessels, is to be abandoned as the main ship channel eastern entrance to Nantucket sound. Instead the government is to equip Great Round shoal channel with the necessary buoyage and beacon aids to navigation.

The fact that Pollock Rip Slue has been shoaling rapidly became known through the stranding of several sailing vessels in the tortuous channel within the past year, and coastwise steamship captains also reported that their craft scraped in rounding this corner of Cape Cod.

Impeachment Proceedings Delayed

New York, Feb. 19.—The serious illness of City Magistrate Daniel E. Finn caused the temporary withdrawal in the appellate division of the supreme court of impeachment proceedings against him. He was accused of refusing to hold prisoners in scores of excise violation cases despite presentation of proper evidence.

Seeks Right to Vote Again

Providence, Feb. 19.—Levi C. Lincoln of Woonsocket, who served two years in state prison for embezzling, petitioned the legislature to have his civil rights restored to him in order that he may have the right to vote. The matter was referred to a committee.

Predicts Swift Action Against Lords

London, Feb. 19.—Herbert Samuel, newly appointed postmaster general, prophesied last night that the government's action against the lords would be swift, courageous and decisive.

SAGE FOR DARKENING THE HAIR.

There is nothing new about the idea of using sage for restoring the color of the hair. Our great-grandmothers kept their locks soft, dark and glossy by using a "sage tea." Whenever their hair fell out or took on a dull, faded or streaked appearance, they made a brew of sage leaves and applied it to their hair with wonderfully beneficial effect. Nowadays we don't have to resort to the old-time, tiresome method of gathering the herbs and making the brew. This is done by skillful chemists better than we could do it ourselves, and all we have to do is to call for the ready-made product. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, containing sage in the proper strength, with the addition of Sulphur, another old-time scalp remedy. This preparation is sold by all first-class druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. August V. Johnson of Kendrick avenue are sorry to hear that their son is confind to his bed with an injured knee, caused by falling from his sled while sliding.

Judge Charles F. Jenney, recently senator from this district, presided with Judge Sanderson of the Superior court at Worcester at the trial of Raymond Plouffe for murder. It was Judge Jenney's first murder case since his appointment.

Charles Landry recently ticket agent at West Quincy has been appointed to the Hingham station and entered upon his duties.

The regular mid-winter meeting of the Alumnae association of Woodward Institute will be held at the school on Thursday evening, Feb. 24, at 8 o'clock. During the evening there will be a short business session, games, music, dancing and refreshments, and it is earnestly desired that every member will make a special effort to be present.

The evangelist meeting at St. Pauls M. E. church last evening was very largely attended, and full of enthusiasm. The evangelists will also take part in the services on Sunday at 10.30, 3.30 and 7. The afternoon meeting is for men only, and Evangelist Eklund will speak in English.

The Salem is expected at the Charlestown Navy yard Feb. 24, for repairs and in March the battleships Vermont, Missouri and New Jersey. The dreadnought North Dakota will arrive at the yard March 19 and go into commission from there.

In behalf of the Massachusetts Daughters of the Revolution, Mrs. George E. Smith, State regent, has accepted the invitation to attend Governor Draper's reception at the State House on Washington's Birthday. Members of the State Society and local chapters including the Junior Sons and Daughters, have been requested to meet at five minutes of eleven in the sergeant-at-arms room, and all will be presented in a body to the chief executive of the Commonwealth. A large party from Quincy attended the reception last year.

The musical program of the vesper services at the New Jerusalem church, Bowdoin street, Boston, which begins Sunday at 4 P. M., will be under the charge of George W. Dudley, assisted by a full chorus and Miss Evelyn Bair, soprano; Miss Alice Coe, contralto; E. E. Bullock, tenor; George Clark, bass and Joshua Phippen, organist.

Officers of the Quincy Choral Society are receiving many congratulations on the splendid success of the Messiah concert and a number of the quarantors have written letters expressing their pleasure and appreciation and the hope that this work will be continued on the already established basis of a civic enterprise. This is exactly what the Choral society is proving itself to be and it is certainly a work that our citizens are proud to support.

—Judge Ben B. Lindsey of Denver addressed the members of the Waltham Woman's club Friday afternoon attracting a large audience. His subject was "The misfortunes of Mickey."

DEATHS.

LETTENEY—In Dorchester Lower Mills, Feb. 17, Mr. Charles E. Letteney, aged 44 years, 8 months.

PROGRESSIVE LUNCH.

A progressive lunch was participated in by seven ladies of Atlantic, Friday afternoon. This lunch consisted of seven courses, each one eaten at a different house. As a consequence the repast lasted from 12 until 5, with plenty of opportunity after each course to create an appetite for the next.

The first course, at Mrs. Charles Alden's home, Wollaston, consisted of fruit, cocktails and biscuits. The second at Mrs. William Johnson's was of chicken soup, croutons and celery, Here each lady was presented with a carnation and jonquil. At Mrs. Henry Von Emden's the third course was served, escalloped oysters, fish, creamed potatoes and tomato jelly. The dining room was prettily decorated in green. At Mrs. William Cummings, yellow was the predominating color and lemon sherbet, sponge cake, and walnuts were served here. The fourth course was at Mrs. Alfred Jelineck's the ladies partaking of chicken croquettes, cranberry jelly and sandwiches. Here the general color scheme was pink.

At Mrs. Charles Cherrington's prune and walnut salad, cheese and crackers were added to the menu. A centre-piece of violets and violet dishes gave a pleasing touch of color. At Mrs. Charles Safford's was served the final course ice cream, cake, coffee, crackers and cheese. Then the ladies, happy but not hungry, dispersed, voting their unique luncheon a huge success.

BASKET BALL AT WOODWARD.

The Class of 1912 won in the basket ball match at the Woodward yesterday, defeating the Class of 1913 by the score of 40 to 2. The make-up of the teams follow:

Class of 1912—Mary Beal, Irene Williams, Esther Dasha, Grace Hunter, Rose Meade and Helena Clark.

Class of 1913—Agnes Reardon, Dorothy Lavery, Alice Whalen, Catherine Merrill, Mabel Peterson and Louise Macdonnell.

LOCAL SPORTS.

At Braintree yesterday afternoon Braintree High school basket ball team defeated the Mechanic Arts High school class of 1910 quintet of Boston in a well played game, by a score of 23 to 16. Scollard played a great game for the winners and Gunn's work shone for the losers.

The Cottage Park Yacht club of Winthrop was admitted last night to the Interclub Yacht Racing Association. John J. Harland was reelected president. An amendment is proposed to put yachts of 25 to 26 feet into class B instead of class A.

MILTON.

The warrant for the annual town meeting contains 65 articles.

Fifty names were added to the voting lists at East Milton this week, the most of them coming from that section of the town.

L. V. Gosselin of Buntin place has returned after an absence of some time.

Prescott Skinner of Bryant avenue is at the Homoepathic hospital sick with diphtheria.

Rev. W. D. Roberts of the Mission of Our Saviour church has gone abroad on a three months' trip.

The fines received from automobile speeders captured in Milton last year enabled the police department to be run within the appropriation, although an additional patrolman was employed.

A new directory of Milton has been issued.

REGISTRATION
CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the Annual Register of voters, and of receiving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1910

from 12 M., to 10 o'clock P. M.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of May last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to Sept. 1, 1909. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce for inspection his papers of naturalization.

Persons who have lived in the State one year and in the city six months previous to March 1 if qualified in other respects, can be registered.

No names can be added to the registers except the names of voters examined as to their qualifications between the thirtieth day of April last and the close of registration on Friday, Feb. 25, at 10 o'clock P. M. The Board of Assessors will be in session at their office during the same hours.

EDWARD J. McKEON,
MICHAEL B. GEARY,
HENRY W. FRENCH,
HARRISON A. KEITH,

Recalls When Dr. Everett Led the Cheering

Do the big league schedules suit you ?

• • •

Tonight. Don't fail to see Quincy Y. M. C. A. meet Chelsea Y. M. C. A. at the local gym. The Chelsea boys are not as sleepy as the name they carry, and a good game will be seen.

• • •

Carter, the well known pitcher who used to twirl for Weymouth High school and who pitched around Quincy considerable last summer, is a candidate for the firing line at Tufts college. He has four other rivals, among them being Harry Martin.

• • •

The honor of leading the crack gilt edge bowling league falls to a Braintree man, Stanwood Hollis, who is well known in this city as a bowler on the once famous Cochato club quintet. "Stan" is a fine fellow and very popular with the "boys." He can hit the pins, too.

• • •

The name of Dr. William Everett, Quincy's grand old man, will undoubtedly live for some years to come. He will always be remembered as schoolmaster at the Adams Academy from which he sent forth into the world, hundreds of "boys," many of whom now occupy excellent positions. Dr. Everett was a great lover of out-of-door sports and always accompanied the Adams Academy representatives on their trips, if it was possible. I well remember him at an exciting game of baseball at Braintree, where Adams Academy was playing their deadly rivals, the Thayer Academy nine. The Thayer rooters seemed to drown out the Adams cheerers, and Dr. Everett noticed this. Imagine my surprise to see him come over to his scholars and stop them. Then he stepped in front of them and acted as their cheer leader. This inspired the players and if my memory does not fail me, I think Adams Academy returned home with a victory. We can all agree that Quincy's loss is indeed great.

• • •

The Old Colony bowling association teams are now turning into the final stretch, and there are many in this section who have followed the race who believe the finish is going to be a thriller. Weymouth will meet Quincy three times and Norfolk Downs and Braintree twice each before the windup. Norfolk Downs will clash with Weymouth twice, Braintree three times and Quincy twice before the prizes are distributed. Read the above "dope," pick your winner but refrain from that "I told you so," gag even if you do happen to "get on" right.

Vol. 24 No. 44 | QUINCY, MASS., MONDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 21, 1910 | PRICE TWO CENTS

DATE POSTPONED FOR THE BANQUET

President Bowles May Not Arrive in Boston Until Wednesday or Perhaps Later

Enthusiasm Must Be Bottled Up for a Few Days

Owing to the fact that the steamship on which President Bowles is homeward bound will not arrive in New York until sometime Wednesday, and that President Bowles will be detained in that city several days on business the grand reception and banquet to have been tendered to him on that evening will have to be postponed a few days.

The wireless of Mayor Shea was sent Saturday morning, but it was not until about 3 o'clock Sunday that the Mayor received a reply. The reply came by wireless via Halifax, denoting that at that time the steamship was over one thousand miles from New York. The telegram received by the Mayor was as follows:— "S. S. Kaiserine Augusta Victoria,

Feb. 20, via Halifax

William T. Shea, Mayor, Quincy, Mass

Sincere thanks, your message and invitation, Quincy, for Wednesday. Desire to accept but regret landing New York Wednesday. Must remain several days."

(Signed) T. F. Bowles.

Immediately on the receipt of this message Mayor Shea got into communication by telephone with members of the executive committee on the banquet, and the affair was immediately called off for the present. A meeting of the executive committee has been called for this evening at the Mayor's office at which time a new date will probably be fixed.

The indications Saturday night were that fully five hundred would attend the banquet. At that time Treasurer Burke had received sufficient returns to show that about four hundred tickets had been sold, and as there were a number of persons to be heard from today he stated that there was no question but what the capacity of the hall would be filled.

It is thought more than probable that the banquet will be held next week Wednesday, but as stated above the exact date cannot be determined until after the meeting tonight. Enthusiasm has grown wonderfully since the meeting of the reception committee on Friday evening, and President Bowles is assured a warm and hearty welcome when he lands in Quincy.

CHARGES PREFERRED.

The charges preferred by Nathan Bluestein of Weymouth against Probation Officer Francis A. Spear are now in the hands of Judge Albert E. Avery. Bluestein, through his attorney Morris Shapira, sent the charges to Edwin Mulready, secretary of the Massachusetts commission. Mr. Mulready referred them to the commission, and the commission has sent them to Judge Avery, who has authority to discharge and appoint.

The charges are three in number and allege that Mr. Spear justified the acts of the defendants ,that he insulted complainant, that he disapproved of the action of the court.

John W. McAnarney, who was counsel for Bluestein, recommended that the cases of the defendant be placed on file and the judge so ordered. This was not satisfactory to Bluestein, however, who now alleges assault and battery, and the boys have been summoned into court on Wednesday.

TODAY'S COURT.

Timothy P. Donovan was fined $5, Abraham B. Caswell $15, John McGuire $15, Fred Hazelton $5, Alex Brown, John Truesdale and James Hayes $3 each, on account of costs for drunkenness at Quincy.

Thomas F. McMahan was fined $10 for drunkenness at Randolph, and Bartholemew Miller $15 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Rose Trillis was arraigned for assault on Peter George at Quincy. Case dismissed on payment of costs amounting to $3.70, the complainant having acknowledged satisfaction.

Bartholdi Cappilini was arraigned for soliciting orders for liquor at Quincy. Case continued until March 2.

A QUINCY CELEBRATION

Quincy is, this week, celebrating the Fore River Co. receiving two big contracts.

We want every woman in Quincy and surrounding towns to order their EASTER SUIT of us. They will then have a chance to celebrate, for we offer custom-made suits this week at prices much lower than ever offered in this city before. Remember you run no risk, for we guarantee everything to be perfect in fashion, fit and finish.

We want you to know that we take particular pride in our business and add anything that we think interests our patrons. We now keep open every evening (Wednesday excepted,) and give LEGAL STAMPS on all purchases.

CONSECRATION OF ST CHRYSOSTOM'S

Bishop Lawrence to be Assisted by Others

Washington's Birthday will be an eventful date in the history of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church at Wollaston, when the edifice free from debt will be consecrated by Right Reverend William Lawrence, bishop of Massachusetts. He will be assisted by Archdeacon Samuel G. Babcock of Hyde Park, Rev. Dr. Alexander of Trinity church, Boston, and others.

REV. WILLIAM LAWRENCE, S. T. D.

It was in 1882 when Rev. H. Evan Cotton, then rector of Christ church, Quincy, began Episcopal services at Wollaston in Knights of Honor hall, and tomorrow Mr. Cotton will come from Baltimore to preach the sermon at the consecration. The services were discontinued for a while, but since 1892 have been held weekly. Rev. A. L. Bumpus assisted Rev. Mr. Cotton in 1892, and in 1895 a church organization was effected. The rectors since have been Rev. E. C. Mills and Rev. A. E. Clattenburg. To the efforts of the latter who has just resigned ,a debt of $4,300 has been cancelled and the number of communicants increased from 150 to 325.

The church will be open tomorrow at 9.45 and the order of services at 10 will be:

ODD FELLOWS DEGREE WORK

Quincy Lodges to Take Part in Grand Exemplification

Odd Fellows throughout the State are interested in the exemplification of the degree work to be given on the holiday at Braintree Town Hall. Four lodges will participate and fully 500 brothers of the three links will be in attendance

The lodge will open at 1.45 P. M., and the initiatory will be worked by Puritan lodge, No. 179 of Braintree at 2.15, to be followed about 3.15 by the first degree worked by John Hancock lodge, No. 224, of Wollaston, Charles F. West, degree master.

About 5.45 a grand banquet will be served by Westover & Foss, for which over 300 tickets have already been sold.

In the evening, at 7.15, Mt. Wollaston lodge, No. 80, of Quincy with Charles S. Jones as degree master, will work the second degree in a style which the grand instructor says is the best in the state. Neponset lodge, No. 84, of Neponset will follow with the third degree, the degree master being Arthur W. Priest.

All the work will be exemplified under the new ritual, and the degree teams have been preparing for this event for several months. All the Grand officers of Massachusetts are expected, and nearly every lodge in the eastern part of the State will be represented.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held tonight. One of the important matters to come up is the public hearing on the taking of land by right of eminent domain for a schoolhouse at Norfolk Downs. In the calendar are the orders appropriating $30,000 for the extension of the water system and the order amending the building ordinance by striking out that part of Copeland street in district one between Miller and Cross streets. It is very doubtful if the Finance Committee makes its report on the budget at this meeting as the committee has had but one meeting since the last meeting of the Council.

LIQUOR BUSINESS CHARGED.

Bartholdi Cappilini, aged about 40 years, residing at 1 Hall place, Boston, was arrested in Boston Saturday night by Inspector Goodhue for soliciting orders for liquor in Quincy. Cappilini is the agent for a Boston wholesale grocery and liquor house, and it is alleged that he visited Quincy and solicited order for groceries and liquors among the Italian families of Quincy, and later shipped the same from Boston. The specific charge against Cappilini was that he solicited liquor orders on March 2, 1909. Inspector Goodhue found his man in a bar room in the north end, Boston. He was immediately bailed to appear in court this morning.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

HOLIDAY NOTICE.

Tomorrow, Washington's Birthday, will be observed at the Daily Ledger office as a holiday, no paper being issued. The Daily Ledger of Wednesday will report all the holiday events, and announce latest plans for the banquet to President Bowles.

Little Rhody is to honor the memory of Christopher Columbus by making Oct. 12 a legal holiday.

April showers bring forth mayflowers—but after all it is only February.

Beverly is about to enact new building laws which will prohibit the erection of flimsy houses. It is a law every growing city should adopt.

Wollaston people are pleased that Commissioner Bainbridge is starting in on a "more beautiful Quincy" and has commenced the work by having the Warren avenue bridge painted a nice shade of green instead of the homely red used in years gone by.

Why is it that peole, as they walk along the streets or ride in the cars, have such an unpleasant expression? If one will observe even casually the people he meets in a day he will be impressed with the pained and sullen and disagreeable countenances. We live in a rush, and the average person is bent on some errand or business and is absorbed in that; we are all rushing to get something or somewhere. With this absorbing our attention we haven't time to attend to our facial expression. We are not sure, however, that this is a matter of permissible indifference. If one does not believe that his countenance adds to or detracts anything from the lives or expressions of others let him pause for a moment before that now celebrated "Billiken." It is almost impossible to look at the little imp and not smile. The Japanese teach their maids in the hotels, and those also in higher walks of life, the art of smiling. They are compelled to practice before a mirror. One cannot stay long in Japan without being inoculated with the disposition to "look pleasant." The "look pleasant, please," of the photographer goes deeper than the photograph plate.

No one wants to associate long with an animated vinegar cruet. A disposition is easily guessed from the angle of the corners of the mouth; a disposition is moulded by compelling those angles to turn up or down. If a merry heart maketh a glad countenance it is also true that a glad countenance maketh a merry heart—in the one who has it and in the one who beholds it. "Iron sharpeneth iron. So a man sharpeneth the countenance of his friends."

DRIFT OF OPINION.

If the Boston Elevated Railway Co's. bill passes the legislature it is predicted that the extention of the five cent fare zone will include the Dedham, Hyde Park, Milton and Quincy. But before the bill is passed it should be fixed definitely that there is to be such an extension. The road is asking from the people of the State a very great and valuable concession, a tremendous franchise without money price, and no bill of such character should be passed by the legislature unless it means an equal benefit for the people of the State.—Dedham Transcript.

Mayor Gaynor to an Office Seeker.

They are telling this story of Mayor Gaynor of New York now:

An office seeker, meeting the mayor on the street, thought it would be a good opportunity to brace him for a job.

"Good morning, your honor," began the man. "I would consider it a great favor if you would"—

The man got no further, for the mayor looked him over and said: "Good morning, sir. I know your face, but I can't place you."

ROSE AND COTTON BLACK AS COAL

Cripple Claims to Have Found Process For Growing Them.

INEXPENSIVE FORMULA USED

Dennis Trapley of Savannah, Ga., Says Any Plant Can Be Ebonized if Treated With His Chemical Mixture—Cost Only One-tenth That of Cotton Dye.

Floral culture and the cultivation of cotton will be revolutionized if the formula which Dennis Trapley, a rheumatic cripple of Savannah, Ga., has discovered proves all he asserts it will. Trapley recently went to Washington to try to obtain a patent on his formula.

By his process, which consists of the mixing of three inexpensive and common chemicals into a fluid, black cotton can be produced at an expense one-tenth that of dye. He says he has produced black roses, and he declares that any flower can be cultivated so that its blooms will be black.

Back of Trapley and his claims are representative Edwards of Georgia and Colonel A. R. Lawton, vice president of the Georgia Central railroad and wealthy lawyer of Savannah. On March 1 Trapley will send from his home in Georgia to Representative Edwards for exhibit in Washington a rose plant bearing several black blooms; also a number of buds equally black. This was the statement made to Representative Edwards by Trapley the other afternoon.

Like Watering a Plant.

Before Trapley arrived in Washington he was preceded by a letter from Colonel Lawton, who asked Representative Edwards to take the man in tow. Together the two visited the patent office and told the assistant commissioner of patents, Cornelius C. Billings, of the wonderful discovery. Commissioner Billings immediately gave Trapley the required papers to make application for a patent. Trapley said to Mr. Billings:

"After fifteen years of experimenting I have discovered a process by which black roses and black cotton may be produced. The formula is inexpensive. It consists of three cheap chemicals which are diluted with water.

"I have taken an ordinary rosebush and planted it in rich earth and by feeding it this chemical fluid have produced a rose as large and heavy as an American Beauty and as black as coal. The petals of this rose have the same gloss and luster as the American Beauty. The feeding process is exactly the same as watering a plant.

"As the first shoots of the bush push up through the earth an extraordinary darkness can be noticed. As they grow their colors become darker. The same is true of the foliage. The leaves of the bush are almost black. The buds when they appear are black.

Plants Benefited by the Chemicals.

"One of the peculiarities of the process is that after a certain number of applications during the first year it can be stopped and for two seasons the plant will bear black flowers. If the feeding process is not continued in the third year the bush will again assume its natural state.

"What is true of the rose is true of all other flowers and also of cotton. By the use of my chemical secret I can produce black cotton, and it will cost little or nothing as compared with black dye. One of the features is that the chemicals seem to have a general good effect on the plants. Those I have experimented upon have grown to extraordinary size and are of a fine fiber.

"The day my process is protected by patent I can dispose of it for $500,000. This proposition has been made me."

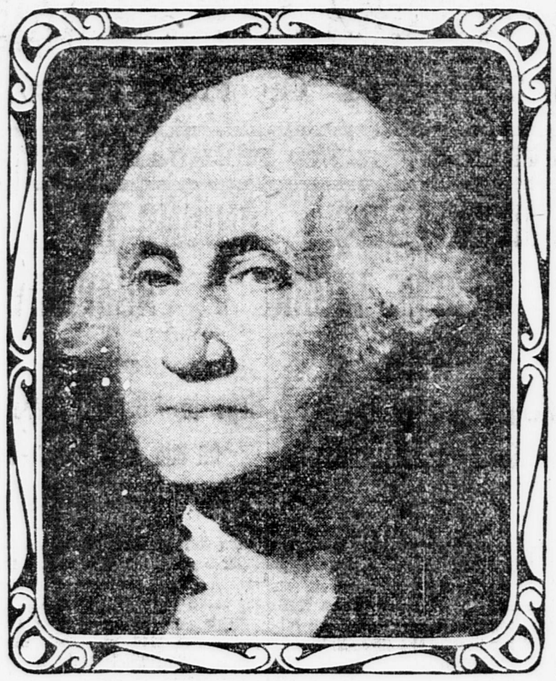

Distorted by Rheumatism.

Born in the backwoods of Georgia, Trapley can scarcely read or write. When a boy Dennis, as he is known to every merchant in Savannah, fished in the creek which ran by his home. When he was fifteen he became afflicted with rheumatism, and at seventeen he was a distorted sufferer. He moved to Savannah to get treatment. He began making key rings, upon which he marked initials. Soon he became known as the "key ring boy of Johnson square." On a corner Dennis, in an invalid's chair, would sit fourteen hours a day making key rings and selling them. For fifteen years he has been following this life.

In the spring and long summer evenings after he went home Dennis would plant roses and cultivate them. From early boyhood he had one thought, that of producing a black rose. First he tried grafting. Failing, he began the use of chemicals. This thought occurred to him after seeing a farmer spread lime on the fields which he was to cultivate. Dennis believed that if light soil and lime would produce a light sugar cane and light colored sirup some chemical might produce the black rose. About five years ago, he says, he produced the first bloom of black roses, also black cotton. Later he produced other black blooms.

Coming Changes In China.

It is reported that the question of cutting off the cues and the change of costume of the people in the Chinese empire will be enforced on the first moon next year.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

LETTERS OF PUBLIC INTEREST

Editor Daily Ledger:

Is it possible that Quincy people have no civic pride, no appreciation of great services by man. On Wednesday next Admiral Bowles will return from almost a year's absence, and in that time has brought great honor and prestige to our city.

If one of our citizens had gone forth to war and had achieved some great thing, do you imagine our citizens would be so lukewarm? Now Admiral Bowles has gone forth to war of competition in business. He has fought all Europe in his battle for the contract for the great battleships for the Argentine Republic. He had almost unsurmountable obstacles thrown in his way, yet he overcame all difficulties and brought back the contracts, amounting to over twenty million dollars.

I contend this is a greater victory than Dewey's in Manila bay for his was a work of destruction, while Admiral Bowles' is a work of construction.

Nothing has ever happened to Quincy of greater importance. We have been living on ancient history, on the great men of the past. Now let us awake and do honor to this man, who has performed a stupendous task, has honored the Nation, the State of Massachusetts, and more than all the City of Quincy.

Who can estimate the value of our city of having six million dollars paid out in wages. There is paid in wages to all the men employed in the granite business, the granite cutters, quarrymen polishers and teamsters not over $2,500,000 per year the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. will have to pay out more in two years for help than the granite industry will in twelve years.

What real estate owner, store, factory, or any person in Quincy can fail to feel the effect, so let us get together on next Wednesday evening and give the Admiral one of the most enthusiastic receptions ever given any man in Quincy. Let every bell be rung, every whistle blown. Let us have a battery of cannon to boom a salute. Let ten thousand people fill City Square, for there is a place for every one. This is no Dr. Cook affair, but the real thing, and Quincy will do herself honor in doing honor to so great an achievment and the man that made it possible.

Let us whoop her up until the Fourth of July will look pale in comparison, and let the people of the Nation know that the City of Quincy is alive once more.

J. L. Miller.

Quincy, Feb. 19, 1910.

FINE ENTERTAINMENT.

Friday evening, Feb. 25th, at Music hall, under the auspices of the Quincy F. O. E., Quincy citizens will have the pleasure of seeing genuine views of "Oberammergau, made from the original photographs, and are the only ones in this country that have the endorsement of the villagers and participants in the play in 1900 and 1905. Mr. Ellsworth is a magnetic speaker, and does not burden his hearers with a lot of unnecessary words, but every sentence uttered is to the point, and he holds the attention of his audiences from the beginning until the end of his remarkable entertainment. So interesting and realistic are his views, his description of them, and everything pertaining to the entertainment, that the evening fades away almost without the perception of his auditors. One feature that is worthy of note is the introduction of a select orchestra which will render some of the original music written for the wonderful drama. Among these musical numbers are "Hosanna", "The Song of Solomon", and the "Journey to Calvary". The second selection is two hundred years old. During the church scene, choir singers, and cathedral chimes will be introduced.

NOW AT PORTLAND.

The Origonian of Portland, Oregon, says: Aaron H. Gould, one of the prominent architects of Boston, Mass., has decided that Portland is the best of the Coast cities in which to locate, and has already opened an office in the Worcester building. Mr. Gould was Portland last fall and looked over the situation and has now come to locate permanently. He has practiced architecture for the past 12 years in Boston, and his knowledge of steel and concrete construction well qualifies him as an expert for that class of work. Mr. Gould will be heard from in connection with some of the large buildings that are contemplated for the present year.

COLONEL GEORGE W. DUNN.

The New Factor In the Conger-Allds Controversy.

Colonel George W. Dunn, whom Senator Benn Conger has charged with receiving a campaign contribution from the bridge corruption fund of 1902, is known in Albany as one of the lieutenants and firm political friends of ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt. For many years he has been a political power in Broome county and the southern tier. At present he is a member of the Republican state committee from the Thirtieth congressional district.

Benjamin B. Odell was governor in 1902, the year Senator Conger says the bridge interests made a contribution to the chairman of the Republican state committee. Colonel Dunn was the chairman, having succeeded Mr. Odell in that office when the latter entered the executive chamber. He had been appointed a member of the state railroad commission in 1897 by Governor Black, and he held that office until January, 1907, after Governor Hughes took office and just before the railroad commission was superseded by the public service commission. In the later years of his term at Albany Colonel Dunn was chairman of the railroad commission.

He was chairman of the Republican state committee in 1904, when Governor Odell entered upon his fight for control of the state organization. Colonel Dunn has remained a member of the state committee ever since, although in 1904 he came within one vote in the congressional delegation of being ousted.

He has a brilliant war record. He was captured early in the civil war, and it was a long time before he was liberated. He went to the front again as a lieutenant and after serving through the war received the rank of colonel.

He has always been a resident of Binghamton or its vicinity. He was a stockholder in several corporations and has been a director in banking institutions.

FOR THE EASTER BRIDE

Wedding Gown Worn at a Smart New York Ceremony.

PLENTY OF ROOM AT LAST.

The Story of a Woman Who Had Too Much Closet Space—Small Conveniences In the Home That Are Often Overlooked by Architects.

Dear Elsa—I have just come from such a pretty wedding, and while the event is fresh in my memory I am going to describe the bride's gown. I know that you are interested in learning about the newest bridal finery, as your sister is to be married the week after Easter. The gown worn by this smart bride was a Parisian confection, but there are lots of little suggestions to be gleaned from this masterpiece that could be carried out in less expensive materials.

To begin with, it had a deep pointed yoke of tulle, with the neck cut out round and perhaps an inch and a half below the base of the neck, the edge being finished with a narrow band of real lace. The robe itself was chiefly of chiffon, but had a foundation of charmeuse, and the soft, shimmering satin showed in the bodice and the fichu. The bodice of swathed charmeuse fitted the figure closely, coming down in a sharp point in front fully six inches below the natural waist line.

WHEN THE WEDDING BELLS RING.

The rest of the bodice ended at the regular waist line and was finished with a cord of the satin. The point in front was boned, of course, to keep it in place. The fichu, as I said before, was of the charmeuse and extended over the shoulders, running down in a point both back and front.

From under the fichu, which was slightly embroidered with lilies of the valley in crystal and silk, fell a flounce of point d'alencon that was carried down the center to the front, where the ends of the satin fichu meet a cluster of orange blossoms. The sleeves were of unlined chiffon gathered a little at both inside and outside seams and finished at the elbow with a fall of the d'alencon lace. The skirt had deep ruffles of lace and a panel down the front. It was plain around the waist over the hips, but was gathered slightly in the back. The lace flounces on the skirt were headed with embroidered bands of the charmeuse. The veil was of fine brussels net bordered with d'alencon, and the bridal bouquet was a gorgeous bunch of orchids and gardenias.

Another charming bride wore the gown I am sending you a sketch of today. Conventional white satin is the fabric used, and the bodice is a chic draped affair caught up at the left side with a pearl cabochon. The upper sleeves are of satin and the lower ones of tulle.

And speaking of brides reminds me of a pretty little shower given by a girl to a chum about to commit matrimony. The presents, consisting of embroidered linens for household use, were all beautifully tied up in tissue paper with pink satin ribbons. A boy's express wagon was fitted up with billowy folds of pink cheesecloth and the wheels wound with ribbon, completely covering the prosaic practical appearance of the vehicle. In the center of the cart was a pole wound with ribbon and topped with a bunch of pink carnations. A little niece of the hostess, frocked in pink, was harnessed to the wagon and at a given signal trotted in with her packages. At this wedding tiny horseshoes and slippers of soft silver paper were substituted for the usual shower of rice when the couple took their departure.

Plenty of Room at Last.

Elizabeth X. has just gone into her new house. You know, Elizabeth was always complaining that she never had enough places "to put things." Well, when the "bunch" went over to inspect the house yesterday we found the lady more than satisfied as to cupboard room. There are the most wonderful closets in that house you ever saw. Great mahogany chests of drawers are built into the hall, and the linen room is a dream. There are all

BOARD OF TRADE PLAN SHOWS LEVEL GRADE FOR RAILROAD FOR TWO MILES.

The Board of Trade or G. B. Bates plan for the abolition of the grade crossings at Saville street and Water street is presented clearly above. The horizontal scale is about 1200 feet to the inch, and the perpendicular scale about 23 feet to the inch. The profile plan of the present grade of the railroad tracks in Quincy is the irregular black line.

The proposed place of depression is the level or dotted lines, beginning at the Wollaston station and continuing beyond the Quincy Adams station. It is the equitable plan and solution of the grade crossing problem at Saville street and Water street creating perfect conditions for railroading with ample clearances at every railroad station bridge for railroad traffic, and saving every street now crossing the railroad tracks with much improved conditions in every way.

Every piece of property becomes more valuable, every business concern remains in its present location and so does the railroad.

Every spur track to every business concern remains and the Quincy freight yard and the South Quincy freight yard remains the same.

The proposed grade, as shown by dotted lines from Water street to connect with the black line (the present railroad grade) is exactly the same grade (three fourths of one per cent) as the present railroad is now from this connecting point to Braintree line. This plan will cost the city much less than the elevated plan proposed by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

A detailed description of the plans follow: Starting depression at the present level of the railroad tracks at the Wollaston station, 31 feet above city base (which is reckoned at mean low tide,) and continuing that same level to Quincy Adams station, first we come to Beale street bridge where the tracks will be depressed one foot lower than the present tracks are now, thereby making the clearance under the present Beale street bridge more than the clearance is now under the new Hancock street bridge at Atlantic (15.5 clearance) and approved by the railroad Commissioners. Under present conditions the Beale street bridge clearance would not be arprpoved by the railroad commissioners for it is not enough.

Next we come to Warren avenue with the tracks depressed 4 9-10 feet. Conditions will be so improved that a nice street bridge could be built in the place of the present foot bridge.

Next we come to the proposed Parkway station and the proposed Parkway going over the tracks. Mark you this is exactly half way between the Quincy station and the Wollaston station. The railroad tracks will be depressed 4 5-10 feet about on a level with Newport avenue at this station location, with fine entrance and exits to Newport avenue and the overhead Parkway on the west side, and fine entrances to Carruth and Grant and the overhead Parkway to Hancock street on the east side. Oh beautiful Quincy, nothing could be more pleasing and convenient for a large and long suffering public, and beneficial to an immense contiguous territory.

Next we come to the originally planned Parkway under the railroad tracks, a sunken hole down next to a river below extreme tide water, a nasty, dirty, gloomy place, taking the everlasting drippings of conditions that will be everlastingly with you and all future generations. Now the over-head Parkway relieves such miserable conditions, and makes the ridiculously ridiculous, the sublimest of sublime.

Next we come to Furnace brook, here our Hevenly Father in His all wise and omnipotent goodness has provided not only a wonderfully natural way for depression but He has also provided some most wonderfully natural waterways to care for all surface waters drainage along this line of railroad depression through Furnace brook and Town brook. Oh how wonderful the laws of nature. Next we come to Adams street with the railroad tracks depressed 4 1-2 feet, which would allow Adams street bridge to be lowered about 4 feet removing the hump now at Adams street and return to natural conditions.

We now come to Dimmock street, and can drop the Dimmock street bridge 6 or 7 feet and remove this almost prohibitive grade to its natural and easy grade.

Next we come to Saville street and the Quincy station. By depression of the railroad tracks at Saville street to the level of above plan, the new bridge over Saville street would be only 3 feet higher than the present railroad tracks are now at Savville street. Does this look much like stopping up Saville street forever? The present station and its present approaches would remain just exactly as they are now with a substation below, with wide outside stairways at each end for quick exits, and stair cases leading from the inside of upper or street station to the sub station below.

We have now come to Granite street and the present conditions will be exactly reversed. The railroad tracks will be where the street now is under the bridge, and the new street bridge at Granite street will be over the railroad tracks, with less than a 3 1-2 per cent grade on the east side to Hancock street and less than a 3 per cent grade on the west side to Goffe street.

We have now come to Town brook which we have alluded to as one of the wonderful water ways provided for drainage. We might say the tracks will be depressed at this point 3 8-10 feet, but will not affect the freighting into the Quincy freight yards. We have now arrived at School street bridge, with the railroad tracks depressed 4 3-10 feet. School street bridge could be lowered if need be 2 or 3 feet and very materially help the present street grade on the west side, and School street would be saved.

We are now at the Quincy Adams freight yards, and they will remain just as they are now, with the same entrance; also connected with the Quincy freight yards through the School street bridge.

We have now come to Water street. With the railroad tracks depressed 8 7-10 feet at Water street, with a massively constructed Bridge and a road bed 3 feet thick, said bridge would have about a 2 per cent grade to Franklin street on the east and about 2 per cent grade on the west side, and all streets now leading to Water street could be connected with easy grades.

From Quincy Adams station the proposed grade of railroad would be exactly the same per cent of grade connecting with the present railroad tracks opposite the pumping station as the present railroad grade is now from the pumping station to Braintree. Every granite concern and business house with their spur track will be saved, and our city will not be ruined by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. through their hired megaphones (as Gov. Guild so aptly and timely said.)

SUNDAY IN OUR CHURCHES

Evangelistic Services Held at St. Paul's M. E.

ST. PAULS M. E.

St. Pauls Swedish church was well filled three times on Sunday to listen to the Evangelists Eklund and Eagle. In the morning Rev. Eklund preached an elojuent sermon on the holy spirit. The people of God were greatly refreshed. In the afternoon 200 men listened to his famous lecture to men only. It was undoubtedly the greatest temperance speech ever delivered in Quincy. The applause almost raised the roof. As a closing tribute to the speaker the whole audience almost to a man arose and said "we'll stand by you in this revival."

The last meeting of Sunday was wonderful. The church was crowded with seekers. A glorious revival was started among the lukewarm church members and judging by signs this week will witness wonderful things.

Meetings every night except tonight On Friday it will be in English. The English speaking people are then invited. Thursday afternoon for women only, at 3.30 P. M. Next Sunday will be the last day the evangelists are here.

Mr. Eklund invites all the Swedes in Quincy to come. Bring your children Last night he announced that children could get song books at 10 cents even though he was selling them at a loss No meeting tonight. Come prepared for a good time tomorrow.

WOLLASTON M. E.

The services at the Wollaston Methodist church Sunday were attended by large audiences. In the morning the pastor preached a five-minutes sermon to the children on "No Room for Jesus," then he spoke on "Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God."

The Sunday school in charge of J. A. Sedgwick was well attended. Mrs. Wiggin's class had the largest attendance. At the close of the lesson Mr. Clee, secretary of the boys' work of the Y. M. C. A. of Quincy, spoke for a few minutes taking for his subject—"What are we here for." He said we are here for service. Let us go forth to bring our companions to Jesus.

At 4.00 o'clock Miss Rena M. Chamberlin had charge of the Junior League. Miss Abbie Stoddard led the Epworth League at 6 o'clock taking for the subject: "How to pray."

The subject of the pastor's sermon at 7 o'clock was "The battle not yours, but God's."

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

At the Sunday morning service the auditorium was well filled with a representative congregation and Rev. Carl G. Horst preached a very forceful and telling sermon from the text found in Luke 6:45—"The good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good." He clearly differentiated the work of the church and secular organizations saying that the associated charities are formed for the immediate relief of the poorly clothed and the poorly fed, the duty of the state is to furnish education, cleanly surroundings and to make possible a wholesome physical existence. But while it will always co-operate in all the world's work, the primary and specific work of the church of God is to produce men and women, whose spiritual natures are invigorated and whose characters are strengthened by worship. All other institutions deal with man as a mortal being, the church alone regards him as immortal, and trains him to exercise all the cardinal virtues and to go into the walks of daily life with high courage and a moral standard that shall elevate those with whom he comes in contact.

There is no substitute for this church of God, which preaches the religion of Jesus to the poor in spirit, the poor in hope, the poor in faith, and gives them a power for good to themselves and the world which is far more permanent than would be the giving of material help. And so the church produces men and women whose lives are living witnesses in all ages to the uplifting influence of the spirit of the Master.

The Young People's social club will hold a whist and dancing party in Brasee hall this evening.

The opera of "The Doctor of Alsantara" will be given by Prof. Willis Clark and some of his pupils, assisted by a chorus from the young people of the church, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

The annual festival by the children of Barnard Memorial will be held this year in Symphony hall on Huntington avenue, on Washington's Birthday from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 2.15 p. m. to 5.30 p. m. A beautiful and enjoyable occasion is assured to all that attend. A large, fully equipped orchestra, pretty costume dances and flag marches by a host of children, will assure fine effects and full enjoyment.

The noon-service at Kink's Chapel Feb. 23, will be conducted by the Rev. James DeNormandie, D. D., of Roxbury.

The annual contribution for the American Unitarian Association will be taken in our church Sunday morning, March 6. The A. U. A. is our national agent to diffuse the knowledge and promote the interests of spiritual christianity. It helps to found new churches where they are needed and by capable missionaries, books and pamphlets to inculcate correct views of religion. Every dollar contributed is spent for church extension, and the distribution of liberal religious literature. Not a cent goes toward the salaries of the officers of the American Unitarian Association. These are met by the income of invested funds. Our contribution, therefore, will be used in the great missionary field for the propagation of our message.

Wednesday afternoon the Church Helpers will meet with Mrs. James B. Geddess, 68 Standish avenue.

A Public Rally, under the auspices of the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice, will be held in the South Congregational church, (Exeter and Newbury streets) Sunday evening, Feb. 27, at 7.30 o'clock, subject: "The Church and the Social Question: What should the church say and do in the face of the social injustice of our times." speakers: The Revs. W. W. Peck of Winchendon, Frederick J. Gauld of Leominster, Henry C. Ives of Andover Howard C. Ives of New London, E. S. Meredith of West Roxbury, A. H. Robinson of Newton Center.

The regular meeting of the Unitarian Church Helpers will be held at the home of Mrs. H. F. McLean, 126 Winthrop avenue Thursday afternoon, Feb. 24.

ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S

At St. Chrysostom's church Sunday morning the rector, Rev. Albert Edwin Clattenburg took for his text Philippians 3:17, 18, and 19, and he gave a straight, plain talk on example. The occasion:—the coming into the communiate life of the parish of 34 members.

He said in part: Those just coming into relationship with the church have a higher ideal of membership in the church than the majority of those who have been members for years, consequently the newly confirmed when taking their example from among those already in the church are apt to go down instead of going up. Therefore it behooves the older members to maintain the highest position in the christian church that it is possible for them to attain.

At the evening service the Rev. Sydney T. James of the Church of Our Saviour preached the sermon. Miss Susie Nichols beautifully sang "One sweetly solemn thought." Rev. Albert Edwin Clattenburg preached at the Church of our Saviour at East Milton.

EXCITING RIFLE PRACTICE.

Record Scores Made Amid Mud and Snakes In the Philippines.

How would you like to be out in the open trying to make bullseyes with a rifle while a typhoon was hurling dust and debris into your eyes and while dangerous snakes were making you their target at the same time? This is what the men of the United States navy did at Olongapa, in the Philippines, and they made record scores too.

Full details of the small arm firing held under these difficulties have reached the navy department. Ensign J. R. Morrison, U. S. N., reporting on the firing at the Olongapo range, says that during the practice there were three typhoons, during which the firing was kept up and instruction as to range and deflection corrections under extreme weather conditions given.

"A more difficult range than the one at Olongapo for skirmish runs cannot be imagined," says Ensign Morrison. "Often the runs had to be made through water ankle deep, and those firing were lying down in the characteristic soft red mud a couple of inches thick. When the ground became dry it was infested with snakes, and I have seen the timekeeper of skirmish runs killing snakes that were around those who were firing."

The excellent spirit and determination of the men and the hearty co-operation of the petty officers are warmly commended.

SCORING FOR HEROES OF '76

Fame of American Forefathers Attacked In New Book.

PATRIOTS CALLED DEGENERATE

John Hancock a Smuggler and Defaulter, Samuel Adams Another "Ne'er-do-well," Declares James H. Stark of Boston.

James Henry Stark of Boston has written a book called "The Loyalists of Massachusetts and the Other Side of the American Revolution," which refers to Samuel Adams and John Hancock as defaulters and thieves and classes other Revolutionary heroes as "ne'er-do-wells," "degenerates" and "looters and betrayers of public trusts."

The book contains 500 pages and the statement that in Virginia the Revolutionary movement of poor white trash, or "crackers," led by Patrick Henry, was against the planter aristocracy. It was only very slowly and very deliberately, Mr. Stark says, that Washington identified himself with the "disunionist" cause.

"Patrick Henry Unreliable."

As for Patrick Henry, Mr. Clark declares that he was one of the most unreliable of men. Byron called him a forest born Demosthenes, and Jefferson, wondering over his career, exclaimed: "Where he got that torrent of language is inconceivable. I have frequently closed my eyes while he spoke and when he was done asked myself what he had said without being able to recollect a word of it. Mr. Stark also recalls the circumstance that Henry failed as a storekeeper and farmer before he said, "Give me liberty or give me death!"

Samuel Adams, Mr. Stark says, was another "ne'er-do-well." He quotes a letter of Adams to prove that he was a defaulter and as tax collector of Boston did not make proper returns of taxes, his bondsmen paying $5,000.

In telling of the Boston massacre the book asserts that the patriots poured a "torrent of coarse and profane abuse upon the soldiers, astonishing even in its echoes across the century," while it compares the Boston tea party with "the so called respectable mob which on the 11th day of August, 1834, destroyed the Charlestown convent and a year later nearly killed Garrison and made the jail his only safe place of refuge. Had slavery triumphed that mob would at this day be the object and subject of popular glorification."

"John Hancock a Smuggler."

Mr. Stark says John Hancock was the owner of the sloop Liberty, which was seized for smuggling, and even asserts that one-fourth of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were bred to trade or to the command of ships. More than one of them, he adds, was branded with the epithet of "smuggler."

As treasurer of Harvard college, he declares, Hancock received college funds amounting to upward of £15,200 Hancock, too, says Mr. Stark, proved to be a defaulter. He tells how "for twenty years the corporation begged and entreated him to make restitution and even threatened to prosecute him, and it was only after his death, in 1793, that his heirs made restitution to the college."

Josiah Quincy is quoted as saying it "would have been grateful to pass over in silence the extraordinary course he pursued in his official relation to Harvard college had truth and the fidelity of history permitted."

Calls Franklin Mail Thief.

Mr. Stark also submits evidence that Benjamin Franklin when sixty-seven years old was dismissed from the office of deputy postmaster general of the colonies because he stole letters from the mail. He relates in detail how Franklin was tried in England and dismissed from the service. The reference is, of course, to the historic incident of the so called "Hutchinson letters."

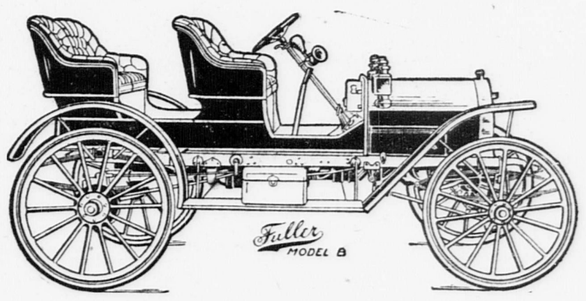

Mr. Stark was born in London, but came to the United States when nine years old. He is the author of several books, resides in Dorchester, Mass.; is president of the British Charitable association, vice president of the Victorian club and a member of the New England Historical Genealogical society.

John L. Sullivan to Be a Farmer.

When John L. Sullivan, the famous pugilist, returns from his honeymoon he will play the part of a farmer. The Emery estate at West Abington, Mass., it was recently announced, was purchased by Mrs. Sullivan, then Miss Harkins, a few weeks ago and a caretaker placed in charge with instructions to put it in thorough repair for occupancy in a few months. The estate is one of the finest in the town. It has a large farmhouse and stable and forty acres of land.

BRIEFS.

Mr. Deans of Billings street is contemplating a trip to North Carolina an electrical business. He will start Wednesday.

John Hunt of Atlantic received his appointment from Mayor Shea this week for special police during this year.

Mrs. Charles Hammond and son Wilson of Lawrence and Miss Elizabeth Harding of Beverly were the guests of Mrs. D. C. Pope over the week end.

Charles W. Hanscom has received from the American Federation of Labor a commission signed by Samuel Gompers the president, authorizing him to act as district organizer and label agent for the city of Quincy and vicinity. He was recommended by the Central Labor Union.

At the jury waived session of the superior court at eDdham Feb. 18, before Judge Stevens ,the following Quincy divorces were granted: Vera L. Anderson from Dr. John H. Anderson, for non-support, with right to resume her maiden name Vera Linea Colin. Virginia Monti from Rudolph Monti, for cruelty and intoxication.

The Houghs Neck Associates hold their annual ladies' night and banquet tomorrow evening. A turkey supper will be served after which there will be a little speaking and then dancing and a general good time. It is expected that Mayor Shea and several of the councilmen will be present. A grand good time is anticipated.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Wells, and daughter Barbara, who have been making their home with Mrs. Ellis Smith of Botolph street for the last few months, will leave Friday for Stoneham, where they will go to housekeeping again. Mr. and Mrs. Wells have made many friends while living in Atlantic and they all regret seeing them move away.

RIOT ACT PUT IN OPERATION

Serious Disturbance Over the Philadelphia Strike

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—Rioting in every section of this city followed the attempt of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company to operate its lines here Sunday.

Passengers and crews were driven from the cars by infuriated mobs of strike sympathizers and in nearly a score of instances the abandoned cars were burned or otherwise destroyed. At nightfall every car was withdrawn from service.

MAYOR REYBURN.

Stern measures were taken by the police to quell the disorders and nearly 500 persons were arrested, charged with inciting to riot. Two women were hit by stray bullets, and many people were removed to hospitals.

Mayor Reyburn last night ordered Director of Police Clay to swear in 300 additional police and issued a proclamation enforcing the riot act.

The executive committee of the Central Labor union pledged both moral and financial support to the striking car men. They also decided to call a sympathetic strike of every union man in the city in case the authorities put in effect their threat to operate the cars with policemen and firemen.

At 11 o'clock Sunday morning the transit company officials announced that cars were running on their regular Sunday schedule. Shortly afterward riots were reported from scores of widely separated localities.

At Twenty-six and Wharton streets a mob of boys drove the conductor and motorman from their posts, and after the four women passengers had left the car set it on fire with waste taken from a nearby freight car. The following car was also stopped and was being set on fire when a detachment of police and a chemical engine reached the scene.

In the usually quiet residential section of West Philadelphia mobs were formed which for a time baffled the police. Iron bars and stones were piled on the tracks and several cars were wrecked. Mounted police were powerless to disperse the mobs here and a fire hose was finally brought into play.

Contradictory claims are made by the opposing forces as to the number of men on strike. The leaders of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes say that 6200 of the 7000 employes of the transit company have left their cars. The officials of the company say that 3000 of their employes are loyal.

The importation of 175 strike breakers from New York led to an attack on the barns and main offices of the company at Eighth and Dauphin streets. Windows were broken by stones hurled by the mob, which was finally dispersed after twenty-five arrests had been made.

George Feltsaup was also struck by a stray bullet. His condition is not regarded as critical.

The transit officials say that 297 cars were wrecked, two were completely burned and one partially burned by the mobs Sunday. Two thousand six hundred and eight car windows were smashed. The officials of the company charge that the rioting was directed by union men, and was the result of a plot to intimidate the loyal motormen and conductors.

The labor leaders say they will force the company to arbitrate. They charge that the company has for months by a series of petty persecutions been endeavoring to force the union to strike and finally by discharging a large number of union men practically declared a lockout.

AN APPEAL TO CONGRESS

Spanish War Veterans Ask That Wreck of the Maine Be Raised

New York, Feb. 21.—Midway in its course, the Maine memorial service held here by the United Spanish War Veterans was turned into a demonstration to influence congress to raise the battleship Maine.

By a rising vote, an audience which filled Carnegie hall adopted a resolution condemning the "spectacle of the rusted hulk of the ship and the rotting bones of its victims, abandoned without sepulchre in alien waters," and urging that congress enact legislation for "the immediate removal of the wreck to our own shores and the recovery of the remains of the unclaimed victims for interment in the national cemetery at Arlington."

A copy of the resolutions will be sent to the president and vice president, the secretary of the navy and the senate and the house.

LONG STRIKE ENDS

Granite Cutters to Return to Work After Three Months' Idleness

Barre, Vt., Feb. 21.—Five thousand granite cutters in Washington county, who have been idle since Nov. 13 last, will return to work this week.

An agreement in the nature of a compromise, submitted by the manufacturers to the union, was accepted by the Barre branch of the International Granite Cutters' union, the controlling body in this county, by a majority of about 1000 votes.

This action was taken upon the advice of the officials of the international body and upon notification from Secretary Duncan that strike pay ceased Saturday night.

The agreement, which was signed today, is to run for five years.

SHERIDAN QUITS ATHLETIC FIELD

Says Game Has Done Much For Him, but Kept Him Broke

New York, Feb. 21.—Martin Sheridan of the Irish-American A. C., hero of three oplympiads and many times a world's champion and record-holder, says that he has made his last appearance as a competitor and probably never again will don athletic togs.

"I have been in the game for ten years," Sheridan said. "To be a champion one has to take a great deal of time that might be devoted to business purposes.

"Athletics has kept me broke most of the time. I know the game has done a lot for me, and my advice to all the youngsters is to go in for athletics.

"A man, however, should know when he has enough. I think I have had enough and think it is about time to drop athletics and get down to business. The game has given me all it can give."

DOE MINUS A LEG

Proved Too Nimble, However, For Game Warden to Lay Hands On

Williamstown, Mass., Feb. 21.—A herd of twelve deer, driven from the woods by the deep snow, took refuge Sunday near a huge haystack in the meadow of Benjamin Hill on the outskirts of the town.

The animals paid but little attention to the hundreds of people who watched them from the road and fed from the haystack for some hours, when they made off toward Pownal.

In the herd was a three-legged doe, one foreleg being off half way between the knee and the shoulder. An effort was made by the game warden to catch this animal, but she was too nimble.

Long Has No Intention of Taking Any Part In the Contest

Boston, Feb. 21.—Ex-Governor John D. Long will not allow his name to be presented as a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress at the Fourteenth district convention to be held in Brockton March 5.

"I do not want to go to congress," he said, "and I have asked my friends to drop the use of my name." Asked if he was to give his support to either of the candidates in the field, the ex-governor replied: "No, I shall take no part whatsoever in the contest."

Subsidy Bill Facing Death

Washington, Feb. 21.—The administration, or Humphrey, ship subsidy bill may be allowed to die a quiet death in transit between the committee and the house floor. Such criticism has been aroused, it is stated, that many members committed to ship subsidy are hoping that it will not be brought to a vote.

Kills Three Children and Self

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 21.—George Stephens, son of a mine operator, shot and killed three of his little children, shot and dangerously wounded their nurse, and then ended his own life by shooting.

REPUTED CHIEF OF BLACK HAND

Lupo Gets Thirty Years For Making Counterfeit Money

New York, Feb. 21.—Lupo (The Wolf), reputed chief of the Black Hand in America; Giuseppe Morello, chief of Sicilian counterfeiters in this country, and six of their confederates were found guilty of making spuribus money, and were sentenced to terms of hard labor in the federal prison at Atlanta, varying from fifteen years and $1000 fine to thirty years and $1000. The accumulated sentences and fines aggregate 150 years and $7600. The sentences are as follows:

Ignazio Lupo, thirty years and $1000 fine; Giuseppe Morello, twenty-five years and $1000; Giuseppe Palermo, eighteen years and $1000; Giovanni Calicchio, seventeen years and $600; Vincenzo Giglio, fifteen years and $1000 ; Salvatore Cina, fifteen years and $1000; Nicolo Sylvestro, fifteen years and $1000; Antonio Cecala, fifteen years and $1000.

Lupo, who is under sentence of thirty years for murder in Italy, where he was tried while a fugitive from justice, wept copiously during his counsel's plea for mercy, and had to be supported when led from the room after sentence.

Calicchio collapsed in the arms of two marshals, sobbing: "Not just, not just!" Morello fainted and went into convulsions. All the others sobbed bitterly.

As Palermo was being sentenced there was a loud report from a flashlight, and for a moment court and prisoners alike were visibly startled.

The judge, in pronouncing sentence, was careful to explain that he cherished no hatred to Italians; but, on the contrary, from his dealings with them he had been led to trust them as quickly as he would his own family. Nevertheless, he said, the evils of Italian criminality in this country must be stamped out.

Sentence was pronounced on only two of the six counts charged in the indictment and suspended in the others. Lupo, Morello and the others convicted are eight of the gang of seventeen, nine of whom were arrested last November and are now awaiting trial.

It is charged that they floated nearly $500,000 worth of counterfeit bills, which they peddled at 25 cents on the dollar.

To Lupo, the police credit two murders in this country, one of which was the famous "barrel murder." Comito, printer for the gang, turned state's evidence and will probably be placed on trial separately. It has been freely predicted that if freed his life will pay for the evidence he gave.

NO TRACE OF BODIES

Captain and Crew of Schooner Prescott Were Swept Into the Sea

Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 21.—Captain Crowley and his crew of three men were not imprisoned in their craft, the two-masted schooner George E. Prescott, when she capsized off Cape Ann, but were thrown off into the sea.

This was shown when the hull of the schooner was turned over and a close search disclosed no bodies in the wreckage. Collision as a cause for her capsizing was disposed of, the rails of the schooner being intact. The deck and masts, however, were badly broken up.

WOOD IS RECOVERING

General May Soon Resume Active Duties, Says Hospital Surgeon

Baltimore, Feb. 21.—The attending surgeon of General Leonard Wood, who is in a hospital here recuperating from the effects of two operations, said:

"In view of the unauthorized statements in regard to General Wood's condition, it may be said that he has had an uncomplicated convalescence from his operation and he should be able to resume his active duties soon."

Convicts In Death Duel

Richmond, Feb. 21.—J. A. Tinden, highwayman, and James Myers, safe blower, fought in the tuberculosis hospital at the penitentiary farm and Tinden stabbed Myers to death, after having been badly beaten with a poker.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

OF MORE THAN LOCAL INTEREST

The city of Quincy is making arrangements to give suitable expression of its appreciation of the splendid work of President Bowles of the Fore River Ship-Building Company in securing the great contract for building of two mammoth battleships for the Argentine Republic. Presidents Bowles is now in Europe, and on his return the public spirited citizens of Quincy are going to give him a reception and banquet, and it promises to be an affair of more than local interest.—Hyde Park Gazette.

AN OLD-TIME PRESCRIPTION

in a modern product. From time immemorial sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost every one knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair and making it grow. In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready to use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. Such a preparation is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, which is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or which is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

CHILD LABOR DATA CHANGED

Commissioner Neill Charged With Altering Report

Washington, Feb. 21.—If the charges made against Commissioner Charles P. Neill of the bureau of labor of the department of commerce and labor are sustained ultimately the value of the reports from that bureau will disappear.

Commissioner Neill says that the charges are in the main not true; admitting others, he says they were "mistakes."

CHARLES P. NEILL.

Commissioner Neill is being examined by Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Labor Cabel and Solicitor Earl of the same department on charges preferred by ex-Special Agent Dawley, who charges Neill with incompetency. Several witnesses have been examined.

Mr. Dawley said he was assigned to investigate the conditions of child labor in the cotton mills of the south, where Neill said the children were being destroyed by the thousands. After studying the condition of these children in the field for seven months, Dawley reported to the commissioner that they were taken from poverty stricken abodes on the so-called farms of the south where they were living in a state of ill-health, ignorance, degradation and often vice, and at the cotton mills they were developed into good and industrious citizens, with regular habits.

When his report came to the commissioner, he says, he was told flatly that the conditions as shown were not credited and that no matter what a child's condition, it should not be allowed to work anyway. He was sent south to make a second investigation on entirely new lines.

In making up his report of the second investigation Dawley prepared a printed schedule containing 100 inquiries to bring out in uniform manner the habits and conditions of each family investigated.

Dawley charges that when the results of this work were taken up in the bureau it was impossible to get them tabulated according to any well found principle of economic law or common sense.

He appealed to Neill and was told that no matter what the conditions of child life were, children should not be allowed to work; that the office did not consider his work of much value. Dawley at once placed his resignation in the hands of Neill and the latter refused to accept it.

At the commissioner's solicitation Dawley finished the tabulating of his data. He was then dismissed from the service. His work, extending over a period of two years, was suppressed, he says.

Dawley gave specific instances where Neill had turned down work costing the government thousands of dollars, done by special agents in the field, for no other reason than he did not credit the findings they made.

He charges that agents that were directed by law to investigate conditions were ordered by Neill to get their information from libraries instead of the field.

Death of Actor Burgess

New York, Feb. 21.—Neil Burgess, the actor, died at his home in this city. He had been suffering from diabetes for about a year. He was born in Boston in 1846 and made his debut there. He was widely known for his impersonation of "Aunt Abigail" in "The County Fair."

Will Fight the Wrights' Suit

Paris, Feb. 21.—The French aeroplane constructors have decided jointly to send a lawyer to the United States to defend French interests in the suits brought by the Wright brothers.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

Prosecutor Garven Says He Will Have Leading Packers In Court

New York, Feb. 21.—Prosecutor Garven, who has been investigating the operations in New Jersey of the food trust, so-called, is determined that the big packers shall appear in the Hudson county court.

"They will either come or be brought," he declared, "but I believe that most of them will come. I expect that the indictments will be issued by the grand jury on Wednesday."

Action by the Hudson county grand jury to indict has been taken against the National Packing company, which is charged with having conspired by the alleged cold storage of foodstuffs to regulate the market and get the highest possible prices for long frozen things.

CASE MAY BE REOPENED

Robnett Appeals From the Sentence of Naval Court Martial

Washington, Feb. 21.—There is a suggestion of a reopening of the famous Auld-Robnett court martial case which it was supposed had been finally settled by the approval of the navy department of the findings of the court martial.

It appears now that attorneys for Surgeon Robnett have been authorized to present to the department arguments to show that the officer was illegally puniched in the imposition of the court martial sentence of a loss of numbers after he had received a letter from the department which, in opinion of his attorneys, amounted to a reprimand and therefore a punishment.

AMERICAN SCOUTS ON THE FIRING LINE

Vasquez Barely Escapes In Hot Battle at St. Vicente

Bluefields, Nic., Feb. 21.—Americans took a very active part in the battle between the insurgents and the Madriz forces at St. Vicente, and one of them was wounded. They were under Captain Gordon, with General Mena, the contingent being known as the American scouts.

According to Gordon, Vasquez was beaten, although his 600 men outnumbered the provincial forces two to one. Some of Vasquez's personal effects were taken and the general himself got away only by a close margin.

The fierceness of the battle is indicated by the fact that two of Mena's guns were disabled. Another was twice dismounted, but each time replanted, doing effective execution. Mena's loss was twelve wounded. Gordon is of the opinion that the enemy's loss was heavy, as their assaults were delivered across open spaces in the face of artillery.

HUGHES JURY DISAGREES

Plaintiff Claimed That Mother Sold $1800 With an Old Coat

Auburn, Me., Feb. 21.—The jury reported a disagreement in the suit of William Hughes against Ann Hughes, his mother, aged 81, in which he says his mother either stole from him or carelessly sold with an old coat in the pockets of which he kept it, to a peddler. Mrs. Hughes denied selling the coat or taking the money.

It was alleged by the defense that the plaintiff was the black sheep of the family, that he was repeatedly fined for intoxication and that his brother Thomas always paid, and that he never had any such amount of money as he claimed to have lost.

DOCTOR GOES TO PRISON

Receives Sentence of Not Less Than Fifteen Years For Malpractice

Newburyport, Mass., Feb. 21.—The jury in the superior court returned a verdict of guilty in the case of Dr. Edward P. Wing of Lynn on the charge of abortion. He was immediately called for sentence and given not less than fifteen nor more than twenty years in state prison.

Mrs. Jessie Farnham was tried as an accessory and on her case the jury disagreed. Her bail was reduced and, securing bonds, she was released.

Storm Sweeps British Isles

London, Feb. 21.—A fierce gale has swept over the British isles, doing an immense amount of damage. The harbors are all crowded with shipping seeking shelter. Incoming vessels report extremely rough passages. Reports received here tell of the wreck of a large number of small craft.

Head of Banking Company Arrested

Mexico City, Feb. 21.—George I. Ham, who was president of the United States Banking company, which went into the hands of a receiver several weeks ago, was arrested on a charge of breach of trust. It is charged that mining stock given as security for loans is missing.

Bonfils Sails to Meet Roosevelt

New York, Feb. 21.—To urge Theodore Roosevelt to return to this country by the Pacific route, making his entry at San Francisco, Frederick G. Bonfils of the Denver Post sailed on the steamer St. Louis on his way to Khartoum.

TILLMAN SHOWS BIG IMPROVEMENT

Doctors Now Expect Full Recovery of His Speech

Washington, Feb. 21.—Favorable indications have appeared in the condition of Senator Tillman. His partial paralysis and loss of speech have abated and improvement has commenced, according to a bulletin issued by the three attending physicians.

Until Sunday the senator had spoken but two words since he was stricken last Thursday; but Sunday, when the family physician entered, his face brightened and he said: "Hello, doctor." A little later a physician, whom he had seen but once before, said to the senator: "I don't suppose you remember me."

"Yes, I do," replied Tillman. "You are Dr. White."

The doctors consider this return of speech most favorable, and they entertain no doubt now as to the patient's full recovery of his speech. The senator passed a comfortable night.

AFTER STRUGGLE WITH GIRL

Resignation of New Haven Police Commissioner Is Accepted

New Haven, Feb. 21.—Arthur N. Dean, police commissioner and officer in the governor's foot guard, has resigned from the city police board. Mayor Rice accepted his resignation with the statement that he believed it for the best interest of the city to do so.

Michael Leahy, an athlete, says he saw a girl struggling to free herself from a man on State street, and that he seized the man and pulled the girl away. The man, who he declared was Dean, took him to the police station and threatened to put him under arrest.

Dean says that he heard the woman's cries and had himself taken her from the clutches of another man when Leahy attacked him.

"NOT DEAD, BUT MARRIED"

Violator of Bachelor Club Laws Is Treated to Ride In a Coffin

Streator, Ills., Feb. 21.—Carried through the streets in a coffin at 10 o'clock at night was the gruesome experience of A. A. Solon, a young undertaker of this city who recently was married.

He was a member of the Streator Bachelor club and his marriage was made the occasion of a "memorial," at which a mock triad took place. The undertaker was tried, found guilty by a jury of unmarried men and put under the "death" penalty.

The prisoner submitted to a severe electric shock, after which he was placed in the coffin, which bore the inscription, "Not dead, but married."

RECEIVED NO WELCOME

Gaynor Shows His Indignation by Stalking From Banquet Hall

New York, Feb. 21.—In high displeasure Mayor Gaynor stalked from the banquet of the Suffolk County association because he had not been recognized and welcomed on his arrival.

To his secretary he was heard to say that he did not mind the slight as a citizen, but he thought his office deserved better.

The mayor, who had been bidden as guest of honor and chief speaker, was late, and another speaker had the floor when he entered. When the toastmaster was informed of what had happened, he quietly announced the next speaker without comment.

MADE BANK OF STOCKINGS

Woman Who Pleaded Poverty Found to Have Quite a Hoard

Bowling Green, O., Feb. 21.—With $3600 in cash, $2600 in securities and $600 worth of diamonds secreted inside her hose, Mrs. Emily A. Carman of Bradner has been complaining that she barely had enough income to keep body and soul together.

Not until she had been sick for a long time, steadfastly refusing to allow her stockings to be removed, was her strange secret bared.

Mrs. Carmen, 73 years old, is the widow of Dr. T. S. Carman, a pioneer doctor of Wood county.

WILL NOT BE INTERVIEWED

Dr. Cook Expresses the Wish That He "Be Left In Peace"

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 21.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, being afforded an opportunity to make a public statement regarding his claim of having discovered the North Pole, which claim was discredited by the university of Copenhagen, flatly refused to grant an interview.

His sole expression was that he wished to be left in peace.

MEANING OF CENSUS TERMS.

The official definitions of the terms "dwelling house" and "family," with reference to the population schedule to be carried by the enumerators in the Thirteenth United States Census, beginning April 15th next, are explained in the Census bureau's lengthy printed instructions to the canvassers. It is pointed out that the answers should relate only to conditions existing on April 15, the "census day."

The words "dwelling house" and "family" are, for census purposes, given a much wider application than they have in ordinary speech.

A "dwelling" is defined as a place in which, at the time of the census, one or more person regularly sleep. It need not be a house in the common meaning of the word, but may be for example, a room in a factory, store, or office building, a loft over a stable, a canal boat, a tent, or a wigwam. The term also includes a hotel, boarding or lodging house, a tenement house, an institution or school building, if persons regularly sleep there, as well as the ordinary dwelling house.

A "family" as a census term may mean a group of individuals who occupy jointly a dwelling place or part of a dwelling place, or an individual living alone in any place of abode. All the occupants and employees of a hotel, if they regularly sleep there, make up a single family, because they occupy one dwelling place, and persons living alone in cabins, huts, or rooms in public buildings, stores, warehouses, factories or stables; and persons sleeping on river boats, canal boats, barges, etc., if they have no other usual place of abode, are regarded as families.

The enumerators are required to enter on the schedule the name of every person whose usual place of abode on April 15, 1910, was with the family or in the dwelling place for which the enumeration is being made. The head of the family is to be entered first; then the wife; next the children, whether sons or daughters, in the order of their ages; and lastly, all other persons living with the family, whether relatives, boarders lodgers, or servants.

The head of the family, whether husband or father, widow or unmarried person of either sex, is to be designated by the word "head;" and the other members of the family as wife, father, mother, son, daughter, grandson, daughter-in-law, uncle, aunt, niece, boarder, lodger, servant, etc., according to the particular relationship which the person bears to the head of the family.

POPULAR AT DEDHAM.

The Dedham Transcript says: "Dr. William Everett, who died at Quincy, Wednesday, was one of the best known men in the country. He had on many occasions visited Dedham and had a large circle of friends and acquaintances in the town. Dr. Everett often preached in the First church in this village, and the announcement that he was to occupy the pulpit always drew large numbers to the church. His ever popular, clean, wholesome books, "Changing Base" and "Double Play," are to be found in the Dedham Public Library. They are splendid stories for boys, and the boy who starts to read either volume will find the same so interesting and fascinating that he cannot lay it down again until he reaches the word "finis." Dr. Everett traced his ancestry back to the Everetts of Dedham, and always had a warm spot in his heart for the old town and its people."

BRIEFS

Laurance H. Sturtevant of Adams street is in Chicago on a business trip.

Schools close tonight until Wednesday.

Ruel O. Jefferson of East Elm avenue is seriously ill with appendicitis.

Miss Marjorie Welch is the guest for a few days of friends at Mt. Holyoke college.

Mrs. J. Henry Emery of Adams street entertains on Wednesday afternoon at bridge whist.

The Rices of Adams street are entertaining a jolly house party at their farm over the week end and holiday.

Most people are very glad that the storm this morning was rain instead of snow. Most people have seen all the snow they want to this winter.

Rev. Ernest C. Tuthill assistant at Trinity church, Boston, will preach Wednesday evening at the regular lenten service at St. Chrysostom church.

The Granite City club at a special meeting Saturday evening made a substantial contribution toward the expense of the banquet to President Bowles of the Fore River Co.

The special election in Ward Two will be held a week from tomorrow. The Registrars of Voters will meet Friday to add names to the voting lists. Apparently there is but little interest.

The Norfolk Bar Association met Saturday and elected these officers:—President, Asa P. French; vice president, Albert E. Avery; secretary, Robert W. Carpenter; treasurer, Edwin C. Jenney.

Hon. William R. Thomas, ex-city solicitor of Quincy, will adress the Board of Trade and friends this evening, Feb. 21, on "Corporation Law," a subject of considerable interest just now to business men.—Brockton Times.

The West Quincy Improvement Association are making great preparations for the first banquet which will be held Thursday evening. The speakers at the banquet will be local as a rule, although there may be some out of town speakers.

Charles W. French a member of the 1915 committee will be the speaker at the regular meeting of the Child Nurture club on Tuesday afternoon at 3 oclock at the home of Mrs. Percy L. Davidson, Marion street corner Grand View avenue. A cordial invitation is extended to all to attend.

As showing the development of the parish of St. Chrysostoms church it is interesting to note that in the first nine years of its existence 56 were confirmed and in the last five years 75 have been presented to the Bishop for confirmation. On Tuesday the rector Rev. Albert Edwin Clattenburg will present to Bishop Lawrence 34 for confirmation, just double the number of any previous year.

BRIEFS

Everett G. Rhodes of Old Colony avenue and Gordon Jameson of Beach street are guests at a house party at Halifax over the holiday.

Gentlemen's night will be observed this evening by the Womans Bible class of the Wollaston Baptist church. Members of the Men's Bible class have been invited and an attractive entertainment is promised.

Lawrence A. Dyer, a well known resident of Braintree, and father of Mrs. Albert Williams of Quincy, died Sunday aged 73 years. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having enlisted in Co. C., of the 4th Mass. regiment at the outbreak of the war under Co. A. B. Packard.

The Men's club of Christ church has invited the other men's clubs of the city to their meeting this evening.

The meeting of the Quincy Women's club on the afternoon of the holiday will be in the nature of a gentlemen's day for members are especially urged to bring men guests. An interesting program will be given by Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth who will read Elizabeth Robins humorous play "Votes for Women." Tea will be served.

Miss Catherine Theiss who with her parents is leaving Quincy shortly for Washington, entertained friends on Saturday evening at her home on Revere road. Although coming to this city only a year or two ago she has made many young friends who regret her short residence here.

Paul Revere Corps 103 and Post 88 will observe Washington's and Lincoln's birthday in the G. A. R. hall Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 22.

This evening at 6.30 the Epworth League will give a supper to the Junior League in the vestry of the Wollaston Methodist church.

Charles W. French, a member of the Boston 1915 committee will speak before the Child Nurture club which meets with Mrs. Davidson of Marion street on Tuesday afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Wollaston Methodist church will hold a sewing meeting with Miss Merrill of Fayette street on Thursday afternoon.

A patriotic service will be held by the Wollaston Boy's club at their meeting in the Wollaston Congregational church on Thursday evening.

Miss Charlotte M. Peterson of Squantum, is spending a week in New York previous to sailing on the Moltke, Hamburg American line for a cruise through the West Indies and South America.

The weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club, which was postponed on acount of the reception and banuet to President Bowles of the Fore River Co. will be held Wednesday evening as usual.

The rain this morning, along about 11 o'clock was very heavy turning the gutters into running rivers. So fast did the water flow that the underground drain in City Square was not able to take care of it and there was quite a large pond for a few minutes.

The regular meeting of Quincy lodge of Elks which falls on Tuesday, Washington's birthday, will be omitted, by special dispensation from the deputy.

It is reported on good authority that John F. Merrill and Thomas Swithin have purchased the Rockland hotel property at Nantasket beach. It will be leased the coming season as a hotel to Boston parties who will run it as usual.

REGISTRATION
CITY OF QUINCY

For the purpose of correcting the Annual Register of voters, and of receiving evidence of qualifications from persons claiming a right to vote, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session in the Council Chamber in the City Hall building on

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1910

from 12 M., to 10 o'clock P. M.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board. Every male applicant must present either a certificate from the Assessors, or a Tax bill or notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed a Poll Tax as a resident of the city on the first day of May last, or a certificate from the Assessors that he became a resident of the city prior to Sept. 1, 1909. If a naturalized citizen, he must produce for inspection his papers of naturalization.

Persons who have lived in the State one year and in the city six months previous to March 1, if qualified in other respects, can be registered.

No names can be added to the registers except the names of voters examined as to their qualifications between the thirtieth day of April last and the close of registration on Friday, Feb. 25, at 10 o'clock P. M. The Board of Assessors will be in session at their office during the same hours.

The Fore River apprentice team was more successful and in an overtime game defeated the Lynn Y. M. C. A. second team 12 to 0.

SPORTING CHAT.

Richard W. Allen a Fore River Apprentice has entered the 10-mile cross country run to be held tomorrow morning under the direction of the Armory A. A. in Boston. Allen is a novice at the running game and has been given a handicap of 5m. 20 s. His only race was last Thanksgiving day when he finished second in the Y. M. C. A. 3 mile cross country forcing the winner, Phelan, to exert himself to win out in a thrilling finish. Of late he has improved wonderfully under the watchful eyes of experienced men and I am informed by good authority that he recently went 10 miles in 58 minutes. This is remarkably fast for a novice and Quincy may hear of his victory if everything goes right with this clever speed merchant. He will be handled by "Billy" Hackett and Fisher, Hackett's trainer ,and both of these have high hopes of bringing Allen home a victor. There are about 100 entries in this and an exciting race will be seen. Many from Quincy plan to see the race and you will do well to join the Apprentice rooters. The race starts from the Armory A. A. clubbuilding, Boston, tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Go in and keep your eyes on Allen.

Not a few Quincy baseball fans are expected to flock to the State House today when the Sunday baseball billl of Representative James Mellen of Worcester comes up for a hearing on legal affairs. The Mellen bill provides for the granting of a license for Sunday baseball and includes professional as well as amateur games. Gee how would you like to go up to Water street Sunday afternoon to see a game. Oh, but that is too good to be true so stop dreaming.

• • •

That basket-ball game at the Quincy Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Saturday night between the Fore River Apprentices and Lynn Y. M. C. A. 2d is the talk of the city It was fiercely contested throughout and at the end of the second half the score was a tie 10 to 10. It was decided to continue playing until a point could be scored and in just two minutes overtime Boyle of the Apprentice quintet spelled the visitor's defeat by shooting the ball into the basket clear across the gym. The joy of his fellow players and Apprentice rooters knew no bounds and he was indeed lucky to escape without injury from the joyous ones.

• • •

Franz Marceau the local crack miler will undoubtedly be the big attraction at the Boston Athletic Association's schoolboy meet at Mechanics building, Boston next Saturday. All of the Boston sporting writers agree that "Babe" has it on all schoolboys and speak highly of his performances at the South Boston A. C. and the Pastime A. C. games.

It looks as though he was the only entry that could possibly clip any time off of the records.

Saved by A Parrot

But There Were Links Between the Bird and the Outcome.

By ANDREW C. EWING.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

On either side of New York harbor, commanding the Narrows, is a fort. That on the east shore is called Fort Hamilton, that on the west Fort Wadsworth. These forts are at all times garrisoned by United States troops.

There lived some years ago near Fort Hamilton a widow named Hammond, whose boy, Robert, growing up in close proximity to an army post, imbibed a taste for a military life. When he became eighteen years of age he went into the fort one day and enlisted and then went home and told his mother what he had done.

Robert Hammond was a steady young fellow and, having received a pretty good education, resolved to try for promotion through the noncommissioned to the commissioned grades. He had become a corporal when that happened which sometimes makes and sometimes breaks a man—he got a sweetheart. Nancy Alvord was about Hammond's age and a lovely girl. Nevertheless she was the cause of his getting into trouble.

Famous Coney Island, where there is a multitude of shows, is but a few miles from Fort Hamilton, and one summer day when the young soldier had leave to go where he liked between midday and 9 p. m. he called for Nancy, and together they stepped on an electric car for a visit to the island. Robert had money enough in his pocket to enable them to take in most of the shows, and so great was their enjoyment that the time passed more rapidly than they realized. The days were at the time at their longest, and this, too, had something to do with their mistaking the hour. At any rate, when there was still twilight they heard a clock strike 9.

Robert's heart sank within him. His leave had expired, and he would not be able to reach the fort in less than half an hour. He would be "broken"—that is, reduced to a private—and his dream of becoming a commissioned officer was at an end. At any rate, he would be obliged to begin all over and by a long period of good behavior get again in line.

"Very well, Nancy," he said; "I may as well be hanged for a sheep as a lamb. We'll stay here as long as we like."

Nancy endeavored to induce him to go back at once, but he would not. So they ordered a supper and after that continued to enjoy themselves at the various places designed for the double purpose of giving people pleasure and getting their money. When the money was mostly spent they took a car and went home. Passing a saloon kept by one Murphy, Robert wished to go in and get a glass of beer, but Nancy dissuaded him. Robert left her at her house, then went to his mother's.

Though it was late, Mrs. Hammond was just about going to bed. Robert told her that he had broken his leave. Mother-like, she persuaded him to go to his own room that he had occupied as a boy and remain there overnight. He did so and in the morning overslept. Then his mother begged him to take breakfast at home. By the time he reached the fort it was long past reveille roll call.

Robert was put in arrest. And what was his astonishment when told that the saloon keeper Murphy, had been murdered the night before, that some shreds of blue uniform and several army buttons had been found near the body and a soldier answering his description had been seen near the saloon.

The young soldier was troubled only at the prospect of being reduced to the ranks. There could be no doubt of his proving that he had not been in Murphy's saloon and that he had been with his sweetheart and later with his mother. He gave the captain the address of both women and told him to go and ask his mother and Nancy if he had not been with them during the night of the murder.

The officer, in order that there might be no collusion between Robert and the others, said nothing about the charge of murder to either woman in order to better conceal his object. He told them that the soldier was in danger of being tried for desertion. Both women knew enough of army offenses to understand that desertion was a serious charge. Neither knew what reason Robert had given his superiors for his absence, and both feared to say anything about him for fear of disproving what he had himself said. The consequence was that both denied having seen him the night before.

This was quite enough to convict him, if not of the murder, certainly of falsely accounting for his absence. He was turned over to the civil authorities to be tried for murder.

It would be impossible to give an idea of the anguish of the mother and sweetheart when they learned of the real charge that had been made against the son of the one and lover of the other and that they had put it out of their power to prove an alibi for him and in this way establish his innocence. They were visited by Robert's attorney and questioned. It was evident to them that he did not believe the reason they gave for telling his captain that they had not seen him during the night of the murder, and it would not have made any difference if he had believed them. They had made a statement and could not contradict it before a jury and expect the contradiction to be considered evidence.

Nancy Alvord, after her terror at her lover's position and her chagrin at having denied that she had been with him had in a measure subsided, began to think of some way to prove the untruth of her first story. This led her to read carefully the newspaper accounts of the murder, and she saw that Murphy's watch, which was found in his vest pocket, had stopped at thirty-seven minutes after 10. She remembered hearing a clock strike 11 while on the car returning from the island. This was fixed in her mind by the fact that she expected a scolding on her return home for having stayed out so late.

The civil authorities considered that Murphy's watch marked the time of his death. The murder occurred in an upper room used for card playing, no one but the murderer and the murdered man being present. That there had been a scuffle was evident from the shred of uniform and buttons picked up on the floor. The watch had undoubtedly stopped during this scuffle. At thirty-seven minutes after 10 on that eventful evening, with a limit of ten minutes either way, Robert and Nancy had been among the shows at Coney Island. They had passed Murphy's saloon at about twenty minutes past 11. Had Nancy not been handicapped by her first statement she could have told a perfectly straight story that would have tallied with the facts and exonerated her lover.

The next move she made was to go to Coney Island and visit the attendants upon the various shows with a view to finding some one who had seen her there with a soldier and if possible to secure that soldier's identification as Robert Hammond. She went over the ground, but found no one who remembered her or her soldier escort.

As the day for the trial drew near the result looked black for the young soldier. His mother was in agony over the situation, which was rendered more excruciating by the fact that in her effort to shield her son she had put it out of her power to save him.

The morning before the trial Nancy was sitting by her open window overlooking the lower bay, trying to think of her problem. A woman came to a window of the house opposite and hung a parrot cage containing a parrot beside the window. The woman left, and the parrot began to chatter.

Nancy jumped from her seat, dashed into an adjoining room, seized her hat, flew downstairs out into the street and boarded a car for Coney Island.

What she did there will appear at the trial, which was called in the criminal court the next day.

A jury had been impaneled and the prosecutor had stated the case for the state and had produced his witnesses. They were but few and stated only what has been thus far given. Then the prisoner's counsel took up the case for the accused, calling him to the witness stand. He asked Robert a number of irrelevant questions not apparently bearing on the case, requiring him to give long explanations. Finally the state attorney objected to the questioning as irrelevant, and the judge sustained the objection. Then the counsel called Nancy to the witness stand and pursued exactly the same course with her till another objection was raised and sustained.

"Where were you," asked the counsel of Nancy, "on the night of the 16th of June between 10 and 11 o'clock?"

"At Coney Island."

"Who was with you?"

"The accused, Robert Hammond."

"That will do."

At a sign from the attorney a phonograph was brought into court and set on a table. An operator put its machinery in motion, and a voice, plainly Nancy's, began to talk. What had been spoken in the machine was of no importance, detached sentences expressive of the pleasure to be derived at visiting Coney Island.

Then another voice was switched on. Every one started. It was the voice of Robert Hammond.

"I'm a soldier. I am. Got leave till 9 o'clock, and here I am at 10:30 talking into a phonograph machine. I'll be broke tomorrow, I will. My chevrons will come off, and I'll serve the balance of my enlistment as a high private in the rear rank. Come, Nancy; let's get along to the next show."

"Your honor," said the counsel for the defense, "I made the jury familiar with the voices of my two witnesses that they might recognize them in this phonograph, which I propose by its operator to prove received the voices at Coney Island about the time the murder was committed."

Robert was acquitted. He had been saved by the squawky voice of the parrot that had brought to Nancy's mind the phonograph, thus suggesting that they had talked in one on that eventful evening.

Robert Hammond's captain was so chagrined at the jeopardy in which he had placed the young man by the way he had approached his mother and sweetheart for evidence that he interested himself in the soldier's behalf, promoting him rapidly as a noncommissioned officer and coaching him for his examination for lieutenant. Hammond, with his wife, Nancy, are now stationed on the Pacific coast.

The murderer of Murphy turned out to be a militiaman who had been off on an excursion with his company. He had gone to Murphy's saloon, played and lost to Murphy himself and in a burst of passion killed him. Acting suspiciously, he was finally accused of the murder, tried and convicted.

POOL TOURNAMENT.

On Monday, Feb. 28, the Hardy A. C. and the Copeland Club of West Quincy will start their 1000 point pool tournament for the championship of Ward Four. A purse of $25 is offered by J. H. Welsh for a prize to the winner. There are five players on both teams so that each man will play 200 points. For some time there has been great rivalry between the two teams, so a great contest is anticipated. The contest is to be held in the Copeland Club rooms. James Ogle, once the champion pool player of the city, is to umpire the game. The players taking part in the contest are as follows: Defenders of the Red and Gray—Capt. George Hebert, Edward Desmond, Frank Gagan, Barney Riely and Richard Williams. The Blue will be represented by "Babe" Badger, Joe Desmond, C. Lyons, Edward Eagan and Capt. Kelly.

SPORTING NOTES.

Carl W. Gram of Quincy captured second prize in the 35 yard handicap dash from a big field on Saturday night at the indoor games of the Lawrence Light Guards at Medford. First place was taken by P. G. McAustin of Harvard, and J. P. Long, also of Harvard, won third prize.

At basket ball at Milton on Saturday the Cuningham gym team defeated the Abington Y. M. C. A. team 45 to 25.

Quincy High and several other schools will enter the track meet of the Interscholastic A. A. at Mechanics Building for Saturday. The Globe says: Franz Marceau of Quincy high school, who is also an associate member of the B. A. A. is regarded as a probable record breaker in the mile run, because he has done some fine work since he came into the limelight last summer at the open meets. At the South Boston A. C. meet he won the mile event and at the Pastime A. C. games in New York recently he gave the New Yorkers a merry chase and also won the mile there.

CONSIDERABLE FEELING SHOWN IN COUNCIL

Debates over City Stables, Water Loan Order And Erection of New Schoolhouses

Water Loan Order Defeated but the Vote Reconsidered

For nearly five hours Monday evening the City Council wrangled over various orders in a discussion that at times reached a fever heat. At times the language was such as could hardly be called parliamentary, and various members were referred to in uncomplimentary names. The debates were on several matters and simply bore out the statement that the City Council of 1910 is to be a scrapping body. It was just 12.26 when an adjournment was reached, and then the members hurriedly left the hall and boarded special cars which were in waiting to take them home. Councilman Cantfill and Woodward were the only absentees.

A communication from the Mayor appointing James Robbie a weigher of coal and measurer of wood was confirmed.

HEAVY DAMAGES.

A communication from the Mayor with inclosure from the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department asked for an appropriation of $2,500 to repair damage done by storm of Dec. 26, 1909, and from the Chief of Police asking for $1,000 to repair damage to police wires by the same storm. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Cherrington offered an order for $3,500 for the same. Referred to Committee on Fire and Police.

HOUGHS NECK SERVICE.

The Mayor returned the petition of the Houghs Neck Associates petition the railroad commissioners for improved street car service at Houghs Neck. His reason for returning the petition was that it was not in proper form. The Council, the Mayor says, should do one one or two things, either approve of the petition or turn it down with its reason of refusal, after which the petitioners may take the matter themselves to the Railroad Commissioners.

Laid on the table until later when Councilman Moir offered an order that inasmuch as this Council is not to finally adjudicate the matter, and as it is to be passed upon by the Railroad Commissioners the Council deems it is wiser not to take any further action and therefor refuses the request of the petitioners. After some discussion the order was adopted.

SEWER EXTENSION.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works asking for an appropriation of $40,000 for sewers, of which sum $10,000 was for Houghs Neck. Referred to Committee on Sewers.

The Mayor appointed Herbert A. Newton, Carl R. Sheppard, E. Frank Mitchell, Daniel C. McNeil, Eben Sheppard, James Robbie, John Robbie, as weighers of coal and measurers of wood, and Thomas W. White and David L. Frazier as measurers of wood. Confirmed.

ABATEMENTS OF TAXES.

A communication was received from the Assessors asking for an appropriation of $3,000 to make abatements for the years 1908 and 1909. Referred to Finance Committee.

The Mayor forwarded a letter from the Chief of Police relative to the incorporation of the Montclair Improvement Association. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

PETITIONS.

The Telephone Co. petitioned for attachments to poles on East Elm avenue. Referred to Committee on Streets.

The Old Colony Street Railway Co. petitioned for permission to build a turnout on Billings street, Atlantic. Referred to Committee on Streets. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Moir offered an order for a public hearing on the petition for March 21. Adopted.

A number of petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

PUBLIC HEARING.

At 7.45 o'clock, a public hearing was held on the matter of taking land at Montclair by right of eminent domain for a school lot. A large number of citizens from that section of the city appeared in favor of the taking. Each of these was asked his opinion as to the value of the land. Their estimates varied from 5 to 8 cents per foot. There was no opposition and the hearing closed.

On motion of Councilman Cherrington the order was laid on the table until later, when he offered an order taking the land by right of eminent domain. Order read and referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on State Aid reported an order granting Soldiers Relief. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing March 7, at 7.50 o'clock, on petitions of the Telephone Co. for underground conduits and attachments. Adopted.

BISHOP LAWRENCE

Consecrates St. Chrysostoms Church at Wollaston

Tuesday was an eventful day for the rector and parishioners of St. Chrysostoms church at Wollaston when the church was consecrated by Right Rev. William Lawrence bishop of Massachusetts, assisted by Archdeacon Samuel G. Babcock.

The instrument of donation was read by Percy L. Davidson, junior Warden. Then the document was given to Bishop Lawrence. The consecration service consisted of the chanting of psalms by the choir and Bishop Lawrence as he headed the processional followed by clergy wardens and vestry. It was most impressive.

At the altar there were prayers and the blessing of the church by the Bishop followed by morning prayer read by Rev. Carleton S. Mills, Rev. L. C. Manchester and Mr. Elisha Packard Confirmation office followed, the rector Rev. Albert Edwin Clattenburg presenting 34 persons to the Bishop for confirmation double the number of any previous class. The Bishop said to the class, the day of consecration was a good time to consecrate their lives as living temples to the service of the most high God. The communion office was read by Bishop Lawrence assisted by Archdeacon Babcock.

Rev. Henry Evan Cotton, D. D., delivered a strong sermon which the rector of the church has requested Dr. Cotton to give it to him in order that it may be published.

The Bishop announced that the offering would go towards building a parish house at Devils Lake, North Dakota; an offering of love from the congregation to the retiring rector.

The music was beautifully rendered by the mixed vested choir, Miss Susie Nichols soloist, assisted by Edward Savage of Hyde Park and Mrs. Spooner and Mrs. Vie of Wollaston, Miss Louisa Allison Ross, organist.

The choir has attained a high degree of excellency under the direction of the rector and the parish is proud of its success.

The church was built in 1894. Since Rev. Mr. Clattenburg began his rectorship he has been striving to wipe out the debt of $3,000 and his enthusiastic zeal and inspired ability has accomplished it. It is simply marvelous the way he has accomplished its reduction each year. $1,732.50 was raised from January 1909 to December 1909.

Joy over the debt being cleared is saddened by the great loss sustained in the resignation of Mr. Clattenburg, which takes effect Easter Sunday. Although the fact of his leaving is causing much regret his loss will be more fully realized by parish when he leaves to take up missionary work under Bishop Mann at Devil's Lake, North Dakota.

An excellent lunch was served to the guests and choir in the parish rooms after which the rector entertained the guests at the rectory.

CITY SQUARE BREAK.

The fruit store of James McConnell on Hancock street, adjoining the Daily Ledger office was entered by burglars early Tuesday evening. The parties gained entrance by breaking the glass in a rear window near the catch so that the catch could be turned and the window opened. All that is missed is a few cigars and a pair of shoes belonging to Mr. McConnell's son. An old pair of shoes was left outside of the window. Mr. McConnell's son says that he was in the store early in the evening, so that the break must have taken place between 8 and 9 o'clock.

BANQUET DATE IS SELECTED

President Bowles of Fore River Company Agreeable to Next Tuesday

Capacity of Music Hall Will be Fully Tested

Next Tuesday is the day on which the eagle will scream, as President Bowles of the Fore River Ship Building Co., has accepted an invitation to attend the reception and banquet to be tendered by the citizens on that date.

Monday morning Mayor Shea sent a second wireless to President Bowles, asking if next Tuesday would be convenient, and Tuesday morning he received a reply that it would. In some respects it will be a good thing that the affair was postponed, as it will give the committee more time to perfect necessary arrangements, so that it will lose none of its pleasure by the postponement.

Practically, tickets for all that Music hall will accommodate, have already been sold, so that President Bowles is assured of a royal welcome. The affair as far dress is concerned will be informal. It is to be a gathering of business men and business dress will be the order of the day. Ladies will not be admitted to the banquet but a cordial invitation is extended to them and young people to attend the reception at Alpha hall, which precedes the banquet.

The speaking will be wholly local, and as it is desired that the affair shall end by 10 o'clock speakers will be asked to confine themselves to not more then 10 minutes. Whittemore Bros. will be the caterers and they have promised to give a menu that can not fail to please. Altogether it will be one grand good time, and to miss it will be to have missed something that will always be a source of regret. See Daily Ledger for further particulars of celebration.

James F. Burke, the treasurer, authorizes the Daily Ledger to state, that if any because of the change of date find it inconvenient to use tickets they have purchased, that he will upon request refund the money. At the same time he reports that all the 500 tickets have been sold and no more can be accommodated at Music hall. All citizens of Quincy, however will be welcome at the reception at Alpha hall at 6 P. M.

The newspapers of the country are giving Quincy considerable notice today by publishing interviews with President Bowles of the Fore River on his arrival in New York Tuesday.

The Herald reports that President Bowles said the contracts were awarded to the American companies in preference to the British; first, because the Argentine naval commission found it could get the ships built here for a much lower price; and second, because the commission was impressed with the plans and specimens of American workmanship.

"We won on our merits," said the admiral, "and it is due to the Bethlehem Steel Company and Charles M. Schwab that American shipbuilders were able to compete at all against the British firms."

"The price of steel was not so much a factor in the competition with the British ship builders as the difference in the cost of armor and armament, which is much higher there than in the United States. The British asked $850,000 more in their tenders, and the excess over our bids was made up chiefly in the cost of armor and armament.

"Work has already been begun on the two battleships, and we expect to lay the keels on June 1. One ship will be built wholly on our plans, on the highest standard of the United States navy, at Quincy, and the second will be constructed at the New York Shipbuilding Company's yard at Camden. The armor and armament will be manufactured by the Bethlehem Steel Company."

The Boston Globe sent Winfield M. Thompson to New York who met Admiral Bowles at quarantine and obtained a two column interview. Mr. Bowles said in part:

"The work to be done under the contracts will call for the addition in the near future of 1,000 skilled workmen to the force already employed at the Fore River works.

"This will mean, in the natural order of things, an addition of from 3000 to 4000 to Quincy's population from this cause alone in the next year.

"There will be paid to labor alone in Quincy on account of these contracts, not less than $2,000,000."

The contracts are but the fore runner of other similar work, on which Pres. Bowles is now figuring, and a great deal more that will come in due time as a result of the prestige which will accrue from the building of the Argentine ships.

"Although I have placed a subcontract for one of the ships, as stated, the full contract stands in the name of the Fore River company. It is a New England contract. We alone are responsible to Argentine for the ships. They will be built on our plans, prepared at Quincy. A great deal of credit for securing this contract is due to my organization in Quincy for the rapidity and accuracy with which the plans were turned out.

"Our plans as presented to the Argentine government in the first instance were finished in great detail. Our design was entirely original and had a strong effect with the Argentine officials. The plans, as finally decided on, however, represented a composite of ideas based on the Argentine government's own scheme, in conjunction with the principal feature of the plans we originally presented, namely the battery arrangement. This was original with us. I am not free to state what it is. You will understand that in building battleships one is bound to secrecy on certain features."

Miss Palisade—"I caught Miss Panhandle listening to the music at the opera the other night."

Miss Summit—"Well, you know, she has never had many social advantages."—Life.

A QUINCY CELEBRATION ★

Quincy is, this week, celebrating the Fore River Co. receiving two big contracts.

We want every woman in Quincy and surrounding towns to order their EASTER SUIT of us. They will then have a chance to celebrate, for we offer custom-made suits this week at prices much lower than ever offered in this city before. Remember you run no risk, for we guarantee everything to be perfect in fashion, fit and finish.

We want you to know that we take particular pride in our business and add anything that we think interests our patrons. We now keep open every evening (Wednesday excepted,) and give LEGAL STAMPS on all purchases.

LARGER HALL NECESSARY

For Grand Banquet of Ward Four Improvement Association

Such has been the demand for tickets to the banquet of the Ward Four Improvement Association that today it was decided to have the event in St. Mary's hall instead of Farnum's hall. Tomorrow night is the date and it promises to be one of the biggest and one of the most enthusiastic banquets ever held in West Quincy. It means much for Ward Four to have its citizens thus aroused for the improvement of West Quincy. Much can be done by united effort.

The speakers at the banquet will be Mayor Shea, Rev. C. H. Raupach, Rev. Fr. Grady, Rev. Fr. Duffy, Senator E. C. Hultman, Representative L. F. R. Langelier, Representative W. R Thomas, the president of the Houghs Neck Associates, the president of the Montclair Improvement Association the president of the East Milton Improvement Association, members of the City Council and others Thus a boom for West Quincy as well as a grand dinner is anticipated at St. Mary's hall tomorrow night.

LADIES NIGHT AT HOUGHS NECK

Banquet and Dance---Mayor Shea a Guest

The event of the season among the winter colony at Houghs Neck was the ladies' night of the Houghs Neck Associates at Pandora hall on the evening of the holiday, which was attended by fully 150. President D. J. Maloney presided and the guests included Mayor Shea, Councilman Flynn, Councilman Ericson and others.

The procession to the dining hall at 8.30 was led by Mayor Shea and Miss May Harvey, followed by President and Mrs. Maloney, the officers and their ladies and others. The blessing was by Rev. C. R. McMeekin of the Union chapel.

President Maloney in opening spoke of the successful year and the good work the association was doing, and had a tribute for Washington. He read letters of regrets from Rev. J. J. Coan and Councilman J. L. Whiton.

Remarks were made by Rev. Mr. McMeekin, Vice President Taylor, Neil J. Regan, O. G. Fordick, Capt. Ross Woodbury, Leo P. Noonan, Councilman Flynn and others.

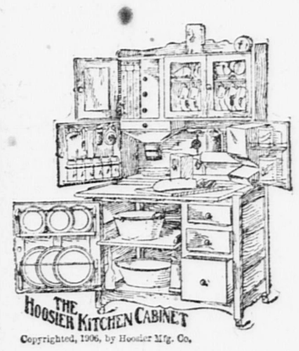

The hall and tables were decorated with flags, bunting and flowers, but more attractive were the young ladies of the High and Coddington schools who acted as waiters.

A dance followed the banquet and continued until 1 A. M., the grand march being led by Mayor Shea and Miss Harvey.

Rev. Edward A. Chase of the Wollaston church delivered the second of his Lenten addresses at Bethany church this afternoon.

Copyrighted, 1906, by Hoosier Mfg. Co.

Every woman who has seen the new Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet immediately becomes enthused and wants to join the Hoosier Club by owning a Hoosier Cabinet. Owning a Hoosier Cabinet means so much to the woman who does her own work and means equally as much to the girl who works for someone else. In the new cabinet everything you use in cooking or kitchen work has a place assigned to it, and is at your fingers end. The price of Cabinet is $25. We sell them on weekly payments if desired.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Peary, the explorer, has been talking over the possibilities of the Navy Department's giving him some real work to do, now that he has quit pole-hunting. Inasmuch as he's on the pay-roll, it's a wonder the same thought don't occur to the Secretary of the Navy.

At the recent meeting of the National Editorial Association in New Orleans, the late George W. Prescott, owner of the Ledger and Patriot, and for many years a regular attendant at the meetings of the National association, was feelingly eulogized at the memorial session by brother Massachusetts editors, Ernest H. Pierce of Revere and Joseph A. MacCabe of East Boston. Probably no editor traveled more miles to attend, or enjoyed the meetings of the N. E. A. more than did Mr. Prescott. It was a relaxation from business cares which he allowed himself each year and he always returned much refreshed by the trip. These reunions of editors from all over the country were always a pleasure to him and the meeting of old acquaintances year after year was something to anticipate. As the years go by the records show many of the older editors to have completed their labors and passed to the higher world.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

It may not be generally known that a bill is pending in Congress to repay to the State of Virginia the money advanced by that Commonwealth to help build the United States Capitol. The funds were advanced at a time when the Federal Treasury was depleted, and the Legislature of Virginia acted most generously in making an advancement of money. Viewed in the light of financial transactions of the present day, the loan was not a large one. The entire sum, as we recall it, was not much over $100,000, but in those days it was a very substantial and much-needed assistance to the general Government. During all the years since Washington was first established on the banks of the Potomac the debt has remained unpaid.

Should the money be returned to Virginia, it will not go into the State treasury. The Legislature has already formally relinquished claim to the fund, and has agreed that it shall be used, if appropriated, for the construction of a great boulevard between the National Capital and Mount Vernon. This fact alone ought to hasten the bill to its final enactment. There is something historically significant and appropriate in building a highway to the last resting place of George Washington with the money which his State originally loaned to the Federal Government.

Some of these days there will be a Lincoln way between Washington and Gettysburg. It will be constructed as a lasting memorial to the martyred President and will connect the National Capital with the scene of the most memorable conflict of the Civil War. If a boulevard shall also be built between Washington and Mount Vernon by the return of money which was Virginia's evidence of loyalty in the very foundation of our Government, we will have this city linked with two historic spots.

The Lincoln way may be a thing of the future. The Mount Vernon road can be an achievement of the present. The opportunity is right at hand.—Washington Herald.

—The British admiralty has decided to adopt the principle of oil fuel as a substitute for coal in the navy, and has ordered 11,000,000 galons, or 50,000 tons, of liquid fuel for the curent year. This will be stored in tanks having a capacity of 50,000 tons. It is intended to fill these largely from American and European sources.—Daily Express.

—The Home National bank of Brockton is to erect on School street, fronting city hall, a $100,000 bank building of white sandstone. It will be one story high, exclusively for banking purposes.

CITY COUNCIL

an order for a public hearing March 7, at 7.50 o'clock on petitno of the Electric Light Co. for a location of poles. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light Co. a location for poles. Order read and ordered to a second reading.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Telephone Co. attachments on various streets. Order read and ordered to a second reading.

MOTIONS.

Upon motion of Councilman McDevitt the communication from the Board of Health on the tuberculosis camp was taken from the table. He then offered the following order that the people in that section be given a public hearing as soon as possible. Referred to Committee on Health.

Councilman Gardner offered an order for street lights on the corner of Moorehead and Davis streets and Davis and Guild streets. Referred to the Executive.

Councilman Flynn offered an ordinance providing that no person shall collect junk in the city unless he shall have first received a license from the City Council. Referred to the special committee on junk matters.

Councilman Gardner offered an order granting F. F. Crane an auctioneers license. Adopted. The bond was approved.

TROLLEY FREIGHT.

Councilman Moir offered an order relative to the order of 1909 approving of the operating of a trolley freight. The order provides that the clause in the original order limiting the term to ten years be stricken out as the Railroad Commissioners refuse to approve the order with this clause. Referred to Committee on Streets.

Councilman Smith offered an order for light on Douglas and Ashland streets. Referred to Executive.

PROPERTY IN TRUST.

Councilman Moir offered an order that the Mayor and City Solicitor be requested to attend any hearings before the legislature and favor the passage of any bill to repeal that portion of section 37, of chapter 490 of the acts of 1909, which fixes the rate of tax on personal property held in trust by trust companies at the same rate as the tax imposed upon Savings backs on account of deposits. Adopted.

Councilman Gardner offered an order transferring the pool table license of J. N. Page to the Packard building on Cottage avenue. Adopted.

Councilman Flynn offered an order providing that no persons shall keep or store junk in any building in the city without a license for the same. Referred to the special committee on junk matters.

SCHOOLHOUSES.

Councilman Moir offered a resolve that the School Committee be requested to communicate to the Council their views as to whether the Council should first erect a school building in Montclair or in Ward Five. Adopted.

BROOKS STREET.

Councilman Loud offered an order appropriating $1,500 for the construction of Brook street between Highland and North Central avenues. Referred to Committee on Streets.

CITY STABLES.

Councilman Nowland offered an order requesting the Commissioner of Public Works to furnish the Council with information as to the City Stables. He wanted the total number of horses cared for, the cost of keeping the same, the value and the amount paid for hay, grain, etc.

Councilman Bryant objected. The only object was to make a public record. If the gentleman wants these facts he can easily get them from the Auditor.

Councilman Nowland knew of no reason why they should not be made public. He believed the city stables cost too much money.

Councilman McDevitt favored the order; we want more publicity.

Councilman Whiton objected to the order. He can have access to all of the books. He doubted if a dishonest act could be found. There was no call for an order of this kind.

Councilman Gardner did not doubt but the officials were honest but the order would do no harm.

Councilman Nowland said he made no illusion to dishonesty. He thought the stables an expensive luxury.

Councilman Bryant apologized for the language he had used. What is the use of putting the Council on record for something that Councilman can easily find out for himself. What I object to is the silliness of the matter.

Councilman Nowland. He thinks that everything he does not agree with is silly. It is possible that orders introduced by others have some merit.

Councilman McDevitt wanted the order to go through for publicity. He accused the press of being stifled.

Councilman Flynn rose to the defense of the press. He believed them fair. He did not believe that if a person went to the different departments he could get what information he wanted.

Councilman Nowland. It seems to me that the Finance Committee think every matter that amounts to anything should come from them.

Councilman Moir and Richards favored the order.

On a rising vote the order was rejected 7 voting yes and 11 no.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL.

Councilman Bryant moved that the order requesting the School Committee to procure plans for the Wollaston school be taken from the table.

Councilman Whiton opposed. It looks as though it was an attempt to shut off the Montclair order.

Councilman Bryant—It does not mean that we have got to pass any order for the building. There is no harm done in having plans made.

Councilman Cherrington—If we pass this order it is just as much as asking the School Committee to side track the Montclair and Bigelow Park schools.

Councilman Branch asked where the money was to come from to pay for plans.

Councilman Whiton—The City of Quincy has got a black eye among architects. It looks like a gag on the Montclair lot.

Councilman Gardner—We are not trying to side track Montclair. He was going to help that section.

Councilman Bryant—It is not going to cost anything and we have got to have the plans sometime.

Councilman Moir—This is a slick way to side track Montclair. He said he did not want the building put on the present school lot. He now wants you to forget that. The School Committee have insisted that Montclair and Bigelow Park should be taken care of first.

Councilman Bryant—This is so simple. If the School Committee report back that Montclair should first be built he would vote for it.

The motion to take from the table was lost 6 voting yes and 14 no.

GAS AND ELECTRICITY.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order requesting the City Solicitor to draw up a petition for the Mayor to petition the Gas and Electric Light Commissioners for a reduction in the price of gas and electricity in Quincy. Adopted.

Councilman McDevitt offered an order for the Mayor to request the street railway to lower the steps on its cars. Order rejected.

Councilman Flynn offered an order for a catch basin on the corner of Main and Union streets. Referred to Committee on Streets.

The order amending the building ordinance by striking out that part of Copeland street between Cross and Miller streets was passed.

WATER LOANS.

The order appropriating $30,000 for extension of the water system came up for its final passage.

Councilman Moir opposed. For all intents and purposes the Mayor was a member of the Finance Committee when this order was considered.

Councilman Bryant raised the point of order that the speaker was out of order. Ruled out.

Councilman Moir. If he thinks he is the whole committee he will find himself in the minority. I object to anyone attending the committee meetings not invited. The Mayor was present not by invitation. I was told my argument was all rot. I do not think we ought to appropriate $30,000. I am willing to appropriate the amount of $15,000 if the bonds are dated May 1.

Mayor Shea rose to a question of privilege. I was a member of the first City Council and have attended many meetings. This is the first time any member has objected to the Mayor going to a committee meeting. I want to go on record as going before the Finance Committee and giving them my views on matters. I stated that my view was that it was unwise to divide the order. I want to say if we divide the order it must be paid in fifteen years while if left as it is now it goes over thirty years. I was told at this meeting that I was unwelcome. I shall deem it my duty when the Finance Committee is considering matters in which I am interested to knock at the door and ask admittance. If refused the responsibility will be on the committee.

Councilman Whiton—This is the first time any member has used such insulting language toward the Executive. I believe the Mayor is right. When the gentleman has been on the committees sometime he will know something. You will gain nothing by dividing the sum. If we do not have the money how are we to give the people who desire to build houses any water.

Councilman Richards quoted figures giving the valuation, interest, city debt, etc., for the year 1909, as compared with the year 1899. It is well understood that only half is required at the present time. If we can save any interest it is time we did so.

Councilman Snow brought out by questions to the Treasurer that the whole amount could be borrowed for 3 1-2 per cent. while if divided 4 per cent. would probably have to be paid.

Councilman Ericson thought it time to pass the order and give the Commissioner something to work with.

Councilman McDevitt was against the order but was in favor of the smaller sum.

Councilman Branch queried if it was to be a rule to divide all orders.

Councilman Bryant referred to Councilman Moir as a child in swaddling clothing. He did not know what to say about the chairman asking the Mayor to appear before the committee without a vote of the committee. The original idea of the charter was for a little round table about which the Council and Mayor could gather and discuss matters.

Councilman Smith moved the previous question. Voted.

The order was then put on its final passage and failed to pass 15 voting yes and 3 no as follows:—

Yes—Bolster, Boyd, Branch, Bryant, Carey, Cherrington, Clark, Ericson, Flynn, Gardner, Loud, Nowland, Smith, Snow, Whiton—15.

No—McDevitt, Moir, Richards—3.

Not voting—President Hobbs.

Absent—Cantfill, Sandberg, Woodward—3.

Upon motion of Councilman Smith the vote was reconsidered and the order laid on the table.

Adjourned at 12.26 until March 7.

WOLLASTON PARTY.

Miss Ethel Smith entertained a number of her friends on Tuesday evening at the home of her parents on Prospect avenue. A surprise party was recently tendered Miss Ethel by the same young people, and it was to requite this that the affair was held. Progressive games were enjoyed, eight tables being in play. It being Washington's Birthday the games were of a patriotic nature. Miss Smith made a dainty hostess, and at the close of the evening, college ices, cakes and flag decorations, and fancy crackers were served. Coffee was also served from a percolator presented Miss Ethel at the former party. In all a most pleasant evening was enjoyed. Among the invited guests were: Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Wiggin Misses Florence Bennett, Ada Stone, Irma Douglas, Nettie Chrittenden, Bessie Wilbur, Augusta Wilbur, Gertrude Barlow, Ida Williams, Cherry Newell, Mary Cleveland, Bertha Teed, Sadie Teed, Mildred Colgan, Frances Colgan, Florence Waite, Grace Mehaffey, Mabel Lupton, and Minnie Woodhead, Messrs. Chester Cleveland, George Wilbur, George Smith, Byam Bean Storer Wiggin, Clarence Cassidy, Herbert Cassidy, Walter Sutermeister, Frank G. Bennett, Carl Clifford, Howard Faulkner and Eugene Robinson.

OBERAMMERGAU.

An engagement of unusual interest is the coming of Henry Ellsworth, who will give his interesting pictorial reproduction of "Oberammergau, Its People and Their plays", at the Music hall, Friday evening, under the auspices of the Quincy F. O. E. Mr. Ellsworth presents the best and most complete set of stereopticon views of Oberammergau, and the plays, in this country, made from photographs secured by him while a resident of the little village of Oberammergau. The views number 300 and includes every tableaux and scene in the play from the entrance of the chorus at 8 a. m. to the finale at 5.30 p. m. Individual pictures of the principal performers in the characters they assume, and as the appear in daily life, numerous views of the theatre, fifteen views of the village, the church, with the beautiful chimes, church organ, and a choir of singers, birdseye views, the village band, and all who played the part of Christus since 1840, the first Oberammergau play of 1634, also the play in 1880, 1890 and 1900, Linderhoff, Ettal, tourists in Oberammergau, and the Ludwig monument, with many others of equal interest. The views are new, the slides having been made from Mr. Ellsworth's photographs and painted from his color notes, and are correct in every detail. They are the only ones in America presented to and endorsed by the performers in the great play.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AND SEASONS' PLANS

The February meeting of the Hospital Aid association will be held tomorrow faternoon with Mrs. William B. Rice of Adams street. The meeting is called for two o'clock which is earlier than usual but it is hoped members will attend promptly. For the past few weeks the association has been taking on new activity and gaining in membership.

• • •

A conference of the Household Economies committee of the State Federation will be held tomorrow at Chicopee Falls.

• • •

Mrs. James M. Nowland is hostess this week for the Friday club entertaining the members of the club at her home on Edgemere road. It promises to be an interesting meeting the subject being the "Dutch in America,, and "Colonial Life in Old New York."

• • •

Miss Marie Bass has the Junior Alliance meeting of Feb. 28 in charge and it will be held as usual at half past seven in the parlor of First church.

• • •

Next Wednesday the Wollaston Alliance has "An afternoon with Robert Collyer" in charge of Mrs. George W. Bennett and Mrs. William E. Rowe and it promises to be an interesting meeting.

• • •

An interesting meeting of the Child Nurture club will be held on Tuesday afternoon when Charles W. French, a member of the 1915 Committee will speak at the home of Mrs. Percy L. Davidson of 4 Marion street, Wollaston.

• • •

With the meeting of March 2 the Mothers' association enters upon another year of monthly gatherings. The new president is Mrs. John D. Mackay, who is prominent in club and educational matters in the city. Mrs. Mackay is chairman of the Education committee of the Quincy Women's club.

• • •

The department of Home Economies is in charge of the meeting of the Philergians of Braintree on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Clayton Freeman is chairman of the committee. A club tea will be served.

• • •

On Monday afternoon Rev. Paul S. Phalen of Hingham is to address the members of the Quincy Alliance. His subject is not announced on the season's program, but it will be interesting as Mr. Phalen always has something to say worth hearing.

• • •

The Revere Woman's club has appropriated $150 to assist in the establishment of a dental clinic in the schools of that town.

• • •

On Monday evening the New England Women's club had a colonial party at their rooms on Boylston street, Boston, those attending dressing in gowns of an early period. Whittier's "Countess" was illustrated by tableaux and music for the entertainment.

• • •

The Whatsoever Circle King's Daughters will hold their annual meeting Feb. 28th at 8 P. M. with Mrs. E. E. Jameson, Beach street.

Blue skies, balmy air and bright sunshine combined to make the February meeting of the Charitable Tens Circle of King's Daughters an unusually delightful one. A brief literary and musical program was presented which happily combined the sentiments of the Lenten and Patriotic season. The regular business session followed at which the reports of secretary and treasurer showed good work being done. During the social half hour the hostess Mrs. Wilson Tisdale served a dainty tea.

The monthly social evening of the Young Women's club will be held in the Women's Club house, Goffe street, this week, Saturday evening, at 7.45 o'clock. There will be an interesting play called "A Double Deception," and music. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Falling snow and bad walking did not prevent a large gathering at the clubhouse of members of the Quincy Women's club. Among the guests were some fifteen or twenty men who were given a cordial welcome.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, president, called the club together for the usual business session at half past two. The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the recording secretary Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham.

The treasurer Mrs. W. E. Blanchard spoke of the telephone service and that members were using it too freely and not paying their tolls. The club should not be asked to pay the personal tolls of members. She also said that the club dues for 1910-1911 are due March 1st and she had the tickets made out ready for delivery. One member had already paid.

Classes were now being formed by the Arts and Crafts committee and information about them could be had of Mrs. Tenney, chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Robert E. Park reported on the progress of the child labor bill in this state.

Owing to it being a holiday and many members absent it was voted to postpone the discussion of renewing the lease of the club house until the next meeting.

The afternoon's program was in charge of the program committee and Mrs. Robert E. Park, chairman introduced Mrs. Marion Craig Wentworth, whose coming had been anticipated with much pleasure.

Mrs. Wentworth said the play she was to read, "Votes for Women" was written three years ago by Elizabeth Robins of London, an actress and author of note. It was written when the suffrage movement in England was getting lively and conditions now were about the same. She was given the manuscript copy of the play by the author and the sole right to read it in America.

The play was in three acts and introduced some twenty characters who were most faithfully portrayed by Mrs. Wentworth. The street scene in Trafalgar square, London, introducing many people in all walks in life during an exciting meeting of the suffragists; with the speeches of the women and the interruptions of the crowd was capital. The humor, the voices and the whole scene was vividly portrayed by Mrs. Wentworth.

All three acts were given with a fine shading and artistic interpretation. Through it all was woven a strong undercurrent that made the listeners pause and think. It presented conditions forcefully.

Mrs. Wentworth has a charming personality and an artistic temperament that holds her listeners. The applause was frequent and showed keen appreciation.

Those who are attending the current events class, Mrs. May Alden Ward, lecturer, are much interested in England just now and the reading of the play by Mrs. Wentworth was of special interest to them.

The program closed with music; a group of songs by Carlton Beal which were very much enjoyed. He sang: "Free as a King am I" by Franklin Riker; "I know a lovely Garden" by Guy D. Hardelot and "Rolling down to Rio" by Edward German. He responded to the insistent encore bringing a perfect entertainment to a perfect ending.

It was a thoroughly delightful meeting in every way and the afternoon closed with a social tea; good cheer and cordiality abounding. The hostess was Mrs. John D. Mackay, Mrs. Frank S. Davis and Miss Mary Louise Gavin who presided over the tea urns were assisted in dispensing hospitality by club members.

Appendix Six Inches Long.

A football strain is supposed to account for the fact that a vermiform appendix six inches long was recently removed in an operation on George Goss, the former Yale football guard and hammer thrower. Medical authorities at Yale believe this to be the longest appendix which was ever found. Goss received several football strains when he was at Yale and one of special severity when he tried to break the Yale strength record. He is the son of a Waterbury (Conn.) manufacturer and went recently to a sanitarium in Rochester, Minn., to have his appendix removed. The ordinary appendix is from two to two and a half inches in length.

OPERA AT WOLLASTON

"The Doctor of Alcantara" Presented Successfully

The first night of "The doctor of Alcantara," an opera given for the benefit of the Ladies Aid Alliance in the vestry of the Wolaston Unitarian church on Tuesday evening was most successful. Although the house was not packed, on account of the weather, it was a receptive audience and both principals and chorus received their share of applause.

The solos of the principals were of merit, as were their combinations, one of the most favored being "A popular M. D." The choruses were strong and clear and were strongly applauded, a second curtain call being necessary at the end of the first act. The opera was under the direction of Willis Clark, his pupils composing the principals.

The cast of characters folows:

Donna Lucretia, wife of Dr. Paracelus—Mrs. Ellen Clark Elden.
Isabella, her daughter—Miss Marion Thompson.
Inez, her maid—Miss Bertha Robbins.
Senior Balthazer—Frank A. Warner.
Carlos, his son—George L. P. Cromwell.
Doctor Paracelus—Willis Clark.
Don Pomposo, the guard—Frank A. Warner.
Chorus of Spanish friends and neighbors—Misses Dorothy Fay, Hattiemay Mitchell, Grace I. Bishop, Helen Wade, Alice Day, Messrs. Louis B. Weston, Edward R. Hall. Wallace C. Bennett and Charles M. Thompson.

FINEST WORK EVER SHOWN

Grand Exemplification of Degrees of Odd Fellowship

N. E. O. P. A. will hold a whist party in Poland hall, Norfolk Downs Thursday evening.

Odd—1

The Odd Fellows of Quincy and Braintree are enthusiastic over the exemplication of the degrees which were given by local lodges on the holiday at Braintree Town Hall. Fully 500 Odd Fellows were present, including Grand Master Perry, Grand Instructor Webber, Grand Warden Marshall Grand Senior Warden Wood of the Grand encampment, the district deputies of the several lodges and others. They came from everywhere, one Odd Fellow making a special trip from Canada, and he says he would have felt well repaid had he witnessed but one degree.

In the afternoon the initatory was presented by Puritan lodge of Braintree and the first degree by John Hancock lodge of Wollaston. The scenery of the hall was appropriate for the degrees and the orchestra of John Hancock lodge added interest to the work.

The supper about six P. M. by a Boston caterer gave good satisfaction. In the evening the second degree was finely exemplified by Mt. Wollaston lodge of Quincy, and the third degree by Neponset lodge of Neponset.

The Grand officers spoke in praise of all work, saying it was the best exemplication of the degrees of Odd Fellowship ever presented in Massachusetts.

Souvenirs of the occasion were issued the badge including a picture of the Town Hall, emblems of the order, and the names of the four lodges.

The Half Weekers.

A new sect has been formed at Tiflis, Russia. The "half weekers," or "pol nedeli," as they call themselves, teach that only three days and a half in every week ought to be given to work. The rest should be devoted to recreation and the recuperation of the strength lost in labor. Idleness is a sin, it is maintained, but so is overmuch work, and every man ought to regulate his life so that he may have an equal share of activity and of rest. The founder of the movement, the prophet Kusmitch, lives up to his high ideals, and, although he is a cobbler and has a wife and children to support, he does not hesitate to leave off work every Thursday afternoon and to repose till Monday.

ST. GEORGE ANNIVERSARY

"Higbee of Harvard" Given by Sans Souci Club

Granite lodge, Order Sons of St. George, held their twenty-fourth anniversary in Music hall Monday evening. To say that the event was successful is the least anybody could say, for it surely was a success both socially and financially. A very large attendance was present at both the entertainment and dance. The Grand Lodge was represented by Grand President and Mrs. Kershaw.

The festivites began with a play, "Higbee of Harvard," which was presented by the well known dramatists, the Sans Souci Club, under the directorship of Mrs. Isabelle Davis. The actresses and actors deserve great credit for the manner in which they presented their respective parts, and favorable comments and kind words could be heard on all sides for the praiseworthy performers.

The cast of characters is as follows:

Watson W. Higbee, from Montana — Irving L. Kemp
Hon. V. D. Withrow, an Ex-senator — Elliot C. Johnson
Lorin Higbee, a son of Watson — J. Ernest Collins
Theo. Dalrymple, in love with Nancy — R. H. Marden
Higgins, the Butler — John Q. Giles
Nancy Withrow, the senator's daughter — Margaset Craig
Madge Cummings, a quiet sort — Anna R. Giles
Mrs. Ballou, the senator's sister, — Ruth Packard
Mrs. Malvina Meddigrew, must be shown — Georgiana Michael

The play consisted of three acts and was concluded about 10.30 o'clock.

Preparations were then made for dancing. The hall was cleared of the seats, and at 11 o'clock the grand march was commenced, lead by Mr. and Mrs. John Tate. There were many couples in the line that extended completely around the hall. With perfect leadership and a few original features, the design of the English Union Jack was traced around and across the hall, and was completed in a commendable manner.

The grand march over, the couples joined in dancing all the numbers, which furnished much enjoyment and kept them busy until the hour for departure had arrived. The older dancers mingled with the younger, which added to the merriment. The music was by Thompsons orchestra and was, as a whole, very good.

John H. Collins, was floor director and Joseph Tinney was assistant floor director, who were assisted by the following aids: Ernest Collins, Charles Vanner, Roy Prout, and Arthur Dunstan.

The reception committee consisted of John Tate, Charles S. Jones, and John T. Pearce, who attended to the wants of the invited guests.

Last, but by no means least, let us mention the amusement committee: John Tate, chairman; Robert Winship, secretary; Harry Short, treasurer; Joseph Tinney, Albert Richards, Charles Vanner, John Collins, Thomas Veale, Arthur Dunstan, John Rashleigh and Henry Rendle. It was through the united and faithful efforts of this committee that such an enjoyable evening was had, but they should feel rewarded by the fruits of their labors. At 3 o'clock the dancing was concluded.

BY SUBMARINE TO THE POLE.

German Explorer Announces New Project In Arctic Exploration.

Dr. von Payer, the celebrated German explorer, announces that a hitherto unknown scientist residing in Kiel named Dr. Anschutz has worked out a serious plan for reaching the north pole by means of a submarine boat.

Dr. Anschutz has been laboring at his scheme for ten years and has devised a boat capable of traveling a hundred feet below the ice. For the purpose of determining his whereabouts the inventor has devised an apparatus which reveals the direction of the mathematical pole. This apparatus has been patented in all countries and is at present installed on German warships.

Dr. von Payer vouches for Dr. Anschutz's seriousness and says that he has remained in the background because he wants first to perfect his plans in every respect.

American Cultural Exhibit.

The American commission for the American exposition to be held in Berlin from July 4 to Oct. 1, 1910, announced recently that a special department of the exposition would be devoted to American culture in its broadest sense. A. von Aeymel, a German author, has been appointed a member of the advisory committee to take charge of the cultural department.

FWEDDIE SKIPPED TOWN

Drama and other Attractions by Sons of Veterans

Col. Abner B. Packard camp, S. of V., had nearly 400 out for their first annual entertainment at Alpha hall on Monday evening, and presented a pleasing program. The committee of arrangements, included: Charles L. Strattard, William J. Talbot; Alfred A. Beaulieu, Carlton McNea', Edward Graham and Charles F. Strattard. Several members of the camp in natty new uniforms acted as ushers.

The program included two groups of selections by the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Mandolin and Banjo Club, a drama entitled "Up to Freddie" by the Comet Theatrical Club of North Weymouth, songs and dances by Miss Minnie Davis and songs by Harry Brown.

The drama was given in two acts by the following cast of characters:

Grenville Lodge, Henry F. Clapp
John Stanhope Edgar W. Stile
Fweddie Thatchah Walter Armstrong
Miss Prince Mildred L. Clapp
Marguerite Burnett, Ruth A. Thayer
Mary Stanhope Lillian B. Fisher
Patty Hoger, Doris Torrey
Dorothea Chisholm, Minnie B. Thayer
Leonore Crownshield, Mabel F. Fisher

In the first act Grenville was surprised when Marguerite accepts his proposal of marriage and wanted to break off, while Fweddie proposed to all the other girls without success. In the second act all four girls accepted Fweddie and he skipped the town, while Grenville after his release came to the conclusion that Marguerite was the one for him, and they plighted their troth. For young actors they all took their parts well. The chorus selections by the club were a feature. The Banjo club and specialty artists were all encored.

BRIEFS.

A stormy holiday.

Beautiful winter scenes this morning.

At the Hall Place M. E. church this evening the Ladies' Aid will give a Washington party.

A hearing is being held today at the State house on making Oct. 12 a legal holiday, to be known as Columbus day.

The Y. P. R. unions of Quincy and Wollaston are to attend the federation meeting on Sunday, which will be held with Nathaniel Hall society in Dorchester.

Charles Francis Adams and Brooks Adams are among the citizens of Massachusetts catalogued in the list of members of the National Institute of Arts and Letters incorporated by the U. S. senate last week.

Snow drops are beginning to bloom in the garden of C. W. Guy. Rose Lawn will be attractive from now on as Mr. Guy has a great variety of flowers, something special for each season as it comes.

Members of the Pickwick club are looking forward to dramatic night next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. W. E. Alden, Chestnut street. Mr. W. E. Simmons and Mr. Houghton Schumacher are the committee.

Mrs. George Fleming of Highland avenue is hostess for the Elliot club meeting this evening. The subject, "dramatists" will be discussed by Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham, Mrs Fleming and Mrs. Edward S. Tenney.

The next in the series of entertainments of the Cochato club of Braintree will be on Friday evening under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Thayer. It will be a musicale with the following talent: Eleanor Fox Allen, soprano; Irene Bewley, reader; and the Mendelssohn quartet.

The meeting of the Mission Circle of the Universalist Church, was held Monday at the home of Mrs. Lombard, Cottage street. Mrs. C. S. Brown read a very interesting paper on the loyalty of George Washington, dwelling principally on his religious and beneficient acts of kindness and charity. The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. R. Reed, Woodward avenue, Mar. 7.

The annual concert, reunion and dance, of the Letter Carriers' Mutual Benefit Association, will be held in Mechanic's hall, Boston, Thursday evening, May fifth. A larg committee has been appointed, and arrangements are under way to make this reunion the most successful in the history of the organization. The Letter Carriers' band, which has always been a feature of these affairs will furnish music for the concert and dancing during the entire evening.

An interesting meeting was held by the Wollaston Young People's Religious union on Sunday evening, when Rev. C. B. Ames of First church, Quincy, spoke on "Patriotism." He drew lessons from the actions of the Swiss guard in France and compared his subject with other virtues. A patriotic service under the direction of Charles M. Thompson. Miss Alice Day was elected as secretary of the society, Miss Iva Briggs having resigned.

BRAVERY NOT THEIR FORTE

Philadelphia Militia Retreats When Attacked by Mob

Philadelphia, Feb. 23.—Wild disorder and three probable fatalities marked Washington's birthday in Philadelphia. So vicious was the spirit of the strikers and their sympathizers, that a military company, 200 strong, charging with drawn bayonets, was repulsed and roughly handled.

Three boys were shot and are expected to die, while several received less severe wounds, in riots which followed the resumption of service by the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company. The shooting occurred in attacks on cars in the northern section.

Market street, the principal business street thoroughfare in the heart of the city, was the scene of disturbances during the entire day. Cars were stoned and two policemen were roughly handled by a mob of several thousand persons. A dozen arrests were made and the prisoners placed in a trolley car. This was stormed by the mob and two of the prisoners escaped.

The entire corner of a barn of the street railway company was blown away with dynamite last night and fifteen policemen quartered therein narrowly escaped death.

Preparations were made by the authorities to call upon the entire force of the state militia if the police today are still unable to cope with the situation.

President Murphy of the Central Labor union still regards a general strike of all trade unionists in the city as inevitable, although Organizer Pratt is reported to be opposing the movement. A delegation of labor leaders left for Washington to ask Senator Penrose to use his influence for a peaceable solution of the trouble.

It was the state fencibles, an independent military organization, who were routed by the mob. Armed with loaded muskets, they were placed on duty in the Kensington mill district, a hotbed of union sympathizers. But the young militiamen had no terrors for the crowd they were detailed to oppose. No attention was paid to the drawn bayonets, but the soldiers' muskets were snatched from their hands, and then they were badly beaten, retreating in great disorder amid the hoots and jeers of men and women.

Members of the state fencibles, according to Mayor Reyburn, acted as though they were on a picnic, allowing girls in the mill district to wear their caps and cut the brass buttons off their clothing.

The crucial point in the situation promises to develop today. The general strike may materialize. C. O. Pratt, the national organizer of the street car men, after his release on bail, held a conference with President Murphy, at which he is reported to have urged the inexpediency of a general strike, but Murphy at the close of the conference stated that he still believes that a general strike is inevitable. Of the 200,000 or more members of labor unions in this city, 30,000 have already voted to go on strike, according to the secretary of the Central Labor union.

SCARED BY DISINFECTANT

Italians In Immigrant Station Become Panic Stricken

New York, Feb. 23.—Use of a powerful disinfectant in the corridors and detention rooms of the immigrant station at Ellis island caused more than 100 Italians locked in one of the rooms to become panic stricken, refusing to be calmed when assured that the thick fumes were not caused by fire.

In trying to escape the imaginary fire trap the men beat at the barred windows and ran around the room in a frenzy of fear. Four of them were seriously injured.

DEATH OF ELDER DE SAGAN

Gould Princess' Husband Becomes Head of Talleyrand Family

Paris, Feb. 23.—The American woman who was born a Gould, who divorced Count Boni de Castellane and who then married Prince Helie de Sagan, is a serene highness now.

Charles William Frederick Boson of Talleyrand-Peregord, Duke of Talleyrand, Duke of Sagan, in Prussia serene highness, died in his apartment in this city. His elder son, Prince Helie de Sagan, succeeds to his titles and becomes head of a family which is one of the oldest in Europe, originating in 1199 with Helie of Talleyrand, Lord of Grignole.

The Duke of Talleyrand was 77 years old and was born in this city. He had two sons, Helie, Prince de Sagan, who was born in 1859, and Boson, Count of Perigord, Duke of Valencay, who was born in 1867.

NELSON IS GIVEN TERRIFIC BEATING

Ad Wolgast Becomes the New Lightweight Champion

San Francisco, Feb. 23.—Adolph Wolgast of Milwaukee defeated Battling Nelson of Hegewich, Ills., for the lightweight championship of the world in the fortieth round of their scheduled forty-five-round fight at the Point Richmond arena.

Referee Smith stopped the one-sided contest to save the Dane the stigma of a knockout only after Nelson had received a beating such as old-time ring followers maintain never before was seen in the annals of boxing.

Game to the last, Nelson begged to be allowed to continue. His face battered to a pulp, his eyes closed, his lips puffed, covered with gore, he presented a pitiable spectacle. In the opposite corner of the arena the new champion was lifted to the shoulders of his trainers and cheered to the echo by 11,000 frenzied spectators.

BROKER WARING ARRESTED

Said to Have Used President Taft's Name In Fraud Scheme

New York, Feb. 23.—Missing for ten months and reported to have committed suicide, Harry J. Waring, a New York broker, who is wanted by postoffice inspectors on a charge of using the mails to defraud, was arrested at Rochester.

It is charged that Waring had used the name of President Taft and other government officials at Washington in several schemes to defraud banks and trust companies. He was indicted at Washington last April and fled. When arrested he was known as Harry Walton.

That He Is Approaching Recovery Is the Belief of His Family

Washington, Feb. 23.—The improvement in the condition of Senator Benjamin R. Tillman of South Carolina continues and his family believes he is gradually approaching recovery.

His mind is alert and he is able to talk to some extent.

Appointments Withdrawn

Washington, Feb. 23.—The president has withdrawn the nominations of Alfred C. Coxe, William H. Hunt, James F. Smith, Orin M. Barber and Marion Devries to be judges of the court of customs appeals.

A BOMBSHELL FROM ALDRICH

Says He Could Save Government $300,000,000 Annually

Washington, Feb. 23.—Everywhere in state circles there is but one topic among Republicans and that is the earthquake created by the speech of Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, in which he declared that he could save the government $300,000,000 annually if he could run it on a business basis.

Not since the time of Grover Cleveland has there been such a scare thrown into the Republicans, and when he had finished his speech, wherever there was any hair on a Republican member's head it fairly stood on end.

"If I were a business man and could be permitted to do so," said Aldrich, "I would undertake to run this government for $300,000,000 a year less than it is now operated."

For a moment the senate sat aghast at the revelation. Then Senator Money (Miss.), minority leader, jumped up.

"That," he said, "is the most terrific arraignment of the Republican party I have ever heard. The senator's party will ask him to explain it."

There was under discussion the bill reported from the committee on public expenditures creating a government business method commission of nine members, three from the senate, three from the house and three to be appointed by the president. Before the discussion was over Aldrich had moved an amendment making the number ten, five from each house of congress.

The debts of several nations, according to Aldrich's figures, could be paid by what is wasted by the United States government.

The expert Rhode Island authority not only makes this charge of unutterable extravagance and mismanagement, but he is anxious to prove it. He has introduced a resolution to create a commission to prove his assertions. This resolution very significantly provides that congress shall apply the methods of reform and economy. The implication is that the heads of the executive departments—that is to say, cabinet officers—are not the judges of how their departments ought to be run.

Senator Dolliver (Ia.) started the discussion when the bill came up in its regular order on the calendar. He opposed the creation of the commission and objected to what he termed casting suspicion upon every department of the government by investigating it.

The resolution of Aldrich was a firebrand to the appropriation committee of the senate, of which Senator Hale is chairman. Certainly, it was a dexterous and skilfull blow at Hale's committee, which, sooner or later, Hale must resent.

After Aldrich had made his statement Senator Hale (Me.) hurried him to the cloak room that the two Republican leaders might discuss the effect of the statement.

HELPLESS IN STREET

Surgeous Say Embryo Policeman Suffered From Alcoholism

New York, Feb. 23.—James Kearns, 27 years old, a probationary policeman, attached to the school of instruction, where he is being broken in as a policeman, was found helpless on the sidewalk shortly after midnight, by Policeman Remington of the East Fifty-first street station.

Surgeons attached to the police department were called to the East Fifty-first street station, and, according to the police, said Kearns was suffering from alcoholism.

CASS GETS HIS DECREE

London Court Holds That Mrs. Pfaff's Dakota Divorce Is Invalid

London, Feb. 23.—The records show that the hearing of the divorce suit of Cass vs. Pfaff came up in the probate and divorce division of the high court of justice.

The president, Sir John Bigham, held that the divorce obtained by Mrs. Pfaff in Dakota was invalid and, therefore, her subsequent marriage with Cass was not legal. Cass accordingly got his decree.

SUNDAY SERVICES

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The preaching Sunday morning and evening was by the pastor Rev. Joseph Walther. Morning subject, "A noble reply to a serious charge." The two and a half tribes of Israel were charged with denying the true God and setting up an altar to a new God. On investigation it was found that the rumor was false and as a result there was a speedy reconciliation between the indignant Israelites and the two and one half tribes. Rumors easily arise but should be looked into before believing or passing judgment. The tribes of Israel that were charged with the offence auswered, God knows, we know and Israel shall know that we are in the right. Mr. Walther,s special word to the young was: "Be sure your sin will find you out." The pastor hoped that all would be able to say God knows, we know and Africa, India, China and Japan shall know that Jesus Christ is the Saviour of the world.

The Sunday school and Christian Endeavor were well attended. Mr. Estes rendered two solos at the Young People's meeting which were very much enjoyed and appreciated.

The subject of the Sunday evening sermon was "An after dinner speech; Blessed are they that shall eat bread in the kingdom of Heaven." Reference was made to the nobleman's feast. The invited guests had personal duties on hand and begged to be excused. The poor the lame and the blind were invited and the house was filled. God is preparing a great feast in Heaven and whosoever will may come. Closing, Mr. Walther asked the personal question, are you ready?

HALL PLACE M. E.

"The Christian's Joy" was the subject of the sermon by Rev. Carl H. Raupach at the Hall Place M. E. church on Sunday evening. The text was taken from the fourth chapter of Philippians—"Rejoice in the Lord always." The pastor emphasized the thought that the Christian should be joyful at all times, through cloud or sunshine, for God has given us all things needful in our life.. The choir rendered "Sunbeams of Glory" at the close of the prayer.

The Sunday School was held at the close of the morning service and was followed by a short session of the Sunday school board. The pastor gave an object leson to the juniors at the Junior League service at 3 P. M.

The topic for the Epworth League devotional service at 6.15 was "How to Pray." The leader was Rev. Carl H. Raupach.

The pastor's text for the evening service was "There standeth one among you, whom ye know not," John 1:26. His subject was "With a stranger that everyone should know."

Friday there wil be a class meeting in place of the regular prayer meeting. Sunday morning the pastor of the City Point Methodist church wil present the subject of church aid.

IDEAS FOR HIS SERMONS

Woman Says Husband Beat Her When She Could Not Supply Them

St. Louis, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Cora L. Korb's suit for divorce from Rev. Arno B. Korb was tried here Tuesday. She testified the preacher insisted on practising his sermons before her. Often at a loss for an idea, he wanted her to supply it on the spur of the moment.

Because she was not always equal to this emergency, she said, their troubles began, and he struck her more than 100 times during the two years they lived together. She wanted the custody of their son.

Mrs. Korb's suit was dismissed by Judge Horner because she had not been a resident of St. Louis for a year when it was filed.

ASQUITH MAY LOSE POWER

But Slight Chance of His Program Being Supported

London, Feb. 23.—Commenting on the unexpected collapse in the house of commons of the debate at the conclusion of John Redmond's speech, the Unionist papers predict that the new parliament will be so shortlived as to be practically stillborn.

HERBERT H. ASQUITH.

With the opening of parliament the government faces a crisis which may end it. Prime Minister Asquith, in outlining his program, made it clear that the budget must come ahead of the lords' veto measure, and John Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationals, who holds the balance of power, and on whom the Liberal ministry must rely for its continued existence, will not support that program. The Laborites are considering what course to take.

The government may be able to adopt the budget by the grace of the conservatives, who possibly will vote for it in order to avert financial chaos and keep the wheels of the empire turning. But the enactment of the budget will, as Redmond pointed out, leave the winning cards in the hands of the lords, who then will be free to reject the bill for the reforming of their house and force another election.

Redmond and his colleagues controlled the course of events. His pronouncement that the Irish members would not support the prime minister was the sensation of the day, and it appears to have settled the administration's fate.

It is reported that twenty-five Radicals have declared their intention of supporting Redmond against the government's course, and that great pressure is being brought to bear from the Radicals to induce Asquith to resign.

It is remarked that Asquith's speech defining his position was weak and half-hearted, suggesting that he was wearied by the cabinet struggle of the past fortnight.

Equally significant was his chilly reception by his own followers, who warmly cheered Redmond at several points when he was urging the policy of passing a lords' veto resolution first in opposition to Asquith's scheme of priority for finance and the budget. In truth, Asquith is completely out of touch with his own followers, and already Radical discontent with his policy is finding expression. A combination of men who favor the veto before all else is being organized.

It is likely that the crisis may be averted for two or three weeks, but there is no hope that Asquith can be induced to take the course favored by Redmond and the bulk of the Liberal party, so that an early dissolution is certain.

FILIPINOS IN A PANIC

Think Maneuvers of United States Army Constitute Real War

Manila, Feb. 23.—The army maneuvers continue with great interest to all except the natives in the mountains, who are frightened nearly out of their wits. The officers have not been able to convince them that real war is not being carried on.

The "Red" army of invaders, under General Potts, appears to have the advantage, having landed at Subig bay and occupied the passes through the mountains into Pampanga province.

Governor Draper's Reception

Boston, Feb. 23.—Over 2000 children marched through a snow storm up Beacon hill to greet Governor Draper at the annual Washington's birthday reception. The number of people who attended the reception was about the average in spite of the bad weather. There were by actual count 4671 who shook hands with Governor and Mrs. Draper.

SEYLER BREAKS DOWN

He Disclaims Responsibility For the Death of Jane Adams

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 23.—As a sequel to the admission of William Seyler that he was with Jane Adams on the million dollar pier the night she was last seen alive, the police have changed the charge against him from murder to manslaughter.

While they refuse to divulge their reason for this shift, it is understood Seyler declared the girl fell or jumped overboard in a quarrel. "But as God is my witness, I did not kill Jane Adams," he declared.

Seyler had been getting nervous under the constant strain of questioning, and was advised that the best thing he could do would be to tell just what happened on the pier that night. Then he gave a detailed account, the substance of which the police are keeping for the inquest.

CANE FIELDS FIRED

Strikers Cause Serious Condition of Panic In Gaudaloupe

Point-a-Pitre, Gaudaloupe, Feb. 23.—Following the strike of 20,000 sugar cane cutters several grinding plants have ceased operations. Attempts to continue the gathering of the crops are opposed by the strikers, who have started fires in several fields.

The director of the Beauport plant has been captured by the strikers and has appealed to the military for help.

The distillery and grinding plant "Courcelles" was sacked and a number of the employes who had continued at work there wounded.

A condition of panic prevails here.

BRANDAU BRINGS SUIT FOR $20,000

Claims That Daughter Was Abducted by Wealthy Man

Philadelphia, Feb. 23.—Henry W. Brandau, the Germantown tailor whose 18-year-old daughter, Amanda Brandau, disappeared from home about the same time that her wealthy employer, George W. McKinney, left this city, has filed a civil suit against McKinney to recover $20,000 damages.

The father charges that the girl was abducted by McKinney. Brandau also began an equity suit against McKinney to restrain him from disposing of, transferring or in any way encumbering his property in Germantown, pending the trial and disposition of the suit for damages.

This is the latest development in the sensational simultaneous disappearance of McKinney, who runs a prosperous tea and coffee house, and Miss Brandau, who was employed in his store.

McKinney is married and has a family. He is reputed to be the owner of much real estate and is said to be worth $50,000. On the day he left the city he drew $10,000 from a bank.

THREE ELOPEMENTS

They Lead a Mother to Suggest a Fourth One In Her Family

Pittsburg, Feb. 23.—Mrs. Lucy McCook eloped when 16 years of age. Her son, Sheldon McCook, 20 years old, a student, has just eloped to Wheeling and married Miss Ima Ayers, 17 years old. The bride is rich in her own right. A little less that two years ago Mrs. McCook's daughter, Bessie, eloped with Reed Knox, son of Secretary of State Knox.

Mrs. McCook, who is a widow, has one other son, Hansen, 18 years old. "If it had been Hansen I would not have been surprised," said Mrs. McCook, "for he is always after the girls. I advised him today that he had better elope, too."

TO MAKE THIRD RUN

Vahey Announces That He Is a Candidate For Governor

Boston, Feb. 23.—James H. Vahey is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor for the third time. He announces his intention of again becoming a candidate for the nomination in an interview with The Post.

"I shall be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor this year,' said he, "and will be in the fight to a finish unless some other Democrat whom I believe more available is in the contest."

Made Hole In Ice to Drown

Hardwick, Vt., Feb. 23.—"Tired of life," as she said in a note which she left behind, Mrs. Sarah Gray, in her 73d year, committed suicide by drowning in the Lamoille river. She was forced to break a hole through the ice, as the river is frozen over to a depth of several inches.

Taught One Class Sixty-Three Years

Winsted, Conn., Feb. 23.—In point of service Miss Mary P. Hinsdale of this city is believed to be the oldest Sunday school teacher in the country. She has just resigned in the Second Congregational church, where she had taught a class for sixty-three years.

Amnesty For Political Prisoners

Seville, Spain, Feb. 23.—King Alfonso has signed a decree granting complete or partial amnesty to all political prisoners.

CONSUMPTION IS LESS

But Water Assessments of Quincy Are Larger

Although the income from the water has increased $59,842.72 in ten years, the Metropolitai water assessment has increased $46,752.54, so that Quincy is not getting ahead very fast. The city, aside from the assessments, is making large appropriations annually for maintenance, interest, maturing debt, construction and meters. An order for $30,000 for water construction is now before the City Council, also an order for $45,000 for meters. In the anual budget is an item of $45,500 for maturing water debt, $25,200 for interest on the water debt, and $10,904 for ocal maintenance.

The gross expenses of the Water department of Quincy in 1909 were $131,015.00 as follows:

Maintenance	$11,900.00
Interest	25,385.00
Maturing debt	42,500.00
Metropolitan assessment	51,230.00
	$131,015.00

Deducting the income of $113,901.86, leaves the balance to be paid by taxation, $17,113.14.

That reduction in the consumption of water DOES NOT decrease the Metropolitan assessments is shown by the following figures. The daily consumption of water in Quincy last year was less than in any of the preceding four years, but Quincy's assessment was larger than ever, as will be seen:

Year	Daily Av. Consumption	Assessment
1905	3,050,100	$35,832.50
1906	3,021,800	46,314.16
1907	2,996,900	50,027.14
1908	3,003,600	49.285.01
1909	2,919,000	51,230.04

Quincy daily average was 131,100 gallons LESS in 1909 than in 1905, a toal of 47,851,500 gallons in the year, yet theMetropolitan water assessment of 1909 was $15,397.54 LARGER than in 1905.

During the last four years the city has installed 2438 meters at a cost of $25,000 or more, and now there is an order in the City Council to appropriate $45,000 more to install 4,500 meters. Will it pay? Where does the city get any profit? Did you ever see water with so much dust in it? But the facts are very apparent; the more meters the city installs, and the more the consumption of water is decreased, the more the Metropolitan assessment is increased.

WINTER FLOWER SHOW.

Instead of the usual spring exhibition of plants and flowers, the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will have a mid-winter flower show at Horticultural hall, Boston, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 25, 26 and 27. This exhibition will combine with the splendid display of cyclamens, primulas, roses, carnations and other flowering plants now in their prime in the greenhouses of Boston and vicinity the early spring-flowering plants usually seen at the spring show.

The exhibition will be the only one to be given by the society until the great orchid show which will take place the latter part of May. A liberal list of prizes is offered and it is expected that there will be an unusually fine exhibit of a great variety of seasonable plants and flowers. Special features will be a display of baskets of flowers in competitiin by local florists; groups of brilliantly flowered acacias, azaleas, and heaths: and exhibits of winter apples and vegetables.

The exhibition will open Friday, Feb. 25, at noon, continuing through Saturday from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M., and Sunday from 1 to 10 P. M. A ladies' orchestra will furnish music every afternoon and evening from 3 to 5 and 7.30 to 9.30.

Threat to Shut Down Woolen Mills

Franklin, N. H., Feb. 23.—The Franklin woolen mills of M. T. Stevens & Sons will be shut down, it is stated by Superintendent Day, unless the striking weavers return to work. The weavers went out two weeks ago —A box of oranges in the house at this time of year, with one or two eaten before breakfast and a couple more just before retiring, will allay that "tired feeling" and give tone to the system quite as well, and in more agreeable form than crates of liver pills or patent sarsaparilla compounds by the barrel. Besides eating this fruit of the sun freely in its natural state, an abundance of home-made marmalades of sweet and bitter orange alone, or lemon and grape juice in combination with the oranges, will prove both time and money well invested.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

A riot of Rates in a Massachusetts Town, but They Are of the Harmless Kind—Skis, Pungs and Pretty Girls Enliven Historic Lexington—An Appreciative Note Concerning the Postman—If We Must Have Musicales, Why Not an Evening of American Music?—Bay State Solons to Face Array of Suffragists.

Rats of varying shades and colors are running riot in a nearby Massachusetts town. In fact, it is reported that a certain dyehouse is working overtime in order to keep up with the demand for this feminine necessity. Orders come in so fast from far and near, from the United States, Canada and Mexico, and such a variety of coloring is required to match the hair of women for whom the rats are intended, that the factory is forced to run nights to meet them.

The soft spot in which the Boston girl has for the postman who several times a day quietly and unobtrusively brings to her desk such missives as invitation to subscribe to the greatest financial opportunity ever, an intimation from the downtown department store that a small remittance on account would be appreciated and sometimes the expected communication from a distant cousin, or another girl's cousin—well, a kindly feeling for this particular middle aged man with the rubber heeled shoes lends especial interest to a little paper that has come to hand representing his interests. The Civil Service Advocate it is called, and from it one gathers that working for Uncle Sam is by no means the sinecure some people suppose. Perhaps in the old days there was some excuse for the notion that a goverment job was next thing to a large annuity bestowed by a kindly relative. Nowadays, however, from all accounts, the young man or woman who is looking for an easy place had better knock at some other employer's doorbell. The Advocate shows that the pay of clerks in the service in 1853 was from $1,200 to $1,800 and that in 1910 it is from $600 to $1,800, actually averaging lower at a time when it costs several times as much to live as it did then. Nowonder that these employees want pensions. The only question should be as to the kind of system that is best.

That an evening devoted exclusively to American music would greatly interest an audience in almost any community of the United States or Canada was impressed by such programme, recently offered by the American Music Society at Jordan Hall of the New England Conservatory building. Why should not the efforts of this society to popularize the works of the best American composers be extended wherever there people devoted to music? For this is no inconsiderable school of very competent and original musicians that has grown up in this country before and since the death of the lamented Edward MacDowell, and its numbers are being added to all the time by the younger graduates of such schools as the Conservatory in Boston which has been a great centre of advanced musical influences. Anyone making out a programme for such an evening would draw as a mattter of course upon the collection of remarkable lyric and symphonic pieces that stand to the credit of the dean of American Composers, George W. Chadwick, director of the New England Conservatory. It might properly include the hauntingly beautiful overture of Frederick S. Converse's romantic grand opera, "The Pipe of Desire", produced for the first time by a company of professionals and Conservatory students in Jordan Hall nearly four years ago. There would be selections from the admirable religious works of Horatio W. Parker, pupil of Mr. Chadwick and now professor of music at Yale University; from Mrs. H. H. A. Beach, Charles M. Loeffler Henry M. Dunham, Henry Hadley, Edgar Stillman Kelley and half score more. Works by some of these composers were included in the American Music Society's programme of Feb. 8 when Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child's singing of a quintet of songs by native composers proved as fascinating to a large audience as did the piano-forte performance of Arthur Shepard of the faculty of the New England Conservatory. The example is one for musical organizations in other cities to follow; why not evenings of American music?

Hub society belles and beaux had the time of their lives, to use the current expression, at the big carnival in aid of the Boston Floating Hospital which took place Tuesday evenin g at the Twin Elm Springs, Lexington. There were house parties in the vicinity, and every kind of winter sport to entertain the many guests from the Hub. Professional ski-jumpers added a novel touch to the festivities, while fancy skating, snow-shoe races, and tobogganing afforded amusement for the most varied tastes. Parties from Boston went out on special cars and were met at Lexington by the committees of entertainment. Sleighs and pungs came in from every direction. Among these perhaps the remarkable vehicle was an oaken pung over a century old, built after the one horse chaise plan for a Mr. Stration of South Lincoln and now owned by Dr. S. H. Blodgett, a distinguished Boston specialist, who has a residence in that town. There were other excellent specimens of the sleigh maker's art.

Please be sure to need me," writes one enthusiastic suffffragist on a reply card stating: "I intend to be present at the Hearing on the evening of Feb. 23 and to be a member of the ——— Group, if I am needed." That willingness to serve is the spirit of very many of the responses to requests to be present at the big demonstration which a committee of the legislature will face the day after Washington's birthday. The affair is under the auspices of t he Massachusetts Equal Suffrage Association. Women from all over are planning to be present either as members of the different groups which will present reasons why they want the ballot or as spectators in the galleries. This promises, indeed to be one of the most effective presentations yet made for the suffrage cause. The mothers' group will be represented by two spokeswomen, one for the well to do mothers and one for the maternal heads of households in the tenement districts where life is lived at its hardest. Mrs. Stanley McCormick of Boston is expected to speak in behalf of the women of leisure, so called, who in greater and greater numbers are trying to render to the community some degree of service, in at least partial return for immunity which they enjoy from the more sordid worries of life. Mrs. Henry Villard, daughter of William Lloyd Garrison, the greatest legislator and chairman of the legislative committee of the New York association, will bring encouragement from the Empire state. Madame Lipkowska, t he brilliant Russian singer, of the Boston Opera Company, who recently spoke from a barrel at a great East Side gathering in New York City, has signified her intention of being present; it is hoped that she may be impelled by her interest to speak A man's equal suffrage league is now being organized at the instigation of such men as former secretary of the Navy, John D. Long, Edwin D Mead and Francis J. Garrison; this league may or may not be far enough along for formal representation at the hearing, but a number of its members will certainly be in attendance. All told it will be a remarkable gathering of suffragist which the Solons will face Feb. 23.

Nor are these battlers for the ballot confining themselves to the Massachsetts situation alone. The local Brookline suffrage association, of which Mrs. Mary Hutcheson Page is president, has taken the cognizance of current troubles in the southland, as shown by the passage of this resolusion:

'Resolved, that we extend to Mrs. B. F. Tillman, Jr., our heartfelt sympathy for the loss of her children incurred through the iniquitious and unjust law that prevails in South Carolina which ordains that the father is the sole owner of the children, and permits him to deed them away from their mother even though the man is worthless and the woman of blameless character."

Taft In Favor of Injunctions

Washington, Feb. 23.—President Taft has given a full official indorsement to the court injunction bill presented in the house by Representatives Moon (Pa.), chairman of the house committee on revision of laws.

—Block signals, the most effective device yet invented for the protection of trains, are to be installed on four thousand more miles of American railroads this year. Of the country's total milage more than one fourth—63,324 miles—is already equipped with block signals. One year ago the total mileage so protected was 59,549. The increase of 3,775 miles in the twelve months, however, does not represent the total investment in signal equipment, for, over many miles of road, the old manual system has been replaced by the automatic system. Twenty-seven roads are equipped from end to end with block signals. Many others have the work complete; on the most important of these roads the mileage not equipped with block signals is almost all on branch lines where trains run at long intervals and where, consequently, the chance of collision is remote.

WHO IS SHE?

According to a Boston paper a Quincy girl is trying to help John E. Mason out of his dilemma, for he must marry before May, 1910, to save $30,000. The Globe says:

"A Quincy high school girl wrote a letter upon scented paper covered with roses, and she told the story of her short and happy life. She told Mason he could procure work at the Fore River ship works, and also wished him luck in pursuit of a wife and his legacy. It was the sweet, innocent, childish prattle of a frivolous school girl, and refreshing in its purity."

AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

BRIEFS

The last week of February.

The Boston Herald has discharged all its district men, including the correspondent at Quincy.

The Fore River team defeated the Charlestowns at soccer football on the holiday 2 to 1.

The Quincy Point Social club will hold a rehearsal for its minstrel show at Colonial hall Thursday evening.

A largely attended sunlight party which lasted until early evening was held at Alpha hall Tuesday afternoon.

Spring must be close at hand for James Edwards saw a flock of forty robins Tuesday afternoon in the cedars back of the Job Faxon farm near Faxon park and C. W. Guy reports snow drops in blossom.

Most of the Quincy members of South Shore commandery of Knights Templar attended the ladies' night festivities on the holiday, including a banquet and dance.

The weekly whist tournament of the Granite City club which was postponed when the banquet to President Bowles was announced for tonight will be held as usual.

The choirs of Christ church and Emmanuel church of Braintree will sing Thursday evening at the organ recital at Christ church. There will also be two soloists, Mrs. E. H. Cooper and Mr. C. L Gree

An open meeting of the machinists of the city has been called for Thursday evening at Wilson hall, to organize for higher wages. A schedule of $4 per day for tool makers, $3.50 per day for general machinists and $3 per day for specialists is suggested.

Dr. Frank E. Spaulding, superintendent of schools in Newton, is to be the next speaker at the Women's club. The ladies will be interested to know that the system of reading now taught in this city and many other cities near us, was thought out by Dr. Spaulding and one of his teachers.

Mothers' Association of Quincy will have an opportunity to hear a practical and profitable talk on the afternoon of March 2d. Dr. John A. Gordon, the dean of his profession in Quincy, has consented to address the association on that occasion. The meeting will be held at Bethany chapel. All mothers in Quincy are invited to be present.

Rev. Richard Armstrong gave an interesting talk before the Men's club of Christ church Monday evening on life in the Philippines. Starting from San Francisco the speaker gave a description of his voyage following it up with a talk on the life and customs of the people. He had withhim a large collection of relics which he had gathered during his residence there which he exibited. Refreshments were served.

A TOY SYMPHONY

Makes a Great Hit at Wollaston Church

Gentlemen's night was observed by the Women's Bible class in the chapel of the Wollaston Baptist church on Monday evening. To say that the ladies entertained royally would not do them justice, as the large number who accepted their hospitality would testify.

The evening opened with a toy symphony, rendered by an orchestra of 20 pieces, and entitled, "The Sleigh Ride." As the piece proceeded the incidents of the ride could be heard in the music with the realistic cracks o fthe whip, the start of the horses, blowing of the bugle, jingle of the sleighbells and finally the farewell of a youth and maiden. The symphony was so novel and so attractively rendered that later in the evening it was repeated.

The orchestra which was under the masterly direction of Amos D. Albee and consisted of members and friends of the church, was composed of the following: Max Pinkham, Theodore Corey, E. T. Noyes, first violins; Arthur Bullock, Ordway Gould, second violins; George H. Critchley, cornet; C. J. MacDonald, flute; Geo. Holmes, 'cello; Samuel McKay, Chas. Sayward, drums; Mrs. C. D. Young, triangle; Mrs. O. A. Blaisdell, Mrs. Charles Roach, sleighbells; Miss Isabel Albee, glasses; Mrs. Charles Kimball, Herbert Albee, kazoos; Charles Roach, Herbert Albee, popguns; Mrs. J. P. Perry, Mrs. Joseph Walther, piano.

Prominent in the entertainment was the work of Mrs. J. H. Slade a former member of the church and church choir. Her vocal solos were received with a storm of applause which required several encores to satisfy. Several humorous readings by Miss McConnell were enjoyed, including, "What the janitor heard," "At the restaurant," and "Georgie." During the evening several piano solos by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, most pleasingly rendered, were received with great favor. Refreshments and a social hour followed. The social committee was headed by Mrs. Wellington Record and the entertainment by Amos D. Albee and Mrs. Joseph Walther.

BRIEFS

Paul Revere Woman's Relief corps held a patriotic service at Grand Army hall Tuesday afternoon with exercises appropriate to the holiday.

The banquet of the Ward Four Improvement Association will be at St. Mary's hall instead of Farnum's hall.

Court John Adams, F. of A., will celebrate the eleventh anniversary of the institution on Friday evening at Clan McGregor hall. Members of other courts have been invited.

The weekly whist party will be held at the home of Mrs. A. Boutilier on North Payne street this evening.

Miss Margellia Adams of Quincy avenue attended the funeral of her uncle Health Officer Philip H. Goldthwaite of Gloucester today.

The ladies of the Universalist church will serve a Dutch supper in the vestry Thursday evening. A chance to get a good supper for a little money.

Feathered Mail Box Robbers.

A mail box on rural route No. 3, out of Greenville, Ind., has been robbed of several letters in the past few days. When the letters first began to disappear it was thought some person was getting them, but they were found unopened in a fence corner near by. The owner decided to watch the box from a distance and was rewarded for his trouble. He saw English sparrows fly to the box and work their way through the slot for letters. In a few moments they reappeared with a letter and worked away until they got it out. Then one of the birds flew to the fence corner with it.

—James J. H. Gregory who died at his home in Marblehead on Sunday was known throughout the country being in the seed business for more than fifty years. He will be missed in his home town where he was always active and progressive. Many young men are indebted to him for an education. He gave much of his time and money to educational and charitable work.

☞ A subscription dance in aid of the Masonic Home will be given at Alpha hall on Wednesday, March 2. Tickets may be procured from the officers of Rural lodge.

BIRTHDAY GATHERING.

Among those whose birthday fell on the same day as that of George Washington was Charles H. Penniman, and the passing of another milestone by him, was celebrated by a gathering of a number of Mr. and Mrs. Pennimans friends at their new home on Revere road. Progressive whist was the order o fthe day, during the first few hours o fthe evening ,after which refreshments were served, and there was some music. One of the pleasing events of the evening was the opening of mysterious packages. Each guest was requested to bring some article which they wished to discard. Later in the evening each guest selected one of the mysterious packages the opening of which created much merriment. Mr. Penniman was pleasantly remembered by a number of gifts.

FIVE GENERATIONS PRESENT.

Children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, representing five generations, gathered at the home of Charles B. Tilton on Merrymount road on Tuesday to help Mrs. Thomas Magee celebrate her natal day. Mrs. Magee had no intimation that there was to be a family reunion until shortly before noon they walked in upon her one at a time. The day therefore was all the more enjoyable. All brought remembrances, and Mrs. Magee was showered with congratulations. Later the party, fourteen in number, their ages averaging something over forty years gathered about the table for dinner, at the close of which an immense birthday cake, illuminated with numerous candles was brought on. Although the weather outside was stormy all within was sunshine, and the day was one long to be remembered by her in whose honor the gathering was held.

SAYS HE HAS PROOF READY

Boston Police Head Refutes Watch and Ward Secretary's Statement

Boston, Feb. 23.—Police Commissioner O'Meara last night offered to prove to officers of the Watch and Ward society that the statement of its secretary, J. F. Chase, that there were more than 200 houses of ill fame in Boston, was untrue.

The police commissioner, in a letter addressed to the editor of The Post, says that in two years a record number of convictions has been secured against such houses, and that the few which are remaining are "in a state of paralysis, awaiting a respite which will never come."

The commissioner says far from the number totalling more than 200, it is probably less than twenty-five, and that he is able and willing to prove that the number set by Chase has no value.

GREAT VICTORY FOR HIGH

Defeat Both the Newton Teams by Good Scores

A great game was played on the holiday when Quincy High met the Newton team which had defeated them Jan. 21. The score was reversed for Quincy won 35 to 17. This victory means more at this time of the season, as both teams are at their prime.

The first half started off with a rush. All the Quincy players were determined to retrieve the reputation of the school after the first defeat this year. The score shows that "where there's a will there is a way." Billy Manning got going at full speed and sent a pretty one into the basket. Russ tossed a ball from a foul and Manning landed another basket, giving five points to the home team before Newton could show the ball the way through the basket at all, and then only on a foul. But soon Osborne drew a bead on the net and put one in, followed by another after Manning and Bates had their turns, and Bates had put another foul under cover Bates seemed to do better than usual in sending home the fouls.

Cady, who shot the fouls for Newton seemed to have hard luck; he missed a number of good chances. The midget forward, Manning found seven baskets in this half while Capt. Bates got five, two from the floor and three from fouls. Osborne helped Newton's score by three baskets and both Nash and Wood put in one. Cady also gained two from fouls. At the end of the half the score was 21 to 10 in Quincy's favor.

The game in the second half was by no means as fast. This time Wood started the ball rolling. Bates sent in one from a foul. Manning commenced his trick of sending in a cage whenever Newton got any points. He had rather tough luck this trip. The basket had slipped upward as it was not fastened quite straight. So although his aim was good the ball didn't find the center of the net as often as it might have. But he persevered and sent in four and one from a foul in this half. Russ Bates obtained five points with two baskets from the floor and one from a foul.

It is rather hard to tell who put up the best game. The forwards of course have the best opportunity to make a good showing in the number of baskets.

But if the backs do not do their work faithfully the opponents' score is likely to increase quickly. Billy Manning was the favorite because of his eleven baskets and good playing. He appeared in better form than for a long time. Russ Bates showed his usual fine playing. Wood, Cady and Osborne did good work for Newton.

LABOR MEN IN POLITICS

Will Campaign to Elect Legislators Who Favor Their Cause

New York, Feb. 23.—Plans for active political labor campaigns in all the states of the union have been made public by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. A resolution adopted favors "men from our ranks to make new laws and administer them along lines laid down in the legislative demands" of the Federation.

This year questions are to be put to every candidate for congress and for the state legislatures, the candidates to be asked to declare themselves on the following legislation sought by the labor leaders: Anti-injunction legislation; eight-hour bill, fixing eight hours as the limit of a day's labor on government work; an amendment to the Sherman anti-trust law exempting labor organizations from its provisions, and the employers' liability bill.

MURDER SUSPECT PUTS UP A FIGHT

Police Have Hard Tussle Before Locking Him Up

Providence, Feb. 23.—After a hard struggle in front of the Union railroad station, with a big crowd looking on, Police Detectives Godfrey and Ahern captured a man who says he is William Trent of Boston and who the police believe is the highwayman who murdered ex-Alderman William F. Meagher in his Pawtucket grocery store.

A companion of Trent got away from the detectives and jumped aboard an express train as it pulled out for New York. He was later captured at Westerly when the train reached that place and was returned here. He gave the name of Joseph Dickson.

When the detectives finally got Trent to police headquarters he made another desperate attempt to secure a revolver which had been taken away from him and escape, but his plan was frustrated.

GAME WAS CLOSE VERY CLOSE INDEED

Character of Fore River Work Won, Coupled With Ability to Carry Out the Terms.

Quincy Designs Superior to All Others Submitted.

How Yankee genius won from the world in securing the contract of $22,000,000 for battleships excites the admiration of all. The Globe in its interview with President Bowles of the Fore River Company at New York says:

The circumstances attending the securing of these large contracts, as described by Admiral Bowles, indicate that New England is able to meet in open competition any shipbuilding section in the world, domestic or foreign, and outbid it for high-class work.

When asked for an interview on how a Massachusetts man a native of Boston, and head of a Greater Boston concern, had been able to compete for this large slice of world business and take it away from English, German, Italian and French builders, each backed by strong diplomatic influences exerted by their respective governments, Admiral Bowles was at first disinclined to talk. He said he preferred to let the contracts talk for themselves. When told there was naturally a healthy public curiosity at home as to how this practical bit of uplift work for Greater Boston had been accomplished, he consented to an interview which ultimately took the form of the following questions and answers:

$22,000,000

"Has the Argentine contract been correctly stated at $22,000,000?"

"Yes, that is approximately the sum. The limit of cost placed on the work by the Argentine government was $2,200,000 pounds sterling for each ship. Our figure was slightly under that."

"What is the character of the Italian contract?"

"The cost I am not at liberty to state. The contracts calls for two sets of turbines, of three engines each, to be installed in two scout cruisers, each ship having 22,500 horsepower."

"How soon will work under these contracts begin at Quincy?"

"On the Argentine ships it has already begun, in the drafting department. We should be ready to lay the keel of the ship we are to build in our own yard by the first of June."

"How long will the job last?"

"I cannot say at this time as to that. It generally takes about two and one half years to build a battleship. The time of delivery was an element in our securing this contract, though not a vital one. The fact that we have sublet one of the ships to the New York shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., detracts in no degree from the credit due New England for having obtained this contract. We could have handled both ships at our plant, but for reasons of expediency, which it would not be prudent to state at this time.

POWERFUL SHIPS.

"How will the Argentine ships differ from the Dreadnought now building for the American navy?

"They will be the most powerful ships for which designs have yet been made. Their normal displacement will be about 28,000 tons each. I am under obligation to give no further details regarding them at this time."

"How long has it been since you began to figure on these ships?"

"More than a year. The original tenders were invited by Argentina Jan. 1, 1909. Our first tenders were delivered March 1, 1909. The original bidders numbered 23 firms of various nations. After the first tenders were received the Argentine naval authorities decided to change the character of the ships, to increase their size. They adopted various desirable features in the plans that had been submitted to them.

"While this was going forward I went to Argentina, arriving at Buenos Ayres Aug. 21 last. I remained there a month, holding frequent conferences with the Argentine naval authorities. The negotiations were conducted in Spanish and English. I generally spoke in English, which most of the Argentine officers understood. From Buenos Ayres I went to London, where a naval commission, empowered by Argentine to sign contracts for the ships, had its sittings. My negotiations thereafter were with this commission and the contracts as agreed on were signed by the commission and myself."

"Their communications to me were in Spanish. The other American concerns competing for the contract had representatives in Buenos Ayres, who thought I made a mistake in leaving there when I did. London, however, was the proper place in which to carry forward negotiations, as the naval commission empowered by Argentina to contract for ships had its setting there. My negotiations thereafter were with this commission," etc.

COMPETITION.

"From what nation did you experience the strongest competition?"

"That is hard to say, but I always considered the English our most formidable competitors. The game was very close, very close, indeed."

"What, in your opinion, eventually led the Argentine commissioners to place the contract with you?"

"The character of our work and our apparent ability to carry out the terms of the contract to the letter. The Argentine people are not in the habit of awarding contracts to the lowest bidders. They are keen business people. That our design was superior to all others submitted there was no question. The situation finally came down to what they would get for their money, and they decided they would get the most from us.

"The final competition was between six companies. Our American competitors had been eliminated. Two English companies were left in. They were Vickers Sons & Maxim and the Armstrongs. There was also one German, one French and one Italian company. The situation was this: The French, German and Italian companies bid the limit of cost set by the Argentine government. The English did not meet the price. We bid slightly under it. But though the lowest bidders, we would not have secured the contracts if we had not been able to satisfy the buyers of the ships that our work was better than that of our competitors."

DIPLOMACY.

"To what degree were you aided in your negotiations by the state department?"

"In answer to that question I can say that American shipbuilders and armor plate manufacturers are exceedingly fortunate in finding at Buenos Ayres a most active and capable minister representing this country, Charles B. Sherrill of New York. He made himself useful, popular and acceptable in every way. I am greatly indebted to his good offices in enabling me to impress on the Argentine government what we can do in the United States in shipbuilding. Yet it would be a mistaken idea to suppose that diplomatic influence alone would have secured us the contract. Influences of the strongest character was brought to bear in behalf of some of the other bidders, but without avail. I am convinced that the inherent value of our proposition landed us the contract."

COOPERATION.

"There has been mention of the influence of Charles M. Schwab in securing this contract; what form did it take?"

"I wish to say here that without the cooperation of Mr. Schwab and the Bethlehem steel company we could have done nothing. We do not make armor plate. The Bethlehem company does. The company worked with us to the extent of making a contract with us to supply the armor for the ships. In his respect we were on absolutely the same footing as the other American competitors. We were not favored in any way. Mr. Schwab is interested only through his armor plate interests, but the steel company's cooperation nevertheless was invaluable to us. The vice president of the company, Archibald Johnson, was with me in London."

"Will these contracts lead to similar large contracts with foreign nations?"

"Of this I feel sure. It is the beginning of such work with the Fore River company. I have already laid the lines for other work of a similar character; but it would not be wise to state its nature at present."

RECEPTION NEXT TUESDAY

Plans for a Grand Gala Day in Quincy

The committee appointed by the Committee of One Hundred for the reception to President F. T. Bowles of the Fore River Company next Tuesday are busy carrying out the instructions of the meeting. They suggest that it is not too early now to put out the flags and decorate for the big event. They have engaged a band and also the Quincy Fife and Drum Corps. A few colored lights and fireworks have been ordered, and arrangements made for the ringing of the church bells and the tooting of whistles.

Thousands of people are expected to greet President Bowles at the Quincy depot at 5.50 and to escort him to Alpha hall. Everybody is invited to the reception to be held there; no tickets being required. The grand banquet is another affair and will be held at Music hall.

BOYS NOW ON PROBATION

Charges Against Probation Officer May Be Dismissed

A case that has created much interest among the Hebrews of Quincy was before the District court this morning. The case was that of Michaelione Lorenzo, Genno Noralla, Walter Gomez, Jeremiah Moynihan, Arthur Bavin and Henry Leet, for assault and battery on Nathan Bluestein at Quincy, Jan. 19. The complaint is said to have arisen from the defendants throwing snow balls at the complainant.

The original case was heard in January before Judge Pratt, who found them guilty and placed the cases on file. As five of the defendants were juveniles, they were arraigned on a delinquent warrant. On account of alleged comments made by the Probation Officer at that time, a complaint was filed with the Probation Commission against Mr. Spear which was referred to Judge Avery.

It was then decided to reopen the case, and the defendants were summoned in for last Tuesday but failed to appear. A new complaint was then issued under the juvenile law and they were in court this morning. At the first hearing the defendants were represented by J. J. McAnarney, but this morning Thomas H. Buttimer looked after their interest.

Mr. Buttimer raised the point that the second complaint should not issue as the first complaint should have been dismissed first. Counsel then held a conference with the court, after which it was decided to dismiss the second complaint and take the first complaint from the file, which was done. The defendants were then placed on probation until April 12.

It is probable that Judge Avery will take no further action of the charges against the probation officer. Judge Avery said this morning that he had talked the matter over with the probation officer and that the reopening of the case would probably satisfy all parties concerned.

NEW CONTRACT AT FORE RIVER

A Steel Tank Steamer of 6,000 Tons Burden

Things seem to be coming the way of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., just at the present time, which bears out the old saying that business makes business. Of course everybody knows of the contract for the two battleships for the Argentine Republic, and the contract for the six turbine engines for the Italian navy. This week another contract was received. This time it was for a tank steamer for the Cuban Distilling Co. It will be of 6,000 tons burden. She is to be of steel and about 370 feet long.

The company is now engaged in building eighteen of the American Curtis turbines which alone means about $12,000.00. Six of these turbines are for the Italian cruisers, six for the two Argentine battleships and six for the two United States destroyers, thus representing three governments.

—A Norborne man bought 20 cents' worth of steak and received a nickel in change. When he got home he couldn't find the meat. At last he discovered the nickel in his coat pocket. That gave him the clew, and opening his purse, he found where he had put the steak.—Kansas City Journal.

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

Norwood jumped up its assessed valuation in 1909, and this year the State's assessment upon the town will be twice as large. The new apportionment increases the proportion for Springfield, Beverly, Everett, Malden and other places, while Boston, Cambridge, Brookline, Somerville, Nahant, Canton and other places will have a decrease. Quincy figures are not at hand.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

Waste paper is at once a problem and a nuisance. Regarded in either sense, or in both senses, it is of a nation-wide interest and importance; and in a period when a really intelligent and earnest effort is being everywhere put forth to "improve the looks of thing,' it is more than ever necessary that something shall be done toward getting the paper problem solved and the paper nuisence abolished. In most communities ordinances are now in force that prohibit the circulation of handbills on the streets. In large cities receptacles are provided for the deposit of waste and litter.

Those charged with the care of the thoroughfares in suburban village, town or city, will, if questioned, declare frankly that the waste paper nuisance is the most serous they have to contend with, for the reason that it has it origin in private premises. The waste paper of the shop, the warehouse, or the private home is frequently placed in refuse receptacles in such manner that the first gust of wind distributes it broad cast over an entire district or an entire neighborhood. This is a case in which a few thoughtless or negligent people can make the outlook unpleasant for the many. It is also a case in which people of all classes and ages may help to create a condition that will enhance civic attractiveness and comfort inmeasurably.

The time of the year is approaching when housecleaning and redecorating, the changing of tenants and the unpacking of new merchandise, with a thousand other things, contribute toward aggravating the waste-paper nuisance in all parts of the land. It would be impossible to find a better time in which as a people we could determine among ourselves and for our selves to put an end to it.—Christian Science Monitor.

People who keep the letter carrier waiting at the door until they are ready to open it are responsible for a new law that will be in force on and after July 1, 1911. It is claimed that the average mail carrier loses about 30 seconds in ringing each doorbell and awaiting response. The new law prohibits any letter carrier from delivering any mail at any house unless there is a suitable mail box on the outside to receive it. This would be all right if it did not involve a large expense, and it is estimated that to provide the boxes will involve a cost of $20,000,000. This must be borne by the people or they will not have their mail delivered by the carriers. The postoffice department expects to save $40,000,000 on account of the new arrangement. As the people have to pay for the postal service, they may be said to save one-half the amount by the expenditure of the other half. What the department will do with money saved is not stated, but as there is always a deficit, the savings may be applied to that.—Lynn Item.

Getting gold out of the sea has been the dream of many an inventor and was once the bait used by an unscrupulously clever promoter for coaxing gullible folks to part with their money—to his profit and their confusion. Bu the gold is there if the seeker goes to work the right way to get at it. Commerce and the fisheries find old ocean a mine worth working. So do coastwise cities that improve their opportunities.

Our neighbor Quincy is an example. On a winding estuary of Boston harbor, the channed deepened and improved to meet fast growing requirements, the city has seen one of the world's most complete and capable shipbuilding plants established and fostered until today the Fore River works are competing with and outbidding famous old yards here and abroad. Within a month this company has secured contracts for building two mammoth battleships for the Argentine Republic, and right on top of that competitive victory comes word that another contract has been signed for the construction of six American type turbine engines for new scout cruisers being built for the Italian royal navy.

This means that several millions of money from abroad will come to the Fore River Company, a considerable part of which will be paid out to the skilled mechanics employed at the plant and so go into circulation in Quincy, adding to the value of its real-estate, bringing profit to its tradesmen, contributing to the municipal resources and being helpful in a multitude of ways.

The "City of Presidents" ought to be grateful to fate for the golden harvest the sea has brought to her doors and the intelligent, crop compelling cultivation that is making all the world pay tribute to her ultimate profit.—Brockton Enterprise.

PICTURES OF OBERAMMERGAU.

While touring Bavaria on one of his visits to Europe, Mr. Ellsworth visited "Linderhoff," the castle of the late King of Bavaria, which is situated seven miles distant from Oberammergau. While visiting the castle, Mr. Ellsworth's photographer took a snap shot of him while he sat in the throne chair of the late King, conspicuously displaying an American flag. When this picture is thrown on the screen to an American audience, it never fails to elicit sincere and appreciative applause. Mr. Ellsworth is probably the first American to have the distinction of being photographed in a Bavarian King's palace. The pictures of the surrounding country, the quaint little village of Oberammergau and other places of interest, are among the varied collection presented by Mr. Ellsworth. Every picture is faithfully reproduced in outline coloring, and to those who have never been so fortunate as to visit Oberammergau and Bavaria, the scenes presented by Mr. Ellsworth and his entertaining description of them, is a rare treat indeed. Much has been written and said of the great play as given by the people of Oberammergau, but to clearly realize the sincere devotion of these self-sacrificing participants of the plays, the 300 views that Mr. Ellsworth uses in his entertainment must be seen. Mr. Ellsworth appears at Quincy Music hall tomorrow night.

WHY MEAT IS HIGH.

Part of the Trouble Is With the Housekeeper.

"More than half the trouble with the meat prices lies with the housekeeper who doesn't know how to utilize what she gets," said Miss Annie Barrows of the Teachers' college school of household arts, New York city.

"Most of us," she went on to say, "are like the man who bought four whole turkeys and ate only the 'oysters' of each—those delicious bits of dark meat that lie on the breastbone. The well to do consumer knows little about the cheaper cuts of meat, buys only the choicest sirloin pieces and fails to use them to their best advantage. Few women use the flank fat for which they have paid, but order extra suet fat, for which they are charged 10 cents a pound. The butcher sends the other back to the smelter's, where it is used for soap or made into lard, in which form we pay for it again.

"There are many cuts other than the fore quarters which make good roasts and very pleasing dishes if prepared properly. The principal thing to remember is that a low temperature and a slow fire are necessary to put them into a palatable condition. Anything that is thoroughly cooked is safe, but only the tenderest pieces, of course, should be eaten in a raw or a rare state. I hope the time will come when the lower cuts, which used to be sold to the army and navy for corned beef or turned into sausage meat, will be used by the judicious housewife. She should thoroughly understand the anatomy of her four footed beast and her fowl, because, no matter what name he may give his cuts, the butcher can't change the skeleton.

"In fowl there is of necessity almost 20 per cent waste material, but that is all the more reason why every scrap of it should be utilized. The heart, liver and gizzard can be chopped up in the gravy or added to the omelet of the next day's luncheon, because the less we eat of the bird the more we pay for every bit. Every one knows, of course, that the skeleton and bones give a delicious flavor to soups and that the fat makes excellent frying grease.

"We are just as wasteful with our vegetables as with our meats," continued Miss Barrows. "For instance, take these beets. The grocer, when he saw that I wanted to take them with me was about to chop off the stalks and leaves, when I asked him to let me have them as they were. He looked at me as though I were demented, but every old housekeeper knows that the tops may be used like spinach."

GEAR WORKS INSPECTION

Remarkable Exhibit of a Series Of Gears

An inspection and exhibition was held at the Boston Gear works on Tuesday morning the public being invited. Besides local people many machinery men were present from Boston.

The plant which on the morning of November 28, was a pile of smoking ruins has been resurrected into a sightly building, and a more workable plant, which is now running day and night to fill its accumulation of orders. Flying over the works was the flag that went through the hottest part of the fire and came out nearly undamaged.

Under the personal escort of the manager Frank Burgess, the visitors were conducted over the works and the different stages of operation explained in detail. An interesting exhibit contained a series of gears working in conjunction with each other which included nearly every kind of gear it is possible to manufacture. This collection has taken nearly 20 years to amass.

An illustration of a new gear, capable of running 3,000 revolutions a minute was shown. This gear, which was formerly thought impossible, has been recently made at the works.

A special machine to test the speed power and friction of each gear was also displayed. Throughout the plant were many intricate machines, the uses of which could only be hazarded, all working in conjunction with each other and demonstrating the efficiency of the new arrangements. Many machines of foreign make are among the equipment, all working toward the greatest accuracy. On one machine a gear can be cut in less than fifteen minutes, where by hand it formerly took something over an hour and a half. Among the labor saving devices installed by the proprietor is a series of annunciators, which calls a boy to deliver tools from the tool room instead of wasting the time of high priced machinists.

This alone saves the concern many hundred dollars in the course of a year.

The arrangement of the store rooms and pattern rooms as projected are of the best, and the whole scheme tends toward the saving of time and labor that was not possible in the old buildings.

A fine suite of offices, comprising the private offices, the business department and the draughting rooms, is situated on the westerly side. In the rear are the hardening and supply buildings. In the basement in operation were seen the crude oil engines by which the plant is operated. The inspection closed with a graphophone concert and a juggling and Indian club swinging act by the manager, Frank Burgess.

JUNIOR LEAGUE SUPPER.

In the vestry of the Wollaston Methodist church on Monday evening, the Junior League were tendered a supper by the members of the Epworth League. About 40 of the youngsters were present under the leadership of their superintendent, Miss Rena M. Chamberlain. At each place was a prettily decorated menu of the repast which consisted of tomato soup, potato salad, pickled beets, Washington pie, rolls and coffee.

The following officers of the Junior League were elected:

President—Allen Stearns.

First Vice President—Beulah Collett.

Second Vice President—Jeanie Keith.

Third Vice President—Russell Adams.

Fourth Vice President—Everett Sutermeister.

Secretary—Marion Clifford.

Treasurer—Francina Crothers.

Games and patriotic puzzles followed, and the evening closed with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner "and "America" in a large circle with hands joined.

The committee in charge of the supper consisted of Miss Ethel Smith, Nettie Chrittenden, Gertrude Barlow, Bessie Wilbur, Grace Mehaffey, Mary Cleveland, Florence Bennett, Irma Douglass and Ida Williams.

Big Fertilizing Plant Burned

Houlton, Me., Feb. 24.—A fire which started from spontaneous combustion in a pile of fish scraps resulted in the destruction of the largest factory of the Maine branch of the Buffalo Fertilizer company. The loss is between $200,000 and $250,000.

OPERA AT WOLLASTON.

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted the performers of "The Doctor of Alcantara" on the second night of the opera in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Wednesday evening. The chorus augmented by the addition of two members, Miss Margaret Hall and George E. Brown, outdid itself, and was vigorously applauded at every opportunity.

On both evenings the piece went off without a hitch, and the young people are to be congratulated upon the very creditable performance which they presented. Willis Clark under whose direction the opera was given was an excellent character study as Doctor Paracelus. His pupils who took the major parts were without fault.

The story was a Spanish one and the costumes worn by the principals and chorus were very effective. Composing the chorus were the following Wollaston young people: Miss Alice Day, Miss Dorothy Fay, Miss Helen Wade, Miss Margaret Hall, Miss Grace I. Bishop, Miss Hattiemay Mitchell. Messrs. George E. Brown, Louis B. Weston, Wallace C. Bennett, Edward R. Hall and Charles M. Thompson.

Miss Mary French who presided at the piano made an excellent accompanist and added much to the opera at its various stages. The production was given under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Alliance.

THREE OF A KIND.

Officer Heaney of Randolph came into court Wednesday morning with three of a kind. In some games this is considered to be pretty good. In this case it was not a game of cards, however, but three men by the name of Hand. Brothers they were and all had been celebrating the holiday by looking on the wine when it was red in the cup. They were Philip L., Thomas H., and Patrick. It needed one more to make the officers hand full and he drew cards and got one Robert Hamilton. Judge Pratt looked over the hands and said they were winners and with Hamilton they were sent to the State farm at Bridgewater so as to get in good condition to do a little farming when spring opens.

COTTON MILLS TO CURTAIL

Running Time at Fall River Reduced to Fifty-One Hours a Week

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 24.—A special meeting of the Cotton Manufacturers' association was called to discuss business conditions, and it was decided to curtail production one day a week, beginning at once.

In some of the mills curtailment is to begin this week and notices have been posted. Any day in the week may be selected for stopping. The usual rule will be to run five days and shut down Saturday. This will reduce the running time to about fifty-one hours a week.

Wages were discussed at the meeting and the question of readjusting the schedule to meet the demands of the local textile associations, but no action was taken.

ABSCONDING BOOKKEEPER

Responsible For Closing Doors of a Cambridge Bank

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 24.—Acting on a warrant sworn out by National Bank Examiner Ellis H. Pepper, the police have begun a country-wide search for George W. Coleman, missing bookkeeper of the National City bank of Cambridge.

A shortage of $144,000 discovered in the accounts of the bank led to the closing of the bank. It is one of the oldest financial institutions in Cambridge.

The amount said to be missing is more than the combined capital and surplus of the bank by about $5000, making the bank obviously insolvent.

John L. Bates, former governor of Massachusetts, was appointed receiver of the bank by the comptroller of the currency.

It was learned that probable severe losses were first discovered last Friday, and uncovered in a conference between Comptroller of the Currency Murray and C. G. Bancroft, a bank director. A trust company of Cambridge was asked to liquidate the bank's assets and take over its liabilities. During an examination of the bank's accounts it was discovered that the deposits totalled more than had been published in the bank's statement. This proved that the books had been falsified.

Mr. Bancroft called on Coleman to report at the bank and help the officials go over the books. He failed to do so, and left Cambridge forthwith.

Coleman was last heard from at Kansas City, but since Monday there is no trace of him. He is 28 years old, unmarried and lived with his parents. He has automobiles and has made quite an impression on the social life of the city. His luxurious style of life on $12 a week was accounted for by the fact that his family has means.

That Coleman's name should figure in connection with a bank shortage may not be altogether a surprise for some of his acquaintances, for now that the charge has been made against him by the bank examiner, there are many who recollect a lavish expenditure of money on his part for some time past. There are reports which link his name with "joy rides" in automobiles; with diamond gifts to feminine friends and other pastimes which require considerable money.

Edwin Dresser is president of the bank. Frank L. Earl is cashier; E. A. Paul, teller. The directors are: E. Dresser, George W. Gale, Sumner Dresser, David A. Barber, George E. Richardson.

The bank was incorporated in 1853; charter re-extended in 1905. It is capitalized at $100,000.

The deposits of the bank, which at one time were as high as $500,000, have shown a steady decrease in recent years. In 1908 they totalled $325,000, but have dwindled to $127,432. The stock of the bank likewise has shown heavy declines.

AN INFANT PRODIGY

Seven-Year-Old Boy Doing Original Research Work In Medicine

Chicago, Feb. 24.—Taking his place in the same rank with learned scientists Fenton B. Turck, Jr., the 7-year-old son of Dr. Fenton B. Turck of the post-graduate medical school of Chicago, exhibited bacteria mounted by him on slides and adjusted by him under compound microscopes at the "microscopical soiree" given at the Chicago Academy of Sciences.

"Practically all of his work has been research work and a considerable portion of it has been original," said Dr. Turck. "I don't think he is a prodigy, but he has displayed a genius for research for two years."

FACETIOUS OHIO FARMERS

Want Half the Dogs Made Into Sausage and Higher Tax on Others

Findlay, O., Feb. 24.—The Mount Cory Farmers' institute adopted this resolution:

"Owing to the high price of meats and the increase in sheep claims, we recommend that one-half of the dogs in Ohio be made into bologna and the tax on the others be increased from $1 to $2, and the tax on the dogs' sisters be raised from $2 to $4."

ASHES AS LOVE RECEIPT

Man Who Would Aid the Lovesick Falls Into Clutches of Police

Boston, Feb. 24.—A Polish recipe for love which failed to produce the desired results was responsible for the arrest of Joseph Kowalevsky on a charge of using the mails in a scheme to defraud. For 25 cents a world-old secret would be disclosed to the lovelorn, according to an advertisement in a Polish paper which was traced to Kowalevsky by the postoffice inspectors.

The recipe, which was represented as infallible for producing love, read as follows, according to a free translation from the Polish:

"Write the names of Adam and Eve on the leaves of a tree, then write your name and the name of the person whose love you seek on another leaf. Burn the leaves and then get the person to eat the ashes by mixing them in his or her food. Unless the person eats the ashes the charm is broken."

JILTED YOUTH'S POOR AIM

Results In His Being Shot In the Leg Instead of His Heart

West Kingston, R. I., Feb. 24.—When Tony Signarelli, a Peacedale youth, was jilted by a Westerly girl, he decided that life held no more interest for him. He was seated in a coach on a railroad train bound from New London for Providence when he finally determined to end it all. Pulling a revolver from his pocket he tried to shoot himself through the heart, but his hand trembled so that the weapon was lowered, and when he pulled the trigger the bullet went into his leg.

Before he could fire a second shot Deputy Sheriff Coon of Westerly, who was in the coach, knocked the revolver from the boy's hand. Signarelli was removed from the train here, and physicians who attended him said that his wound was not serious.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL

Items of Interest to Students and Graduates

The Seniors who are preparing for college meet in a special class where they study more deeply the English work required for the examinations. Miss Chadbourne teaches this division. These pupils need a different line of study than those who do not intend to continue their school course beyond High school, and to whom this year practically finishes the English training for life. The college pupils do not require a course to end their English work, but rather one which opens new fields for further investigation. As the English examinations cover the work of the four years, a review is being made of books studied.

The students should be well prepared for examinations for, besides a careful study of the absolutely required reading, they have taken two or three books where one is demanded in the elective lists. In addition to compositions, rhetoric, and a study of English literature by periods, they have studied Shakspeare's "Macbeth," Chaucer's "Prologue to the Canterbury Tales," Macawlay's "Life of Johnson" and are now taking Burke's "Speech of Conciliations," also Shakspeare's "Merchant of Venice" and Coleridge's "Tale of the Ancient Mariner" have been reviewed. Before the year closes it is expected that Milton's minor poems, Ruskin's "Sesame and Lilies," and either Webster's Bunker Hill address or Washington's Farewell address will be studied.

The books studied when the Seniors were Freshmen were: Scott's Ivanhoe, Eliots, Silas Marner, Lowell's "Vision of Sir Launfal," Arnold's "Sohrab and Rustum," Tennyson's "Enoch Arden," and Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome" will be reexamined quickly. Also Addison and Steele's "Sir Roger de Coverly Papers," Goldsmith's "Vicar of Wakefield," Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" Dickens' "A tale of two Cities," Tennyson's "Idyll's of the King" and Irving's "Life of Goldsmith" studied during the Sophomore year will be better recalled to memory.

The contents of the books read last year by those in the class, Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," Scudder American Prose, Lamb's "Essays of Elia," The autobiography of Franklin, De Quincy's "English Mail Coach" and "Joan of Arc" and Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables" will be rapidly noted. The changes for every year in the requirements of the different classes for admission to college cause an almost entirely different set of books for reading to be assigned to the lower classes.

Notice has been sent from the office to the homes of those of the Senior class whose percentage in studies has become lowered, and to those in the school who are deficient in any study.

From the scores it would appear that the Juniors will win the championship of the class teams. The scores of the games thus far played are:

Jan. 26, 1910 vs. 1911—5 to 14.
Jan. 28, 1910 vs. 1912—7 to 22.
Feb. 2, 1913 vs. 1911—11 to 21.
Feb. 8, 1911 vs. 1910—38 to 20.
Feb. 18, 1911 vs. 1912—16 to 14.
Feb. 21, 1911 vs. 1913—10 to 0.

The schedule of the games has been somewhat broken as in most cases the halves of the games have been played on different dates, as when the teams play in the intermission between the halves of the games of the school team.

The Athletic committee will soon hold a meeting to decide among other things whether sweaters with the "Q" on them will be awarded to the players on the first teams.

Have you noticed the good work the basket ball team has been doing lately? While it has been up against some fast teams like Thayer or Newton? Tuesday it made up for the former defeat to Newton by winning with a good margin from that team. Now if the team can only meet Melrose again and win, which it probably could, it will have beaten every five it has met. It is expected that the Concord team will meet Quincy on Friday at the gymnasium.

John MacCarty, Q. H. S. '09, who was the crackerjack shortstop of last year's baseball team, will play with the Fore River Apprentices.

Quincy High should make a good showing at the B. A. A. Interscholastic meet with the relay team that is training and also Franz Marceau.

Carl Gram, a former High student, still keeps on winning the races.

While the translations of Latin at the school are not always entirely correct, let us hope they are not quite as bad as that noted of a dull pupil in another school. "One day in the Latin class he was wrestling with the sentence "Rex fugit." With painful slowness he translated it, "The King flees." "But in what other tense can the verb fugit be found?" asked the teacher. A long scratching of the head and a final answer of "Perfect," owing to a whispered prompting.

"And how would you translate it, then?"

"Dunno."

"Why, put a 'has' in it."

Again the tardy response was drawled out: "The King has fleas."

As the attendance at the basket ball games has been excellent, the money from the tickets, exclusive of the expenses ought to be enough to give a good start to the baseball season.

The editor of the School department of the Brockton Enterprise comments as follows: "Brockton spends about a quarter of a million dollars a year on her schools. The figures cited mean that if the physical defects of the pupils are incorrected the city wastes some fifteen thousand dollars a year in the hopeless effort to teach children whose minds are unable to receive the instruction offered. In proportion as physical defects are remedied or removed this wasteful expenditure is cut down. It is difficult to compute what Brockton is now saving through her system of medical inspection but it is easy to show that the hiring of the school nurse was financially one of the best investments the city ever made. It would be very easy to demonstrate that the school nurse saves the city several times her salary each year in actual financial economy. The school nurse is the most efficient possible link between the school and the home. Her work is immensely important in its direct results and very far-reaching in its indirect influences. Among foreign populations she is a very potent force for Americanization."

BIG FLAG ON EAGLE ROCK.

Could Be Seen by Immigrants Before Statue of Liberty.

Patriotic organizations at Montclair, N. J., are interested in the proposition to fly a large American flag from the summit of Eagle rock, in the Eagle Rock park, adjoining Montclair. It is proposed to fly the flag from a steel pole 300 feet in height. The Essex county park commission's consent will have to be procured before the plan can be carried out.

The flag when flown from a tall pole on the lofty Eagle rock could be seen by ships entering the New York harbor and, it is asserted, would come into the view of immigrants before the statue of Liberty was sighted. It is planned to dedicate the flag with elaborate ceremony on July 4.

HORSE FOUND ON FLATS

Stuck in Mud and Rescued With Difficulty

Word was received at the police station this morning that a horse attached to a sleigh was stuck in the flats off Squantum street, unable to get out, and that near the sleigh was a man's hat. This led to the belief that the man had probably sunk out of sight in the flats.

Officer Goodhue was sent down, and when he arrived he found men at work with planks trying to get the animal out. It was a difficult job, but was finally accomplished, although the horse was somewhat the worse for wear, and was covered with mud. While the men were at work, a man who said he was the owner of the team, put in an appearance. From what could be learned from him he had attended some kind of a social gathering Wednesday night and started for home early this morning, when the horse became unmanageable and getting away from him went onto the flats. This was about 5.30 A. M. and as he was unable to get the horse out he had left him there and went home. The man was very anxious that the police should not give out his name.

BRIEFS

Banquet tonight of the Ward Four Improvement Association at St. Mary's hall.

Who will be the first to decorate for the reception to President Bowles? It is not necessary to wait until next Tuesday.

There will be an old fashioned class meeting at the Hall Place M. E. church instead of the regular prayer meeting on Friday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl H. Raupach and children, Paul and Ardis, spent the holiday in Lynn, guests of Mrs. Raupach's aunt, Mrs. Andrews.

Why install water meters at great cost, and at the same time reduce the city income, if the Metropolitan water assessments are to be larger and larger?

Tomorrow evening is the date for the pictorial reproduction of Oberammergau at Quincy Music hall under the auspices of Quincy aerie, F. O. E.

The Board of Trade is making great preparations for its annual banquet to be held at Music hall March 9. This is one of the occasions where ladies are welcome.

Franklin Doyle of Dorchester was the guest over the holiday of his son W. H. Doyle of Berkley terrace. Mr. and Mrs. Doyle are also entertaining Carroll McPhetero of Brockton.

The City Council Committee on Finance will meet tonight for a further consideration of the budget. It is probable that the budget will be reported at the regular meeting, March 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Pollock of Bigelow street have moved this week to East Weymouth, where they recently purchased an estate. Mrs. Alice Cobb will occupy the Bigelow street house with her mother, Mrs. Mary Pollock.

The mid-winter meeting of the Alumnae association of Woodward Institute will be held at the school tonight at 8 o'clock. During the evening there will be a short business session, games, music and refreshments and it is hoped that every member will make a special effort to be present.

STRONG WITHOUT MEAT.

Vegetarian University Student Heads Class of Fifty-five In Strength Tests.

Edward Novak, a student at Johns Hopkins university, in Baltimore, has on a nonmeat diet won a place at the head of a class of fifty-five in the physical test, getting an average of 725 out of a possible 1,000.

Two years ago, Novak said, he became a vegetarian through reading Shelley's poems.

"I first took it up as a sort of an experiment," he said. "I was gaining flesh and did not want to become stouter. I found that by eating plenty of eggs, bread and butter, fruit and vegetables I suffered no inconvenience from hunger. I found that I was becoming more and more capable all the time, and this I attribute to my diet. Since I have been at the university I have participated in all of the sports, and I have found that I can run greater distances without feeling any ill effects than when I ate meat."

FAVORITE SONG OF EVANGELIST EKLUND.

The evangelistic meetings being conducted by Messrs. Eklund and Eagle at St. Paul's M. E. church continue nightly, and are largely attended and of increasing interest. The evangelists have other engagements, however, and will conclude their meetings in Quincy on Sunday, when services will be held at 10.30 A. M., 3.30 and 7.00 P. M.

One of the popular songs of Evangelist Eklund is printed below;

I Bear the Marks of the Lord.

THE RISE OF A MESSENGER BOY

How Belvidere Brooks Became Western Union's Manager.

TELLS HOW HE SUCCEEDED.

Feels Responsibility to Big Telegraph Company That Employs Him and Does His Duty as Well as He Can. Full Fledged Operator at Twelve.

From a messenger boy earning $8 a month to general manager of the whole Western Union Telegraph company, with a salary said to equal that of the president of the United States, is the span just crossed by Belvidere Brooks.

"It took forty years to climb that ladder, but I reached it by telling the truth and always having in mind the interests of my employer," said the new general manager in his office, at New York, the other day.

So unaffected is the new head of the 50,000 men of the Western Union that one would think him still a telegraph operator and ready to send a message for you for a quarter. His rise is all the more remarkable for the reason that when he was eleven years old he had to go to work, and his only education was the teachings of his mother and what he picked up from the operators.

Mr. Brooks is now just past the fifty year mark, but he still maintains the round, boyish face that is known from California to Maine. He is ever smiling and apparently getting the best out of life that he can. Even as he talks—and he doesn't say much—his face is wreathed in smiles.

Comes From Texas.

"I'm a long horner," said Mr. Brooks, "having been born in Robertson county, Tex., nearly fifty-one years ago. When little more than eleven years old I got a place as messenger boy for the Western Union company at $8 a month. It was not much money, but I was prouder of that than I am now of my place. After working six months, during which time I studied telegraphy day and night with the aid of the operators, I could send a message, but it took longer to be able to take one. I got over that difficulty, and, though I was a bit slow at first, I picked up enough to do the work when the operator was away, and when I was twelve years old I was a full fledged operator.

"In those days telegraphy was little known away down in my town, and when I walked home at night I remember the neighbors saying: 'There he goes. He can use that darn thing that you can talk through with your fingers.' I tried to explain it to my friends, but they looked upon it as something very mysterious. One day I was showing a friend how it worked, and he got a shock. Of course it did not hurt him, but he never touched another telegraph instrument as long as he lived. He said the devil was in it. I was then operating in Navasota, and from there I went to Waco as manager of the office, and soon after that—to be exact, in 1883—I was married. Then I went to El Paso, thence to Galveston and finally to Denver, where I was made a general manager of the western district until 1890, when I was transferred to New York, and on May 1, 1902, I was made general superintendent of the eastern division, and today the board of directors named me general manager. I am very proud of it, and I owe most of my success to Colonel Robert C. Clowry, our president, whom I have known almost since I became identified with the company.

Felt Responsibility.

"It was on April 1 that I first went to work for the company, but it was no April fool joke. I had to do it, and I did it well. From the first day I felt a responsibility to the company, and the feeling has always been my guiding thought. Work first and play after, but always get enough sleep, has been my motto. I have been a hard worker, and my new responsibility, though far greater than any I have previously assumed, seems no greater than when I first went to work as messenger boy. I am reminded of those days every day I go home, for the first one to greet me is my mother. She is now eighty-three years of age, and we often speak of those days down in Navasota."

Mr. Brooks has four sons—Gerald, Belvidere junior, Bruce and Joseph. Mr. Brooks is a member of the New York Athletic, the Lawyers', Railroad, Columbia Yacht and the Lotos clubs. He lives at 125 Riverside drive, New York.

MINE VICTIMS MUMMIFIED.

Eleven Found In Cherry Works Might Have Come From Egyptian Tombs.

To the amazement of veteran mine inspectors the eleven bodies of miners since last Nov. 13 in the St. Paul mine at Cherry, Ill., and which were recently recovered from the mine were found to be almost perfectly mummified when brought to the surface.

The mummified condition was brought about by the bodies having during the three months been in a part of the mine which was dry and warm, and the bodies were going through a slow process of drying up.

"This is one of the most remarkable incidents of a disaster which has befallen a mine," declared an old mine inspector. "The mummies are in such good preservation that they might have been taken out of the ancient tombs of Egypt."

They were found with their arms stretched forward and face down.

Sponging Silk.

Crushed silk may be smoothed out and restored to something like its original freshness by being sponged with gum arabic water. Sponge on the right side of the silk and when almost dry iron it on the reverse side. Do not use a really hot iron or you will make the silk stiff.

Your Hair is Worth It

John Bigelow.

Lawyer and Statesman, Who Was Born In 1817.

John Bigelow, lawyer, author and publicist, was born at Malden, N. Y., Nov. 25, 1817, and was admitted to the New York bar in 1839. He represented the United States at the court of France in 1864-7.

BRIEFS.

Mr. Clee of the Y. M. C. A. is to talk to the Galahad club of Christ church this evening

William McDoland of Wollaston is on a trip to New York, where he will remain for some time.

The air this morning was sharp and cold, a gentle reminder that winter is still with us.

Thomas E. Grover recently district attorney for Norfolk county, and a prominent member of the Massachusetts bar, died at his home in Canton on Tuesday aged 64 years.

The ice men say they have no interest in cold weather now, for their houses are full and there is no danger of an ice famine the coming summer season.

Rev. George Alexander Strong former rector of Christ church is leading the mid-day Lenten services this week at St. Paul's church, Boston.

The Woman's Guild of St. Crysostom's church holds its monthly missionary meeting tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock in the parish rooms. Lenten sewing will be engaged in.

A talk illustrated by the stereopticon is to be given this evening in First Church chapel by Dr. J. M. Little, under the auspices of the Junior Laymen of the church. Dr. Little will tell of his work among the Labrador fishermen.

Mr. Wrigley, organist at Christ church is to give an organ recital in the church this evening at eight o'clock, assisted by the choirs of the church and of Emmanuel church, Braintree and special soloists.

CHARGES ARE NOT SUSTAINED

Secretary Nagel Exonerates Labor Commissioner Neill

Washington, Feb. 24.—Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor has reached his conclusion7 as to the charges made against Commissioner of Labor Neill by former Special Agent Dawley. While these have not yet been made public, it can be said that they sustain the course of Neill throughout and express the opinion that the charges are without substantial foundation.

Dawley was employed to investigate conditions in the south relative to women and child labor, upon which he made an elaborate report to the bureau. His charges in brief are that Neill changed his data and refused to accept Dawley's conclusions because they did not coincide with his own.

While the department had reasons of its own for refusing to attach much weight to any charges Dawley might make, it was recognized that the affair had its serious aspect, inasmuch as the bureau of labor was publicly assailed and the publicity alone would have a tendency to discredit its reports.

The matter was first taken up when Ormsby McHarg was assistant secretary. McHarg at first was impressed with the stories of Dawley, but after a careful investigation of his own reached the conclusion that the bureau of labor had acted properly with the Dawley report.

The charges were renewed later and Assistant Secretary Cable and Solicitor Earl were ordered to investigate them. They went thoroughly into the case and found that with the exception of Dawley and one other dismissed employe, the testimony of the special agents was unanimous that the instructions of Neill to them had been to get facts and facts only, regardless of whether the disclosures might please local statesmen or not. After a careful review of the evidence, Nagel has decided that the charges are not sustained.

Dawley has figured before in an episode of this kind. He once brought charges against the chief of a bureau in another department and these after investigation were found to be baseless. Washington was much surprised at the published accusations against Neill, as the commissioner of labor is regarded as a conscientious government official.

ACCUSED OF TWO MURDERS

Providence Police Say They Have Ample Evidence Against Trent

Providence, Feb. 24.—Every precaution against his escape was taken by the police when they brought William Trent, alleged murderer and highwayman, before the sixth district court, where he pleaded not guilty to the charges against him.

Joseph B. Dixon, a sailor from Boston, pleaded guilty of being an accomplice to one of the hold-ups charged against Trent and was held without bail for the next session of the grand jury.

When the case comes before the grand jury the police say that the murder of William F. Meagher of Pawtucket and the murder of Louis Mover, a junk dealer, will be charged against Trent. They believe they have evidence enough to convict him.

CUT TO FIVE DOLLARS EACH

Kinsman of Rich New Haven Brewer Sidetracked In His Will

New Haven, Feb. 24.—When the will of Philip Fresenius was offered for probate Wednesday, it was disclosed that he had left his entire estate, valued at $350,000 or more, to his widow, and that brothers and sisters and their children had been cut off with bequests of $5 each.

Had Mrs. Fresenius not been living the $5 bequests were to stand and the estate would have been devised to charitable organizations of the city, with liberal bequests to servants and faithful employes. A contest of the will is predicted.

Fresenius was the head of a brewing concern. He died a few days ago at Hot Springs, Ark.

Cotton Price Falls as Bulls Unload

New York, Feb. 24.—A bad smash in prices occurred on the cotton exchange when the bulls started in to unload the last holdings of what was once a pool of 700,000 bales. The active options fell 37 to 40 points. The drop made a difference of from $1.95 to $2 a bale.

Nothing Wrong With Cruisers

San Francisco, Feb. 24.—Because of repeated rumors of the unseaworthiness of the cruisers West Virginia and Maryland, Rear Admiral Barry sent his flag officer ashore with a statement denying that there is anything seriously wrong with the cruisers.

Grand Trunk Expected to Get Permission to Enter Providence

Providence, Feb. 24.—A favorable report on the petition of the Grand Trunk railroad for permission to enter Providence will be made, it is expected, by the committee of the city council, which has had the matter under consideration.

The committee, after listening to a statement made by E. H. Fitzhugh of Montreal, vice president of the Grand Trunk railroad, voted to request the mayor to call a special meeting of the city council for Saturday. It will take action on the report of the committee in charge of the railroad's petition.

Fitzhugh spoke before the committee at a private hearing. Members of the committee later expressed themselves as well satisfied with the railroad's proposition as explained by him.

HITS BRIDGE COMPANIES

Allds' Counsel May Bring Them to Prosecution on Serious Charge

Albany, Feb. 24.—The first day of Senator Allds' reply to bribery charges made by Senator Conger was less a defense than at attack.

The outline of Allds' case laid before the senate by his attorney, Martin W. Littleton, was an outburst of denunciation and accusation, which, if proved, will lay one of the most important industries in the state open to prosecution for both conspiracy to defraud and legislative corruption.

In striking the bridge companies, Littleton hit Conger, who, with his brothers, once stood high in the councils of the bridge building combine, and still, it is said, retains an interest in that business.

The defense apparently had no reluctance in displaying its hand before producing its proof.

METEORIC CAREER IN HIGH FINANCE

Brought to an End by Jailing of Two Women Crooks

London, Feb. 24.—In the Derby assize court, Violet G. Charlesworth and her mother were each sentenced to five years penal servitude for obtaining money under false pretences and for fraudulently representing that the younger woman was an heiress to a great estate.

Miss Charlesworth disappeared last February after a meteoric career in high finance, in the course of which, on the strength of a mythical fortune of $2,500,000, she borrowed many thousands of dollars.

One brokerage firm alone admitted that she owed it $50,000. She was importuned by her creditors, and then the report was spread that she had been killed while automobiling in Wales.

Investigation proved this to be untrue, and ten days later she was arrested with her mother at Oban, Scotland.

One of the most remarkable features of the girl's career is that she is the daughter of a mechanic and possesses only a limited education, having had absolutely no worldly experience prior to her excursions into high finance.

MRS. GLOVER MADE THREAT

Woman Says She Heard Her Say She Would Kill Husband

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 24.—A big sensation was sprung in the Glover will contest when the lawyers for the contestants called to the stand Mrs. Kate Sampson, an aunt of Hattie Le Blanc, who swore that Mrs. Lillian M. Glover declared to her that she was going to buy a revolver and kill her husband, Clarence F. Glover.

Mrs. Sampson declared that Mrs. Glover made this threat at her home in Waltham last March. She was positive of the month. It was testified by Thomas Coffey, who sold the revolver that killed Glover, and who said the purchaser was a woman of the same characteristics as Mrs. Glover, that the sale was made on March 31.

CENSUS OF OCCUPATIONS

Enmerators Questions Will Apply to Everybody

The "occupation" question in the United States census population schedule to be carried by the enumerators during the Thirteenth Decennial Census, beginning April 15 next, applies to everbody living in the United State on the date mentioned, which is the "Census Day," and all the population schedule questions relate it only.

In its printed instructions to enumerators the Census bureau holds that the occupation followed by a child or a woman is just as important, for census purposes, as the occupation of a man. Therefore the enumerators are told never to take it for granted without inquiry that a woman or child old enough to work has no gainful occupation.

It is pointed out, however, that only gainful occupations are to be reported. By this is meant any employment, work, profession, or vocation by which the person working regularly earns money or its equivalent. The fact that a person has no gainful occupation is to be noted on the schedule. If a person is only temporarily unemployed on account of lack of work, or sickness, or other temporary reason, the occupation which that person usually follows is to be reported.

If a person has two occupations, the enumerator must return only the more important one—that is, the one from which the person gets the more money. If that can not be learned, then he is to return the one at which the person spends the more time. As an illustration, the enumerators are told to return a man as a "farmer" if he gets most of his income from farming, although he may also follow the occupation of a clergyman or preacher; but they must return him as a "clergyman" if he gets more of his income from that occupation.

In the case of a woman doing housework in her own home, wihtout salary or wages, and having no other employment, the entry is to be that she has no occupation. But a woman working at housework for wages should be returned as "housekeeper," "servant," "cook," or "chambermaid," as the case may be, and the entry should state the place where she works, as "private family," "hotel," or "boarding house." Or if a woman, in addition to doing housework in her own home, regularly earns money by some other occupation, whether pursued in her own home or outside, that occupation should be returned. For instance a woman who regularly takes in washing should be reported as"laundress" or "washermowan."

CHILDREN AT WORK.

If any child, of whatever age, is regularly earning money, the employment which he or she follows should be returned as an occupation. This applies also to a child working for his board away from home.

Children or even adults, attending school or college or any educational institution, and following no other employment, should be returned as having no occupation. But if any person is attending school or college and at the same time is regularly earning money at some gainful occupation, the enumerators are to return that occupation. In either case they must indicate the fact of school or college attendance.

Children who work for their parents at home merely on general household work or at odd times on other work are to be reported as having no occupation. But children who materially assist their parents in the performance of other than household work should be reported as having the occupation in which they are so employed, even though they receive no wages. In the case of children who work for their parents on a farm, that fact is to be entered as "home farm." But for children who work as farm laborers for others the enumerator's entry is to be "working out."

EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE.

The Census bureau instructs the census takers that an employer is one who employs helpers, or other than domestic servants, in transacting his own business. The term employer does not include the superintendent, agent, manager, or other persons employed to manage an establishment or business; and it does not include the foreman of a room, the boss of a gang, or the coal miner who hires his helper. All such should be returned as employees, for, while any one of these may employ persons, none of them does so in transacting his own business. Thus no individual working for a corporation either as an officer or otherwise, should be returned as an employer.

A person employing domestic servants in his own home, but not employing any helpers in his business, is not to be considered as an employer. But, on the other hand, a person who is the proprietor of a hotel or boarding house, and employs servants in running that hotel or boarding house, should be returned as an employer, because he employs these servants in his business.

An employee is defined as any person who works for wages or a salary and is subject to the control and direction of an employer. The deciditest is whether the person receives a wage or salary and is subject to another's directions. If so, he is an employee, whether he be president of a large corporation or only a day laborer; whether he be paid in money or in kind; and whether he be employed by his own parent or by another. The term employee does not include lawyers, doctors, and others who render professional services for fees, and who, in their work, are not subject to the control and direction of those whom they serve. It does include actors, professors, and others who are engaged to render professional services for wages or salaries. A domestic servant should always be returned as an employee, even though, as previously explained, the person employing a domestic servant is not always returned as an employer.

OTHER SCHEDULE QUESTIONS.

Person who have a gainful occupation and are neither employers nor employees are considered to be working on their own account. They are the independent workers. They neither pay nor receive salaries or wages. Examples of this class are farmers and the owners of small establishments who do not employ helpers; professional men who work for fees and employ no helpers; newsboys; and, generally speaking, hucksters, peddlers, bootblacks, etc.

It is stated in the instructions that the purpose of the schedule inquiries as to unemployment is to ascertain the measure of enforced unemployment—that is, the extent to which men want work and can not find it.

The schedule question, "home rented or owned," is defined as meaning whether a family owns the home in which it is living or rents it. If a dwelling is occupied by more than one family it is the home of each of them, and the question should be answered with reference to each family.

A home is to be classed as owned if it is owned wholly or in part by the head of th family living in the home or by the wife of the head, or by a son, or a daughter, or other relative living in the same house with the head of the family. It is not necessary that full payment for the property should have been made or that the family should be the sole owner.

Every home not owned, either wholly or in part, by the family living in it or by some member of that family should be classed as rented, whether rent is actually paid or not. All owned homes which are not fully paid for, or upon which there is an incumbrance in the form either of a mortgage or a lien upon which judgment has been had in a court, are to be reported as mortgaged.

The inquiry as to whether the person enumerated is a survivor of the Union or Confederate Army or Navy is to be asked as to all males over 50 years of age who were born in the United States and all foreign-born males who immigrated to this country before 1865.

The inquiry as to blindness applies only when a person is either totally or partially blind in both eyes, so as to be unable to read even with the help of glasses. Only persons who are both deaf and dumb are to be reported under the question "whether deaf and dumb." The question concerning school attendance any time since September 1, 1909, relates only to persons of school age, between 5 and 21 years old. In case any person outside that age limit actually attended school, the fact is to be noted on the schedule.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of th's preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

LOCAL POLICE OUTCLASSED

Cannot Handle Rioters In the Streets of Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Feb. 24.—The police officials of this city virtually acknowledged their inability to cope with the present strike situation when a request was made of John C. Groome, superintendent of the state police, that the 200 members his command be brought to this city for police duty.

This request was made notwithstanding serious rioting was less frequent yesterday than on any day since the strike of the street car men went into effect last Saturday.

The state police will not bear trifling with, and if the strike sympathizers attempt the same liberties with this body of men that they did with the fencibles there will be a serious clash.

The efforts of the police will be directed toward clearing the Kensington district of the mobs which have infested it since the opening of the strike.

For the first time during the present struggle the rapid transit company succeeded in running its cars until 6 o'clock last night on the Frankford line, which penetrates this unruly territory. At that hour cars on all lines were returned to their respective barns.

Four policemen guarded each car on this line, and the pick of the city's detective force patrolled the route all day in automobiles. These men succeeded in restoring a semblance of order where the state fencibles failed ignominiously on the day before. Whenever a group of men formed anywhere on the street the detectives rushed them, and they followed the ringleaders even into houses until they captured them.

Despite vigilance of the police many car windows were broken by missiles thrown from windows, and the company was finally obliged to send its cars along this route with sheet iron windows in place of the usual glass panes.

While the police were busy keeping tracks clear for the lines in Kensington the lines in other parts of the city were run on much reduced schedules, and on down-town lines no attempt was made to run cars all day, although these sections were comparatively quiet. The heart of the city was again the scene of almost continuous disturbances. No one was seriously injured, however.

Close estimates have been made of the loss of life, the injuries to all persons, cars burned and wrecked, windows of cars broken, arrests made and the property and cash losses of the five days of the strike. These estimates show:

Dead, 3; strikers injured, 25; police injured, 50; citizens injured, 300; total injured, 375; cars burned, 7; cars wrecked, 750; car windows broken, 4000; arrests made, 400; loss to company (property), $100,000; loss to company (business), $300,000.

EIGHT HUNDRED KILLED

Great Conflict Which May End the Revolution In Nicaragua

San Juan Del Sur, Nic., Feb. 24.—Reports from Managua say a desperate battle was fought Tuesday at Tisma, in which the revolutionists under General Chamorro were completely defeated.

The government troops were commanded by Julian Irias.

More than 800 are reported dead and wounded on both sides.

Two Maxims were captured by the government forces.

The government declares that this disaster will end the revolution.

All wire communication between this point and Managua ceased at midnight Tuesday night. At that time the wires were cut, evidently at a point near Nadaime, midway between Rivas and Granada.

Fresh Outbreak In Bulgaria

Philippopolis, Bulgaria, Feb. 24.—Serious frontier disturbances are reported in the Tamrush district, and several detachments of troops have been sent to quell the outbreak. In view of the rumored differences between Bulgaria and Turkey, the news has caused considerable excitement.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness, that urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure kidney troubles or they may lead to dropsy or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Residents of this vicinity are constantly testifying to permanent cures.

Richard Smith, South Central avenue, Wollaston, Mass., says: "I suffered from backache and kidney trouble for a long time. I had sharp pains through the small of my back and on arising in the morning I was so stiff and lame that I could hardly help myself. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a supply and in a short time after beginning their use I was relieved. After I had taken the contents of two boxes of this remedy I was in good health and I have had no kidney trouble since. I publish Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this change for the better and I gladly recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

AEROPLANES FOR COAST DEFENSE

Clifford B. Harmon Tells How to Guard American Shores.

NEED FEAR NO HOSTILE FLEET

One Machine Can Carry Enough Explosives to Blow a Fleet of Dreadnoughts to Pieces, Says the Aviator. Incidents of Trip Out to Sea.

"With twenty such master navigators of the air as the Wright brothers, Paulhan, Curtiss and Hamilton," says Clifford B. Harmon of the Aero Club of America, "the United States need fear the approach of no hostile fleet. A single aeroplane can carry enough explosives to blow a fleet to pieces, even a fleet of Dreadnoughts."

Harmon, who is a pilot of the Aero club, owns the spherical balloon New York and holds the American record for length of time spent continuously in the air. With Harmon at the levers the New York stayed in the air 48 hours and 28 minutes. Its owner recently left New York for San Antonio, Tex., where the New York now is, to go after the Labu cup and the world's record for continuous flying.

Bullseye Hit Many Times.

While attending the aviation meet in Los Angeles Harmon first had his attention drawn to the effect aeronautics would have on warfare. Paulhan took him in his aeroplane twenty-six miles out to sea and showed him the terrible ease with which missiles could be dropped on the decks of vessels a thousand feet below.

"Later on," says Harmon, "I witnessed a series of experiments carried on by Captain Beck of the signal corps, stationed at a Golden Gate fort, assisted by Glenn Curtiss. At Los Angeles Curtiss took Beck up 300 feet or more, from which height Beck threw bags of gravel into a square of less than 100 feet marked in broad white lines on the ground beneath. Inside the square was a bullseye ten feet square, and the gravel bags struck this an astonishing number of times."

"How much explosive could be taken up in an aeroplane?"

"Paulhan took me up, extra weight as high as 5,000 feet, and I weigh 185 pounds. He told me he felt able to carry 250 pounds. Now, scientists are constantly making explosives of higher and higher power, and 250 pounds of guncotton can do some little damage.

"Remember also the ease with which the aeroplane can reload. After Paulhan's twenty-six mile flight he came to earth again within ten feet of the place of starting. That means absolute control of the airship by the driver. It means that airships can rise from and return to forts and defenses with little difficulty."

"Will Put a Stop to War."

Harmon was shown a dispatch from Berlin stating that the kaiser and the ministry of war, convinced of the importance of aerial navigation in warfare, had ordered as many military officers as possible to learn to aviate and that Captain Engelhardt, a pupil of Orville Wright, had been directed to form a corps of experts to be distributed through the army.

"Well, it's only natural," said Harmon, "that Germany should realize the importance of the airship quickly with her extensive borders to protect and her ultra military policy. But all nations will come to it sooner or later and in the end, as is plain to see, the battleships of the air will put a stop to war. There can't be much fun for any one concerned when airships tug a ton of dynamite up in the air and drop it plunk on some defenseless town."

"But can't airships be attacked in turn? Can't cannon be turned on them and shot be sent through their apparatus?"

"Not unless the airship is much nearer the earth than a prudent aviator is likely to be at such a time. I recently carried on a series of experiments with my ship, the New York shooting at it from the ground when the airship was going at a fair rate of speed four or five hundred feet up in the air. It was found impossible to make a hit. It is incredibly hard to take and hold aim at a moving object high in the air, and often the shot is spent by the time it reaches the altitude necessary to reach the airship it is aimed at.

"When the airship enters war it will, I think, be found to have every advantage on its side. Not the least thing in its favor is that with a crew of one or two men it can take care of practically thousands."

APPEAL FOR NEW TRIAL

Unexpectedly Granted, It Sends a New York Man to Electric Chair

New York, Feb. 24.—It would have been better for Edward F. McGrath, laborer, if he had not had a second trial. A jury convicted him of murder in the first degree, and he will go to the electric chair.

At his first trial two weeks ago the verdict was murder in the second degree, which means life imprisonment. But as is the usual custom, McGrath's counsel made a motion for a new trial and Justice Goff unexpectedly granted it. He refused to entertain such a motion after the second conviction last evening.

WINSTON CHURCHILL

Selected as the Spokesman For British Government

VETO POWER OF LORDS

Churchill Will Lead Fight to Take Privilege Away From Them

London, Feb. 24.—The Liberal ministry has begun drawing up the bill to limit the veto power of the lords, taking from the upper house all say in financial matters and reducing its deliberations to little more than a mockery. By this bill the government will stand or fall, in the words of Winston Churchill, the spokesman of his party on the veto bill, who has been chosen to draw it up and to lead the fight for its passage. Churchill is one of the strongest Radicals within the Liberal ranks.

Premier Asquith, in the commons, announced that the government will not introduce the Irish home rule bill at this session.

The statement created a sensation, because of the relations between the Nationalists and the Liberals and Asquith's promise of home rule made before the election.

NAVY OFFICER SUES HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW

She Is Charged With Alienating His Wife's Affections

Newport, R. I., Feb. 24.—Charging alienation of his wife's affections, Civil Engineer James W. G. Walker, U. S. N., has brought suit against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Virginia Chinn of Washington. He seeks damages in the sum of $25,000.

Mrs. Walker, who was living with her husband at his quarters at the naval training station here, left their home suddenly, taking with her their four children. A few days later she brought suit for divorce against Walker. The case after several hearings was thrown out of court, the judge saying that Mrs. Walker had no standing in the divorce court of Rhode Island, as she had not gained a residence in this state.

In bringing his action Walker charges that Mrs. Chinn induced his wife to leave him and to bring suit for divorce.

WOMEN OUT IN FORCE

They Hiss and Applaud Speakers at Suffrage Hearing In Boston

Boston, Feb. 24.—Women who hissed and applauded packed the biggest state house hearing room last night, filled Ford hall to overflowing and besieged the state house, over 2500 strong, demanding votes for women. Their counsel, Mrs. Teresa A. Crowley, charged that the hearing had been packed with the foes of woman suffrage.

When Robert Luce, who led the opposition, was speaking, he was hissed because he called women emotional, and amid more hisses he declared that the hisses proved it. When Miss Margaret Dooley was reading a letter of Miss Katherine Conway against votes for women there were hisses.

HOWARD LOSES APPEAL

Soldier Who Caused Wife's Death Must Suffer Life Imprisonment

Boston, Feb. 24.—William C. Howard, the former Fort Rodman soldier, who was convicted early last year of murder in the second degree in connection with the death of Ida Howard, his wife, will now have to go to state prison for life.

The full bench of the supreme court overruled the defendant's exceptions in the case, deciding that there was no error in his trial which would warrant the granting of a new trial.

Negroes to Open Hosiery Mill

Durham, N. C., Feb. 24.—Within the next few weeks a hosiery mill, built by negro labor, with negro capital, to be operated entirely by negro skill, will open business here with a capitalization of $50,000.

Nelson Is Very Much Alive

San Francisco, Feb. 24.—When a report that his condition was serious was telephoned to Battling Nelson at the baths, he said: "I'm the liveliest dead man you ever saw. Feeling first rate."

QUINCY OF YEARS AGO

The Famous Neponset Hotel on Hancock Street, Atlantic

(Historical Paper No. 8.)

A few years after the opening of the Neponset turnpike, the famous Neponset hotel was erected in Quincy by James Brackett, says Pattee's History. The lumber for its construction was brought form the State of Maine. The master-builder was Apollos Clapp of Dorchester. This hotel was opened to receive guests by its landlord, Abraham Pierce of Roxbury, in 1812, by a public dinner.

There having been so much controversy about the time of the opening of the Neponset Hotel in Quincy, we will let the first landlord settle the question by the following public announcement made by him of its first opening, which appears to have been in April, 1812, at the White Oak Grove:

"Neponset Hotel,
At White Oak Grove.

"Abram Pierce tenders his thanks to the numerous and respectable visitants who have favored him with their custom at the Hotel lately kept by him at Roxbury. At the same time he begs leave to inform the ladies and gentlemen of Boston and its vicinity that he has just opened that new, spacious and commodious Hotel at White Oak Grove, being six miles from the Capital, and has laid in a large stock of ice for the ensuing summer, with every convenience to entertain ladies and gentlemen in style.

"He flatters himself that, from the local situation of the place, its proximity to the Capital, the beauty of the road leading thereto, together with the convenience in warm weather of riding from the sun after meridian, will induce many to visit this beautiful place, which nature has so decorated as to leave nothing for art to attempt. It is on the road to Squantum, at the distance of a mile and a half. Those who resort to this ancient seat of amusement, either by land or by water, will find it to their advantage to contract with Mr. Pierce for everything necessary, to be delivered on the spot, conveniently and judiciously arranged. A few gentlemen boarders also may be accommodated.

"N. B. Shell fish of all kinds, as well as every other kind of fish known in our waters, will be received at the shortest notice, as also turtles, whenever they can be bought in the market, and dressed in the best manner."—Columbian Centinal, April 29, 1812.

Among the distinguished invited guests who were present at the opening was President John Adams. The noted Jockey Club of Boston, held their social meetings here from 1812 to 1815. By them was established the one-mile race course on Billings Plain.

We have examined the files of most of the principal newspapers of Boston, during the period of years from 1812 to 1815, to see if we could find out if any other race course was in use at that time in Massachusetts, and have not been able to discover that there was. We have also made extensive inquiries of many persons whom we supposed would be able to give the desired information but have received the same negative response. Therefore we are quite confident that this was the first race course ever established in Massachusetts. Billings Plain was also quite noted for brigade and regimental musters; as it was on this plain that a large number were held during the first half of the last century, commencing as early as 1804.

It would be bounded about as follows, viz:—On the north by Atlantic street; on the east by the tide waters and the Squantum marshes; on the west by Hancock street, and partly on the south by Squantum street. The turf sports were witnesed by a large concourse of people from Quincy, Boston and the neighboring towns. Here were trotted the most celebraed blood horses of that day. This course, however, was of short duration, as the public interest in horse-racing at this time was not sufficient to make it a financial success, and it was discontinued in about three years. Some wo years after, another course was opened in the same locality, but was soon discontinued. Besides the race course the annual Pilgrims' feast at Squantum, in commemoration of the anding of the Pilgrim Fathers, brought a large concourse of people to this hotel on their way to their yearly festival.

The Weekly Messenger of Aug. 28, 1812, had this paragraph:—"The Feast of Squantum was celebrated on Monday last with accustomed hilarity. It is supposed there were from 500 to 600 citizens, from town and country present. Among the invited guests were Gov. Strong, Lt. Gov. Phillips, Mr. Secretary Bradford, Commodore Bainbridge, Rev. Dr. Morse, Hon. Messrs. Fiske, Rice and Bartlett, and many gentlemen from the Southern States. On His Excellency's retiring, an escort was formed, under Maj. Quincy and Capt. Phelps, and marshalled by Mr. William Tileston, and the guests conducted to town, followed by a long train of carriages and chaises. The beautiful outter Washington, John Andrews, Commander, anchored off the Point, and by her repeated and well adapted-firings added much to the pleasure of the day."

In 1828, the officers and crew of the noted United States Frigate Constitution, engaged the entire control of the Neponset House of its landlord for three days, and held a highly enjoyable, convivial and social, although not a very reputable pastime.

Andrew Seaton, in 1817, succeeded Mr. Pierce as landlord. Tilly Witcomb followed in 1818, a noted host of the old Concert Hall of Boston. After Mr. Witcomb, from 1820 to 1822 Joseph Tuttle was its landlord, and was very popular with the guests of this wayside inn, from whence he went to Dorchester, and became the proprietor and host of the old Savin Hill House. In 1825 Mr. Lambart Maynard took possession of this house, where he remained but a short time. The last landlord of this celebrated house was Labian Adams, the father of Oliver Optic and at one time landlord and proprietor of the old Lamb tavern in Boston.

In 1830 Mr. Noah Davis Allen secured the premises as a candle factory. This business lasted but a few years, and, in 1836, Joshua Cushing, of Scituate, purchased the building for a shoe manufactory and dwelling-house. The old dance hall was used at this time by the First Baptist Society of Dorchester on each Sabath, for some time previous to the construction of their meeting-house. The Neponset Hotel was located on the easterly side of Hancock street, about two hundred and fifty or three hundred feet north of where Atlantic street makes its junction with this street. It continued to be occupied by various persons as tenants until August 27, 1858, when it fell a prey to the incendiary's torch.

CENSUS OLD AND NEW.

The first census, taken in 1790, was a simple enumeration of the population of the United States. It filled in large type fifty-six pages of a thin pamphlet with tables which two or three pages of the World Almanac would easily hold. Each copy of the Philadelphia issue was signed by Thomas Jefferson, Secretary of State.

Some surprising changes have since occurrred. North Carolina was then more populous than Massachusetts, and Massachusetts more populous than New York, while Virginia led the list with 60 per cent. more people than Pennsylvania. Brooklyn had fewer people than Newtown or North "Hempstead."

The only mandate for a census in the Constitution is a provision for an "actual enumeration "to be made in such manner as Congress shall direct, to serve as a basis for apportioning "Representatives and direct taxes." If the census soon to be taken, the thirteenth, were to be like the first a mere enumeration of the people, the work could be finished in a few months and printed in a single small volume. Instead, we shall presumably have some 20,000 or more large pages containing not only an enumeration, but such an encylopaedic collection of facts concerning the country as no other nation equals.

Nor could one of these pages well be spared. For while the registry of births, deaths and marriages, the enumeration of paupers and other statistical work is not yet done by all our States with such accuracy as in the chief European countries, the great decennial count does much to supply these omissions, while adding a vast amount of detailed information upon industrial, social and educational progress.

A nation with nearly 110,000,000 people living under or outside of the Constitution, with 250,000 miles of railroad, 25,000 newspapers and other publications, with 20,000,000 children and youth in schools, with a public debt of only $11 per capita and national wealth, of more than $1,000 for each person, which surpasses in total Britain and Germany combined, and with half the people living in their own homes on their own land—the country can easily "look pleasant" for this great decennial photograph of progress and prosperity.

COMMITTEE CALLS FOR PEARY PROOFS

Necessary Preliminary to Giving Explorer a Reward

Washington, Feb. 24.—It is probable that Commander Peary will have to submit proofs of his discovery of the North Pole to the house committee on naval affairs before that committee reports any one of the several bills intended to officially recognize the explorer as the discoverer of the North Pole.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the committee, and the subcommittee having charge of the Peary bills adopted a resolution calling upon the secretary of commerce and labor to submit any official reports made by Peary or any proofs to substantiate his claim.

The position is taken by the subcommittee members that they have no first-hand knowledge that Peary actually reached the Pole, that the several bills introduced in congress are based on "general reports" and that they must have official proof of Peary's achievement before they are willing to approve any legislation rewarding him.

A Small and Complete Dwelling.

Design 821, by Glenn L. Saxton, Architect.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW—FROM A PHOTOGRAPH.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN. SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

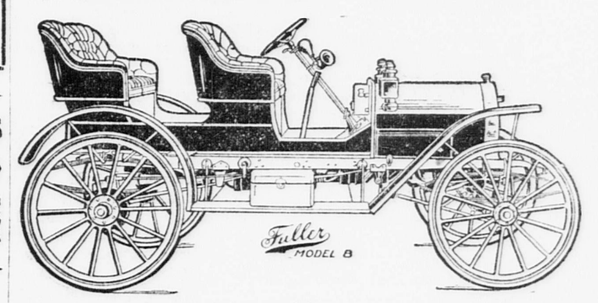

In this small design of a cottage everything is incorporated that goes to make a home complete. The first story has the reception hall opening together with the living room and has a coat closet in passageway between reception hall and kitchen; also a combination stairway leading to the second story from hall and kitchen, with outside grade doors underneath same. Dining room has a projecting bay window. In the second story there are three good sized chambers, besides a large bathroom, good closet space and large linen closet in the bathroom. Balcony over the kitchen extension.

First story nine feet and second story eight feet. Birch floors throughout. Washington fir or birch finish throughout first story and pine to paint in second story. Cost to build, exclusive of plumbing and heating, $2,175. Size, 24 by 26. If one desires the cottage could be built 26 by 28 feet, keeping the rooms in the same proportions, for about $350 additional.

By special arrangement with me the editor of this paper will furnish one complete set of plans and specifications of design No. 821 for $15.

PATRIOTIC ENTERTAINMENT

Atlantic People Enthused by Pleasing Program

An entertainment that increased the patriotism of every one present and made each person proud to live in such a historical spot as Quincy, was given Wednesday night at the Atlantic Memorial church under the direction of the Ladies' Benevolent society, Mrs. Chase Pope being chairman.

Mrs. George H. Brown was unable to be present to read her monologue, but her place was ably filled by Miss Maud Read.

Another pleasing feature of the program was the short biographies prepared and read by Mrs. William F. Cummings which preceded each tableaux of famous American women. That Mr. and Mrs. Briggs' humorous duets were appreciated was shown by the applause and demand for encores, and in fact every number of the entertainment was very delightful. Directly after a Colonial tea was poured and served by the participants of the tableaux.

Ye olde time song in costume, Mrs. A. P. Briggs.

Colonial tableaux, Martha Washington, Mrs. Butler, Betsy Ross, Mrs. Welcome Young.

Reading, Miss Maud Read.

—First we sent missionaries to China—rather solemn gentlemen in black alpaca with hymn books under their arms. Then it became the fashion to send medical missionaries a change which greatly attracted the hard-headed business man. It was very common to hear him say that he wasn't very strong on foreign missionaries, but these medical missionaries—now they were all right! And now the fashion has changed again and the Occident is sending to the Orient the best type of college teacher which it has. The change is very significant. The old missionary was on the fringe of things; crowds chased him off the streets. The new "missionary" holds a strategic position at the centre; he reaches the influential classes—officials, sons of wealthy families, the new generation of native teachers. It is taking us a long time to realize how wide open China is to Western influence. The appointment of University of Chicago men to responsible positions in the Imperial University of Pekin should hasten, this readjustment of our ideas of the Sunflower Kingdom.—Chicago Post.

Quincy High school basket ball quintet got even with Newton High school five Tuesday afternoon at the High school gymnasium for their defeat of a few weeks ago by winning in a fast game by a score of 35 to 17. "Billy" Manning caged the ball ten times from the floor and also landed a foul. Capt. "Russ" Bates threw the leather in five times and got four fouls. These taken into consideration, is it a wonder Newton lost?

I had the pleasure Tuesday P. M. to be invited to the social at the Mohawk club and was agreeably surprised to see such a live group of young couples in attendance. There was an orchestra furnishing up to date music, and dancing was being enjoyed. After becoming acquainted I was made to feel right at home. The floor was cleared and a fine vaudeville show was given by club members in comedy costume. Parodies on popular songs were rendered during the performance and the grand finale of the evening show was a dialogue between a German and a native of Jerusalem. This provoked much applause. The "M. S. G." girls furnished refreshments at intermission and then dancing was enjoyed until 2 o'clock. The Mohawk boys have fine rooms and I look to see them in the limelight a great deal from now out.

No better or searching test could be applied to the products of the country than to meet all rivals in competition for business in an international market and to win them.—Boston Record.

AT NORFOLK DOWNS.

The lowly Braintree of the Old Colony league were unable to get a team together to go to Norfolk Downs Wednesday evening and as a result forfeited all four games to the Downs.

EVENTS AT Y. M. C. A.

Talks, Dinners and a Parents' Night Are Scheduled

A series of meetings are planned for younger boys of the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday mornings, the first on Feb. 26 at 9o'clock. J. A. Whitmore of Boston is the speaker and this will indeed be a rare treat. Three more meetings are on the docket and all have big speakers.

Friday, March 4, a "complimentary dinner" is planned for the older boys of Quincy by the boy's cabinet, and will be one of the events of the year. Roger B. Hull of Yale will be the speaker. The banquet is by invitation only, and all fellows invited will have to reply quickly in order to have a place reserved. Charles Bishop is the chairman of the Committee and is on the hustle.

Sunday March 6, a special meeting for older fellows will be held, Illsy Boone of Newton being the speaker. Mr. Boone knows how to speak to boys and this meeting should not be missed by any boy.

Wednesday March 9, is set aside as "Parents night," and will give a chance for the parents of the boy to see and know what is taking place. Reports will be given by the boys' cabinet, a gymnasium exhibition, music, refreshments and inspection of swimming pool will be the program. This will be one of the big events of the year, and every parent is urged to watch for further announcement.

All the extension clubs are meeting this week as usual.

Sunday afternoon James Taylor of Chelsea will speak to the older fellows, and a big meeting is expected.

WHY NOT REFORM ALL SPORTS?

Running and Rowing as Injurious to Athletes as Football.

GRIDIRON GAME NOT SO BAD.

American Athletes Make Mistake In Specializing In One Branch of Sport, Developing One Set of Muscles at Expense of Others.

Why has football been made the scapegoat of all college sports? College professors and presidents from Maine to Florida and New York to California have all taken a wallop at football. "Revise the rules or abolish the game!" is the cry that echoed and re-echoed from the grammar school teachers and the heads of the largest universities in the country. Was it an earnest effort to save our boys from injuries or was it one of those popular reform fads which from time to time sweep across the country?

Granting that football as played at present is a dangerous game, is the spectacle of a player being carried from the gridiron with an injured arm or leg any more revolting than to see a runner on the track collapse on his face from sheer exhaustion after a race? How about the rowing crews which compete at the four mile races at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Henley, where the oarsmen collapse? Did you ever take into consideration the after effects of athletic training?

Most of the football players who survive this sport which the college professors are attempting to modify or abolish usually turn out to be healthy citizens. What becomes of our runners and track men—the men whose exertions in training and competition develop their heart and lung muscles to an abnormal stage?

Many of them enter offices, and the muscles developed in track work degenerate for lack of proper exercise, and the men are "has beens." Why not let up a bit on football and dig into our entire athletic system—the American system of permitting a boy or young man to specialize in one branch of sport, either straining and tearing his muscles before they are developed, while the athlete is too young, or overdeveloping one set of muscles at the expense of the others?

Isn't there too much disposition on the part of the coaches of our schools and colleges to sacrifice American manhood in order to win points for the school? The schools and colleges demand that coaches turn out winning teams, so if reforms are in order the college professors and presidents can assist in bringing them about.

These college professors needn't devote all of their time to working reforms in football. If they will expend some of their efforts in other branches of sport some alarming discoveries will be made.

CRACK ICE SKATERS TO MEET

Wood, Baptie and Others to Race For Honors at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

What promises to be one of the greatest professional ice skating races ever held in this country will take place at Saranac Lake, N. Y., about the middle of March. All the professionals in America are expected to be on hand to compete in a series of races at all distances up to ten miles.

According to those interested, the plan is to have Morris Wood, Johnny Nilsson, Norval Baptie, Pete Sinnirud and Gib Bellefulle, the greatest professional knights of the steel blade in the land, to meet in a round robin carnival. The winner of these contests is to be called the champion of the United States. A meeting of all the professional cracks of the country in a series of races of this kind will undoubtedly attract widespread attention. While Sinnirud and Bellefulle do not show quite in the class of Wood, Baptie and Nilsson, yet they are strong skaters and force the others hard to keep in the lead.

WEST QUINCY WANTS SOME OF THE 1000 HOUSES

Grand Banquet of Improvement Association Causes an Awakening All Along the Line.

Mayor Shea Advocates Improving the Whole City.

FRANK F. CRANE.

A grand success in every way was the first of the West Quincy Improvement Association. The banquet was held at St. Mary's hall and was attended by a large gathering of representative citizens of the ward, and as a result the association should receive many new members. Aside from the members there were a number of guests. These included Hon. William T. Shea, who is however, a member of the association; Frank F. Crane, Dock and Water Front Commissioner; Representatives L. F. R. Langelier and Thomas; Edwin W. Sheppard, President of the Merchants' Association; F. J. Kessler, president of the Montclair Association; Daniel Maloney, president of the Houghs Neck Association, Rev. C. H. Raupach, pastor of the Hall Place Methodist church; Eugene R. Stone, president of the Board of Trade, and W. Ward Whitcher. Rev. Henry T. Grady pastor of St. Mary's church did not arrive until after the banquet. Senator Hultman was expected but was detained in Boston at the State House by an important meeting of the Ways and Means committee. He however sent a letter of regret.

REPRESENTATIVE LANGLIER.

Supper was served in the lower hall, a little after 7 o'clock, by members of the association. The menu included oyster stew, sandwiches, pickles, coffee, ice cream, cake and cigars. The guests with the officers and members of the press occupied seats at the head table.

The supper was an excellent one, and everybody did full justice to it. Immediately after the supper an adjournment was made to the upper hall. A few minutes was allowed for social intercourse after which the speakers took seats on the platform and the meeting was called to order by Stephen B. Little, president of the association.

President Little welcomed those present and said he was much gratified at seeing so many. He then read part of the rules of the association showing its object and aims, which briefly stated were for the betterment of everything in general in the ward and for the promotion of local business interests. The association, he said, needed the aid of every man in West Quincy. Much can be accomplished by unity. As an incident he citied how during the Civil war the men stood shoulder to shoulder throughout the struggle and what they accomplished was because of unanimity. West Quincy, perhaps, does not contain so many buildings of fine architecture as some sections of the city, but its citizens were all law abiding. We have been represented in state and city affairs and we have men capable of filling any office in the gift of the city. Let us show a solid front. This is the only way we can accomplish anything. To the young men he would say, do not waste too much valuable time in pleasure, but take an interest in matters of local interest, and such an organization as ours will be a splendid school. Let us make West Quincy a bigger, better and prosperous community.

MAYOR SHEA.

was the first speaker, and that he stands firm with the men of his own ward was shown by the prolonged applause that greeted him as he arose to speak. The Mayor said that he was a citizen of Ward Four and a member of the Improvement Association and he was glad of it. We want many things in Ward Four some of which are better streets, sidewalks, sewer and water extensions. He had advocated an appropriation for permanent sidewalks, for he believed it to be good policy. We have not enough permanent sidewalks in Ward Four. The Council is now considering appropriations for sewers and water. People who are about to build houses ask, what about water, but we at City Hall cannot tell them. There should be $40,000 or $50,000 expended for water extensions. If one thousand houses are to be built to accommodate the people who are coming to Quincy, this section of the city should get part of them, but they will not come here unless we can offer them the inducements and facilities found in other sections.

MAYOR SHEA.

I am firm believer in all-night street lighting, and have advocated it before the City Council. Under our present contract, with the lights we now have, we pay $26,200 a year until 1 o'clock. To burn these same lights all night would cost $31,000. Another thing we want is the boulevard connection. We want the appropriation made unconditionally and want it made now. The question of how it will be done can be settled later by men competent to handle those matters. In conclusion the Mayor said let us go out to improve the whole city, and in so doing we improve our own ward, but we want to get a share of what is going.

REV. HENRY T. GRADY

when introduced, was also received with rounds of applause. In fact all of the speakers were freely applauded. He said the question of improvement associations has become quite common and it seemed to him the danger in them would come from the great number of them. He would propose a great degree of unity and perseverance as it will come to the survival of the fittest. If you persevere you will win, and he would extend to the association his best wishes and contribution of labor and finance. He was fully convinced of the good that would come from them.

We have heard about permanent sidewalks, but his point of view was that we needed some physical connection with Boston. That appeared to him to be a necessity. The idea of West Quincy people being dumped out at East Milton. Something should be done to connect with the line to Boston. When we want anything of these corporations we should go knocking at their door and keep knocking until we get that we want. We are not asking for favors but for our rights. We ought to have a new station at West

MORE CONTRACTS IN SIGHT

Quincy Should Build New U. S. Battleship.

More work is in sight for the Quincy shipyard, as will be seen by the Washington dispatch of Thursday to the Boston Globe:

From an authentic source it was learned to day that the following is the probable program for naval increase for the coming year as it will be reported by the house committee on naval affairs:

Two 28,000-ton battleships, costing $11,000,000 each; one repair vessel, two large naval colliers, five submarines and three destroyers.

This list represents an increase above the recommendations of Secretary Meyer, but it is understood that when the secretary appears before the committee Saturday he will urge these additional recommendations.

The committee reached a tentative conclusion today to recommend the building of 28,000-ton battleships instead of 26,000 as heretofore agreed. Some members favored 30,000-ton ships.

LABRADOR WORK.

An interesting lecture was given at the First church chapel Thursday evening under the auspices of the Junior laymen, a boys' club of the church, by Dr. John M. Little of Boston. Dr. Little's address was on the settlement and hospital work of Dr. Grenfell in Labrador. He was with Dr. Grenfell for three summers and is one of the trained medical men who have gone to work among the fisherfolk of Labrador. He was thoroughly conversant with his subject, which was illustrated with numerous stereopticon views.

GRAND ORGAN RECITAL

Two Choirs and Two Soloists Assist in Program.

Christ church was filled on Thursday evening at the organ recital given by Professor Frank Wrigley, assisted by the men's choir of Christ church, the girls choir of Emmanuel church of Braintree, and two soloists, Mrs. E. H. Cooper and Mr. C. L. Green.

The presentation of such a varied program on the organ made the people of the church proud not only of their organist but of the organ itself, for under the master hand of Prof. Wrigley it was all grand.

The vocal numbers also added variety to the program, the processional and recessional being always pleasing. The solo number by Mr. Green, and the Psalm number, in which Mrs. Cooper and Mr. Green were assisted by the choirs, at any other place would have been enthusiastically applauded.

The offertory went toward music for the choir, and while it was being taken F. Wrigley, Jr., played with credit "Pedal offertoire," and promises to rival his father in years to come.

The program was as follows:

Processional Hymn, Number 81
Overture, Occasional Oratorio" Handel
Venezia Bereni
Andantino D Flat Lemare
Solo, Choral and Sanctus "A New Heaven and a new Earth" "Holy City" Gaul
Choirs and Mr. C. L. Green

HONESTY IN EVERYTHING

The San Francisco Chronicle prints thirty-two reasons why living costs are high. Thirty-one would be enough.

The Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth street horse car line in New York is for sale. It ought to bring $1.65 if they'll fling in the harnesses.

It would seem as though Philadelphia was misnamed for just at present it is anything but a city of "brotherly love."

Boston will not need any fireworks this Fourth of July for it is to have a big gun as a guest, President Taft having consented to address the Boston Educational association.

Quincy is not the only place needing more school accommodations for the cry of the hour in most every American city is "More school buildings needed." It is becoming a problem.

They have a pretty good way of doing things down in Gloucester. Last week a Boston firm agreed to locate there if the merchants could raise $12,000 before Wednesday. This was done and a shoe plant with over $50,000 worth of machinery is assured also the employment of 500 Gloucester people.

Must sentiment give way to commercialism? Considerable opposition developed today in Boston at the hearing to change the name of Court street to State. Court street was named in 1788 and previous to that was known as Queen street. The change is asked by the banking interests of State street as they think it will increase business if it bears the name of Boston's "Wall street" otherwise known as State street.

CORPORATION TAXES.

"Corporation Law" was the subject of an educational address by Ex-City Solicitor William R. Thomas of Quincy this week at the Brockton Board of Trade. The Enterprise says, Mr. Thomas was greeted by a number of business men and other members of the Board of Trade and their guests. A result of his advocacy of a law to give towns and cities the full benefits of taxes on corporations doing business in those communities instead of dividing the revenue between the town where the business is done and the town or city where the stockholders may reside was a vote by the Board of Trade to have its legislative committee attend a hearing and favor a bill now before the legislature calling for the adoption of the new corporation tax law as explained by Mr. Thomas.

The present system of dividing the tax money, Mr. Thomas said, is wrong. He pointed out that great as has been the benefit to the city of Quincy of the location of the Fore River Ship Building Works there, the city had at the outset to meet the coming of the great plant with the building of new streets and the making over of old streets, extend its sewer and water mains and fire alarm system, and add extra day and night police. All these things were at an expense of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. New residences sprung up, Mr. Thomas pointd out, giving increased valuation, but there were fixed additional increases in public expense.

"Now I argue in all fairness that the community which bears these burdens should be allowed the benefits," said Mr. Thomas, "not alone those derived from the tax on the real estate and machinery of the corporation and the increased valuation due to the construction of new dwellings, but that the town or city is entitled to every advantage that follows the corporation, and the right to retain the franchise tax is one of them."

Mr. Thomas at some length detailed how capital outside of New England or perhaps outside of some city and still located in Massachusetts gets the benefits from corporation profits while the town or city in which the industry is located does not get even a bit of tax money off the capital invested, or off the business outside of that allowed by the present law for a tax on the bare real-estate and machinery in the factory.

ALL MEMBERS PRESENT

At Meeting of New Directors of the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A., directors met last night for their monthly meeting. It was the occasion of the first full meeting of the board since the new advisory directors were elected and it was celebrated by a complimentary dinner given by Theophilus King.

One of the most interesting features of the affair was that every man was present, 25 in all. When the common difficulties in getting a body of busy business men together are considered, it would seem to indicate a vital interest in the work and in the new move of enlarging the board.

After the dinner was over informal words of welcome were given by Mr. King, President Chase, General Secretary Gay and several members of the board, and responses were made by all of the new men. After speech making was over the business meeting was called, and reports of the various departments were listened to with much interest.

The reports summed up showed healthy and progressive work being accomplished along wide and diversified lines. The membership numbers 472, which is the largest for any corresponding month since the work was started. The work in the gymnasium and that of the boys' department showed splendid progress and efficiency. The completion of the swimming pool was said to be near at hand, and of attractive qualities for young men and boys. After singing "Bless be the tie that binds," the meeting adjourned, all feeling pleased with the results of the two hours spent.

Those present were: A. D. Albee, H. B. Bailey, C. W. Bailey, G. H. Brown, W. F. Blake, R. D. Chase, F. W. Crane, W. F. Cummings, J. A. Dasha, H. M. Faxon, Alex Falconer, Thos. Fenno, G. W. Gragg, C. A. Hobart, T. King, D. King, Dr. E. R. Johnson, A. N. Murray, N. G. Nickerson, J. L. Miller, Dr. D. B. Reardon, W. G. Shaw, J. A. Sedgwick, J. A. Sparrow, G. A. Sidelinger, and the executive officers, E. G. Gay, C. M. Gifford and L. H. Clee.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The most popular operas of Director Russell's repertoire will be presented at the Boston Opera House next week. "Madama Butterfly" will be sung on Monday evening at 8.00 with Alice Nielsen in the role of Butterfly and Christian Hansen as Pinkerton. On Wednesday evening at 7.45 "Mefistofele" will be repeated with Constantino, Nielsen, Mardones and Boninsegna, in the principal roles. Arnaldo Conti will conduct. Delibes beautiful opera "Lakme" will be given on Friday evening at 8.00. This will be the last preformance of this opera this season. Lydia Lipkowska will sing "Lakme" with Paul Bourrillon as Gerald. The second performance of Les Huguenots will be given Saturday afternoon, with the same cast as on the first performance. Constantino will be Raoul de Nangis which is one of his most famous roles. Saturday evening at 7.45 "Faust" will be presented with Paul Bourrillon in the title role and Alice Nielsen as Marguerite. Mephistopheles will be sung by Nivette and Baklanoff will be Valentine, Wagner will be sung by Vanni. Jeska Swartz will be the Siebel and Elvira Leveroni the Marthe. Wallace Goodrich will conduct.

WE MUST HAVE HUSBANDS.

Cleveland Girl Asked Speaker Cannon to Make Congress Provide Them.

People all over the United States write to Speaker Cannon about everything. But the prize package in the way of a request dropped in on Uncle Joe in the form of a perfectly respectable looking letter the other day. Here it is:

Our beaux cannot marry we girls because all foods and clothing is too high. What good is us girls if we do not have husbands? Why don't you make congress provide husbands for us? You will do the country more good by seeing that all the young people are married. If all the young people were married we would not need any congress or president. This world would then be a paradise. We must have husbands. Get some for us.

For reasons of the most profound delicacy the girl's name is omitted, but the letter is postmarked Cleveland, O.

How The United States Government Could Make Better Use of Its System and Change the Big Postal Deficit Into Profit—Canada's Great Surplus Cited as an Example.

By JOHN BRISBEN WALKER.

WHILE the German postal service is carrying packages for one-third of a cent a pound, transporting them, if necessary, from one end of Germany to the farthermost town in Austria-Hungary, carrying all sorts of parcels up to a hundred pound trunk, the president of the United States in his message to congress and the postmaster general in his annual report are arousing the attention of the country to a loss of $8,000,000 per annum incurred in transporting periodicals at 1 cent a pound.

The actual cost of these periodicals has been accurately measured by the postmaster general down to the one thousandth part of a cent. He says that for each pound of one cent mail carried the government is put to an expense of 9.235 cents.

If any one suggests that Germany and Austria-Hungary and nearly nearly all the countries of Europe are carrying parcels at a fraction of a cent per pound, the United States post office department retorts that they are all small countries, thickly populated But Canada is a country as wide as ours and sparsely populated. While we have been losing 8.235 cents per pound on periodical mail Canada found that her profits on such mail at one half cent a pound were excessive. Accordingly the rate was reduced to one-quarter of a cent per pound, and at this price the government report for the postal year ended March 31, 1909 shows a surplus of $800,237.53.

JOHN BRISBEN WALKER.

Producer and Consumer Kept Apar

I shall undertake to show by a comparison of accepted facts and figures that our whole system is blundering and worse, and that the suffering caused by our failure to adopt the methods employed by not merely one but by many European countries is a governmental crime of monumental proportions.

Instead of the butter and cheese producer being able to ship directly to the user, as in Germany, in refusing a parcels post we have put the whole army of American consumers into the power of all sorts of combinations that pay the lowest price to the producer and seem to be able to charge any sum to those compelled to buy.

So flagrant has this system become that in the early months of 1910 the high prices of food are ascribed as forcing 3,000 children out of the public schools of Brooklyn to help support their households by child labor.

Fruit in the orchards of New York state has been permitted to rot on the ground because the express charges and the middleman's charges would not leave the cost of packing for the horticulturist.

Cheap Railway Transportation.

Here are a few simple facts to be kept in mind:

First.—In the United States our railways have been able to ship freight for one-fifth of a cent per ton per mile. I believe no European country has been able to equal this cheap rail transportation As the cost per ton per mile forms the basis for all kinds of freight carried, I would seem that we have a primary advantage.

Second.—The transportation of parcels is like the carrying of letters. It is governed by the law of averages. There are some letters carried by the United States into difficult regions which must cost the government $5 apiece. But as the price demanded for hauling letters is regulated by the average haul, so the price for carrying parcels must be based upon the same law.

Third.—The average express haul today is less than thirty-eight miles. This is because trade is largely carried on with those living near by.

Fourth.—If the government carried parcels at even 1 cent a pound it would get the hundreds of millions of packages sent out by the great dry goods houses. This would probably reduce the average haul to twenty miles or less.

Fifth.—The United States government is already equipped with more than 60,000 completely organized stations. These have their managers and clerks, their rentals heat and light, their detective and legal services already paid for. To handle parcels would cost nothing additional in tens of thousands of postoffices except the wagon haul in the locality.

Sixth.—Is it possible to conceive of any business men taking part in operating private express companies if the government were to make use of this farreaching and costly machinery?

Seventh.—The government is spending more than $32,000,000 annually on a country delivery service when the postmaster general reports a cost of only twenty-five pounds per trip per wagon. Each of these wagons could carry from 500 to 700 pounds per daily trip each way. At 1 cent a pound this service, instead of being conducted at an almost total loss, as now, would be clearing tens of millions The wagon that now carries only twenty-five pounds, loaded each way with 500 pounds at 1 cent a pound, would bring in $10 a day additional.

Finally, at what price will experts agree to move parcels twenty miles? No; let us make the figure large enough and say 50 miles. With offices and managers and clerks all provided, what would it cost to carry parcels this average distance and then deliver them by carriers or in wagons?

With all the facts and figures before him any able business man who could be put in possession of the vast machinery of the postoffice, with only its present deficiency of $18,000,000 to make up, would know how to fix a figure well within a cent a pound a which he would feel certain of profitably handling the average parcel.

In a recent communication to the New York Evening Post Don Seitz the manager of the New York World said:

If congress will repeal its act of monopoly under which the postoffice exercise the right to tax as it pleases I will engage within thirty days to establish a delivery service for mail matter that would put the government out of business by it celerity and economy.

What, then, is the matter? Why should Canada clear $800,237.53 a year while carrying periodicals over its vast and sparsely settled territories, while the United States is unable to make a profit even if it charged thirty-two times as much as Canada—so our postmaster general asserts—in fact, has a deficiency of $18,000,000 while charging upon merchandise sixty-four times as much as Canada charges for periodicals, or 3,000 per cent more than Germany charges for carrying parcels?

More than twelve years ago I called upon Mr. Wanamaker, the then postmaster general, in Washington regarding a postal parcels system. "There are four insuperable obstacles," he said when asked why we could not have what England and Germany had I looked surprised, and he explained "The first is the Adams Express company, the second is the American Express company, the third is the Wells Fargo Express company, and the fourth is the United States Express company."

That was a recognition of conditions which every citizen must make if he studies the facts.

Millions Lost to the Public.

The Wells Fargo Express company recently declared a 300 per cent dividend But its stock and that of all the express companies is a small drop in the bucket compared with the losses to the American people through a cumbrous and unscientific system of parcels delivery. My own impression is that $800,000,000 would not cover the direct loss, while the evils arising from the system cannot be measured.

What price should the government charge for parcels deliveries? I am firmly of the opinion that eventually the government will realize that the rate charged in Germany—one-third of a cent a pound—will be found sufficient. But for the present I would urge the passage of a law making 1 cent a pound the rate for all merchandise, books and periodicals—putting all into one class—and accepting packages up to 200 pounds weight.

A price of 1 cent a pound would be sufficient. If the government offered a service at a cent a pound for parcels up to 200 pounds it would almost undoubtedly take over the hundreds of millions of parcels sent out by the great dry goods stores, and as the average haul for these is less than five miles it seems not improbable that the average haul for the United States would from this cause be reduced to fifteen or twenty miles.

What would be the cost of delivering parcels with an average haul of but twenty miles? If one had the contract at half a cent a pound, starting with the use of government offices and officials, he could quickly pile up a fortune that would make Harriman's look small.

But the matter need not require discussion. It could quickly be determined by six months' experimental work under the direction of disinterested men of intelligence and integrity. But let us suppose that the average haul, instead of being only twenty miles or fifty miles, should prove to be 500 miles or 1,000 miles. Who would claim that 1 cent a pound would not be ample?

The New York World ships its daily papers to Buffalo at a cost of one-half a cent a pound by express. The government rate is so high that the postal service, equipped to do all this business without additional cost, gives it over to the express companies, just as it does seven-tenths of the news company business and all of the book business of the country, the express companies always bidding under the government's price, all this business of millions of dollars lost to a plant equipped to take care of it, with men under pay to do the work, because United States senators devise legislation to give it into the hands of the express companies.

One thing does not require any experience. We know that more than $32,000,000 is being expended annually to provide wagons making country deliveries. The postmaster general says they now carry an average of but twenty-five pounds. Each of these could handle 500 pounds and with a second horse, at 50 cents a day, 1,200 pounds.

Big Increase In Deliveries.

The farmers along these country delivery routes suffer the greatest inconvenience and loss because they cannot send into town their butter and eggs and cannot receive back the merchandise which they are constantly needing. If a parcel rate of 1 cent a pound were established these country delivery wagons would be loaded to the limit. Immediately, instead of twenty-five pounds delivered, there would be 525 pounds carried each way, which would mean $10 a day additional profit on each for the government.

The only condition comparable to the absurdity of the government operating a $32,000,000 country delivery service and then making a prohibitory sixteen cent rate for parcels, so that the wagons should travel empty, would be for some big department store to operate a hundred wagons in New York solely for the purpose of delivering kid gloves, whether there are any sales of kid gloves or not, while his deliveries of other merchandise were being held back to his own loss and the public's discomfort.

But by far the most costly part of all this betrayal of the people's interests is not the dividends of the express companies, but in the combinations in restraint of trade made possible by the lack of means for connecting the consumer directly with the producer and the vast loss to commerce by the costly and cumbrous channels into which it is forced.

Why Articles Cost More.

The only cheap transportation today is in bulk. This puts it out of the power of the consumer to secure his food supplies in any way except through combinations formed for the purpose of squeezing the last cent from those compelled to buy. The consumer and the little storekeeper are completely at the mercy of these combinations. As a consequence milk that on the farm fifty miles from New York sells for 3½ cents per quart is given out by the combination, with part of the cream removed, for 9 cents in New York.

A cent a pound rate would break these combinations in a month. Every man would have it in his power to get into direct touch with the producer who must now let his fruit and vegetables rot on the ground or accept the cut rates of the combinations.

What is the answer? There is but one. Buy out the express companies at any price. Their most extravagant capitalization in total would not equal the sum which the country loses in a single year by the present vicious system of distribution. Then put the ablest experts in transportation and delivery of merchandise at work to devise a system for handling parcels at the minimum of labor and expense.

To Study Pellagra.

TONIGHT'S ENTERTAINMENT.

From the present indications there will be a large audience at the Music hall tonight when Henry Ellsworth delivers his intensely interesting pictorial reproduction of "Oberammergau". It is more like a "heart to heart" talk in relating his own personal experiences during ten summers in the famous Bavarian hamlet, than anything else, and his description of the quaint little village that nestles beneath the shadow of the Kofal Cross that perpetual reminder of their duty to devotions that seems to watch over the inhabitants of the little hamlet, has attracted vast audiences to the theatre and the auditorium to hear and see these wonderful views. The principal performers are introduced separately, and also in their daily vocation. Some of them are shown at the tub, the carving bench, in the harvest field, and other and varied vocations. Then follows every scene and tableaux of the Passion Play, from the entrance of the chorus at 8.00 a.m. to the finale at 6.00 p.m., and the realism displayed by Mr. Ellsworth in his collection of views is interesting indeed. Mr. Ellsworth appears under the auspices of the Quincy F. O. E.

Mistress—"Did you ask for milk bread?"

Domestic—"Yes, mum."

"What a miserable little loaf they gave you!"

"Yes, mum; it's my opinion mum, that that baker is using condinsed milk."

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

ON WAY BACK TO CAMBRIDGE

Coleman Will Give Himself Into Custody of Police

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 25.—George W. Coleman, the $12 per week bookkeeper who stole $144,0000 from the National City bank of Cambridge and disappeared when discovery impended, will, according to the Cambridge police, give himself into custody today.

"We know where Coleman is and he will be in our charge inside of twenty-four hours," said Captain Hurley, head of the Cambridge detective bureau, last night. "The young man is not in Boston, but he is not a great distance away."

Former Governor Bates, as receiver, with Ellis S. Pepper, national bank examiner, and the directors of the bank are making an investigation of the books, and expert accountants are at work bringing Coleman's trial balance up to date.

Mrs. Margaret Taylor, a divorcee, with whom Coleman was very friendly, is missing from her home, and her family profess ignorance of her whereabouts. The authorities would like to interview her in the hope that she might cast some light on the methods used by Coleman in looting the bank.

Coleman, who is only 25 years old, had been in the employ of the bank for five years. He is also treasurer of the Kissell Kar company, Boston, which had an account in the bank, and it is through this account, as well as through an account that he himself carried, that it is claimed he was able to juggle the books and get away with the large amount of money, and all within a period of about two years.

That the bank lost the money by a simple process of addition is apparent in the examples of bookkkeeping which have been laid before Bates. Coleman was the only employe who entered items on the books, and also, it is stated, the only attache of the bank who did not handle any of the bank's money.

A short time ago the directors decided to inject new blood into the institution and elected Charles G. Bancroft of Cambridge and Joseph H. Goddard as directors in the hope that some method might be devised of increasing the deposits, which then appeared on the books to amount to about $127,000.

After a study of the condition of the bank the directors decided that the bank had been losing patronage to such an extent that its sale to another institution seemed advisable and the officers of the Harvard Trust company of Cambridge were approached with the proposition.

William A. Bullard, president of the trust company, after a talk with the directors upon the terms of which a purchase could be made, asked how much was due to depositors. Coleman's figures showed approximately $116,000. Bullard stated that he would make an examination of the books to verify the figures. This examination was held Saturday afternoon and the exposure followed.

George W. Coleman is the son of Walter Coleman, a coal dealer of Cambridge. He lived with his parents, but for the past three months had been home but little. He is a well-known figure in the expensive cafes about Boston and is noted for his lavish entertainments to young women.

BRYAN AND COOK MEET

Their Greeting In Chile Said to Have Been of Chilly Character

Andes, Chile, Feb. 25.—William J. Bryan and Dr. Frederick A. Cook, both of whom have figured in the public prints, arrived here Thursday. They came from Santiago, Bryan being accompanied by his wife and daughter, and Cook by his wife. It is said that their meeting in Chile was extremely so, but that they found time to think deeply upon the irony of fate.

The "Great Commoner" did not linger long here, but proceeded to cross the mountains on his way to Buenos Ayres. The "Great Explorer" was not in so much of a hurry, but will remain here till Sunday, and then will follow Bryan.

BANQUET

Quincy. It is our right to have it. It is all out of proportion to the amount received in fares. The residential property should be developed, so that West Quincy may get a part of those one thousand houses. He wanted to help along the good work rather than to advance any ideas of his own.

REPRESENTATIVE LANGELIER

said improvement associations were getting very popular, but he found that many had failed because the members had disagreed. He hoped that it would not happen to this association. We should take an interest in local political questions, and put up men who will look after our interests. There were many desirable citizens who were inclined to lay back and let the other fellow do it. When you want certain improvements it was up to the association to kick for it and kick hard. His experience in the Legislature had shown him that at hearings where citizens were largely represented, and appeared in unity, they were the ones who got what they wanted.

REV. C. H. RAUPACH

wanted to offer a word of personal appreciation, that the association had included the ministers at this meeting. Many believe that there are three classes, men, women and ministers, and the ministers are left out. We are men and we try to be ministers. We are interested in your job and can perhaps help you solve the problems. He was an optimist. Improvements are in the air. We are going for better things. We must keep up with the procession, or be left behind, and we want to be at the head of the procession. We can not tell how big a man is by his name. This society can do many things along the lines for which it stands. The granite industry is not what it was, and it will be necessary to bring in new industries. If we never do any more than agitate these things they will be of benefit to us.

C. R. STONE.

We are proud to have the Mayor a resident of this ward. A few of you luke warm Democrats helped us Republicans put him there. He can not do everything. We must stand together and say what we want and he will be glad to give it to us. He believed one way we could help our city was to stand by our local traders. There was a great tendency to run to Boston. Let us stand by our traders, and in helping them we help the community in which we live.

W. WARD WHITCHER

of Atlantic made one of his characteristic addresses, and anyone who has ever heard him speak need not be reminded that it was a good one. His theme was education of the common mind. More people should attend the Council meetings and see how our representatives vote. I have got one representative and you have one that ought to be ashamed of themselves. HePW then spoke of the magnificent public library we had in Quincy and of the branch libraries that had been established by the town of Milton. In Milton the circulation of the main library had more than doubled since the branch libraries had been established. We can learn a lesson from them. Mr. Whitcher introduced several stories in the course of his remarks to better illustrate the points he desired to bring out, and in closing he told them to keep on kicking until they got what they wanted.

REPRESENTATIVE THOMAS

spoke of the recent hearing on the appropriation of $225,000 for connecting the two boulevards. Quincy was not represented at that hearing. There was a division of opinion. He was proud that Ward Four had the best representation and that they knew what they were talking about. Those that opposed the bill were honest but misguided. Other localities seeking legislation always appeared as a unit. In view of the fact that the Metropolitan board did not recofmend any appropriation this year for boulevards his hearers could understand what he was up against in trying to get the bill through when the citizens were not a unit. Our chances are slight but he intended to fight for it to the last ditch. Mr. Thomas then explained at length the working of the corporation franchise tax.

At this point the speaking was interspersed with a song by Andrew Dinnegan.

DANIEL MALONEY

president of the Houghs Neck associates, wished the West Quincy association all kinds of success. He told what his association had accomplished for Houghs Neck by working together. This season they were after a public landing and a sewer. We want to improve the beach so that it will be what Revere and Nantasket beaches now are. Work harmoniously together for what you want. He believed that if Houghs Neck was changed to Quincy Cape it would be bereft of the black eye that had been given it in the past.

JOHN EVANS.

EUGENE R. STONE.

president of the Board of Trade, complimented the association on the success of its banquet, and then spoke of the boulevard bill. He never hated worse to do anything then he did to oppose that bill. I did not want that bill to pass until the question of grade crossings was settled. For that reasan, and that only I opposed the bill at the hearing. I do not think they should be connected until this is settled. The $225,000 should be expended to bring these two boulevards together but I want to see the road put where it belongs. We should not give a great corporation rights to ruin our streets. It will do no harm to wait a year and then this question will be settled. I do not stand for a corporation but for the people.

EBEN W. SHEPPARD

president of the Merchants Association, told of the objects of his association which was to encourage home trade. Our idea is to get the retail merchants together and rub shoulders. If you will trade at home our stores will do as well by you as Boston, and it will encourage the storekeepers to carry better stocks.

FREDERICK J. KESSLER.

president of the Montclair association brought the greetings of that association and told of the work they were doing and what they hoped to accomplish.

FRANK FESSENDEN CRANE.

Dock and Water Front commissioner, was introduced as one who had attended all the water way conventions at Washington. Mr. Crane said that he was a waterway man in a waterway hall owned by a water way association, as the guest of an improvement association, and therefore felt entirely at home. He wanted the association to ask him to come and talk to them at some future time and tell them something of what he knew about canals. He wished to thank them for their hearty welcome and generous entertainment. He then congratulated the association in having as one of its members a man who had identified himself with one of the great progressive movements of the day, and one whose name was known in every state and territory of the union as a believer in cheap transportation by water as a means of economy in living for all the people of the United States, the Hon. William T. Shea, whom he had the honor to represent at all the great water way conventions. The only other Massachusetts cities represented were Lynn and Springfield. His Honor is the first man to have Quincy represented since the days of President John Quincy Adams in 1823, who spoke at the first water ways convention ever held in the United States, which was held at Washington, and later in 1828 as President of the United States dug the first shovelful of earth to excavate for the Chesapeake and Ohio canal. I want you to remember gentlemen that when the Boston to Narragansett Bay canal is spoken of that it is not alone, but a part of a great waterway system already built and carrying vessels of certin draft along the whole Atlantic seaboard.

Mr. Crane sat down at this point but the audience demanded more, and it was voted that he be given ten minutes more, which he took up in explaining by a map on the wall the different canals and the proposed Brockton canal.

Councilman Whiton came in while Mr. Crane was speaking and later was introduced. Mr. Whiton spoke briefly and was followed by James H. Elcock, James F. Burke and other members of the Ward Four Association. John Evans was chairman of the banquet committee.

WHY QUINCY CELEBRATES

Big Contract Secured and More Coming.

"We've got them coming," that's why Quincy should celebrate!

A $22,000,000 contract secured from the Argentine Republic.

A $500,000 contract secured for the Italian navy.

A $500,000 contract secured for a steamer in the Cuban trade.

And a large contract probable for Uncle Sam before many months.

Let the small boys get out their horns next Tuesday, and the girls their flags and be prepared to give President Bowles an enthusiastic welcome back to Quincy. It is not alone a compliment to the head of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, but to the company itself, and all who are turning out such good work at our shipyard as to attract the attention of the world. Indeed we are honoring Quincy with a celebration such as is proposed.

Let the eagle scream! Let us have a Fourth of July time in March! The program as planned includes the decoration of the business houses in City Square, the ringing of church bells, a cannon salute, a band concert for an hour in City Square, a salute from the quarry whistles similar to the one given because of the victory at Santiago, a parade from the depot to Alpha hall, a grand reception with music in the hall, and later a grand banquet at Music hall.

CANDIDATE STUDLEY

Has Held Many Responsible Positions and Favorably Known

Harry G. Studley who tied a Democrat for councilman from Ward Two at the recent municipal election, and who is running at the special election as a Republican Independent, was born in Cohasset, Aug. 28, 1871, and received his education in the public schools of his native town. Leaving school he entered the employ of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co., where he learned the machinist trade. He then began steam yachting, serving an apprenticeship in the engine room until he was able to pass the examination which gave him a license for a chief engineer, which enables him to run any size steamship. For five years he was the chief engineer of the steamer Cape Cod. He then entered the employ of the Electric Boat Co., at the Fore River shipyard where he is employed as chief engineer of the yacht Starling, which is used to convoy the submarines on their trial trips.

He is a member of Delta Masonic lodge of Braintree and a 32d degree Mason of the Essex consistory, also a member of Aleppo Temple of Shriners. Aside from this he is a member of the Marine Engineers Association, Yacht Masters and Engineers Association of America, the Pilgrim Monument Association of Provincetown, and the Washington Social club of Quincy Point. He has been a resident of Quincy Point for the past four years.

A QUINCY CELEBRATION

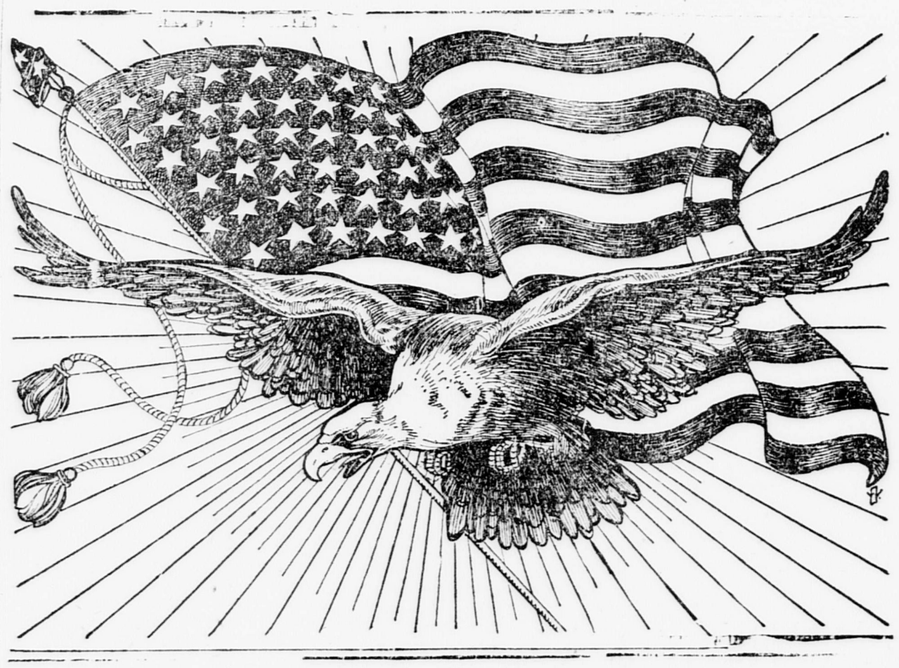

Quincy is, this week, celebrating the Fore River Co. receiving two big contracts.

We want every woman in Quincy and surrounding towns to order their EASTER SUIT of us. They will then have a chance to celebrate, for we offer custom-made suits this week at prices much lower than ever offered in this city before. Remmber you run no risk, for we guarantee everything to be perfect in fashion, fit and finish.

We want you to know that we take particular pride in our business and add anything that we think interests our patrons. We now keep open every evening (Wednesday excepted,) and give LEGAL STAMPS on all purchases.

Miss Marjorie Gould.

Daughter of George Gould, Engaged to Marry an American.

Miss Marjorie Gould, daughter of George J. Gould and one of America's greatest heiresses, rejected several offers of titles and will marry Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., member of the old Philadelphia family. Miss Gould is in her twentieth year.

BRIEFS.

The Ladies Aid of the Washington Street Congregational church has completed all arrangements for their fair next week.

The musical selections at the Wollaston Congregational church Sunday morning will include "Be glad and rejoice" by Foster, and "My Lord and I" by Little.

"A Double Deception" is a bright little play, that ought to draw out the full membership of the Young Women's club tomorrow evening at the clubhouse. Good music will be an added attraction.

The funeral of Franklin C. Seale, formerly a resident of Wollaston, took place on Thursday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Walter A. Barber, 54 Spencer avenue, Waterbury, Conn. The body was taken to Newburyport for burial.

—The Civic club of Philadelphia is actively promoting a movement for an improved Fourth of July observance, and a committee has drafted an ordinance prohibiting the sale of dangerous explosives. As a result of last year's celebration in that city nine lives were lost and 568 persons injured. The Philadelphia papers are heartily supporting the movement, the Press making the following comment: "We have had the old kind long enough and have paid dearly for it. The time has come to divorce Independence day once and forever from all association with wounds and burns, lockjaw and overworked hospitals. This does not mean a dull Fourth, but a rational and safe one." —Milford Gazette.

GUARDED BY STATE POLICE

Surface Cars Operated Till Midnight in Philadelphia

THE FENCIBLES.

Members of Military Company That Mob Slugged.

MOB BURNING STREET CAR.

Philadelphia, Feb. 25.—Surface cars were operated on the principal streets of the city last night until midnight for the first time since the beginning of the present strike against the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company.

Since the strike began last Saturday all cars have been withdrawn from service at dusk daily, but last night, guarded by members of the state police, the cars continued to run, even through the turbulent mill districts of Kensington and Frankford.

Although the transit company officials reported last night that eighty-four cars had been stoned during the day, no disturbance was permitted to attain serious proportions. All outbreaks were quickly quelled by the police, and not a riot call was sent to headquarters.

During the day, according to the company's figures, 744 cars were in operation, and sixty-six of these continued to run until midnight. Increased service is promised by the company, which announces that 400 new men, many of whom were formerly in the employ of the company, have been hired and will take out cars today.

President Kruger and other officials of the rapid transit company refused to comment on the request received from the committee of representative churchmen that the grievances of the strikers be submitted to a board of arbitration. An acknowledgement of the receipt of the letter was forwarded to the clergymen, with the statement that it would be referred to the board of directors of the company. The next regular meeting of that body will be held a week from next Monday and officials of the company say the question of calling a special meeting has not been discussed.

This proposal for arbitration, which was made by representatives of twenty-six distinct religious denominations, including the leading clergymen in the city, has been approved by the strikers.

A new and dangerous method of showing their antipathy to the transit company was adopted by crowds of boys in the uptown districts when soap was used on the rails.

Only one-third as many arrests were made by the police Thursday as were made Wednesday, when seventy-eight persons were taken into custody. Among those arrested was the son of a constable in the office of the committing magistrate. He is 20 years old, and confesses that he was a member of a band of youths who manufactured a quantity of explosive caps and then drew lots to see who should place them on the tracks. He drew the fateful straw and was arrested while placing the explosives on the tracks.

Plans for the proposed sympathetic strike have been deferred for the present. The striking car men at their meeting yesterday adopted a resolution requesting that the strike of other union men be held in abeyance.

Plans for crippling the service of the company by a strike of the power house was discussed at a meeting of the Stationary Engineers and Firemen's union last night. These men were in executive session until after midnight.

SNATCHED FROM DEATH

Man With Broken Neck Cured In Cambridge Relief Hospital

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 25.—The physicians at the relief hospital here have succeeded in curing a man suffering from a broken neck. On Jan. 7 Henry Belcher, 31 years old, fell from a wagon and broke a spinal vertebra in his neck. He was taken to the relief hospital and his case was immediately taken in charge by Dr. Buelhar, the house physician.

For several weeks Belcher hovered between life and death, until a few days ago, when a marked improvement in his condition was noticed.

The man grew stronger every day and he was able to take considerable nourishment. On Feb. 10 the physicians removed the brace which had been placed around Belcher's neck, and his family was notified yesterday that he would be able to leave the hospital cured in a week.

PACKERS SAID TO HAVE TRIED BRIBE

Public Prosecutor "Could Retire a Rich Man"

Jersey City, Feb. 25.—An attempt has been made to bribe Prosecutor Garven of Hudson county, N. J., to drop the prosecution of the meat packers, was the statement made by an official of Garven's office.

The official in the prosecutor's office said that he had learned that two men from Chicago had approached an acquaintance of Garven's and indirectly suggested that the prosecutor could retire a rich man if he would drop the prosecution.

The two men, according to the official in Garven's office, asked whether the prosecution of the packers was a question of money and that he could come into possession of a large sum of money if he would drop the present proceedings.

Mr. Garven made no direct statement regarding the truth or falsity of the report, but remarked significantly: "No bribes will go, and I will push the beef trust to the limit."

Electrical Expert Charged With Forging State Treasurer's Name

Boston, Feb. 25.—Tony Herz, 29 years old, a man with a previous criminal record, was arrested last night on the charge of forging the name of State Treasurer Elmer A. Stevens of Somerville and thereby securing $500 from the Beacon Trust company.

Herz is an expert in electrical work and recently completed a job on Stevens' residence, being given a check for $10. It is alleged that he traced the name upon another check, then filled in the amount space, specifying $500 as the sum to be paid, and upon presenting the check secured the money.

THOUGHT HE WAS ASLEEP

Son Sat Beside Dead Body of Father at a Society's Meeting

Bridgewater, Mass., Feb. 25.—Eliot Verney, 18 years old, for nearly an hour sat alongside the dead body of his father, Ozarius Verney, at the meeting of the Plymouth Agricultural society, expecting every minute he would awake and enjoy the joke upon himself of going to sleep. The boy was prostrated when he discovered that his father was dead, and collapsed utterly.

Verney and his son had been listening to the reports of the officers of the association. The son noticed that his father was nodding, but thought it was simply a spell of drowsiness.

ALLDS' RESIGNATION

Considered at Albany as a Clever Measure of Defense

Albany, Feb. 25.—Two changes marked the senate bribery investigation when it entered upon the tenth day of its duration. Senator Allds awaited the judgment of his Republican colleagues no longer as their leader and there was a great diminution in the number of spectators.

Allds' resignation as president pro tem has caused much discussion. His stated reason was that the Republican party might not be embarrassed by having to pass upon charges against the majority floor leader.

Another view is that Allds act was a clever measure of defense in the expectation that if the senate decides that he is not wholly guilty, but still deserving some censure, his loss of the office of party leader may be considered sufficient punishment. It is conceded that Allds will not be restored to his former position even if acquitted.

MADRIZ ON THE RUN

Joy In Bluefields Over Report That Rebels Will Soon Take Capital

Bluefields, Nic., Feb. 25.—Bluefields had a paroxysm of delight when advices were received reporting that President Madriz had quit the capital and fled to Leon and that General Chamorro and General Estrada were but a few hours apart and in constant communication near Tipatapa.

When the latest news was received a band paraded the streets and serenaded United States Consul Moffat in front of his residence. The Estrada men hugged each other and laughed hysterically. As usual the cooler heads, who had often been misled, demanded further confirmation of the optimistic reports concerning recent developments.

CONNORS AGREES TO QUIT IN APRIL

Outcome of His Negotiations With Tammany Leader

Albany, Feb. 25.—William J. Conners made good his prediction that he would still be chairman of the Democratic state committee after its meeting Thursday. In saving his political scalp, however, the chairman lost most of his hair.

Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany chieftain, whose complete mastery of the situation was realized by no one better than by Conners himself, granted the Buffalo leader a brief political reprieve, in the interest of party harmony, after Conners had agreed to resign in April and to repudiate his recent harsh statements concerning Murphy and the alleged auctioning of judgeships in New York, which he declared were the results of his "infirmities of temper" and were unjustified in fact.

Conners, it is said, has agreed to lend his support in the fall campaign.

DROWNED IN OWN BLOOD

Armenian Charged With Causing Death of a Watertown Youth

Watertown, Mass., Feb. 25.—That James O'Brien, 17 years old, who was slain during an altercation with an Armenian, was drowned in his own blood was the official report of Medical Examiner West as rendered to Chief of Police Cooney.

Neither the strangling nor the blow on the head was, in the opinion of West, sufficient to cause death ordinarily, but a clot was formed on the brain which prevented circulation through the veins and arteries, O'Brien's blood consequently overflowing into the lungs and causing the same sort of death as would be met in drowning.

Harpoot Gugarian, who is charged with the killing, was arraigned before Judge Luce at Waltham and held on a continuance in $1000.

BIT CONSTABLE'S ARM

Insane Negro Got Big Mouthful of Cork For His Pains

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 25.—For once Constable "Link" Jones was glad that one of his arms was made of cork, for when he attempted to arrest Frank Bivin, an insane négro, Bivin sank his teeth into the arm that was nearest him.

Surprised bystanders could not understand why Jones did not mind the attack until the negro, almost choked, began to spit out a mouthful of cork fragments.

The negro had caused a terrific uproar for several hours in the neighborhood, trying to collect rents that he imagined were due him.

War on Chicago Noises

Chicago, Feb. 25.—A movement to make Chicago a "noiseless city" came one step nearer realization when Chief of Police Steward issued an order for the rigid enforcement of the city's "anti-shouting" ordinance. This means that pedlers must not call out their wares.

Twenty Percent Increase Demanded

New York, Feb. 25.—Demands for increased pay have been presented by the engineers, firemen and telegraphers of the Delaware and Hudson company. The demands range from 5 percent to 70 percent, but the average increase approximates 20 percent.

HELD AS JANE ADAMS' SLAYER

William Seyler Formally Accused of Crime by Coroner

Atlantic City, Feb. 25.—William Seyler has been committed without bail by Coroner Sontheimer, on the charge of having slain Jane Adams. His brother Orvis, who fled with him after the tragedy on Young's million-dollar pier, the night of Feb. 4, was committed to jail in default of $2000 bail.

William Seyler, after the verdict had been reached, was brought into the district court room, where the inquest had been held. He looked haggard and worn and shifted his eyes from one point to another while the indictment was being read. Edmund C. Gaskell appeared for the first time as counsel for the accused, and promtly pleaded not guilty for him.

Prosecutor Goldenberg did not disclose what direct evidence he had to fasten the direct murder of the girl on the accused. He brought forward, however, a connected line of testimony to prove that Seyler was present when the girl died, as charged in the verdict.

"Chewing gum was found in the girl's mouth during the post mortem examination," said Dr. Souder, one of the chief witnesses. "We concluded from this fact and the absence of water in the body that she was dead before the body reached the sea. It was the blow over the left eye which showed a small but deep penetration, that produced death, due to shock that caused a hemorrhage in the brain. A nail would have made the penetration, the fall could have caused the bruise and the blood clot. No other marks to show a struggle or of violence were found."

TORTURE OF PRISONERS

Heyburn Thinks "Third Degree" Methods Worse Than Inquisition

Washington, Feb. 25.—A resolution introduced in the senate by Senator Heyburn provides for the appointment of a select committee of three to investigate "the practice of administering what is known as the third degree ordeal by officers of the law, for the purpose of extorting statements and confessions from those charged with crime."

Mr. Heyburn said he had read an article giving an account of the methods said to have been resorted to by the Atlantic City police to obtain a confession from William Seyler, charged with the murder of Jane Adams.

He asserted that such methods were more cruel than those of the inquisition, and were in direct conflict with American institutions, under which an officer is prohibited from talking with his prisoner on the subject of the charge against him.

The resolution was referred to the committee on judiciary.

WANT HIGHER WAGES

Connecticut Valley Trolleymen May Soon Precipitate a Big Strike

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 25.—Nearly 5000 employes of trolley lines in the Connecticut valley will shortly present a demand for an advance of 50 cents a day.

The demand will probably be made the middle of March, and if the increase is not granted, present indications point to a general strike and tie-up of all the street railway lines throughout the valley and at all central and western Massachusetts points except Holyoke and places north of that city.

The trolleymen are getting a maximum of $2.50 per day and want a flat scale of $3 per day.

Statistics Concerning Female Telephone Operators In United States

Washington, Feb. 25.—Ninety-two percent of the female telephone operators of the United States are unmarried, 3 percent are widows and 5 percent are married.

These are some of the interesting details brought out concerning the telephone business by a special investigation, made by the bureau of labor and sent to the senate by Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor.

Pair of Elks Keep Men Captive In Tree a Whole Day

Lenox, Mass., Feb. 25.—Elmer and Frank Parsons and Oscar Hutchinson of Lenox, who were sent to October mountain by Harry P. Whitney to hunt for the dogs which killed Whitney's five deer this week, were Whitney's five deer on his game preserve, were chased up a tree yesterday morning by two stag elks and held captive all day.

The thermometer was close to zero and at 6 o'clock the animals were still on guard, so that the pursued did not dare to leave the tree.

Frank M. Chapel, a game keeper, who went to the rescue, was also chased up a tree yesterday afternoon.

The elks are worth $1000 each, and the hunters were under orders not to shoot them. The elks tired of their vigil last night and left the tree.

PLAN THEIR OWN REFORM

British Lords to Consider Ideas For Strengthening Efficiency

London, Feb. 25.—The house of lords has decided to place its own plan of reformation before the country. At Thursday's session of the upper chamber, Lord Rosebery gave notice that he would move on March 14 that the house resolve itself into a committee of the whole to consider the best means of reforming the existing organization so as to constitute itself a strong and efficient second chamber.

By the date set by Lord Rosebery, the government's more drastic plans for the reform of the house of lords should be made known, though Premier Asquith told John Redmond yesterday that he was unable to fix the date on which he would present the government's proposal.

The first trial of strength in the new parliament occurred last night in the house of commons, when Austen Chamberlain's fiscal amendment was rejected by a vote of 285 to 254.

LONG LITIGATION ENDS

Woman Wins $398,000 Estate After Fifteen Years' Contest

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Mrs. Dorothea E. C. McVickar of Mamaroneck, daughter of Countess Eula Potulica, after fifteen years' litigation, was given title to $398,000 in the estate of D. E. Crouse of this city, by virtue of a decision handed down by Justice De Angelis in the supreme court.

The countess claimed to be the widow of Crouse and that Dorothea was his daughter. De Angelis dismissed the complaint in the action which was brought by Charles E. Crouse to recover, upon the grounds of fraud, a portion of the sum paid from the millions in the estate of his cousin, D. E. Crouse, and settled upon Dorothea when the latter was a child.

WHALLEY GOES FREE

Jury Fings He Acted In Self Defense When Hounded by Derrivan

Newburyport, Mass., Feb. 25.—Arguing that he killed William P. Derrivan, a Peabody athlete, in self-defense, Edward C. Whalley of Peabody won freedom after he had been tried on a charge of manslaughter in the superior court here. The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon.

He was charged with killing Derrivan in a fight that occurred in a calf-skin factory at Peabody. It was shown that Whalley was hounded by Derrivan, who spit in his face and threatened to do him bodily harm, and that he struck Derrivan when he had come over to the machine where he was working, apparently to carry out this threat.

LAW IS DISOBEYED

Southbridge Savings Bank Has Made No Trial Balance Since 1896

Southbridge, Mass., Feb. 25.—It is declared that since 1896, when John A. Hall became the treasurer of the savings bank here, no trial balance of the depositors' ledger has been made.

The law says that a trial balance shall be struck at least once a year. Bank examiners from the state house, as far as the records of the bank reveal, never have asked to be shown one.

The Southbridge Savings bank has only 7000 depositors. Hall himself is one of the authorities for the statement that the books have not been balanced for those fourteen years.

Death From Stiletto Wound

East Douglas, Mass., Feb. 25.—Charles W. Potter, a farmer of this city, is dead as the result of a quarrel, alleged to have been with Peter Manite last December. Potter's throat was slashed by a stiletta. Manite has been in the Worcester jail since the assault. Potter was 79 years old.

Wireless Bill In Congress

Washington, Feb. 25.—Representative O'Connell introduced a bill requiring that all government vessels which "go out of sight of land" be equipped with wireless apparatus. He was prompted by the loss of the naval tug Nina to promote this legislation.

THEATRE NOTES

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

A theatrical event of sufficient interest to attract every playgoer in Boston and vicinity is the appearance at the Hollis Street Theatre for two weeks only, beginning Monday, Feb. 28, of Henrietta Crosman, the foremost American comedienne, in her recent New York comedy success, "Sham." From every city where Miss Crosman has appeared in this play comes the report that "Sham" is the best comedy that has been seen in years. For six months it attracted crowds to Wallack's Theatre, New York. In Chicago it remained for three months; in Philadelphia it was enjoyed for six weeks, and now Miss Crosman is coming to captivate Boston. Her appearance in any play is a source of pure delight, and in "Sham" she will be doubly welcome. Already the demand for seats indicates one of the most prosperous engagements of the season.

"Sham" is a play of today and its theme is the tendency among many classes of people to aspire to positions beyond their merit or means. Its chief character is a young woman of pedigree and tradition, but having very little income with which to maintain her exalted social position. A desire for luxuries is inbred with her, and to possess and enjoy the things she cannot afford she artfully practices a system of petty grafting, and keeps up an appearance of prosperity by the exercise of her fascinating wits. In the character of the social sham Miss Crosman has scored the most emphatic triump of her career, and the original company surrounding her is one of the best yet seen in a modern play. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The production of "The Spitfire" will bring an entirely new play to Boston. It is a comedy in four acts by Edward Peple, dramatized by him from his popular novel of the same name. All who have read that novel will remember its romantic and comic scenes aboard a yacht in mid-ocean, the sudden arrival of the hero apparently from nowhere, the heroine and her stolengeme, and the storm that finally casts yacht and passengers on the sandy shores of New Jersey. The first act shows the vessel at anchor in the harbor of Calais, and her departure for her voyage across the Atlantic the second act shows the yacht four days later well on her way to America; the third act is six days later in two scenes, the first bringing to view the interior of the Spitfire's cabin and the second her deck after the wreck; and the fourth act comes the morning after the wreck. The play is a novelty from beginning to end, and in producing it at the Castle Square, Mr. Craig in undobutedly starting it on a long and prosperous career as one of the most successful plays of the present day. In making his play from his novel, Mr. Peple has selected its most striking scenes and incidents, and its most interesting characters. In addition to the necessary seamen who take part in the navigation of the Spitfire, there are eleven personages all of more or less importance to the working out of the plot. Mr. Craig will appear as Bruce Morson the young man who makes his mysterious appearance from the sea, while the heroine will be acted delightfully by Mary Young.

KEITH'S THEATRE.

Mr. Keith has sprung another sensation on the vaudeville public in Albert Hole, the wonderful boy soprano who appeared at his theatre in Boston last week and has created such a furore, not only among the musical fraternity but among the ladies and children, that he is being held over. Master Hole is probably the greatest boy soprano this world has ever known. He was brought to this country by Madam Liza Lehmann, the famous English composer, to interpret her works, and his appearance in Symphony hall in Boston, Carnegie hall in New York and other concert halls, proved to be one of the events of the year. But like all good things in this line, vaudeville has claimed him for its own through Mr. Keith, and the results in Boston during the week has fully justified the venture. It is not only the boy's splendid voice which makes the appeal, but his wonderful personality. His winning ways, his smile that one cannot easily forget, and his masterful interpretation of the songs he sings. In fact, in this field there are few of the most famous singers of many times his years who have mastered the art so thoroughly as this slip of a boy. The entire bill will be in keeping with this feature.

AMERICAN MUSIC HALL.

At no time during the present season has the interest in vaudeville reached the height that it has just at the present time. This is due in a great measure to the remarkable bills which are being presented weekly at the American Music Hall. Headliners have been so frequent that they no longer excite the comment they usually did. For next week there is another all star aggregation that will make Boston theatre-goers sit up and take notice. A big feature will be the Four Mortons that riotous family of fun makers that prove the life of any bill on which they appear. Father, mother, son and daughter are all singers, dancers and comedienes of the first water and the entertainment furnished by them is thoroughly satisfying. The Empire City Quartet will be seen here for the first time in many moons. This quartet has become nationally famous because of its remarkable singing and the laughable comedy that pervades the act. A genuine novelty is promised in the appearance of the Mysterious Baloon Girl. This girl is extremely fine looking and wears a closely cropped dress and while singing the song "Take Me Up With You Dearie" she floats in a big illuminated balloon over the heads of the audience. During her act the house is darkened which adds a great deal to the effect. The mystery is how the balloon gets out over the audience.

BOSTON THEATRE.

The exceptional interest manifested in the engagement of "Ben-Hur" at the Boston Theatre attests its popularity among theatre patrons generally throughout New England. Now in its eleventh year and still at the head of all dramatic spectacles is a tribute which mildly expresses the wonderful possibilities of the Wallace romance and its universal appeal. The third week at the Boston Theatre begins Monday the 28th instant. Owing to the immensity of the production "Ben-Hur" cannot be seen elsewhere in New England. When first produced at the Broadway Theatre in New York City, in the autumn of 1899, the late Bishop Potter characterized it as "a mighty play." He was one of many who discerned in it an enduring drama which would prove as great a favorite with all classes as did the book from which it had been dramatized. In "Ben-Hur" Lew Wallace's piece, he gives the life, the color, the feeling of the time of Christ. With these he presents an intense heart story, a heroic drama, filled with the tenderest emotions, traced with the romance of love and war, exalted by the evidences of Divine Miracles performed by the Nazarene. Seats can only be secured one week in advance for the engagement is strictly limited. Matinees 1.45, evenings at 7.45.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

The theatre-goers of Boston and New England have not in years been roused to quite such a high pitch of enthusiasm as over Lew Field's mammoth musical production "The Midnight Sons," which starts on its fourth week at the Shubert theatre next Monday night. It is the same story night after night—late comers find the seats all sold—boxes, orchestra, and first and second balcony alike—and hundreds at every performance are glad to be able to secure standing room. There is only one satisfactory way to do if you are planning to see "The Midnight Sons," and that is to secure seats in advance. In this way you not only make sure of having your seats for the performance you choose, but can get them in the location of the house you prefer. The engagement is an indefinite one and will only be continued in Boston as long as the enthusiasm over its unique and lavish amusement keeps at fever pitch. It is said to be the most expensive musical comedy ever staged, and there are too many other cities around the country anxious to see it for a prolonged stay in Boston. Owing to the elaborate nature of the production, the big company of 250, large cast of high salaried people, massive scenic sets, etc.

BAN ON TOBACCO.

Pennsylvania Railroad Giving Preference to Nonusers of the Weed.

Employees of the Pennsylvania railroad at Pittsburg have been ordered to refrain from the use of tobacco while on duty and also have been requested to break themselves of the habit. Applicants for positions are questioned closely regarding tobacco, and scores who admitted themselves confirmed tobacco users have failed to get positions.

As yet the order has been applied only to office forces and to those handling passenger trains.

Was Guard Over Lincoln's Body

Brunswick, Me., Feb. 25.—James W. Crawford, who stood guard over the body of President Lincoln while it lay in state for several days at Washington, as a member of the Eighth Veteran Reserve corps, died here. He was born at North Bath.

Hogs and Fowl Away Up

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Live hogs sold at $9.67½ a hundred weight at the stock yards Thursday. Live fowl in the southwest market also establishes a high price record, spring chickens selling at 17 cents and fowl at 17½.

In Just Five Months

WYETH'S

SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER

Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used five bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it bids fair to grow in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

The birthright of every man, woman and child—a full, healthy head of hair. If your hair is falling, if it is full of dandruff, or if it is faded or turning gray, it is diseased and should be looked after without delay.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER, a true Hair Tonic and Restorer, removes dandruff in a few days, stops hair falling in one week, and starts a new growth in a month.

IT IS NOT A DYE

and does not soil the skin nor injure the hair; but it is an ideal hair dressing that will restore faded and gray hair to natural color and keep the hair soft and glossy.

BRIEFS

A patent was granted this week to A. Williams of this city.

Now is the time to advertise your vacant house or real estate or your need of work or workers. Read the classified ads.

Rehearsals for the play to be given by the Signal Corps at Atlantic are being held frequently and a large attendance is expected at the performance Saturday night, March 5.

A Brotherhood banquet will be held in the First Presbyterian church on the evening of March 8. Secure your tickets early.

Col. Anderson is to address the Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian church tonight "Lincoln and the results."

Frank Hayes of Quincy was awarded damages to the amount of $1,500 at Dedham on Thursday in his suit against the eGneral Automobile Co. of Boston for injuries received July 30, 1908, when his bicycle was struck on Hancock streeet.

The clubhouse owned by Norton Nickerson and Carlton Lewis situated in the rear of their residences on Winthrop avenue, was burned on Wednesday. The cause of the fire was an overheated stove. Among other things a quantity of amateur wireless apparatus was destroyed.

A unique entertainment is to be given at the Methodist Episcopal church, Atlantic, next Tuesday night. "A Peddlers Parade" will be found consisting of about twenty persons dressed in costume. Each will carry a different article in his pack to sell to those present. An entertainment will follow the parade.

The wrong word sometimes slips in accidentally in a newspaper report and just reverses what a man says. In defence of city departments at the Council meeting Councilman Flynn said: He did not believe but if a person went to the different departments he could get the information he wanted.

Big meeting for younger boys at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning at 9. J. A. Whitmore of Boston is the speaker and knows how to talk to boys. He is a graduate of Wesleyan college where he was captain of the football team and a leader in debate and oratory. A big meeting is expected and every fellow that possibly can attend is expected.

Aaron H. Gould of Grand View avenue, Wollaston, surprised his freinds by returning home Sunday from Portland, Oregon, where he has located. He has been in touch with the directorate of the Massasoit-Pocasset National Bank of Fall River, which wish him to make plans for two additional stories to their building. He decided to come on for a week so he could superintend the drawing of the plans. He expects to return next week Wednesday.

MEET ME FACE TO FACE

Evangelists to Hold Service in English Tonight.

Evangelist Eklund wants the people of Quincy to meet him face to face at St. Pauls M. E. church on Granite street this evening at 7.30. The service will be in English.

EVANGELIST EKLUND.

The Salvation wave is rolling on in increasing proportions. Thursday the church was filled twice with interested audiences. In the afternoon, for women only, the Evangelist gave a practical talk on life's duties as they fall on the lot of women. In the evening the singing was splendid. The Evangelist spoke on Mark 12: 43. "Thou art not far from the Kingdom." After an impressive appeal, four young men and women came forward and took their stand for Christ.

Tonight the meeting will be in the English language and the Evangelist have prepared a special service for English speaking people of Quincy which none should miss.

There will also be a meeting Saturday night.

Sunday will be the last day of the revival. Services at 10.30 A. M. In the afternoon at 3.30. Evangelist Eklund will tell his life story: "From cowboy to the pulpit." None should miss this. Great farewell service Sunday evening.

VESPERS.

The program at the Wollaston Congregational church at 4 P. M. Sunday will be:

Processional, Oh Most Dear Jerusalem
The Lord is in His Temple	Elli A
Te Deum in B flat minor	Foote
Eye hath not seen, with bass solo	Foster
The Penitent, Tenor Voice and Girls' Choir	Jordan
Let not Your heart be troubled	Foster
Recessional, For all the Saints
Minister's Message, "At the gate beautiful"

DUTCH SUPPER.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Universalist church gave a Dutch supper Thursday evening, followed by an entertainment. The supper was served at 6 o'clock and was unique in its way. Each person arming themselves with a plate, knife and fork, visited the different tables and helped themselves to those things that appealed to their taste. The menu included potato salad, sauerkraut, frankforts, etc.

Following the supper there was an entertainment which included piano solos, songs by Miss Hyland and readings by Mrs. Harris and Chester French.

Use For Holiday Cards.

A good way to utilize the many Christmas tags and cards and the numerous odds and ends of holly ribbon from the different packages is to make from them bookmarks for the Christmas books.

In the smallest cards make a narrow slit at the top, through which draw a six or eight inch length of narrow ribbon, knotting it firmly with a short V snipped end so it will hold. Tie three cards mounted in this way together at the farther end of the ribbon in an ornamental knot and you will have a dainty, useful and most appropriate place marker for your holiday books.

The larger cards should be slit at both bottom and top and should have a wider ribbon drawn through them both, so that the card with sentiment and ornament forms the center and the card when the bookmark is in use lies in the book and the ribbon protruding from it above and below marks the page.

HOSPITAL AID MEETING.

One of the largest gatherings of members of the Hospital Aid Association was held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. William B. Rice, at the Beal homestead on Adams street, where Mrs. Rice is making her home this winter with her son Fred B. Rice.

The president, and both vice presidents, being absent, Mrs. George S. Keyes was made chairman for the afternoon, and conducted the meeting. During the discussion of business those present sewed for the Hospital. The new ward is about to be equipped ready for use, which will mean a busy season of sewing for the Association, as many new garments and furnishings for the linen closet will be needed.

The resignations of Miss Charlotte Burgess as president and Mrs. Charles A. Howland as treasurer were read and accepted. A committee was appointed to nominate for president and to report at the March meeting. Miss Etta M. Prescott was asked to be treasurer and has assumed that office, and is ready to receive annual dues.

The March meeting will be held at Grenwold with Mrs. Harry L. Rice, when it is hoped there will be another large meeting. Interest, which seemed to be at a low ebb early in the fall, is increasing, and it looks as though the Hospital Aid Association would take on new vigor and again take its place as one of the most important organizations for good work in the city. The "house of mercy" on the hill could hardly get along without the Hospital Aid Association.

WOODWARD ALUMNAE.

The semi-annual feeting of the Woodward Alumnae was held Thursday evening at Woodward hall. The meeting took the form of a social, and every class of the institute was represented. During the first part of the evening there was a short business session at which it was voted to give a prize for the best essay in the senior class, the same as last year. The prize consists of books valued at $5. The arrangements for the prize giving is in charge of a committee consisting of the Master, Mr. Plummer; Miss Dinegan, president of the Association; Miss Steele, English teacher at the school, and Miss Garrity, a graduate, now an English teacher at the High school.

It was also voted to have an athletic manager for the association. The appointment of this manager was left to the executive committee.

The evening was then given over to social purposes. There were games of various kinds, dancing and refreshments. The evening was a most enjoyable one.

MACHINISTS ORGANIZING.

A largely attended and enthusiastic open meeting of the machinists was held Thursday evening at Wilson's hall. The meeting was addressed by Mr. Churchill, the organizer of the international association. The object of the meeting is to unionize the machinists and thus obtain a higher rate of wages, namely: specialists $3, general machinists $3.50 and tool makers $4.

SECOND DEGREE.

The degree team from St. Johns commandery of Brockton worked the second degree in Malta on four candidates in grand style at Greenleaf hall on Thursday evening.

Grand Generalissimo Clarence F. Walker delivered an able address. There were present companions from Whitman, King Oscar and Boston commanderies. Preparations are being made for another class in the near future. After the exercises a splendid collation was enjoyed.

—The candelilla weed, a desert plant which grows abundantly upon millions of acres of semi-arid land in northern Mexico and parts of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, contains from three to four per cent. of wax, which is now being extracted by a proces invented by a resident of Monterey, Mex. The manufacture of this vegetable wax is already said to be on a paying commercial basis. Extracting plants are being worked in Mexico, and a number are to be started in New Mexico.—Popular Mechanics.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. first and second basketball teams visited the Boston Y. M. C. A. representatives in the Technology gymnasium at Boston Thursday evening and both Quincy teams lost. The first quintet by a score of 33 to 18 and the second team by 38 to 18. Cheer up. We can't always win.

The Fore River Apprentices have secured new faces to play on the ball team the coming season, and I look to see this speedy group establish a fine record.

• • •

It is indeed a pleasure for us to learn that the basket ball games at the High school have been so well attended that there will be a surplus amount which can be used to put a strong baseball nine onto the field this spring. If ever a school showed they were alive, it is Quincy High. They back all sports to the limit and in return the teams usually give a good account of themselves.

PLANNING FOR MEET.

A patriotic evening was observed at the meeting of the Wollaston Boys' club in the vestries of the Wollaston Congregational church on Thursday evening. In the absence of Mr. Clee the meeting was in charge of Alec Mundie of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. Under the direction of Chester Gurney stereopticon views depicting the life of Washington were thrown upon the screen. The events were read and the program discussed for the triangular meet to be held by this club and the other boys clubs at an early date.

DON'T JOSH THE FARMER.

Ridiculing His Sons Responsible For High Prices, Says Manufacturer.

The newspapers' comic Sunday supplements that picture hayseeds and birds' nests in farmers' beards and make fun of the horny handed agriculturist are responsible for the high prices of foodstuffs.

So John A. Stewart, a New York manufacturer and founder of the State Agricultural school, Morrisville, N. J., testified the other day before the legislative committee investigating food prices at Columbus, O. Mr. Stewart said the comic supplements ridicule the farmer and his work and so drive the farmer's sons to the cities. So few men are left to raise crops that many farms are being abandoned. Only the older people remain on the farms, said Mr. Stewart, and little food in excess of what is needed there is being produced. So it is now comparatively easy to corner the market on many food commodities. He declared the situation is alarming and should be changed by making farm life more attractive.

PASSION PLAY ILLUSTRATED

Henry Ellsworth Lectures Under Auspices of Quincy Aerie

A good audience atended the Lenten service at Music hall Friday evening under the auspices of Quincy aerie, F. O. E. The program was an illustrated lecture on Oberammergau. The lecture was given by Henry Ellsworth and was illustrated by over three hundred highly colored views. Although highly colored Mr. Ellsworth declared that the coloring was true to life.

Oberammergau is the little Bavarian village where every ten years the famous passion play is given. In opening his talk Mr. Ellsworth gave the history of the village of its 1400 inhabitants where sin is unknown, and how the play came to be produced. It was in compliance of a vow made during a visit of the plague, that if God would remove the plague the play would be given every ten years. Tradition says the plague was removed, and the play has been given every ten years since that time. It will be produced again this year beginning in May and continuing twice a week until December.

Many views of the village were shown, giving an accurate idea of the style of architecture. He also showed many views of the principal characters in the play and their natural features bore great resemblance to the characters during the time of Christ.

Then came scenes of the interior of the theatre itself, and scenes from the play, which begins at 8 o'clock in the morning and continued until 5 o'clock at night with an hour and a half for dinner.

Absolute and reverent silence prevailed in the hall while the realistic pictures of the crucifixion of Christ were being shown. One of the last pictures showed the church where the actors worshipped and during this picture the chimes rang out and there was singing by a choir of voices. As a whole it was an interesting and instructive lecture.

CITY SQUARE DECORATIONS

in Honor of the Reception to Francis T. Bowles

Decorating in honor of the home coming and reception to President Francis T. Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company has already commenced, and by next Tuesday it is probable that practically all of the buildings between City Hall and Music hall will be in holiday attire.

The first building to be decorated is the furniture store of H. L. Kincaide & Co., and the second the Savings Bank and National Granite Bank. Decorators from Boston are in town doing this work, and by night City Square will present a holiday appearance.

HENRY L. KINCAIDE.

In addition to the decorations, all store keepers along the route to Music hall are requested to keep the lights in their stores burning Tuesday night until after the procession escorting President Bowles to the hall has passed.

Arrangements for the reception and banquet are now well in hand, practically everything having been arranged. All that remains is for the people to get out on Tuesday evening, and to give vent to their enthusiasm.

SUES FOR $25,000.

The case of Margaret T. Garrity of West Quincy vs. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. is on trial in the Norfolk Superior court. It is an action of tort to recover $25,000 for personal injuries, received Nov. 25, 1908, and due to a collision between trains near the South Boston railroad station. Evidence for the plaintiff being introduced. John W., Jeremiah J. and Thomas F. McAnarney for the plaintiff; John L. Hall, Joseph Wentworth and Choate, Hall & Stewart for defendant.

ENGLISH PRIDE HURT

Because Quincy Can Build Ships More Quickly

If we are to believe the reports emanating from the naval experts abroad, England is considerably disturbed, not to say chagrined, by the award of the Argentine warship contracts to an American firm, says a Washington letter to the Boston Transcript. To the average Britisher it is almost inconceivable that any one, anywhere, can create a Dreadnought quicker and cheaper than the builders of his own country. To learn that Fore River company of Quincy for one and Blohm & Voss of Germany for another both made more acceptable proposals than Armstrong & Vickers, comes as a terrible jolt to his pride. Yet here is the story told by the official statement of the Argentine Government. In this summary the first column of figures "A" represents the tonnage, "B" the speed, "C" the principal belt line in inches, "D" the price per ship, and "E" the time in months to build:

	A	B	C	D	E
Quincy	27,940	22.5	12	$10,950,000	27
British	27,840	23	12	12,118,750	33
French	27,840	22	10	11,812,750	29
German	26,000	25	12	11,790,000	27
Italian	25,600	22	10	11,000,000	28

In explanation of the above, one London paper aptly says:

"Two somewhat startling facts appear from the tenders. In the first place, the American price is lower than the lowest British quotation by $40 a ton, or more than ten per cent of the cost. The American quotation is for a slower ship than the British firms proposed, but that would hardly explain so remarkable a difference in price. The next cheapest tender to the American is that of the French Forges et Chantiers, and next to that comes the Italian firm of Ansaldo. The French and Italian tenders, however, are for ships with thinner armor, and armor is a very expensive item. Still these figures are not very inspiriting to those who contend that with free trade British shipbuilders can always underbid all competitors.

"The second surprise is that the foreign firms were all prepared to promise quicker delivery than the British Blohm & Voss, the German firm, only required from twenty-seven to thiry months, against the thirty-three demanded by Armstrong & Vickers. Yet Blohm & Voss have now in hand no fewer than three German Dreadnoughts—the Von der Tann, G, and G—or quite as heavy a program as Armstrong & Vickers. This indicates an enormous expansion in the German resources for rapid construction.

"The armament of the new battleships will consist of twelve 12-inch, twelve 6-inch and twelve 4-inch guns apiece. The nation supplying the ships will also supply the guns and ammunition. In December tenders were received from eighteen shipyards giving plans for the vessels. Twelve of these eighteen were then eliminated because the price was too high or the specifications in their case not so good. Six firms only remained in the final competition. The naval board at Buenos Ayres and the Argentine Commission were unanimous in their decision in favor of the American tender.

"The maximum price was fixed at $11,000,000. The amount saved on a vessel of 28,000 tons, by accepting the American in place of the British tender, was $1,100,000 per ship, or nearly two and a half millions for the two vessels. The engines proposed by the Fore River Company were either Curtis or Parsons turbines. All the other tenders were for Parsons turbines. The Americans were able to quote lower prices as they were able to get their steel at a lower figure. Twelve destroyers have been ordered by the Argentine Government. These have been divided between England, Germany and France, each Power receiving four."

Important Announcement

BY JOHNSON BROS.

Why and How We Shall Reduce Our Prices April 1st, 1910.

AFTER a careful study of the credit business for a number of years, and the same of the cash business for the past two years, we have decided that for the mutual benefit of the buyer and seller, beginning April 1, we shall turn our business into a strictly cash business. Our experience and close study of the wants of the people for the past thirty-five years has put us in a position to judge, and we have decided that low prices and high quality can be obtained in no other way than by a strictly cash proposition, as a credit store cannot possibly compete successfully with a store that is handled on a strictly cash basis, as there is a great expense attached to a credit business, which we wish to curtail, and our curtailing means much lower prices to the trade. Under the credit system there is always a proportion of bad bills which must be taken care of in our scale of prices. Under the credit system you are helping to pay the bills of those who do not pay themselves. The method of sending teams to take orders daily is very costly. We figure it costs us eight cents per call. If our clerks make from fifty to two hundred calls daily the expense of these calls must be added to the prices of the goods. The salaries of bookkeepers and other expenses of accounting and collections must also be taken care of. We propose to eliminate these items of expense, and correspondingly reduce the prices of our goods. We will deliver orders sent to us by mail, telephone or left at the store, and we intend to show the people of Quincy and surrounding towns what a really cash store can do for them. We intend to place on sale a certain day of each week some staple article from our stock at absolute cost, something different each time. Remember, one of the most important things in this change will be the keeping up of our quality for which we have so long been popular. We shall try to give even better quality if such a thing is possible, and we shall hammer the prices down hard—for cash.

We will pay cash for our goods, by so doing get all the cash discounts from the wholesale trade, and we intend that our trade shall benefit by it, and by owning our own plant it will not be possible for any concern in our line of business to undersell us, when you take into consideration our reputation for quality. We have one of the best equipped stores in our city, also the cooperation of experienced clerks which all go to make Johnson Bros. an ideal firm with which to trade. All orders will be delivered with care and promptness by our new Automobile system, which we will place at your service and which is being practised by nearly all the up to date concerns throughout the country. Customers not caring to pay cash every time they come, or send to the store can if they wish make a deposit with us, and when they have taken up all their deposit will be notified. At the prices we shall ask and the quality of our goods, we must insist on a strictly cash transaction, for at the present age of high prices a credit store can do nothing to lessen the expense of living for its customers, as the increasing expense of carrying on a credit business places low prices out of the question.

The credit dealer must realize a larger percent of profit than a cash dealer, as his expense account is more than double, so we decided that the only way we can help our customers and all careful buyers, is to establish a strictly up to date cash store, for there is no other way that we can afford to cut the prices for the mutual benefit of all. Hoping that this will meet with thoughtful and willing cooperation, we remain,

Respectfully,

JOHNSON BROS.' MARKET,
City Square

NOT STOLEN.

There was quite a little excitement Friday afternoon when it was reported that a horse and team of the Electric Light Co. had been stolen. The team was left in front of T. L. William's store a few minutes while the driver was inside making some repairs. When he came out the turnout was gone. It was at first thought that the team had been stolen, and a description of it was sent to the police departments in neighboring towns. Late in the afternoon the team was found in the yard of the Packard estate. The horse had evidently felt cold and had wandered into the yard to seek shelter in the lee of some building.

TEN NEW VOTERS.

The Registrars of Voters were in session at City Hall yesterday from 12 o'clock noon until 10 o'clock in the evening to revise the voting lists for the special election in Ward Two next Tuesday. They did not have a very busy time, for but ten names were added to the list. Of these but six came from Ward Two. Of the others three came from Ward One and one from Ward Five.

WEYMOUTH.

About 125 women in Weymouth are entitled to vote for the school committee.

Capt. Bartlett who was with Peary in his dash for the North Pole is to speak at the Town hall Monday night.

The Puritana Whist club meets next Thursday evening with Miss Carrie S. Robinson.

Rev. Mr. Dix the new pastor of the Universalist church is to become a resident of North Weymouth the first of next week.

F. H. Torrey has been on the sick list this week.

Wessagusett club is to have a ladies' night Friday evening, March 11.

AN AGED WOMAN.

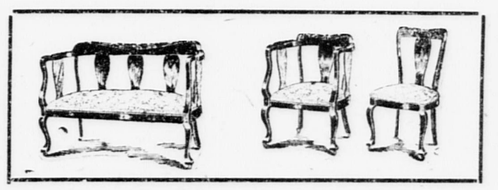

Mrs. Jane Pillsbury Robinson died Wednesday at her residence, 12 Highland avenue, Neponset, in her 104th year. Mrs. Robinson was born in Candia, N. H., June 2, 1806, but came to Boston when 17 years old. She joined in the welcome of the Marquis de Lafayette to Boston. Mrs. Robinson also recalled well the public services that were held in Boston at the death of President John Adams. When Mrs. Robinson came to Neponset there were but 13 houses in the place, the people were all farmers and the place had no church, school or railroad. A stage coach from Quincy to Boston was driven by Galen Bowditch and the fare was 25 cents.

Master—"Did you give the mare her brandy this morning, Pat?"

Pat—"Sure, yer honor, it was a very cowld morning, so we tossed for it, and, faith, the mare lost!"—Tit-Bits.

HONESTY
IN EVERYTHING

Reforms of all kinds seem to be sweeping over the land. In Chicago there is a movement for a noiseless city and as a first step pedlers will not be allowed to cry their wares.

This year most of the holidays come double—Memorial day, 4th of July and Labor day all fall on Monday, while Christmas, falling on Sunday, will probably be observed on Monday.

Rhode Island as well as Massachusetts has been considering the child labor problem and the house passed a rather drastic child labor bill on Thursday making it illegal to employ any child after 8 P. M. or any child between the ages of 14 and 16 who cannot write a simple sentence in English. The bill now goes to the senate.

A great many people are pleased that the clock in the Universalist church tower is in commission again. The movement to have the city take it in charge and keep it in repair is a good one, for anything that benefits so many people should not prove an expense to a few. Maintain the clock has been by subscription by people in the immediate vicinity.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION PROGRAM

The following program has been arranged for the year 1910-1911:

March 2. Rev. Elward A. Chase, devotional service; Dr. John A. Gordon, "Some Things Which Mothers Should Know."

April 6. Mr. Albert L. Barbour, Superintendent of Schools, Quincy, "The School Problem of Today."

May 4. Mrs. Richard C. Cabot of Boston, "What Punishments are of Moral Value."

June 1. Mrs. W. H. Doble, "The Period of Adolescence."

Oct. 5. Dr. D. A. Sargent, Director of School for Physical Training, Nambridge, "The Importance of Training the Child's Body."

Nov. 2. Mrs. Stanley Rome, Quincy, formerly teacher of Domestic Science in St. Louis, "The Hygienically Clean Home."

Dec. 7. Mrs. Clara Bancroft Beatley of Boston, "The Real Mother."

Jan. 4, 1911. Mrs. Ellen H. Richards of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, "Food for School Children."

Feb. 11, 1911. Miss Mabel T. Adams, Radcliffe College, 1908, "The Care of Carpets English in the Home."

It is hoped that Miss Edith Rudkin will give a paper some time during the year.

The Mothers' Association offers this program to the mothers of Quincy trusting that they will avail themselves of the opportunity to have a pleasant afternoon and learn of the things which help in training children and in home-making.

FAILED TO REACH BANK

Boston Boy Who Started Out With Employers' Money Is Missing

Boston, Feb. 26.—Edward Woodside, an 18-year-old bookkeeper, earning $10 a week, started for the National Shawmut bank at 2 o'clock yesterday with $2277.22 in cash and checks.

He did not reach the bank nor return to his place of employment, Schwarzchild & Sulzberger, and this morning the Boston and suburban police had found no trace of him.

Woodside had worked for the firm but one week. He had left the Medford high school, where he was to have been graduated in June, to take the clerkship.

Divorce Inquiry Begun

London, Feb. 26.—The royal commission appointed to investigate the divorce laws with a view to their reformation, so that the poor may have equal advantage under them with the rich, has begun. The members include two women.

"Quincy Seal" hatpins and brooches 50c; Fobs, 25c, 50c, 75c. Williams' jewelry store.

CHARLES R. HEIKE
Accused Official of the American Sugar Refining Company

GOES TO HIGH COURT

Heike's Immunity Plea In Sugar Prosecution Will Be Reviewed

Washington, Feb. 26.—The claim of immunity of Charles R. Heike, under indictment in connection with New York sugar frauds, will be examined into by the supreme court of the United States.

Justice Lurton has issued a writ of error, bringing the matter to the supreme court for review.

REFUSED TO SEE HER DYING HUSBAND

Mrs. Clover Unmoved on Night of Waltham Tragedy

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 26.—A detailed description of the appearance and conduct of Mrs. Lillian M. Clover when she was summoned to the hospital before her husband, Clarence F. Clover, died in Waltham on the night of Dec. 20 last, was a feature of the Glover will contest in the probate court.

Dr. Nicholas W. Cossens repeated the dying statement of the murdered man. He told how he had called the Glover house on the 'phone and told a woman (presumably Mrs. Glover) that her husband was fatally shot; how she exhibited no emotion or surprise; how she later came to the hospital, refused to go upstairs to see her husband until being asked to do so twice, and how she left in ten minutes without even asking how the wounded man was.

Dr. Cossens was put upon the stand as a witness for the contestants of the will. His testimony in favor of the contestants was not what it was expected to be. Under Attorney Elmore's cross-examination he swore that Clarence F. Glover, in his dying statement, had said that Hattie L. Blake shot him.

OUTLAW IS CAPTURED

Theriault Had Eluded Authorities For a Number of Years

Van Buren, Me., Feb. 26.—A border outlaw for three years, Xavier Theriault has been captured by the Madawaska county, N. B., authorities, who surprised him in his forest stronghold six miles from Edmunston. Theriault has long been known in northern Maine and New Brunswick as a modern Jesse James, and he has been feared by all who knew him.

For several years Theriault has been wanted on various charges, including the violation of the revenue laws and attempting to kill Sheriff Cannon.

SMUGGLERS SENTENCED

Father and Son Jailed For Illegally Bringing In Canadian Wool

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 26.—In the United States court here Mitchell Leonard and Charles Leonard, who are father and son and work a farm near Barton, were arraigned on a smuggling charge and pleaded guilty.

Mitchell Leonard was given four months and a fine of $200, while the younger man received thirty days and a like fine, both sentences to be served in Orleans county jail. The offense consisted of bringing 7189 pounds of wool across the Canadian line.

Cardinal Lucon Fined $100

Rheims, France, Feb. 25.—Cardinal Lucon, archbishop of Rheims, was condemned by the civil tribunal to pay $100 damages to the Public School Teachers' association for signing the episcopal letter forbidding the use of certain text books in the public schools. The association sued for $1000.

Alleged Grafters Indicted

Tiffin, O., Feb. 26.—Frank J. Fry and Herbert G. Ogden, former county commissioners, were indicted by the Seneca county grand jury on a charge of soliciting and receiving bribes from former city employes.

A NEW YORKER'S VIEW OF NEW ENGLAND

Pride in One's Community Is the Biggest Asset That Community Can Possibly Have.

Where Do the Granite Manufacturers and Shipbuilders Stand?

Quincy people take pride in the foreign contracts of their shipbuilding company, and are glad when Quincy granite manufacturers receive large contracts. Newspapers of New England have advertised it a lot not enough. At West Quincy this week the importance of pulling together for local improvements was emphasized. See what W. C. Freeman the advertising manager of the New York Evening Mail, advocated last night at the great "Publicity Dinner" of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, speaking on "Stirring up enthusiasm at home."

It seems to me that it is a good thing TO STAND WELL in your own family—it gives you CONFIDENCE AND COURAGE.

I should say it would be an equally good thing for all New England TO TALK IT OVER with the wives and daughters. There should be A FAMILY COUNCIL about the development of New England.

The first thing to do is TO PULL TOGETHER—every New England man and woman and boy and girl should be taught all about New England.

How can they be taught? BY YOUR HOME NEWSPAPERS!

Don't ask your newspaper publishers to do the educating for nothing—PAY FOR IT!

Enthuse your own people—get them aroused over New England's greatness—let them know all about every manufactured product—get them interested in every new enterprise.

THE WAY TO DO IS TO PUBLISH THE INFORMATION IN STRAIGHTFORWARD ADVERTISING IN DAILY NEWSPAPERS.

The business interests of New England should pool their issues and BUY ADVERTISING SPACE EVERY DAY IN EVERY DAILY NEWSPAPER in New England. NEVER MIND THE COST—PAY IT!

Here the best advertisement writers in the country to tell the daily story. IT WILL COST A LOT OF MONEY TO EMPLOY THEM because advertisement writers today HAVE A LARGER AUDIENCE AND A GREATER FOLLOWING than the best literary men you can name. Their work COMPARES WITH THE BEST LITERATURE and what they write NOT ONLY INSTRUCTS but HOLDS THE INTEREST of the people.

Keep your New England ALIVE—INTERESTED—make the people interest themselves that New England to them MEANS THE GREATEST PLACE ON EARTH.

PRIDE IN ONE'S COMMUNITY IS THE BIGGEST ASSET THAT COMMUNITY CAN POSSIBLY HAVE.

Advertising your own greatness in your home newspapers WILL MAKE YOU REALIZE MORE FULLY YOUR OWN GREATNESS.

Is there ANYTHING THAT YOU MAKE IN New England that new Englanders DON'T WANT? How many of you Know what you can buy here THAT IS MADE BY YOUR OWN PEOPLE?

DON'T SOME OF YOU HAVE TO GO AWAY FROM HOME to learn what manufacturers manufacture right here under your noses? Is it not important TO KEEP YOUR OWN PEOPLE POSTED as to what you are doing?

Your newspapers help a lot—give you a tremendous amount of free publicity—but THERE IS NOTHING SO STRONG COMMERCIALLY OR EDUCATIONALLY AS THE ADVERTISEMENT THAT STATES FACTS OVER THE SIGNATURE OF REPUTABLE BUSINESS MEN.

Publishing a newspaper is a serious business. The cost is tremendous. Readers expect the fullest and most accurate news from all parts of the world, as well as a careful gathering of community news. AND THEY GET IT!

Only One "BROMO QUININE," that is Laxative Bromo Quinine
Cures a Cold in One Day, Grip in 2 Days
E. W. Grove on box 25c

On an average of 2,000 lines to the page you would get publicity to the extent of 2,796 pages in the year, or an average of over seven pages in different parts of New England every day in the year.

If the space were to be divided equally among all the newspapers, each paper would receive the equivalent of 16 full pages in the year.

Is there anybody here tonight that can dispute for an instant what such a campaign would do for New England?

BRIEFS

The City Council Committee on Public Buildings will meet Monday evening.

Mrs. W. A. Lamb left for New York Friday and will join Mr. Lamb at Philadelphia.

Crossing of the fire alarm wires at 7.36 this morning caused several blows to be struck that sounded much like one round of Box 13.

Rev. Thomas S. Cline assistant pastor at St. Stephen's church, Boston, is to preach at both services on Wednesday at St. Chrysostom's.

All Souls church, Braintree begins a series of six Lenten vesper services at 4.30 o'clock tomorrow. Mrs. John F. Hunt of Bigelow street is organist at this church.

Those who appreciate fine pictures will enjoy the illustrated address at Bethany church on Sunday evening. All the pictures are reproductions of Hofmann's famous paintings.

Rev. Herbert W. Barker of St. Luke's church, Chelsea, is to conduct the Lenten service on Wednesday at Christ church. Mr. Barker is the son of Mrs. William P. Barker of Greenleaf street and has many friends in this city.

Dr. Edwin N. Hardy conducted the devotional exercises at the Boston Ministers' meeting on Monday, being the second speaker since the adoption of the Harvard plan of a devotional service of fifteen minutes with a sermonette on some important subject.

Members of the Quincy and Wollaston Y. P. R. U., who are to attend the Federation meeting at First church, Meeting House Hill, Dorchester, should transfer at Upham's corner for Meeting House Hill. The afternoon session is at 4 o'clock and the evening meeting at 7.30. The speaker will be Dr. Jeffery R. Brackett, Dean of the School for Social Workers in Boston.

Rev. W. S. Key formerly pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church, who now does missionary work in North Carolina has been known as "the man with the barrow" because he used a wheel-barrow to carry his church books, etc., from village to village in his round of preaching. During his visit north recently he was presented a horse and wagon so that now his work in his extensive diocese will be much easier.

CURED TO STAY CURED

How Quincy Citizens Can Find Complete Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache—
From urinary disorders—
From any disease of the kidneys,
Be cured to stay cured.
Doan's Kidney Pills make lasting cures.
Grateful people testify.
Here's one case of it:

C. H. Foster, 159 Thatcher street, Milton Mass., says: "The symptoms of kidney trouble in my case were not long in first and I paid little attention to them. The result was that before long I found myself firmly in the grasp of this complaint. I became so weak that I could hardly attend to my work and I also suffered from sharp pains in various parts of my body. I lost twenty pounds in weight and could not sleep well. I was very nervous, had no energy and was in such poor health that the doctor told me that I should take to my bed. I did not do this, however, being unwilling to give up. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a supply and had only taken part of the contents of one box before I began to feel better. From that time on I improved steadily until I was well." (Statement given May 1905.)

A Permanent Effect.

On June 24, 1908, Mr. Foster added: "My former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. I have been free from kidney complaint during the years that have passed since I first took the remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Constipation

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you, I am free from all that this morning. You can use this in behalf of suffering humanity. B. F. Fisher, Roanoke, Ill.

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c. Never sold in bulk. The genuine tablet stamped C C C. Guaranteed to cure or your money back. 930

For Bilious Attacks

Here is help for you. Your bilious attacks may be both prevented and relieved, but prevention is better than cure. The means are at your hand. When a dull headache, furred tongue, yellow cast to the eyes, inactive bowels, dizziness, or a sick stomach, warn you of a coming bilious attack, resort at once to which act almost instantly on the liver and bowels, and quickly regulate the flow of bile. A few doses of Beecham's Pills will correct the stomach, put the blood in order, relieve headache and tone the entire system.

For over sixty years, on land and sea, Beecham's Pills, by their safe and thorough action on the stomach, bile and bowels, have maintained their world-wide reputation as

COCHATO CLUB BRAINTREE.

The afternoon of Feb. 22d was observed Washington's birthday children's party. As this is an annual event it is looked forward to by the children of the club members and invited guests. The fancy dances under the direction of Miss Agnes B. Hayward is surely to be congratulated on her success.

The first figure in the form of a flag march was finely executed by the following sixteen young misses all gowned in white and each carrying a flag: Alice Scorcher, Dorothy and Louise Bower, Doris Hubbard, Elizabeth Mitchell, Mary Johnson, Barbara Harris, Louise Prescott, Dorothy McCormack, Edith and Mary Arnold, Marion Rhodes, Mary Kneeland, Winifred Norton, Eva Poercy and Catherine E. Kemp.

The second figure was called jockey dance and was exceedingly well done by Constance Fryer of Quincy, dressed in a jockey costume. The third figure called the sunbonnet babies and overall dance. was too cute for anything and created a great deal of laughter. It was danced by Rita Holgate, Ester McGill, Louise Norton, Allen Gage, Harrison Macomber and Alfred Andrews.

The fourth figure, a solo dance by Miss Marguerite Mason of Brookline, was artistically executed All the members were encored and very gracefully responded to. After the dances refreshments were served to the children, consisting of cream and cake, followed by dancing until 5 o'clock by all the children present. The committee in charge were Mrs. W. A. Norton assisted by Mrs. Edward A. Haskell, Mrs. George E. Williams and Miss Elizabeth Pray.

Mrs. George E. Williams and Mrs. W. A. Norton will hold a bridge party at the club Monday, March 14 at 2.30 for club members and guests.

The list is now posted for the mixed tournament which is to begin about the second week in March. All the bowlers interested should sign their names before it is too late.

The entertainment at the club last night was under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Thayer and the large and appreciative audience demonstrated its approval. The Mendelsshon male quartet, Messrs F. A. Norris, first tenor; W. T. Rice, second tenor; F. H. Bustin, first bass; F. E. Allen, second bass; received rounds of applause. Mrs. Allen, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Minnie G. del Castillo, delighted all with her sweet soprano voice. The reader, Miss Irene Bewley, rendered perfectly up-to-date selections. The program:

Quartet—Annie Laurie, Geibel.
Reading, The Theatre Party,
Soprano Aria from Queen of Sheba."
Quartet, Southern Melody, Foster.
Reading, The Lost Word.

ADVERTISING FACTS.

If you are not already advertising in the Quincy Daily Ledger and wish to increase your business look up a few facts for yourself about the advantages of Ledger advertising. Facts speak for themselves. Ask Ledger advertisers about the good returns they are getting.

Call on any of the newsdealers in City Square, Quincy Point, West Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic or at the South station, Boston, and see what they have to say about the Ledger as a quick seller. Ask the newsboy who leaves the Ledger at your home each night about his sales. These agencies are all reliable and whatever figures they give may be depended upon. When you have the figures you will see why the Ledger is a great factor in reaching readers and buyers. It never has been a cheap or sensational paper to be carelessly read and thrown away but is first and foremost a home paper; a paper for the whole family. As merchants look to the homes for business the Ledger has become a necessity to the up-to-date dealer as well as to its thousands of daily readers.

BRAINTREE PHILERGIANS.

March 1st the Philergians will hold a regular meeting in Cochato hall at 2.30 o'clock. The program is under the management of the department of home economies, Mrs. Clayton E. Freeman, chairman. MODERN HAIR DRESSING has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage for making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

LOSS PLACED AT $160,000

Amount Said to Have Been Stolen by Coleman

Boston, Feb. 26.—George W. Coleman, bookkeeper for the First National bank in Cambridge, was arrested in this city upon his arrival from the west. He was taken in custody by Inspector Nolan of the Cambridge police, who was in company with United States Deputy Marshal Bancroft and John J. Cronin, a lawyer.

First taken to police headquarters in Cambridge, the bookkeeper later was driven in a carriage to the federal building in Boston, where he was arrainged before Commissioner Hayes, and held on a charge of making false entries, involving not less than $160,000. This was $16,000 more than the amount first announced by National Bank Examiner Pepper. He waived the reading of the complaint and the examination and was held in $50,000 bonds to await the action of the federal grand jury, which is now sitting.

After arraignment, Coleman was taken back to the cage in the marshal's office, to be given time to procure bail. None was forthcoming, so the prisoner was taken to Charles street jail.

Under the federal statutes, the offense with which Coleman is charged is characterized as misdemeanor, and the penalty is not less than five years and not more than ten years' imprisonment.

Coleman was searched by Bancroft. On his person was cash amounting to $33.42, a bunch of keys, card case, pocketbook and an automobile license. These and his gold watch were taken and placed in charge of the district attorney. A karat and a half diamond was worn by the prisoner, and this he was allowed to retain.

Revelation follows revelation concerning the manner of life which young Coleman led while bookkeeper of the National City bank and to judge from what has come to light it is easy to see how the $11.54 a week clerk disposed of the money that he is charged with having taken.

According to Lawson Lockhart there were some hilarious times in the rooms of the National City bank after hours. The doors were closed after 3 o'clock, following which it was no unusual thing for friends of Coleman to drop in, women calling occasionally, as well as men. While Coleman was working on his books—doctoring them as it seems now—there was boxing matches, singing and drinks for those who cared to indulge from the bottle of whiskey which Coleman had on hand.

One of the heaviest individual losses sustained by Coleman was in the Boston mayoral election. Firm in the belief that Storrow would be elected, Coleman snapped up bets right and left, with the result that when Fitzgerald was elected, the young bookkeeper was about $10,000 out of pocket. For another thing, Coleman dabbled extensively in stocks.

Around town, Coleman seems to have been a prince of good fellows. For some time he had a suite of rooms in the Hotel Lenox, besides which he provided rooms for friends. He gave stag parties, in which nothing less than champagne was worthy the thirst of his followers, and 50-cent cigars topped off.

Promises to expose a gigantic fare bank swindling game, by which prominent men have been fleeced, are made. It is said that Coleman will tell of the faro bank that got the money, as well as countless thousands from other bank employes in the vicinity of Boston.

Coleman, already desperate, it is said, because of his great shortage, was an easy victim, and it is believed that $40,000 of the bank's money dropped into the faro swindlers' hands after they had gained his confidence and made him believe he could double his money in an hour's play. As in the case of every victim, he was taken to New York and lost his money under the belief that he was in a conspiracy to cheat through the treachery of a trusted faro bank dealer.

The swindlers are said to be closely allied to the "wire men" who fleeced W. F. Walker, the cashier of New Britain, Conn., and Dr. Muir, the New York physician, who lost thousands of dollars.

Several women figure in the merry life that the young man led at the expense of the bank. Jealousy stalked among the fair ones with whom Coleman associated.

BIG CALL-OUT THREATENED

Men Who Can "Shoot Straight" Will Participate

REMARKS OF LABOR LEADER

They Lead to Warrant For His Arrest on Charge of Inciting to Riot—Attacks on Philadelphia Cars Continue After Nightfall—Arbitration Proposition of Committee of Clergymen Turned Down by Railway Officials

Philadelphia, Feb. 26.—Following the publication of a statement alleged to have been made by John J. Murphy, president of the Central Labor union, that " a general strike should be called immediately. I think it is inevitable. There are men in the northeast who can shoot as straight as any trooper who ever drew a breath," a warrant was issued last night for the labor leader charging him with "inciting to riot."

"You can depend upon it that at Sunday's meeting of the Central Labor union a general strike will be called," said Murphy. "If one man is shot in Kensington (the mill district), there will follow a carnival of riot and bloodshed which will startle the entire country. The state police would be helpless. I want it understood that there are men in the northeast who can shoot as straight as any trooper who ever drew a breath."

ARRESTED AFTER BEING BEATEN.

The remarks on which the warrant for Murphy's arrest were based were said to have been made by him after the announcement that at a special meeting of the board of directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, the request for arbitration submitted by the committee of prominent clergymen had been declined.

Riots in West Philadelphia and in the southern section of the city followed the running of cars after dark last night in those localities.

Three cars west bound on South street were held by an obstruction. A crowd of men and boys showered bricks, stones and pieces of wood at the motormen, conductors and policemen who were guarding the cars. When fifty bluecoats reached the scene the crowd had dispersed, leaving the cars badly wrecked.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company a reply was made to the committee of clergymen, refusing to submit to the proposed arbitration. This attitude of the company caused a renewal of the plans for a sympathetic strike.

A meeting of the Central Labor union of Philadelphia, which is composed of delegates from the various trade unions of the city, will be held tomorrow, at which the question of calling a general sympathetic strike will be discussed.

SHOW CAUSE OF HIGH PRICES

All That Lodge's Committee Desires In Investigation

Washington, Feb. 26.—No trust agents will be summoned to testify, the committee will hasten to make its report before the adjournment, and the committee is divided, on party lines, over the question of conducting a general trust investigation.

All these things were indicated in the senate when Senator Simmons (N. C.) a member of Senator Lodge's committee on the investigation of wages and prices, as the chairman likes to call it, arose to refute recent newspaper assertions that the Democratic members were obstructing the work of the committee.

After delivering himself of a defense of the Democrats and charging the newspapers with misrepresentation, Simmons went on to read carefully from manuscript his opinion that any investigation which did not inquire into the methods whereby wholesale and retail prices are fixed by the trusts would be unsatisfactory and incomplete.

He then criticised Lodge's plan of obtaining information through department experts, saying that satisfactory results could not be secured by this course. The information the country wanted could be obtained, he said, only by rigid cross-examination of the executive agents of the trusts. Every manufacturer, wholesaler, jobber, retailer, manager or agent connected with packing business should be brought before the committee, he said.

Senator Lodge replied briefly to Simmons, but did not move an inch from his original position that nothing would be gained by oral testimony. "The committee has had two meetings," he said. "There has been no difference of opinion between the majority and the minority. We want to get facts and bring them before the country at the earliest possible moment, to show what caused high prices. The committee does not desire," said Lodge, "to drag out the time in useless inquiries that will result in nothing."

Senator Owen expressed the hope that the scope of inquiry would be enlarged to include oil. He would like it explained to the country why oil which could be bought for 35 cents for a barrel of forty-two gallons in Oklahoma brings 20 cents a gallon in Washington.

Senator Lodge explained that the resolution provided for an inquiry into oil, but, he said, included several subjects which the committee would be unable to touch. "Rents, for example," said Lodge. "We can and will inquire into oil and find out about it, but it would take the whole force of the government a year or two to investigate rents."

The colloquy closed at this point without excitement; nevertheless the impression is strong about the corridors that the investigating committee is in a delicate position.

The Democrats will press their demand for a thorough and open trust investigation and the committee, on the ground stated by Lodge, probably will refuse to make it, believing that no evidence of real value would be obtained. The issue is an awkward one, for, as one representative said after the debate, "the country will not understand the reasons given by the committee and doesn't want to understand them. It has its own notions as to high prices, and nothing congress can do or say will change its opinion."

INCREASED WAGE GRANTED

Other Concessions to Striking Weavers In Franklin Woolen Mill

Franklin, N. H., Feb. 26.—The 100 weavers at the Franklin woolen mill of Moses T. Stevens, who went on strike Feb. 3, asking an increase in wages of ¼ of a cent per yard, and the abolition of the system of fines in use, have voted to return to work Monday.

The weavers, by the agreement reached with the mill management, are given the increase asked for, and the abolition of certain specified fines.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

PNEUMONIA KILLS COLONEL TALBOT

Recognized as One of Boston's Most Popular Men

Boston, Feb. 26.—Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas Talbot, commander of the First Corps of Cadets, M. V. M., former chairman of the Republican state committee, prominent woolen manufacturer, popular clubman and veteran of the Spanish war, died in New York of pneumonia, aged 43.

He returned from a two weeks' pleasure trip to Bermuda, and was taken ill upon his arrival in New York.

Colonel Talbot was the son of a former governor of Massachusetts. It is very much to be doubted if there was a more popular man in all of Greater Boston. Although his business and residence were situated in Billerica, where he was born, Talbot was essentially a Bostonian. He had been a member of the Cadets almost from his boyhood, graduating from Harvard in 1889, and had risen from the ranks to the position of commander.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGT.

A New Device for Safe, Sane and Sanitary Osculation—Operatic Song Birds Ordered to Remove "Crullers" and "Sausages" from Their Hair—High School Essayist Admits that Woman's Place is in the Home—Thriftful Down Easter, Who Saved $1600 in Two Years, Says Young People Have a Great Chance Yet—Merry Makers Get Up a Unique "Wedding Anniversary Fair."

Hubbites thronged to the dog show this week, and a more than usually large attendance was brought out by the presence of five of Commander Peary's Eskimo dogs who accompanied him on his final dash to the pole. The big animals resemble the timber wolf in appearance, but are as gentle as one could wish as they lie in their cage at the rear of the hall in the Mechanics Building. They did not seem to mind the crowd standing four and five deep around them, but were evidently suffering considerably from the heat, and it is expected that they will be removed to the upper part of the building where they can have better air. They proved to be successful rivals for admiration and attention of the famous New England Kennel prize winners with their fancy trappings, silk lined baskets and other necessities of high bred dogdom.

War on rats, puffs and the other perquisites of feminine headgear has been declared, in so far forth as his authority extends, by Regisseur-General Menotti, to the consternation of the young ladies of the chorus of the Boston Opera Company. While watching a rehearsal of the chorus Mr. Menotti became impressed with the feeling that there was something sadly out of keeping with the scenes and time of the opera in progress. Investigation discovered the most modern of coiffeurs grotesquely topping off the beautiful ladies of olden times. Tears and entreaties failed to move the adamant Mr. Menotti, who ordered the "crullers" and "sausages" removed in post haste and consigned to the flames. "Did Carmen's friends wear crullers in their hair?" exclaimed the incensed Pegisseur-General. "Did Rhadames have them flaunted in his face when he returned from battle? you spoil the stage picture and tear the heartstrings of Boston's musical critics. Take 'em off!" Off they had to come, despite protestations to the contrary. Hereafter the young ladies will appear in their own crowning beauty, whether the hairs of their heads be numbered few or many.

A novel idea in charitable affairs has been devised for the fair to be given by the Florence Crittenton League of Compassion at Horticultural Hall next week, and which is to be called the Wedding Anniversary Fair. The booth having paper articles for sale will be presided over by brides of a year, the tin booth will be cared for by ladies who have been married a decade, the silver booth will be graced by those who have sailed the sea of matrimony for a quarter of a century, and the intermediate anniversaries will have their appropriate booths. Not the least interesting feature of this affair will be a wedding feast every afternoon, at which the merrymakers will toast the prettiest bride present, this question being decided by a jury of men. It is needless to say that the promoters of the fair are taking a keen interest in all these details.

Wisconsin comes to the aid of distressed Massachusetts with at least one champion. The good New England state has been greatly disturbed of late by the crusade against the kissing habit, and even fails to find much comfort in the newest device for sanitary osculation, which takes the form of a thin silk gauze stretched over a tiny frame resembling a tennis racquet, and which is intended to be placed between the lips of the two parties interested when it becomes necessary or desirable to kiss. Dr. M. P Ravenel, a Milwaukee professor, head of the state society which is conducting the war against tuberculosis, admits that kissing is risky—"but it is a poor sort of fellow who will not take some chances," he is reported to have said to a Milwaukee audience. It is strongly advocated by some Massachusetts citizens, young and otherwise, that the esteemed scientist be given an honorary position by our Commonwealth and be invited here to address audiences with the hope of reviving their dejected spirits in a similar way.

Thrift is a good old fashioned virtue which the Massachusetts Old Age Pension Commission in commending savings bank life insurance and other agencies for encouragement of the thriftful, has recommended to be taught in the schools. Some American young men and young women fortunately there still are who do not have to be taught this essential qualification of the good citizen. Of such sort is a youth who, in commenting on the instance of a student's saving $400 in two years', writes: "I was a poor boy from Maine, and right here in Boston, from April 1, 1903, I did save $1600 in two years, polishing brass signs in the South End at $21 a week. I had a plenty to eat, but plain. The next four years I saved just $600 a year on $18 a week making in six years $4000. I am still in the business at $12 a week. I put my money in houses in Everett. I collect $135 a month rent, and have almost $50 a month income coming in and hire everything done. The young men have a great chance yet." And so they certainly have, and the young girls too, if they will be as thriftful as this energetic Down Easter.

Rarely have Bostonians, and, for that matter, many visitors from some distance, enjoyed a prettier sight than that which illumined Symphony Hall on Washington's Birthday. Hundreds of children of all ages, garbed in costumes like those of our ancestors, danced happily in the great "cave of the winds" to the tune of patriotic airs at the Barnard Memorial celebration. Many special dances were given under the direction of Mrs. Lilla Viles Wyman, picturesquely costumed little men and women taking part in a programme which included a dance entitled "Young America," and others such as "Dance of the Nymphs." "Playtime Dance" and "Jack Frost and the Snow Maidens." But the fun came when the floor was opened free to all children present that they might dance to their hearts' content. Many people going and coming on the street cars during the day wondered where on earth all the children and babies in arms had sprung from, as apparantly all that did not attend the Barnard festival did attend the Governor's reception in response to his plea that all the mothers who possibly could do so should bring their babies with them.

Womans place is henceforth definitely determined. A prominent Boston suffragist has received a letter written in good faith by a high school girl in Detroit, descriptive of woman suffrage. It reads as follows: "Woman suffrage is that form of government that creates a confusion in some of the larger cities of the world. As in London the women are continually being arrested for their revolutionary habits. The Women in those Parties are either rich and seek advertising through the papers or have some personal grudge against the government.

"Any government should pass, ordinances that no woman should hold a political position as this is detrimental to her and helps to make her masculine. This does not mean she cannot be interested, but merely that she must not hang around in public places where men swear, and do numerous other disagreeable acts. The place for women is in the home and there to make it cosy and happy for men, their husbands, who do hold Political Positions."

Ethel Angier.

FIGHT ON SLAVE TRADE

$100,000 a Year Needed to Conduct It, Says Secretary Nagel

Washington, Feb. 26.—The expenditure of $100,000 a year in stamping out the "white slave" traffic would be money well spent, says Secretary Nagel in submitting to the house a recommendation that the total estimate for regulating immigration be increased from $2,400,000 to $2,550,000.

Mr. Nagel says the enforcement of the "white slave" traffic bill, now in conference between the two houses and expected to become a law in a few days, will cost $100,000 and that the work will have to be prosecuted differently than the ordinary immigration law enforcement.

ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Armenian Is Held For Causing Death of a Watertown Boy

Waltham, Mass., Feb. 26.—As a result of a hearing given before Judge Luce to Gabriel Goberian, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of James O'Brien, aged 17, at Watertown, probable cause was found and Goberian was held in $1000 bail for his appearance before the grand jury.

The prisoner, who does not talk English, is in a very nervous state and keeps repeating in Armenian that boys drove him to distraction by their pranks.

Says High Prices Will Cause War

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 26.—That high food prices will result in another civil war, unless remedied by congress, was the statement made by Rev. Peter McMillan at the annual meeting of the Worcester Retail Grocers' association.

BRIEFS

Frederick A. Northrop has returned from a business trip in Connecticut.

The next regular session of the City Council will be held a week from Monday evening.

The Quincy Young Women's Club will enjoy a play at the Club house this evening.

Mrs. William Cochrane and her mother of Beach street have returned from Freeport, Me., where she was recently called by the death of her father.

Kenneth Smith of Willow street, entertained a group of his friends informally on Friday evening. Games were enjoyed until a late hour.

The regular monthly meeting of the Quincy Day Nursery association will be held at the Women's club house on Tuesday, March 1, at 2.30 P. M. All interested in the work are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

An excursion was made by the boys of the eighth grade of the Massachusetts Fields school today. Under the guidance of the principal, David E. Goodspeed, visits were made to the Art Museum and State House in Boston. This afternoon they are enjoying a performance of "Ben Hur."

EX-COUNCILMAN DEAD.

Ex-Councilman Alex. C. Smith who died Thursday was well known in labor circles. He was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1858. He received his education in his native place, and in 1880 he came to this country, locating in Maine. He remained there until 1882, when he came to Quincy and has since resided here. He was at one time president of the Granite Cutters' Union, and was also a past chief of Clan McGregor, O. S. C. He was also a member of John Adams Court of Foresters. He served one year in the City Council, from Ward Three in 1893. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. Funeral services will be held at Christ church on Sunday at 3 P. M.

Grady Called a Murderer

Belfast, Me., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Harriet F. Thomas was murdered and by Ira Grady, the Unity blacksmith, was the verdict brought in by the coroner's jury that has been investigating the case.

Germans Invade Congo Frontier

Brussels, Feb. 26.—Dispatches received here say that German troops have been concentrated on the disputed frontier between the Congo and German East Africa. The news caused excitement.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our heartfelt thanks to our many neighbors and friends, who so kindly gave their sympathy and help in our recent bereavement.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Many Quincy friends passed an enjoyable evening Thursday at the home of Miss Clara G. Sass, Franklin avenue, Wollaston, the occasion being her birthday. The evening was passed in playing games, singing and refreshments. Music was furnished by Lillian J. Sass and Clara G. Sass. A trio was sung by Robert Wilson, William Renz and Mary McDonald. The guests joined in singing pretty hymns. The hostess received many beautiful gifts. At 9.30 ladies were escorted to supper by the gentlemen. Mrs. Meta D. Sass and Miss Lillian J. Sass served the supper. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sass, Clara Sass, Robert Wilson, Lillian Sass, Peter Dackers, Ruth Pease, Lester Sass, Lillian Laing, Irving Sass, Lottie Hobart, Lynsie Smith, Jennie Stevens, William Renz, Mary McDonald and Arthur Boynton.

UNIONS TO CELEBRATE.

The three Quincy branches of the Granite Cutters' union are to celebrate the thirty-third anniversary of the union on Thursday evening, Mar. 10, by a banquet at Hibernian hall. Among the guests will be Mayor Shea, John L. Miller, president of the national retail dealers' association; John C. Murray president of the Quincy Manufacturers' Association; James Duncan, secretary-treasurer of formation of the first Cutters' union Harry Brooks of the National office in Quincy; Andrew McIntosh and William T. Spargo. Mr. McIntosh and Mr. Spargo were interested in the formation of the first Cutter' union and Mr. Spargo was its first president.

SPORTING CHAT.

While in the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday I took a look at that swimming pool which, at present, is very much in the limelight To say it looks good to me, is putting it mild, and I hope it will be completed before long that the members may enjoy themselves to their heart's content.

George S. Grant is very anxious to meet Poland and Lyons the victorious combination of Washington's birthday bowling at Norfolk Downs. George would pick a Quincy partner and roll ten strings in Norfolk Downs and ten strings at Quincy. What do you say to this, Mr. Poland and Mr. Lyons?

Show them up, "Babe."

At Randolph last Saturday night in a basket ball game the whole thing developed into a "rough house." Chairs were broken, lights smashed, windows pushed out, and the police mobbed. These tactics should not be tolerated and teams that do this sort of thing should be blacklisted and not be allowed to play anywhere.

• • •

"Lefty" Ford will undoubtedly wear a Roger Walcott uniform the coming season. This speedy twirler has the makings of a crack-a-jack, and I sincerely hope he looks after that salary fixture that he may climb the ladder to fame.

• • •

It begins to look as though we were not going to see another match between Thayer Academy and Quincy High basket ball teams. The game I witnessed between these schools was a beauty, and nothing would please me better than to see them clash again. Is it possible, Quincy?

• • •

The annual Boys' State Athletic meet which will be held today at the Y. M. C. A. promises to draw many lovers of track sports and some fine performances by the youngsters are sure to be seen. The man in charge needs no introduction to the Quincy sporting public as he is never happy unless arranging for something of this sort. If you attend and enjoy it (as you surely will) just remember C. M. Gifford as the man behind the boys.

Watch Johnson Brothers' ad right along and find out how to reduce the cost of living.

FORE RIVER DEFEATED.

"Teddy" Hermanson formerly of this city brought his team of bowlers to the Granite street alleys last night and took the Fore River Machinists into camp, winning all three strings and taking the three string total by 96 pins. "Teddy" was as good as of yore, for he captured the highest single string with 104 and one of his team-mates, Stevens, got the three string honors with 280.

FORESTERS ANNIVERSARY.

Court John Adams, Foresters of America, celebrated its eleventh anniversary last evening at Clan McGregor hall. There was a large attendance of members including visitors from West Quincy, Milton and Boston.

Refreshments were served and there were addresses by Deputy Grand Chief Ranger Ford of Milton, Past Chief Ranger Charles E. Ericson, Financial Secretary, Alex. W. Russell and others. John Adams court now numbers 250 members and is one of the strongest organizations in Quincy, especially financially, and like all fraternal organizations, it does a vast amount of good in a quiet business like way.

EAST BRAINTREE.

The annual supper of Hose 1 was held at the engine hall, Tuesday evening. Chief Frank O. Whitmarsh was among the guests entertained.

Mrs. Inez D. Merrill, who is enjoying the winter at Clearwater, Fla., expects to return to East Braintree the last of April. She is well and her letters are full of interest.

Mrs. B. J. Loring took a prominent part in the Patriotic celebration held by Reynolds Woman's Relief Corps, No. 102, of which she is a member and which was held at the Opera house. East Weymouth, Tuesday evening.

Miss Matilda Bates, sister of the late Andrew J. Bates, died at her home on Quincy avenue, Sunday, aged 77. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon and the interment was at Village cemetery, Weymouth.

The monthly social and supper of the Social club of the Union church will be held in the banquet room of the church Wednesday evening, at 6.30 o'clock. After the supper the young people will present the drama, "The Two Puddifoots."

Mr. and Mrs. William Buker of Liberty street entertained their friends and relatives from Boston and also from Maine Friday evening, Feb. 18th. Music was furnished by the Herne brothers of East Braintree and Mr. E. W. Gillette of Middle street, two violins and piano the music was highly appreciated and a bountiful collation was served It was also the birthday of Mr. Gillette although the people of the party were not aware of it.

—The Government has imported grasses such as are used by the Japanese in making mats and will try and grow them in the South. If successful, mat-making may be added to the list of American industries. It ought to be, considering that carpet-matting is in such general use, especially in the Southern States. The Government might find it profitable to also experiment with the grasses of the South Sea islands, which produce the finest and most flexible matting known to the trade.—San Francisco Chronicle.

WHY BASKETBALL HAS LOST FAVOR

Reasons Given For Sport's Decline In the East.

COLLEGE COACH GIVES VIEWS

Reiter of Wesleyan Blames Big Universities — Declares Game Would Boom if Taken Up on Large Scale. Columbia After National Title.

The failure of the sterling indoor game of basketball to retain a firm hold in the college athletic world is a subject of much speculation. With the exception of Columbia and Pennsylvania and a few of the smaller colleges interest in the sport seems to be lagging. Yale cut down its schedule this year. The game seems to be in a wishy-washy state at Cornell and Princeton. Harvard and Amherst have dropped it from their athletic category, and Brown is contemplating so doing. Other smaller colleges throughout the country, once warm supporters of basketball, have either dropped the game or are confining it to interclass matches.

In the west, where there is an intercollegiate league, things are different. Intense interest is taken in all cities where the game is played. The Columbia champions of the east are anxious to meet the winners of the western title for the national championship.

Bosey Reiter, who is in charge of athletics and physical development at Wesleyan, recently made some interesting comments on the failure of basketball to hold its popularity in the college. By way of illustration, Reiter compared basketball and football. In part he said:

"It wasn't a half century ago that football occupied somewhat the same position that basketball did about five years ago. The game was new. All athletics, in fact, were new, and checkers and chess continued to go hand in hand as the accepted amusements of the college man. Bring those very conditions down to the present day, substituting the word 'basketball' for 'football.' Basketball isn't more than thirteen years old, and it costs about as much to run a basketball team at Wesleyan or Williams as it does at Yale.

"But the big colleges have not begun to specialize in the game, and from what I hear the game does seem to be progressing the other way. However, if the big colleges developed their interest in the sport as they have in football it would not be very long before they would completely outclass the smaller college teams.

"There are several things in which basketball differs from football and because of which it cannot become an ideal college sport. The game is more uncertain than football by far. Various obvious points explain this. The psychic element is more evident, especially in basketball off the home floor. Then the crowds are closer, and physical effects of the crowd of spectators are consequently communicated more quickly. And, furthermore, while a gridiron is a gridiron, a basketball floor is not a basketball floor. This is simply because basketball was unheard of when most gymnasiums were built, and the differences of courts are apt to give a home team a great advantage in many cases and make any team's play throughout the season seem erratic and inconsistent."

IN SECRET SESSION

Boston Judge Finds French Dancer Guilty of Improper Conduct

Boston, Feb. 26.—Jeanne Peletreau, the French dancer who was arraigned with Margaret Percival before Judge Wentworth for participating in an improper private dance before well known men, was found guilty and sentenced to six months in the house of correction. Miss Percival, who pleaded guilty, was placed on probation. Miss Peletreau appealed

The hearing was private, but District Attorney Pelletier was present. When he said that he had "not yet" become interested in the case there was some excitement, the inference being that the prosecuting officer might take a hand in it by getting the men in the case before the grand jury.

WORKING AS CHAUFFEUR

Man Who Mysteriously Disappeared From Portland Is Found

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Charles Bean, a merchant of Portland, Me., who disappeared mysteriously Jan. 31, was found working as a chauffeur in Hinsdale, Ills.

When spoken to in the garage where he was employed, Bean denied his identity at first, and said his name was Carleton A. Baker. A minute later; after apparently thinking deeply, he said: "I believe that's right; my name is Bean, but I don't know where I came from."

Apparently Bean is suffering from a lapse of memory. He asserts that he has forgotten his past life and for weeks has tried to remember who he is and where he came from.

CLAIMS THE RIGHT TO BEAT HIS WIFE

Fall River Man Says the Woman Agrees With Him

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 26.—Anthony Salermo, arraigned in court on the charge of wife beating, presented an extraordinary defense. He maintained that the court proceedings were all wrong, as his wife had never complained to the police that she had been beaten by him and that she believed it to be his right to chastise her when he saw fit.

Neighbors, who for weeks had been disturbed by the nightly cries of the woman, brought the charges and testified that they had seen blows struck. Salermo was fined $25 and paid.

CURTAILMENT BEGUN

Fall River Mills to Remain Closed For Several Saturdays

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 27.—The general curtailment policy adopted by the Fall River cotton mills will be in force for three months. Practically all the mills, except the seven of the Fall River Iron Works group, begun the curtailment this week by closing yesterday afternoon until next Monday morning.

The mills will be closed every Saturday during the short time period, making a total cut of 67½ hours in the time of the 25,000 operatives.

Says Promise to Wed Was Broken

Worcester, Mass., Feb. 26.—Miss Beatrice Reagan of Milford, formerly housekeeper for John F. Dempsey, a mill owner, has brought suit for $40,000 against her former employer, who she alleges promised to marry her.

PRESIDENT BOWLES REACHES BOSTON

Grand Welcome for Him Tomorrow When He Arrives in the City of Presidents

Six Speakers for the Grand Banquet at Music Hall

President Bowles of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company arrived in Boston from New York on Saturday. He has not been in Quincy as yet and will not come here until Tuesday evening for the reception. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Bowles, who with Mayor Shea will receive at Alpha hall. He will arrive in Quincy at 5.49, and will be met at the depot by the committee of 100. This committee is requested to meet at City Hall at 5.30. The band will arrive on the scene at 5.30 and give a concert in City Square, and will then escort the party to Alpha hall.

Carriages will be provided for the Mayor and President and Mrs. Bowles. The reception will be from 6 to 6.45, and it is planned that everybody shall be seated at the tables before 7 o'clock. Therefore after being presented those who are to attend the banquet will immediately go to Music hall.

President Bowles will arrive at Music hall at 7 o'clock and it is planned that everybody shall be seated at the tables when he enters the hall.

It has been determined by the committee on the banquet that there shall be six speakers. These are: Hon. William T. Shea, Mayor of the city, and chairman of the committee; Rev. Dr. Edwin N. Hardy, the pastor of Bethany Congregational church; Hon. Everett C. Bumpus, formerly judge of the District court; Theophilus King, president of the National Granite Bank; Ward W. Whitcher, a royal entertainer, and the honored guest of the evening, Francis Tiffany Bowles, president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company.

That Music hall will be none too large for the banquet is a well established fact, for 500 tickets have already been sold, and there are dozens of others who neglected to obtain tickets who are now willing to pay almost any price for them. James F. Burke, the treasurer of the committee, says that his telephone was ringing constantly Saturday by parties seeking tickets, but he had none to give out. There may be some who purchased tickets for the first date set, that will be unable to attend Tuesday evening. If these parties will return their tickets to Mr. Burke the money paid for them will be refunded.

Although announced several times, that the dress would be informal, there are still inquiries being made about the dress. To these the committee say: It is a business men's affair and therefore it will be business dress.

Quite a large delegation of the members of the Granite City club will attend the banquet and President Tilden is planning for them to march in a body from the club rooms to the hall. It is probable that they may wear a red bow on the coat lapel.

Work decorating for the occasion was commenced in earnest Saturday, and by night quite a number of business houses were in gala day dress. Today more decorations were put up and by Tuesday night the route from City Hall to Music hall will be well decorated.

Among the business houses decorated are:

GENIAL JIMS BIRTHDAY

Supper and Presentation to James E. Maxim

Veteran firemen, active firemen and numerous friends of genial James E. Maxim gathered at Grand Army hall Saturday evening to extend their congratulations on the passing of his 66th birthday anniversary. Saturday was not the exact anniversary day of the event at Winthrop, Me., that brought Jim into existence in 1844, but it was the day selected by the committee in charge as the exact day fell on Sunday.

JAMES E. MAXIM

The gathering was considerable of a surprise to him. He had prepared to spend the evening at home, when Chief Williams called for him and requested him to accompany him for a short walk. The walk ended at Grand Army hall, where he was quickly surrounded and made aware of what was doing. A supper had been prepared and just as the party were about to take seats at the table an alarm sounded from Box 321. A team from the central station dashed up to take the firemen to the fire, while Jim hastened to the station of which he has charge during the absence of the apparatus. The alarm proved to be a false one, and half an hour later all returned to the hall and the feast was on.

Before the feast commenced, James I. Elcock, an ex-engineer and the present Overseer of the Poor, rapped for order, and after giving the guests a brief incite into Jims eventful life, presented him with a purse containing $30 in gold. This almost took his breath away, but he managed to thank the boys for their generosity. The feast over, there was a little speaking, remarks being made by Councilmen Whiton, Fred H. French, president of the W. M. French Hose association, Chief Engineer Peter J. Williams and Albert Keating and ex-Chief of Police, Joseph W. Hayden, who was a member of the famous thirteen club. The balance of the evening was passed in a social manner.

For years it was the custom for a party of genial friends to gather about the festive board at Jim's home on the thirteenth of February to celebrate his birthday, and this club became known as the Thirteen club. Some of the members of this club have passed to the great beyond, but there were four of them present on this occasion, City Clerk Harrison A. Keith, Henry O. Studley, Joseph W. Hayden and Albert Keating. While these four were exchanging reminiscences of bygone days the party were entertained by banjo solos by Henry O. Studley, and songs by James Dunn.

The committee in charge of the affair were Capt. Charles P. Costa of the Central fire station, Michael Barry, John T. Minihan and Charles Martin.

James E. Maxim, the hero of the evening, is well known to all of the older residents of Quincy. As stated above he was born in Winthrop, Me., but came to Quincy when a young man. The manufacture of boots was the leading industry of the old town at that time, and in this he was soon actively engaged, following the business for many years. In 1868 the town elected him as one of its constables and so efficient an official was he that he was reelected every year thereafter, until the city form of government was adopted. Then he was appointed a constable and although the political complexion of the rulers of the city has changed many times since 1889, Jim has always been reappointed and a few weeks ago he held up his hand for the 42nd time and swore before City Clerk Keith that he would faithfully discharge the duties of constable.

One of the chief delights of boys in olden times was to join the fire department and run with machines to fires. It did not matter where the fire was, the boys had just as soon take a ten mile run to a fire as to a fire around the corner. Jim like other boys possessed this same spirit, and at the age of twenty years he became a full fledged member of Tiger 2, whose headquarters were on School street, the building now located on Hancock street opposite Music hall being the last house of the company.

Hosea B. Ellis was the foreman of the company at that time, and Jim remained an active member for five years, during a part of which he officiated as clerk of the company. Then six congenial spirits formed a hose company which was named after Washington M. French. These six were Horace Feltis, who was the captain; James E. Maxim, first lieutenant; Henry S. Totman, second lieutenant; Eben W. Underwood, clerk; Gridley Totman, treasurer; and David J. Burrell, standing committe. Their piece of apparatus at that time was a two-wheel hose reel, and the membership of the company was confined to the six organizers. Of the original six, Jim is the only one now living.

Eventually the company was enlarged and a new and modern hose reel was purchased by the town, and became famous for its skill, as well as its promptness in responding to alarms. Jim remained with the company twelve years. Eight of these years he served as first assistant, three years as foreman, and one year as a private.

For a number of years thereafter Jim did not take any active interest in fire matters, although down deep in his heart there was still a longing to be a fire fighter. This at last got the best of him and nineteen years ago he became connected with the apparatus at the Central station to which he is still attached. He does not respond to alarms now, however, his duty being to care for the station while the apparatus is absent at a fire. This brief bit of history shows that genial Jim is fully entitled to the title of veteran fireman.

In connection with his long career with the fire department, it is somewhat remarkable that only once has he been called upon to sound an alarm of fire from the present fire alarm boxes. This notable event took place a few years ago when he pulled the lever which gave the alarm for a fire on Revere road. Although a novice in thus giving alarms he, as usual, did his work faithfully and the apparatus was soon on the scene.

Jim is still fond of hunting, fishing and skating and is hailed as an all-around good fellow, and his friends unite in wishing him many more birthday anniversaries.

"Welcome home, Admiral Bowles!"

A QUINCY CELEBRATION ★

Quincy is, this week, celebrating the Fore River Co. receiving two big contracts.

We want every woman in Quincy and surrounding towns to order their EASTER SUIT of us. They will then have a chance to celebrate, for we offer custom-made suits this week at prices much lower than ever offered in this city before. Remember you run no risk, for we guarantee everything to be perfect in fashion, fit and finish.

We want you to know that we take particular pride in our business and add anything that we think interests our patrons. We now keep open every evening (Tuesday excepted,) and give LEGAL STAMPS on all purchases.

POOR TAX COLLECTION

Quincy Has Unenviable Record in State

That Quincy is unusually lenient with its taxpayers in the matter of collections, so much so that more rigid methods have become absolutely necessary, is shown from a persual of the latest reports from the cities of the commonwealth. These reports show that of 24 cities from which reports have been made out of the 33 cities of the States, taxes have been paid better in 22 cities than in this city. In other words Quincy stands 23d in the list and ONLY ONE has a poorer record.

In order to bring in taxes in the way in which the city has a right to expect them, some cities in years past have been obliged to sell property for two years' taxes in one. For instance if this was to be done in Quincy now it would mean advertising and selling all real estate on which the taxes of 1908 and 1909 had not been paid, and in after years selling all property on which taxes for any year were not paid before the bills for taxes for the next year were sent out.

This present method is disastrous to a city by reason of the fact that a city is not allowed to borrow against its outstanding taxes of previous years. It can only borrow in anticipation of the taxes for the current year. The taxes which are outstanding are needed for paying off loans previously secured.

So many taxpayers have taken advantage of privileges allowed in years past that the amount of unpaid taxes has grown exceedingly large. Conditions have arisen which make it practically impossible for any Massachusetts city to allow so much time for tax collections as have been allowed in the past.

Reports have been examined from 24 out of the 33 cities of the State. The following table gives the list in the order of collections, showing the percentage of uncollected taxes for the years 1909 and 1908. New Bedford taking the highest honors in this line, neighbor Taunton standing a good second. The table:

	1909	1908
New Bedford	6.02	.76
Taunton	8.07	1.90
Fall River	11.67	3.62
Northampton	13.09	2.50
Holyoke	15.92	5.59
Beverly	16.32	8.02
Worcester	17.00	.40
Springfield	19.00	1.20
Salem	21.00	3.00
Somerville	21.47	.53
Haverhill	22.52	13.03
Lynn	23.00	6.18
Newton	23.00	3.73
North Adams	23.39	.42
Woburn	24.00	10.70
Fitchburg	24.65	1.37
Newburyport	24.06	14.40
Malden	27.14	12.00
Brockton	29.00	11.00
Gloucester	30.55	12.85
Marlborough	31.00	13.00
Chelsea	35.87	13.31
Quincy	43.43	14.58
Melrose	45.38	14.28

Not only is Quincy next to the foot for the year 1909, but for the year 1908 it is in LAST PLACE. It is imperative that something must be done.

CLAN ATTEND FUNERAL

R. A. McQueen Buried From United Presbyterian Church

The funeral services of the late Roderick A. McQueen took place Sunday afternoon from the First United Presbyterian church. It was the largest funeral ever held in that church. The deceased was a member of the Order of Clan McGregor and the members of that fraternity were out in full force. The auditorium of the church was filled to its utmost capacity. The adjoining prayer meeting room was thrown open and every available seat there was occupied.

The funeral director was John Hall and he did his part perfectly. The service of song was under the direction of Archie Parsons, leader of the choir in that church, assisted by Miss Annie Russell organist of the church. The service began with the singing of hymn "Christian's goodnight," by a male quartette, composed of the following gentlemen—W. C. Warmington, first tenor; F. Warmington, 2d tenor; Archie Parsons, first bass; George Davey 2d bass. Then followed reading of selections of scripture by the pastor, Rev. A. M. Thompson, prayer by pastor. Hymn—"Sleep thy last sleep," by mixed quartette, composed of Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie soprano, Mrs. Charles Campbell, alto, Mr. Parsons tenor, Edwin Purkess bass.

The pastor took for his topic II Timothy IV:6 He referred briefly to the setting of the text. Then its application to the close of the life of the chiefest apostle. He then referred briefly to the life and character of the deceased. He was a consistent christian. A lover of his Bible. He made it his constant companion. He loved to attend the services of God's house. Was regularly there when health and strength permitted. He left behind him the best human legacy—the influence of a Godly example. "He being dead yet speaketh."

After prayer by the pastor, the male quartette sang:—"Nearer my God to thee."

Then the officers of Clan McGregor took charge of the services. One read an appropriate selection then the others followed in their respective places. As the remains were being viewed by the large number of friends and relations as they passed from the church the male quartette sang another apropriate hymn: "Farewell." Many of the members of the clan as well as the mourners and friends, followed the remains to the cemetery, and there conveyed to the deceased brother the last tribute of earthly respect.

The deceased was born in Cape Britan, Nova Scotia, about forty years ago. His mother is still living and resides there. He leaves a wife and five children to mourn their loss.

SERIOUS ASSAULT

One Teamster Hits Another With a Hammer

James H. Bowlin, aged 43 years, a teamster residing at 1 Bryant street, was arrested Sunday afternoon by Officer Goodhue, for assault with intent to kill Charles J. Brooks, aged 59 years, also a teamster, residing at the same place. Thomas Carroll, also a teamster, who was present when the alleged assault took place, was arrested and locked up for drunkenness.

According to the police the three men were in the basement of the house where they boarded, and all had been drinking more or less. First there was a dispute, which grew warmer as it progressed, until Bowlin lost his temper, and is alleged to have seized a short stone masons hammer with which he struck Brooks, a savage blow. Brooks dropped like a log, and it is alleged that while down Bowlin kicked him in a savage manner and dislocated his left shoulder.

Brooks at that time was unconscious and others in the room thinking he was dead ran out and notified the police. Officers Goodhue and Cahill responded with the patrol wagon. When they arrived Brooks had come to, and he with Bowlin and Carroll were taken to the police station.

City Physician Hallowell and Dr. Garey were notified, and after the dislocated shoulder of Brooks had been set they were locked up in separate cells.

This morning, save for his dislocated shoulder, Brooks appeared to be all right, and he was brought to court on a complaint for drunkenness, that he might be held as a witness against Bowlin.

Bowlin was arraigned on two complaints, one for assault with intent to kill, and the second, for drunkenness

Dr. Hallowell testified as to the wounds and said that the man would recover.

Thomas Carroll testified that there was no drinking in the cellar. He saw Bowlin take a short handled hammer from the shelf and say: "I'll fix him, all right." He struck Brooks back of the ear, whereupon he fell down. He did not see Bowlin do anything to Brooks after that. Witness said he was afraid of Bowlin when he was drunk. Witness spoke to Bowlin, and the latter mumbled something about "If he is not gone, I'll go in and finish him." Carroll was a very unwilling witness and his testimony had to be dragged from him by piecemeal.

Bowlin testified to having trouble with Brooks, and to losing his temper when he saw him down cellar. He was sorry for what had happened.

The court held Bowlin in $1,000 for the superior court. In default he was committed. The complaint for drunkenness was continued until July 1.

WARDROBES

If women designed houses, there would be closets everywhere. There are few houses today that have closets enough—that's why we sell so many wardrobes.

You can find a place in nearly every room for a wardrobe and they are not only useful but very ornamental.

They range in price from $10 to $25. The $10 one is just as serviceable as the one for $25.

Heavier panels—French plate mirrors in doors—quality of wood and finish make the difference in price. Our wardrobes are low in price and attractive in design.

President Bauer of the Lynn Board of Trade said some pretty good things to the Chelsea Board of Trade the other night which would be just as applicable here in our own city. He said "A board of trade should avoid taking any part in politics as an organization. Don't ask them anything about their politics, religion or nationality. If they are respectable and interested in the city they should be received as members. The board should not be a clearing house for personal schemes. All work should be done along the line of public interest and what is for the best interests of the city and its citizens as a whole. Chelsea could add to its prosperity by erecting an 8-story factory building to be let to manufacturers. It would surprise you to see the number and variety of industries that would apply for floor space ,thus giving employment to more citizens, more trade to the merchants, and adding to the city's taxable property. He urged board of trade team work and the get-together-spirit as important factors in city development. "No matter what project you undertake, "said Mr. Bauer, "there will be a lot of criticism on the part of those who never do anything themselves." It is a battle to overcome the disposition to criticise and to make people hopeful. Do not knock each other or the city. Have the spirit of civic patriotism, such as prevails in western cities. There is less of it in New England than in any other part of the world. To make the board of trade successful show the people that you are actually doing something for the benefit of the city.

DRIFT OF OPINION.

"I have no objection to the erection of as many statues of Jeff Davis as they like in the South," said a Union veteran. "They may even raise monuments to Wirz if they like, but I don't care to see Davis and Lee in the capital at Washington, and I am not stuck on seeing a former Confederate officer placed in charge of the Soldiers' home at Washington, nor the portrait of Davis on the warship silver. These things might be left undone, if for no other reason, out of respect to the men who suffered through those long years of the Civil War.—Boston Record.

Stark, the muck-raking Englishman, who has published a book decrying our Revolutionary heroes, was given something of a jolt, on Tuesday, when at the meeting of the Sons of the American Revolution the true story of Sam Adams, tax collector of Boston, was given. It may be shown later that the attacks on other patriots of the Revolutionary period had no better foundation than his slander of Sam Adams. The officers of the patriotic societies who have undertaken to refute the assertions of the defender of the loyalists will continue their researches and bring out all the facts. The mission of an iconcolast appeals to a certain class of minds, who delight in breaking the images that former generations have held in high esteem. His work primarily is heartless, but sometimes it inspires others to come to the defence of the cherished idols, love for which is made stronger by reason of the conflict through which they have been forced.—Lynn Item.

The champion of the British budget, which has made history for English politics, is not a man to lose his head or his heart in fortune or misfortune. He came originally from an obscure Welsh village and should his projects receive a damaging black eye would be ready like Henry Ward Beecher when warned that a certain course would ruin his prospects, to "go back to the woods." Aside from his feverish Celtic temper, the principal asset of Lloyd-George in his present warfare for the people is a silvery tongue. He has no personal presence, but his audience, forgets that the moment he opens his mouth.

Already David Lloyd-George at the age of forty-seven has been thought of as a coming Gladstone. His convictions and the principles through which he hopes to work them out are much the same as those of the "great commoner" at the height of his career. Like Gladstone, he is solemnly as well as fearlessly in earnest, and being right has done more for his advancement than being brilliant.—Framingham News.

Uncle Sam has a big and growing family—growing so fast that he has to have a "round up" every ten years and post himself as to how many children he has, their age, occupation, wealth, descent and other particulars that are of value and interest. In order to get at these facts thoroughly and exactly he is compelled to put agents at work in every city, town, hamlet and rural district in all his vast domain—an undertaking of considerable magnitude, beset with many difficulties at the best and deserving all the cheerfully given cooperation of America's millions. When the census man does come around he will ask some questions that may seem impertinent, and unnecessarily personal, but they have all been arranged for with a definite purpose in view. It will help the census taker to reply to his queries promptly and truthfully, and you can make it easier for him and for yourself by having the information he will ask for gathered and jotted down before he starts on his rounds, which will be within a few weeks. Before that time the newspapers will have given an idea of what lines the collectors of facts will follow, and it will be no hardship to any head of a family to have the data made up and ready for the government's agent when he calls.—Brockton Enterprise.

The new famous epigram of James J. Hill—"It is not the high cost of living, but the cost of high living"—has swept the country into a comprehension of conditions of the moment. It has made a nutshell of speech which all may carry about and which is not too hard for any to crack to the meat of very truth. The government adds its evidence when the secretary of agriculture, the department most concerned, states positively that the cost of living is higher in America than in any European country. The church adds its warning when one of its greatest prelates suggest a holy alliance between the pulpit and the kitchen on the grounds that the morals of the people are correlated intimately with the economics of a people. If ever there was a time when there was required a strenuous preachment to an extravagant people it is today in America. For America utilizes more and wastes more than any other nation that the sun shines upon. There have been extravagant courts, extravagant classes before; never has there been a people, an entire people, whose mainspring was the desire to obtain and then to waste. This is the first time that a great democracy has ever flourished in the world; republics hitherto have been handfuls. And the vice of this democracy is extravagance.—Haverhill Gazette.

GIANT U. S. BATTLESHIP

One of 32,000 Tons to Be Largest in the World

A Washington despatch to the Globe says:

The building of a world record-breaking battleship of no less than 32,000 tons displacement at a cost of approximately $18,000,000, and the making of the United States the leading naval power of the world, are planned by Secretary of the Navy Meyer.

This is what Secreary Meyer is said to have told the members of the house naval committee Saturday is his ultimate plan, and what he will ask congress to authorize next year. Members of the committee stated that the secretary's radical plans for naval advancement were favorably received.

At this session even the stenographer was barred and the secretary discussed freely his plans. He said that it was his purpose that the United States should not follow in the wake of any other nation in naval advancement, but that in essential particulars it should take the lead. The secretary did not refer in this instance particularly to naval strength in number of ships or in armament, but to various features of improvement of the efficiency of ships and guns.

The giant battleship which Secretary Meyer wants the United States to build waits until next year only because the naval experiments with 14-inch guns have not been completed and the department desires to know the results of the full experiments before planning for the giant "Dreadnaught." Tentatively, it is planned to arm this great battleship with a battery of 14 14-inch guns of the latest type.

FIRE THREATENED WHOLE WATER FRONT

Pier and Merchandise Burned In $150,000 Blaze

Boston, Feb. 28.—Two fireboats, assisted by twenty-eight pieces of fire apparatus on the land side, smothered out a Lewis wharf fire Sunday with a loss of $150,000, although it looked at one time as if the blaze would sweep along Boston's waterfront and cause a tremendous loss.

The Clyde liner Onondaga, known as a "hoodoo" steamship, was dragged out of the fire zone by a fireboat just in time, the liner's upper works smoking and the paint blistered.

The efforts of the firemen prevented the flames from reaching 700 barrels of turpentine and an explosion which, had it occurred, would have caused widespread destruction.

When the blaze was finally subdued, the $50,000 south pier of Lewis wharf was a pile of ruins, holding charred merchandise valued at $100,000; but thirty yards away, on the north pier, lay the turpentine, separated from the ruins by a thin partition from which the paint, blistered by the intense heat, was scaled in huge flakes.

The exact cause of the fire is unknown, although it is supposed to have resulted from carelessness on the part of one of the stevedores engaged in discharging the cargo of the Onondaga.

DR. COOK "HALF MAD"

Remark Attributed to Secretary of the Arctic Explorer

Washington, Feb. 28.—"I shall believe that Dr. Cook, the explorer, is an honest man until there is definite proof to the contrary," declared Marice F. Egan, United States minister to Denmark, in an address here to members of the University club.

Dr. Egan was the first American citizen to greet Cook at Copenhagen upon his arrival from the Arctic. His talk on Cook was spontaneous. He said that he had asked Mr. Lonsdale, Cook's secretary, what was Cook's mental condition when he left him in New York to take the records of the polar trip to Copenhagen.

"He's half mad," Lonsdale said, according to Egan. "He is possessed with the idea that he is going to be assassinated."

Helps Horses Get Up.

Mrs. James Speyer of New York, president of the woman's auxiliary of the Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has come to the aid of horses that slip and fall on sleety city pavements. She has discovered a chain device recently invented which can be put on the shoes of horses that have fallen and enables them to get up and keep their feet. Mrs. Speyer has obtained a supply of these horse foot chains and put them in the hands of policemen for use in emergencies. The horses are very thankful.

TRIBUTE TO DR. EVERETT

Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham Writes of His Life

In the current issue of the Christian Register is the following article on Dr. William Everett, late of Quincy, by Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham:

William Everett was a "live wire." One never came in contact with him, whether in private or in public life, on the platform, in the pulpit, or the classroom, without being startled by the sparks and flashes of his wit, his learning, and his genius. His body, which was frail and spare ,seem pathetically insufficient often for the force and volume of the current that throbbed and hurried through him. Tingling with excitement, his whole frame quivering with emotion, he would fling his text out from the pulpit or his challenge from the platform at some political assembly and from that time on till he had sunk back, spent and partially exhausted, there was no opportunity for drowsiness or wandering attention. People often began by being attracted by his peculiarities and amused by his eccentricities, but they always ended by acknowledging his genius and admiring his talents. He was no ordinary, commonplace person, but a vibrant personality; and, once seen or heard, he was not easily forgotten.

Among my earliest memories, almost, are recollections of Dr. Everett. A first cousin of my father, he was often at our house, and he appeared from time to time in the pulpit of the church which we attended. Our minister was amused and somewhat startled on one occasion when arrangements were being made for him to take the Sunday service. He had written Dr. Everett to send the hymns or at least the "meters," for the choir, to which the irate doctor who had no liking for new ideas or changes in spelling, answered, "You write about the 'meters'; gas or water, which?"

With all his eccentricities, however, his abilities were many, and he distinguished himself in various lines. He was preacher, poet, politician, historian, man of letters, scholar, teacher, reformer, and he passed from one sphere to the other with characteristic energy, brilliancy, and fervor.

Dr. Everett was connected with the Brooks family, his mother being a daughter of Peter Chardon Brooks and a cousin of Phillips Brooks's father. A member of the family is said upon one occasion to have reminded Phillips Brooks how rich she was in ministerial relatives. "There is you yourself," she said, "and O. B. Frothingham and William Everett." It would be difficult to select three men of more opposite tendencies and unlike characteristics, the impassioned mystic, the polished rationalist, the impetus purist. Yet they all were descendants of the great John Cotton.

Of the three there can be no doubt that the last was the one of greatest learning. He was the keener student, the wider reader the man of more extensive information. He knew more languages and was a better classical scholar than either of the others. His memory was phenomenal, and he had a passion for storing things away for future use. His pupils say that he needed no text-book before him when he heard them recite in Virgil, for he knew the Aenied by heart. On one occasion at the meeting of a literary club in Boston some question was raised in regard to a point in American history ,and Dr. Everett answered it by reciting off-hand the list of the Presidents of the United States ,with their secretaries of State, from the first among them to the latest. It was in things like these that he excelled, reminding one of the great Macaulay, who is said to have dispelled the tedium of the night while crossing the Irish Channel by repeating large parts of Milton's "Paradise Lost," which he had learned as a boy. If, to his learning, Dr. Everett had added greater poise, and to his brilliancy a sounder judgment, his career would indeed have been remarkable.

In religion he was a Unitarian of the older school. He never changed with the times, nor yielded to the pressure of the newer thought. The higher criticism failed to shakes his faith. He used to say, in his later days, that he was the only genuine Arian left alive. Jesus to him was neither man nor God, but a supernatural being, half one and half the other. His mind for the most part, however, craved concrete and definite things, and he had no love for

WILL WALK OUT IN SYMPATHY

Central Labor Union Supports Philadelphia Car Strikers

Philadelphia, Feb. 28.—Action fraught with possible momentous consequences to Philadelphia was taken by the Central Labor union last night when that body, representing 140 unions with a reputed membership of 125,000, voted to begin a sympathetic strike next Saturday in aid of the striking street railway employes.

This action came at the end of a secret session of about 700 delegates which lasted more than six hours.

There was apparently no question but the delegates would vote strike, the split being on the question of whether it would be started immediately. The more conservative element prevailed, however, and the walkout was put off until next Saturday.

Meanwhile there is hope that the street railway strike will be arbitrated despite the repeated declarations by the transit company, controlling all the lines in the city, "that there is nothing to arbitrate."

Nobody doubts that the action by the Central Labor union makes the situation very grave. There is a strong feeling, especially among the business people, that the strike should be settled speedily, because all lines of business are suffering from the stagnation resulting from the interference with traffic.

Consequently there was much sympathy with the efforts toward arbitration made by clergymen of all denominations early in the week. Whether this sentiment is strong enough to bring the clashing interests together remains to be seen.

A man and a boy are dead and four other boys are seriously hurt as the result of a trolley car jumping a switch at Sixth and Jackson streets down town last night, and dashing into the front of a cigar store.

The dead and injured were all standing in front of the cigar store. There had been a disturbance down the street and someone had turned the unused switch at this point. A trolley car, driven at high speed, jumped the track and plowed through the crowd on the sidewalk, only stopping after it had torn the front out of the store.

Cars were stoned, motormen and conductors were beaten and many passengers were struck by flying missiles in the rioting which was renewed here Sunday after several days of comparative quiet. Nearly a dozen riot calls were received at police headquarters, but in most instances the mobs were dispersed with riot sticks alone. Seventy-five arrests were made.

Crowds of men and boys, who usually fill the streets on Sunday in many sections of the city, were responsible for most of the attacks. The orders of the director of public safety that wagons and busses must not be used to convey passengers also resulted in many disturbances.

Charged with being implicated in a plot to blow up trolley cars filled with passengers and to destroy other property of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, Charles R. Copeland, a striking conductor, and William C. Field, a stationary fireman, were held in $2500 bail by Magistrate Beaton.

NEW ENGLAND'S DROWNINGS

More Than Six Hundred Bathers Lost During the Season of 1909

Boston, Feb. 28.—Bathers in New England during the summer season of 1909 paid an exceptionally dear toll to the waters, according to figures compiled by the United States volunteer life saving corps, showing that 604 persons were drowned in the New England states last summer during the months from May to September, inclusive. Of this number 272 were children.

General Superintendent Longfellow of the United States volunteer life saving corps recommends "a more general knowledge of life saving methods for everyone," in order that the number of drownings during the outdoor seasons be reduced.

Boxer's Jaw Broken

Baltimore, Feb. 28.—At the Baltimore A. C. Kid Tutts broke Phil Hawkins' jaw in the first round. Hawkins fought two more rounds and was then sent to a hospital. When physicians pronounced that Hawkins' jaw was broken club members tossed $110.75 into the ring to help him on his way.

Killed on Way to Church

Holyoke, Mass., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Johanna Manning, aged 60, was struck and instantly killed by a train here. She was crossing the tracks when on her way to church from her home.

SUNDAY IN THE CHURCHES

Synopsis of a Few of the Sermons Preached

All the pastors of the Quincy churches have been personally invited to contribute to this department, and the Daily Ledger would like to see more of the churches represented.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Sunday morning the preaching was by the pastor; subject: "Perfect and complete in all the will of God"—Col. 4:12. Reference was made to the less popular people of the Bible, who had done a great deal for Christianity. God has a plan for every life and we may know beyond a shadow of a doubt that we are saved. Let our aim be to be filled with God's spirit. That part of the Lord's Prayer which reads, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven," was referred to and in closing Mr. Walther made an appeal that all would be willing to say "Thy will be done in me."

The subject of the evening was Christ's four words to his disciples and us—Luke 9:23. First a "conditional word;" if any man will come after me, let him take up his cross and follow me. Second "A paradox;" use strength and you will increase it. Third, "A mathematical word," what will it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Fourth, "a warning word," for whosoever shall be ashamed of me and My words; of him shall the Son of Man be ashamed. Let us have Christ with us as we stand before the judgment throne.

Several classes in the Sunday school were reported as having perfect attendance.

The cottage prayer meeting at Montclair on Tuesday evening will be led by George A. Brown.

A church social will be held Wednesday evening at 7.45. All the members of the church and congregation invited.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

Rev. Carl G. Horst at the Sunday morning service of the Wollaston Unitarian church took as the text of his sermon "The Church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth," found in II Timothy 3:15.

After a brief glance over the wonderful field of discoveries and adaptations of Natural forces which has, in the past, been opened up for our use, and especially of the 19th century which, more than all the others combined, has added so richly to our development, he stated that while science has added so much to our material welfare it is the church alone which has ministered to our higher needs. Since the days of Abraham customs have changed, traditions have been put aside, generations have come and gone, but in its deep need of consolation in sorrow, of comfort and support in temptation of companionship in joy the human heart has remained the same. Now, as in the days of the Psalmist the soul of man is strengthened by lifting of the eyes to the hills and his soul calls upon the same God to show him the truth and the way of life— humanity's cry must still be "Show me thy truth."

It is the church that has stood for all these centuries, lifting the thoughts of man above the pettiness that would overwhelm him and nourishing in his heart the sturdy virtues of patience, courage, and fidelity to truth. The church is a storage battery, vitalizing all who come in contact with it, gathering together the strong and the weak for mutual helpfulness and augmenting the work of the individual until it becomes a great power for good. In it we find renewal of our best life, and a recuperation from the cares that press upon us in our busy lives, and from the service of worship we go forth equipped for better service to the world. The church of God can never be outgrown, here we find the desire to consecrate ourselves anew to life's duties, to hold fast to the thing which is real, and to go forward to do God's work and so the church is the pillar and ground of the Truth.

Quite a number of the Y. P. R. U. attended the Boston Federation meeting at the First church, Meeting House Hill, Dorchester, Sunday at 4 and 7.30 p. m.

A number of the Wollaston Unitarians were in the large gathering in Dr. Hale's church Sunday evening at the public rally under the auspices of the Unitarian fellowship for social justice, where six men spoke on "The church and the social question: What should the church say and do in the face of the social injustice of our time.

Rev. Carl G. Horst attended the monthly session of the Boston Ministerial Union today and listened to addresses by the Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot on "Church extension;" Prof. Daniel Evans on "The abiding significance of Jesus;" and Mr. Henry Abrahams of the Boston Central Labor Union, on "The closed shop."

Rev. and Mrs. Carl G. Horst are at home to receive callers Monday evenings.

The noon service in King's Chapel, March 2, will be conducted by the Rev. W. H. Lyon, D. D., of Brookline.

The Woman's Alliance will meet in the vestry Wednesday afternoon at 2.30. Subject: "An afternoon with Robert Collyer." The meeting is in charge of Mrs. George W. Bennett and Mrs. William E. Rowe.

The annual collection for the American Unitarian Association will be taken next Sunday forning. We wish to send this year not less than one hundred dollars.

A Dr. Edward E. Hale memorial service will be held in our church on his birthday, Sunday April 3, at 4.30 o'clock under the auspices of the Y. P. R. U. A life long friend of his, Rev. Calvin Stebbins of Framingham, will be the orator. This promises to be a nemorable meeting.

Remember the vesper service the second Sunday in March, at 4.30 o'clock.

So many are planning to attend the sessions of the Berlin International Congress of Religious Liberals that only about a dozen places remain on the Devonian of the Leyland line, which is to sail from Boston, July 13. A second party to sail one day earlier and to join the first section in England, is now being arranged.

WOLLASTON M. E.

Rev. Samuel B. Murray of the Wyoming conference preached at the Wollaston Methodist church Sunday morning, taking for his subject, "The Supremacy of Christ." He said in part: "Christ is preeminent in His teaching. He is truly the son of God. The supreme possibilities of our life is the enthronement of Christ in our lives. Christ is the image of God. He is the true image 'He that hath seen me hath seen the Father.' Christ the head of the church. He is the reconciler of all things. This we find illustrated in the word of God. In human experience when we compare Jesus with the other great teachers of the world, as Plato, Socrates, Euripedes he transcends them all. Jesus is supreme in the power of self-revelation. This is a world of ideals, Christ is our ideal, and helps us in attaining the ideals of life."

The Sunday school reached the high water mark in attendance, and J. A. Sedgwick, the superintendent, summed up the lesson by using the blackboard, at the close of which Rev. Dr. Fullar, superintendent of he Wyoming conference, spoke a few minutes on character building. He urged all to build noble, strong, pure characters.

The Junior League was in charge of Miss Rena M. Chamberlin and the Epworth League service was led by J. A. Sedgwick.

The evening sermon was preached by the pastor, who took for his subject, "The true christian life." Large audiences were present at both preaching services.

FUNERAL OF A. C. SMITH.

The funeral of ex-Councilman Alexander C. Smith was held Sunday afternoon from Christ church, and was attended by many members of the Granite Cutters' Union, of which he was a former president; also Clan McGregor, O. S. C., and John Adams court of Foresters. Services were conducted by Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector of the church, after which the burial service of Can McGregor was conducted by Chief James Birnie. The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery to which the body was escorted by John Adams court. The bearers were James Duncan, secretary-treasurer of the National Granite Cutters Union, Alexander W. Russell, Frank Morrison, John Russell, John Wood and William Pratt.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Daniel Mullen for assault at Quincy was called and he was fined $10. Sentence suspended until July 4.

Harry W. Paris was fined $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

J. H. Hall and D. M. Maybury were fined $5 each on account of costs for using chains on their automobiles on the Metropolitan parkway.

James H. Bowlin was arraigned for assault with a dangerous weapon on Charles J. Brooks with intent to murder. He was also arraigned for drunkenness. He was held in $1,000 for the superior court on the charge of assault. The case for drunkenness was continued until July 1.

"You can't make water run up hill."

"No; but you can freeze it and haul it up."—"Chicago Record."

EARLY MORNING GRUMPS.

Don't "Get Up on the Wrong Side of the Bed" So Often.

One thing which never has been explained satisfactorily by the scientists—or anybody else, for that matter—is why it is that so many persons are ill natured, inclined to be grumpy, early in the day. According to the accepted theory of rest, physical and mental, it should be exactly otherwise. The early hours of the day should be that part of the waking period which is best calculated to bring out all that is amiable in the disposition of him who has been so recently under the influence of "tired nature's sweet restorer;" but, alas, such is all too frequently not the case.

Of course the early morning mood depends very largely on the manner in which the hours just preceding retiring were spent. It is evident that one cannot get up in the morning with a radiant countenance when sleep has not been sufficient or refreshing. The remedy for such a condition is easy to prescribe. It is those whose physical state is perfect, who keep excellent hours, who have no cause to be unamiable, but are habitually cross after getting up, assuming a less irritable manner as the day grows older and becoming positively gracious about nightfall, that furnish a problem.

Now, it is highly probable that this matutinal grumpiness is not so much a matter of temperament as of habit. Like any other habit well established, it may be difficult to eradicate, but it can be conquered by persistent effort. It is certainly worth trying to secure emancipation from anything so unlovable. It is worth remembering also that whoever begins the day in smiling good humor will get an admirable start either for work or play and will have far more profitable results to show in the late afternoon than would have been possible had the day been begun with a frown.

Before you see anybody in the morning pause a moment to consider the matter. It is really of sufficient importance to demand that attention. Reflect thus: "I am now going to meet certain of my fellow creatures in familiar intercourse. Some of them are members of my household, and I am in duty bound to contribute to their happiness. Others are not so close to me, but they are entitled to a good example from me. I must not add to the gloom of anybody living on the earth. I have not the right and I am violating a principle whenever I do so. It is my business to carry sunshine, not shadow."

The spirit of good cheer is contagious. Try it and see. Don't be dissuaded from your purpose to scatter sunshine by an unsympathetic environment. There is very small credit in maintaining cheerfulness when everybody is gay and everything is precisely as you would wish it to be. It is when the temptation to give vent to an outburst of grumpiness is almost irrisistible that you are being given an opportunity to win a victory.

Do not permit this unlovely habit of "getting up on the wrong side of the bed" to obtain the mastery over you.

VIRGINIA ROSS.

NO MORE GRAY HAIR.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hair before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

Important Announcement

BY JOHNSON BROS.

Why and How We Shall Reduce Our Prices April 1st, 1910.

AFTER a careful study of the credit business for a number of years, and the same of the cash business for the past two years, we have decided that for the mutual benefit of the buyer and seller, beginning April 1, we shall turn our business into a strictly cash business. Our experience and close study of the wants of the people for the past thirty-five years has put us in a position to judge, and we have decided that low prices and high quality can be obtained in no other way than by a strictly cash proposition, as a credit store cannot possibly compete successfully with a store that is handled on a strictly cash basis, as there is a great expense attached to a credit business, which we wish to curtail, and our curtailing means much lower prices to the trade. Under the credit system there is always a proportion of bad bills which must be taken care of in our scale of prices. Under the credit system you are helping to pay the bills of those who do not pay themselves. The method of sending teams to take orders daily is very costly. We figure it costs us eight cents per call. If our clerks make from fifty to two hundred calls daily the expense of these calls must be added to the prices of the goods. The salaries of bookkeepers and other expenses of accounting and collections must also be taken care of. We propose to eliminate these items of expense, and correspondingly reduce the prices of our goods. We will deliver orders sent to us by mail, telephone or left at the store, and we intend to show the people of Quincy and surrounding towns what a really cash store can do for them. We intend to place on sale a certain day of each week some staple article from our stock at absolute cost, something different each time. Remember, one of the most important things in this change will be the keeping up of our quality for which we have so long been popular. We shall try to give even better quality if such a thing is possible, and we shall hammer the prices down hard—for cash.

We will pay cash for our goods, by so doing get all the cash discounts from the wholesale trade, and we intend that our trade shall benefit by it, and by owning our own plant it will not be possible for any concern in our line of business to undersell us, when you take into consideration our reputation for quality. We have one of the best equipped stores in our city, also the cooperation of experienced clerks which all go to make Johnson Bros. an ideal firm with which to trade. All orders will be delivered with care and promptness by our new Automobile system, which we will place at your service and which is being practised by nearly all the up to date concerns throughout the country. Customers not caring to pay cash every time they come, or send to the store can if they wish make a deposit with us, and when they have taken up all their deposit will be notified. At the prices we shall ask and the quality of our goods, we must insist on a strictly cash transaction, for at the present age of high prices a credit store can do nothing to lessen the expense of living for its customers, as the increasing expense of carrying on a credit business places low prices out of the question.

The credit dealer must realize a larger percent of profit than a cash dealer, as his expense account is more than double, so we decided that the only way we can help our customers and all careful buyers, is to establish a strictly up to date cash store, for there is no other way that we can afford to cut the prices for the mutual benefit of all. Hoping that this will meet with thoughtful and willing cooperation, we remain,

Respectfully,

JOHNSON BROS.' MARKET,

City Square

CANNON ON HOBBIES.

Speaker's Frank Views of Some Public Men's Pet Ideas.

"Men who ride hobbies make excellent servants, but mighty poor masters." This declaration was made recently by Speaker Cannon at the "hobby night" entertainment of the National Press club in Washington. Among the other "hobbyists" who spoke during the evening were Willis L. Moore of the weather bureau, Dr. Harvey Wiley, Gifford Pinchot, Commander Robert E. Peary and Congressman Champ Clark.

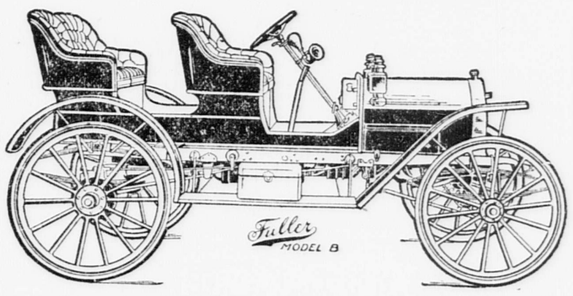

Speaker Cannon declared that his "hobby" was in "watching other men's hobbies." The men of one idea, he declared, are all good men, and he wished them success and long life, although he said that "it makes one uncomfortable often in watching other men's hobbies."

Taking up the speakers who had preceded him, he declared that Dr. Wiley was all right, but that if he had been allowed to have his own way entirely he would have had everybody afraid to eat anything for fear of being poisoned; that conservation was a good thing, but that he was not afraid of all the coal being consumed or all the timber being used up, and that much had been done in the way of conservation from a practical standpoint for many years. As for Commander Peary, he was glad a Caucasian had reached the north pole, but while Commander Peary had the glory Dr. Cook had the money.

Ex-President Roosevelt he called "the greatest press agent that ever lived." He asserted that more good legislation had been passed during his seven years in the White House than during any other similar period in the history of the United States, except during that of the civil war. "But suppose we had passed all the laws that he recommended in his messages," he said. "The budget of the country would be many times what it is now."

The speaker declared that he found great enjoyment in watching the men who had "hobbies," but that it would hardly do to let them be at the head of things.

BIG SHRINKAGE IN DEPOSITS

Apparently Escaped Notice of Bank Examiner Pepper

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 28.—Ellis S. Pepper, the national bank examiner who went over the accounts of George W. Coleman, bookkeeper of the National City bank of Cambridge, last December, and failed to detect the shortage, was suspended by Controller of the Currency Murray, who announced in Washington that he proposed to make an investigation to determine why Pepper did not discover the false entries in Coleman's books and learn the exact condition of the bank.

Samuel M. Mann, a national bank examiner of Baltimore, has been instructed to proceed to Cambridge and make an examination of the books of the National City bank.

Controller Murray has been going over the reports of the examiners during the past year, and he has found a wide difference between the report of Examiner Currier as to the condition of the National City bank last June and the returns of the examination by Pepper in December.

According to Murray's statement, Currier found the amount due to depositors of the National City bank in June to be $267,000. Six months later Pepper reported that $152,000 was on deposit.

What struck the controller as amazing was the shrinkage of $115,000 in the deposits within six months. Murray wants to know how thorough an examination Pepper made last December, and he expects Mann to answer the question.

The controller is quoted from Washington as not being able to understand why Pepper failed to notice the sharp decline in the deposits and make a more searching inspection of Coleman's books to discover the reason for it. To the controller it appears that suspicion should have been aroused immediately Pepper found apparent deposits of only $152,000.

The question which aroused Controller Murray to action are among those which have been asked daily in this vicinity since the defalcation of approximately $160,000 was announced on Wednesday. How a bookkeeper could conceal such heavy losses has appeared a problem.

It is assumed that Murray was inspired somewhat by the manner of the discovery of the shortage by President Bullard and Treasurer Earle of the Harvard Trust company a week ago Saturday afternoon. The day after George W. Coleman disappeared. Bullard and Earle went to the National City bank to ascertain the amount due the depositors.

Their mission was pursuant to an agreement between the officers of the bank and the trust company, which contemplated the taking over of the business of the national bank by the Harvard Trust company.

Bullard and Earle had been informed by the National City bank directors that the amount due the depositors by the statement of the bookkeeper the day previous was substantially $116,000. The two officers of the trust company, for the purpose of verification, examined the entries on the cash and balance sheets of the national bank.

By adding up the balances credited to individual depositors Bullard and Earle found that the National City bank, according to the books, owed its depositors $260,000. This situation was ascertained by the two men by the very simple process of adding the balances.

AFTER ANCIENT SHAD

Wiley Hears That Some Are So Old Their Eyes Are Gone

Washington, Feb. 28.—The frozen fish with the filmy eye is to be the next subject of investigation by Dr. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States. The fish referred to is shad which is shipped to Washington in cold storage. It has been reported to Wiley that cold storage shad is shipped to this city under the guise of the "real fresh," which is a violation of the pure food law.

It is understood that Wiley had called to his attention some cold storage shad, whose eyes has practically disappeared on account of age during a period of cold storage.

Church Buildings Destroyed

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 28.—Fire destroyed the chapel and parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal church here, causing a loss of $30,000. The fire started presumably from an overheated furnace.

Methodist Church Burned

Whitinsville, Mass., Feb. 28.—Fire discovered by the choir at rehearsal totally destroyed the Methodist Episcopal church here at a loss of $30,000.

HOUSEHOLD LETTER

Why do people so often throw common sense to the winds when buying a wedding present? It would seem as if all the bargain counters where useless bric-a-brac is displayed, were ransacked to supply impediments that handicap the bride who wishes to furnish her simple home sensibly and in good taste.

A MODEST EXPENDITURE.

A modest expenditure is no bar to furnishing that is both artistic and durable. Usually the least desirable articles in the average home are those upon which the greatest amount of money has been spent. Fitness is the first point to be considered in furnishing. Often a wicker chair is in better style than an elaborate gilded one at many times its cost, so the girl buying her new outfit need not be discouraged though her means be limited. The most admirable furnishing is done gradually, and expresses the personality of the owner as no decorators complete work can ever do.

FLOOR COVERINGS.

The first thing to be considered after the flat or house is secured, are the wall hangings and floor coverings. These are the backgrounds, and should be kept simple in tone, either plain or in shade of one color. A uniform treatment throughout will increase the apparent size of the rooms, and insure a certain refinement of effect. Hard wood floors are best ,but these are not usually to be had for a modest rental. Matting makes an excellent substitute and if the American kind known as "Crex" is selected, which is very durable and comes in a variety of quiet tints, one can secure a tone that will harmonize with any desired scheme of coloring. There are various widths of the yard styles, as well as rugs which are often desirable.

PRETTY INEXPENSIVE RUGS.

The Arts and Crafts rugs, that are just old time rag carpets improved in weave and colorings, are used by the most exclusive decorators, and are both practical and pretty ,and suitable for any simply furnished room, but particularly for bedrooms for they are easily washed and kept clean, which is a point considered by all up-to-date people.

SIMPLICITY AND DIGNITY.

The woman who knows how to combine good taste and economy will avoid all fancy furnishings, which appear tawdry in the beginning and rapidly deteriorate, while simple, well made articles at the same price are dignified and continue to look well as long as they are used. Loose cushions of materials easily washed or cleaned are better than upholsteries, just as attractive, and easier to expose to the sun and air, nature's great purifiers.

CURTAINS AND HANGINGS.

The shops are showing a great variety of pretty cross barred muslins in creamy tone that make the prettiest sort of straight curtains, hung on rods, and easily laundered. Curtains should end at the window sill, and imitation laces are an abomination, but pretty nets are always permissible. Portieres should match the color of the wall and be not too heavily decorated or figured.

ORNAMENTS.

Better a very few good pictures, which may be inexpensive photographs simply framed, and a cast or two, or a growing plant, than a collection of incongruous so called decorations that collect dust, hurt the eyes, and destroy the beauty of the home. Such things should be selected after a leisurely fashion, and if bad ones creep in they should be sent to a distant rummage sale, or be quietly destroyed.

WON'T DISCUSS POLITICS

Roosevelt Says He Is Out of Touch With Outside World

Gondokoro, Soudan, Feb. 28.—Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit, with the members of their shooting party, who arrived here Saturday evening on the Belgian gunboat Boch, spent Sunday in resting up, their experiences during the past few days in searching for giant elands having proved rather fatiguing.

An effort was made to obtain from Colonel Roosevelt a statement on politics and public affairs generally, but he emphatically refused to discuss these matters. He said he had completely lost touch with the outside world. He added that he would require an opportunity fully to review public affairs before expressing any opinion.

Poisoned Candy Kills Children

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 28.—Three of the four sons of Moses Hamilton, a negro, are dead and a fourth is dying as a result of eating candy, alleged to have contained strychnine. The children were given the sweets by a negro to take to their mother, but instead ate them.

STRIKES HARD AT BALLINGER

Pinchot Accuses Secretary of Deceiving the President

Washington, Feb. 28.—With Gifford Pinchot, who was ousted as chief forester of the United States, on the witness stand, the congressional investigation into the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy entered its second phase. In a statement he had already prepared, Pinchot denounced Secretary Ballinger as a deceiver of President Taft and betrayer of his own country. The statement says:

"What I desire to lay before the committee is a story of my experience with Ballinger in relation to the conservation of natural resources. Among several other matters there are three of principal importance to be called to your attention.

"The first of these concerns the policy, devised and inagurated by the last administration, of protecting against monopolistic control the water power owned by the people. I shall show you that Secretary Ballinger entered his office with the determination to make short work of that policy; that he reversed it so far as he was allowed to do so; that he restored the power sites to entry without the remotest idea of withdrawing them, and that finally, when I charged him last autumn to the president with being an enemy to the policy of conservation, he capped the climax by giving the president himself an explanation of his conduct that was essentially false.

"The second has to do with my connection as a government officer with the Cunningham coal cases and with the Glavis charges. I shall show you how the forest service became involved in these cases, and how Glavis submitted his facts to me. I believed then, as I believe now, that he told the truth.

"I am convinced now, as I was when he came to me, that Glavis is a faithful public servant, and that the facts which he presented will prove that Mr. Ballinger has been unfaithful to his trust as a servant of the people, and as the custodian of public property of enormous value.

"I shall show you that since I learned the facts you have heard from Glavis and others, which I am about to lay before you, I have acted steadily in the light of them, as it was my duty, both as a public official and as a citizen ought to do.

"I shall show you that in pursuance of that duty I laid before the president, both by word of mouth and in a letter of Nov. 4, a statement of my conviction that Secretary Ballinger had been a dangerous enemy to conservation.

"I shall show you that this letter was submitted by the president to Mr. Ballinger, and that as part of his reply he laid before the president a statement converning the Cunningham coal cases, which statement is shown by indisputed documentary evidence to be absolutely false in three essential particulars.

"It will then appear that Mr. Ballinger wilfully deceived the president and was disloyal to him.

"The third principle matter is concerned with the attitude of the government in law and administrative practice toward the conservation of the natural resources belonging to the people. I desire to show you that the story of Glavis' courageous and successful fight to protect the property of the people, which ended in his dismissal without a hearing, is but a single chapter in the history of the public lands. I shall show you that under our present law and practice the difficult task falls on those who would protect public property, and not on those who would despoil it, and that under the present system the betrayal into monopolistic control of what belongs to all of us is made easy.

"When the story has been told, and the witnesses whom I shall ask to call have been heard, you will readily see that the people are not safe in Ballinger's hands, and will demand of this committee a verdict in harmony with the general conviction that the secretary of the interior has been unfaithful to the public, whose property he has endangered, and to the president, whom he has deceived."

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

ADVERTISING FACTS.

If you are not already advertising in the Quincy Daily Ledger and wish to increase your business look up a few facts for yourself about the advantages of Ledger advertising. Facts speak for themselves. Ask Ledger advertisers about the good returns they are getting.

Call on any of the newsdealers in City Square, Quincy Point, West Quincy, Wollaston, Atlantic or at the South station, Boston, and see what they have to say about the Ledger as a quick seller. Ask the newsboy who leaves the Ledger at your home each night about his sales. These agencies are all reliable and whatever figures they give may be depended upon. When you have the figures you will see why the Ledger is a great factor in reaching readers and buyers. It never has been a cheap or sensational paper to be carelessly read and thrown away but is first and foremost a home paper; a paper for the whole family. As merchants look to the homes for business the Ledger has become a necessity to the up-to-date dealer as well as to its thousands of daily readers.

ELEANOR ROBSON

Actress Who Has Become Bride of August Belmont

BELMONT-ROBSON NUPTIALS

Banker and Bride Start South Immediately After the Wedding

New York, Feb. 28.—August Belmont, the banker and millionaire race horse owner, and Miss Eleanor Robson were married in Miss Robson's house.

There were no bridesmaids or ushers, and the list of guests was closely restricted to the immediate family and intimate friends.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Belmont left for a trip through the south. In March they will sail for the Mediterranean.

Belmont was a widower and is 57 years old. His wife died in Paris in 1898. They had three sons, all of whom are living. Miss Robson gave her age in taking out the marriage license as 31.

JESUS CRUCIFIED BY THE ROMANS

Pilate the Real Executioner, In Opinion of James

Paris, Feb. 28.—"In spite of the tradition which has been accepted for nineteen centuries, Christ was not put to death by the Jews."

Such is the positive announcement made by Edward H. James, who in an interview related some of the historical discoveries he has made in the course of preparing a new life of Jesus, the first volume of which has just been published in pamphlet form.

Mr. James, whose original home was in Concord, Mass., is in Paris engaged in biblical research work, to which he intends to devote the rest of his life.

"To me it seems incredible," said James, "that the historians and the other writers should have passed over the facts which I have been able to establish. I believe my book will convince the unprejudiced reader that Jesus was a political leader who was put to death by Romans for the crime of lese majeste at the instance of Pilate by certain Jews, who really were Romans, even belonging to the Order of Equestrians or Knights."

SEEKS TO ANNUL CHARTER

Garven Says Evidence Against Packing Company Warrants Action

Trenton, Feb. 28.—Prosecutor Garven will appear in the supreme court here this week and ask that the National Packing company's charter be nullified on the ground that it had violated the state's laws. The prosecutor claims that the evidence presented before the grand jury in the conspiracy cases warrants the nullification of the charter

Two weeks will be allowed the indicted directors of the National Packing company in which to appear for pleading to the bill of conspiracy found against them by the Hudson county grand jury of Jersey City.

ALL HOPE ABANDONED

Boston Schooner Undoubtedly Lost In One of Recent Storms

Boston, Feb. 28.—Hope is no longer held out for the safety of the four-masted schooner Auburn of Boston, which sailed from Mayport, Fla., on Dec. 19 for Philadelphia, and has never since been heard from. There is no doubt now that she has been overwhelmed in the furious storms that prevailed before and since her sailing.

The Auburn was commanded by Captain Bates of South Brewer, Me., and carried a crew of seven.

Quakes Arouse Sleepers

Columbus, Neb., Feb. 28.—Two earthquake shocks occurred here at 2 o'clock in the morning. Windows were rattled and houses shook enough to awaken all the inhabitants. No damage is reported.

metaphysical vagueness. I remember that he took me to task once for using abstract terms in a sermon, such as "humanity" and "man." "I know men and women," he declared, "but not 'man' or 'the race,'" He had no fondness, therefore, for the philosophical disquisitions of his brilliant cousin, Dr. Carroll Everett, and he did not hesitate to confess himself too impatient for metaphysical procedure. With the poets, however, he was delightfully at home, particularly so with the older ones,—not with Wordsworth and Browning, whom he hated, but with Cowper, Pope, and Milton.

For a man of so much brilliancy, however, and of such decided genius, it is sad to think how little he accomplished of enduring worth. I cannot better describe his weakness in this respect than by letting him explain it for himself. One of his last public appearances was at the First Church in Boston, at the celebration held by the Massachusetts Historical Society on the occasion of the tercentenary of the birth of John Milton. Dr. Everett gave the oration or address. It was a masterly effort, the more so because his physical condition called for, and indeed necessitated, an exercise of self-restraint which was not usual. He closed the oration with a vision in which he described the young Milton on his Continental journey, making his way from one Italian city to another. The orator imagined the Italian poets receiving the youth and greeting him as one who soon would join their shining ranks.

I wrote to him afterwards, thanking him for his words, and calling particular attention to the originality and power of the "vision." In answering, he said that the thing had been before his mind for over thirty years, and added: "I have repeatedly thought of putting it into verse. But I do not manage detail skilfully. I see things in their general aspect, and writing out details is painful, almost impossible." There was the weakness! But it came, in one sense, from excess of power. Pegasus was impatient at being harnessed. He soared in vision, but disliked the sordid work of steady effort. And yet, when all is said, the vision is the thing of value, and the greater credit goes to those who have the eyes to see.

AN AWKWARD SITUATION

Poet Watson Meets Asquith and His Wife at a Reception

London, Feb. 28.—A most awkward contrempts occurred at the big Liberal political reception, given by Mr. and Mrs. Iver C. Guest. Mrs. Asquith, whom William Watson chose to call "The Woman With the Serpent's Tongue," was brought face to face with the poet who thus designated her.

Mrs. Asquith was all vivacity, beaming on everyone presented to her. Suddenly a portly footman announced most distinctly: "Mr. and Mrs. William Watson."

Asquith's wife was turned into a pillar of ice save that her fine eyes shot fire. A tense, appalled silence fell on the company. Mr. and Mrs. Watson, advancing, shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Guest. Then Watson, taking another step forward, bowed and held out his hand to the premier.

Asquith's face flushed angrily and, so far from accepting the poet's hand, turned his back on him.

Mrs. Asquith's countenance crimsoned, then turned deadly pale, while she flashed looks of withering fury at the Watsons and turned away. They passed along into the crush and were lost.

Just U-S, Us.

[The United States is a braggart nation.—Professor Goode of Chicago university.]

Great Scott,
What rot!
We a braggart nation?
Come off! You're dishing dirt.
Perhaps we're somewhat gushy,
But not enough to hurt.
Of course we've got a country
That's second now to none,
And as a nifty people
We rather take the bun.
Old Glory is a banner
That tops all other flags,
And as a textile fabric
It is the first of rags.
Our ships of war that circled
This big, round globe have set
Some pegs of navigation
Nobody's followed yet.
The steel that's in our railways
Would reach the moon and back,
And we've got locomotives
To haul them down the track.
Our buildings scrape the heavens,
And when the stars get tired
They roost upon their ridgepoles
And shine by being wired.
Our farms are so extensive
That one of them alone
Could swallow up a kingdom
And hide its king and throne.
Our one and only Peary
Through arctic storm and stress
Went for the north pole trophy
And branded it "U. S."
Our trusts—but, say,
Why get gay
Over our natural way?
By cripes,
If Uncle Sam swipes
Everything in sight
Haven't we got a right
To refer in a modest manner
To the star-spangled banner?

POLICE HOLD MOB AT BAY

Frenzied Poles Make Determined Effort to Storm Fall River Church

Fall River, Mass., Feb. 28.—Rev. Peter Basinski, pastor of the Polish Catholic church of St. Stanislas, had announced that excepting regular pew holders no one would be admitted except after payment of a seat fee.

When the doors were opened yesterday the mob tried to storm the church. The collectors inside closed the doors, and a call was sent for the police. Captain Feeney, with a detail of men, arrived and the doors were again opened.

Again the mob of Poles stormed up the steps, insisting on getting in. This time they were met by a line of police with drawn clubs. They were beaten back again and again. Several were cut over the head and were pulled back and rushed off by others in the angry crowd. Three of the more persistent of the mob were overpowered and arrested after a struggle.

The determined line of police at last overawed the rioters, and services were held with a patrol of police around the church.

GOLD IN GOOSE GIZZARD

Many People Now Want to Know Where the Bird Came From

Omaha, Feb. 28.—For a Sunday dinner last month T. J. Flynn, the Omaha street commissioner, had taken goose. He bought the bird at a local commission house. It was alive, and taking it home he killed and dressed it.

Opening the gizzard he found a number of nuggets of shot gold mixed with the sand and gravel. The fact was heralded far and wide, and now not a day passes that Flynn does not receive letters, asking the former haunts of that goose. This is a question that he cannot answer.

Flynn has haunted the commission district, trying to ascertain whence came the goose with the gold in its craw. He goes upon the theory that could he find the farm on which it was bred there he would locate a gold mine.

BOSTON GIRL SITS ON SUPREME BENCH

Three-Year-Old Succeeds in Establishing a Precedent

Washington, Feb. 28.—The millenium for women has arrived; one of the fair sex has "sat on the bench" of the United States supreme court, while that august tribunal was engaged in the solemn performance of its duty under the constitution.

The honor fell to Miss Wells of Boston, granddaughter of Justice Brewer. When she and her mother came to the court the grandfather left his place on the bench to join them on the seats, reserved for the families of members.

The 3-year-old girl is very fond of her grandfather and followed him as he started to return to the bench.

Finding the child beside him as he took his seat, the associate justice took her on his knee. Probably such a spectacle had never been seen in the 120 years' history of the court.

The other justices were interested. Justice Harlan hunted for some plaything to give the little visitor, but the best he could produce was a rubber band. The little New Englander snapped her august grandfather in the face with it, but he did not mind.

The child was finally escorted back to her mother by the dignified supreme court marshal.

HASTE TO MEET FIANCEE

It Leads Count Sigray to Forget to Declare His Baggage

New York, Feb. 28.—Miss Harriet Daly, who will wed Count Anton Sigray of Hungary at Easter, entertained her fiance at lunch so soon after his arrival in New York that she prevented his declaring his baggage.

No sooner was the gang-plank over the side of the steamer Mauretania than the count rushed ashore, jumped into a cab and burned up the streets until he reached the mansion of the late Marcus Daly. There he was enjoying lunch with his countess-to-be when a telephone call demanded his instant presence at the dock to declare his baggage.

Society is much interested in the fortune of the count. At all events he will not starve, for his fiancee has about $2,500,000.

POLICE SUSPECT PUPILS

High School Building Rifled of Everything Easily Removable

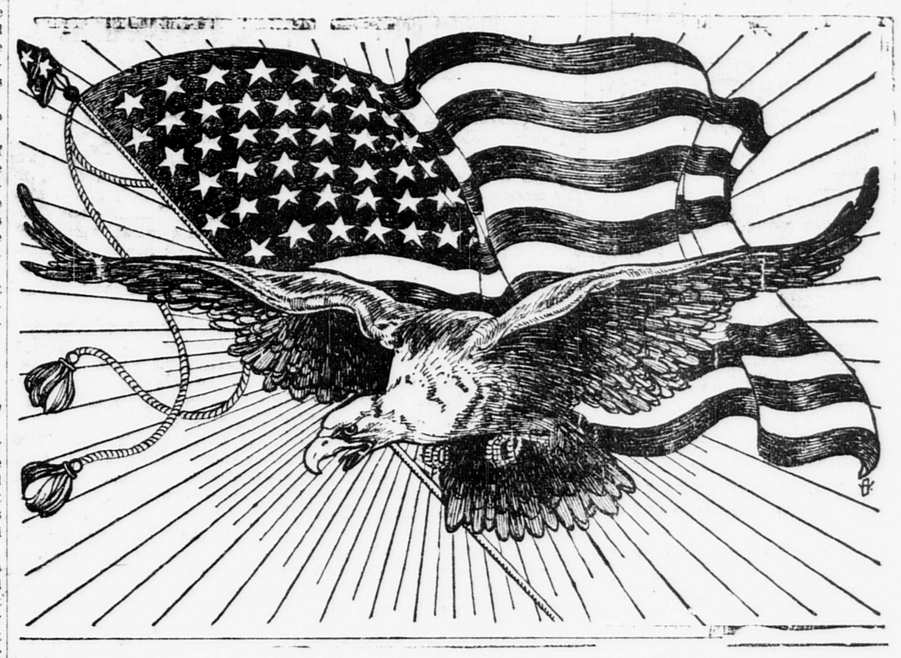

Everett, Mass., Feb. 28.—Every desk and every room in the Everett high school was rifled of every article of value by thieves who entered the building at some time Saturday night. The thieves made a clean job of it, taking about everything that was not nailed down.

It is the opinion of the police that the robbery was committed by boys who are pupils at the school.

COURT HOUSE COMMITTEE

Visit Quincy to See Needs of District Court

The Committee on Counties of the Legislature, who are considering the bill for $100,000 for a court house building in Quincy, visited this city this morning, to look over the rooms occupied by the court. The committee in charge of Messenger E. C. Cook arrived on the 11.50 train and included: Chairman Fogg of Newburyport, Clerk Hammarstrom of Worcester, Upton of Orange, Charlton of Chelsea, Allen of Manchester, Gowing of North Reading and Hickey of Boston.

They were met at the depot by Mayor Shea, President E. R. Stone of the Board of Trade, Representative W. R. Thomas, James F. Burke, Arthur W. Stetson, John D. McKay, W. H. Teasdale, T. L. Williams, A. L. Whitman, Councilman John R. Richards, W. S. Hamlin, R. E. Wakeman, Walter H. Cobb and Court Officer W. M. Marden.

The committee were taken directly to the court room where they met Judge A. E. Avery and Associate Justice E. G. Pratt, Clerk J. P. S. Churchill, Assistant Clerk Lawrence W. Lyons and Probation officer Francis A. Spear.

After looking over the court rooms, the party were taken to the Elks club on Foster street, and then to the rooms of the Board of Trade. There a lunch was served by Caterer Thompson, the menu including chicken and potato salads, rolls, coffee, ice cream, cake and cigars. There was no speech making. While the committee did not say what their attitude on the bill was likely to be, it is thought that they were favorably impressed with the need of additional accommodations for the courts in Quincy. The committee returned to Boston on the 1.13 train.

BRIEFS

The Brotherhood of the Hall Place M. E. church will meet this evening.

Evangelists Eklund and Eagle had crowded houses on Sunday, when they said farewell at St. Pauls M. E. church.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ella Maude Richards of Dorchester and Mr. William H. Cleaves of Wollaston.

Interest in the reception to President Bowles extends outside the city. One of the most enthusiastic is John Alden Norton of Brackett street, East Milton, who is 85 years old. He will attend the banquet at Music hall.

Postmaster Charles L. Hammond has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the death of his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hammond, who passed away this morning at her home on Crescent street. Mrs. Hammond was taken ill last week, but her illness was not thought to be of a serious nature. She grew rapidly worse, however. Mrs. Hammond was the widow of Charles Hammond, and was well known in West Quincy. She leaves three daughters and two sons.

Y. M. C. A. MEET WON BY LYNN

Quincy in Third Place Among Nine Associations

Quincy Y. M. C. A. proved a very popular meeting center for "Young America" Saturday afternoon when the youths from Lynn, Somerville, Malden, Cambridge, Newton, Methuen, Reading, Wakefield and Quincy met to decide which were capable of landing first honors in athletic events. The spectators viewed some fine performances by the future great track men.

Lynn boys were far too much for the others and easily captured the meet, taking 32 points. Somerville was second with 18, and Quincy and Malden were tied for third position with 14 apiece.

The spectators in the balcony were loud in their praise of the youngsters in all events and the physical directors from all Y. M. C. A.'s present have much to be thankful for. The entire meet was in charge of C. M. Gifford, and it would be impossible to find a more capable man to engineer such a big meet as that of Saturday. Quincy indeed is fortunate in having such a man in charge of its athletics and in the future we are bound to hold our own with any of them.

The summary of events follows:

CLASS A. 12 TO 14 YEARS.

15-yard dash—Won by Richardson of Lynn. Harrigan of Somerville second. Mitchell of Lynn third. Time 2 2-5s.

Potato race—Won by Taylor of Methuen. Prout of Quincy second. Clarke of Lynn third. Time 34 4-5s.

Standing broad jump—Won by Fowler of Lynn, Rogers of Malden second, Harrigan of Somerville third. Distance 8ft. 6 1-2 in.

Pullups—Won by Bresnahan of Lynn. Kennedy of Quincy second. Harris of Malden third. Number of pullups 17.

CLASS B, 14 TO 16 YEARS.

15-yard dash—Won by Trickey of Malden. Rogers of Newton second. Trask of Quincy third. Time 2 3-5s.

Potato race—Won by Vose of Lynn. Richardson of Lynn second, Clives of Newton third. Time 34 2-5s.

Runing broad jump—Won by Emery of Reading. Newhall of Somerville second, Trask of Quincy third. Distance 17ft. 7 in.

Pullups—Won by Hodgkins of Malden, Murray of Cambridge second, Clives of Newton third. Number of pullups 21.

CLASS C, 16 TO 18 YEARS.

15-yard dash—Won by Boyd of Cambridge, Marton of Somerville second, Newth of Lynnn third. Time 2 1-5s.

Potato race—Won by Reno of Lynn, McCullough of Wakefield second, Taylor of Cambridge third. Time 35 1-5s.

Running high jump—Won by Martin of Somerville, Newhall of Somerville second, White of Quincy third. Hight 5ft.

12-pound shotput—Won by Bates of Quincy, Stanley of Newton second, Williams of Lynn third. Distance 39 ft. 8in.

ANOTHER VICTORY.

The Quincy Y. M. C. A. was up against a fast basket ball team on Saturday evening but defeated the Newtons 17 to 14. Three of Quincy's scores were scored from fouls.

The summary:

QUINCY		NEWTON
McKenzi rf		lb Jacobs
Dackers rf
Morris lf		rb Wharton
Jenkins c		c Butters
Mundie rb		lf Barrows
Glover rb
Bates lb		rf Cady

Score, Quincy 17, Newton 14. Goals from floor, Morris 3, Jenkins 2, Bates, Dackers, Jacobs, Wharton, Butters 2, Cady 2. Goals from fouls, Morris 3. Referee, Jones. Scorer, Eggleton. Timer, Gourlie. Time 20m halves. The second team of Quincy also defeated the second team of Newton by a score of 34 to 19.

PRESENTATION.

Andrew Johnson, of the well known granite firm of Hughes & Johnson was pleasantly surprise Saturday evening by a large number of his friends and their ladies. The gathering was held in Electa hall, which proved none too large for the party. During the evening, Councilman Charles E. Ericson rapped for order and after congratulating Mr. Johnson on the recovery from his recent injuries, presented him with a china closet and some pieces of cut glass. Refreshments were served and there was dancing until a late hour.

RECORD FOR QUINCY HIGH

Won by Franz Marceau in The Mile Run

Three new records were made at the New England Interscholastic A. A. indoor track meet on Saturday, and one of these by a student at the Quincy High. The Globe says: "After the fifth lap in the mile run there was nothing to it but Franz Marceau of Quincy high, who was expected to break a record—which he did. He gave one of the best exhibitions of distance running ever made by a schoolboy in Mechanics building, and cut 5 1-5 seconds off Joe Ballard's mark, made in 1908. Second to Marceau was George A. Allen of Boston English high, who has all the earmarks of a comer, and Bosworth of Worcester academy was third."

Marceau's time was 4m. 37 4-5 seconds and his work gave Quincy High 8 points and put us in sixth place in the meet among 16 high schools and academies.

Each of these schools also entered a relay team the result of whose work is not included in the summary. In these events Quincy High was also a winner, defeating Powder Point school over 8 second, Quincy's time being 3 m. 33 4-5 s. The local team included Cranshaw, Manning, Prout and Marceau.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

E. A. Poland writes to the sporting editor as follows:

I understand, although I did not see. (being unable to get a Ledger) that there was a challenge Saturday evening, from Manager Grant of the Quincy alleys, who says that with one other man from Quincy he would like to roll Lyons and myself for the championship of Quincy. Now we will gladly accept his challenge, although I said that the Washington's Birthday match at Norfolk Downs would end my bowling for this season.

But if this match is rolled I want it to settle the championship as it was supposed the match of Feb. 22, would do. As we rolled for the championship on Washington's birthday, and won, I think we have the right to dictate a little to our Quincy friends, by saying that this match be rolled at the Downs alleys, as they are in fine condition; also that we roll as amateurs, and if any money is to be considered it be put together and a trophy of some kind given the winners. It would be a still better idea to have a tournament for single and two men teams, and let prizes be awarded to the winners. Why not have it take in Norfolk County instead of Quincy. Hoping an interest be taken in tournament and also hoping to hear from manager Grant.

E. A. Poland,
Norfolk Downs, Feb. 28, 1910.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW.

All indications point to the most successful automobile show in the country when the annual exhibition is opened in the Mechanics Building next Saturday evening. This will be the eighth annual affair held in Boston under the management of the Automobile Dealers' Association, and it is announced that practically every dealer of note in the country will be represented.

A great point is always made of the decorative effect, in fact the Boston Show has long had the name of presenting the most artistic and expensive decorations of any city and this year more than ever will this be noticeable. On a scale never before attempted, preparations have been under way for the past two months and when the building is thrown open to the public a scene will be disclosed that a mere description would fall far short of the actual beauty.

Manager Campbell announces that the show will be "grander than ever and as he has the reputation of always keeping faith with the public, something out of the ordinary is looked for. Nearly 400 exhibitors have taken space which is nearly double that of any other show and the line of automobiles, motor cycles and accessories will be the most complete ever brought together. The Show, as usual, opens Saturday evening at 8 o'clock and runs continuously thereafter from 10 A. M. to 10.30 P. M., closing Saturday evening, March 12th.

EX-CUE CHAMPS STILL BUSY.

Hueston and Demarest Want Another Chance to Win Back Titles.

Undaunted by the loss of their titles, Calvin Demarest, who relinquished his 18.2 billiard title when he was beaten by Harry Cline of Philadelphia, and Thomas Hueston, who lost his pool championship to Jerome Keogh, are preparing for new worlds to conquer. Hueston is going out for the three cushion billiard title now held by Fred Eames of Denver, and Demarest expects to regain his title before many months. Both players lost their titles recently.

Hueston will play all comers in New York in preparation for his match with Eames. He confidently expected he would be able to defend his pool championship against Keogh and capture the three cushion title as well, but now that he has lost his title he has determined to gain another in a new field.

While Cline succeeded in beating Demarest, the ex-champion says another chance will see him again a champion. But now Willie Hoppe must be reckoned in the running in championship billiard circles. Hoppe beat another retired champion, Ora Morningstar, while Cline was winning the title from Demarest and will likely be matched with Cline in the near future.

Since winning the pool championship Keogh has been a popular man with challengers. Charles Weston of Chicago, known as "the cowboy," will have the first chance at the new champion. His challenge has been accepted, and the match will be played in either Buffalo or Rochester in March. Hueston will challenge the winner and expects to have back his title by next May.

HORSE RACING DATES.

Eastern Meetings Divided Up to Satisfaction of All Tracks.

Racing dates for the coming season have been officially announced by the Eastern Jockey club. According to the schedule, the sport will begin at Aqueduct, N. Y., April 15 and continue until Nov. 15, which will give patrons of the game 184 days to watch the thoroughbreds fight for purses. By the arrangement there will be about forty more days of racing than last season.

The intention to open on April 15, the first legal day to race in New York state, proves that there is no great opposition figured at the Pimlico meeting in Baltimore.

Saratoga, Empire City and Brighton Beach (New York) tracks will not conduct fall meetings. Saratoga has won a victory in that it will have twenty-

JOCKEY CLUB DATES FOR NEW YORK COURSES.

Jamaica—April 29 to May 12, twelve days.
Belmont Park—May 13 to May 30, fifteen days.
Gravesend—May 31 to June 16, fifteen days.
Sheepshead Bay—June 17 to July 4, fifteen days.
Brighton Beach—July 5 to July 20, fourteen days.
Empire City—July 21 to Aug. 3, twelve days.
Saratoga—Aug. 4 to Aug. 27, twenty-one days.
Sheepshead Bay—Aug. 29 to Sept. 10, twelve days.
Gravesend—Sept. 12 to Sept. 24, twelve days.
Belmont Park—Sept. 26 to Oct. 8, twelve days.
Jamaica—Oct. 10 to Oct. 27, sixteen days.
Aqueduct—Oct. 28 to Nov. 15, sixteen days.

one days instead of eighteen, as originally planned. Empire City would have been better satisfied if they had received eighteen instead of twelve days, but Brighton coming into the arrangements upset the calculations.

The season follows its regular course as in former good days. In the aggregate Aqueduct and Jamaica will have twenty-eight days; Belmont Park, twenty-seven; Gravesend, twenty-seven; Sheepshead Bay, twenty-seven; Brighton Beach, fourteen; Empire City, twelve, and Saratoga, twenty-one.

Pimlico, in Baltimore, opens April 20 and runs to May 7.

The Breakfast Tray.

A few years ago it was thought a positive luxury if one was well and strong to have breakfast served in bed. Nowadays things have changed. The housewife who can afford to stay in bed every now and then will find herself immensely improved in nerve strength. And the occasional guest often has her coffee and rolls sent up to her room. Many hostesses would rather have the early morning hours in which to attend to their household duties or to their correspondence unhampered by the presence of a stranger within the gates. So the individual breakfast service has to be provided, and it is a fad in some households to see which member of the family can have the daintiest tray. The enameled breakfast set seen in the illustration is comparatively inexpensive and is one of the newest things of the kind to be found in the shops.
